Pennsylvania was noted even in its formative period for its religious toleration, and for the number and diversity of the theological tenets of its people. From the time of the first settlement, effected by William Penn and his Quaker adherents, the Province became a home and a place of refuge for all discordant elements of Europe. Particularly did they come here if they were persecuted at home because of their religious belief. Other Colonies, it is true, were settled by people who sought religious toleration in the New World, but most of them instituted a series of persecutions in their American homes that were scarcely less vigorous than those from which they fled in the Old World. The Puritans, who were, perhaps, more determined than any others, to worship as they saw fit, were not by any means tolerant of other beliefs when they finally settled in Massachusetts. It was quite different in Pennsylvania, for here we had almost, if not quite, absolute toleration of all religions. This gave us more religious denominations than any other State in the Union, if not more than all others combined. It is not to be understood that these religious elements were always tolerant of each other, but rather that the early governing powers of the State did not attempt to exercise any authority whatever over the manner of their worship.

THE LUTHERAN CHURCH.---The Evangelical Lutheran church, commonly called the Lutheran church, is very strong in Westmoreland county, particularly in and around Greensburg. They are Protestants, who hold to the doctrines of theology as taught by Martin Luther, and as contained in the Augsburg Confession. This was written by Philip Melancthon and was read in the presence of Charles V. Emperor of Germany, at the Diet of Augsburg on June 25, 1530. The Confession has since obtained a permanent place in literature of the Christian world, having been translated into every modern language.

The first Lutherans of Westmoreland county were nearly all Germans, or people of German extraction. The early church records were written in the German language almost exclusively. Sixty or seventy years later these records fell into the hands of English speaking people, who were not able to translate them, and who therefore unfortunately did not preserve all of them. The early work of the church therefore, in this locality, is largely a matter of tradition. We know that there were many Lutherans here before the county was formed in 1773, for their presence is well proved by early records, other than their own.

Like all other early settlers, they met in private houses for religious services. Then they were without a minister, his place was taken by the schoolmaster, or by some pious member of the church. The schoolmaster had, perhaps, no special claim to the right to perform these offices, except that he could read and many of the early settlers could not. At these house-to-house meetings they read the Bible, had prayers and singing, and sometimes the teacher read a sermon, or made some remarks which took the place, and in some degree partook of the nature of a sermon. The ceremony of baptism was performed by laymen as well as by schoolmasters. etc.,

REV. JOHN M. STECK came from the eastern part of Pennsylvania and settled in Greensburg in 1791. He had been born in Germany and when he succeeded Rev. Lutje he was thirty-five years old. He continued in the ministry till his death, July 14, 1830, a period of thirty-eight years. He was an energetic worker and accomplished much for his church. At his death he left a son, Rev. Michel J. Steck, who succeeded him as pastor of the Greensburg congregation.

Rev. John M. Steck is probably entitled to rank first among the Lutheran ministers of our county. He did not come here, it is true, until ten years after Rev. Lutje had begun his work here, but he came, nevertheless, when the organization of Lutheran congregations all over the county was in progress, and he rendered great assistance to them in their formative period. By his energy and his natural ability as an organizer, he brought into being most of the older Lutheran churches now existing in the county. He organized the first German congregation in Greensburg and preached to them for many years, in the German language. In 1809 he organized the Manor Church, and a few years later organized St. James and Hankey's churches in the northern part of the county. Still later came St. John's, Swopes, Ridge, Youngstown and other congregations nearer Greensburg. For many long and weary years he served these people, and rode on horseback from one place to another. He was assisted somewhat in his later years by young men and by his son, Rev. Michael J. Steck, but the bulk of this work for the last thirty years fell on him. He was commonly called "Father Steck," because of his age, preached here from 1791 till 1830. His son, Rev. Michael J. Steck, from 1828 till 1848. The Greensburg charge, under Rev. John M. Steck, had charge of all the Lutheran churches in the county. He was Bishop of the County of Westmoreland.

REV. MICHAEL J. STECK, son of Rev. John M. Steck was born in Greensburg in 1793. He was one of the founders of the Pittsburgh Synod, was its first president, and was elected consecutively for five years. For many years he bore the enviable reputation of being the ablest preacher of the Lutheran faith in the county. He had been more liberally educated than his father had been. He was licensed to preach in June, 1816, but had already done considerable ministerial work by way of assisting his father. Later in the year he was called to Lancaster, Ohio, then in the backwoods of church development; he labored in Lancaster with great success for twelve years. When his father grew too old to perform his pastoral duties in Westmoreland without assistance, he returned to Greensburg to assist him. Two years afterwards, viz., in 1830 his father died, and he succeeded him in the work and labored with great energy and success till his death in 1848. During the greater part of his ministry he preached four times a day and at that time it was necessary for him to ride many miles on horseback to do so. He preached about eight thousand sermons in his thirty-two years of ministry, and baptised about five thousand children. He received into the church about two thousand people by confirmation. He was a man of fine appearance and had a splendid voice and a clear enunciation. He died in Greensburg in September, 1848, aged fifty-five years.

REV. JONAS MECHLING was born in Hempfield Township, near Greensburg, Pa., August 14, 1798. He studied theology with Rev. Schnee, of Pittsburgh, and later under elder Rev. Steck, of Greensburg. He began the regular ministry in 1820 to assist Rev. Steck. His work at first lay all over Westmoreland county, particularly in the northern part and in Ligonier Valley. In 1827 he was given charge of Ridge and Youngstown congregations, where he preached till 1848, when on the death of Rev. M. J. Steck, he was called to Greensburg. Unlike the Stecks, his whole life was here in Westmoreland county. The last twenty years of his life he devoted to the German congregation and to the English congregation in Greensburg and to Harrold's, Brush Creek and Manor congregations. He was a man of simple manners, amiable disposition and high social qualities. He preached here forty-eight years, and in that time delivered six thousand three hundred and twenty-seven sermons, not including funeral sermons. He baptised six thousand two hundred and eighty-six people, confirmed two thousand and thirty-nine as members of the church, and performed nine hundred and ninety marriages. He died in 1868.
