FOREWORD

In searching for ancestors and looking for information on families I have been through numerous cemeteries in the northeastern states. Even where care is exercised to preserve the stones the ravages of time and weather are obliterating the records on them, and in the abandoned cemeteries and farm burials the process is greatly accelerated. The stones fall over and in a few years are covered with debris and earth, woodchucks often assisting. Where cattle are allowed in the plots the stones are soon knocked over. Having done some recording of inscriptions where there was a possibility of having them published I finally conceived that if such records for this county were to be preserved they should be collected and published and with that in mind started the project. Every care has been taken to have the records accurate. To record them verbatim would complicate matters and finally it was decided to follow the style used herein, as being closest to the originals in most cases, though allowing listing in alphabetical order. All information of genealogical interest is preserved, though in most cases the poems, etc. have been omitted. In many cases I have found that I was years too late; the inscriptions being indecipherable. Also some plots on early maps are now entirely gone. Some of these plots have been recorded several times before, according to information given me by persons familiar with them, but no publication has resulted.

TOWN OF BATAVIA

BATAVIA PIONEER CEMETERY

The present city of Batavia's pioneer cemetery was on West Main Street back of the West Main Street School. No evidence now remains that a cemetery was ever there. Many removals were made to the Batavia Cemetery on Harvester Avenue, then known as Cemetery Street. The plot was deeded by Benjamin Ellicott August 10, 1820. Burials were apparently made before that time. The following are given in Beers' Gazetteer of Genesee County as being left in 1890:

Buell, Richard, died 1819.

Mason, Wheaton, died 1825.

Stark, W. T., died 1822.

Wilcox, Oliver, two wives of; one died in 1807, the other in 1824.

1812 VETERAN BURIALS

In the Grosvenor Library in Buffalo the writer found the following typewritten paragraph:

“At the close of the War of 1812 two soldiers returning to their homes stopped at the home of Thomas Beckwith sick. They took them in and did all that could be done for them. Both died with cholera. There being no public cemetery they were buried with their son, who had passed on. These graves are on the state road about five miles west of Batavia in the southwest corner of the field belonging to Mrs. John Gould joining the land of Mrs. Boshart. We of the present time do not know the names or history of these men.”

Someone found at least the last names of these men somewhere, as a wooden sign was erected there which the compiler can remember, reading: “Two soldiers of the War of 1812. Haxton and Pierce.” The sign is now gone and for some time only the flags placed in the markers on Decoration Day has marked the spot. With only the above as authority, we have:

Beckwith, ———, a son of Thomas Beckwith.

Haxton, ———, a soldier of the War of 1812.

Pierce, ———, a soldier of the War of 1812.

In the Hillside Cemetery, East Pembroke, we find that the son of Thomas Beckwith was moved there, to the Thomas Beckwith plot.

Beckwith, Harris, son of Thomas and Abigail Smith
Beckwith, 1788-1809.

LENT BURIAL VAULT

The Lent Burial Vault in Le Roy was visited and the grounds were found to be in nice condition, tall grass but no brush or briars growing on it. A large plot is enclosed in an iron fence which is set in a cut stone base. The mound covering the vault is surrounded, except for the entrance to the vault, with a similar fence. However, the only inscription was "John Lent 1846" over the entrance to the vault.

A letter to the Woodward Memorial Library inquiring for information as to who was interred therein was passed on to Dr. Frances Witmer who kindly sent the following information:

CEMETERIES AND FARM BURIALS OF GENESEE COUNTY

A family burial ground was on the property and Captain John Lent built a vault and had all bodies interred therein.

Father and mother of Capt. Lent:

Phebe Winter Lent, wife of John Lent, died January 20, 1829, aged 92 years. Her remains rest here, but her husband, John Lent, born October 1, 1723; died August 10, 1805 in his 82d year at Easton, Washington County, N. Y. He is buried in the old Tarrytown Cemetery.

Epitaph:

“Reader, behold and shed a tear,
Think on the dust that slumbers here,
And think while you read the fate of me,
Think on the glass that runs for thee.”

Their son:

Capt. John Lent, born in Easton, N. Y., May 8, 1783; died in Le Roy, N. Y., June 10, 1861, aged 78 years, 1 month and 2 days.

His first wife, Lydia Howland, born in Dartmouth, Mass., in 1781; died February 6, 1856, aged 75 years.

His second wife, Olive Armstrong, died November 13, 1867, aged 58 years.

Capt. John Lent and Lydia (Howland) Lent's son:
John Howland Lent, died June 21, 1862, aged 31 years.

Harriet (Bailey) Lent, his widow, married for her second husband, Calvin Fitch Bissell, born March 9, 1818; died December 11, 1898.

Harriet (Bailey) Lent Bissell, 1831-Feb. 1920.

Lucy Millard Lent, daughter of John Howland Lent and Harriet (Bailey) Lent, born July 2, 1856; died April 26, 1906. Unmarried.

Grandchildren of Calvin Fitch Bissell and his first wife (not Mrs. Lent):

John Fitch Bissell, 1870-1882.

An infant of Dix Bissell and Maude Lee Bissell, daughter of Dr. Lee of Rochester, N. Y.

MYRTLE STREET CEMETERY

The Myrtle Street Cemetery is practically an abandoned cemetery, though the town, which now keeps it presentable, sells lots in the front unused portion to the Negro population of the village who find it an economical place to bury their relatives. Many removals have been made to the Machpelah Cemetery, so many pioneers who were formerly buried here must now be sought at the newer cemetery.

TOWN OF PEMBROKE

EAST PEMBROKE

The old cemetery at East Pembroke is given on old maps. On the 1866 map it is clearly given as being between the Presbyterian and Baptist churches. No stone is now visible on this plot, though not occupied for any other purpose. In the survey of the county made in 1926 by the Sons of the American Revolution the name of one veteran is given as being buried here:

Huntington, Samuel. A soldier of the Revolution.

CORFU

On all the old maps of Corfu the cemetery is given as being south of the present Evergreen Hill Cemetery, on the same side of the road, but south of the stream. No stones are left there now and the Corfu Central School now occupies the site. Those removed were placed in Evergreen Hill before the building of the old school which preceded the new school now in use.
