PREFACE

"This is the book of the generations....There were giants in the earth in those days... and the daughters of men bore children to them, the same became mighty men which were of old, men of renown." - Genesis, ch. 5, 6.

Curiosity about and study of one's ancestors is, with some people, a matter of absorbing interest. Others regard it with amused tolerance, and still others with pity. To one who disregards his neighbor's opinion and gets caught up in this odd business, it is a kind of harmless, personalized history, which enables one to see more clearly his own nature, - his strengths, weaknesses, and foibles. It stirs admiration for and emulation of those forebears found worthy of such distinction, along with understanding and sympathy for those who sometimes failed to make the grade. In a nutshell, it allows one a little greater acceptance for his parents, himself, and his children, commodities which many of us appear sadly to lack in these 1960's.

For proper genealogical study, as for other research, one needs certain basic ingredients: a special interest, some training in research technic, and a stubborn determination, plus such advantages as unlimited time, a fat purse, and freedom to roam about and to put a shovel into any soil that looks genealogically promising. Old cemetery records, gravestone inscriptions, wills, probate records, official birth, marriage, and death records are valuable fields for the orthodox family sleuth. But necessity has limited their use in this instance, for some of the items, - technical training, time, fat purse, and freedom, - are matters of luxury to this particular writer. Consequently the present work leans very heavily on, first, old colonial and historical records, particularly those of Connecticut and Massachusetts, as found in historical and genealogical library collections in this country; second, personal correspondence with, and family data of, a considerable number of Backus descendants now living in the United States and Canada.

Because many of the sources of information are personal correspondents who can provide only such data as are obtained from ordinary family records and tradition, the writer has of necessity accepted material which obviously cannot be rated final and absolute in the sense that court records, cemetery inscriptions, birth and death certificates can be so considered. Nevertheless all material has been weighed carefully, cross-checked wherever possible, and finally presented as seems most consistent with fact. Where unproved assumptions are drawn, they are clearly identified as such, leaving the reader the privilege of finding a better answer if he can.

A number of family branches are here included which have not previously appeared in print, and which in fact have in some cases never before been clearly traced in relation to the family as a whole. If the volume is unduly long, it is because of the desire to provide a more complete listing of family members than has heretofore been attempted. Blank spots in the family tree are admittedly large and numerous, especially in later generations. Some of the blame for this must fall on the writer; but some must devolve on the many kinfolk who failed to respond to his request for information.

A study of available telephone and city directories showed Backuses to be scattered widely over North America. They appear as residents in at least 45 of the 50 states, even though rural and small town areas were largely unrepresented, and though the survey was restricted essentially to those using the traditional spelling of the name (omitting Baccus, Bacchus, Bachus, Backes, Backous, etc.). It should be noted at once, however, that having the name Backus does not necessarily mean kinship with the Backus families of early New England. Backus family lines now present in North America are surprisingly numerous, and include many outside the William and Francis Backus lines. The survey by this writer, begun late in 1961, uncovered a dozen or more family groups of English descent, apparently unrelated to us; also one each of Welsh, Scottish, Irish, Danish, Ukrainian, Hungarian, Lithuanian, Turkish, and Syrian origin, also some forty German or Dutch, and a number whose source was unknown. No doubt some of these might be found mutually related if all facts were known. Unfortunately the family historian finds many persons (about 78% in this study) who do not respond to a request for information. And of those who do respond, some have insufficient data to prove or disprove connection with the Backuses of early New England. For example, a large group centering in West Virginia is descended from a Joseph Backus who "came from Pennsylvania in 1800 and located on Hutchinson's Creek....then moved to Twenty-Mile." The antecedents of this Joseph Backus are not known, and since his life record does not correspond with that of any other known Joseph in the New England families, he and his descendants cannot properly be included in the present work. Similarly, for lack of evidence, we are unable to claim Jim and Henny Backus of Hollywood as members of our clan at this time, yet keep hoping that a link may be found.

The writer owes a debt of gratitude to many persons, past and present, whose basic records of family history have been consulted, abstracted, and frequently quoted in the present volume. Thanks go, first of all, to those depositories of information, our libraries, - the Connecticut State Library, the New York Public Library, the Newberry Library of Chicago, the Duluth Public Library, and others, but especially the Minnesota Historical Society, where generous and patient help has been provided on many wearying days.

Particular thanks must go to individual historians, living and dead: to Mary E. Perkins, Frances M. Caulkins, F. W. Chapman, William Weaver, William W. Backus, and others; Mary E. N. Backus deserves special mention for the personal detail and character she has brought to so many of those mentioned in her work. Gratitude also to those professional genealogists, - Donald Lines Jacobus of New Haven, Col. LeBaron C. Colt of Boston, and R. J. D'Arcy Hart of London, who contributed valued information and technical guidance. Again, thanks to living members of the old, historic family of Backhouse in England, who have been more than generous in providing family data, but with whom I have failed in my attempt to establish any family connection. Of these, Mr. J. C. Backhouse of Hilderstone, near Carnforth, Lancashire, England, Mrs. John C. Backus of Port Rowan, Ontario, and Mrs. W. W. Barrows of E. Braintree, Massachusetts, must be mentioned.

Finally, sincere thanks to all those who shared old and precious private records, otherwise unobtainable. They are too numerous to be given here, but nearly all will be found in the list of references on page 195. For their loyal and generous contributions to the work of an unknown cousin, I am most grateful.

EUROPEAN ORIGINS

The family origin of William Backus of Saybrook, Connecticut, and history of his years prior to 1637, are obscure. He has long been recorded as coming to America from Norwich, England, yet the source of that tradition is likewise uncertain. The earliest statement relative to this found by the present writer is that of William W. Backus in his "Backus Family - a Genealogical Memoir", published in 1889, saying "it appears that William Backus...came from Norwich, England." This observation may have been based on simple tradition only.

Information as to the origin of Francis Backus is even more scanty, but since he is shown by Banks as emigrating to America along with William, it is perhaps fair to assume that they had a common family background.

The name Backus appears rarely if at all in earlier English records. Backhouse does appear with some frequency. Research by R. J. D'Arcy Hart, a London genealogist (Ref. 114, p. 197), among the records of Norwich and environs, and of London, for the period of 1560 to 1637, has revealed a fair number of persons carrying the surname Backhouse, Backhowse, Backouse, and the like, most of them seemingly of English origin, but some of them Dutch (identified as "Duche", "Doycheman", "Douchman", "Dowche", etc.) Of these, four carried the name of William, but of the four, three are shown to have died before 1600, and the fourth was a youth in 1560, obviously antedating William of Saybrook.

Again, a Register of Freemen of Norwich, 1548-1713 (Ref. 143), does list several freemen under the name Backhouse or Backhowse in the early 1600's, and two apprentices, Henry Backhouse and Thomas Backhowse, are listed in 1618 and 1629 respectively, the one a cordwainer, the other a tailor. They came to Norwich from the village of Wroxham, about seven miles northeast of Norwich. But a check of records in the parish church of Wroxham by the vicar in 1962 turned up no vital records available until 1726, much too late to show the ancestry of our William or Francis of colonial times.

Lacking concrete information, therefore, simple speculation on the subject suggests three major possibilities as to the background of the Backuses of early New England:

1. They may have belonged to a branch of the historic Backhouse family of England, which has a long and distinguished history. Old records of the family (Ref. 8) indicate that the founder of the family was a Ranulf de Bayou, born about 1020, "step $\frac{1}{2}$ brother of William the Conqueror, by whom he was enriched with honor in Normandy and England". One list among the family notes continues as follows, suggesting the gradual evolution of the name from the French form Bayou or Bayeux to the English equivalent, Backhouse:

"About 1100	Rannelf de Bayeux m to Nedegrest - daughter of Alan de Lincoln
	Hugh de Bayeux their son died 1196
	John de Bayeu his son died without heirs male 1248
1248 (died?)	Stephen his brother and heir male
1203	William de Baises
1205	Susperius de Baises m Matilda
1295	Robertus de Bayeuse
1297	Henricus de Bakhows
1540	Thomas Bakhouse	Lancaster
1640	John Backhouse	Yealand and Lancaster"

After 1200, references to the family became more numerous, though with varying spelling of the name. Joseph Foster's "Descendants of John Backhouse, Yeoman, of Moss Side, Near Yealand Redman, Lancashire, 1894", and his "Wills and Administrations of the Various Backhouse Families" (106, 107), list several branches of the family in the counties of Lancashire, Westmorland, Durham, York, Norfolk, Shropshire, Gloucester, Berkshire, and London. A generation ago, Admiral Sir Roger Backhouse of the Royal Navy and his brother Sir Edmund Backhouse, a writer and authority on China, were men of note in England; members of the family are active in London banking circles today. But a review of the Backhouse family records gives no clue to a William Backhouse or Backus of Norwich in the late 1500's or early 1600's. This does not rule out the possibility that our William could have been a member of a more distant and unlisted branch of the family, yet the assumption seems rather thin.

2. A second possibility is that William came from an entirely different English family, one of less note than the preceding, perhaps more restricted geographically, and with the same or a different spelling of the name. Actually no reference to such a family has been found, and a search of London telephone directories today, for example, reveals numerous Backhouse listings, but few under Backus. Altogether this possibility appears less likely than the first.

3. A third possibility looks more promising. The frequency of occurrence of the name Backhaus or its equivalent in German or Dutch suggests the chance value of a search for a German or Dutch connection. Curiously, an accidental contact of the present writer is worth mentioning. While on shipboard returning from China in May, 1941, I met at lunch an elderly Dutch priest who, on hearing the name Backus, asked about my family origin. On answer that our family roots reportedly run back to Norwich, England, he surprised me by saying "Yes, I know your family. I am from the province of Lemberg in southern Holland. Many of my old neighbors there carry the Dutch form of the name. Part of the family left Holland as a result of religious persecution in the 1500's, and settled in the region of Norwich, England. Your ancestors undoubtedly were among that group." Unfortunately no follow-up of that conversation was obtained. An attempt to confirm his statement has more recently been made through the help of the Netherlands Consulate, but this has failed. However, other curious bits of information come to light from time to time. Correspondence with LeRoy M. Backus, Jr., of Seattle, brings word that "Once many years ago, Theodore Roosevelt and my father attended a meeting of the Harvard Club held in Seattle. Upon being introduced, he commented that the Roosevelts and Backuses had common ancestors in Holland....My grandfather, Manson Backus, determined that the name Backus appeared as Bekhius in Holland. He also determined that many people came from Holland to Norwich to work in the weaving trade that was being established there. Of course there was some intercourse because of the matter of religious beliefs."

Of further interest regarding Dutch emigration is this paragraph from a "History of the City and County of Norwich, 1768", p. 225 (author unlisted): "In 1565, the worsted manufacture being much decayed, the Mayor, sheriffs &c. waited upon the duke of Norfolk at his palace, to consult with him what were the properest steps to be taken on this occasion; when it was resolved to invite hither some of the strangers who had fled from the persecution raised against them in the Netherlands by the duke of Alva, and settled themselves at London and Sandwich, under the Queen's protection; who granted them a license for the making of Flanders commodities of wool in her majesty's dominions. Upon the duke's application, and at his own charge, the queen granted letters patent for the fixing here thirty master workmen, with ten servants to each of them, in the whole three hundred and thirty Dutch and Walloons; who immediately on their arrival set up manufactures of bayes, says, arras, mockades, &c. and in a very short time their number increased to three thousand and upwards."

So much for routine sleuthing. For the truly romantic-minded, a number of curious legends have crept into Backus family tradition, which should perhaps be flashed here briefly, then retired to the corner what-not along with the rest of the curios. One cousin writes of an ambitious member "who claimed descent from Baron d'Albine and the Emperor Charlemagne." Another historian traces the family "to Egbert, first king of England, from him to Cedric, first king of the West Saxons, and tradition says that Cedric was a lineal descendant of Woden (or Odin), who was supposed to be a descendant of the eldest son of Noah...." (125). Others would have us descend from Alfred the Great. And who knows? With all the cross-breeding over the centuries, most people of European descent probably do descend from half the great characters of Europe by this time!

As for coats-of-arms, crests, and the like, two or three different devices have been claimed by various family members, but it is to be suspected that we have merely appropriated those of the various branches of the English Backhouse family, and without a by-your-leave. I have had some correspondence with a member of that family, and he is too much a gentleman to have his heraldic devices stolen.

So, after this meandering, any Backus kinsman who reads this may, for his ancient lineage, choose between a high-born Norman, a sturdy Dutch tradesman, or still another. After all, each of us, by calculating back ten generations, finds 1024 ancestors in his direct line in that one generation alone, which allows considerable leeway if one wants to be fussy!

As this manuscript is about to set out for the printer, the following news clipping quoting the New Scientist, London, begs for inclusion:

ANCESTORS FOR ALL

The English celebrations of the 900th Anniversary of the Battle of Hastings 1066 have got off to a bad start, with one paper perpetuating the nonsense about who is and who is not descended from the Norman knights who came over with the Conqueror.

Much snobbery, historical research and, no doubt, money is involved in seeking answers to these questions in individual cases to establish special heredity. Yet, even if we confine ourselves to the small band of 25 knights said to be definitely identified by name, it is easy to compute that over 30 generations since the battle the number of their descendants, if there were no intermarriage, would be more than 25 billion, eight times the present population of the world. The chances of any inhabitant of England not being descended from many of these 25 knights are really quite small, unless he can prove that he is a recent immigrant with no English ancestors.

HISTORY OF WILLIAM BACKUS OF SAYBROOK, AND OF HIS DESCENDANTS

Factual details on the life of William Backus are few. He is usually said to have been born in Norwich, England, but clear proof of this is lacking. He was established in Saybrook, Connecticut, by 1637, shortly after the founding of that settlement in 1635, probably having entered America through a Massachusetts port. Whether a wife and family accompanied him, or whether he married after his arrival, is not known.

Several authors (2, 5, 125, 145) state that he came to this country on the sailing ship Rainbow, 250 tons burden, of which Captain Haskins was Master. Col. Banks, in his Topographical Dictionary (67) gives a list of emigrants from various cities and villages in the several counties of England in that period; among those coming from the county of York appear the names of Francis and William Backus, but without place of origin or any other data. It is assumed that this William is the one who settled at Saybrook. But what relationship did Francis bear to William, - father, brother, cousin? We do not know. (For more data on Francis Backus, turn to p. 116.)

In a memoir of LeRoy Manson Backus, Sr., of Seattle, in the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, July, 1949, (the material having been submitted by Mr. Backus himself), an interesting reference to William Backus appears, his year of birth being given as 1589/90.* The present writer has been unable to find any confirmation of that date elsewhere in spite of repeated search. So, for solid ground, we again must return to Saybrook and 1637.

The story of Saybrook is that of a seacoast village, now old, still small, on the Connecticut shore of Long Island Sound, at the mouth of the Connecticut River. Barber (68) gives a fine, succinct account of the settlement and its early history (see Appendix A, p. 139). The actual site of the settlement was a broad peninsula or lip on the west bank of the river, measuring about a mile in length, connecting with the mainland by a narrow neck. Convenient for defense against marauding Indians, it did not lend itself to large development.

Records of the early personal happenings at Saybrook are sparse indeed. There are accounts of John Winthrop, The Younger, first "governor" of the settlement, and references to Lion Gardiner, the engineer engaged by Winthrop to construct fortifications (68, 117, 177). There are references also to the three chief patentees of the land grant, Lord Say and Seal, Lord Brook, whose names are commemorated by the town, and Colonel George Fenwick, who visited the settlement in 1636 and 1639 and remained several years on the latter occasion. Beyond these items, little remains of the early local history. In a town meeting of January, 1648, however, an account is given of plans for development of outlying lands around the original settlement. In this, William Backus is found among twelve men assigned land across on the east side of the Connecticut River, in that area which later became known as Lyme (110). Whether this was William's homestead, or was in addition to a home in the town, is not indicated. There is no reference in the town records to his work, activities, station in life, or

*This double date, like others in the volume, needs explanation. Prior to 1753, according to "Old Style" reckoning, the year began on Lady-day, 25th of March. From 1753 on, under "New Style", the year began on January 1. A person born, for example, in February, 1589, Old Style, was recorded as born February, 1590, New Style. Note that the confusion of double year dating applies only to the time up to March 25. Thereafter, the year is the same for Old and New Style. (103, 179) when or whom he first married, the dates or order of birth of his children, or when their mother died. Older accounts incorrectly show his first wife to have been Sarah Charles; but Jacobus (119) has demonstrated clearly that Sarah Charles was the first wife of his son William, Jr., not of the senior William. By 1659 William, Sr., had taken as his second wife a widow, Mrs. Anne Bingham, variously recorded by earlier writers as Anne (Stenton) Bingham (121, 183, 149), or as Anne (Stetson) Bingham (49). She was the widow of Thomas Bingham, they having been married July 6, 1631, in Sheffield, England. LeBaron C. Colt of Boston (84) has recently called attention to a record in the "Parish Register of Sheffield, cy York, Part 1, Baptisms and Marriages, 1560 to 1634-5", p. 247 (158), under the year 1631, the record being that of the marriage of "Tho' Bingham et Anna FFenton", the F being repeated in FFenton, just as L is repeated in Lloyd up to the present time. Mr. Colt further comments: "This same book has a complete index. There you will find many Bingham, p 257, many Fentons, p 267, but not a single Stenton. The obvious conclusion is that William Backus had a second wife named Ann (or Anne) (Fenton) Bingham, not Anne (Stenton) Bingham." Thomas and Anne (Fenton) Bingham had a son Thomas, recorded in Saybrook, Connecticut, also Norwich, and later Windham, where he was known as Thomas, Sr. Curiously and confusingly, two children of this stepson of William Backus, Sr., later married grandchildren of William.

The records of Saybrook indicate that the shore-line soil was thin and unproductive. In time, some of the Saybrook settlers became desirous of moving to better ground. An opportunity to improve their lot came in the form of warfare between two of their neighboring Indian tribes. Mohegans under a sachem, Chief Uncas, occupied the valley of the Connecticut. To the east lived the Narragansetts, a related tribe, but one with whom they were frequently on bad terms. During this new conflict, the home stockade of the Mohegan was surrounded and placed under siege for some days. A plea to the English colonists from Chief Uncas for help against the Narragansetts caused a relief party to set out from Saybrook under Lieut. Leffingwell, breaking the siege and turning the tide of battle. For this act, the Mohegans later granted to the English a generous tract of land "nine miles square" around the head of the Thames River. A settlement, first occupied in the fall of 1659, was more firmly settled in the spring of 1660, and became the town of Norwich. Thirty-five families (or thirty-eight according to other authority) moved to the new location as original settlers. (117).

William Backus, Sr., did not long survive the transfer, his share of the new land descending to his younger son, Stephen, presumably just coming of age, while his elder son, William, Jr., had a share in his own right. In this manner the two sons appear on the records among the thirty-some original proprietors of Norwich, but William, Sr., does not. Older accounts show him dying in 1664. Mary E. N. Backus in her excellent history of the family gives good reason for believing he died between June 12, 1661, the date of his will, and August 28 of that same year, since an official record of property transfer indicates that Stephen had already succeeded to his father's estate by the latter date. With the colony still in the early stages of governmental organization, legal matters sometimes suffered delay. It was June 21, 1665, before the will of William, Sr., was allowed in the New London Court. A copy of the will is filed in the records of New London Town, Book 1646-66 (150), pp. 143-4, a transcription of which is:

"Thi: may Certifie whom it may concerne That I William Backus Senior being now alive and in memory Doe ordain this my last will and testament wherein my mynd is Declared concerning the ordaining (or ordering?) and Disposing of my estate whereunto I Doe hereby constitute and appoynt my trustid and welbeloved sonn

Cutlers tools & Ivory	04	00	0"

William's estate was valued at 102 pounds. It is his specific bequest to his son William, Jr., "all the tools belonging to the trade of a smith and cutler", along with a bellows and a stock of ivory, which is of interest as being the first indication we have as to his trade. Beyond this, however, we may assume that the family income was amplified more or less by farming, gardening, stock-raising, and perhaps other pursuits, in accordance with the custom of the time.

The Norwich Vital Records (153, v.1, p. 8) list William's wife Anne, "Mother of Thomas Bingham, Sr.", as dying in May, 1670.

The children of William Backus, Sr., and his unknown first wife (precise order, place, and dates of birth of children likewise unknown) were:

A glance at social conditions of the time of William, Sr., may be of interest. Palfrey (157) tells us that governmental organization tended to be much the same in all the colonies, quickly developing local order, with little reference to any superior authority in England. "In all of them the freemen were the fountain of power. Suffrage was not universal; in every colony there were numbers of inhabitants who were not freemen. After a body of freemen had been once constituted, admissions to it were accorded by the vote of those who were already comprehended in it." The church was central in the life and discipline of the community. The church order of the English Independents, already practiced and proved in the mother country, was adopted, "introduced into Massachusetts by the congregation of Skelton and Higginson....and carried to Connecticut and New Haven by the founders of those colonies. A church was a company of believers, associated together by a mutual covenant to maintain and share Christian worship and ordinances, and to watch over each other's spiritual condition. Persons so pledged and associated were church members; and they, and no others, were entitled to the Lord's Supper, and to present their children for baptism. Each church was an independent body."

As for social manners and customs, Hollister reports that the hard life of the colonists altered the daily habits of the wealthier immigrants for a while, such that even though they had servants, "with the exception of the clergy, nearly all of the original proprietors toiled earnestly...frequently in the same field with the servants." But in time old habits returned, and "society began to assume its old English features, and distinct generic orders were formed....distinguished by the terms gentlemen, yeomen, merchants, mechanics, or domestics.....The term Yeoman was applied to that class of freeholders who stood next in rank to gentlemen...Some of the yeomen bore the title of master, and they were frequently called to discharge important public trusts. Many of the yeomen were well born, and had as much pride of family, as the educated class."

SECOND GENERATION

William Backus, Jr.², son of William, Sr., by his first wife (p. 7), was named as one of the original band of Saybrook men who purchased the townsit of Mohegan (later Norwich) from Chief Uncas in 1659, and is so recorded on the Founders' Monument. (149, 1:315; 49) He is therefore accepted as having reached his majority by that year, perhaps before. Jacobus (121) estimates he was born about 1635. If that is correct, he presumably was born in England, for there is no evidence that his father reached the colonies that early. He is often shown as Sergeant, Ensign, or Lieutenant William, on the basis of the positions he held in the Norwich "train band", or local militia; perhaps this was also to distinguish him from the elder William. The Colonial Records of Connecticut (82) show him confirmed as Ensign in May, 1680, and as Lieutenant in May, 1693. Frances Caulkins (78) notes however that though military titles were highly respected and generally coveted among the colonists, he "styles himself in deeds simply yeoman".

Apparently by 1659 he had taken as his first wife Sarah Charles (see p. 5), born October, 1637, in New Haven, and baptized there in October, 1640. She was daughter of John Charles, a resident of New Haven and later Branford. (See account of the John Charles family, Appendix D). Their first child, William³, was born May 11, 1660, probably in Saybrook, the parents awaiting the birth before moving to the new settlement at Mohegan. (78) Two other children, John and Sarah, were born to the couple later, apparently followed soon by the death of Sarah (Charles) Backus, whether from childbirth or other cause is not known. By 1664, William had taken as his second wife Elizabeth Pratt, daughter of Lt. William and Elizabeth (Clark) Pratt (see Appendix D). Her father was an original proprietor of Hartford, a man of considerable standing, and for years a Deputy to the General Court, - the central governing body - of the colony. Elizabeth bore her husband six children; her union with William must have been a propitious one, for their descendants have included many distinguished individuals. Though commonly shown as surviving until 1730, it is more likely that she died in 1703 or thereabouts; this is deduced by Mary E. N. Backus (49) from details in an acknowledgement by Joseph³ Backus in 1704/5 of property deeded him by his father, William, Jr.

The specific occupation of William Backus, Jr., is nowhere mentioned, but that he was well respected is amply clear. At a session of the General Assembly at Hartford, October, 1663, he was "accepted to be made free", that is, granted full political privileges* (82), and was listed as one of but 25 such persons in Norwich in 1669. He is shown to have filled various official and community posts, - as Marshal of a Norwich Court of Commission; as Townsman (Selectman) during several periods from 1679 to 1686; as member of church committees, on church construction, selection of a pastor, plan for seating of the congregation; as member of a committee to negotiate a dispute with Uncas, the Mohegan Chief, in 1683; and as Deputy for Norwich to the General Court at Hartford in May and October, 1680, October and November, 1683, October, 1684, and October, 1689. The patent of the Town of Norwich, dated 1685 (149, 1:315), shows Ensign William Backus as one of twelve patentees of the town.

He accumulated a sizable amount of property before he died. What he may have possessed as a young man in Saybrook is not known. His original allotment of land in the new settlement of Norwich is given as six acres (78; see also Appendix B). On August 31, 1682, Chief Uncas and his son Owaneco deeded a further 150 acres of land to him, possibly "in connection with the settlement of the estate of Lt. William Pratt", his father-in-law. (49). William was also a member of the group of thirteen men to whom, in February, 1675/6, Attawanhood, also known as Joseph Uncas, another son of the old chief, made over a large tract of land situated northwest of Norwich. This transaction was further confirmed by a will of Joshua Uncas, dated April 29, 1684 (149, 13:236; 85, p. 1290), by which William is said to have received three shares of 1000 acres each. This jointly held tract eventually became the site of Windham. William continued to live in Norwich, but later deeded part or all of this land to his two elder sons, William³ and John³, apparently receiving in return their property in Norwich, in March, 1691/2.

William obviously believed in preparedness. His will dated February 8, 1693, long antedated his death, but was never changed. He must have been a sturdy man, for his length of life became noteworthy. In 1702 he was mentioned as one of the few surviving founders of Norwich; he died early in 1721, having outlived all the rest (147).

His will, on file among the Norwich probate records in the Connecticut State Library, is of interest, giving, as Jacobus has noted, the proof that Sarah Charles was his first wife, and not the wife of his father. The major portions read as follows:

"I William Backus of the town of Norwich Being in my perfect understanding and memory doe make this my last will and testament....I give and bequeath unto my deere and Loving Wife Elizabeth one-third part of the profiet of all my Reall Estate...one-third part of all my personall Estate to be att her Despose.. ...unto my son Nathaniell, all my home lott in Norwich with all the houseing upon it....all my Land on the East side of the Street, where his house standeth,unto my two Sonns Joseph and Nathaniell...all my Lands within the Bounds of Norwich that I stand possessed of att my Death... as also....all my Land lyeing neere the Great Pond at the corner of Norwich Grounds, with all my Interest of Land within the township of Saybrook in Pottapauge Quarter....to be Equally Divided between them for quantity and quallety.....unto my Son John and to my Grand Son William....all my Interest of Lands in the Township of Windham to be Equally Divided between them for quantity and Quallety...unto my son John

The governor and certain assisting corporation members were designated "freemen" with power to make laws and govern the colony. But as time passed, membership in the ruling freemen was expanded to include other reputable persons, providing they were members of the church. Political franchise and church membership thus became related. (McLaughlin, A. C.: History of the American Nation, p. 58-61)

Stephen² Backus, second son of William Backus, Sr., and his (unknown) first wife (p. 8), may have been born in England, but Jacobus (121) and others surmise he was born in Saybrook about 1642, and so just approaching his majority as the family moved to Norwich in 1660. Early details about him are missing. But having reached Norwich, he succeeded to the allotment of his father on the death of the latter in 1661, Stephen's elder brother, William, Jr., having had a homesite granted him in his own right. Stephen was thus counted one of the Norwich founders, and so was listed on the Founder's Monument. Frances Caulkins states "The homelot was entered in his name as a first purchaser." The lot lay "upon the pent highway by the Yantic, between the Town Green and the allotment of Thomas Bliss." (See Appendix B). As time passed and Stephen died, the property was sold in 1700, incorporated into a larger structure, and converted into the Leffingwell Inn. This stood for over two centuries, only to give way in 1959 for construction of a new freeway.

Stephen's occupation is not recorded. In December, 1666, he married Sarah Spencer, who was born about 1644, daughter of Ensign Gerard (Or Jared) and Hannah Spencer of Haddam, Connecticut (120; 153, 1:4). (Older records occasionally show him, apparently incorrectly, as married to Sarah Gardiner, daughter of Lion Gardiner, the engineer whom Governor Winthrop brought over to Saybrook.) Gerard Spencer, born in England in 1614, was one of four Spencer brothers who came to America; he settled at Haddam, and died there in 1685 (120). (For more on the Spencer family, see Appendix D.)

In 1692 Stephen moved his family to the new settlement of Canterbury, of which he was counted as one of the founders. There he died in 1695, his estate being settled by agreement between his widow Sarah, his son Timothy, his daughter Elizabeth, and David Knight, Robert Green, and William Baker, the husbands of his daughters Sarah, Ruth, and Rebecca, respectively, the elder son, Stephen, Jr., having died, apparently without heir (121). The date of death of Sarah (Spencer) Backus is not known. Children of Stephen and Sarah (Spencer) Backus:

- 1. Sarah³, b. Apr., 1668; m. Mar. 17, 1691/2, at Norwich, David Knight of East Greenwich, R. I., who d. at Norwich Nov. 24, 1744 (149, 87:269; 153, 1:51; 74). Their children:

THIRD GENERATION

William³, eldest son of William² Backus, Jr., and Sarah (Charles) Backus (p. 11), was born May 11, 1660, presumably at Saybrook just before the transfer of his parents to the settlement which was to become Norwich. On Nov. 3, 1681, he married Elizabeth Royce, who was born January, 1661, daughter of Jonathan and Deborah (Calkins) Royce, both of English descent (see Appendix D). Elizabeth died March 28, 1687/8 (122), some months after the birth of her third child. The New London County Court Records, 1689-1703, pp. 31 and 41, show that on the death of Jonathan Royce a bequest of fifteen pounds was left to William.

Four years after the death of his first wife, William married Mary Benton, on August 31, 1692. She was a daughter of Edward and Mary Benton (121, 122), the name often being given incorrectly as Dunton (see Appendix D). Mary died Dec. 16, 1757.

When Windham was settled in 1691, after some years of delay, William³ transferred his property in Norwich to his father and received in return one of the land portions assigned to his father in the new territory known as "Joshua's Tract", so becoming one of the 22 original settlers of that town. Larned's interesting History of Windham County (130) related "In 1691...William and Joseph (apparently meaning John³) Backus had broken up land, built houses and established themselves in the Hither-place - on what is now the west side of old Windham Street....In the autumn of 1691, the residents of the New Plantation now numbering about thirty, felt themselves sufficiently established to undertake the management of a township....and made known their wishes." The petition was signed by eleven men, including William and John Backus. The Hither-place, where the home lots of William and John were situated, later became Windham Center; there were two other settlements, one known as the Ponde place, becoming Mansfield Centre, the other, Willimantic. A portion of William's home lot was later purchased in 1700 by Mr. Whiting (later the town pastor) and Ensign Crane, and made over by them to the town for use as a meeting-house common. This was the nucleus of Windham Green, and a meeting house was soon erected. (See Appendix C).

William was appointed Sergeant of the Windham train band in 1692. He was also "poundkeeper and hayward for the great field at the South end." In 1707 he was on a committee to select a burying ground. It is to be assumed that he maintained himself and family chiefly by farming. Apparently as William became aged, misfortune or mismanagement overtook him, for in April, 1730, "The proprietors of the town, considering that William Backus was one of the ancient inhabitants of the town and now attained to old age and reduced to poverty, give him and his wife Mary, one and one half acres of land and to his son Ephraim after him". This suggests that the parents may have spent their declining years with this, their youngest son. (122) William died at Windham January 25, 1742. The children of William³ Backus -

John³ Backus, second son of William, Jr., and Sarah (Charles) Backus (p. 11), appears in the family archives as a man of sober and steady character. He was born in Norwich February 9, 1661/2, and was another of the twenty-two original settlers of Windham, through the gift of 1000 acres from his father. The will of William², dated Feb. 8, 1693/4. shows further favor to John in bequeathing "to my Son John and to my Grand Son William.....all my Interest of Lands in the Township of Windham to be Equally Divided between them". The grandson here mentioned would have been William⁴, born in 1687, second son of William³; since he is said to have died in 1695, it is uncertain what happened to his share of his grandfather's legacy.

In the summer of 1691 John, along with his brother William³, went to the new townsite, broke up land, built a house, and established his home (130), his home lot, like William's, being on the west side of old Windham Street, in what is now Windham Center. Some months later, on Feb. 17, 1691/2, he married Mary Bingham, who was born July 6, 1672, daughter of Thomas and Mary (Rudd) Bingham, and granddaughter of Anne Bingham, the second wife of William Backus, Sr. (73; 153, 1:50) Her gravestone shows Mary died at Windham, February 19, 1747, surviving her husband, who died in 1744.

John was active in the community, and apparently well regarded. He was one of a committee of three to arrange with workmen for construction of a meeting house, and later served similarly in building schools. In 1700 the town proprietors "granted to him the privilege of the stream at Willimantic Falls to build a mill". (130) He was one of the original members of the church organized in 1720. Larned closes John's life story thus: "Mr. John Backus, the last of the original settlers, died March 27, 1744, in the eighty third year of his age, 'having served his generation in a course of probity and piety'.....of his daughters...all were women of superior energy and character". Joseph³ Backus, second son of William, Jr., and his second wife Elizabeth (Pratt) Backus (p. 11), was born September 6, 1667, at Norwich, and lived out his life there, dying in December, 1740 (159, 49). On April 9, 1690, he married Elizabeth Huntington, who was born October 8, 1669, and died August 24, 1762, daughter of Simon and Sarah (Clark) Huntington. Her family was one of some prominence. The three Huntington brothers, Christopher, Simon, and Thomas, came early to Connecticut with their mother, a widow, their father having died during the Atlantic crossing. The young men established themselves quickly, Simon becoming the first of a long line of deacons (78, pp. 179-85).

Joseph received a considerable legacy of property from his father, including a tract at Saybrook and two or more areas at Norwich. He appears to have been able, ambitious, and well respected. In 1699 the town proprietors granted him "so much land...as may be needful for him to set up a shop and coal-house upon, provided he improves it for the above use." The grant was confirmed a year later. He was made a Lieutenant in the train band in 1708. At various times he was mentioned as moderator of a town meeting, and as being active in church and community affairs. He was a Representative in the General Assembly of the colony on numerous occasions between 1704 and 1733, and had a long record of service as Justice of the Peace. Caulkins relates (159) that in April, 1730, all the freemen were enrolled. "The first on the list, and probably so placed in respect to respect and dignity, was Joseph Backus, Esq., the three reverend ministers, Lord, Willes, and Kirtland, and the two deacons, Simon and Christopher Huntington."

On one occasion a neighbor did take exception to Joseph's conduct. Mary Perkins (160), in discussing town customs, relates that goat-raising "became a source of profit, and though no laws had then been made for their restraint, who can blame Joseph Tracy for impounding fifty-four belonging to Joseph Backus, which like an invading army invaded his lands in 1722"!

In matters of church polity, Joseph was clear-thinking and determined when need arose. The church of the New England colonies was generally congregational in organization, each church group being virtually independent, finding its own pastor, and accepting as members only those who had been well scrutinized by the membership, and approved by their vote. By 1708, certain leaders in the church felt it was time for a broader organization, to which the individual congregations would be subordinate. A council of delegates, 12 ministers and 4 laymen, met at Saybrook and drew up a plan for regulating the churches, known as the Saybrook Platform, giving dominant power to the ministers. They then managed to get it confirmed by the General Assembly as the law of the colony, but with the proviso that any church dissenting from this might worship in its own way. The Norwich pastor presented the Platform to his congregation without mentioning the proviso, hoping for acceptance. The church had been of "independent Congregational order...and jealous of extraneous influences, whether civil or ecclesiastical. The members...denied the jurisdiction of magistrates and presbyteries." (78) Hearing their pastor urge acceptance of the Platform, the two Norwich Representatives in the Assembly, Richard Bushnell and Joseph Backus, rose in meeting, vigorously stated their objections to the plan, and told of the proviso permitting them to take independent action. Dissension in the church was long and painful; the pastor was eventually dismissed, a new pastor installed in 1717, and at the same time, the church "renounced the Saybrook Platform as their code of faith."

Joseph's will, signed Dec. 5, 1740, the month of his death, left legacies to his wife and children, and made his wife and youngest son, Ebenezer, executors.

Nathaniel³, third son of William, Jr., and his second wife, Elizabeth (Pratt) Backus (p. 11), was born at Norwich April 15, 1669, and lived out his life there, dying August 16, 1728. He married at Norwich, first, Lydia Edgerton, born April, 1675, daughter of Richard and Mary (Sylvester) Edgerton. Lydia died about 1701; and on July 7, 1702, Nathaniel married second, Elizabeth Tracy, born at Norwich July 7, 1676, and dying there Nov. 11, 1739, daughter of John and Mary (Winslow) Tracy. The Edgertons and Tracys were original proprietors at Norwich; Mrs. John Tracy was a niece of Governor Edward Winslow of Plymouth.

Nathaniel, like his elder full-brother Joseph, appears to have been well regarded by their father, and received a generous legacy of property, which he seems to have administered well. Along with his mother and Joseph he was named an executor of his father's will. Miss Caulkins notes that Nathaniel and his father were two of the original church members surviving and active in 1717. He is mentioned as one of the original proprietors at what became known as The Landing, later New Chelsea (78), his home being on "Union, not far from the corner of Main Street." One might assume that he was a good parent, for his immediate descendants are described as men of some means and influence.

Nathaniel's will, dated July 10, 1728, named his wife, Elizabeth, his sons Nathaniel, Josiah, Jabez, his daughters Lidia, Mary, Elizabeth, with Nathaniel as executor. The will was recorded December 25, 1728. (4). The children of Nathaniel³ Backus -

Timothy³ Backus, second son of Stephen² and Sarah (Spencer) Backus (p. 13), was born at Norwich Oct. 7, 1682, and along with his father's family went to live in Canterbury; he died there Feb. 28, 1762. He is often styled Deacon Timothy. He married at Canterbury Jan. 26, 1708/9, Sarah Post, who was born Dec. 1, 1686, and died Feb. 24, 1760, daughter of John, Jr., and Sarah (Reynolds) Post of Norwich. Larned relates that he was active in Canterbury affairs, and that some time after the original settlement, was allotted an additional one and one-half shares of previously unallotted land. He joined the church at Canterbury in 1712-13, was active in church matters, became a deacon, served as church moderator at one time. With the controversy over the Saybrook Platform, he took a position opposing the Platform, aligned himself with the Separatists, and maintained his stand until his death. FOURTH GENERATION

Samuel⁴ Backus, first son of William³ by his second wife, Mary (Benton) Backus (p. 14), was born at Windham July 5, 1693 (184; 85), and spent his lifetime there, dying at 84, on Oct. 14, 1776 (149, 71:178). On Dec. 2, 1719, he married Sarah Gard, whose family origin is not known, but may have been in Rhode Island.

It is assumed that he made his living by farming. He apparently was not devoted to the church, for he is unmentioned in the church annals, and the commendatory remarks often applied to other members of the family in records of community affairs are notably lacking in regard to Samuel. He must have had difficulty under the stern restraints of colonial society, for Larned, in detailing local events at Windham sometime in the 1720's notes that "Samuel Backus was arraigned for speaking 'vile, ungodly, and profane language.'" And again later, "Windham did not escape occasional outbreaks of rowdiness. Samuel Backus though punished by imprisonment and hard labor....as before related, had the temerity, in 1730, to join with two other lads, William Backus, Jun., and Joshua Sawyer, - steal the keys of the gaol and let out certain prisoners, who effected their escape from justice. For this high-handed offense, Backus was bound over as an apprentice or servant for three years to Mr. Zedediah Strong." It was at about this same time that the town fathers found it necessary to give financial assistance to Samuel's elderly parents (see William³, p. 14), No information is available regarding his later years. Children of Samuel⁴ and Sarah (Gard) Backus, all born at Windham:

John⁴, second son of John³ and Mary (Bingham) Backus (p. 15), was born at Windham Aug. 17, 1698, and is usually recorded as residing there throughout his life. However, one correspondent lists him as moving to Woodbury, Connecticut, in 1739-40 (13). He died June 17, 1709. Larned mentions his baptism under date of Oct. 22, 1699. On May 12, 1725, he married Sibyl Whiting, who was born May 8, 1709, daughter of Rev. Samuel and Elizabeth (Adams) Whiting of Windham, and great-grand-daughter of Gov. William Bradford of the Mayflower. She died in August, 1755. Children of John⁴ and Sibyl (Whiting) Backus:

Samuel⁴ Backus, second son of Joseph³ and Elizabeth (Huntington) Backus (p. 17), was born at Norwich Jan. 6, 1693, and died there Nov. 24, 1740. On Jan. 18, 1715/16, he married Elizabeth Tracy, daughter of John and Elizabeth (Leffingwell) Tracy. He is described as a quiet farmer, but must have been a man of some energy and ambition. He moved upriver from the original Norwich town-site to an area known as Yantic, where he established a grist mill, a saw mill, and also the iron works which later became notable under his son Elijah during the Revolutionary period. His good standing among his fellow townsmen is indicated by his appointment as Lieutenant of the 2nd Norwich Company train band in 1727, and as Deputy to the October sessions of the General Court in 1738 to '40. On his unexpected death during an epidemic of measles in the latter year, he left his heroic wife, herself seriously ill, with eleven children, the youngest less than six weeks old. Fortunately he left them property holdings valued at some 5300 pounds, together with live stock, personal effects, and what for the time was unusual, a library of 84 volumes, largely religious. Mary E. N. Backus notes his inventory also included Lois, a negro slave, listed at 120 pounds, and Kate, an Indian apprentice, 12 pounds.

As in other matters, Samuel had shown good judgment in the choice of his wife. Elizabeth (Tracy) Backus was a woman of unusual character and deep religious conviction. As a widow she was active in the New Light Movement, breaking away from the restrictions of the established Congregational Church of that day to join the Separatists. Staunch refusal to pay taxes to support the official church led to her imprisonment for 13 days, and of her son Samuel for a longer period, her own release being secured by payment of her tax by her son-in-law, General Jabez Huntington, without her knowledge. She died Jan. 26, 1769, a memorial sermon being preached by her son Isaac at his church in Middleboro shortly thereafter. The children of Samuel⁴ and Elizabeth (Tracy) Backus:

Rev. Simon⁴ Backus, third son of Joseph³ and Elizabeth (Huntington) Backus, (Joseph³, William², William¹, p. 17), was born at Norwich Feb. 11, 1700/1. He and his brother Joseph were among the early graduates of Yale University, he receiving his degree in 1724. On October 1, 1729, he married Eunice Edwards, born at Windsor, Conn., August 20, 1705, a daughter of Rev. Timothy and Esther (Stoddard) Edwards, and sister of Jonathan Edwards. Simon went as chaplain of Connecticut troops on the Louisbourg Expedition to Cape Breton and died there, the date of his death usually being given as Feb. 2, 1745/6; but Mary Backus notes that in the regimental records he was shown as dying March 15, 1745, O. S. (old style of dating). Because of the severe financial straits in which the family was left, the widow petitioned for and received 300 pounds from the General Assembly. Timothy⁴ Backus (see p. 19), often listed as Capt. Timothy, was born at Canterbury, Nov. 18, 1717, and died there March 5, 1790, with burial in the Cleaveland Cemetery. On Nov. 14, 1739, he married Mary Bacon of Canterbury, who was born about 1723, dying on Jan. 15, 1795. There is some confusion in the records whereby some show him to be the son of Stephen³ and an unknown wife, while others list him as the son of Timothy³ and Sarah (Post) Backus. Perkins takes the latter view. Wm. W. Backus states he was a grandson of Stephen² and probably son of Stephen³. Virkus in his Abridged Compendium of American Genealogy records him clearly as son of Stephen³, but in the Magazine of American Genealogy he lists two Timothys, one "probably" the son of Stephen³, the other a son of Timothy³, so compounding the confusion. Finally, Caulkins, in commenting on settlement of the estate of Stephen² following the death of Stephen³, describes an agreement "subsequently made by the heirs of the elder Stephen", which includes no reference to any wife or child of Stephen³. That Stephen³ was ever married, or had any children, Timothy or otherwise, appears to be unsupported. At this time, therefore, and until new evidence indicates the contrary, Timothy⁴ will here be regarded as the son of Timothy³ and Sarah (Post) Backus, (Timothy³, Stephen², William¹).

Larned's History of Windham mentions Timothy as operating a tavern, and as taking part in various community activities, but it is not clear whether she refers to Timothy⁴ or to his son by the same name. Children of Timothy⁴ and Mary (Bacon) Backus:

FIFTH GENERATION

Adonijah⁵ Backus, second son of Samuel⁴ and Sarah (Gard) Backus, (Samuel⁴, William³, William², William¹, p. 20), was born at Windham, Conn., July 11, 1725, lived at Ashford, Conn., and died there "after 1794". On April 5, 1755, he married Ann Fuller, born Dec. 11, 1734, daughter of Aaron and Hannah Fuller of Ashford, and descended from Jonathan and Nathaniel Fuller. She died April 11, 1794. Details regarding Adonijah, aside from record of children, are few. However, two interesting documents are available (Ref. 6), with implications not only for the parties involved, but also for the customs of the time. The one is a record of transfer of 50 acres "being one half of the farm on which I live", to include the dwelling house standing on said premises, at a cost of 200 pounds, from Adonijah to his son Adonijah, Jr. The deed was dated in April, 1794, and recorded Sept. 27, 1794. The second document, apparently prepared at the same time, is curious, reading as follows:

"This indenture of lease made this 10th day of April Anno Domini 1794 by and between Adonijah Backuss Jur of Ashford x x x on the one part and his Honrd Father Adonijah Backuss of the town aforesaid x x x on the other part witnesseth that the said Adonijah Jur Doth let and lease unto the said Adonijah seinor all the land be the same more or less which the said Adonijah Becus hath this day deeded to the said Adonijah jur men^d in the said Deed to be about fifty acres and the one half of the farm on which the said Adonijah senior now dwells together with the privileges in the Dwelling House hereafter named which is hereby let and leased - Namely the southeast room in said house the privilege of Baking, Washing, Brewing and other necessary grate work in the kitchen. Ebenezer⁵ Backus, fourth son of John and Sibyl (Whiting) Backus, (John⁴, John³, William², William¹, p. 20), and usually titled Major, was born at Windham March 31, 1740, and resided there as a merchant. Date of death unknown. On Nov. 25, 1760, at Middletown, he married Mercy Edwards; they were later divorced, and he married Maria Ketchum, date unknown. Ellen Larned in her History of Windham relates that "In that revival of business....following the close of the French War...Ebenezer Backus....engaged extensively in mercantile traffic, buying up local produce to exchange for West Indian goods and articles of taste and luxury." In 1769, he and others raised funds for relief and support of prisoners in the French War.

Ebenezer was considered a zealous patriot. In 1774, Francis Green, an adherent of Gov. Hutchinson of Massachusetts, went to Connecticut to collect debts and transact business, "was forcibly expelled from Windham Town and Norwich." On return to Boston he issued a proclamation offering a reward of one hundred dollars for the apprehension of "five ruffians" including Ebenezer Backus, all residents of Windham. "Mr. Green's ejection was characterized by the patriot journals as 'the cool, deliberate remonstrance of the Sons of Freedom...' he was treated with great humanity and courtesy, allowed to stay all night." Ebenezer was one of Windham County subscribers to publication of "English Liberties or the Freeborn Subject's Inheritance", a compendium of laws and rights of Englishmen. His military service ranked him as Cornet of the 5th Regt., Oct., 1769; Lieutenant, May, 1770; Captain, May, 1772. Appointed Major of the 4th Regt. of Light Horse. Ordered to New York Sept., 1776, after commissioning June 14, 1776; dismissed Nov. 1, 1776. Larned also comments on his military record, noting "troops of horse from Windham County under Major Ebenezer Backus";time after time hurried his troops of horse to the relief of New London and Rhode Island".

Following the war he apparently returned to his work as a merchant. In 1786 he was chosen a selectman. He and his family were listed in the U. S. Census of Windham Town in 1790. Some time later, according to Larned, he "followed his children to central New York." The children of Ebenezer and Mercy (Edwards) Backus (down to and including Alfred, and probably all):

DeLucena⁵ Backus, fifth son of John⁴ and Sibyl (Whiting) Backus, (John⁴, John³, William², William¹, p. 20), was born at Windham Oct. 2, 1744, was living at Woodbury in 1770, later at Chaplin, Conn., and died at Athens, N. Y., Sept., 1813. He married 1) Apr. 12, 1765 at Woodbury, Electa Mallory, who was born Apr. 19, 1748, daughter of Capt. Abner and Susannah (Walker) Mallory of Woodbury; and later married 2) Tempe Watrous, born Mar. 31, 1749, at Lyme, daughter of Andrew and Dinah (Westcott) Watrous of Lyme. He was a graduate of Yale College, and would appear to be the DeLucena Bacchus listed as a member of the Connecticut Line in the Revolutionary Rolls and Lists of the State Historical Society. He was active in Masonry, and prominent in King Solomon's Lodge at Woodbury in 1775. Children of DeLucena and (presumably) Electa (Mallory) Backus:

Isaac⁵ Backus, second son of Samuel and Elizabeth (Tracy) Backus, (Samuel⁴, Joseph³, William², William¹, p. 22), was born at Norwich Jan. 9, 1723/4, and died at Middleborough, Mass., Nov. 20, 1806. He received a moderate education but is said to have regretted his failure to achieve greater scholastic heights. Nevertheless he read widely and had a strong and retentive mind. He received his M. A. degree at Brown University in 1797, a few years before his death.

On Nov. 29, 1749, he married Susannah Mason, who was born Jan. 24, 1725, and died Nov. 24, 1800, daughter of Samuel and Rebecca (Read) Mason of Rehoboth; she was descended from the Winslows of the Mayflower. As a young man, Isaac had developed strong religious convictions, perhaps in part due to the influence of his deeply religious mother and the persecution she underwent for her beliefs. In 1745 he left the established (Congregational) church to join the Separatists, was ordained a pastor at Titicut in April, 1748. Still not content, he left the Separatist Church in a dispute over infant baptism, became a Baptist, but continued on at Titicut, while speaking and writing widely in Massachusetts and neighboring states. He moved to the Middleborough Baptist Church in 1756, and remained in that pastorate the rest of his life. His extensive writing dealt chiefly with church history in New England, particularly in relation to the Baptist Church. He fought persistently to separate the church from the state, and in 1773 published an "Appeal to the Public" for religious liberty. In 1774 he was sent to petition Congress to guarantee separation of church and state, but for some years this was not received favorably. Yet eventually the first constitutional amendment, a part of the Bill of Rights, did confer religious liberty in 1791, along with freedom of speech and of the press. Many historians have assigned him chief credit for stimulating the convictions behind that amendment. He was a delegate from Bridgewater to the Massachusetts convention which ratified the federal constitution, voting for its ratification.

That he could be down-to-earth is shown by a quotation from his journal, in Hovey's Memoir of Isaac Backus: "Dec. 30, 1781. The old continental money passed, from July to February, at seventy-five dollars for one of silver; it then depreciated fast until it stopped passing, about May 25th, by reason of news from Philadelphia. On the 26th of May a man at Norwich, Vt., gave one thousand dollars for a felt hat." Again, the Middleborough Antequarian reports: "Impressive as his record of over sixty years in the ministry in this vicinity may be, his activities reached out into other fields of endeavor. His salary as pastor probably was not more than $200 a year and he certainly lived on a bigger income than that. He was a good business man as his account book shows. One activity of his was buying and selling to the several foundries in the region... He would contract for lumber from those who owned woodland, sell the lumber to the foundries and take his pay in iron-ware and then sell the pots and kettles to those who dealt in iron products. He was also an author who had around fifty books printed. Most of these were sermons or theological treatises. He wrote a history of the Christian churches in New England in three volumes, and then wrote a condensed one volume of the same work. His account book shows where he placed an order at one time for one thousand copies of the abridged history. He sold all of these histories for at least $10 per volume which gave him a very handsome profit. Some of his books he sold through agents but many he placed in his saddle-bags when he went on his numerous trips through the country, as far south as the Carolinas, and these he sold without the need of an agent."

As a person, he won the following descriptive comments from friends: "Mr. Backus' personal appearance was very grave and venerable. He was not far from six feet in stature, and in the latter part of life considerably corpulent. He was naturally modest and diffident..... His voice was clear and distinct, but rather sharp than pleasant." Another says "As a preacher he was entirely evangelical; pungency, pathos, and power characterized many of his discourses, which though unornamented with rhetorical language, were richly stored with scriptural truth. His unaffected piety, sincerity, and unwavering integrity were proverbial among all who knew him." (Taken from preface to his Church History of New England as re-issued in 1853.)

Captain Elijah⁵ Backus, third son of Samuel and Elizabeth (Tracy) Backus, (Samuel⁴, Joseph³, William², William¹, p. 22), was born at Norwich Mar. 14, 1726, and died of yellow fever at New London Sept. 4, 1798. He married 1) Jan. 9, 1753, Lucy Griswold, who was born July 6, 1726, died Dec. 16, 1795, daughter of John and Hannah (Lee) Griswold of Lyme. Later Elijah married Margaret (Grant) Tracy, born about 1740, d. Nov. 13, 1813, widow of Jared Tracy. He was made Ensign of the 2nd company train band in May, 1755, Lieutenant in October of that year, and Captain, October, 1758. In June, 1770, he was appointed Captain of the 7th co., 4th Btn., Col. Jonathan Latimer; and in 1781, commanded a company of Connecticut Militia in defense of New London. He is mentioned in the Revolutionary Rolls and Lists of Connecticut, and a land warrant issued to him for war service, and signed by John Adams, has been in possession of his descendants.

Elijah Backus accumulated a considerable estate, was a skilled mechanic, and was a man of influence. He built a grist mill, also expanded and developed the Backus Iron Works at Yantic, established by his father, the plant being of much service to the nation at the time of the Revolution. Josephine Phillips relates that in the legacy of the Iron Works from his father (he was fifteen at his father's death), he received a "Large Anvil....pr Large Bellows...hamer for horsenails....2 tools to turn augurs...2 Smith hand hammers....1 Iron Sledge..." Yet in speaking of the Revolutionary period, Caulkins remarks "Elijah Backus, Esq., at his forges upon the Yantic, manufactured the ship anchors used for the State's armed vessels, two of which weighed 1200 pounds each. He afterwards engaged in the casting of cannon."

He was active in church and community affairs, a member of various committees and delegations; he was one of six favored citizens proudly owning the fancy vehicles of the day known as chaises. The esteem of his neighbors is indicated by his election as Representative from Norwich on five occasions between 1769 and 1777. The children of Elijah and Lucy (Griswold) Backus:

Andrew⁵ Backus, usually denoted as Major Andrew, fifth son of Samuel⁴ and Elizabeth (Tracy) Backus, (Samuel⁴, Joseph³, William², William¹, p. 22), was born at Norwich Nov. 17, 1733, resided at Plainfield, Conn., and died Nov. 20, 1796. On Feb. 8, 1759, at Plainfield, he married Lois Pierce, born Aug. 14, 1732, died Nov. 26, 1815, daughter of Thomas and Mary (Parkhurst) Pierce of Plainfield. Andrew began his interest in military things in 1755, when, during the Indian wars, he volunteered for service and was made Sergeant in the 6th co., 3rd Regt., under Capt. Joshua Abell of Norwich. In Oct., 1766 he was Ensign in the 8th co., 11th Regt., rose to Lieutenant in 1767, and Capt. in 1774. In 1775 he answered the Lexington Alarm, and his company was engaged in New York State. In May, 1777, he was appointed Major in the 21st Connecticut Militia Regt. under Col. John Douglas, which saw service under General Sullivan at New Haven and Providence in 1778. (For extended and interesting data on his war service records, see Mary E. N. Backus, ref. 49).

Andrew took an active part in community life, serving on school committees and the like, and was one of the founders of the Plainfield Academy in 1784. On a number of occasions between 1769 and 1785 he represented Plainfield in the General Assembly. He served also as Justice of the Peace from 1781 through his remaining years. His family is listed in the 1790 census of Plainfield Town. The children of Andrew and Lois (Pierce) Backus, all born at Plainfield:

SIXTH GENERATION

Aaron⁶ Backus, elder son of Adonijah⁵ and Ann (Fuller) Backus, (Adonijah⁵, Samuel⁴, William³, William², William¹, p. 28), was born at Ashford, Conn., Dec. 13, 1756; he resided there until after the Revolution, working as a farmer. He enlisted in the army early in the war period, going from Ashford or Pomfret, and fought throughout the war. His son John has reported seeing his father's army discharge repeatedly in the old family trunk, but the record has been lost, and searches for confirming army records have failed.

On returning home after the war, he married Mehitable Perry, who was born Aug. 4, 1759, daughter of Samuel and Althea (Reed) Perry of Ashford. The Perry family, according to Backus family tradition, was of Irish extraction. John Perry, grandfather of Mehitable, was born in 1709, settled in Ashford, married Mehitable Moulton in 1732 (descendant of Robert Moulton, Rector of Salem Church, from England in 1629). Mehitable Backus long outlived her husband, dying at 94 years of age. The family moved to eastern New York state, probably in 1789, settling at what was known as the west or hill location of Putnam (now Putnam Station, Washington County, between Lakes George and Champlain). Somewhere about 1803, Aaron suffered a leg fracture when struck by a log in a logging bee. The fracture was set, but in the night the dressing gave way, and he bled to death, leaving his widow and the following children:

1. Anna⁷, b. presumably in Connecticut sometime in the 1780's; m. --- Butterfield. Their children:
 - a. Mehitable Butterfield⁸.

Rev. Azel⁶ Backus, elder son of Jabez and Deborah (Fanning) Backus, (Jabez⁵, Jabez⁴, Nathaniel³, William², William¹, p. 37), was born at Norwich Oct. 13, 1765, and died Dec. 26, 1816. On Feb. 7, 1791, he married Melicent (or Millicent) Deming of Wethersfield, born Jan. 17, 1766, died Oct. 23, 1853, daughter of Josiah and Lois (Riley) Deming. Frances Caulkins notes that his father died when Azel was a youth, leaving him a farm which, he said, "I wisely exchanged for an education in college." At 17 years of age he lived for a time with his distinguished uncle, Rev. Charles Backus of Somers, Conn. He was graduated from Yale in 1787, A. M., and later was made a Doctor of Divinity. The National Cyclopaedia of American Biography describes him as "a man of remarkable piety and learning, a zealous minister of the gospel....a man of extraordinary diligence and greatly endeared.....In him were conspicuous the highest benevolence toward his fellow-men, uncorrupted integrity and uncompromising truth." He began his ministry at Bethlehem, Conn., Congregational Church in April, 1791. In October, 1812, he became the first president of Hamilton College at Clinton, N. Y., remaining there till his death. Caulkins notes that he was a man of considerable corpulence, weighing about 350 pounds, and "entirely filling" a one-horse chaise. John⁶ Backus, second son of John⁵ and Jerusha (Baker) Backus, (John⁵, John⁴, Timothy³, Stephen², William¹, p. 39), was born in 1772, probably at Pine Plains, N. Y., lived at Groton, Granville, and South Livonia, N. Y., and died in 1862. He married 1) about 1793, Betsey Day, who bore him six children; and 2) Hannah Fuller, who bore eight children, dying at South Livonia, 1845; he then married 3) Philena (Stebbins) Richardson, a widow, who bore him one son. Unfortunately the family data are sadly incomplete, so that only two of his children are identified:

- A. Born of Polly (Day) Backus -
- + 1. Charles⁷, b. in 1794 or '96, and died 1862 or 1864 (see p. 67).

Rufus⁶ Backus, seventh child of John and Jerusha (Baker) Backus, (John⁵, John⁴, Timothy³, Stephen², William¹, p. 39), was born Sept. 25, 1787, lived at Granville, and later Freetown, N. Y., and died in 1864. Evidence for this comes from the Lineage Books of the D. A. R. (93), other personal family records (36, 63), and the following sequential points: Rufus, born in 1787, married Betsey Spicer, having one son, Jay Spicer⁷, carrying his mother's maiden name; also a grandson Truman Jay⁸. In conflict with this, Virkus, in his Abridged Compendium of American Genealogy, shows Jay Spicer Backus, born in 1810, as the son of Rev. Isaac Backus, who died in 1806, the dates obviously inconsistent. The record of Isaac contains no reference to a son Jay Spicer, or to a Rufus; furthermore a review of the families of Isaac's sons, Nathan, Isaac, Louis, and Simon, likewise includes no listing of Rufus or Jay Spicer. In the judgment of this writer, Rufus was not descended from Isaac, but from John⁵ and Jerusha, as given above. In 1808, Rufus married Betsey Spicer, who was born in 1790, and died in 1881. Their children:

- + 1. Jay Spicer, b. in 1810, d. in 1879 (see p. 67).
2. Clinton⁷, b. 1812, d. 1876; m. Joanna Richardson, who d. 1907; one daughter, Edwina, who married a Harpending.

Stephen⁶ Backus, son of Joseph and Olive (Parks) Backus, (Joseph⁵, John⁴, Timothy³, Stephen², William¹, p. 39), was born Dec. 25, 1786, probably in Dutchess County, N.Y., moved to Elgin County, Ontario, living on Lake Shore Road, Wallacestown; he died there Nov. 4, 1865. Other family records show him

He married in Canada, March 25, 1811 (26), Anne Storey (or Story), born 1791 in County Tyrone, Ireland; she died Apr. 15, 1857. An interesting account in a local Canadian newspaper of Sept. 1946, titled "Stately Old Homes along Historic Road - Dunwich Township Has Noteworthy Examples of Early Architecture", included descriptions of homesteads of Stephen Backus and his son Andrew, mentioning the sturdy, generous construction, walnut woodwork, and other details (26). Stephen's house was built about 1844, Andrew's about 1849.

Y., between Lakes George and Champlain. He fought in the War of 1812, and took over the farm property, as the eldest surviving son. In 1817 or '18 he married Electa Congdon, born March 1, 1803, daughter of David and Susannah (Barnes) Congdon of Ft. Ann, N. Y. The Congdons, according to family tradition, were of Dutch descent, originally of New Amsterdam. In 1846, John was recorded as a town supervisor, and as being an active supporter of the local Freewill Baptist Church. In the 1835 census of Putnam, he was listed as owning 50 acres of land, 22 cattle, 3 horses, 39 sheep, 6 hogs, 20 yards of fulled cloth (domestic), and 40 yards of flannel and other woolen cloth. When the Putnam Academy was built in 1854 at a cost of a thousand dollars, he contributed a fifty dollar share. In 1866, John and Electa moved, along with their youngest son, Jairus, to Owatonna, Minn., where they settled on a farm, but retired to live in town a year or so later. The old yellow brick farm home still stands, some four miles west of Owatonna. John died Nov. 1, 1878, Electa following him Nov. 18, 1884. They were buried along with other members of the family in Forest Hills Cemetery, Owatonna. Their children, all born in Putnam, N. Y.:

EIGHTH GENERATION

John⁸ Backus, Jr., Sixth child of John, Sr.⁷, and Electa (Congdon) Backus, (John⁷, Aaron⁶, Adonijah⁵, Samuel⁴, William³, William², William¹, p. 56), was born at Putnam, N.Y., June 12, 1827. As a young farmer of restless nature, he decided to try new regions farther west. On May 15, 1850, he received title to about 120 acres of land from his father, previously purchased by John, Sr., on May 4, 1848. Whether transfer was by sale or gift is not known. The land was in Sections 20 and 21, Fountain Prairie Twp., Wisconsin, near the present town of Fall River. Within a decade he moved on to Osage, Iowa, and still later to a farm in Pilot Rock Twp., Cherokee, Ia. His more advanced years, after the loss of his wife, he spent in the home of his son Aaron; he died in Winner, S. D., Sept. 5, 1912, was buried in Winner Cemetery. On Apr. 23, 1845, he married Achsah Hurlbert, family tradition telling us that they ran away from home to escape the stern discipline of his father, a Baptist deacon. Manson Franklin⁸ Backus, second child of Clinton Theron and Harriet N. (Groesbeck) Backus, (Clinton⁷, John⁶, John⁵, John⁴, Timothy³, Stephen², William¹, p. 67), was born at So. Livonia, N.Y., May 11, 1853. After graduating from Oakwood Seminary (Society of Friends) in 1871, he entered the Central N.Y. Conference Seminary (Methodist) at Cazenovia. He considered taking a college course, but decided against this, and at nineteen began work as a clerk in the First National Bank of Union Springs, N.Y.; on April 22, 1873, he married Emma Cornelia Yawger, two children coming from that union. In 1875 he became cashier of the bank, and also manager of the Cayuga Plaster Company, a successful gypsum plant. He served as Postmaster of Union Springs from 1881 to 1885. He lost his wife through death on June 8, 1884, and two years later, on Oct. 20, 1886, married Lue Adams of Kings Ferry, N.Y. She died in February, 1901, and in June, 1902, he again married, this time to Elise Piutti of Stotternheim, Germany. She died in October, 1927.

Late in 1887, while looking about for further opportunities for advancement, he was persuaded by a banker friend, Charles O'Brien, cashier and manager of the First National Bank of Auburn, to consider a position of some responsibility in that concern. After consultation with his father, the two of them made a heavy investment in the Auburn bank, and Manson was elected president. Immediately thereafter, and before Manson could assume his duties or make a detailed check of the bank's financial status, his friend O'Brien absconded to Europe, leaving only a shell of the dollar structure of the concern, having depleted the holdings through reckless practices and personal irregularities. Manson and his father sacrificed heavily to repay the bank creditors, and the experience was a bitter one. Neal Knight, the personal biographer of Manson Backus (129), records that "such an error was never made again by Manson."

His business experience having shown him the advantages of expert legal knowledge, he obtained the necessary law texts, studied in his free time, and succeeded in passing the state bar examination in 1889. He then looked elsewhere for a chance to recoup himself, and became interested in the far west. He joined a friend, Edward Graves, in organizing the Washington National Bank of Seattle, with Graves as president, Backus cashier. On June 6, 1889, while still in the east, they had word of destruction of the entire business section of Seattle by fire. On July 16 they reached the city, and set about the task of arranging quarters for the new bank. For a time, Manson operated essentially alone, and from a single room in the reviving city. The bank greatly prospered, and in 1900 he became its president. In 1906 a consolidation was negotiated, with formation of the National Bank of Commerce, of which he was president until a few years before his death. His banking interests spread into other areas; he became founder of a banking house at Bellingham, one of the founders of the Seattle Clearing House, president of that organization for several years, and also found time for contribution to the field of public utilities. His broad human interest took him into active participation in state and city educational, cultural, and civic activities. He won high respect and many public honors. His death came in February, 1935.

NINTH GENERATION

Aaron⁹ Backus, second child of John, Jr., and Achsah (Hurlbert) Backus, (John⁸, John⁷, Aaron⁶, Adonijah⁵, Samuel⁴, William³, William², William¹, p. 69), was born in Fountain Prairie Twp., Columbia County, Wis., on Feb. 9, 1850. A few years later the family moved to Osage, then to Cherokee, Iowa, where he grew to manhood and began farming like his forefathers. For a season or more, he worked as a teamster in the construction of the Union Pacific. In 1885, hoping for broader horizons in new country, he moved his family to eastern South Dakota, taking a quarter-section tree claim near what is now the town of Geddes. For a few years the nearest trading post was White Lake, 35 miles away. Hard times, drought, and winter blizzards made a rugged life, but did allow periods of quiet reading by the kitchen stove after the chores were done on cold winter days; he had received only a high school education, but was a lifelong assiduous reader, and joined his school teacher wife in urging his children to a good education. In 1909, after a few years of better farm crops, the family moved farther west, to Tripp County, to enable one of the sons to take a claim on newly-opened Indian reservation land. Aaron became a carpenter, continuing at this work until seventy-two years of age. He was a Justice of the Peace for several years. He was an ardent Mason, Master of his home lodge, a disciple of Teddy Roosevelt, and loyal to his friends. He abominated two things, - debts and whiskey, rating Democrats in a slightly milder category. He died at home, in Winner, S. D., on March 28, 1932, of congestive heart failure, with burial in the Winner Cemetery.

On Nov. 26, 1880, in the Pilot Rock Church, Cherokee, he married a young schoolmaam, Emily Maria Warburton, who had been impressed by his knowledge of the bible. She was born March 12, 1860, on a farm near Campbellsville, Sullivan County, Pa., daughter of James and Sarah (Bedford) Warburton, who as children had emigrated with their parents from the village of Warburton (near Chester) in England. Energetic, clear in mind and purpose, her interest in church work was second only to her devotion to her family. After a very active life, she died of hypertension and paralysis on Sept. 7, 1930. Their children:

After an 8th grade education he farmed for a time, then worked in hardware and general stores, eventually becoming a partner in a hardware concern. During World War I he served with the 89th Division, was heavily gassed in the final weeks of fighting, and never regained his health thereafter. He died at Winner, S.D., on May 3, 1963, of hypertension and hemiplegia, and was buried with his one grandfather, his parents, and his first child.

HISTORY OF FRANCIS BACKUS AND HIS DESCENDANTS

In the account of William Backus of Saybrook (p. 4), reference was made to Banks' Topographical Dictionary (Ref. no. 67), which shows Francis and William Backus as emigrating together from England to America in early colonial times. No other clear word of this Francis Backus has been found. The fact that his name was listed above William's suggests that he was older than William. Was he a brother, father, cousin, or uncle of William? Or a more distant relative? Time may disclose the answer. For the present, we can only guess. However it may be of interest to mention family traditions which may relate to the problem, even though they are conflicting.

The biographer of Manson F. Backus (see p. 83), in his description of Manson's family roots (129), mentions William, an emigrant from Norwich, England, and adds "Tradition says that he was one of three brothers landing at or near Cape Cod, Massachusetts; that one of these brothers was killed by Indians, another settled in Maine, and the third, William, found his way to Saybrook, Connecticut. This story.....seemingly was questioned in part by Manson Backus". Three private correspondents of the present writer have referred to the same tradition, but with variations, summed up as follows: (1) "...two brothers.....one settling in Connecticut and the other in Nantucket where his entire family including himself was massacred, except for two sons, one dying unmarried and the other carrying on the family line." (2) ".....three Backus brothers came to America, to.....Saybrook, ConnecticutEventually they separated, one going to New York State, one to Philadelphia area, and one to Cape Cod and Nantucket." (3) "...brothers came from England....One fell overboard near Cape Cod, and another was killed by the Indians shortly after they landed."

Note that of these accounts, one alludes to settlement in Maine, and three speak of Cape Cod or the Nantucket area. As will be shown in the following pages, a Backus family did settle in Maine in early years, later moving to the Sandwich-Nantucket-Barnstable region of Massachusetts. Furthermore the first member of that line is a Francis Backus, of clear record historically, and of such age as to suggest that he may well have been a son of the immigrant Francis mentioned by Banks. He could hardly have been the same person as that Francis, in view of the time relations involved. Further, Francis was not a common name, making a relationship between the two individuals of the same name seem more than likely. The children of William Backus of Saybrook appear to be clearly recorded, with no Francis mentioned; and finally, no reference is found to any other Backus family group in New England in colonial times. At the risk, therefore, of being charged with serious genealogical romancing, the present writer elects to propose that Francis Backus, the English immigrant of 1637 or thereabouts, companion of William of Saybrook, be considered as the patriarch of this second line of New England Backuses. It is hoped that by so doing, others will be stimulated to prove or disprove the theory.

SECOND GENERATION

Let us proceed then to Francis² Backus (also recorded as Backhouse), here assumed to be the son of Francis¹. The Genealogical Dictionary of Maine and New Hampshire (132) reports that a Francis Backus "appeared at Ogunquit, Wells", Maine, in 1671. He settled at Wells, moved to Saco about 1681, and was a partner with John Hill of Saco in building a sawmill on "Backus Creek" in 1686. In 1688 he was a Selectman of Saco (168). On outbreak of an Indian uprising, he escaped to Plymouth, but had returned to Saco by 1702. He married 1) in Saco, 1672, Rebecca, daughter of John Cross; on the death of the latter in 1676, his "Son-in-law, Francis Backus gave a receipt....for his wife's portion" (164). Later, Francis married 2) Dorcas, daughter of Deacon Richard Seeley, and widow of James Gibbons. No record is found of the time or place of death of Francis Backus. His children were borne, some by his first wife, some by the second. As listed in the Genealogical Dictionary (132), though apparently not in chronological order, they were:

- Elizabeth³, who m. Feb. 23, 1698/9, Ebenezer Wing of Sandwich, who was b. Jan. 5, 1671/2, and d. Dec. 2, 1738.
- + Nathaniel³, who m. Remember Nye, and d. Oct. 2, 1727 (see Daniel below, also Nathaniel, this page).
- Joshua², who a. childless, before 1706. Nathaniel administered his estate.
- Hannah³, who m. Feb. 23, 1698/9, Benjamin Nye. (See Nye Genealogy).
- Daniel³, b. 1691; a minor on the death of his father, his brother-in-law Ebenezer Wing was appointed guardian on Daniel's request. Daniel was living in Dartmouth as late as 1719, at which time he released to his brother Nathaniel certain property inherited from his father.
- Samuel³, who was a foot-soldier in Maine in 1690.

THIRD GENERATION

Nathaniel³ Backus, (Francis², Francis¹?), was born, probably in Saco, Maine, sometime about 1681. He appears to have moved to Sandwich, Mass., by the early 1700's, and on Dec. 29, 1709, married Remember Nye, who was born Feb. 28, 1680/7, daughter of Nathan and Mary Nye of Sandwich. In 1719, Nathaniel was recorded in Deeds of York County, Maine, as purchasing from his brother Daniel of Dartmouth, and from his brother-in-law Ebenezer Wing of Sandwich, certain land formerly held by his father Francis Backus, "late of Saco". Nathaniel died Oct. 2, 1727, leaving a will which mentioned land at Saco as well as his house, land, and other property at Sandwich. His wife Remember and his brother-in-law Ebenezer were designated as his administrators. On Sept. 29, 1733, his widow, Remember, published her intention of marriage to Joseph Blish of Barnstable. The children of Nathaniel and Remember (Nye) Backus were:

- + 1. Joshua⁴, b. June 25, 1710; m. Nov. 1734, Sarah Crocker (see p. 118).
- 2. Dorcas⁴, b. Nov. 28, 1712, d. July 5, 1748; m. 1) May 10, 1733, Nicholas Baker, b. Nov. 6, 1711, d. Jan. 1739/40, s. of Nathaniel Baker (Barnstable Vital Records). They had three children. Dorcas m. 2) Sept. 3, 1745, James Lewis, Sr., and had one daughter, baptized June 7, 1747.

FOURTH GENERATION

Joshua⁴ Backus, eldest son of Nathaniel³ and Remember (Nye) Backus, (Nathaniel³, Francis², Francis^{1?}), was born in Sandwich, Mass., June 25, 1710, lived in Sandwich, and later at Lee, Berkshire Co., Mass. On Nov. 14(?), 1734, he married Sarah Crocker, who was born about 1712, daughter of Samuel and Sarah (Parker) Crocker of Barnstable. By will of his father, proved May 2, 1729, he and his brother Ichabod inherited the house and lands at Sandwich on reaching age 21. Children of Joshua and Sarah (Crocker) Backus:

Nathan⁴ Backus, second son of Nathaniel³ and Remember (Nye) Backus, (Nathaniel³, Francis², Francis^{1?}), was born at Sandwich, Mass., baptized at the Barnstable West Parish Church, Apr. 19, 1730. He was living in 1741, when he inherited thirty pounds through the will of his father, proved May 2, 1729. It is believed that he married (141), and was the father of Benjamin⁵ Backus, eldest child of Joshua⁴ and Sarah (Crocker) Backus, (Joshua⁴, Nathaniel³, Francis², Francis^{1?}), was born at Sandwich, Mass., Nov. 15, 1735, moved to Lee, Berkshire Co., Mass., and died there of cancer on Apr. 18, 1795. On Dec. 9, 1762, at Sandwich, he married Lydia Fish, daughter of Nathaniel and Abigail(?) Fish of Sandwich. Their children (order and dates uncertain):

Just when he and his brothers moved to western Massachusetts is not known. Children of Seth and Mary (Delap) Backus:

Nathaniel⁵ Backus, third son of Joshua⁴ and Sarah (Crocker) Backus, (Joshua⁴, Nathaniel³, Francis², Francis¹?, p. 118), was born at Sandwich, Mass., about 1748, and baptized March 27, 1748. Along with his brothers and their families, he moved to Lee, Mass., and died there from a falling tree on June 22, 1782. His gravestone carries a couplet: "All you that read with little care, Who walk away and leave me here, Should not forget that you will die, And be entombed as well as I." In or about 1771, he married Maria (or Morish) —; she and her five children were all recorded as baptized in the Congregational Church of Lee in 1782 and 1783. The children:

Ichabod⁵ Backus, fourth son of Joshua⁴ and Sarah (Crocker) Backus, (Joshua⁴, Nathaniel³, Francis², Francis¹?, p. 118), is recorded as born at Pittsfield,

(Lee), Berkshire Co., Mass., in 1750, and baptized July 22, 1750. Several family historians have shown Ichabod to be the son of Lebbeus⁷ and Hannah (Ford) Backus, of the line of William Backus of Saybrook (see p. 36), but it is to be noted that Ichabod is clearly recorded in the Lee Vital Records (131) as son of Joshua and Mary (Crocker) Backus, and as born in 1750, well before the marriage of Lebbeus and Hannah in Nov., 1762. To the present writer, therefore, his relationship to Lebbeus and Hannah appears untenable. He is shown as living at Pittsfield at the time of the 1790 census, but sometime later moved to Groton, Tompkins Co., N.Y., where he died; he was buried on the family farm, where his gravestone was still identifiable within recent years (48). During the Revolution, he served as a private in Capt. Jesse Bradley's Co., Col. John Brown's Regt., in 1777 (93). At Lee he was listed as hog reave (presumably a term for butcher) in 1780, '84, and '87, and as highway surveyor in 1781. On Dec. 22, 1777, he married Deliverance Hamlin (or Hamblin) of Lee, who died at Falmouth on Nov. 13, 1793. Their children, all born at Lee:

1. Deborah⁶, b. Jan. 29, 1779; m. Feb. 27, 1803, Jabez Clark, Jr.
 2. Joshua⁶, b. Apr. 16, 1781; m. Feb. 17, 1803, Sylvia Gifford, b. May 18, 1783, dau. of John and Joanna (Perry) Gifford of Lee.

Nathaniel⁵ Backus, believed (141) to have been son of Nathan⁴ Backus, who was originally of Sandwich, (Nathan⁴, Nathaniel³, Francis², Francis¹?, p. 118), was born at Falmouth, Mass., Aug. 23, 1741/2. On Oct. 16, 1762 (following intent of marriage recorded Oct. 13, 1762, he married 1) Keziah Price of Falmouth, baptized there Aug. 1, 1742, and dying at Farmington, Maine, in 1810, daughter of John and Keziah (Hatch) Price. His intent of marriage to 2) Eunice Johnson was issued Nov. 11, 1811. Butler, in his History of Farmington, states that Nathaniel moved to Farmington in the last decade of the 1700's, his father (unnamed) coming with him. Nathaniel died at Farmington in 1831. The children of Nathaniel and Keziah (Price) Backus, all baptized at the Falmouth Church on June 8, 1783, were:

Clark⁵ Backus, son of Francis⁴ and Mercy (Clark) Backus, (Francis⁴, Nathaniel³, Francis², Francis¹?, p. 118), was born at Barnstable in 1751, and died there May 14, 1831. In the Revolution he served as a private in the Regt.

of Col. Nixon, Massachusetts Line, for 2 years, and may have been the same Clark who was a private in Capt. Ebenezer Baker's Co., Col. Freeman's Reg't. which marched Oct. 4, 1777, on a secret mission to Tiverton, R. I. (138). On Feb. 20, 1773, he married Betsy Crocker, who was born in Barnstable in 1753, daughter of Ansel Crocker of Falmouth (105). Their children:

SIXTH GENERATION

Thomas L.⁶ Backus, only recorded son of Benjamin⁵ and Lydia (Fish) Backus, (Benjamin⁵, Joshua⁴, Nathaniel³, Francis², Francis¹?, p. 119), is reported to have been born in Berkshire Co., Mass., perhaps in 1785 (125), but probably earlier. Zenas⁶ Backus, fourth son of Nathaniel⁵ and Keziah (Price) Backus, (Nathaniel⁵, Nathan⁴, Nathaniel³, Francis², Francis¹?, p. 120), was born April 2, 1778, probably at Falmouth, baptized there June 8, 1783. He died Nov. 2, 1859. "As a lad of 15, came to Sandy River Twp., learned the trade of house-joiner. Later settled at Farmington. Successful farmer. Later went into trade at Backus Corner" (76). Crocker⁶ Backus, eldest child of Clark⁵ and Betsy (Crocker) Backus, (Clark⁵, Francis⁴, Nathaniel³, Francis², Francis¹?, p. 121), was born at Sandwich, Mass., May 12, 1787 (or 1782?), and died at Nantucket, Dec. 1880(?). He is listed in the 1850 census as living in Nantucket Town. He married Sally Jones, who was born Aug. 28, 1791, possibly as his second wife (163). Some records indicate that his wife was a Betsy (Crocker) Backus, but this appears erroneous; note that his first name, in accordance with the common custom of the time, suggests that his mother, rather than his wife, was a Crocker. Children of Crocker, and presumably Sally (Jones) Backus:

Ichabod⁶ Backus, second son of Clark⁵ and Betsy (Crocker) Backus, (Clark⁵, Francis⁴, Nathaniel³, Francis², Francis^{1?}, p. 121), was born, probably at Nantucket, on Jan. 9, 1791 (140) or 1790 (163). He graduated from Yale, B.A., in 1832. He became a Presbyterian minister, was installed as pastor at Bloomfield, Conn., in March, 1841, but dismissed in April, 1844 (173). He served in various churches thereafter, spent some time in Cleveland, and eventually went to Oklahoma Territory, where he died Aug. 31, 1891. He is said to have married four times: 1) Frances M. Ward, who died May 14, 1842, a few days after the birth of Frank Ward, their fourth child. Wives 2) and 3) are unnamed, and it is possible that reference to them (125) is in error, inasmuch as family records show that only five years later, in 1847, he married 4) at Chester, Ohio, Mary (Polly) Hawes, who was born at Danby, N.Y., Feb. 23, 1827. FOR YOUR ADDITIONAL NOTES

APPENDIX A: SAYBROOK, CONNECTICUT

In the early 1600's, England was restless and in ferment, - social, political, and religious. Gentlemen merchants and adventurers established England's first American colony, that of Virginia. The second colony, Massachusetts, beginning with a grant to the Plymouth Company, was settled by people in search of religious freedom. Of the large tract of land conveyed to the Plymouth Company by King James, a southern portion was later transferred to Robert, Earl of Warwick, and he in turn, on March 19, 1631/2, issued a patent or deed for lands vaguely described (68, p. 531) as lying "west from Narragansett River, a hundred and twenty miles to the sea coast; and from thence in latitude and breadth aforesaid, to the South Sea." Of the several patentees of this tract, the first named were William, Viscount Say and Seal, and Robert, Lord Brook.

On July 7, 1635, John Winthrop, the Younger, son of John Winthrop, Governor of Massachusetts, was chosen to establish a settlement on the river later called the Connecticut, with the title of Governor. The company directed him to fortify the mouth of the river, providing him with men, arms, ammunition, and 2000 pounds sterling for the project. He arrived at Boston in October, 1635, and hearing rumors that the Dutch were showing interest in the region of prospective settlement, he immediately dispatched a ship with twenty carpenters and laborers to take possession of the area. A few days later, a Dutch ship from New Netherlands appeared off the river mouth expecting to make a landing, but was dissuaded by the evidence of an armed settlement, with two cannon mounted for defense. Shortly thereafter, Mr. Winthrop arrived, bringing Lion Gardner, a skilled engineer, who was to plan and direct construction of fortifications and living quarters, and to serve as lieutenant of the fort. In 1637, serious alarm arose over raids of the Pequots, but a combined force of Mohegans under their sachem, Uncas, and of whites under Capt. John Mason, defeated them severely and so reduced them in numbers that they were no longer a threat.

The settlement became known as Saybrook, in honor of the two major patentees of the company, the name apparently first appearing in correspondence in the autumn of 1636 (169). In that same year Colonel Fenwick, another patentee of the company, visited the colony briefly; in the summer of 1639 he returned, took over management of the settlement, and organized a civil government. Hollister (117), speaking of this period, remarks that "Among the first proprietors of this town were Capt. John Mason, Thomas Tracy, Lyon Gardiner, who was commander of the fort, and Thomas Leffingwell. The Rev. Thomas Peters was the first clergyman there. Upon its early records, also, appear the names of Huntington, Baldwin, Hyde, Backus, Bliss, Whittlesey, Waterman, and Dudley."

By 1644, a separate colony of Connecticut had been organized, with settlements at New Haven, Hartford, Windsor, and Wethersfield. The members of the Saybrook Company having given up their planned transfer to America, decided to relinquish their jurisdiction over Saybrook, and directed Col. Fenwick to sell the fort and related property to the Colony of Connecticut. This was accomplished in December, 1644. Fenwick remained on as commander of the fort until 1647, when Capt. John Mason was called from Windsor to take command, releasing Fenwick to return eventually to England.

Geographically, Barber (68) describes the original site of Saybrook thus: "Saybrook Point is a peninsula, circular in form, and connected with the mainland by a narrow neck, over which the tide sometimes flows. From this place to the fort on the eastern extremity of the peninsula, the distance is about one mile.....The land on the Point was laid out with care, as it was expected to become the residence of great men, and the center of great business and wealth." But such was not to be the case. The original fort was constructed of wood, on the point of Tomb Hill. After destruction by fire in 1647, the fort was rebuilt farther north, on New-fort Hill. With the passage of time, Saybrook Point declined in importance as the adjoining mainland area was developed. The original tract of Saybrook embraced a considerable area east of the river, including Old Lyme.

APPENDIX B: NORWICH, CONNECTICUT

Who may have first proposed a settlement at Norwich is not known. Frances Caulkins gives first credit to Capt. John Mason, commander of the fort at Saybrook, commenting, "When his previous adventures, his long familiarity with Uncas, and his frequent explorations of the Indian country, are considered, together with his influence in the Colony, there can be no hesitation in affirming that he was the prime mover and ruling spirit of the undertaking." At any rate, the impetus clearly came from the Saybrook inhabitants who, finding the coastal area less suitable for farming than they had expected, looked about for greener fields. The neighboring Mohegans had proved generally friendly, enabling the settlers to move about the region and, no doubt, to whet their appetite for a more promising area. An opportunity to improve their lot, perhaps unrecognized at first, came indirectly in 1657. The Mohegans were attacked from the east by their traditional enemies, the Narragansetts, who besieged Chief Uncas and his followers in their home camp near the Thames River (20 or so miles northeast of Saybrook), until the latter were desperate for provisions. Uncas managed to get word to Saybrook regarding the situation and asked for help, stressing the danger to the whites if the Narragansetts should win the struggle. Trumbull (177) describes the response:

"Upon this intelligence, one Thomas Leffingwell, an ensign at Saybrook, an enterprising, bold man, loaded a canoe with beef, corn and pease, and under cover of night, paddled from Saybrook into the Thames, and had the address to get the whole into the fort. The enemy soon perceiving that Uncas was relieved, raised the siege. For this service, Uncas gave Leffingwell a deed of great part, if not the whole town of Norwich. In June, 1659, Uncas and his two sons, Owaneke and Attawanhood, by a more formal deed, made over to said Leffingwell, John Mason, Esq., the Rev. James Fitch and others, consisting of thirty-five proprietors, the whole of Norwich, which is about nine miles square. The company at this time gave Uncas and his sons about seventy pounds, as a further compensation, for so large and fine a tract." A deed of cession of the land was signed by Uncas and his brother Wawequaw on August 15, 1659. An application to the General Court for establishment of a new settlement having been granted in the May session of the Court, the families involved (all but a very few being from Saybrook) set to work to prepare for the move. A small band of men went to the new site, erected a house, and spent the winter there as evidence of their possession of the land. The rest of the party of migrants moved to the new location in the spring of 1660. Thirty-five proprietors, with their families, made up the group.

The new town, first called Mohegan, was soon renamed Norwich. Just how this came about is uncertain. John W. Stedman states in "The Norwich Jubilee (Two Hundredth Anniversary of Settlement of the Town, 1859)": "The original records of Saybrook have disappeared, and almost every clue is lost to the circumstances which attended the removal of the colony to the east. The earliest entry on the public records of Norwich is dated December 11th, 1660.

NORWICH HOME LOTS, 1660

Scale: 1 inch = about $\frac{1}{4}$ mile.

Adapted from:
 Backus, Mary E. N.: New England Ancestry
 of Dana Converse Backus.
 Caulkins, Frances: History of Norwich, Conn.

The name of Norwich first appears on the colony books at Hartford, so far as I am informed, in October, 1661." Unconfirmed tradition has it that William Backus, as the eldest in the band of settlers, was given the honor of naming the town after his birthplace in England.

The site of the settlement was near the head of the Thames River, which is formed by the junction of the Shetucket and Yantic Rivers. The latter stream widens into a cove just below a waterfall shortly above its entrance into the Thames, with fertile valley land along its northeast bank. It was here that the original settlement began. (For a detailed account of Norwich, its people, geographic features, and general history, see Frances Caulkins' interesting History of Norwich.)

Capt. John Mason and Rev. James Fitch were considered the leaders of the community, and in the plan of the town lots were given favored plots of several acres each, situated on the town green. A main street ran through the town, paralleling the Yantic. On the river southeast of the lot of Rev. Fitch and of the Town Green, lay the lot of John Olmstead, and beyond him, that of William Backus, Sr., six acres in extent. This property descended to his son Stephen in 1661, on William's death, and was later sold to the Leffingwells. The house was incorporated in what was long known as the Leffingwell Inn.

The home lot of William Backus, Jr., lay further northwest, up the river, between the lots of Hugh Calkins and Richard Edgerton, probably about at the point where the Connecticut Turnpike crosses the river today. (The lot of William, Jr., is omitted in Frances Caulkins' map, but is shown in that of Mary E. N. Backus, ref. 49).

APPENDIX C: WINDHAM, CONNECTICUT

The itch to move, to strike out for new areas, revealed itself early among the New England colonists. Norwich had little more than become settled before some of its people began looking for newer fields. Barber (68) notes that "In February, 1675, Joshua, son of Uncas, the Mohegan sachem, by his last will gave unto Capt. John Mason, James Fitch and fourteen others, commonly called Joshua's legatees, the tract containing the town of Windham, which originally included the present towns of Mansfield and Canterbury." In 1678, Joshua's will was allowed by the Connecticut General Court, including the item by which Joseph granted the tract of land to the legatees involved. The legatees, one of whom was William Backus, Jr.², met on two or more occasions, signed a joint agreement for development of the area, and appointed a committee of four, including William Backus, to lay out the tract. Roads were planned, lots surveyed. Assignment of the locations was by lot, with results announced in May, 1686. Sites for three villages were chosen, the first being the "Hither-place", now old Windham Village; second, the "Ponde-place" now Mansfield Center; and the third, the area of Willemantic.

Larned, in her History of Windham County states that William Backus, like many of the other original legatees, did not develop his share of the property, but resigned his rights to two of his sons. From other records we find that these were William³ and John³. "In 1691 they had broken up the land, built houses and established themselves in the Hither-place - on what is now the west side of old Windham Street....the young Backus brothers sold their accommodations in Norwich....were unmarried." Later in 1691, eleven male residents of the settlement, including William and John Backus, requested permission to organize a township; this was officially granted in 1693.

APPENDIX D: ALLIED FAMILIES

THE JOHN CHARLES FAMILY: John Charles, first listed as living at Charlestown, Mass., moved to New Haven, Conn., in 1636, and was there one of the signers of the "Fundamental Agreement" in June, 1639. Jacobus notes that he "evidently was licensed early to sell wine", was on one or more occasions a master of a sailing vessel, and seems to have been prone to litigation, suffering from various charges brought by his neighbors. He died at Branford in 1673, his wife, perhaps a sister of John Moss, apparently having died before him. He left an estate of 91 pounds, 2 shillings to his heirs, his children being: Mary, who m. John Tichenor; a daughter who m. John Peat; Delivered, who m. Jonathan Rose; Sarah, who m. William Backus, Jr.; and John, Jr.
References: 168; 183.

THE WILLIAM PRATT FAMILY: Lieut. William Pratt, an English emigrant, is "supposed to have come with Rev. Thomas Hooker to Newtown (now Cambridge), Mass., in 1633, married Elizabeth Clark, daughter of John Clark, first of Say-Brook, and afterwards of Milford." In 1636, a company of people left Newtown under the leadership of Thomas Hooker to establish a new settlement at Hartford; William Pratt was one of the group, and so became an original proprietor of the town. The first child, Elizabeth, (later the second wife of William Backus, Jr.), was born on Feb. 1, 1642, followed by John on Feb. 20, 1645. The family then moved to Saybrook, with further children: Joseph, Sarah, William, Samuel, Lydia, and Nathaniel. William Pratt was made a lieutenant (presumably of the local train-band or militia) in 1661, and a representative to Hartford in 1666, serving through to the session of May, 1673.; records show his decease that same year.
References: 168; 79.

THE JOHN CLARK FAMILY: John Clark, recorded as living at Newton (now Cambridge), Mass., in 1632, was made a freeman that same year. He joined the contingent of people who settled Hartford in 1636, becoming an original proprietor. In the 1640's he moved to Saybrook, and finally settled in Milford, where he died in 1673/4. He was a man of some prominence in the community, serving at various times as Deputy for Saybrook at the General Court, member of the war committee of Saybrook, and Commissioner for the town. His will mentions his son John, his daughter Elizabeth, wife of Lt. William Pratt, and Sarah, who m. one of the Huntingtons.

THE GERARD SPENCER FAMILY: Jacobus documents Gerard Spencer as one of four brothers of colonial record; he was born in England in 1614, and died at Haddam, Conn., in 1685. That he was father of Sarah, wife of Stephen Backus, is proved "by an undated deed in Haddam Deeds (1:49) given by 'Steuens Beckas with my wife Sarah of Norwich' to Daniel Brainerd of Haddam of one acre 'that fell to us by portion of the estate of our father Garrard Spencer.'"

THE JONATHAN ROYCE FAMILY: Jonathan Royce, a resident of Norwich, Conn., died in 1690. He was a son of Robert and Mary (Sims) Royce, originally of County Somerset, England, who resided in Stratford and London, Conn. He first married about 1656, Mary, daughter of Humphrey Spinning; she died in 1658, apparently soon after birth of a daughter, Mary, who married John Beach, and later John Atwater. Jonathan married second, June, 1660, Deborah, daughter of Hugh and Ann Calkins, born March 18, 1645, at Gloucester, Mass. She bore Elizabeth, born January, 1661, who married William Backus³ in 1681, and died March 28, 1687/8. Larned, in her History of Windham County mentions that Jonathan Royce, son of Jonathan, Sr., settled in the section of Windham known as the "Pond-place" in 1692, and was appointed surveyor. He was on the roll of "admitted and approved inhabitants" of Windham County, was active in locating and building a meeting-house. Later, he and others were given a patent as proprietors of the township of Mansfield.

THE EDWARD BENTON FAMILY: Jacobus has found records of Edward Benton of Epping, Co. Sussex, England, buried in Sept., 1605, who married Joan Halloway on May 10, 1563. Their son Andrew, baptized in December, 1565, died in 1623 or 1625, and married Mary, who bore a son Edward, baptized at Epping, Feb. 24, 1600, and died at Guilford, Conn., Oct. 28, 1680; Edward married 1) in 1626, Alice Purden, and had two children baptized at Epping, and seven others at Guilford. The eldest was Edward, baptized Jan. 27, 1638, died at Wethersfield, Conn., Feb. 1697/8; he married Mary, who died Aug. 8, 1702. (These data from Benton, Charles E.: Caleb Benton and Sarah Bishop. 1906. pp. 11 ff.)

This last-named Edward Benton came to Wethersfield as a servant of John Robbins; his inventory of estate mentions his children: Samuel, Edward, Rebecca, Mary (who married William Backus³ as his second wife), Ellen and Dorothy. Mary, the widow, was named administrator. (Manwaring's Digest, 1:537). Wethersfield Land Records, 4:51, also show confirmation of the family relationships in a deed of Dec. 2, 1698.

THE ROBERT FULLER FAMILY: According to Savage, Robert Fuller was living in Salem, Mass., by 1639, moving later to Rehoboth, where he died in 1706. His son, Jonathan, married in 1664 Elizabeth Willmarth, who was born at Braintree in 1647, daughter of Thomas and Elizabeth (Bliss) Willmarth. Their son, Nathaniel, born in Rehoboth March 1, 1675, died at Ashford, having married Ann Butterworth in 1697; she was born in 1677, Newport, R. I., and died in June, 1737. Nathaniel was one of two men appointed to lay out the town of Ashford, Conn. He and his brothers Daniel and James were recorded as original proprietors of the town. Children of Nathaniel and Ann (Butterworth) Fuller:

THE JOHN PERRY FAMILY: Capt. John Perry is recorded in Bowen's History of Woodstock (74, 8:164-5), as being the son of Obadiah and Esther (Hassell) Perry. He died at Ashford, Conn., Feb. 3, 1745/6. Originally a resident of Marlboro, Mass., he is said by Larned to have bought land on both sides of Still River, near the present site of Eastford Village, in 1711. He was elected constable at the first town meeting, 1715, was active in building a church and selecting a pastor, and listed as a proprietor of Ashford in 1718. He took an interested part in town affairs, and was made captain of the Ashford train band in October, 1722, and was described as an "efficient and courageous officer." At one time he represented his town in the General Assembly. When a conflict arose within the church, he favored more liberal church principles, and finally withdrew from the church. He married 1) in 1707, Sarah (Robinson) Ingoldsby, by whom he had Sarah, John, Jr., Esther, Thomas, Dorothy, and Hepzibah, the last about 1715; about 1728, he married 2) Bridget (Brown) Fitch, who bore him one daughter, Bridget, in 1729.

John Perry, Jr., was born at Marlboro, Mass., Apr. 26, 1709, lived at Ashford, Conn., and on Oct. 20, 1732, married Mehitable Moulton (see family below), daughter of Robert and Hannah (Groves) Moulton. Their children were John, Samuel (b. March, 1734/5), Abigail, Mehitable, Obadiah, Abigail, Ebenezer, Abijah, Ebenezer, and Elizabeth. Both John, Jr., and Mehitable (Moulton) Perry had died by December, 1762.

Robert³, baptized June 24, 1644, resided in Salem, married Mary Cook, July 17, 1672, and died in 1730/31.

THE JOHN WARBURTON FAMILY: The Warburton family of the County of Chester in western England is an ancient one, tracing its lineage back to the first Earl of Chester, a nephew of William the Conqueror. He settled at Chester, with descendants establishing an estate at a small hamlet nearby, known as Wareburgtune, named after a local Saxon saint, St. Werburgh. In time the village became Warburton, the family multiplied, and the little ancient parish church built up its records of family events, though incomplete here and there. On Dec. 2, 1797, a John Warburton was born to John and Alice Warburton, was named in baptismal records later that month; he married Ann Clark, and was listed as a laborer in the baptismal records of two of his children. In 1831 they followed relatives and neighbors to northern Pennsylvania, settling in Sullivan County, where John died in 1853, Ann in 1870. They had thirteen children, of whom eleven survived, all but one raising families. James, their second child and eldest son, born in 1828, grew to manhood on the farm; in 1852, he married Sarah Bedford, also of English birth, in 1833. In 1869, they moved to a farm near Cherokee, Iowa, where James died in 1906, Sarah in 1914. Of their fourteen children, twelve lived to adult years and had families. Their fourth child, Emily Maria Warburton, married Aaron⁹ Backus in 1880.

THE HENRICH RADABAUGH FAMILY: The first of this family in America, Henrich Radabaugh, was born in Germany, one of the many residents of the Palatine who came to Pennsylvania in the 1700's as a result of religious strife in the home country. Rupp, the historian, in his account of immigrants to Pennsylvania, 1727-1776, has the following notes regarding "Immigrant group No. 53:

Sept. 9, 1738. Palatines, in all 349, imported in the ship Glasgow, Walter Sterling, Master, from Rotterdam, last from Cowes."

The list of persons includes the name of Henrich Radabaugh, entered in the script of the ship clerk. He settled in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, and is believed to have brought with him a son Adam, born probably about 1722. Adam moved to Hardy County, Va., (now West Virginia), in 1806; his will lists several sons and daughters, one Henry, probably born about 1760, marrying Catherine Buzzard. They moved to Jackson County, Ohio, in 1811, Henry dying about 1818, Catherine about 1851, at 90 years of age, her gravestone being on a farm near Stryker, Ohio. Henry and Catherine had five sons and five daughters, of whom Jesse, the third son, later settled at Stryker. Jesse had seven sons; of these, Wilson was born Sept. 14, 1825, and died March 29, 1878. On March 25, 1855, he married Rosanna Bauman, who was born Sept. 5, 1832, dying Nov. 9, 1898. Rosanna's obituary tells of her birth at Abershuts, Germany, which family tradition places near Bingen on the Rhine. She came to America at three years of age, during a time of national strife in Germany, political pressure having brought reverses to her originally influential family. Her people settled in Greene County, Ohio. After marriage, Wilson and Rosanna moved to a farm near Stryker, and lived out their lives there. They had ten children, of whom the fourth, Charles Vinton, was born May 19, 1861; at 20 years, he struck out on his own, took a quarter-section homestead near what is now Fulton, South Dakota, dying there on May 23, 1921. On February 1, 1893, he married Cora Wright, sister of a neighbor, and a native of Columbus, Wisconsin. Her father, Lemuel Wright, was of Irish descent, her mother, Sarah Waterbury, of English ancestry. Charles and Cora (Wright) Radabaugh raised four children, three of them daughters; the second of these, Gladys Estelle, married Reno Warburton¹⁰ Backus in 1922.

INDEX OF PERSONS

All Backus family descendants included in this volume are indexed below. Each individual's name is given as completely as known, followed by the year of his birth if known (otherwise the estimated decade of his birth), then by his immediate ancestry in the Backus lineage, and the page on which his record may be found.

The order of names is determined first by alphabetical sequence, secondly by the number of the generation in which the individual was born, and lastly by his date of birth, known or estimated. Where there are many persons with the same first name, such that identification of an individual is difficult, note those with middle names or initials as well as those without; the year of birth, actual or estimated, and the names of immediate ancestors may also be of help in finding the person you want. Note that in the case of a few of the commoner names, constantly subject to slight variations (for example: Ann, Anne, Anna, Annie), all may be listed together as a group, rather than dividing them strictly by alphabetical order.

When the year of birth is estimated, rather than known, it will be indicated by a + sign, thus: 1750+.

Note also the supplemental list of late entries at end of main index.
