THE WELL OF SPA

PREFACE

IT has been a labour of love to prepare the following pages for publication. They by no means exhaust the subject to which they refer ; but they do bring to light some interesting particulars regarding the families whose genealogies are recorded. I offer them to my relatives and friends, with the hope that they will generously forgive any omissions or errors. I may say, that the Volume had its origin in an idea that occurred to me, while collecting and arranging the extensive and interesting Diaries and Correspondence of my mother's five brothers, mentioned at pages 12-14, and at page 125. Some Letters appended to the Genealogies will show what kind of additional material might have been included in this book.

Four names deserve mention for the ready help they have given, and for the kindly interest they have shown. My life-long friend, the Rev. Stephen Ree, B.D., Minister of Boharm, revised the proofs and compiled the Index ; P. J. Anderson, Esq., M.A., LL.B., Librarian of the University, whose friendship also I have enjoyed for nearly as many years as I have lived, greatly encouraged as well as advised me in the progress of the book ; and to John A. Henderson, Esq., Cults, and to the late A. M. Munro, Esq., City Chamberlain, whose early death so many lament, I am indebted for helpful aid in producing the work. The limitation of the issue to 200 copies will make the volume increasingly valuable.

JAMES SMITH.

THE GENEALOGIES

THE FAMILY OF CASSIE

(ABERDEEN, c. 1550-).

“The XXV. day of October the yeir of God 1576 yeirs the said day Alexander Casse and Margratt Traill had ane sone baptist in Aberdeen be Mr Walter Cullen reader gotten in marriage callit Johne. Andro Garioche, Alex Edward, Gelis Traill, witnesses to the same.”

Mr. David Anderson, Session Clerk, thus records the earliest entry in the Baptismal Register of Aberdeen about the Aberdeen Family whose Chronicles this volume contains. John seems to have been an only child, whose parents may be supposed to have been born about A.D. 1550. The first entry in the oldest Register of Indentures of Apprentices in the Burgh of Aberdeen supplies the only other reference found concerning John Casse. It is as follows:—

“1622 Febry 9 Richard Cassie son to umqll John Cassie in Hazelheid prenticed to John Paterson wobster for 8 years as prentice and 2 years for meet and fee.”

This shows that prior to 1622 JOHN CASSIE had died, leaving behind him a fatherless boy RICHARD, of whose career more can be gathered than of his father's, and who seems also to have been an only child. The Cassie Family thus so far as known consisted of:—

- I. ALEXANDER CASSIE (1550—after 1576).
- II. JOHN CASSIE (1576—before 1622).
- III. RICHARD CASSIE (1610-1670).

It is probable that Richard Cassie was born about 1610, thus allowing him to be 12 years of age when apprenticed. On reaching manhood he married twice—1st, Isobele Dick, who on 29th May, 1650, was interred in Oldmachar Burial Ground, leaving no family; and 2nd Janet Cruickshank. Of the latter, Oldmachar Marriage Register says:—

“23rd December, 1650. Richard Cassie in Gilcomston and Janet Cruickshank there gave up their banns of marriage. Andro Cuper at the Barkmilne cautioner for the man, Wm Stevine elder in Kingswalls cautioner for the woman and were married the day of 1651."

Their family consisted of:—

1. ALEXANDER, b. 28th Dec., 1651; m. 20th May, 1675, Beatrix Donaldson, daughter of William Donaldson, Farmer in Barkmiln, Aberdeen, of whom hereafter.
2. John, b. 9th June, 1656, and buried 23rd March, 1657.
3. A child buried 2nd April, 1657, born evidently after John.
4. William, b. 27th Jan., 1658; m. 5th Sept., 1698, Elspet Anderson. He was a Horse-hirer.
5. Margaret, b. 6th Oct., 1661; m. 22nd Sept., 1705, William Touch
6. Isobell, b. 15th May, 1666, and buried 10th Nov., 1666.

Finally, on 2nd May, 1670, RICHARD CASSIE, then at Well of Spaw, was interred in Oldmachar Churchyard, but nothing further is known as to his second spouse, Janet Cruickshank.

IV. ALEXANDER CASSIE (1651-1696).

Alexander Cassie, b. 28th Dec., 1651; m. 4th May, 1675, Beatrice Donaldson, of whom hereafter; d. 9th Jan., 1696.

"28th December 1651. The said day Ritchard Cassie in Gilcomstone ane sone called Alexr. Alexr Howiesone, Mr Alexr Burnet, Andro Burnet, Patrick Watson, witness." (Oldmachar Baptismal Register).

"3 Apryll 1675. Compeared Alexander Cassie and Beatrix Donaldson both in this Congregation and contracted marriage according to order, Adam Smart in Gilcomstone ca[utione]r for the man and William Donaldson yr cationer for the woman, proclaimed the 4 April, married the 20 May."

The above entry appears in the Marriage Register of Oldmachar, while the St. Nicholas Register reads—

"Alexr Cassie and Beatrix Donaldson was mareit in the old town the 20th May, 1675."

No family was born to them till 1682, when the Oldmachar Baptismal Register says:—

1. "3rd Jany 1682. Alexander Cassie at the Casiend a son call[ed] Alexander. Alexr Leith, Alexr Huttone, witnesses."

CASSIE

This son was buried in the family burial-place at Oldmachar, 10th Sept., 1696. The other children were—

2. Robert, b. 17th Aug., 1684 ; m. 27th Jan., 1722, Jean, daughter of John Murray, Weaver. He was a Farmer and Post.
3. Marjorie, b. 1st May, 1687 ; m. 11th Feb., 1714, Robert Murray, Farmer, Cassiend (who was buried at Oldmachar, 6th July, 1749), and was herself buried there 6th Jan., 1763.
4. ELSPET, b. 15th March, 1691, of whom hereafter.

“15 March 1691. Alexr Cassie at Cassiend a daughter call[ed] Elspet. William Donaldson, William Duncan, Alexr Leith, elder and younger, witts.” (O.R.)

The Cassie family were members of St. Machar Cathedral, Old Aberdeen, but the Thomsons, with whom they intermarried, were members of St. Nicholas, Aberdeen.

V. ELSPET CASSIE OR THOMSON (1691-1749).

Elspet Cassie, b. 15th March, 1691 ; m. 24th Jan., 1717, Alexander Thomson, Farmer, Monthillie, Aberdeen, of whom hereafter ; d. 21st Oct., 1749, and was buried in St. Peter's Cemetery, Aberdeen, in Lair ³⁹/₁.

“Anno 1717, January ffyfth. Compeared Alexr Thomson in Aberdeen and Elspet Cassie in this Parish and contracted marriage according to order. They consigned pledges ffor yr civil behaviour, John Seatoun ffarmer in Spittel caunr ffor the man Robert Cassie Post in Aberdeen ffor the woman. They were orderly proclaimed and married January twenty ffourth Seventeen Hundred and Seventeen years by Alexr Mitchell Minr.” (O.R.)

Their family consisted of:—

1. Janet, b. 24th Nov., 1717.
2. Margaret, b. 30th Dec., 1718 ; d. 29th Oct., 1748.
3. Alexander, b. 22nd Jan., 1721 ; d. an infant.
4. JAMES, b. 24th March, 1723, of whom hereafter.
5. Alexander, b. 5th Dec., 1725, of whom hereafter.
6. Elspet, b. 11th July, 1728 ; m. 8th Oct., 1750, James Christie (b. 12th June, 1715 ; d. 27th July, 1808), Farmer and Horsehirer, Aberdeen ; d. 20th May, 1793. Their family consisted of:—

I. ANDREW JAMSON (1720-1774).

“8th Dec., 1745. Andrew Jamson and Mary Addie. 3/6.” (Tynemouth Marriage Register.)

Andrew Jamson, born about 1720, was a Farmer at Whitley, a small fishing village—now a fashionable watering place—on the Northumberland Coast, 2½ miles N. of Tynemouth. On 8th Dec., 1745, he married, at Tynemouth Parish Church, Mary Addie (b. about 1720), daughter of Richard Addie, of Tynemouth (b. 16th Oct., 1702; m. 30th May, 1721, Mary Elsdon, b. 16th Nov., 1702, daughter of Anthony Elsdon, of Whitley). Andrew Jamson died 8th March, 1774. Their family consisted of:—

He was a Shipmaster at Aberdeen, and engaged in whale-fishing at Greenland, where he died. His body was brought to Aberdeen on his ship, “The Jane,” and buried amid universal respect and regret at his early death, in the Old Churchyard at Nigg. The Aberdeen Journal of 14th Aug., 1811, thus refers to his death:—“On Saturday arrived the ‘Jane’ of this port from Greenland, with 14 fish, about 120 tons. It is with great concern we state that Captain Andrew Jamson of the ‘Jane’ died at Greenland of a fever on the 10th of May, after ten days’ illness. Cut off in the prime of life, Captain Jamson is sincerely regretted by the extensive circle of his friends and acquaintances, by whom he will be long remembered; and while those more immediately connected with him in business pay a just tribute to his memory by expressing their sense of the integrity, zeal, and activity which dis-

Burgess of Guild, 11th Feb., 1813. He was a Shipmaster at Tynemouth and later at Aberdeen, from which he sailed to Greenland to prosecute the whale-fishing. During the prosperous years he amassed a large fortune and retired from the sea, only to be deprived later of all he had when the fisheries failed. In his early life, in North Shields, he was pursued by a press-gang, and only escaped capture by hiding under a bed on which lay a corpse. Later he was caught, and served at sea during the American War (1776-83).—Another thrilling experience in his life was when the whaler “Oscar” was wrecked at Greyhope Bay, near Girdleness, Aberdeen, on 1st April, 1813, and all her crew of 44 perished, except John Jamson, First Mate and Harpooner, and James Venus, Boatsteerer. Captain Jamson, on hearing of the wreck, crossed the Dee to render help, and seeing something (which he took to be the ship’s dog) drifting inwards, put out his staff and drew it ashore. It turned out to be his own nephew, John Jamson.—They had a family of twelve :—

1. Richard, b. 22nd Aug., 1793; d. 20th May, 1794, and was interred in the family grave in the Old Churchyard of Nigg.

Here lies

Died October 16th, 1774.

No Sculptured Marble here nor pompous lay,

His portrait, drawn at a single sitting by the famous Legros, hangs in Aberdeen Art Gallery. In politics, an enthusiastic Unionist. Among the numerous institutions he served were Aberdeen Public Library, Mechanics' Institute (President), Robert Gordon's College, Savings' Bank, Educational Trust and School of Domestic Economy (Chairman, 1891-1903), Aberdeen Royal Infirmary (1877-94), Royal Asylum (Chairman, 1890-94), Soup Kitchen, United Coal Fund, Sick Man's Friend Society, Pauper Lunatic Fund, Aberdeen Dispensary, Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, Aberdeen School Board (1876-82), St. Nicholas Parochial Board, and many other minor benevolent agencies. James Smith, is the First Minister.

Dr. Walker wielded a facile and graphic pen, and was a voluminous contributor to the press. He wrote on many topics, conveying in a style all his own what he had to say. As a lecturer to local societies he was greatly esteemed. No man ever had a warmer heart nor a more generous hand. Among his chief literary productions are the following:—

THE FAMILY OF THOMSON

(ABERDEEN, 1610-)

The genealogy of this family, which has been numerously represented in Aberdeen as far back as the Registers record, has not been easy to unravel. Like that of many other families, it doubtless combines fact and fiction. It is only possible, therefore, to give here such information as to the origin of this branch of the Thomson Family as has come from earlier seekers after the truth, whose correspondence follows :—

The late Major-General Hugh Gordon Thomson, of the Madras Staff Corps, who resided at Bath, and was a great-great-grandson of the author's great-great-great-great-grandfather, Alexander Thomson, Farmer in Monthillie, Aberdeen, found in the repositories of his father, Colonel George Thomson, C.B., of Fairley, Newhills, Aberdeen, these notes :—

“ The Thomsons held land in Eskdale, and were a strong Border Clan in the 16th century, but unfortunately then became ‘ broken,’ that is, had no chief of sufficient power or influence to be security for the whole Clan, and make good any stolen cattle traced to their lands, and follow them into the next Clan's grounds. Their cattle were, therefore, seized by any one strong enough to do so, who raised a claim against them. This power was used by the Scotts of Buccleuch so tyrannically that the Thomsons, Beatsons, and some other broken Clans sought refuge in England, leaving their lands to the Scotts, who hold them to this day.

“ When Henry VIII. sent an army under Sir Ralph Gour and Sir Brian Lawton to invade Scotland in 1545, these leaders obliged the Scotch Clans, who had sought refuge in England, to join their army, but at the Battle of Ancrum Moor (or Lillyards Edge), on 17th February, 1545, the Borderers turned against the English, who were defeated with great slaughter.

“ The Thomsons evidently hoped that this patriotic treachery would have given them a claim on their countrymen; but they were rejected with scorn, and as England was now shut against them they dispersed northwards. One settled in Aberdeenshire, holding land near Seaton, Aberdeen, latterly from the Middletons (descendants of Cromwell's General Middleton), the last of whom befriended my father and grandfather, giving the former letters of introduction to influential people in London, when he left Aberdeen after the death of Magdalene Dingwall in 1779—(a daughter of Baillie John Dingwall of Ranniaston, near Aberdeen, whose daughter Agnes married, in 1794, Colonel Thomson's father, George Thomson)."

"In the great Civil Wars of 1645, Alexander Thomson (1610-1717) sought the protection of General Middleton of Seaton, who was left in command in the North of Scotland by General Monk when he marched South, and held land from him, which was sold about 1793 by George Thomson."

It is evident, that whatever reliance may be placed on the migratory movements of the Thomsons, some of them were located in and around Aberdeen; and there is no reason to doubt the genuineness of that.

I. ALEXANDER THOMSON (1610-1717).

Alexander Thomson, b. 1610; m. about 1639; d. 1717. His family consisted of:—

1. JOHN, b. about 1640, of whom hereafter.

According to Colonel Thomson, this Alexander, a man of extraordinary strength, lived to a great age, and was thrice married. He held from Colonel Middleton the lands of Mount Heilie and Cotton—the former just outside the ancient Gallowgate Port of Aberdeen, and the latter near what is now the suburb of Woodside, Aberdeen.

II. JOHN THOMSON (1640—after 1664).

John Thomson, b. 1640; m. about 1660; d. after 1664. His family consisted of:—

1. ALEXANDER, b. 27th Oct., 1661, of whom hereafter.

2. John, b. 2nd Feb., 1664; d. 16th April, 1669, and was buried in Oldmachar Churchyard.

III. ALEXANDER THOMSON (1661-1747).

Alexander Thomson, b. 27th Oct., 1661; m. 24th Jan., 1717, Elspet Cassie (b. 15th March, 1691; d. 21st Oct., 1749), younger daughter of Alexander Cassie, Farmer, Cassiend, of whom before; d. 9th Nov., 1747, and was interred in St. Peter's Cemetery, Lair $\frac{3}{4}$. He served on the Fiars' Court Jury, in 1708.

THOMSON

“27 Oct. 1661. Johne Tamsone in Cottone ane sone called Alexander. Alex. Atkine, Alex. Tamsone, Alex. Moir, witnesses.” (O.R.)

This is the Baptismal Register entry of the son of No. II., and grandson of No. I., both of whose names appear in the notice, and it seems to confirm beyond question the general facts already advanced.

“Anno 1717, January ffyfth, Compeared Alexander Thomson in Aberdeen, and Elspet Cassie in this parish, and contracted marriage according to order. They consigned pledges ffor their civil behaviour, John Seatoun, ffermer in Spittel, cautioner ffor the man, Robert Cassie, Post in Aberdeen, ffor the woman. They were orderly proclaimed and married, January twenty-ffourth, Seventeen hundred and seventeen years, by Mr. Alexander Mitchell, Minister.” (O.R.)

Alexander Thomson, Farmer, Mounthillie (now called Mounthooly), but spelt at various times in the Registers and elsewhere Mount Heilie, Monthilly, Munthillie, Mount Hooly—the origin and meaning of which have not yet been settled—became through his spouse Elspet Cassie (of whom before), the parent of a family of seven. THOMSON.

Among these are Alexander Thomson, of Cults, Advocate in Aberdeen, and Sheriff-Depute of Aberdeenshire, 1629-56; and Alexander Thomson, of Portlethen, his youngest son, Advocate in Aberdeen, Town Clerk, 1694-1727, and Sheriff-Substitute of Aberdeenshire, 1713 and 1722-7, who married Helen Gregory, eldest daughter of James Gregory, Professor of Mathematics, St. Andrews University. Of their family, James, their eldest son, succeeded to Portlethen; Helen married George Skene of Rubislaw; Robert, Advocate in Aberdeen, inherited Portlethen, and was Town Clerk of Aberdeen, 1724-67; Mary married James Carnegie, Litster, whose son, Alexander Carnegie, was Town Clerk, 1767-1806; and Andrew Thomson, of Crawton, Advocate in Aberdeen, was Sheriff-Substitute of Aberdeenshire, 1763-6. Andrew Thomson, eldest son of the last-named, Laird of Crawton, Carronshore, and Ranniaston, and an Advocate in Aberdeen, married Helen Hamilton, second daughter of Professor Robert Hamilton, Marischal College, Aberdeen; and their eldest son, Alexander (who married Jessie Fraser, eldest daughter of Alexander Fraser, Lord Provost of Aberdeen, 1815-16), was last Laird of Banchory, now the property of ex-Lord Provost Sir David Stewart, LL.D., D.L., and of Lady Stewart, eldest daughter of the late Very Rev. David Brown, D.D., LL.D., Principal of the Free Church College, Aberdeen, 1876-1897.

Alexander Thomson, b. 21st June, 1798; m. 14th Feb., 1825, Jessie Fraser (b. 14th Feb., 1799; d. 8th Aug., 1870); d. 20th May, 1868. He was an Advocate in Aberdeen, and was frequently Lord Rector's Assessor in the University Court of Marischal College. One of the greatest distinctions and joys of his life was this, that when the British Association visited Aberdeen in 1859, he had the high honour of entertaining at Banchory House, on 14th and 15th September, His Royal Highness the Prince Consort, President for the year. Mr. Thomson, it may be added, claimed kinship with John Knox, as is set forth in Smeaton's Memoir of Alexander Thomson of Banchory, pp. 2-3:—"John Knox, the celebrated Reformer, left three daughters, one of whom was married to a Mr. Baillie, of the Jerviswoode family, and by him had a daughter who was married to a Mr. Kirkton, of Edinburgh. By this marriage Mr. Kirkton had a daughter, Margaret, who was married to Dr. Andrew Skene of Aberdeen. Dr. Skene left several children, the eldest of whom, Dr. Andrew Skene, had by his wife, Miss Lumsden of Cushnie, several sons and daughters. One of these, Mary, was married to Andrew Thomson of Banchory, who had issue by her, Margaret, Andrew, and Alexander. Andrew married Miss Hamilton, daughter of Dr. Hamilton, of Marischal College, Aberdeen, and by her had issue—Alexander, born June 21, 1798, and present proprietor of Banchory.” An heirloom treasured in the family was an antique watch, said to have been presented to the great Reformer by Mary, Queen of Scots, to gain his favour for some royal proposal. In those days watches were owned only by princes or nobles. Being childless he disentailed Banchory, and at his death bequeathed his extensive means and library to the Free Church College, Aberdeen, and to Aberdeen University. But for this entail the estate would have fallen to Colonel George Thomson, C.B., of Fairley (page 69).

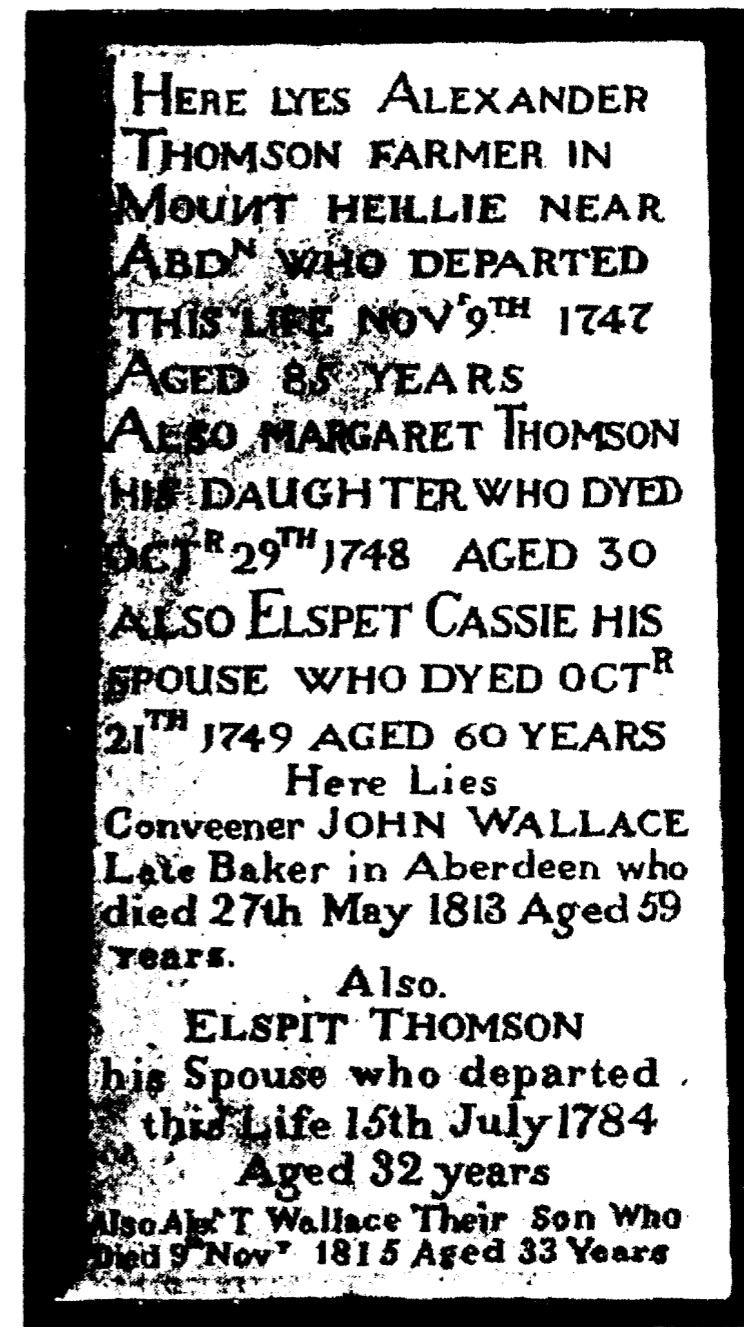

Fuller details as to the Thomson Families and as to their intermarriages with the chief City and County Families will be found in The Family Record of the Name of Dingwall Fordyce, 2 vols., 1885. So also, interesting references to Colonel George Thomson, C.B., the Hero of Ghuznee, will be found from the pen of Sir Henry Yule in the Royal Engineers' Journal, 1886, and in Sir Edward Thackeray's Bengal Engineers.

"Killed in the massacre at Cawnpore, on the 2nd of July, Dr. Robert D. D. Allan, formerly in the 23rd and 48th Regiments, Bengal Native Infantry; and at the same time his beloved wife Isabella Agnes Youngson. Dr. Allan saw much service in the Punjab—was present at Aliwal, Mooltan, and Goojerat, for two of which he carried medals, and earned the high approbation of all his superior officers. His presence at Cawnpore was accidental, as he was there on his way from Calcutta, on the expiry of his furlough to join the 33rd Regiment, B.N.I., at Hushyarpore. Having served under Sir Hugh Wheeler on the Sutlej, in the 48th Regiment, it appears as if he had been put on Sir Hugh's Staff at Cawnpore, and sailed in the same boat with him at the attempted escape."—(Aberdeen Journal, 4th Nov., 1857.)

TYTLER

After the death of his first wife, John Imray married (2nd), 16th Aug., 1783, Celia Donald (d. 25th Jan., 1744), daughter of Mr. Donald, of Brownhill, Kintore, by whom he had the following family :—

(1) Barbara, b. 14th July, 1784; m. 24th Dec., 1812, John Wallace (b. 20th April, 1779), Baker, Aberdeen, of whom before (page 81), and great-grand-uncle of Rev. James Smith, B.D., of St. George's-in-the-West Parish, Aberdeen. Their family consisted of:—

i. Celia, b. 25th Jan., 1813. ii. John, b. 29th Aug., 1815.

(2) Robert, b. 14th Jan., 1786; d. 12th Jan., 1787.

(3) Jean, 16th July, 1788; d. 24th Feb., 1812.

(4) William, b. 16th Feb., 1793.

(5) Ann, b. 1799; m. 28th June, 1821. George Simpson, Druggist, Aberdeen, son of Peter Simpson, Merchant, and Burgess of Guild, 1792; d. 7th July, 1826, at Kebbaty, Midmar. George Simpson, who was a Burgess of Guild, 1814, had a brother William, who died 12th Dec., 1844, in St. John's, Newfoundland, and who was formerly Precentor in the West Parish Church, and Music Master in Gordon's Hospital, the masters and scholars of which worshipped then in the West Gallery of the West Church. The latter was a Burgess of Guild, 1821.

5. Jean, b. 31st March, 1762; d. an infant.

6. George, b. 11th July, 1763; d. an infant.

7. James, b. 24th July, 1765; d. an infant.

This family of Tytler seems to have been a prominent and prolific family, not in Midmar only, but elsewhere. According to Alexander Tytler (father of William Tytler, the eminent Scottish Historian), who wrote a Memorandum of the Family in 1728, his grandfather, who died in 1690, aged 84 years, had it from his father that the family surname was formerly Seaton, and that they lived on the lands of Lord George Seaton, a predecessor of the Earls of Winton.

“Mention is made particularly of three brothers—says Alexander Tytler, one of whom as being related to the family was by the above

THE GENEALOGIES

Lord George made his Chaplain, and with him all the three brothers went out to the Battle of Flodden, 9th Sept., 1513. Two of them were slain along with Lord George, but the clergyman escaped, and lurking for some time about the English Border had the good fortune to be there provided with a Living; but unhappily contracting an acquaintanceship with a gentleman of the name of Gray, and being by him invited to a Hunting Match, a difference arose between them and he killed Gray.

“After this accident, being apprehensive of his danger, he withdrew to France, and concealing his name of Seaton, took that of Tytler, which appears to have been a surname at that time; and indeed many ages before, as is evident from a Charter extant of Robert, Earl of Strathern, Steward of Scotland, in the first year of David Bruce, bearing the date 1364 years, which among witnesses is subscribed by one John de Tytloure, Esquyre. The above Seaton, when he fled to France, probably took the name of Tytler as being related or allied with some of the original name and family of the Tytlers, but it is not from them but from Seaton that the present Tytlers of our family are descended.

“Seaton the Clergyman, now Tytler, after staying some time near Paris, was by the interest of some Scotchmen there provided in a Living, which he enjoyed but a short time, as he lost it by marrying a French woman, by whom he got some money, and retiring to Calais he there had several sons and daughters.

“In the year 1561, two of his sons came to Scotland attending Queen Mary, in one of the ships that conveyed her to Leith, and continuing firm to her cause were engaged in the skirmish that happened at Corrichie between the Earls of Moray and Huntly, where the latter was killed and his two sons—Lord Gordon and his brother Adam—taken prisoners, and Lord Gordon was afterwards beheaded at Aberdeen.

“At the above-mentioned skirmish at Corrichie, one of the Tytlers was killed. The other retired to a place called Learney, near Kincardine O’Neil, about 15 or 16 miles west of Aberdeen, where he settled and married and had several children, who after living for some time in that country removed to Carsonday (Corsindae), where the name multiplied pretty much, and in that country a good many are yet extant. It is from that Tytler that my father and grandfather are lineally descended." (Alexander Tytler, Edinburgh, 1728.)

The following are some other members of the Tytler Family, but the facts do not support the above Memorandum in suggesting that Alexander Tytler was a son of John Tytler and Barbara Skene. Their son Alexander was born in 1702, and not in 1678.

Alexander Tytler, b. 1st Jan., 1678; m. 22nd Nov., 1703, Jane, daughter of William Leslie (b. 17th Jan., 1642), Merchant, Aberdeen, and great-grand-daughter of Sir Patrick Leslie, of Iden, King-Edward, Lord Provost of Aberdeen, 1634, who was knighted in 1651 by Charles II. on his visit to Aberdeen, and who was M.P. for Aberdeen in several Scottish Parliaments. Laird of Woodhouselee, near Edinburgh. He was said to be (but was not) a grandson of Alexander Tytler (1606-1690), of Milltown of Corsindae (page 98), and was a W.S., Edinburgh. Their family consisted of twelve children, of whom only four reached maturity.

William Tytler (son of Alexander Tytler, before mentioned), b. 12th Oct., 1711; m. Sept., 1745, Anne, daughter of James Craig, W.S., of Costerton, Midlothian; d. 12th Sept., 1792. He was the eighth child of his parents. Educated at High School and University of Edinburgh. W.S., 1744. His portrait was painted by Raeburn. He was an eminent Scottish Historian and Critic, and an acute vindicator of Mary, Queen of Scots. Dr. Johnson visited him and associated with him in Edinburgh in 1773, during his Tour to the Hebrides with Boswell. He had a family of eight children, of whom four predeceased him.

Alexander Fraser Tytler (son of William Tytler, before mentioned), b. 4th Oct., 1747; m. 1776, Anne, eldest daughter of William Fraser, of Balnain; d. 5th Jan., 1813. Advocate, 1770. Professor of Civil History, Edinburgh University, 1780. Judge Advocate of Scotland, 1790. Lord of Session—Lord Woodhouselee, 2nd Feb., 1802. Judge of the Justiciary Court, 1811. An eminent Author and Judge.

Patrick Fraser Tytler (youngest son of Lord Woodhouselee), b. 30th Aug., 1791; m. (1st) 30th March, 1826, Rachel Elizabeth, second daughter of Thomas Hog, of Kirkliston, who died 15th April, 1835; m. (2nd) 12th Aug., 1845, Anastasia, daughter of Thomas Bonar, of Camden Place, Kent; d. 24th Dec., 1849, and buried in the family vault in Greyfriars Churchyard, Edinburgh. Eminent Scottish Historian, and friend of Sir Walter Scott. The Fraser Tytlers of Aldourie, Inverness, are members of this family. Further details of the Tytlers will be found in the Transactions of the Royal Society of Edinburgh, 1796, to which Sir Henry Mackenzie (Author of The Man of Feeling), contributed a Memoir of William Tytler, and in Burgon's Memoir of Patrick Fraser Tytler, 1859.

THE WRECK OF THE OSCAR

1st April, 1813.

The wreck of the Greenland whaler, Oscar, at Grey Hope Bay, near the Short Ness at Aberdeen, on Thursday, 1st April, 1813, is one of the greatest (if not the greatest) maritime disasters that ever took place at Aberdeen. So much did it impress the popular imagination that for more than half a century events were dated by it, and spoken of as having happened "so many years before" or "so many years after" the Oscar was lost. In later years there has been no shipping disaster to parallel it at Aberdeen until this year, when quite close to where the Oscar was battered to pieces the Danish s.s. G. Koch was driven ashore on Sunday, 12th January, 1913, at the point of the Girdleness, and seven of her crew found a watery grave in the raging surf. In the following account there has been gathered together the story of the Oscar as told at the time in the "Aberdeen Journal," and as it was further related in the Burial-books of Nigg and Newburgh, Foveran, and Aberdeen.

THE STORY OF THE WRECK.

"Aberdeen Journal," Wednesday,
7th April, 1813.

MELANCHOLY LOSS OF THE WHALE FISHING SHIP OSCAR.

On Thursday last, after a tract of the mildest weather known for many years, one of the most sudden and violent storms, for its short duration, was experienced here, which is recollected by the oldest inhabitant; and attended with one of the most melancholy and distressing events that ever happened at this place. In the morning, the wind, which had been westerly during the night, veered round to the south-eastward, with snow, blowing strong, but shifted soon after to the north-eastward. At the time five of the whaling ships belonging to this port, viz., the Hercules, Allison; Latona, Ayre; Middleton, Todd; St Andrew, Reid; and Oscar, Innes—which had sailed early in the morning, were riding at anchor in the bay; and the weather being still unsettled, and having the appearance of an impending storm, the two larger about 5 o'clock weighed and stood out to sea.

A boat from the Oscar having gone ashore for some of the crew who were absent, that vessel put about, stood into the bay, and succeeded in getting the last of her hands on board. By this time she was far inshore, and a fatal calm, with a heavy rolling sea and strong flood tide coming on, rendered it impracticable to clear the Girdleness. The vessel continuing to fall to the leeward was again under the necessity of bringing up at the foot of the rocky shore within the Ness. Soon after which, the great violence of the gale which commenced from the north-east, with thick snow, rendered her situation perilous in the extreme, and filled the minds of the people on shore with the most painful apprehension. About half-past eleven o'clock a.m., the Oscar, after dragging her anchor, was seen to go ashore in the Grey Hope, near the Short Ness. A considerable number of people succeeded in getting across by the Ferry, and hastened to the spot, in order to render such assistance as might be found in their power. The heart-rending scene, which however now presented itself, made it too apparent that all human effort for the preservation of the unfortunate ship and crew must be unavailing.

The vessel lay among large rocks, and from the tremendous sea which went over her was already breaking up. At this time an attempt was made by the crew to form a sort of bridge to the nearest rocks by cutting away the main mast, which unfortunately fell alongside the ship instead of towards the shore as they had fondly expected. Many of the men who had clung to the rigging, were now plunged into the sea by the falling of the fore and mizen masts, and disappeared in the merciless ocean; and most of the remainder, having nothing to hold by, were swept off the wreck, and sank in sight of those on shore, who could render them no assistance, although the distance between them and the unfortunate seamen was such as to admit of inter-communication of sentiment, even by the countenance.

The fate of others seemed no less hard, for after having nearly gained the shore, they were swept off by the heavy surf, or borne down by the casks and other wreck with which they were surrounded. The fore-castle of the Oscar still remaining about water, 5 men were observed, and among them Captain Innes was distinctly seen making signals for that assistance which could not possibly be afforded; and after clinging long to the wreck and struggling hard for life, they shared the fate of their unfortunate companions, the vessel having soon gone to pieces. About this time Mr John Jamson, first mate, and James Venus, a seaman belonging to Shields, were with difficulty saved, being the only survivors of this sad catastrophe, out of a crew of 44 persons.

Thus perished the Oscar, which but a few hours before had sailed with the fairest prospect, and being very complete in all her equipments, might be valued at £10,000; and thus was lost one of the finest crews which could go to sea, men who so lately set out full of hope and expectation, and were in one fatal hour cut off, many of them now leaving by their untimely fate their widows and numerous families in that anguish and distress, towards the alleviation of which we trust a generous and benevolent public will with their wonted liberality contribute in this trying period of their affliction.

A subscription has been set on foot for the relief of the widows, orphans, and other relatives who were dependent on the unfortunate sufferers, the most of whom were married, and many of them have left very large families. The sums subscribed are intended to be disposed of for their relief by a committee to be appointed for that purpose by the principal subscribers.

Subscription papers are left at the Athenæum, the bank offices, Mr Ewen's, Castle Street; Mr Brown's, bookseller, Broad Street; Messrs Angus and Son, booksellers, Union Street; The Circulating Library, Broad Street; and the News Room, Netherkirkgate, where the smallest sum will be thankfully received.

Soon after the Oscar struck, the St Andrew, which rode about a cable length to the windward, cut from both anchors in the face of the rocks which had just proved so fatal, and when there scarcely remained a hope of her safety. The ship was, however, got under way with the staysails and mizen; and with the greatest alacrity, the fore and main topsail being set, she beat to the windward along this rugged part of the coast, while horror was painted in the countenance of every beholder, who momentarily expected that the ship and crew must share the melancholy fate of the Oscar, which seemed inevitable. Never, under Divine Providence, was seamanship and exertion more successfully displayed; and never was a ship seen to escape greater or more imminent peril. In a manner truly astonishing, she surmounted the breakers, and weathered this tremendous part of the coast, to the inexpressible joy of the many anxious spectators assembled, gaining the port in safety. •

The Middleton and Latona had previously out from their anchors, and after barely clearing the North Pier, got safely into the harbour; but we regret to state that the Hercules was not alike fortunate, for after dragging her anchor almost to the Pierhead, she knocked off her rudder to the northward of the pier, and was immediately driven ashore on the beach. The crew were all fortunately saved, and the vessel was on Sunday got off without any material danger. Thirty-eight of the bodies of the Oscar's late unfortunate crew, and among them that of Captain Innes, have been cast ashore, and it was a truly mournful spectacle, the sight of so many weeping relatives endeavouring to recognise the features of their departed and lamented friends. A considerable number have been claimed; and such as have not, have been attended to and decently interred."

The same issue of the "Aberdeen Journal" also contains the following letter to the editor—

Sir,—If the following irregular verses, written the day after, and under the awful depression produced by the melancholy event of the 1st of April, be deemed worthy of a corner in your journal, they are much at your service.—I am, sir, your most obedient,

Z.

ON THE LOSS OF THE OSCAR.

What sounds are those that strike my listening ear,
In the dread pauses of the furious blast;
Which, with the speed of lightning, does career
Across the darkened sky? Methinks, I hear
The mournful cry
Of death and hopeless misery.

Yes, April! though thou'rt wont, like the world's guile,
To gild with sunny smile
The cloud, which nurses in its breast
The rattling hail or chilly shower,
To blast the opening bud and flower;
Yet now thou comest, borne on December's car,
Urged on thy way by the rude blustering storm,
And, with the fury of the winter's war.
Sweepst the raging sea—
The messenger of God, charged with His dread decree.

The gallant ship, prepared to brave
The northern ocean's mighty wave,
Her jovial crew, with thoughtless glee,
Draining the parting cup right merrily,
Last setting sun beheld;
Yet never more, on ship or men,
The setting sun shall look again

In sight of home, how hard to die,
In sight of home to raise the cry
Of wild despair, and friends so nigh!
April! full many a widow's moan and orphan's tear,
For the lost spouse and father dear;
Full many a mother's breaking heart
Shall rue thy morning's awful rage,
And mark, with anguish keen, thy name in memory's page.

Further references to the disaster occur in the pages of the "Aberdeen Journal" of 1813—

1. On 28th April, when it is said — "The female domestic servants in the city are collecting for the Oscar sufferers."

2. On 5th May, when it is said—"On Thursday morning, 22nd ult., the body of James Short and that of another seaman, both of the Oscar's late unfortunate crew, the latter much mangled, were cast ashore near the fatal spot where the ship was wrecked, and were decently interred, the former by the friends by whom it was recognised."

3. On 12th May, when it is said—"On Sunday last, the body of the late carpenter's mate of the whale-fishing ship Oscar was cast ashore in a mangled state, and decently interred."

AN INCIDENT OF THE WRECK.

The rescue of John Jamson from the wreck was effected under singular circumstances. His uncle, Captain Richard Jamson, a retired whaling captain, had gone out from his home in James Street to bring back from a ball his eldest daughter, Mary Jamson (afterwards Mrs Chalmers, of Bridewell, and grandmother of the Rev. James Smith, B.D., of St George's-in-the-West Parish, Aberdeen), and, hearing of the disaster to the Oscar, hurried over to the Girdleness to do what he could to aid the seamen. While so engaged, something was washed inshore, which, supposing it to be the ship's dog, he proceeded to pull ashore with his staff. To his consternation and glad surprise, he found he had rescued from the jaws of death his own nephew, John Jamson.

Mrs Chalmers' husband, Alexander Wallace Chalmers, governor of Bridewell, had a cousin who was married to Captain Thomas Innes, a brother of the captain of the Oscar. The oil-painting from which the picture of the Oscar is taken belonged at one time to Captain Innes, and is now the property of another relation of the Innes family—viz., Captain Crombie, harbour master of Aberdeen.

BURIAL REGISTER EXTRACTS.

The Burial Registers of Newburgh, Foveran, Nigg, and Aberdeen, furnish some interesting particulars relating to the calamity.

NEWBURGH CHURCHYARD.

Epitaph of Captain Innes.

"Sacred to the memory of Captain John Innes, aged 42 years, who was wrecked in the ship Oscar, near Aberdeen, the 1st April, 1813. This stone is erected by his disconsolate widow, Ann Mitchell, as a grateful tribute of her regard and affection for his departed worth. Their son, Thomas, who died in infancy, is also interred here."

Though Boreas' blasts and Neptune's waves
Have tossed me to and fro,
In spite of both, by God's decree,
I harbour here below.

THE WRECK OF THE OSCAR

Here at an anchor I do lie,
With many of our fleet;
Until again we must set sail
Our Admiral, Christ, to meet.

“Also his spouse, Ann Mitchell, died 16th November, 1828, aged 68 years.”

The Sexton thus quaintly records the burial of Captain Innes and three others:—

“1813 April the 4 Buried John Innes Shipmaster from Aberdeen he lays in the South Sead of his father's Lorston. Buried John Innes and 3 of his men who drowned of the Osker of Aberdeen.”

One of these men was John Henderson, line manager, whose epitaph there reads:—“Erected by Rev. Thomas Henderson, Demerara, West Indies, in memory of his father, John Henderson, who was lost off the Oscar, 1st April, 1813, aged 21 years.”

LETTERS FROM INDIA DURING THE MUTINY, 1857

LETTERS OF LIEUT. JOHN CHALMERS, M.A.

(His first reference to the Mutiny.)

Jhelum, Punjab,
24th March, 1857.

“The 19th Native Infantry have mutinied at Berhampore, about the new cartridges. The 1st Irregulars have left this for Mooltan. I wonder when we shall go.”

Jhelum, 29th April, 1857.

“. . . The 19th Native Infantry has been disbanded for mutiny. The Jemadar of the guard from the 34th N.I., who would not assist the Adjutant when he was fired at by a Sepoy, has also been hanged. The Sepoy who fired at him has been hanged. Some bungalows and a barrack have been burned down at Umballa. Our Regiment is all right.”

Jhelum, 14th May, 1857.

“There has been a row among the Sepoys at Meerut and Delhi; a slight spirit of disaffection has shown itself among the Native Sepoys. Our Regiment two hours ago received Orders from the General at Peshawar to march to a certain point on the Indus. The carriage is coming in fast, and we expect to start to-morrow night or the next morning. We go first to Shahpore, then West. Don't be surprised if you get no letter next Mail. There has not been the slightest symptom of disaffection among the men here.”

Dera Ismail Khan,
8th June, 1857.

“About the 11th of May, I saw in one of the papers, that 85 Troopers of the 3rd Cavalry at Meerut had been sentenced to hard labour on the roads for refusing to receive the cartridges they had always had. On going down to our Mess to tiffin on the afternoon of the 14th, I noticed some of the Officers whispering together about something. One of them took me aside and told me, that news had just come from Lahore by telegraph, that the 3rd Cavalry and the Native Troops at Meerut had broken into open mutiny on Sunday, the 11th, and after killing all the Europeans they could find had set off for Delhi. No exact account can be given of what took place there, but it is supposed that, when the mutineers from Meerut reached Delhi, the Officers of the 54th Regiment N.I., which was stationed in the city, called upon their men to fire upon them, the men turned round and shot their Officers. Then commenced an indiscriminate massacre of all the Europeans, men, women, and children—in fact, everyone professing Christianity; the Bank was robbed, the Manager and his family murdered. The Cantonment is about 2 miles from the city. The Europeans there hearing of the row mostly all managed to escape. The 45th and 57th N.I., at Ferozepore mutinied almost on the same day; the 10th Native Cavalry stood true, and along with the 61st Queen's cut the 45th Regiment nearly to pieces. Most of the 57th gave up their arms; the rest escaped to the jungle, where they were afterwards captured by the Police. Hearing of these things, Reid, Cotton, Chamberlain, and Nicholson met in Council of War at Peshawar, and determined that General Reid should assume the chief command in the Punjab; that a Moveable Column of European Troops should be assembled at Jhelum, to move on any point of the Punjab where mutiny might show itself. We received the news of this from Pindi on the 15th. The same dawk brought a letter from the Brigadier there, saying they were very anxious about us, as there were no Irregulars at Jhelum to keep the two Regiments of the Line in awe. He also sent an Order for the 39th Regiment to march at once to Dera Ismail Khan on the Indus, via Shahpore. This Order came in on the evening of the 15th—on the morning of Sunday, the 17th, having got together some 200 camels to carry our baggage, we started on our march and arrived here all safe yesterday. . . . The European and Irregular Force marching on Delhi was expected to be there yesterday, and we hope soon to hear a good account of it. General Anson, the Commander-in-Chief, died at Kurnaul on the 27th ult. The Native Troops at Lahore have been disarmed, also all at Peshawar, except the 21st N.I. The 55th from Nowshera mutinied and was cut to pieces. The 35th Regiment (Watson's) was behaving well, and by last accounts was along with the 52nd Queen's at Goojranwalla forming part of the Moveable Column. It is said that 10,000 Sikhs were enlisted at Lahore in 4 or 5 days. Our men behaved most exemplarily on the march, and continue fully trusted by Government. We must have 50,000 Europeans out here immediately. The Europeans at Hansi were all massacred. The Officer commanding the Sappers at Rootkee was shot by his own men, who were pursued and cut to pieces by the European Dragoons and Artillery. The district of Delhi is under martial law. Anyone found resisting the Government is at once shot. Wherever the telegraph wire is found cut, the Headman of the village is hanged. Fifty Europeans, who had concealed themselves in Delhi at the first massacre, were taken out the Sunday after and all murdered in cold blood. Lieut. Willoughby, when his magazine at Delhi was broken into by the mutineers, blew himself up with 300 of them. Two days ago the Subadar Major of the 51st at Peshawar was hanged for desertion. India never had such a stirring up before. Do reassure Mamma that there is no immediate fear of either of her sons."

LETTERS FROM INDIA

Dera Ismail Khan,

Friday, 26th June, 1857.

"I had a letter from Sam (his brother) yesterday, from a very safe place, the strong Fort of Phillour on the Sutlej. . . . By the time you receive this letter, you will have heard of the dreadful atrocities at Meerut, Delhi, and Bareilly. I will endeavour to give you some account of what has occurred. In the month of January last, schools for the instruction of the native soldiers in the use of the Enfield rifle were established at Dum-Dum, Umballa, and Sialkot. A party of seven or eight Non-Commissioned Officers and men under a European Officer from every native regiment in the country was attached to one of these depots, to receive instructions in the use of the rifle, which they were afterwards to communicate to the men of their respective Corps.

LETTERS FROM INDIA

About the middle of March, frequent notices appeared in the newspapers of Officers' bungalows being nightly set fire to at Barrackpore, the large Cantonment near Calcutta and close to Dum-Dum. High rewards were offered, but it was never discovered who was the incendiary. In consequence of this, the Sepoy Guards who had been set to watch began to be themselves suspected. About the same time, a report was spread among the Sepoys at Barrackpore and other stations, that the new cartridges, which for the rifle differ from the old cartridges in having a little grease at one end, were made up with pig's and cow's fat, and that it was the intention of Government to convert the whole of the native soldiers by making them bite these greased cartridges, as a Mahomedan would at once lose caste by touching pig's fat and a Hindoo by coming in contact with cow's. A state of great excitement now prevailed throughout the Native Army on this greased cartridge question. An Order was then issued, first, that the cartridges should not be bitten but torn with the hand, and soon after that they should not be served out to the Native Troops at all. The excitement about the cartridges was greatest in Bengal and the Lower Provinces, where it appears to have originated. The Sepoys there now began to examine the old cartridges (which they had been using all along) before they would take them. The 19th N.I. was stationed at Berhampore in the Calcutta Division. One day in the end of March, they received notice that there would be a parade of the regiment next morning, at which blank ammunition consisting of part of the old cartridges which they had always been using would be served out. About 10 o'clock that night, the Regiment mutinied and rushed to the places where their arms are locked up at night under sentries. These they broke open, and taking out their muskets loaded with ball. On hearing of this, the Officer commanding the Station brought the 11th Irregular Cavalry and a Battery of Artillery down on them, at the sight of whom they gave up their arms. For this mutiny the 19th was marched to Barrackpore, and there disbanded in presence of all the troops. Incendiary fires still continued to occur at Barrackpore. One day, a Sepoy of the 34th N.I. at Barrackpore, named Mungul Pandy, went out in front of the Quarter Guard of his regiment armed with a musket and sword, and called upon the men to mutiny. The Adjutant, Lieut. Baugh, went out with the Sergeant-Major to apprehend him. The Sepoy shot the Sergeant, and wounded the Adjutant, but was at last apprehended. This took place a few yards from a guard of 24 Sepoys under a Native Officer. Neither they nor the men of the 34th came to the assistance of the Adjutant. For this, the Native Officer commanding the guard was tried and hanged; the men of the guard were transported for life; and the 34th disbanded. The Sepoy, Mungul Pandy, was hanged. One of the Oude Irregular Regiments at Lucknow next refused the old cartridges, but on the appearance of troops to coerce them they laid down their arms, and fled to the jungles. About 1st May, Colonel Smyth, of the 3rd Cavalry at Meerut, ordered a parade of 90 men for Light Infantry drill, at which they were to use the old blank ammunition. When paraded in the morning, 85 men refused to take the cartridges. For this they were placed in confinement to await a Court Martial. Some Native Officers were sent for from Delhi to act as members of the Court, so that the circumstances of the case must have been well known to the Native Troops at Delhi. The result was anxiously looked for by all. At last, on 9th May, the sentence of the Court was promulgated, that the 85 Troopers were to undergo 10 years labour in chains on the roads. They were accordingly removed to gaol. On the evening of Sunday, 10th May, just as the European Troops were preparing to go to Church, the 3rd Cavalry, 11th and 20th N.I. stationed at Meerut broke into open mutiny, rushed to the gaol, and set free the 85 Troopers, and forthwith began murdering every white face they came across. At Meerut were the Headquarters of European Artillery, the 60th Queen's, and the Carabineers. These drove the mutineers out of Meerut, who took the road to

Delhi. Brigadier Hewitt commanding at Meerut was an old incompetent ass, and if still alive will most likely be tried by Court Martial and shot; but it is reported he has shot himself. He ought at once to have sent half his European Force in pursuit of the mutineers to Delhi. He merely sent news to the authorities at Delhi that the mutineers were coming to attack them. The Cantonment of Delhi is about 2 miles from the city. There were no European Troops there, only a Native Battery, the 38th, 54th, and 74th Regiments N.I. On hearing in the morning that the mutineers were coming over from Meerut, the Officer commanding at Delhi, ordered the 54th with two guns into the city to prevent the mutineers from crossing the bridge of boats over the Jumna. On the bank of the river is an immense block of buildings called the "Palace," where the old pensioned King of Delhi resides. He has Palace Guards of his own, who were commanded by a Captain Douglas. The bridge over the Jumna is close to the Palace. Well, just as the 54th reached the Palace, the mutineers from Meerut crossed the bridge and entered the city. Simon Fraser, the Magistrate, was coming along in his buggy. The mutineers wounded him, but he escaped into the Palace; but the Native Guard having opened the gate and joined the mutineers rushed into the Palace, and killed Fraser, Captain Douglas, Miss Jennings, and Miss Clifford. They now proceeded to murder every white face they could find—Beresford of the Bank and his family, the Chaplain, the Editor of the Delhi Gazette and assistants, and Mr. Tod of the Telegraphs. The men of the 54th now joined them, and showed their sympathy by shooting down their European Officers, only one or two of whom escaped. The men of the 38th and 74th wavered for some time, but at last joined the mutineers and took part in the butchery. The surviving Europeans now determined to retreat on Kurnaul and Meerut, which places some of them did reach after the most miraculous escapes, but many were murdered on the road with awful barbarity. Lieutenant Willoughby, who had charge of the Magazine, defended it until overpowered, when he blew it up and sent 300 of the Mutineers to the Devil. He himself escaped by a miracle, but is supposed to have been afterwards murdered on the road from Delhi. Listen to some of the atrocities of these fiends, and let your blood boil for your countrywomen. One lady was, along with her husband, stripped and ravished in the presence of her husband by ten of these brutes. Another was ripped up by a butcher of the Meerut Bazaar, the child torn out, and hung round her own neck. Miss J—, the belle of Delhi, was stripped by the brutes, and made to run up and down the Bazaar, while these wretches cut at her with swords and spears, until they killed her. On Sunday, the 17th, 50 Europeans who had been found hiding were brought out and murdered with every barbarity, children being tossed on bayonets, and women hacked to pieces, after which the bodies were put on a cart and thrown down outside the city. The avenging force from Umballa has found on the road to Delhi traces of the most frightful atrocities. In one place, the Headman of a village violated a lady, and then cut off her breasts, hands, and feet. Did you ever hear of such damnable fiends? In one place, the Europeans found a pair of child's shoes with the feet cut off at the ankles sticking in them. The Europeans can scarcely be kept from murdering every native they meet. On the 12th or 13th, the 45th and 57th mutinied at Ferozepore, and attempted to seize the Fort there. They scaled it, but a volley from a few men of H.M. 61st Regiment stopped them. The Europeans then drove them out of the Fort. The 10th Cavalry stood true to us, and along with the Europeans cut the 45th to pieces. The 57th escaped to the Jungle, but afterwards came and gave up their arms and were disbanded.

On hearing of these mutinies, General Reid, Brigadiers Cotton, Edwards, Chamberlain, and Nicholson met in Council of War at Peshawar. They at once disarmed the native troops at Lahore. General Reid took supreme command in the Punjab, and a Moveable Column of European and Irregular Troops was ordered to assemble at Jhelum. Our Regiment was ordered to march at once to Dera Ismail Khan, and the 55th from Nowshera to Hoti-Murdan. There they mutinied. A Force of Europeans and Irregulars was sent in pursuit from Peshawar. They killed 100 of the 55th, and took 140 prisoners. These were brought to Peshawar, and blown away from guns in batches of tens. Those who have escaped into the Swat Country were circumcised by the Hill Tribes, who are bigoted Mohammedans. There has been some hard fighting in front of Delhi, and European Troops are pouring in from all quarters. But we must have at least 20,000. The Troops going to China are coming here. The Regiments who have joined the mutineers are—the 3rd, 5th, 9th, 10th, 11th, 13th, 15th, 18th, 20th, 28th, 29th, 30th, 38th, 44th, 45th, 48th, 54th, 55th, 57th, 60th, 61st, 68th, 71st, 74th N.I., and 3rd and 6th Cavalry. At Bareilly, most of the Officers were murdered, also a Judge, and two civilians hanged. Report just come in of the massacre of Europeans by the 28th at Shahjehanpore. Lucknow is said to be burned down, but no news from Calcutta since 28th May. My Regiment is all right, the drills and parades going on here. All sleep here with loaded revolvers under their pillows, and carry them always about them. All the ladies of our Regiment are safe at Murree. I saw 700 of the new Cavalry Levies here to-day. Tell Mamma not to be afraid, Sam and I are all right.”

Dera Ismail Khan,
11th July, 1857.

“ Fighting goes on daily before Delhi. The 23rd of June was the Centenary Anniversary of the Battle of Plassey, and the commencement of our Raj in India; it was also the new moon (a most lucky day to Hindoos), and some festival very auspicious for the Mohammedans. This strange coincidence was strongly impressed upon the ‘ Pandies ’ by their pundits and soothsayers, who assured them that the British Raj had been destined to continue 100 years, and having fulfilled its destiny would that day be destroyed. Accordingly, they came out well primed with bhang, an intoxicating extract of hemp, in three columns at 4 a.m. Their left column coming up on our right was trying to take possession of the Kurnaul Road, by which a reinforcement of troops from Umballah was that day expected to join us. The object of this movement was seen through by Norman of the Staff, who galloped towards Kurnaul, and brought up the convoy. They fought from 4 a.m. to 7 p.m., to make true the oracle of their pundit, but it was no go. A handful of British bayonets, assisted by their brothers the Sikhs, Goorkhas, and Pathans, showed them that the British Raj was not yet over. They drove them back into the city with a loss of 800 killed. . . . All quiet in the Punjab, hanging and blowing away from guns going on as usual. General Wheeler with 4 European Regiments had pursued the mutineers from Cawnpore to near Agra, inflicting frightful loss. General Patrick Grant from Madras had reached Benares with more Europeans. All native troops in Bengal disarmed: the Press to be gagged. The Gwalior Contingent have all mutinied; Proctor of my Regiment killed. All depends upon the Fall of Delhi.

12th July, 1857. We have just heard of the disarming of the 58th at Pindi, and the 14th at Jhelum. They had up to this been allowed to retain their arms. The 58th quietly gave up theirs. A wing of the 24th Queen’s with Horse Artillery guns came down to Jhelum to disarm the 14th. They resisted, and after a long fight were utterly destroyed by the Europeans. All Regiments have now been disarmed except ours, the 39th.”

LETTERS FROM INDIA

Dera Ismail Khan,
14th Sept., 1857.

"I heard from Sam a short time ago. He was close to Delhi with General Nicholson's force. We have got to within 300 yards of the walls of Delhi. One battery at 450 paces is well armed to play on the Cashmere Gate, and Moree bastions. The place, if not already smashed, must be so in a few days. The 51st at Peshawar broke out on 29th August, I think. They numbered 875. Of these 781 were killed the same day. One batch of 190, after being tried by drum head Court Martial, were drawn up in line facing as many Europeans, and all at one word of command were shot dead. On the 27th, we heard of a conspiracy to deliver up the Fort and arms here to our disarmed men. There has been a Court on the subject, but nothing of importance has come out of it. We were all to have had our throats cut at 8 p m., but heard of it at 11 a.m."

Mooltan, 12th Oct., 1857.

(To his brother Samuel.)

"Got yours of 20th and 26th to-day. In destroying a party of the 9th Irregular Cavalry near Jhung on 29th ult. I was shot through the right side, and in the wrist. I am doing well, but cannot write. For this affair, I am to be appointed to the 17th Irregular Cavalry. Write home I am nearly well."

Mooltan, 21st Oct., 1857.

Dr. Macintire's Bungalow.

(To his brother.)

"My dear Willie,

. . . I must now account for my being at Mooltan. On 23rd Sept., an express reached Dera Ismail Khan with intelligence, that some 20 or 30 sowars of the 9th Irregular Cavalry had mutinied near Kalabaugh, after firing on their Officers. A Party of 150 of New Horse Levies was ordered across to Bukkur, in case these mutineers should attempt to get to Leiah, where were some of the 17th Irregular Cavalry, supposed to be disaffected. Mr. Cowan, a civilian, was to command the Party. I obtained permission to accompany him. We started two hours after the express arrived, and got to Bukkur that night. Here we left 80 of our men, and with the remaining 70 proceeded straight towards Jhung, across a sandy desert, as we expected the mutineers would try to make for the Chenab, and we hoped to intercept them. . . . We started from here at sunrise to track them with guides, and followed their trail till noon, when we came to a well where two hours before they had watered their horses. We followed them up and came in sight of them in about half an hour. They were ready for us, for they had taken up their position in a clump of trees with their carbines presented. Cowan gave the word, our fellows drew their swords with a delightful yell. I thought it was all right, and that we were going to polish off the whole of them, but on seeing the carbines our fellows turned right and left, leaving Cowan, myself, the Kassildar, and a Pathan to go in at them alone. The Pathan was killed dead. After I had two shots at them, I got one in return through the fleshy part of the right side, which lodged in the right arm a little above the wrist. On looking for our men, we found them hiding behind the bushes. We tried to make them charge again, but they flatly refused. We therefore fell back to the nearest village, where we were luckily joined by Captain Hankin with some 60 sowars of the 17th Irregulars. His party with ours started after the mutineers about 3 p.m., and returned about 8 p.m. to the village where I was lying, with the pleasing intelligence that they had killed all the mutineers. After two days I and Mr. Thomson (Captain Hankin's second-in-command, who had received some 12 sword-cuts) were sent down to Mooltan, where we have been most kindly treated by Dr. Macintire, Civil Surgeon, there. The wound in my side has healed up, and that in the arm doing well."

LETTERS FROM INDIA

Letters to Lieut. John Chalmers' Father, from Captain Powlett, late 58th Regiment, Bengal Native Infantry, afterwards Assistant Commissioner for the Punjab, and who died 15th July, 1910. He was present at the Siege, Relief, and Capture of Lucknow (Medal with two clasps); also in the actions of Allygurh, Agra, and Kanonj, and against the Gwalior Contingent. He became Colonel in 1881; C.S.I., 1891; and C.B., 1907.

I. Letter from Peshawar, Sept. 23rd, 1861.

"My dear Sir,

It is with the deepest regret that I have just read the announcement of your son's death on 10th August, in the Home News; and I trust I shall not be thought intrusive in now addressing the father of my dear friend, to express my heartfelt sorrow and sympathy for his loss. I think it will not be unpleasant for you to know that Lieut. Chalmers' death is really felt and mourned by some of those with whom he was associated during his brief Indian career of 5 years. None will feel it more than myself, for we were warm friends; and I look back with sad pleasure to the periods we were together, first at Murree, where we were both on sick leave in 1858, and lived in the same house, and again here in 1859. His intellectual and moral superiority (both to myself and to most of those I have met in this country) rendered intercourse with him as profitable as it was agreeable, and I am sure I owe him much for the influence his earnestness for self-improvement, and his craving for what is good and true, has had upon me. His manly, genial disposition made him generally liked, but he was often troubled with doubts and difficulties (and who is not?) which harassed him a good deal and must, I think, sometimes have coloured his correspondence. Being, too, of rather a sensitive nature he felt more than most would some little official vexations; but, though he may at times have thought the contrary, he was thoroughly appreciated by the higher authorities as the enclosed extract from a Punjab Report will show you. I know the Lieutenant Governor, Sir Robert Montgomery, K.C.B., thought highly of him, and I have heard the Judicial Commissioner, Mr. Roberts, speak of him as "a very promising officer," and not long ago General Chamberlain was asking with much interest about him, his interest having been occasioned by hearing him spoken of most highly in the Derajat. My own impression is that he was the most promising of the younger Civil Officers in the Commission, for to his superior education he added a zeal and a conscientiousness that few possess.

All this would be nothing now, would not be worth recording, but that it must be comforting to know that your pains and anxious thought were not bestowed in vain, and that your son though so early cut off had already given promise of being all that parent could wish.

Yours very truly,

P. W. POWLETT."

II. Letter from Umritser, 31st Jan., 1862.

"My dear Sir,

I thank you very much indeed for the most interesting and consoling account you have so kindly sent me of the last moments on earth of my dear friend. After learning how happily he terminated his earthly career and how glorious a future he felt to be before him, I feel with you it is not right to mourn for what is his 'great gain.' I enclose the extracts from the Punjab Reports referred to in my last letter."

Report by the Judicial Commissioner on the Administration of Criminal Justice in the Punjab and its Dependencies.

"The Deputy-Commissioner of Rawul Pindi pronounces Lieut. Chalmers to have exhibited good judgment in his decisions, while he has been successful in improving the Police of the Attock Sub-Division of which he has charge." (For the year, 1859.)

LETTERS FROM INDIA

“Lieut. Chalmers was transferred early in the year to Dera Ismail Khan. He is an officer of great promise, and I regret that ill-health has necessitated his return to England.” (For the year 1860.)

Extract from the Report on the Revenue Administration for the year, 1859-60.

“Captain Dwyer (officiating Deputy-Commissioner, of Rawul Pindi, and just arrived there) has not recorded any opinion of Lieut. Chalmers, an omission I feel quite able to supply. He is an excellent officer, and afforded me great assistance in the Revenue Department, during the 5 months I was in charge of the Rawul Pindi District. Few officers that I have been associated with have so thoroughly devoted themselves to their work; his judgment is very good and his energy untiring. I regret exceedingly that ill-health has obliged him to take 6 months sick leave, and that his transfer to Dera Ismail Khan prevented his appearing before the Divisional Examination.”

(Lieut. Chalmers died at the early age of 25 years, at Aberdeen, and was interred in St. Nicholas Churchyard in the grave of his ancestors.)

LETTERS OF SAMUEL CHALMERS.

Letter to his father from The Palace, Delhi.

18th Oct., 1857.

“I reached Delhi on 14th August, and have been here ever since, and witnessed the grand assault on the morning of 14th September, and had the pleasure to see the British flag once more hoisted on the Cashmere Gate. Many hours of suspense passed over all of us up to that morning. Our army was small, cholera was raging, and many other things had we to contend with. I used to spend hours and days at our batteries on the hill above Delhi; and although it was not always prudent, yet fear was dispelled by the gratifying fact, that what I witnessed was for my own and others good.

I cannot describe to you the scenes I have been an eye-witness of during the last five months, the account furnished in newspapers is a mere shadow of the reality. I came inside the city on the 17th, three days after the attack, but it was not to view the Delhi I saw last year; it was to cast my eyes on a heap of ruins, deserted houses, starving inhabitants, and putrid corpses of man and beast. Misery was the watchword. Plundering went on to a terrible extent, shops and goods of all descriptions blocked up the roads, and here and there dead Sepoys. Not a European house is fit to be occupied, they were burned to the ground. Shall I reveal to you the horrors of the 8th, 10th, and 11th of June? Ladies butchered at the breakfast table, children torn from their mother's arms and dashed upon the flags, husbands tied to the wall and saw their wives ravished, spat upon, vivisectioned, and had their throats cut, maddened Sepoys rushing here and there and calling for the Europeans to come out to be tortured. Oh! God, I cannot, I will not go further. In Cawnpore their treachery to General Wheeler and his party, and the murder of the harmless women and children have excited a spirit of retaliation that time can never erase. Lucknow Garrison was relieved by General Havelock on 25th September. We completely drove the brutes out of Delhi and have followed them up to Agra via Allyghur, where they were completely routed and cut up. At Agra 500 men were despatched after two good fights. It is expected they will now be joined by the Gwalior mutineers. Agra is still unsafe, all the inhabitants are in the Fort still. Our Sappers left this morning for Agra.

The Palace is a fine place on the brink of the Jumna, but is out of repair. Two of the Princes were shot like dogs the other day. Hanging, &c., are so common now, that it appears a pastime to go and see a dozen or two knocked off (the villains!).

The Church is all battered to pieces nearly, what remains is used as an Hospital. The 1st Fusiliers suffered very much, and the Rifles too. Funerals are very frequent. The villains broke the tablets on the tombs just to vex us, and made a bull's eye of the gilt ball on the dome of the Church. Provisions are pretty dear and no selection. We lived in mosques, faqueer's houses, &c., for days, and if I were sure of settling here I could furnish a house gratis. I have succeeded in doing the prize agent out of the following—My own Loot:—A palkee Gharee, alias one of Dr. Campbell's (founder of Campbells Limited, Aberdeen) best cabs, four wheels and new; a mahogany bedstead with cane bottom, almost new; three elegant chandeliers, one I made a present of to a young man on his birthday, thirty six yards fine calico, twenty yards coarse, Neck-ties, Puggies, which came out of the Palace Harem, a huge box with brass nails, excellent bedding, looking-glasses, wine glasses, lamp chimneys, a bhuggy, 2 reams of paper, pens, ink, ammunition, 2 small silver rings, vases, plates, tureens, cups, saucers, spoons, and an endless lot of things from Delhi, ruined Delhi, and a musical box. You just get a coolie and walk them off coolly! I could find no money, though a Sikh and I looked hard. All is now quiet and order being restored in the city.

Last week, business called me away about 30 miles from here for 4 or 5 days, and on my return I happened to take up the paper and found to my astonishment and grief that poor Johnnie (his brother) had been wounded severely, along with two other officials. I have sent you the paper by this post, and also enclose a letter from Jack himself. He is doing well, and I hope will soon be better. I expect to be in Meerut soon. I have a Golgotha at last, on the spot where Colonel Chester fell, four miles from this." (He was Adjutant-General of the Army, and was shot down on 8th June, at the Battle of Badli-ki-Sarai, 6 miles from Delhi.)

Your loving Son,
SAM.

Letter to Rev. Dr. McGilvray, Gilcomston Free Church, Aberdeen.

Murree Hills,
Sunday, 5th Sept., 1858.

"My dear Dr. McGilvray,

You have lately suffered deep affliction in your own family, and I earnestly pray that God may direct you in breaking to my poor old father and mother the intelligence of the death of my brother Samuel at Calcutta, on 14th August, which I have just this minute received from Rev. Mr. Gardiner (afterwards Minister of Old Aberdeen Free Church.) You are God's servant; may He direct you, for I cannot tell my father of this."

Yours affectionately,

J. CHALMERS,
Lieut. 39th Regt., N.I.

(He was buried in the Bhowanipore Military Cemetery, Calcutta, and a Monument erected to his memory by his brother John.)

ATTOCK, ON THE INDUS

INDIA OFFICE RECORD OF LIEUT. JOHN CHALMERS, M.A.

Statement of the services of Lieut. John Chalmers, late 39th Regiment Bengal Native Infantry, and Assistant Commissioner in the Punjab, proceeding on sick leave to Europe. Dated Rawul Pindi, 8th Oct., 1860.

“Lieutenant John Chalmers entered the Indian Army on 5th Aug., 1855, at the age of 18, landed at Calcutta, on 7th Dec., 1855, and joined the 39th Regiment B.N.I., as Ensign at Jhelum, 13th Jan., 1856. He continued to do duty with his regiment up to the breaking out of the mutinies. On 17th May, 1857, he proceeded with the 39th Regiment B.N.I. to Dera Ismail Khan, was present at its disarming about 15th July, 1857, and continued to do duty up to 23rd Sept., 1857, when information being received that the 9th Irregular Cavalry had mutinied at Mianwali, on the left bank of the Indus, 100 miles north of Dera Ismail Khan, Ensign Chalmers volunteered and was permitted by the Officer Commanding at Dera Ismail Khan, to proceed in pursuit with a party of Irregular Horse. He overtook and attacked the mutineers near the village of Boota Dalset in the Leia District on 29th Sept., 1857, was himself very severely wounded in six places, shot through the side, and his right forearm shattered. On 6th Oct., 1857, he was appointed to do duty with the 17th Irregular Cavalry, but did not join till 23rd Jan., 1858, when the Indian Officers pronounced him unfit for duty from the unhealed state of his wounds. From 1st May, 1858, he went on six months' sick leave to Murree. On 26th Oct., 1858, he was appointed an Assistant Commissioner in the Punjab, joined at Jhelum on 30th October, 1858, and up to 10th May, 1860, acted as Assistant Commissioner at Shahpore, Peshawar, Attock, and Dera Ismail Khan. He has been on sick leave since 10th May, 1860. He has never been tried by Court Martial, nor has his conduct ever been the subject of a Court of Inquiry. He has passed in Hindoostanee, and the Civil Examinations for the Lower Standard. True Statement. He is entitled to the Indian Medal.”

This Medal he never received, but his nephew, Rev. James Smith, recovered it, in 1905, along with an India Mutiny Medal with a clasp for Delhi, owing also to his brother Samuel Chalmers, who died in 1858. John Chalmers had been recommended to the H.E.I.C. Service by Colonel Sykes, M.P., for Aberdeen, who gave him the Indian Appointment as a prize to the best student at Marischal College, Aberdeen, that year.
