PREFACE

Of Thomas Brownell and his wife Ann, the ancestors of our family, very little is known except that they were of English descent. It is claimed that he was born in Derbyshire, England, about 1618. Was married in 1638 to Ann, his wife, whose maiden surname is unknown, and came to America in 1639. Austin in his Genealogical Dictionary of Rhode Island states that he was the son of Sir Edward or Edmund Brownell; of this we have been unable to find any proof. To substantiate the fact that Thomas Brownell was a descendant of the Brownells of Derbyshire, it has been claimed by one of his descendants, that some of their ancestors who lived in Rhode Island during the seventeenth century possessed plate upon which was engraved the Coat of Arms of the Brownells of Derbyshire, England.

That he came to this country about the time of his marriage seems very reasonable, as our earliest knowledge of him in this country, is that in 1647, he was living in Aquidneck, a settlement at the northern end of the island of Rhode Island, now known as Portsmouth. This settlement had been made nine years before this date by a little group of men and women who had been driven out of Boston, Mass., because,

Hutchinsen and Mrs. Hutchinson had seduced them into dangerous errors." There in Aquidneck they had made that famous compact of government, which is in these words: "The seventh day of the first month, 1638. We whose names are underwritten, do hereby solemnly, in the presence of Jehova. Incorporate ourselves into a bodie Politick, and, as He shall help, will submit our persons, lives and estates unto our Lord Jesus Christ, the King of Kings and Lord of Lords, and to all those perfect and most absolute laws of His, given us in His Holy Word of Truth, to be guided and judged thereby.—Exod. 24, 2-3. 2 Chron. 2-3. 2 Kings 2-17."

This compact had been signed by William Coddington, John Clark and seventeen others. Twelve of the signers were members of the Boston church, and all except two were among those who had been required to give up their arms in Boston in the previous year, on account of their adherence to the doctrines of Mrs. Hutchinson.

It was among these people, who had been driven from Massachusetts colony for their religious opinions, that he cast his lot, and we may judge somewhat of him and his character, from that circumstance.

In 1895, the compiler became interested in collecting genealogical data of the descendants of Thomas and Ann Brownell. Having been very successful in accumulating a large amount of data, and as he was in receipt of many inquiries from other members of the family, he decided to publish the results of his labor in book form for the benefit of present and future generations, which he has been able to accomplish with the assistance of Mr. Simeon Brownell, DeWittville, N. Y., who so kindly backed him in this enterprise.

Great pains have been taken to avoid errors in names or dates, but as they are liable to occur in compiling a work of this kind, the compiler would be thankful if anyone finding mistakes, no matter how trivial, would inform him, giving number of page on which they occur, so that he may be able to make proper corrections in the next volume.

We desire to express to those who have so kindly assisted us in our work of collecting data used in this book, our sincere appreciation of their services in our behalf, and wish that they may join us in the enjoyment of the fact of being able to hand down to posterity the genealogy of our ancestors, Thomas and Ann Brownell.

HISTORICAL RECORD OF THOMAS BROWNELL

THOMAS BROWNELL.

(1).

Thomas Brownell, of Derbyshire, England, born about 1619; died 1665; married about 1638, Ann, (surname unknown), and had eight children. MARY, born 1639; died January 12, 1739; married Robert Hazard. SARAH, died September 6, 1676; married Gideon Freeborn. MARTHA, born May, 1643; died February 15, 1744; married Jeremiah Wait. (2) Charles Dyer. GEORGE, born 1646; died April 20, 1718; married Susanna Pearce. WILLIAM, born 1648; died 1715; married Sarah Smiton. THOMAS, born 1650; died May 18, 1732; married Mary Pearce. ROBERT, born 1652; died July 22, 1728; married Mary, (surname unknown). ANN, born 1654; died April 2, 1747; married Joseph Wilbur.

March 18, 1647, he was one of the witnesses to the will of John Walker, of Portsmouth, R. I. On May 20, 1647, he was appointed Water Bailey. In 1655, he became Freeman. 1655-61-62-63, he was member of Court of Commissioners. April 4, 1658, he sold Thomas Lawton 35 acres of land. He was Deputy in General Assembly in 1664.

On November 6, 1665, Ann Brownell, widow and executrix of Thomas Brownell, exchanged certain lands with William Brenton, fulfilling a contract made by her husband previous to his decease.

ARTICLE BY T. FRANK BROWNELL.

About the middle of the Seventeenth century there died in England, one Thomas Wilson, described in his will as "the elder sometime citizen and clothmaker of London, but now resident at Ryecroft in the Parish of Rawmarsh and County of York." This will was dated February 25, 1657, and proved on the 14th day of February, 1658. In it, he made the following bequest: "I give to my cousin, George Brownell of London twenty pounds, to be paid him out of the rents of Ryecroft. To Mary, daughter of George Brownell ten pounds, at day of her marriage, if with her father's consent; if not, to her father. I give to my cousin, Thomas Brownell of Portsmouth, R. I., in New England, and to his children twenty pounds, to be paid either to himself, if he shall come over to receive the same or else to such person or persons in his behalf as he shall lawfully assign to receive same."

Concerning this Thomas Brownell, of whom this is the only English reference which I have met with, very little is known, save that he is the ancestor of all the Brownells in the United States, except some of recent immigration. He was born in 1619. He came from Derbyshire, England. He married in 1638, Ann, his wife whose maiden surname is unknown. It has been stated that he came to America in 1639, but I know of no authority for the statement. I have been unable to find his name in any of the lists of passengers to America in the 17th century, which has been collected and printed.

Our earliest knowledge of him after he immigrated is that, in 1647, he was living in Aquilneck, a settlement at the northern end of the island of Rhode Island, now known as Portsmouth. This settlement had been made nine years before this date by a little group of men and women who had been driven out of Boston because as was stated at the time "the opinions and revelations of Mr. Hutchinson and Mrs. Hutchinson had seduced them into dangerous errors."

There in Aquilneck, they had made that famous compact of government, which is in these words: "The seventh day of the first month, 1638. We, whose names are underwritten, do hereby solemnly in the presence of Jehovah incorporate ourselves into a bodie politick, and as He shall help will submit our persons, lives and estates unto our Lord Jesus Chirst, the King of Kings and Lord of Lords, and to all those perfect and most absolute laws of his, given us in His most holy word of truth, to be guided and judged thereby." Exod. 24: 3-4; 2 Cor. 2: 3; 2 Kings 11: 17.

This compact had been signed by William Coddington, John Clarke and seventeen others. Twelve of the signers were members of the Boston church, and all except two were among those who had been required to give up their arms in Boston in the previous year, on account of their adherence to the doctrines of Mrs. Hutchinson.

It was among these people who had been driven from Massachusetts colony for their religious opinions, that Thomas Brownell cast his lot, and we judge somewhat of him and his character from that circumstance. The earliest mention of his name in the records of Portsmouth is under date of March 10th, 1647, when he witnessed the will of John Walker of Portsmouth. He signed "with his mark." John Walker was one of the nineteen signers of the compact of March 7th, 1638 (that being "first month.") Among the old records of the Superior Court of Newport, R. I. for a term of court held in March, 1723, about seventy-six years after the date of John Walker's will, we find the depositions taken in a controversy about this John Walker's homestead. These depositions are of interest to the descendants of Thomas Brownell. They were taken in an action of trespass brought by Mary Borden, widow, grand-daughter of John Walker of Portsmouth against Gideon Freeborn of Portsmouth.

Mary Gatchell of Tiverton, widow, age seventy-seven years, testified in her deposition taken in August, 1721, that she remembered John Walker and more especially, Katherine his wife, who survived him; that Katherine when she went to the water mill of William Freeborn, she used to leave the house of said John Walker to go to said Freeborn's on the right hand, that said Walker's land, as was called, lay to the southward of the land of Robert Hazard: that said mill was southward of said Walker's land; that said Walker's land extended westward to the sea and eastward up to the common and that the White Rocks to the northward of the corner thereof; and as deponent used to go by water to said mill in a canoe, she hath often heard the people with her say, when they were against the lands butting upon the sea, that is Brownell's land, etc., and there is Goodman Walker's land, etc. She understood the land to be John Walker's by general decree.

Martha Dyer, widow, of Portsmouth, aged seventy-four years, also made a deposition. She was a daughter of Thomas Brownell, and widow of Charles Dyer of Newport, her second husband. It may be stated in passing, that her deceased husband, Charles Dyer, was a son of Mary Dyer, the Quakeress who returning to Boston after having been expelled, was hanged on Boston Commons June 1, 1660, in the Quaker persecution, and that all of the name of Brownell have therefore reason to feel more than a historic interest in that tragedy. Martha Dyer's deposition was taken August 28, 1721. She testified that she had some knowledge of the widow Walker, and where said Walker lived, which was in a house between the lands of the deponent's father's and after, of Robert Hazard, and lands of William Freeborn, said house stood on the right hand of an old path that led from Robert Hazard's house and land unto a grist mill of James Sands or William Freeborn.

FIRST ANNUAL REUNION OF THE BROWNELL FAMILY.

Robert Brownell of Little Compton, a son of Thomas Brownell "aged seventy years past" made his deposition in August, 1721. He deposed that he formerly lived in Portsmouth, had knowledge of land called John Walker's, that James Sands lived upon the lower part next the sea. He also deposed that said land lay between land of William Freeborn and land of Thomas Brownell, the deponent's father, joining northward on said Thomas Brownell's land, which after was Robert Hazard's land; that there was a water grist mill stood on the southward side of said Walker's land or near it. Soon after Phillip's War, Gideon Freeborn by two Indians erected a stone wall, etc. Deponent further says that his brother-in-law, Robert Hazard, and James Sands made an exchange of lands, etc.

I have quoted somewhat at length from the quaintly phrased evidence in this old land case, because it shows with some exactness where Thomas Brownell's farm was, and who was his nearest neighbors. It shows to one familiar with the locality or any one examining a map of Rhode Island, that his farm was on the western side of the northwestern end of Rhode Island; that it extended down to the water and looked out on Narragansett Bay, probably not far from where now is situated the Old Coal mine; that his next neighbor on the south was John Walker, whose will he witnessed; and next south of John Walker lived William Freeborn, whose son Gideon—above mentioned as building a wall "by two Indians"—married June 1st, 1658, Sarah Brownell, Thomas Brownell's second daughter. The Robert Hazard who afterwards owned the Brownell land was a son of Thomas Hazard and a son-in-law of Thomas Brownell, having married Mary Brownell, who was Thomas Brownell's eldest daughter.

I have no earlier reference to Thomas Brownell than the date of 1647, when he acted as a witness to John Walker's will. The next reference to him in the Rhode Island records is that, on May 20, 1647, he became "water bailey." I have been unable to find out the duties and functions of this office. He was six times elected Commissioner or Deputy: in May and June, 1655; May, 1661; October, 1662; May, 1663; and May, 1664.

He became Freeman of Portsmouth in 1655. On April 4, 1658, he sold to one Thomas Lawton thirty-five acres of land. On April 17, 1657, Casanaquant, Chief Sachem of the Narragansett, in consideration of "gifts of value received" and one hundred pounds, deeded the island Quononquot, opposite Newport—now known as Conanicut—to William Coddington and Benedict Arnold, Sen.—both of Newport—"for themselves and such others of the free inhabitants of Rhode Island and others of their friends as are in covenant with them," by writings bearing date March 10, 1657 or 1658. The grantor agreed at his own charge to remove all Indians and clear them off from the island.

The agreement of March 10, 1657 or 1658, above referred to, was signed by Governor Coddington, Robert Hazard, John Greene, Jr., of Warwick, and sixty and more others. One of its many provisions for the allotment among the purchasers of land so bought, provided as follows: "Thomas Brownell (and many others mentioned by name) shall each of them pay one sixty-seventh part of the whole charge, and shall receive each of them one sixty-seventh part of the promised premises." Among the many signatures to this agreement is that of Thomas Brown, signed "by his mark." As no Thomas Brown is mentioned in the body of the instrument, I have no doubt that this signature is that of Thomas Brownell. We do not know the exact date of Thomas Brownell's death, or what provisions he made in his will. On November 6, 1665, Ann Brownell, his widow and executrix, exchanged certain lands with William Brenton, fulfilling a contract made by her husband previous to his death. We only know that he died between May, 1664, when he was elected Deputy, and November 6, 1665, when this exchange was made by his widow. I have now given all that is known of our ancient ancestor. The story is a very short one. I trust further research may give us much further information, not only of him and his life in Portsmouth, but of his relatives and ancestry in England.

MARY BROWNELL HAZARD.

Mary Brownell, daughter of Thomas and Ann Brownell, born 1639; died January 12, 1739; married Robert Hazard, son of Thomas and Martha Hazard, born 1635; died 1710, and had nine children. THOMAS, born 1660; died November, 1746; married Susanna (surname unknown). GEORGE, died 1743; married Penelope Wilbur. STEPHEN, died September 29, 1727; married Elizabeth Helme. MARTHA, died 1753; married Thomas Wlicox. A daughter, (given name unknown); married Edward Wilcox. ROBERT, died 1718; married Amey (surname unknown). JEREMIAH, born March 25, 1675; died February 2, 1768; married Sarah Smith. MARY, born 1676; died 1722; married John Robinson. HANNAH, married Jeffery Champlin.

In 1655, Robert Hazard, husband of Mary Brownell, became a Freeman. On January 2, 1658, he sold John Roome of Portsmouth all his interest in Conanicut and Dutch Islands (1-300 part). He and his wife sold James Sands eight acres of land March 13, 1659. He was a member of Court of Commissioners in 1662-70. He bought twenty-five acres of land of Abel Potter March 1, 1663. He was a Deputy in General Assembly in 1664-65-67-70-71. On October 31, 1667, the court of Plymouth ordered, in reference to a controversy between the English and Indians about pounds in Dartmouth, that in case Robert Hazard of Rhode Island, might be procured he should run the line, etc. He was a Juryman in 1670-71. In 1671, he bought five hundred acres of land in Kings Town of the Pellaquanscott purchasers. On November 24, 1671, he sold Gideon Freeborn for eighteen pounds two-thirds of ten acres of land in Narragansett, having sold the other third to George Brownell.

On March 13, 1676, he and three others of Portsmouth were a committee who were ordered by Assembly to appoint their own men as keepers of Indians above twelve years of age (in custody of several inhabitants), that the Indians should be so secured as that they might be hindered from doing damage to the inhabitants in this juncture of time, etc. The Indians were to have sufficient keepers in company with them by day, and were to be locked up at night in a sufficient place of security. Any master offending was to pay a fine of five pounds.

On April 4, 1676, Robert Hazard was on a committee to propose to be four boats with five or six men in each. At same date, he and three others were empowered to take the exact account of all inhabitable boats for the colony's defence "for the present," and there were itants on the island—English, Negroes and Indians, and make a list of the same; also to take account how all persons were provided with corn, guns, powder, shot and lead. A barrel of powder was put in charge of himself and three others, and two great guns in the yard of late deceased William Brenton were to be pressed for country's service, carried to Portsmouth, and placed one in the ferry neck and one near the house of John Borden. They were to cause said guns to be set on carriages and fitted for service.

On April 11, 1676, he and others were appointed as commissioners to take care and order the several watches and wards on this island; and appoint the places. In 1680, he was taxed one pound and five shilling. On January 6, 1686, he signed in full consent a deed given by his nephew Edward Wilcox of Westerly to Isaac Lawton of Portsmouth of sixty acres of land, buildings, etc., in Portsmouth. On September 6, 1687, he was taxed in Kings Town, eleven shillings and seven pence.

On January 14, 1693, he deeded son Stephen for love, etc., certain land at Point Judith Neck. (He called himself late of Portsmouth, now of Kings Town). On May 2, 1698, he deeded son Jeremiah for love, etc., right in two hundred acres of land at Tiverton. On December 9, 1710, he deeded son Robert for three hundred pounds land "where I now dwell," one hundred acres with housing, orchard, etc. On January 29, 1734, Mary Brownell Hazard had a legacy from will of her sister, Martha Dyer, of a third of her wearing apparel.

In 1739, her estate was divided by agreement of her heirs, as appears by deposition of Stephen Hull. The deponent stated that some time in January or February he was at the house where Robert Hazard, son of Robert, now lives; there were several people gathered, it being after the death of Mary Brownell Hazard, widow, and they were about dividing her estate. The persons concerned in the division were Thomas, George and Stephen Hazard, Sarah Watson, and Stephen Champlin all of South Kings Town; Jeremiah Hazard, Martha Wilcox and Jeffery Hazard all of North Kings Town; and Stephen Wilcox of Charlestown. It was debated whether they should divide the estate without proving the will of said Mary Brownell Hazard. Thomas Hazard said he was very free to do it either way, and they all agreed the estate should be divided without proving the will. Robert Wilcox deposed that in said will, which was read, half of said Mary's estate within doors was given Martha Wilcox, and that the executor of the will was Thomas Hazard. Robert Hazard deposed that he read the will to Martha Wilcox, widow, daughter of Mary Brownell Hazard. The above depositions were brought in as evidence in the suit of Martha Wilcox against Thomas Hazard for concealing the will, and the Court of Common Pleas having decided against her she appealed the case to the Supreme Court.

ARTICLE BY MRS. MARCIA BROWNELL BREADY.

In 1672, the Plymouth Colony obtained from the General Court of Plymouth a grant of that tract of land called by the Indians "Sogkonate" or the "Haunt of the Wild Goose," lying on the east side of Narragansett Bay and adjoining the ocean. This land was bought of Awashonks, the squaw sachem of the Sogkonate Indians, the latter remaining in the country. Colonel Benjamin Church was the first Englishman to build on this peninsula in 1674. The breaking out of Phillips' war, however, interrupted the settlement, and attention was given to defence until the ending of the war in 1676. Settlers then poured in, not only from Massachusetts, but from Rhode Island, which had been rapidly filling up for forty years.

In 1682, Little Compton became an organized township, the records of whose meetings are still preserved. The preponderance of Massachusetts settlers brought into existence a Congregational Church, and the proprietors granted one thirty-secondth of the township to the exclusive use of the ministry, but Rhode Island influence was shown by the vote that a minister be called "provided that he be content with voluntary offerings and the product of his land, without a rate or tax upon the people," thus comparatively separating Church from State.

The soil was fertile, the location beautiful, and Little Compton was known as the land of stone walls built by Indians, and with windmills on every eminence.

Among those attracted to Little Compton, was Thomas Brownell of Portsmouth, third son of Thomas Brownell the immigrant. His wife, Mary Pearce, was the daughter of Richard Pearce of Portsmouth, who belonged to the twentieth generation of the Percy family of Northumberland England.

Thomas Brownell held no public office, but he gathered the largest fortune, one thousand pounds in bonds, of any of the sons of Thomas Brownell the immigrant. Whether he made it by buying and selling land, or by means of his well stocked farm, is not known. Following the English law of primogeniture, his eldest son received the chief inheritance of land. An Englishman's weapon was the sword, found among his effects, while the chest of shoemaker's tools, suggest the means of earning a livelihood, supplied him in his youth. His two negro slaves were willed to his wife, with forty pounds per year, a home, etc.

It is stated that the Percy family of Northumberland, England, mentioned by Mrs. Bready, were originally of French stock from Percie a small place in France. Recently the statement has been made in print that "Richard Pearce was the son of Jeremiah the younger brother of Captain William Pearce or Pierce." It seems very probable that this is true, for Mary, his daughter, gave the name to her son and it was handed down for several generations and was perpetuated even in Nova Scotia.

She was buried beside her husband on the farm of their son, Edward Brownell, in Little Compton, R. I., where they had always resided.

EDWARD BROWNELL.

(16471).

Edward Brownell, son of Aaron and Alice Southworth Brownell, born in Little Compton, R. I., January 10, 1746; died in Willistown, Vt., 1824; married in North Canaan, Conn., January 26, 1774. Susannah Wells, and had nine children. SAMUEL, born in Canaan, Conn.; died in infancy. BERAH SOUTHARD, born in Canaan, Conn., 1776; died in Williston, Vt., 1869; married Lucinda Sanford. SAMUEL AARON, born in Canaan, Conn., 1778; died in Williston, Vt., 1869; married Zeruah Forbes. HANNAH, born in Canaan, Conn., 1780; married Joseph Sanford. CHAUNCEY WELLS, born in Canaan, Conn., 1782; died in Williston, Vt., 1850; married Belinda Beech. IRA, born in Sharon, Conn., 1784; died in Winterset, Iowa, 1867; married Betsey Clark. HARVEY, born in Sharon, Conn., 1787; died in Essex, Vt., 1862; married Alma Rogers, (2) Maria Delano. GROVE LAWRENCE, born in Canaan, Conn., March 1, 1790; died in Sharon, Conn., April 10, 1855; married Harriet Burnham. (2) Mary Whittlesey. EDWARD, born in Canaan, Conn., 1792; died in Williston, Vt., July 25, 1808.

The parentage of his wife, Susannah Wells, is not given, but she was probably a lineal descendant of Thomas Wells the immigrant, who came to America in 1635, it is said from the Essex branch of the de Welles family of Lincolnshire, England, who were barons of the realm. His will was dated July 3, 1666 and it is known that at the time of his death he had relatives in Colchester, County of Essex, England. In the parish register there is the following entry: Thomas Wells, son of Thomas Wells, the 11th of December, 1605, which is probably the baptismal record of the above Thomas. Edward Brownell was called "Captain," no doubt of the militia, but very little has been learned of him during his residence in Connecticut. He removed to Williston, Vt., as early as the winter of 1800, as the following from the town clerk's records shows: "February 26, 1800, Jonathan Crosby deeded to Edward Brownell of Canaan, Litchfield County, Conn., one hundred and three acres of land in Williston, for the sum of two hundred and fifty dollars," and on May 16, 1801, "Edward Brownell, deeded to his son Samuel Aaron Brownell one-half of the same one hundred and three acres of land. The consideration in this deed being one hundred and nine dollars and fifty-three cents," and the residence of both given as Canaan, Conn.

JEREMIAH BROWNELL.

Jeremiah Brownell, son of Aaron and Alice Southworth Brownell, born in Little Compton, R. I., April 21, 1749; died in Joliceure, Province of New Brunswick, about 1835; married a Copp, and had nine children. AARON. JOHN. JEREMIAH. THOMAS. WILLIAM. EDWARD. SARAH. ANNA. LAVINIA. "All of whom married and had large families."

He removed as did his brothers Edward, Ichabod and Aaron, to Vermont (perhaps previously to Connecticut) and remained there for a while—was probably where his brothers first located before going to Colchester, Vt. At the time of the Revolution or about 1783, Jeremiah Brownell went to Nova Scotia and settled in Joliceure, Province of New Brunswick, where he died at the age of eighty-six years, according to the testimony of his grandson, Jeremiah Brownell, now living. (Sabine, in his history of the Loyalists gives the record: "Went to West Moreland, N. S., and died there in 1835, aged thirty-eight." This was undoubtedly an error, possibly eighty-eight was intended, and was the approximate age given to the historian). There is a tradition in the family that "his brother Joshua went to Nova Scotia with him and settled at St. John, N. B., but the birth of all the children of Aaron and Alice are clearly stated in the vital records of Little Compton, R. I., and there is no Joshua among them. He may have been a cousin or nephew. It is certain that a Joshua Brownell did go to Nova Scotia about 1783, as Sabine gives the record with Jeremiah's. He was one of the grantees of Parrtown, a portion of St. John, New Brunswick, so called in honor of John Parr, then Governor of Nova Scotia, who was appointed July, 1783, "Agent for the Loyalist of New York," at the time when more than seven thousand refugees arrived there. They petitioned the Governor to grant them lands for settlement, which at a later date was arranged for. Joshua probably died at St. John and the relatives "never heard of any descendants living there."

ICHABOD BROWNELL.

(16474).

Ichabod Brownell, son of Aaron and Alice Southworth Brownell, born in Little Compton, R. I., August 30, 1750; married Elizabeth Stanley, daughter of Nathaniel and Sarah Baldwin Stanley, born about 1755, and had daughter AMY, and probably other children.

He moved with his brothers from Little Compton, R. I., to Connecticut, and thence to Vermont, arriving there about 1792-3. He settled at the falls between Colchester and Burlington and built a stone house in which he kept tavern—called the "Stone Tavern"—until 1811. It was said to have been "better built than any building set up at that period." He also worked at blacksmithing.

His wife's maternal grandparents were Deacon Nathaniel and Elizabeth Parmelee Baldwin, and her paternal grandfather, Nathaniel Stanley, moved in 1742 from Farmington to Goshen, Conn., where he followed the business of a tanner, and became a large landholder, at one time owning seven hundred and twenty-eight and one-half acres. He is described as "a prosperous and useful inhabitant until old age; and was above mediocrity in intellectual ability and wrote much more than most men of his time." His father, John Stanley, was an early settler of Waterbury, Conn., and "was the first Recorder of the town and wrote a very legible and business-like hand." He was Lieutenant of the militia and a Representative to the General Court.

His wife, Elizabeth Stanley Brownell, according to her descendants was "a woman of fine character who lived to the age of eighty-five years, although she became blind." The date of his death is not given and owing to his removals from state to state a full record of children could not be obtained.

AARON BROWNELL.

(16477).

Aaron Brownell, son of Aaron and Alice Southworth Brownell, born nearly five months after his father's death, in Little Compton, R. I., February 2, 1755. He probably went with his older brothers in his childhood or early manhood to Connecticut—probably to Canaan—and removed thence to Colchester, Vt., in 1792, where he held the office of Town Clerk from 1797 to 1806. "He lived west of the brook and south of Center street, and worked at the forge." The name of his wife is not learned and history mentions but one child. THOMAS, born probably in Colchester and is referred to in local history as "our respected citizen."

He attained a position of prominence and about 1812 moved to and settled near Elmira, N. Y., where he was a cattle buyer, purchasing and shipping large numbers to the New York and Philadelphia markets. Politically he was a Whig and a devoted admirer of Dewitt Clinton, whom he ardently supported when he was a candidate for Governor.

SARAH HOAG BROWNELL.

She wrote the following verses after she was seventy-five years of age.

By these lines, you may see,
What has happened unto me
When I was in my fourteenth year
Then I lost my mother dear.

It was a hard thing, to be sure;
I thought too hard for me to endure.
But hard things will be made light
If we only take them right.

I being young, and that is true,
The business came to me to do.
It was not long before I did find
A friend, according to my mind.

He and his wife were prominent members of the Society of Friends and were both public speakers in that faith. His wife learned to read and write after she was fifty years of age. A letter to one of her daughters, dated December 30, 1844, is in possession of one of her great-granddaughters and says: "I am now at Nathan's, and have been here a week, and they have a young daughter about eight weeks old, which makes a hundred and one grandchildren. They call it Alcha Annette."

And with him, I did agree,
And bound myself before I was free.
When we are bound we must obey
And go where'ere our husband say.

If it is in some distant land,
We must go at their command.
By the men it has been said
Of the wife they would be head.

Where there is a head it wants a neck no doubt,
For to turn the head about.
When it is turned about to take a view
It begins to see what to do.

Then we came in this country
Some land for to see.
We had a horse worth twenty pounds,
And for some land we paid it down.

When we moved and got up here,
I was in my twenty-first year.
Two children we had before we come
And here it made us a little home.

The worst of all when we got here
Grain was scarce and very dear.
We had money enough to buy one bushel of corn;
We had no more when that was gone.

Then he went out to work by the day.
When he got money, he went away;
He went away for to buy
Some corn or some rye.

When he came home to me did say,
I have found no grain for bread today.
But tomorrow I will try once more;
I have heard of some corn in Rennsellar's store.

This is the way that we begun.
Next fall we had another son.
After that first year was gone
We was blest with enough all along.

Enough, I say, with prudent care,
To bring up our children, and something to spare.
We had to work very hard,
But that we did not regard.

We have brought you up and you may see
That you have got to wait on me.
To wait on me, and your father too,
For that is your duty so to do.

Fourteen children I hope we have
And one we have buried in the grave.
If they all prove good and very kind
That will satisfy my mind.

Now, dear children, if you take the care
You will have all we have to spare.
Now I write as I do feel
Unto the Good Master we must yield.

If we are obedient unto Him
He will pardon us from our sins,
I think we read in that good book;
It tells us where we must look.

You must seek the kingdom that is true—
He will provide all things for you.
All things necessary He will provide
If you will all come and forsake your pride.

If you come humble to beg and pray
He will give you food every day.
Food fit for your taste,
And so He would the human race.

Remember how the multitude was fed
With a few small fishes and five loaves of bread.
Five thousand men as I have read
The Good Master ordered to be fed.

He commanded them to sit down,
He blest the bread and sent it round.
They all did eat and was satisfied,
And took up twelve baskets full beside.

I have another subject in my view;
I will relate it unto you.
I was reading the other day
Where Jesus was taken and led away.

He was led away to be crucified:
He suffered it all for the sake of mankind.
Many hard things He suffered beside.
He healed the sick and cured the blind.

How hard it was to persecute Him
That was so clear of all manner of sin.
All that do not His law obey
Persecute Him every day.

Read in your book—see what was done;
How Judas betrayed the beloved Son.
He went and agreed with the high Priest
To betray his Master with a kiss.

Thirty pieces of silver he would pay
If his Master he would betray.
Then Judas who had betrayed Him.
When he saw that he was condemned.

Repented himself and brought again
The thirty pieces of silver that remain
To the chief priests and elders, too.
All these things we ought to view.

This money never did him any good
Because he betrayed the innocent blood.
When he saw what he had done
He went out and himself he hung.

JAMES GREY. DANIEL

LYON. ABRAM. MILLY. MABEL. ELIZABETH. MARIA.
EVELINE.

He spent his youth in Little Compton, R. I., and was very fond of hunting. Later he moved to Hoosick, N. Y., and conducted a tavern. This tavern was located opposite the Old Dutch Church and burying ground, the accredited spooks of the latter being objects of wonder and terror to the children of the family. It is stated that there was a swinging partition in this tavern, which opened upward and fastened to the ceiling, thus enlarging the rooms for public gatherings. He was a Mason and their meeting was held in his tavern. After conducting this tavern for many years, he sold out and moved upon a farm at Sandgate, Vt., where lived the balance of his life. In early life, he dressed in the fashion of the times, with silk stockings and knee buckles and wore a long black queue which was kept in his desk for many years after the fashion had passed away. In later life, he became a strong and ardent Methodist, and the ministers of that denomination always found with him a hearty welcome, and often held meeting in his house. His two oldest grandsons were named "John Fletcher" and "John Wesley," and in his will he made provision that each of his seven children should be provided with a set of Dr. Adam Clark's Commentaries, which was carried out. One set is now in the library of his granddaughter, Mrs. Frances A. Parish, of Avon, N. Y.

Of his wife's family it is stated that her father and two brothers were taken prisoners by the British and confined in prison, while her mother was left to take care of other children. One of the boys escaped but was captured and later died of privation. One of the boys' mother had her horse saddled before the door, when some British officers came along and spying the horse, said with an oath: "That is a good horse. We will leave one of our old ones and take it along." Hearing their remarks she came out of the house, seized the bridle, let down the bars, led the horse through, then, taking a pitchfork, she faced the officers, declared she would run the first one through that attempted to take the beast. "You have taken my husband and my sons, and this is all that is left to assist me in the support of my family, and I may as well die by the sword as by famine." At this brave speech the officer replied, "She has pretty good pluck, let her have her old horse."

The following was taken from the Utica Morning Herald of December 28, 1874: "News was received Sunday evening of the death of Abner Brownell of Sauquoit, one of the oldest residents of the village and a pioneer in the manufacturing business of Oneida County. He died of old age at the residence of his son-in-law, M. S. Savage, Sunday afternoon. His age was 88 years, and for more than a year his strength had been so low that when he quietly passed away his death was no sudden bereavement. For twenty years he had lived in retirement from active business, and he was known in all the vicinity for his charities and exemplary life.

Abner Brownell was born January 30, 1787, at Portsmouth, Rhode Island. About the year 1812 he removed to where is now Chadwick's Mills, and began the manufacture of cotton goods in company with John Chadwick, father of Hon. G. W. Chadwick of that place. After several years had elapsed he removed two miles farther up the stream (Sauquoit Creek), and founded the cotton mill long known as the Franklin factory, and which has since developed into the present large establishment. From that time he has resided at Sauquoit, and has seen the village grow up about him, lending efficient aid in the building up of its local institutions and its general progress. He never sought nor filled public office, ever preferring to do unostentatious work in private walks. He was loved by the operatives whom he employed. He was methodic and orderly in the performance of his own work, and though he required those who worked for him to do so with order and method, he was a kind master. He was a charter member of the Sauquoit Masonic Lodge. He was in old times a Whig in politics, and in later days he was a staunch though quiet Republican. He was charitable and honest, diligent in business, a loved and revered citizen, and he died full of years and honors—honors than which none are prouder, those of a well spent life and the respect of one's fellow-men. He leaves two sons, who, since his retirement from business twenty years ago, have conducted the affairs of the mills, and a married daughter residing in Connecticut."

in Ellery, N. Y., May 17, 1850; died in Chautauqua, N. Y., September 16, 1905; married John C. Lewis.

He received his education at the district school in Sand Lake, N. Y., and while a young man he used to build flaxmills in the summer and would work in them winters. In the summer of 1831, he with one of his wife's uncles, came from Pittstown, N. Y., to Ellery, N. Y., with a horse and wagon, returning the same way, looking for a farm to locate upon. James McCoul had offered his farm previously, for eighteen dollars an acre, but would not say what he would take now. He found one he could buy, located between Bemus Point, N. Y., and Ellery Center, N. Y., for nine dollars an acre. Before leaving Pittstown, N. Y., he had made up his mind not to buy a farm until he had returned home.

After returning to Pittstown, N. Y., he made up his mind to buy the farm for nine dollars an acre, and wrote his father-in-law, Joseph Brownell, to buy it for him. Before sealing the letter, he again thought he would like the McCoul farm, and instructed his father-in-law to buy it if he could get it for eighteen dollars an acre. Joseph Brownell saw McCoul, making a contract for his farm at eighteen dollars an acre, paying one hundred dollars to bind the bargain, McCoul saying, "that was the easiest hundred dollars he ever received, as David Brownell would never come after the farm." He was to be disappointed, for David Brownell with his family started again that fall for Ellery, N. Y., going as far as Buffalo, N. Y., on the Erie canal. McCoul was digging potatoes when Brownell came in sight. Throwing down his hoe, he said, "The farm's gone."

In 1851 he moved on the farm joining him on the south, and while living there he built a new house on the farm he had vacated, moving into it in 1857, living there until his death. Although of a strong Christian character, he never identified himself with any church. He never sought political preferment. He was once nominated for a town office and lost the election by one vote. Jedediah Vorce, an Ellery pioneer and intimate friend, rode with him to election, and wanting to vote for a man on the opposition ticket, voted it straight, thus causing his defeat. He was a man of very strong mind. He accumulated quite a property, owning at one time three hundred and twenty-five acres of land on the east shore of Lake Chautauqua, opposite the now famous Chautauqua Assembly. He is buried beside his wife in the Lewis Cemetery in Ellery, N. Y.

The following taken from Eliott G. Stork's History of Cayuga County, N. Y., gives the early movements of Pardon Brownell and his sons Perez, Thurston, Jonathan and Gilbert: "In 1790, Gilbert, Jonathan, Thurston and Perez Brownell came from Little Compton, R. I., and commenced work, on the Indian Reservation, north of Aurora. They were disposed by the sheriff and built a cabin near R. M. Atwater's residence in Ledyard, one and one-half miles north of the south line. In the spring of 1791, Perez brought his family; Jonathan brought his in 1792. Their father, Pardon Brownell, bought lot 23 in Genoa and gave Gilbert two hundred acres on the east side, Thurston two hundred acres on the west side, and Perez two hundred acres in the middle. Perez moved on his in the spring of 1793. His home was west of J. G. Burgess' stone quarry. Gilbert came and boarded with him. Mrs. Brownell's sister was a member of the family. November 4, 1793, Gilbert and Amy were married. The marriage certificate is in the possession of their daughter, Mrs. Clarissa Chadwick and reads: This certifies that Gilbert Brownell and Amy Grinnell were joined in marriage November 4, 1793, by Aaron Kinne, minister of the gospel and missionary in the western settlement.

The incidents connected with this event are somewhat romantic. It seems a contract was made between them, but unfortunately there was neither civil officer or settled minister who could make them one. It was agreed that when the missionary came they would be married. After weeks and months of delay Kinne called at Perez Brownell's. Gilbert was engaged at some distance from the house, logging. Amy blew a conch shell, now in possession of Mrs. Chadwick, and called her soon to be husband, soiled and besmeared. Gilbert came in and without change of raiment stood up before the man of God and they were married. Immediately after the ceremony he went back to toil. This was probably the first marriage in the town. Gilbert built his house and lived a little southeast of J. G. Burgess' residence. A fine old apple tree marks the locality. Perez subsequently sold to Joseph Goodyear and then Gilbert changed farms with Goodyear. Gilbert bought Thurston's lands and eventually owned a large portion of lot 23. He lived and died where H. S. King now lives. Of a family of nine children there only remains Edmund, Mrs. Clarissa Chadwick and Mrs. John H. Carter. Perez subsequently moved to Ohio and died there. Thurston went to Philadelphia, Pa. Jonathan remained in Ledyard. He built the house where Charles E. Slocum lives and died there. His daughters were reigning belles in their day and much admired.

In 1837, at the age of nineteen years, he in company with his brother-in-law, Rasselas Wilcox Brown, started on foot from Oneida County, N. Y., for the purpose of locating a home in the wilderness of the state of Michigan. After a long and tedious journey they reached their destination. Not liking the "wild west" they only remained there a short time, when they retraced their steps to New York state. One year later the young adventurers again started on foot in search of another location. This time their fortunes took them to Jones Township, Elk County, Pa., where they immediately commenced to clear up a farm. From Elk County, he drifted to Sergeant Township, McKean County, Pa., where he taught school for some time at Bunker Hill, now known as Clermont. It was here that he met his future wife.

Shortly after his marriage, he moved to Alden, Henry County, Ill., where he located upon a farm. After remaining there about four years, he sold his farm and returned to Elk County, Pa., locating at Ridgway. In 1857, he went to Smethport, Pa., and purchased a mercantile business, beginning in the old Brownell homestead on State Street. Later he moved into the store now occupied by his son, Fred William Brownell. In 1882, he turned his business over to his two sons, George R., and Fred W. Brownell. It was a proud boast of his that he never sued a creditor or ever intentionally distressed the poor. He was an honorable and just man in all his business dealings. He was twice elected Associate Judge of McKean County, Pa., serving in that capacity for ten years. He was also one of the oldest Masons in the county at the time of his death. Judge Brownell was a man of sterling traits of character, and was of the type that look upon the shams of life with contempt.

After his first marriage a few years, he became financially embarrassed and was confined in jail for his debts, as was common and lawful at that time. During his confinement his wife and children went to live with her father. When he was released from jail, he went to his father-in-law's after his wife and children, but his father-in-law would not have him around and drove him away, allowing him only a place to sleep over night. He then went to Indiana. Soon after his disappearance, his wife received a letter from near Buffalo, N. Y., stating that a man supposed to be Robert Pattee Brownell had been drowned in Lake Erie. After receiving this letter his wife married again. Later it was found that this letter had been written by her father and another party, with the idea of deceiving her and make her contented to stay at home, as they needed her there. After twenty years or more, Robert Pattee Brownell, met a man in Indiana, who was going to the next town from the one in which he left his wife and children and asked him to inquire about them. He did so, and his son, Alstead Brownell, was thus put in communication with his father, whom he supposed dead. He never returned east although he corresponded with his son until his death.

He entered the United States Navy as midshipman, April 7, 1799; cruised with his father, a naval officer, in the West Indies, 1799-1800. He was engaged in the war against Tripoli, 1804-5, and became a lieutenant, January 15, 1807, and at the outbreak of the War of 1812 was in command of a flotilla of gunboats on the Atlantic coast. In February, 1813, he was transferred at his own request to serve under Commodore Isaac Chauncey on Lake Ontario.

He took an active part in the attack upon Fort George, and was appointed to fit out a squadron upon Lake Erie, which he successfully accomplished at Presque Isle, (now, Erie) Pa. Having equipped nine small vessels, he attacked and captured the British fleet near Put-in-Bay, Ohio, September 10, 1813. This action, known as the "battle of Lake Erie," or more commonly as "Perry's Victory," obtained him an immense popularity, partly attributable to the manner in which it was announced by the famous dispatch. "We have met the enemy and they are ours." Congress rewarded him with a vote of thanks, a medal, and the rank of Captain. He co-operated with General Harrison in his operations at Detroit and at the battle of the Thames, October 5, 1813, and in the following year was employed upon the Potomac and in the defense of Baltimore.

He commanded the Java in Decatur's squadron in the Mediterranean, in 1815. He was sent to the Spanish Main in command of a squadron, June, 1819. He ascended the Orinoco to Angostura in July; was seized with yellow fever, and died at Port Spain, on the Island of Trinidad, the day of his arrival there, August 23, 1819. His remains were removed to Newport, R. I., in a ship of war, by order of Congress, and buried in the cemetery of that city, December 4, 1826, where an imposing obelisk was erected by the State of Rhode Island. In September, 1860, a marble statue of Commodore Perry was erected in Cleveland, Ohio, and on September 10, 1885, a fine bronze statue was unveiled at Newport, Rhode Island.

MATHEW CALBRAITH PERRY.

Matthew Calbraith Perry, son of Christopher Raymond and Sarah Wallace Alexander Perry, born in Newport, R. I., April 10, 1794; died March 4, 1858; married October 24, 1819, Jane Slidell, daughter of John Slidell of New York, N. Y., born in New York, N. Y., February 29, 1797; died in Newport, R. I., January 14, 1879, and had nine children. JOHN SLIDELL, SARAH, married Colonel Robert S. Rogers. JANE HAZARD, died December 24, 1882; married John Hone. He entered the United States Navy in 1809, and was appointed lieutenant in 1813. In 1819, while cruising, he settled the question of the location of the first occupation of Liberia. In 1821-24, in command of the schooner Shark, he captured several pirates near the West India Islands. In 1833, after a three years' cruise in the Mediterranean, he became the superintendent of a school for gun practice in the Brooklyn Navy Yard, and superintended the application of steam to war vessels. In 1837, he was made captain and in 1838 went abroad to visit the dock-yards, and inspect the danger signals on the coast. In 1839-41, he was commandant at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, afterwards of the African Squadron and the Gulf Squadron, and gallantly co-operated with the land forces at the battle of Vera Cruz. In 1852-54, he went on an expedition to Japan. He was one of the first public men in this country who looked for the peaceful opening of Japan, and long before he was appointed to command the fleet, March, 1852, he had carefully studied the land, the people, and the problem from every side. He arrived off Uraga in the bay of Yeddo, July 7, 1853, and after leaving letters for the Tycoon, sailed away July 17, and returned in February, 1854. On March 8, the formal articles of convention between the United States and Japan were exchanged at Yokohama, on the spot now occupied by the Union Christian Church. His one mistake was in not treating with the true sovereign, the Mikado, from Osaka, instead of with his lieutenant, the Tycoon.

Commodore Perry was a cultivated scholar and the "Narrative of the Expedition of an American Squadron to the China Seas and Japan," though nominally edited by Dr. Francis L. Hawks, is, in the main, an exact reprint of Perry's diary and autograph narrative. He died in New York City, and a superb bronze statue of him, with four bas-reliefs in bronze illustrating scenes in his public life, by J. Q. A. Ward, stands in Truro Park, Newport, R. I., erected by his son-in-law, August Belmont, of New York.
