In the Year 1716

Three adjoining surveys made to Col John Evans, Charles Brockden and William Penn, of Philadelphia, Pa., recorded in Surveyor General's office, Burlington, N. J. To Evans 1666 acres from which (1728) a tract of 563 acres was taken from northwest corner. Brockden's 1114 acres on south had a tract taken (1754) of 506 acres in two lots along north, bounded on south by Morristown road and on east and west by three roads leading from said road north to Brookside. A tract of 277 acres (1757) from southwest corner of Penn's 3750 acres joined 563 acre tract along on north. Western boundaries of these surveys and tracts form base line beginning at first cross roads east of Mendham, runs due north through Grey's Hollow, 160 chains to old tree corner.

Whippany River has its source in two main branches—east branch two miles long, rises at east Mt. Freedom, runs southwest, crossing southeast corner 277 acre tract, enters northeast corner 563 acre tract, bends due south at head of Dismal Glen through which it flows one mile to junction with west branch, which, rising at West Mt. Freedom, runs southwest, bends south and at crossroads unites with branch from west through Grey's Hollow and small branch from north. Another small branch from south side of Cold Hill empties in at Brookside and soon after joins east branch, now forming the Whippany, crosses northeast corner 506 acre tract east five miles from junction to Morristown. The road from Mendham to Mt. Freedom northeast across 563 acre tract crossing a road from Brookside northwest forms only cross roads on the three tracts and half mile northeast of cross-roads forks to east and west Mt. Freedom. An old road from Grey's Hollow through woods, bends east around a cleared field. Southwest from west line of this field an old chestnut tree yet marks the corner of 563 acre tract (in deed of 1755 called "sapling"). Two old roads each side of glen "Tingley" on east, "Shores" on west.

Henry Clark (a Scotchman) came to Suffolk^K County, L. I., Ronkonkoma, where, leaving wife and child with relatives who preceded them and settled, he went in search of land on which to settle. Went west via Elizabeth to Morristown, then containing three families, and Mendham, one followed up river, then east branch to head of glen and bend in branch where a few chains west from eastern edge of plateau a spring emptied into branch. At this spring, on plateau, found it would make a good farm with water power near by, made a clearing, built log house, then returned to move out his family. Their nearest neighbors were two families who soon after settled at head of branch—one named Cooper. For some years after they settled only a footpath to Mendham and Morristown.

No record of this first purchase of land is known, but the date is fixed by other facts. In 1734 built frame house by side of log house and put an iron knocker on door bearing date. About 1750 assisted by son and sons-in-law, built dam and saw mill at head of glen. This dam yet standing firm as at first. Sept. 15, 1754, bought the 506 acre tract of Charles Brockden (deed on small parchment). March 25, 1755, deeded to his son the 563 acre tract (deed on paper, witnessed by Andrew Patterson, William Boyd, Benjamin Pitney). Dec. 1st, 1756, bought the 277 acre tract (deed on large parchment). In 1767 mortgaged saw mill with 62 acres to Robert Adams of Mendham (storekeeper) for £250. May, 1768, deeded to grandson, Samuel Cozad, Jr., 40 acres of southeast corner 277 acre tract (deed on paper). The 506 acre tract probably sold soon after purchase as none of his descendants are known to have owned any of it.
