CHISHOLM

PREFACE

In his book, "The History of the Chisholms", inscribed at Inverness, Scotland, Christmas Day, 1890, Mr. Alexander Mackenzie says:

"I claim to have disposed of the absurd and groundless contention so long maintained by the Northern clan, that they sprang originally from the Earls of Caithness and Orkney, and to have established, on the contrary, that they first came to the Highlands from the Scottish Borders, and that all the families of the name, north and south, can trace their descent to one common ancestor, heard of for the first time in Scotland in the county of Roxburgh towards the end of the thirteenth century.The first of the name of whom any record is found in Scotland had his seat in the western district of the county of Roxburgh, formerly included in the Old Deanery of Teviotdale and Diocese of Glasgow. Malcom, the historian, says that the Chisholms, 'came soon after the Conquest, A.D. 1066, from Tindale in England.' The original name is said to have been De Chese, to which the Saxon termination 'holme' was added on the marriage of the Norman ancestor with a Saxon heiress, whose lands, from situation, were so called."

"In the early records the name is written de Cheseholm, later de Chesehelme vel Chesholme, and eventually Chasholm as we now have it. The earliest document extant in which mention is made of the name and relating to the family, is a bull of Pope Alexander IV., in which John de Chisholme is named in the year 1254."

At the end of this genealogy you will find a synopsis of the successive chiefs of the Chisholm clan from this John de Chisholme, the first chief, down to Roderick Donald Matheson Chisholm, the XXVIII. chief and last male heir. John Richard Green in his History of the English People, gives a vivid picture of clan life as follows;

"The land formation in the north of Scotland is that of hills separated by steep, rugged valleys in the district called the Highlands. This led to the formation of the inhabitants into small, isolated groups which had little to do with each other. Some man of wealth, or unusual ability, became chief of each group, and the group received the name of Klan (Clan) or children. The marriages of each Clan generally occurred within itself. It was believed that both chief and followers were descended from some common ancestor, so the feeling of devotion to the leader was strengthened by the tie of relationship and the clan followed its chief's banner as if it had been that of a father. The "plaid" was a piece of cloth two yards by four. Each clan's plaid was a special arrangement of colors and called the "Clan Plaid." It was wrapped about the body in graceful folds, girded in at the waist and fastened by a silver clasp upon the breast. The call to warfare was either by the pibroch of the chief, a wild irregular strain performed upon the bagpipes, or by a messenger bearing the fiery cross, made of wood, the extremities of which had been set on fire.

Prior to the reformation, peasant and burgher had been of small account, towns were little more than villages, peasants, scattered thinly over the hill and valley, winning a scant subsistence from a thankless soil, had been too few and too poor to be a political force. They were dependent on their lords and, in the centuries of feudal anarchy, the strife of lord against lord made their life a mere struggle for existence. The rough school in which the Scotch peasant was trained through two hundred long weary years was to know neither rest nor safety; to face danger every hour; to plow the fields with firearms piled beside the furrow; to watch every figure as it crossed the hillside whether it were friend or foe; to be roused from sleep by the slogan of the highlander, or the cry of the borderer, as they swept sheep and kye from every homestead in the valley; to bear hunger, thirst, cold and nakedness, to cower within the peel-tower, or lurk in the moorland, while barn and brye went up in fire; or to mount and ride at their lord's call on retaliation forays just as pitiless.

It was a school which would have degraded a meaner race into slaves, but it only hardened and ennobled the temper of the Scotchman. From these experiences of oppression and lawlessness he drew the rugged fidelity, the dogged endurance, the shrewdness, the caution, the wariness, the rigid thrift, the noble self-dependence, the patience and daring which have distinguished him ever since."

Life Magazine of May 5, 1947, contains a very interesting illustrated article entitled "Scotland" it begins: "Scotland with 30,410 square miles and 5 million people is a tiny portion of the earth's surface and population. Yet perennially the Scot has influenced the world far out of proportion to his national size. He has done this most famously by emigrating in large numbers to easier lands. But whether he has gone abroad or stayed fast in his own castled Highlands, the Scot has remained a man of rare parts, the distinctive product of his hard but beautiful country."

FIRST GENERATION

I. Archibald Chisholm, first of the name of whom anything is known in our American branch of the ancient Chisholm Clan, is said to have been born about the year 1770, and to have died before the age of 50. The place of his birth and death are not known.

Information furnished me by Messers Paton and Knight, genealogists and researchers of 121 Bruntsfield Place, Edinburgh, Scotland, show that Archibald Chisholm married Mary Scott in the Parish of Blantyre, near Hamilton, in April 1800. The same parish records record the birth of his son Robert, on Jan. 30, 1801, and his baptism on Jan. 30, 1801, by the Rev'd Mr. Stevenson. At that time Archibald was a dyer at Blantyre Mills.

The records of the Parish of Barony, Glasgow, record the birth of the third child of Archibald and Mary Chisholm, Mary, on May 27, 1805. She was baptised on June 2, James Pettigrew and Robert Indoe, were the witnesses. At that time Archibald was a dyer of Anderston. The Barony Parish records also give the birth of Isobel, the fourth child, on Feb. 4, 1808. She was baptised on Feb. 14, Thomas Hamilton, senior and junior were the witnesses. At that time Archibald was a dyer of Bridgeton.

Mary (Scott) Chisholm, wife of Archibald, came to America in the year 1845, and resided with her son Robert for about twelve years as is shown by the census of Oneida County, N.Y., taken as of June 14, 1855. At that time she gave her birthplace as Scotland and her age as 74. Shortly after 1855, she removed to the home of her daughter, Elizabeth, wife of John Sinclair, who was living in Fayette Township, adjacent to Jonesville, Hillsdale County, Mich. She died there Nov. 8, 1859, in her 79 year and is buried in the Jonesville Cemetery.

While residing with her son Robert Chisholm, at West Vienna, now called Jewell, N.Y., Mary (Scott) Chisholm, related to her grandson, James Chisholm, certain bits of information which he passed on to other members of the family. She said that Archibald Chisholm was the eldest son of a John Chisholm of Muckrath and that he was born in the year 1770, or thereabouts and migrated when a young man, in the 1790's, to the southern part of Scotland settling in the vicinity of Hamilton. There he learned the trade of bleacher and dyer in the cotton mills. He married Mary Scott about 1794 or 95, with issue which I am giving below.

While the information James Chisholm has passed on to us is substantially correct, I have been unable to find any such place as Muckrath anywhere in Scotland. There was however an important branch of Chisholm Clan known as the Muckerach or Muckrach branch. It is easy to see how James Chisholm may have confused the two names. Muckerach House is described in the Ordnance Survey of Scotland made in 1877, as a mansion in the parish of Duthil and Rothiemurchus, Inverness-shire on the left bank of the Dulnain, 4 miles SW of Grantown. It is the property of the Countess-Dowager of Seafield. Muckrach Castle, built in 1598 by the second son of John Grant of Frenchie was the first possession of the Grants of Rothiemurchus and is now a roofless ruin, itself somewhat picturesque and beautifully situated.

The first Archibald Chisholm, of record, in the Mackenzie "History of the Chisholms", was Archibald Chisholm, of Fasnakyle House. He was born about the year 1664, son of Colin and Mary (Grant) Chisholm, of the Knockfin branch of the family, and was a grandson of Alexander Chisholm the XVII Chief of the Clan. This Archibald Chisholm, of Fasnakyle House, had a daughter who married her cousin, Alexander Chisholm, son of John Chisholm, the IX Chief of the Clan. This Alexander Chisholm was the founder of the Muckerach branch of the Chisholm Clan. Alexander's son and heir was named Archibald. He married Catherine Matheson. He was one of those mentioned as a prospective heir of the Chisholm estates in the entail placed in 1777, by Alexander Chisholm, the XXII Chief of the Clan. Archibald's grandson, James Sutherland Chisholm, inherited the estates in 1858, and became the XXVII Chief of the Clan.

I have wandered thru the maze of Mackenzie's "History of the Chisholms" with some care in the hope of carrying the line back to a tie in with some one of the clan chiefs but without success. The registration of births etc was not made compulsory in Scotland until 1855. A search of the parish records would be a costly and possibly fruitless undertaking so I must be content with the foregoing facts. Our Archibald Chisholm would be about the twentieth generation in descent from the first Chisholm of record who was living about the year 1254.

CHILDREN

2. Robert, b. Jan. 22, 1801, in the parish of Blantyre, Hamilton, Scotland. (of whom later)

John, died when six years old.

Mary, b. May 27, 1805, in the parish of Barony, Glasgow, Scotland. she is said to have married a Mr. William Gordon, of Troy, N.Y. and died without issue.

Isobel, b. Feb. 4, 1808, in the parish of Barony, Glasgow, Scotland. She is said to have married a Mr. Lennox and had issue three daughters and one son.

3. Elizabeth, b. May 28, 1810, in Glasgow, Scotland. (of whom later)

Susan Louise, she is said to have married an English salesman and both drowned at sea.

SECOND GENERATION

2. Robert Chisholm, b. Jan. 22, 1801, in the parish of Blantyre, Hamilton, Scotland, d. May 2, 1870, age 69 yrs, 3mo. 10 d., at West Vienna, now called Jewell, N.Y. He married in Scotland, Isabella McArthur. She was b. June 24, 1804, and d. Sept. 17, 1878, age 74y, 2m. 24d. at West Vienna, N.Y. She was the daughter of John and Amelia (McFarland) McArthur. Her parents also came to America and are buried at New York Mills, N.Y.

Robert and Isabella are buried in the Jewell Cemetery.

Robert Chisholm learned the weavers trade in Scotland and came to West Vienna, N.Y. in the fall of 1826. His wife and eldest child, then one year old followed him in 1827. He is listed in the census of 1850, together with his wife and all of his children except Amelia who was then the wife of Gustavus Landgraff. He is listed in the 1855 census with all of his children except Amelia and Archibald who had married. He was a naturalized citizen, a farmer and owner of land. His mother, Mary is also listed, age 74, and a resident for 12 years. In the census of 1865, his family consisted of his wife, his daughter Isabella and her husband, Clayton Horne and his youngest daughter Jenny, age 16, a teacher. At that time he gave his occupation as retired farmer.

CHILDREN:

4. Amelia, b. Aug. 6, 1826, in Scotland.

5. Archibald, b. Aug. 25, 1828, at New York Mills, N.Y.

6. Robert, b. Aug. 12, 1830, at Jewell, N.Y.

7. John, b. Feb. 22, 1834. " " "

8. James, b. June 18, 1837, " " "

9. Mary Jane, b. July 1, 1839 " "

10. Isabella Elizabeth, b. May 18, 1843. " "

11. Jane (Jenny), b. May 13, 1847.

3. Elizabeth Chisholm, b. May 28, 1810, at Glasgow, Scotland, d. Aug. 11, 1871, age 61y, 2m, 14d, at Waterloo, Ind. She is buried in the cemetery at Jonesville, Mich. She married, Dec. 8, 1830, at New York Mills, N. Y., John Sinclair. He was b. May 20, 1809, at Glasgow, Scotland and d. Feb. 14, 1888, age 78y, 8m, 25d., at Hillsdale, Mich. He was the son of John and Mary (Graham) Sinclair. His father was b. Mar. 1777, at Caithness, Scotland, d. May 30, 1849, age 72, at Jonesville, Mich. They were m. Jan. 11, 1803, at Lanark, Scotland. ~~Elizabeth Chisholm~~ Mary Graham was b. July 21, 1781, at Bolton, Lancashire, Eng. She d. 1867, at the home of her daughter, Agnes, the wife of Samuel Campbell, at Whitestown, Oneida Co., N. Y. The census records show that she had been living with her daughter as far back as 1850, having probably gone there following the death of her husband in 1849.

Elizabeth Chisholm's husband, John Sinclair, settled in Jonesville in Sept. 1836. It would appear that prior to that time he had resided for short periods in New York Mills, N. Y., Monroe, Mich., and in Oriskany, N. Y. From 1836 until 1843, he was a cabinet maker in Jonesville, after that he conducted a farm for about twenty years. The 1870 census records show that he was conducting a hardware business in Waterloo, Ind. along with his sons Archibald and John.

After the death of Elizabeth he married as his second wife, Mrs. Julietta (Meacham) Corey. She was born Oct 24, 1823, in Ontario, Can., daughter of Ephraim and Magdalena (Groat) Meacham. She died Jan. 13, 1900, at Hillsdale, Mich., age 76y, 2m, 19d.

In an article written for the Pioneer Society of Hillsdale County, John Sinclair says; "becoming a resident of Jonesville in 1836 I had an opportunity of witnessing immigration as it poured into and through our county, the Chicago Turnpike being the only thoroughfare at the time. Along this road came the immigration that settled some of the communities of northern Indiana, turning southward at Allen's Prairie and other points a line of wagons almost continuous passing through the village daily. This was the county seat then, the county jail occupying the public square, north side of Chicago Road. A grist mill had been erected the year before. An Indian trail up the valley of the St. Joseph branching towards Bay Beese and Sand Lakes was the only road south to Jonesville". The rest of the article deals with the removal of the county seat and the banishment of the Indians in 1840.

A very complete record of the children of John and Elizabeth Sinclair, together with a record of his parents and his brothers and sisters was found among the pension papers of his son, Robert Owen Sinclair in Washington, D. C. I am giving this data in the appendix as a matter of record.

CHILDREN: (surname Sinclair)

12. John W., b. Sept. 6, 1831, at Monroe, Mich.

13. Archibald J., b. Sept. 9, 1833, at Oriskany, N. Y.

14. Robert Owen, b. July 12, 1836, at Oriskany, N. Y.

Elizabeth, b. July 26, 1838, at Jonesville, Mich., d. Oct. 14, 1839, age 1y, 2m, 19d.

15. Elizabeth M., b. July 26, 1843, at Jonesville, Mich.

16. Silas W., b. Sept. 3, 1847, Fayette Township, Mich.

17. Agnes Josephine, b. July 23, 1853, at Jonesville, Mich.

THIRD GENERATION

4. Amelia Chisholm, b. Aug. 6, 1826, in Glasgow, Scotland, d. May 25, 1892, at Syracuse, N.Y., age 65y. 9m. 19d. She m. Oct. 16, 1844, at Jewell, N.Y., Gustavus Landgraff. He was b. Aug. 23, 1821. The 1850 census of Oswego Co. N.Y. gives his place of birth as N.J. but his granddaughter, Mrs. Pearl Ogden says he was born in Baltimore, Md. He d. Feb. 8, 1888, at Syracuse, N.Y. age 66y. 5m. 16d. He was the son of Anthony and Christina Landgraff of Cleveland, N.Y. His parents were born in Germany and came to America in 1812.

In "Landmarks of Oswego County, N.Y." by John C. Churchill, p. 500, it says: "The most prominent settler of 1840 was Anthony Landgraff, the originator of the glass industry in the town of Constantia. Born in Germany, where he commenced his trade, he came to America in 1812 and finally began the manufacturing of glass for himself in Cleveland where he built a glass factory, the first in town. He was a man of pronounced ideas, active and influential in all public and private enterprises, and inaugurated many radical improvements in the calling which he followed. In fact he lived in advance of his time, and was more or less ridiculed for the theories he advanced. But his innovations have since been generally adopted. He made his own furnaces, pots, etc used in the manufacture of glass, and with his four sons, Francis, Harmon, Gustavus and Charles, and his son-in-law, George Cowardon, continued the business until 1861 when the works passed into the hands of William Sanders".

In the 1850 census of Constantia Township, N.Y. we find Anthony Landgraff, age 70, glass manufacturer born in Germany, his wife Hannah C., age 65, born in Germany, Harmon, age 20(?) born in Germany. Also Gustavus Landgraff, age 27, born in New Jersey, his wife Amelia, age 24, born in Scotland, and Anthony, age 3, born in N.Y. In the 1860 census we find returns for Gustavus Landgraff, age 37, glassblower, born in N.J., Amelia, age 33, born in Scotland, Anthony, age 14, clerk, born in N.Y., Amelia, age 9, and James B., age 5, born in N.Y. Also Anthony Landgraff, age 77, glass manufacturer, born in Germany, Christiana, age 65, born in Germany, Harmon, age 45, glasscutter.

Neither Anthony or Gustavus and their families are found in the 1865 census and I assume that after the sale of the glassworks in 1861 the family moved to Syracuse. Much of the information on the family of Gustavus and Amelia Landgraff have been supplied from bible records sent to me by Byron H. Chase, of Berkshire, Mass.

CHILDREN: (surname Landgraff)

18. Anthony, b. Nov. 4, 1845, at Cleveland, N.Y.

Gustavus Robert, b. Nov. 22, 1847, d. Jan. 8, 1849.

No Issue.

5. Archibald Chisholm, b. Aug. 26, 1828, at New York Mills, N.Y. d. Apr. 10, 1874, at Cleveland, N.Y. He married Magdaline Schindler, of Clyde, N.Y. She was born in Germany about 1850. Archibald Chisholm is listed in the 1855 census of the town of Constantia, Cleveland, N.Y. age 25, glasscutter, along with his wife Magdaline, age 26, and a child Cyrus, age 3, and Josephine, age 1. In the 1865 census he is listed as a glasscutter, age 37, his wife, Magdaline, age 35. His children are given as John C. (probably Cyrus) age 13, age 5m., age 7, Mary E., age 5, Carrie I., age 4, Helen M., age 2 2/12, Henry E.

Archibald and Magdaline Chisholm are said to have had ten children altogether but I have been unable to contact any of their descendants.

CHILDREN:

John C., b. about 1852, at Cleveland, N.Y.

Josephine, b. about 1854, probably died young as her name does not appear in the census of 1865.

Charles D., b. about 1858.

Mary E., b. about 1860. It is said she never married.

Carrie I., b. about 1861. She is said to have married a Mr. Young. An only son Herbert Young lives in Yorkville, N.Y. He did not reply to my inquiry for information.

Helen M., b. about 1863. She is said to have never married.

Henry E., b. about 1865.

6. Robert Chisholm, b. Aug. 12, 1830, at New York Mills, N.Y., d. Feb. 13, 1894, at Hartford, S.D. He m. Lucretia Mary Gifford. She was b. about 1837, d. Oct. 31, 1913, in Chicago, Ill., at the home of her son, John Ezra Chisholm. Robert and Lucretia Chisholm are buried at Hartford, S.D. Their son, George is buried in the same plot.

Robert Chisholm was a veteran of the Civil War. He was enrolled, Aug. 15, 1862, at Shakopee, Minn. and was mustered into the service at Fort Ridgley, Minn., Aug. 15, 1862, as a private, Co. I, 9th Minn. Infantry. He was discharged Aug. 24, 1865, at Fort Snelling, Minn. He never recovered from a sickness which he contracted while in the army.

Their names appear in the 1860 census with their son, Frank R., age 7m. At the time he gave his occupation as sawyer. In the 1875 census he is listed with his wife and son and his mother, Isabella, born in Scotland, age 21. At that time he gave his occupation as a boat builder.

CHILD:

Frank R., b. 1859, d. 1934, unmarried.

9. Mary Jane Chisholm, b. July 1, 1839, at Jewell, N.Y., d. Nov. 2, 1932, at Spring Valley, Minn. She m. June 23, 1858, at Jewell, N.Y., Aldis Bartlett.

He was b. Mar. 1, 1829, at Glover, Vt., d. Dec. 7, 1914, at Spring Valley, Minn. He was the son of Welcome and Ruth (Crane) Bartlett and a grandson of Reuben and Amy (Jenks) Bartlett. Reuben Bartlett was a pensioner of the American Revolution and descendant of Joseph and Mary (Waite) Bartlett who were m. Oct. 27, 1668, in Newton, Mass. (see Bartlett Genealogy)

Aldis Bartlett, when about 16 years old removed with his parents from Glover, Vt. to Jewell, N.Y. In his early years he was engaged in the lumber business and afterwards operated a boat on the Erie Canal. His wedding trip was taken on the Erie Canal. In 1854, before his marriage, he went to Fillmore County, Minn. taking a claim at Forrestville but soon returned to Jewell. In 1865 he returned to Minn. and opened a store in the village of Fillmore but sold out and located on a farm. In 1869 he was elected County Auditor and held the office for four years living in Preston, after that he purchased a farm in Spring Valley where he resided until his death. Upon the death of his wife the farm passed to their son Elwin Bartlett who recently deeded it to his son Everett giving about three acres to their daughter Clara (Bartlett) Alberts. Both of these grandchildren of Aldis Bartlett are now residing on the farm.

CHILDREN:

28. Clarence Aldis, b. June 29, 1859, at Jewell, N.Y.

29. Elwin Robert, b. Oct. 13, 1861, " " "

30. Cora May, b. Mar. 30, 1864, " " "

31. Earl James, b. Dec. 7, 1866, at Preston, Minn.

10. Isabella Elizabeth Chisholm, b. May 16, 1843, at Jewell, N.Y., d. Nov. 20, 1929, at Cleveland, Ohio, at the home of her son. She is buried in the Albany (N.Y.) Rural Cemetery. She m. (1) in 1862, Clayton M. Horne. He was b. June 1, 1842, at Jewell, N.Y., d. Feb. 2, 1883, age 41y. 8m. 1d., at Wykoff, Minn. He is buried in the Wykoff cemetery. Isabella m. (2) John C. Thompson.

Clayton M. Horne was the son of Lynch and Elmira Horne of Jewell, N.Y. Lynch Horne is listed in the 1850 census as age 35, occupation a farmer. His wife Elmira, age 35 was born in Mass. Their children Mary J., age 15, Caroline, age 15, Clayton, age 9, also Alex Horn, born in Scotland, age 73 and Catherine Horn, age 78, born in Ireland. The latter probably being the grandparents of Clayton M. Horne. In the 1865 census, Isabella and her husband Clayton Horne were living with her father and had a son Robert, age 1 1/2 who probably died in infancy for nothing more has been heard about him.

Clayton M. Horne attended the graded schools in Oneida County, N.Y. completing his education in North Bay, N.Y. He then engaged in boating on the Erie Canal for fifteen years. Later he was in the grocery business for two years at Grassport, N.Y. and then kept a hotel in Onondaga County, N.Y. In the spring of 1875 he went to Iowa (probably Gladbrooke) and resided on a farm for a year. After this he removed to Wykoff, Minn. and opened a store. Two years later he sold out and engaged in the cigar manufacturing business. Subsequently he was employed as a clerk in the store of Marvin Eggleston for three years and finally engaged in the hardware business under the name of Banks and Horne.

Mr. Chisholm m. (2) Sept. 23, 1898, at Northwood, Ia., Harriet May Thurston. She was b. May 1, 1873, daughter of Charles Parker Thurston and his wife, the former Harriet Rebecca Dodge. Her father was a veteran of the Civil War enlisting Oct. 10, 1863, at St. Ansgar in the 9th Iowa Cavalry and being discharged June 21, 1865, at Davenport, Ia. He was with the regiment at St. Louis and Rolla, Mo. and at Duvalls Bluff doing guard duty on the railroad for a year, was detailed as postmaster to the regiment, was taken sick, went to Jefferson Barracks, then to Keokuck Ia., was detailed as baker in the Seventh Street hospital. He was a justice of the peace, a farmer and postmaster in Bentley and in 1892 went to Mandan, N. D. where he was a hotel keeper.

The immigrant ancestor was Thomas and Susanna (Allen) Thurston. He was b. Staffordshire, Eng. 1758. He was a sailor in the British merchant service and was discharged in Rhode Island. He went to Boston in 1780 where he was married. He first settled in Smithfield, R. I. In 1792, he went to Lyndon, Vt. then a wilderness and became a farmer. Mrs. Chisholm is the sixth generation in descent from Thomas. (see Thurston Gen. 2d Ed.)

John Ezra Chisholm was a self educated man as he was forced to leave school when about fourteen years old in order to help support the family because of the poor health of his father. He began work with the C. St. P. & O. railroad and worked his way up to Superintendent of a Division. He was transferred many times. During his stay in Salt Lake, Utah, a young man by the name of Walter P. Chrysler became his chief clerk. It was while working for Mr. Chisholm that he was taught the many fine qualities of heart and mind that distinguished Mr. Chisholm. In his autobiography, Mr. Chrysler, who became the automobile magnate, renders tribute to the teachings of Mr. Chisholm.

Besides having a fine business mind, Mr. Chisholm was interested in music, having a fine bass voice and was a solo singer in many Episcopal choirs in the different cities in which he resided. He was also a lover of Shakespeare and discussed his works in a learned fashion. He was fond of sports, the opera, symphony and fine literature and could quote many fine passages of poetry. He was a devoted husband and father, a staunch member of the Protestant Episcopal Church, a Knight Templar and Shriner and a past president of DeMolay.

In middle age, Mr. Chisholm gave up the railroad business and became associated with the Buick automobile company as an official at Flint, Mich. At the time of his death he held a similar position with the Chrysler Co. in Detroit. His widow now resides in Detroit.

ABSTRACT FROM THE HISTORY OF THE CHISHOLMS.

ALEXANDER MACKENZIE

I. John de Chisholme, first of the name of whom any record is now extant, is mentioned in a bull of Pope Alexander IV, in the year 1254. He married Emma de Vetereponte or Vipount, daughter of William de Vipount, Lord of Bolton, who granted them as a marriage portion a charter of the lands of Partoun, with the fishing of Brade-la-Tweed, in the county of Berwick, along with the pendicles in the village of Partoun and the fishings and pertinent s thereunto belonging. In the inquisition made at Berwick by the officers of Edward II., on December 23, 1315, these grants are included among the possessions of his grandson, Sir John de Chesholme. John de Chisholme had by his wife, Emma, a son and successor.

II. Richard de Chesholme, who is described as "Del Counte de Rokesburgh". He bore for his arms, as appears by his seal, 1292, a boar's head couped contournee. His name is attached to the Bond of Fealty to Edward I. known as the Ragman's Roll, under date of Aug. 28, 1296. He married with issue;

III. Sir John de Chesholme, Knight, Del Counte de Berwyke, also signed the Ragman's Roll with his father, but afterwards joined Robert the Bruce, by whom he was knighted, and fought under his banner on June 24, 1314, at the battle of Bannockburn, where his kinsman, Sir William de Vipount, was slain. In consequence of this action, his estates were forfeited by Edward II., who in a mandate dated at York, Apr. 18, 1317, described him as "our Scottish enemy and rebel". However, some of his lands, together with several others in Nairn, which had been forfeited by the Cummins, were restored and confirmed to him and his heirs male by a charter of Robert the Bruce, dated in the fourteenth year of his reign (1320). He married and had issue,

IV. Alexander de Chisholme, who is described as Lord of Chisholme in Roxburghe and Partoun in Bewickshire. In 1335 his name appears in a disputed case about fishings in the Tweed as Alexander de Chisholme of that Ilk. He was succeeded by,

V. Sir Robert de Chisholme, Knight, who is designated as one of the "Magnates of Scotland." He was knighted by David II., and taken prisoner with him at the battle of Neville's Cross, Durham, Oct. 17, 1346. He was the first of the family of whom any trace is found in the North of Scotland. Through his marriage to Anne, daughter and heiress of Sir Robert de Lauder, of Quarrelwood, he acquired considerable property in Elgin, Nairn and Moray, Sir Robert had by his wife, Anne de Lauder;

1. Sir Robert.

2. William de Chisholme, who was educated in England, later becoming a prominent churchman-procurator to Bishop, 1375, and Treasurer of Moray, 1360-1398.

VI. Sir Robert de Chisholme, Knight, Lord of Chisholme in Roxburghe, was Constable of Urquhart Castle, on Loch Ness, and Sheriff of Inverness, receiving the appointment in 1359 from David II., by whom he was knighted in 1357. In 1358 he was Justiciar of Moray, which position he was still holding in 1376. His armorial bearings differed from those of his predecessors and successors. His seal attached to an instrument dated 1362 shows a fesse between three boar's head couped, charged with as many cushions. He married Margaret, daughter of Sir Walter Haliburton of that Ilk, Berwick. He left issue;

VII. John de Chisholme, who married Catherine Bisset, daughter of Bisset of that ilk, with issue, an only child, Morella, who married Alexander Sutherland, Baron of Duffus, great-grandson of Kenneth, Earl of Sutherland. He VIII. Alexander de Chisholme, who succeeded his brother, John, as head of the Clan. He was likewise Constable of Urquhart Castle, resigning in 1391 in favor of his son Thomas. Through his marriage to Margaret de la Aird, Lady of Erchless, his posterity are descended from the ancient Kings of Norway and Denmark, as well as the Jarls of Orkney and Caithness.

IX. Thomas de Chisholme was one of the securities in an agreement dated Nov. 2, 1389, between the "Wolf of Badenoch" and his wife Euphemia, Countess of Ross, the other sureties being Robert, Earl of Sutherland and Alexander de Moravia. He succeeded his father as Constable of Urquhart Castle in 1391, he having become too frail to perform the duties of that responsible office. He married Margaret, daughter of Lauchlan Mackintosh, VIII. of Mackintosh.

X. Alexander de Chisholme, described as "Lord of Kinrossy", in a deed dated at Elgin Aug. 9, 1422. From this it will be seen that like his predecessors, he was lord or proprietor of Kinrossy in Perthshire and of Strathglass and the Aird at the same time and as late as 1422. His only issue was a daughter, Catherine, who married in 1432, her cousin, Walter Haliburton.

XI. Wiland de Chisholm, brother of Alexander, described as "of Comar", during his father's lifetime, succeeded to the chieftainship and family estates on the death of his brother in 1432.

XII. Wiland de Chisholm was said to have been a man of remarkable strength and an expert with the bow. He was the first of the name to be designated "The Chisholm", it being the proud boast of the family in former days that there were only three persons entitled to this prefix—"The Pope, the King, and The Chisholm." Modern authorities state that in spite of the use of this title by other Highland chieftains, notably The Mackintosh, the head of the Clan Chisholm is the only one who by right is entitled to be so designated. In 1509, Urquhart Castle, which had been in the family for about one hundred and fifty years, passed into the hands of the Grants, and in 1513 we find Wiland, accompanied by Sir Donald Gallia and Alastair Macdonald of Glengarry, proceeding to Urquhart, storming the castle, expelling the garrison, and laying waste the adjoining country, for which act the participants were heavily fined. In the same year he received a grant from James IV. of the lands of Knockfin, Comar Mor, the two Invercannichs, etc. lying in Strathglass and in the Earldom of Ross, the precept for infeftment being under the Quarter Seal and dated Apr. 9, 1513. He was succeeded in his estates before his death by his son.

XIII. John Chisholm, who under date of March 13, 1538, had a charter under the Great Seal from James V., erecting certain of his lands into a barony in favor of him and his heirs. He died about 1555, for in that year Queen Mary granted to John, Earl of Sutherland, certain lands which "the deceased John Cheisholme held of her". He was succeeded by his son.

XIV. Alexander Chisholm, who had a sasine of the family estates on May 31, 1555, as son and heir of John Chisholm. He married Janet Mackenzie, widow of Aeneas Macdonald, VII. of Glengarry, and daughter of Sir Kenneth Mackenzie, tenth Baron of Kintail by his wife Lady Elizabeth Stewart. Alexander Chisholm died about 1590, and left issue:

XV. Thomas Chisholm, chief of the clan, who married April 12, 1578, Janet Fraser, daughter of James Fraser of Phoinneas, brother of Hugh, fifth Lord Lovat, and died shortly after his father without issue.

XVI. John Chisholm, who was served as heir to his brother on Dec. 19, 1590, married (1) Janet Bayne, by whom he had no issue. He married (2), the eldest daughter of Alexander Mackenzie, progenitor of the families of Coul and Applecross, by his second wife, Christian, daughter of Hector Munro of Assynt. He left issue:

1. Alexander, his heir.

2. Thomas I. of Kinneries, who married, 1630, his cousin, Catherine, fourth daughter of Roderick Mackenzie, I. of Redcastle and his wife, Florence, daughter of Robert Munro, 15th Baron of Fowlis. This Thomas had a grandson named Archibald who together with a grandson of Alexander his brother are the first of the name to appear on the scene.

3. Agnes, who married July 2, 1610, William Rose of Clava.

4. A daughter who married Alexander Rose of Cantray, brother of William, who married her sister, Agnes.

5. A daughter who married about 1625 Maclean of Dochgarroch.

XVII. Alexander Chisholm, who married in 1639 his cousin, daughter of Alexander Mackenzie, V. of Gairloch, a descendant of Alexander Mackenzie VI. of Kintail, by his second wife, Margaret, daughter of Macdonald of Morar. He left issue:

1. Angus, who became the XVIII chief. He was a colonel of troops in sheriffdom of Inverness, 1658, married Margaret, daughter of Murdoch Mackenzie, I. of Redcastle, without issue.

2. Alexander, who succeeded his brother.

3. Colin, who married June 24, 1662, Mary the second daughter of Patrick Grant, IV. of Glenmoriston. He was the leader of the clan at the battle of Aridhierian. He was the progenitor of the Knockfin branch of the family and his second son Archibald together with Archibald of Kinneries are the first of that name to appear in the record.

4. A daughter who married Fraser of Belladrum.

XIX. Alexander Chisholm, who succeeded his brother on June 19, 1677. He was Sheriff Deputy of County Inverness from 1689-1695. He married the eldest daughter of Roderick Mackenzie, I. of Applecross. He had issue;

1. John, his heir.

2. Theodore, who married Margaret, daughter of Fraser of Culbokie. He lived and died at Balmore, Invercannich. His grandson, Theodore, married Mary, daughter of Alexander Chisholm, second son of Archibald Chisholm of Fasnakyle.

3. Jean, married Sir Kenneth Mackenzie, I. of Coul.

XX. John Chisholm, known as "An Siosalach Ruadh" or the Red Chisholm, married Jane, third daughter of Sir Roderick Mackenzie of Findon.

1. Roderick, b. 1697, his heir.

2. Alexander, of Muckerach, who married his cousin a daughter of Archibald Chisholm of Fasnakyle and granddaughter of Colin, I. of Knockfin. Alexander's son and heir, Archibald Chisholm of Muckerach, is mentioned as an heir in the entail placed upon the Chisholm estate by Alexander Chisholm the XXIII. chief of the clan. He married Catherine, third daughter of John Matheson, V. of Fernaig and Attadale. His grandson James Sutherland Chisholm became the XXVII. chief of the clan.

3. Janet, married a Macdonald of Leek.

4. Lilas, married a Fraser of Struy.

XXI. Roderick Chisholm, born in 1697, died Aug. 19, 1767, age 70. At the age of 18, he led 200 of his clan accompanied by his cousin John Chisholm, of Knockfin under the Earl of Mar, in 1715, to Sheriffmuir. As a result his estates were forfeited and sold July 21, 1724 to James Baillie who bought them on behalf of the family and sold them to George Mackenzie, of Allangrange a confidential friend of the House of Chisholm. Sir George next disposes of the estates to Alexander Chisholm of Muckerach immediate younger brother of the forfeited Roderick. By deed dated Nov. 9, 1742 and registered in "Book of Sessions", July 25, 1774, they passed to Alexander Chisholm XXII.

Roderick Chisholm married (1) Elizabeth, daughter of the famous Alastair Dubh Macdonald, X. of Glengarry, by his second wife Lady Mary, daughter of Kenneth Mor, 3rd Earl of Seaforth. He married (2) his cousin Isabel, daughter of Sir Kenneth Mackenzie, baronet IV and widow of Kenneth Bayne. Roderick had issue:

1. Alexander, his heir.
2. James, who had a commission in the army dated Oct. 25, 1744. He died unmarried Feb. 1789.
3. John, who held a commission with James and fought under the Duke of Cumberland at Culloden.
4. William, of the medical profession. Provost of Inverness, 1773-1776, 1779-1782, died 1807. He married (1) Janet, dau. of John Mackintosh, (2) Catherine, dau. of Baillie. Seven children.
5. Roderick, who held the rank of Colonel in the army of Prince Charles and was killed at Culloden.
by his second wife;
6. Lillias, who married Col. Alexander Fraser.

XXII. Alexander Chisholm, died Dec. 1785, married (1) Elizabeth, daughter of Mackenzie of Applecross, married (2) Margaret Mackenzie. In 1777, Alexander made a strict entail on the heirs male of his body, failing whom to the heirs male of the body of Alexander Chisholm of Muckerach, whom failing "to my nearest and lawful heirs whatsoever the eldest heir female." enjoining him to "bear the arms and designation of" Chisholm of Chisholm. He had issue:

1. Duncan, b. 1747, d. Oct. 23, 1782, before his father. He served in America and died unmarried.
2. Alexander, his heir.
3. Margaret, m. Hugh Fraser of Dunballoch and Newton.
4. Anne, m. Roderick Mackenzie, II. of Scotsburn.
by second wife:
5. Roderick, died prior to his brother Alexander.
6. William, succeeded his brother Alexander as chief.
7. James, died abroad unmarried.
8. Mary, m. Dec. 20, 1789, Maj. William Robertson.
9. Lillias, m. Gen. John Mackenzie of Belville.
10. A daughter, died old, unmarried.

XXIII. Alexander Chisholm, generally known as "AN Siosal Ban" or the fair-haired Chisholm. To make a title he espede a general service on June 7, 1786 before the Sheriff of Edinburgh as nearest and lawful heir male and heir of entail and provision of his father, which carried the personal right to the deed of entail of 1777. He married in 1776, Elizabeth, daughter of George Wilson, of Edinburgh. He d. Feb. 7, 1793. His wife d. Jan. 23, 1826, in London.

Alexander Chisholm had issue an only daughter, Mary, born Mar. 25, 1780, who married James Gooden of London. The "History of the Chisholms" by Alexander Mackenzie, is inscribed to the memory of Mary Chisholm (afterwards Mrs. James Gooden, London) in these words. "Anoble-souled woman, whose warm-hearted and patriotic conduct towards her father's and, subsequently, her mother's tenants in Strathglass, under the most trying circumstances, first attracted the authors attention to her clan, and without whose inspiration this book would never have

The explanation for this inscription is more clearly understood from the following manuscript note by James Logan, author of the Scottish Gael and quoted by Mr. Mackenzie in his book. He says; "Of Alexander it must be recorded to his honour as a chief and a generous landlord, that he did not suffer himself to be infected with the mania for sheep farming which has proved so lamentable a scourge to a deserving and unobtrusive race. He firmly resisted the importunities of his friends and unaffected by the prospect of an increased rental, he preferred allowing his lands to be occupied by his attached clansmen, whose natural father and protector he was, to a forcible expulsion of his faithful descendants to give room for sheep and their heartless attendants. The southland shepherds could not tempt him with their golden offers. The cheerless glens, and the reproaches of those who had once enlivened the scene by their rustic joys were not to be endured by a feeling heart, and the utmost reasoning of Coiremonaidh (Grant of Corriemoney) of whom better might have been expected, backed by others, failed in persuading him that the change was just. Time has shown whose views were correct. Affluence has not always followed introduction of sheep, but many who depopulated their lands to form sheep walks have themselves been forced to abandon a country which ought to have been ever their paternal homes. Fortune may again restore a Highland laird to his native hills---but his clansmen? He may exclaim 'Where' and he will be answered by MacTalla with the sure and mournful response, 'Where'."

Alexander wisely made provision for his widow in a form which subsequently proved a great blessing to a considerable number of his brothers tenants in Strathglass. He left her a specified sum of money per annum, or alternately the rents of certain townships or joint farms on the estate as jointure. On the death of her husband in 1793, Mrs. Chisholm, on the advice of her daughter Mary, made choice of the farms with the result that when, eight years later, in 1801, nearly all the rest of the population of the Strath were evicted by her late husband's half brother, she found herself in a position to keep all the tenants of these farms in possession of their holdings where they remained in comfortable circumstances until her death on Jan. 23, 1826, when the whole of the estate, unfortunately for them, reverted to Alexander William Chisholm, the XXV. chief, who a few years later cleared Strathglass of every remaining tenant of his name and clan within its bounds with the exception of two.

Mary Chisholm, only child of Alexander XXIII., married Dec. 12, 1812, James Gooden a wealthy London merchant, and had issue:

I. James Chisholm Gooden, b. Sept. 26, 1816. He married Anne Elizabeth daughter of Mr. John Lambert, whose family have held lands at Banstead since the times of the Edwards. Upon the death of Roderick Chisholm the XXVIII and last chief in the male line of descent, Mr. Gooden, applied for and obtained from the Lord Lyon a grant ex gratia of the undifferenced coat of Chisholm, with supporters clubs reversed to show female descent, and license to use the surname Chisholm conjointly with and in addition to his own. Under the entail of 1777, he should have inherited the estates but as will be shown later he was cheated out of his just heritage. He had issue;

a. Chisholm Gooden, b. Sept. 27, 1856.

b. John Lambert Chisholm Gooden, b. Feb. 6, 1858., d. Sept. 30, 1884.

c. Roderick Chisholm Gooden, b. Jan. 30, 1864. he was an officer in the 3rd Bat. Seaforth Highlanders and his son Alastair, who resides at Colbrooke House, Herts and Cnoc-An-Flurain, in Argyll is now the present chief of the clan.

d. Katherine Mary Chisholm Gooden, who married (1) 1871, Francis Lindsay Blackwood with issue a child that died in infancy, and married (2) 1879, Henry Valentine Corrie, a member of the Stock Exchange. No Issue.

e. Anne Elizabeth Chisholm Gooden, who married 1877, Arnold

Trinder, solicitor, London, with issue Arnold James, William Valentine, Robert Ellet d. young, Annie Sophia and Alice Mary.

f. Hannah Lucy Gooden.

g. Henrietta Ellen Gooden, who married, 1886, her third cousin, Robert Marshall Middleton, barrister, London.

2. Alexander Chisholm, b. Apr. 4, 1818, d. Aug. 22, 1841.

I have elaborated upon the life and times of Alexander Chisholm the XXII XXIII chief of the clan and his descendants because of the fact that he was of the same generation of descent as our own ancestor Archibald and because his descendant, Alastair, is the present chief.

XXIV. William Chisholm, half brother of Alexander XXIII, succeeded upon Aug. 8, 1793. He m. (1) Mar. 12, 1795, Elizabeth Macdonell, daughter of Duncan Macdonell XIV of Glengarry. He d. Mar. 22, 1817, and she m. (2) Sir Thomas Ramsey, baronet of Balmain. She d. Oct. 17, 1859, age 82.

William Chisholm was given a magnificent funeral costing over 747 pounds which caused considerable controversy among his heirs. He had issue;

1. Alexander William, b. Feb. 15, 1810. His heir.

2. Duncan Macdonell, b. Aug. 5, 1811. Who succeeded his brother.

3. Jemima, who m. Aug. 1, 1843, Edmund Chisholm Batten, of Thornfalcon, who upon the death of her brother Duncan Macdonell, in 1858, acquired by purchase his untailed lands of Aigais and Erchless Castle the seat of the Chisholms for six hundred years. They at the time assumed the surname Chisholm before that of Batten by Royal license. She d. Aug. 1883, leaving issue two sons and four daughters. This family held the estate until recent years but it has now passed to other owners.

XXV. Alexander William Chisholm, b. Feb. 15, 1810, d. unmarried Sept. 8, 1838. He was a child of seven at the time he became chief. In 1831, he evicted all remaining tenants of the estate. He was a Member of Parliament.

XXVI. Duncan Macdonell Chisholm, b. Aug. 5, 1811, brother of XXV, d. Sept. 14, 1858, unmarried. He spent most of his life in London. Mr. Colin Chisholm, writing in 1857, a year before Duncan died observes that "it is a question whether the present Chisholm could muster six tenants of his own name on the whole of Strathglass. Sheep and deer now graze on its lonely hills and glens. As for the people of Clan Siosal, they are almost to a man banished from the place occupied by their forefathers for centuries and had to seek asylum in other lands." Mr. Mackenzie adds that "matters are not much better as we write in 1890."

XXVII. James Sutherland Chisholm, great-grandson of Alexander Chisholm, founder of the Muckerach branch of the family, succeeded to the estates as male heir under the terms of the entail of 1777. He was at the time employed in a mercantile house in Montreal. After securing the estates he returned to Canada and there married Nov. 13, 1861, a relative of his own, Annie Cecelia Macdonell, daughter of Angus Macdonell, a cadet of Glengarry. He died at Erchless Castle, May 28, 1885, in his 80th year. Shortly before his death, on his son Roderick becoming of age, he took advantage of an act of Parliament and barred the entail of 1777, so that his son Roderick was able to leave the estates with a rental of 10,000 pounds a year to his mother.

He had issue;

1. Roderick Donald Matheson, b. Sept. 20, 1862, d. Apr. 24, 1887, unmarried.

2. Mary Isabella, d. young.

3. Louisa Jane.

4. Annie Margaret.

XXVIII. Roderick Donald Matheson Chisholm, b. Sept. 20, 1862, died unmarried at March Hall, near Edinburgh, Apr. 24, 1887. He is interred in the family burying ground near Erchless Castle. His father who was last male heir under the terms of the entail of 1777, having disentailed the estate, Roderick was able to leave the estates, with a rental of 10,000 pounds a year, by trust disposition to his mother. He was the last male heir of Muckerach and entail.

The Chisholm estate was located in Kilmorack and Kiltarlity parishes in north-west Inverness-shire. It comprised about 900 acres of arable land in Kilmorack, and 750 in Kiltarlity, besides a vast extent of woodland, mountain pasture, and picturesque Highland scenery. Its principle seat is Erchless Castle a lofty turreted building erected in the fifteenth century and it has also a romantic shooting lodge on Loch Affric. A mountain defile in it bears the name of "Chisholm's Pass" and forms the entrance to Strathaffric. The ascent to it commands north-eastward or behind, a noble vista of Strathglass, and it overlooks, in front a wooded, rocky, impetuous reach of the river Affric, with several cascades from 10 to 30 feet high.

The castle is located in Kiltarlity parish near the left bank of the Beauly, 5 furlongs north of the confluence of the Glass and the Farrar, and 10 miles west south-west of Beauly town. A modernised, yet still stately old pile, lofty and narrow, it stands in a fine park, completely encircled by wooded hills. From the 15th century onwards it has been the seat of the Chisholms. They were zealous Jacobites, garrisoning their castle after Killiecrankie, and fighting at Sheriffmuir and Culloden.

Muckrach or Muckerach House is described as a mansion in the parish of Duthil and Rothiemurchus, Inverness-shire, on the left bank of the Duinnain, 4 miles south-west of Grantown. At the time it was the property of the Countess-Dowager of Seafield. Muckrach Castle, built in 1598 by the second son of John Grant of Freuchie, was the first possession of the Grants of Rothiemurchus, and is a roofless ruin, itself somewhat picturesque, and beautifully situated.

It is a long cry from the Chisholm's Pass in Inverness-shire to the Chisholm Trail in Texas, but there must be a relationship if we only knew it. The Chisholm Trail was named after Jesse Chisholm, born in Tennessee about 1806, a pioneer guide, scout, interpreter and trader who died in Mar. 1868. His home was at Camp Holmes on the Canadian River. In the spring of 1865 he went south from Arkansas to the valley of the upper Washita on a trading trip. The road over which he travelled being ever afterward known as the Chisholm Trail and destined to become famous during the days of the overland cattle traffic. His father was Scotch and his mother a Cherokee Indian. There is a small town twenty five miles north-east of Dallas, Texas named Chisholm.

The only other Chisholm family in the United States of whom I have any knowledge is Alexander Chisolme of Charlestown, S.C. He was the son of Archibald Chisholm of Fasnakyle House and emigrated in 1717, and married Feb. 26, 1742, Judith Radcliffe. He has many descendants among whom is William Garnett Chisolm of Baltimore, Md. In 1914, he published a genealogy of this branch of the family.
