The Descendants
of
HENRY BUTLER
and
Rebecca Green, his Wife,

The Descendants of Henry Butler.

Henry Butler was born in New Haven, Connecticut, April 17, 1789, and died in Wyoming, Illinois, August 2, 1864. On October 2, 1806, at New Haven, Connecticut, he married Rebecca Green, who was born in New Haven, Connecticut, October 1, 1788. She died in Wyoming, Illinois, November 30, 1865. She was a descendant of Samuel Green, the noted printer of Cambridge, Mass., also descendant of Oliver, first Lord Baron St. John of Bletshoe, and also of Sir William Chester, of London and Barnet.

Henry Butler was educated at Litchfield, Connecticut, at the home of his tutor. It is a tradition that he entered Yale College, but left because of a personal altercation with one of the tutors at a ball, where the tutor's attentions to a certain young lady were openly resented by him.

In 1817 Henry Butler moved with his family to Richmond, Virginia, where they remained about fifteen years. Having there failed in business, he moved to New York, and from there in the fall of 1835, he with his wife and part of his family moved to Illinois, where he settled on a farm in Putnam, now Stark County, where he lived until his death.
