DOANE BLOOD COLCORD,
THE AUTHOR.

COLCORD GENEALOGY.

FOREWORD.

This record aims to prove that the Colcords of New Hampshire and Maine, whence have come all the Colcords in the United States, are the descendants of Samuel Colcord, of Kingston, N. H., and of his father Edward, of Dover, who came to New England about 1630-31 from Hants Co., England.

Only those families bearing the Colcord name have been recorded in the body of this book, later than the 7th generation from Edward.

The author desires to extend his most grateful acknowledgements and thanks to the many relatives and friends who have kindly aided and encouraged him in his work, and especially to Prof. D. H. Colcord, of Pomona College, Cal., Prof. E. J. Bartlett, of Dartmouth College; Miss J. C. Colcord, of Orono A. College, Me., whose witty and felicitous suggestions furnished some valuable clues; A. D. Colcord, of Winterport, Me., ("An Old River Town") of which he has published the history in an attractive book; and to Edwin R. Towle, author of "Towle Genealogy," who has kindly furnished much original information, besides the large amount transcribed from his well-written book. M. J. Colcord, co-laborer and publisher, has also furnished a large portion of the records.

Thanks are also due to Sarah E. Cushman of the N. E. Gen. Society, of Boston, Mass., for careful and painstaking work in searching for ancient records relating to the Colcord families and relatives in the N. E. Hist. & Gen. Soc. Library at Boston.

D. B. COLCORD.

Creswell, Oregon, Oct. 10, 1908.

The Colcott Crest.

GENERATION I.

Of Edward Colcord,¹ the first of that name to settle in America.

Edward Colcott, or Colcord, came to Portsmouth, N.H., from Hants County, England, about 1631, when he was fifteen years old. The name is derived from Cole, an old English name, and Cote or Cot, a cottage or house with lands adjoining. The Colcott "Crest" is a sitting lion ("lion sejant") collared and lined with the motto: "Dieu Avec Nous" beneath, which is a part of the coat of arms of the Earl of Berkeley—conferred by authority. The first Earl of Berkeley was created in 1421 (Burke). His name was also spelled Colcote.

When Edward¹ came to Portsmouth, in 1631, "there were," he affirms, "but three houses in all that side of the country adjoining Pascataqua River."

He went to Exeter and resided in or near there until after 1638. He married Ann (e) Page and was in "Pasquatiquate," or Dover, in 1640, being 5th grantee in the list of the first grants given. He signed a petition for an independent government, sent to the King in 1642, and in 1643, June 14, was appointed "Magistrate" of Dover with two associates by the "Court of Mass." He returned to Exeter in 1644, was in Hampton, a few miles east of Exeter, in 1645, and by "grants" and trading acquired lands in Dover, Exeter and New Market.

He was often engaged in litigation, a man of independent spirit who chafed under restraint, and loved adventure. He had many friends and not a few enemies. He raised a large family, the daughters marrying into some of the best of the colonist families, and becoming the mothers of the Dearborn, Hobbs, Fifield, Coffin, and Stevens families. His oldest son, Jonathan, died in his twenty-first year (1661) and his two remaining sons marched to Rhode Island in the King Phillips' War, in which Edward, Jr., was slain by the Indians at North Hill, June 13, 1677; a young man of promise "whose death was greatly regretted."

Edward¹ was now past 60 years old and February 10, 1681-2, he died at Hampton, N. H., where all his children were raised.

GENERATION II.

Family of Edward.¹

Children of Edward¹ and Ann (Page) Colcord.

- Jonathan, born 1641; died 1661. No record.
- (a) Hannah, born 1645, Hampton; married Thos. Dearborn.
- (b) Sarah, born 1647, Hampton; married John Hobbs, Dec. 28, 1655.
- (c) Mary, born Oct. 14, 1649, Hampton; married Rev. Benj. Fifield, 1670.
Edward, Jr., born Feb. 2, 1651, Hampton; slain by Indians, June 13, 1677.
- (d) Samuel, Lieut., born 1656; married Mary Ayer in 1680-1.
- (e) Mehitabel, born 1658; married Nathaniel Stevens of Salisbury.
Shuah, born 1660. No record.
- (f) Deborah, born 1664; married Tristram Coffin about 1684.
Abigail, born July 23, 1667.

^a Hannah (Colcord) Dearborn married in Hampton, N. H., where her descendants still live, and where her father died, was the mother of a large and influential family. Her husband, Thomas Dearborn, was born in 1634 in England, and came to Hampton, N. H., early in its history.

Her grandson, Reuben Dearborn, married Esther Hobbs, a grand daughter of her sister Sarah (Colcord) Hobbs.

Fifteen Dearborns were among the Alumni of Dartmouth College, catalogue of 1900. Nearly all were from the original Hampton family. Henry Dearborn, born at Hampton in 1751 was a Major in the Revolutionary Army, A. M. C., and later Secretary of War.

^b Sarah (Colcord) Hobbs was the ancestress of Reuben Towle, the founder of the Franklin, Vermont branch of the Towle family of Hampton, N. H. Reuben's grandmother, Sarah Hobbs (Towle) was a granddaughter of Sarah Colcord, Edward's¹ daughter.

Capt. Hobbs of the Colonial Army, 1755, was a descendant. Deacon Hobbs, Sarah's husband, was a pious man and lived to an advanced age, dying in Hampton.

^c Rev. Benj. Fifield, Mary's husband, died at Hampton Falls.

^d Lieut. Samuel Colcord² went with his brother Edward² to aid the Colonial Army in King Phillips' War in 1677, in which his brother was slain and where he probably earned his promotion. On his return he met Mary Ayer, of Haverhill, Mass., daughter of Thomas Ayer, Jr., and Elizabeth (Hutchins), born March 22, 1660-1, in Haverhill, Mass., whom he afterwards married.

After Samuel's² return he was a member of the New Hampshire Legislature, or Council, in 1682. He married Miss Ayer in 1680, his son Samuel, Jr., being born in 1682, March 11, in Hampton.

In 1689 he petitions about lands in ancient Dover, which had been destroyed by Indians, and in 1694 was one of the grantees of Kingston, which he thereafter became very active in founding and building up. He moved there with his family and settled about 1690, but on account of Indian raids he returned to his relatives and lands in Hampton and Newmarket, remaining there until ordered to return to Kingston, by the Council at Plymouth in 1707. Meantime his oldest sons, Samuel, Jr., and Jonathan had grown to be young men, and Samuel Jr., married Lieut. Peter Folsom's daughter, of Exeter, in September, 1704. Samuel, Sr., and Samuel, Jr., returned to Kingston after the order of the Council in 1707, and Samuel, the elder, resided there until his death in 1736, Oct. 10. His wife, Mary, died May 5, 1739.

His eldest son, Samuel, Lieut. Jr., born 1682, died about 1716, and his widow, Elizabeth, married Samuel Sanborn. Hence the two Samuel Colcords, mentioned in the list of "Men of Kingston," 1727, must have been Lieut. Samuel, Sr., born 1656, and his grandson, Samuel, born 1710, then a young man. Lieut. Samuel Colcord, Sr., both by marriage and association, was connected with some of the influential families of his time, and has been highly spoken of by the early historians, as a man of sterling worth, patriotic, brave and energetic, an active church worker and a kind husband and father.

He lived to see Kingston rebuilt, after Indian raids, and to found, with others, the first church there, in which some of his children were baptised and married. Some of his descendants still own the lands first granted to him.

His daughter, Hannah, married a grandson of the Rev. Samuel Dudley, first pastor of Exeter Congregational Church, 1658, who was the eldest son of Gov. Thomas Dudley, of Ipswich, Mass.

^e Mehitable² was second wife of Nathaniel Stevens, of Salisbury, N. H. Married in 1677. He died in 1682, leaving her a widow. He was born in 1611, the son of John and Katherine Stevens, of England.

^f The Coffins immigrated from Devonshire, England, with the Tristrams and others between 1629 and 1640.

Deborah's² descendants intermarried with the Colcords and Towles in later generations, and the name Tristum or Tristram persists in many of the Colcord and Towle families, as well as in the numerous Coffin families to the present day.

The records of the families of Edward's¹ daughters have not been followed in this genealogy, except in a few instances, but may be found (incomplete) in several published volumes, and also in the N. E. Gen. & Hist. Register (60 vols.) and elsewhere.

In the Fourth and later generations the Dearborns and descendants of Edward Colcord¹ became connected by marriage, while the Coffins, re-entering the Colcord family through Bartholomew Thyng, and the Dudleys, by several intermarriages, joined the Colcords.

The descendants of Edward's¹ daughters became very numerous—the first families being large and far exceeding in numbers the male line—as Samuel, only, of Edward's sons lived to be the father of children.

GENERATION III.

*Family of Samuel.²*Children of Samuel² and Mary (Ayer) Colcord, of Hampton, N. H.

(a) Lieut. Samuel, Jr., born March 11, 1682; married Elizabeth Folsom.

(b) Jonathan, born March 4, 1684.

Elizabeth, born 1682.

(c) Hannah, born 1689; married Samuel Dudley, of Kingston, 1709.

(d) Edward, born 1692; married Mary Gordan or Gording.

(e) Ebenezer, born 1695; married Hannah Fellows, 1715.

(f) Mary, born 1698; married Thomas K. Sleeper 1714.

^a Samuel Colcord³, Jr., Lieutenant in French and Indian War, born after the return of his father from the King Phillip's War, where his uncle Edward, Jr., was slain; went with his father to the new town of Kingston, northwest of Exeter, and lived there until about 1700, when, being compelled to leave the place by Indian raids, the family returned to their lands in Exeter and New Market.

In 1689 there was no government with recognized authority to govern the settlements in New Hampshire, and much confusion and litigation arose over the various land grants. In 1690 neither the Plymouth nor Massachusetts Bay Colony had a charter, but a new charter was granted in 1691, and Samuel³ was made a grantee of lands at Kingston in 1694. In 1707, being ordered by the Council at Plymouth to return to their habitation in Kingston, Samuel³, now about 25 years old, married Miss Folsom of Exeter, daughter of Lieut. Peter Folsom, and returned with his father to Kingston where his children, Peter, Elizabeth, Samuel B., Benjamin and Mary were born.

Samuel³ died shortly after the birth of his last child (1715) and his widow married Samuel Sanborn in 1716. The date of his death is lacking.

^b Jonathan Colcord³ was named for his uncle, Edward's first born, who died in 1661. While a young lad his father was called to Military duty in the "Garritson" of Oyster River (near Exeter) on account of Indian troubles, and later was driven from his new home in Kingston. He was ordered to return to Kingston with Samuel, his father, in 1707, but does not appear to have made a permanent home there as we find he owned land near Exeter through which a "highway" passed in 1732 (N. H. State paper, p. 632) and his son shipped cattle from this land (in W. New-Market) to "Passamaquade Meadows" in 1775.

Jonathan was recorded as one of the earliest settlers of New Market, and owned lands "partly in New Market and partly in Exeter" (New Market Directory S. New Market families). No complete record of his children has been found. He died in 1773, Dec. 31. (Wilson Colcord's record). His son Jonathan, Jr., born about 1710, succeeded him on the farm and lived there until after the close of the Revolutionary War, and probably died there. He was married about 1708, or possibly earlier, his wife's name being unknown, not having been found in any records, so far as the author can learn, though much sought after.

^c Hannah (Colcord) Dudley married a grandson of the Rev. Samuel Dudley, the first settled pastor of Exeter, 1658, (Congregational Church) who was the oldest son of Gov. Thomas Dudley of the Massachusetts Bay Colony. Rev. Samuel's wife was Mary Winthrop, daughter of Gov. Winthrop, of Massachusetts. A descendant of the family, also named Samuel Dudley, lives now on the old home-stead in "Brentwood" (1907)—A. W. Dudley.

^d Edward³, who married Mary Gordon ("Gording") in 1714, was a little child during the troublous times, about 1700, and before his father returned to Kingston was about 15 or 16 years old. His marriage in 1714 is given in the Kingston Records, and also the birth of Edward, Jr., in 1715. He appears as a resident of S. W. Exeter after 1730, and is not in the list of inhabitants of Kingston in 1727. In 1730 Samuel and others petitioned for "more lands for their children," and in 1731 Edward, Jr., was living in the west part of Exeter (afterwards called "Hawke," now Marshall's Corner) where meetings were held, and the "West Society" of Exeter organized. On petition a church was formed, meetings held at first "at house of Edward Colcord, Jr."—Hawke Church Records. Later a new town was asked for and Brentwood was granted in 1742, Edward and Ebenezer being among the grantees. Edward was selectman in 1748 "in Parish of Keeneborough," and he and Edward, Jr., were residents of Brentwood for many years.

^e Ebenezer³ was associated with Edward³ in organizing Brentwood, and in 1745 "was miller of the grist mill at Crawley's Falls." Ebenezer, Jr., was born in 1726 (Kingston Records) "baptized April 10th, 1726," and was found in Brentwood in 1742 and at Crawley's Falls in 1745. He was a "selectman of Brentwood" in 1776. He died in 1824, nearly a century old. It has been found very difficult to trace Ebenezer's family, records being absent or uncertain. It seems that one of the three John Colcords in the Revolutionary War was the son of Ebenezer⁴, and one was the son of Edward⁴. The list of Jonathan's⁴ sons in the New Market Directory does not contain the name of John, and Daniel is the only recorded son of Samuel B⁴. Recent proofs make it probable that the thrd soldier John was a grandson of Edward³ and a son of John⁴. It seems established also by tradition that Ebenezer⁵, Jr., born about 1750, was the grandfather of Ebenezer⁷ Payson Colcord, of Turner, Me., who married Sarah Towne in 1836.

[†] Mary³ (Colcord) Sleeper married Thomas Sleeper in Kingston, N. H., in 1714, and was probably the grandmother of Hon. Jonathan Fifield Sleeper, A. M., a teacher of note, who died in Kingston in 1804. He received his degree from Dartmouth College in 1786. He was the first of nine Sleepers of the Alumni of the College, Catalogue of 1900. I have noted only a few of Mary's numerous descendants, Edward's¹ grandchildren numbered about forty persons in the year 1700, of whom only four bore the name of Colcord. Of these four, Samuel³ settled in Kingston and died there. Jonathan³ went back to Exeter and New Market and owned lands in both townships, while Edward³ and Ebenezer³ settled in S. W. Exeter and Brentwood, after living in New Market a few years, before their father returned to Kingston.

GENERATION IV.

Families of Samuel,³ Jonathan,³ Hannah,³ Edward,³ and Ebenezer³, (of Samuel², Edward¹.)

1. Children of Samuel³ and Elizabeth (Folsom) Colcord.

- (a) Peter, born June 27, 1705.
- (b) Elizabeth, born 1708, Kingston, N. H.; died 1735; unmarried.
- (c) Samuel B., born Aug. 22, 1710, Kingston; married Mehitable Ladd, 1732.
Benjamin, born 1712; died, young.
Mary, born 1715; married Col. Eben Stevens, 1736, Kingston.

^a Peter Colcord⁴ was born during Indian Wars and probably while his father was in New Market or Hampton. He was captured by the Indians in 1724 and carried away with several others, but escaped "by his own courage and ingenuity," and on his return reported "the Indians' proceedings," which was "advantageous to the government," for which service the General Assembly of New Hampshire voted (Sept. 27, 1724) to pay him 10£. He was then on an "expedition against the Indians," from which he evidently returned in safety, as we find the name Peter Colcord among the signers of petitions later, (1778-1785) but no record of his marriage or family is at hand.

^b One Elizabeth Colcord died at Kingston in 1735, either Elizabeth⁴ or Elizabeth³.

^c Samuel B⁴., whose father died when he was a lad of six or seven years, probably lived with his mother after she married her second husband, Samuel Sanborn, and was one of the inhabitants of Kingston in 1727, when a "list of Kingston men" was taken. He was a grantee of Stevenstown in 1749. He was associated with Bartlett, Stevens, Dudley and other noted families.

^d Mary⁴, the youngest child of Samuel³ and Elizabeth, was married into the Stevens family, into which her grandfather's sister, Mehitable, had also married, from which family the new town of Stevenstown was named, in which many of her relatives were grantees in 1749.

2. Children of Jonathan³ and — Colcord.

- (a) Jonathan, Jr., born 1710 New Market or vic; married Sarah Burleigh.
 John, born 1715.
 Samuel, born 1724; died 1824.
 Hannah, married Josiah Gilman.

^a Jonathan⁴ was born after his father had been ordered to return to Kingston (Council at Plymouth, 1707) but if his father went to Kingston, he soon returned to the farm in New Market (and Exeter) where he seems to have lived and died. He was recorded as owning a farm "which lay partly in Exeter" and through which a "highway" was laid out in 1732, from Nottingham to New Market. His sons' names, but no dates, are given in the Exeter and New Market Directory 1872(Beckett). From the Waterboro Bible, copied by Ralph B. Colcord's father, Ivory, in 1828, his oldest son Jonathan, Jr., was born in 1743. In 1760 Jonathan and Jonathan, Jr., were on a petition in New Market as "Freeholders." In Oct. 1775, "Jona" Colcord paid one day's work on rafts for defense at Newington. In 1775 he, (Jonathan, Jr.) petitioned for permission to ship his cattle to "Passamaquade" to winter, but this must have been Jonathan⁴ as Jonathan³ died in 1773. In 1778 Jonathan is mentioned as a member of the "West Society," New Market.

Hannah Colcord⁴, who married Benjamin Dearborn about 1738 and moved to Plymouth, was probably Jonathan's daughter. No proofs.—Dearborn Gen.

One of the John Colcords of army record was undoubtedly Jonathan's son, but we have only proofs of time and place of enlistment, without exact dates.

3. Children of Hannah³ (Colcord) and Samuel Dudley.

(a) Hannah Dudley, born 1716; married Josiah Thyng, of Brentwood.

(b) Samuel Dudley, Jr., born 1711. See Dudley Genealogy.

This line not followed.

^a The Thyng family is followed only to establish the genealogy of Eliphalet⁷ and John⁶ Colcord of later generations.

^b Samuel Dudley, Jr., was the ancestor of a Samuel Dudley who still occupies a portion of the original land-grant to Gov. Dudley, Samuel's³ grandfather.

4. Children of Edward³, and Mary (Gordon) Colcord.

(a) Edward, born 1715; married Jane Coffin of Exeter, N. H.

John, born about 1718; married —; see John (5). Brentwood.

(b) Gideon, born 1720-23; married Rachel Parsons of Cape Ann, Mass.

Anne, born 1722-24; married Robert Evans, of Dover, N. H.

Jane, probably; no dates.

^a Edward⁴ lived in New Market, S. W. Exeter and Brentwood, or "Hawke." He married in 1741, Kingston Records, and was living with his father, or near him, in S. W. Exeter, until Brentwood was organized in 1742. His wife, Jane Coffin, was the granddaughter of Tristram and Deborah² (Colcord) Coffin, born March 11, 1721. His father and uncle Ebenezer, became leading members of the new town of Brentwood, but Edward, Jr., was living in New Market in 1760, and later was an inhabitant of Exeter, where his wife's relatives lived. He was an active church worker, and among the organizers of the first church at "Hawke," now Danville, about 1731. The society first met at the house of Edward, Jr., Marshalls Corners.

^b Gideon⁴ Colcord, of New Market, date of birth uncertain, signed a petition in 1760 with his brother Edward Dearborn (Hist. of Parsonfield) says he was the father of six sons. He died at the age of 50, before the Revolution. His widow married Samuel Lane, of Stratham, in 1774. His wife, Rachel Parsons, was born June 29, 1726; died Jan. 18, 1813. She was a daughter of Josiah and Eunice Parsons.

5. Children of Ebenezer³ and Hannah (Fellows) Colcord.

- (a) Ebenezer, Jr., born Jan. 1, 1726; married Patience Stevens 1749; Kingston, N. H.
- (b) Samuel, born February 5, 1721-2; married——; Kingston and New Hampton.
 - Abigail, born May 18, 1733; died Oct. 20, 1735, Kingston.
 - Peter, born March 19, 1727-8; died, infant.
 - Mary, born Aug. 1st, 1735; married——; Kingston.
 - Hannah, born 1730, about; baptized June 1730; died, Sept. 1735, Kingston.
 - Ebenezer, born May 1, 1724; died same date.

^a Ebenezer⁴ Colcord was married Jan. 22, 1749-50, and his oldest son Ebenezer,⁵ Jr., was probably born 1751-2. No complete record of his children has been found.

^b Samuel⁴ Colcord was probably the grandfather of Samuel⁶ of Exeter, born 1774—See Gen. 6.

The Sleeper family, of Mary³ (Colcord) Sleeper, not followed.

CHARLES B. COLCORD.

1793—1854.

See Page 32.

GENERATION V.

Families of Peter,⁴ and Samuel B.⁴, (of Samuel,³ Samuel,² Edward.¹)

1. Children of Peter⁴ and (—) Colcord.

Peter, born 1730; no record.

2. Children of Samuel B.⁴ and Mehitable (Ladd) Colcord.

Elizabeth, born 1739, Kingston; married Nath'l French, Jr., in 1758.

Mary, born 1744; no record.

(a) Daniel, born Oct. 16, 1747; married Dolly Clifford, about 1779, Kingston, N. H.

(b) Mehitable, born March 28, 1751; married Wm. Patten in 1774; Kingston, N. H.

(c) Hannah, born March 13, 1754; married Dr. Joseph Bartlett, Dec. 16, 1773.

^a Daniel Colcord had a son born in 1781; date of marriage unknown.

^b The Patten family record has been published, in part, by Hon. Colcord Patten, Mehitable's son. Only a few of the members are given in this book.

^c Hannah⁵ Colcord who married Dr. Bartlett when only nineteen years of age, went immediately to Salisbury, N. H., where she became the mother of a large and influential family, a part of which is given in this record. Her second son, Samuel Colcord Bartlett, was the father of the late President of Dartmouth College, Rev. Dr. Samuel Colcord Bartlett, LL. D., etc.

Families of Jonathan⁴ and Hannah,⁴ (of Jonathan,³ Samuel,² Edward.¹)

1. Children of Jonathan⁴ and Sarah (Burleigh) Colcord.

(a) Jonathan, Jr., born Sept. 26, 1743; married Elizabeth Boardman.

(b) David, born 1745; married Eunice Parsons about 1776-7.

(c) Samuel, born 1748; married 1st Mary Pearson and 2nd, Anna Robinson.

(d) Joseph, born 1750; married Fanny Russell in 1776.

William, born 1753; married---	} Dates approximate. Names given in (Exeter and New Mar- ket Directory) Beckett 1872.
Mary, born 1756; married---
John, born 1757-60; married---

^a Jonathan⁵ Colcord, Jr., whose farm lay partly in New Market and partly in Exeter (Beckett) and whose birth was recorded in the Waterboro, Maine, Family Bible, whose record was copied by Ralph B. Colcord and sent to the author in 1907, was a farmer and stockman, occupying lands owned by his father, from grants given to Edward¹, probably, by the Exeter and Hampton Colonies. He was a member of the "West Society" with Eliphalet and Peter Colcord in 1778, built rafts, for defense, at Newington in 1775, and signed petitions in New Market in 1784 and 1785. He died in Maine, Feb. 21, 1804, probably at Waterboro.

^b David⁵ Colcord's date of birth is not found in the records. As his elder brother Jonathan was born in 1743, and as he entered the Army in 1775, his birth would be between 1744-5 and 1754. He married in 1776-7, his wife, Eunice Parsons being probably a niece of Gideon's⁴ wife, who had a sister Eunice Parsons, and whose youngest daughter was named Eunice. David was associated with Gideon's son, Josiah, in the army and his name was on petitions with John, Peter, Edward and Eliphalet Colcord in 1784 and 1785. He was in New Market, census of 1790, as head of a family. He was a farmer and blacksmith. He moved to Londonderry where his oldest son, David⁶, was born in 1778. Date of death not known.

^c Samuel⁵ Colcord, of New Market (Cogswell), married Mary Pearson, Sept. 9, 1772, by whom he had seven children. He was a pious man and good singer, greatly loved and respected. At his death "more than one hundred neighbors gathered around his dying bed to hear him sing Psalms." He lived in Nottingham, was very prosperous, built saw and grist mills, and died March 25, 1824.

^d Joseph⁵ Colcord, who married Fanny Russell, lived in New Market, N.H., and was a soldier of the Revolution, a corporal in the same Company as David and Josiah in November, 1775, and with Job or Joab in 1777. The names of his children and of some of his grandchildren are found in Beckett's Exeter and New Market Directory, page 131-2.

Of Jonathan's remaining children, William, Mary and perhaps Jesse and John, we have no certain knowledge.

Of the three John Colcords in the Army, one was probably Jonathan's son.

2. Children of Hannah⁴ Colcord and Daniel Gilman.

Abigail Gilman, born 1740-50. No further record. Probably married William Moore of Stratham. See Gen. 7.

Families of Edward⁴ and Gideon,⁴ (of Edward,³ Samuel,² Edward.¹)

1. Children of Edward⁴ and Jane (Coffin) Colcord.

(a) Edward, born 1743; married——, Exeter, N. H. See Army Rolls.

(b) John, Lieut., born 1746-7; married Helena Carpenter, of Exeter.

Jane, born 1748.

Harvey, born 1750.

^a Edward⁵ Colcord was born in S. W. Exeter, or Brentwood about the date of the organization of Brentwood.

^b John⁵ Colcord's wife, Helena Carpenter, was the daughter of Anthony Carpenter who died in the year 1760 when she was about three years old, and she went to Exeter to live with an older sister, who married Hon. Nath'l Rogers. She was married in 1780-82, and had two sons, John C. and Tristram C., named for her husband's father and grandfather (Coffin). John⁵ died July 27, 1821, at 75. (E. R. Towle). He was a 1st Lieutenant in the Revolutionary Army. Lieut. John Colcord enlisted May 26, 1775, Sergeant; commissioned as 2d Lieutenant in 1777; 1st Lieutenant 1st Co. 2d Battalion Continental Army in 1778 (2d N. H. Continental Regt.) He was of New Market, discharged at White Plains, Aug., 1778.

Another John Colcord enlisted June 6, 1775, in Capt. Samuel Gilman's Co. at 28; born 1746 or '47.

There were two soldiers in Col. Stephen Evans' Reg't named John Colcord, in Sept. 1777, at Saratoga.

Lieut. John's brother, Edward,⁵ enlisted in the same company with him in 1775 ("Edw. Calkert")—Army Rolls.

3. Children of Gideon⁴ and Rachel (Parsons) Colcord.

- (a) Gideon, born about 1750; married (1) Mary Moore, (2) Mrs. L. Lyford.
- (b) Nathaniel, born March 2, 1755; married Rachel Whidden.
- (c) Josiah, born April 10, 1755; married Mary Shepard in 1783.
- (d) Joab, born 1760; married——; had four sons.
 - Jeremiah, born 1762; died in Parsonsfield, Me.
 - Benjamin, born 1765; married——; of Northwood, N. H.
- (e) Eunice, born 1767; married Jabez Lane of Stratham, N. H.

^a Gideon⁵ Colcord, of New Market, (Wm. Lane's Defts, N. E. Hist. & Gen. Reg. Vol. 27, p. 179) probably married Mary Moore, of Stratham, whose mother was Abigail⁵ Gilman, a daughter of Hannah⁴ Colcord, for his first wife, and after her death married the widow of Theophilus Lyford, of Exeter, nee Lois James—complete proofs are lacking. See Dudley Genealogy.

^b Nathaniel,⁵ of Hallowell, Me., was born in New Market, went to Hallowell in August, 1794, and had two daughters born there, the five older children being born in New Hampshire. Only a partial record of this family is given here.

^c Josiah⁵ Colcord and his brother Joab, who were born in New Market, N. H., went to Parsonsfield before that town was organized, and a meeting was held at the house of Josiah which was the first "town meeting" called to organize the town, their names being among the original members of the meeting. Josiah was at work in the field when the Revolutionary War commenced, and hearing of a conflict at Boston, he shouldered his musket, left his crop and walked to Boston, arriving shortly after the Battle of Bunker Hill. He served under Washington, marched to New York and fought in the battles against Burgoyne at Saratoga and Stillwater and was at the surrender of Burgoyne. After the War he returned to his farm and lived on the homestead the remainder of his life.

^a Joab⁵ Colcord was with his brother Josiah in the Army and after the War settled near him and "in 1785 kept an inn in Middle Road Village," while his brother "lived on the Middle Road, farm of H. W. Colcord."—Dearborn's Parsonsfield.

^e Eunice⁵ Colcord (Lane) lost her father before the War, and when of age married Jabez Lane, whose father, Samuel Lane, had married her mother in 1774. She lived in Stratham, N. H. (See Wm. Lane's Disc. N. E. H. and Gen. Reg.)

GENERAL NOTE. The date of Josiah's birth conflicts with that of Nathaniel's, one being given by Dearborn and the other by the Maine Hist. Soc. (Hallowell, Me.) and the author has not been able to correct them. Dearborn's Hist. of Parsonsfield gives the names of the above family as being children of Edward, Jr., (instead of grandchildren,) but gives no dates or proofs, while there are several proofs to show that the record given above is correct. See Appendix. It seems probable that Dearborn's statements relating to Edward and Gideon were from tradition only, (or chiefly) as they conflict with well proved facts from various records from other sources.

*Families of Ebenezer,⁴ and Samuel,⁴(of Ebenezer,³ Samuel,² Edward.¹)*1. Children of Ebenezer,⁴ and Patience (Stevens) Colcord.

(a) Ebenezer, born 1750-51; married——; Brentwood, N. H.

(b) John, born 1756-60; married Lydia Merrill in Kingston, May 10, 1787.

Samuel (probably).

^a No record is found of the date of birth of Ebenezer's⁴ children, but Ebenezer, Jr., signed the "Ass'n test" in 1776 at Brentwood. This may have been Ebenezer⁵, then 26 years old, and capable of bearing arms, and later Ebenezer⁷ Payson Colcord, born 1813, was claimed by Payson relatives to be of Ebenezer⁶, of Brentwood, which has been followed in this record.

^b John⁵ Colcord, who married Lydia Merrill, of Brentwood, had a son John ("Capt.") who was an officer in the War of 1812. He lived on the old "Colcord Grant" made to Samuel² of Kingston and his sons.

Dorothy⁵ Colcord, born about 1765-70, who married a Felbrick, was probably a daughter of Ebenezer.⁴ She married Jedidiah Felbrick, June 28, 1790.—Kingston Records.

2. Children of Samuel⁴ and —— Colcord.

Probably Samuel, born 1748-50, of New Hampton.

GENERAL REMARKS.

Members of the IV Generation whose record is not found in the 5th are as follows:

Elizabeth⁴ and Mary⁴. No records.Anne⁴ of Edward³, not followed.—See Whittier Gen. Samuel⁴ Dudley, not followed.—See Dudley Gen.Mary⁴, 1735, of Ebenezer³, no records.

During this period, (1730-70,) Brentwood was organized 1742 by Edward Colcord, Ebenezer Colcord, and others, who had already organized a church in "Hawke" (S. W. Exeter) and S. Hampton and N. Hampton were incorporated the same year. New Market had already been "set off" from Exeter, and Jonathan⁴ owned land in both towns.

In 1749 Col. Ebenezer Stevens, who married Mary Colcord in 1736, with Samuel⁴ Colcord, several members of the Stevens families, and many others who were related to the Colcords were "grantees" of a new town set off from lands adjoining Kingston and incorporated in 1768, becoming Salisbury. It was at first named for Col. Stevens. In Kingston and Salisbury were born the Bartletts of Hannah and Dr. Joseph Bartlett, the Stevens children, of Mary and Col. Ebenezer Stevens, the Philbrooks, the Websters, Sanborns, Dearborns and Towles all connected with the Colcords by marriage. Daniel Webster's father resided many years with the family of Mary and Ebenezer Stevens, and the Colcord, Webster and Stevens families are closely connected by marriage at the present day.

Omitted from Notes, page 24, of Edward⁴'s children.

Edward⁴ had another son, Samuel⁵, born July 5, 1748, who resided in Exeter, N. H., and who married Deborah Gilman, July 18, 1773, and second Mrs. Anna (Walden) Gilman, April 21, 1785. The date of Jane's birth is uncertain, and Harvey may have been the son of John⁴ instead of Edward⁴.

OTHER MEMBERS OF THE V GENERATION.

- (a) Reuben Towle, born 1762, of Chester, N. H. etc., married Sarah Clough.
- (b) Eliphalet Thyng, born 1738-1742; married 1st, Abigail Stephens, 2nd Sally Hills, Brentwood, N. H. One daughter, Hannah.
- (c) Abigail Gilman, born 1740-50 (no date); married Wm. Moore of Stratham

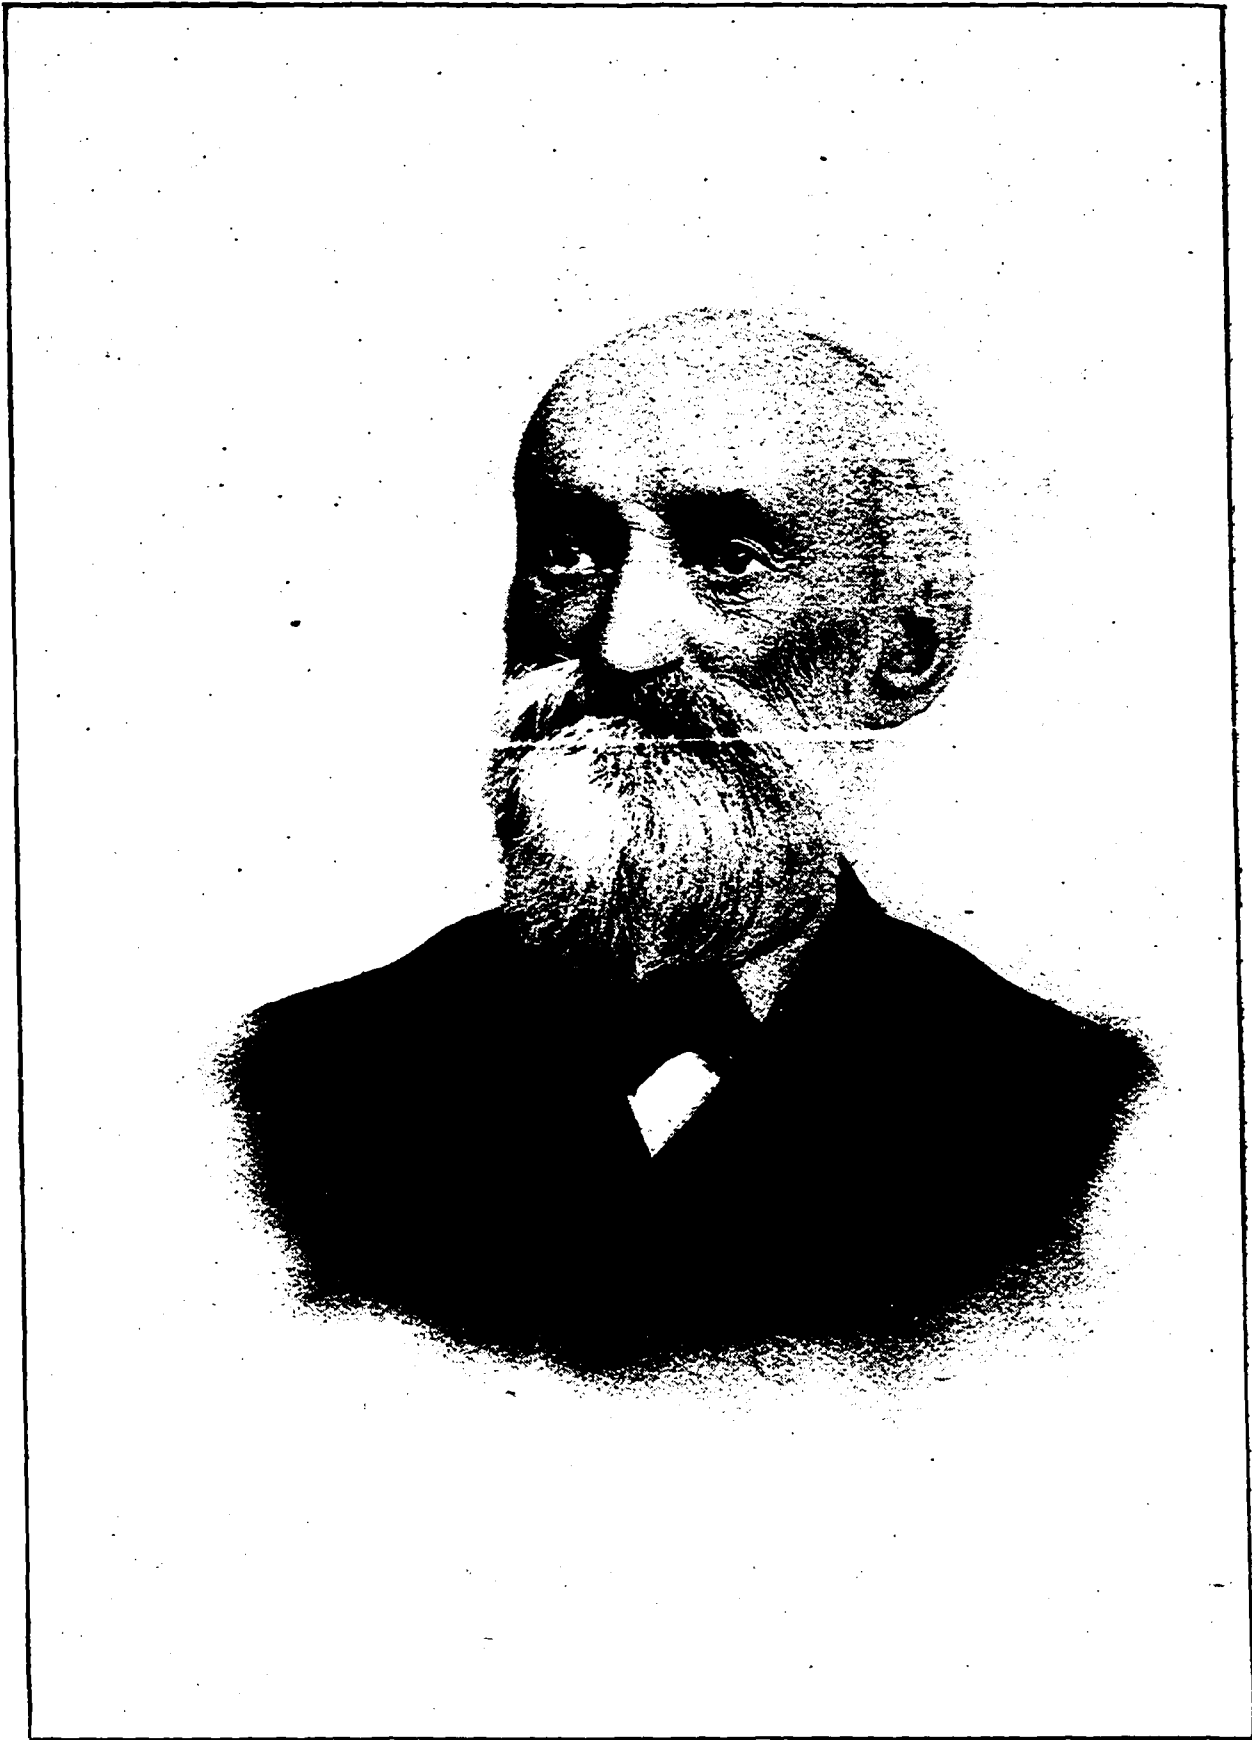

^a Reuben Towle, of Chester, N. H., son of Jonathan Towle, who was the son of Anthony Towle and Sarah (Hobbs,³) (Sarah Colcord² and John Hobbs, Edward,¹) married Sarah Clough and settled in Enfield, N. H. in 1786. Reuben was the son of Jonathan,⁴ (Anthony³) and Caleb Towle,² one of nine children, of Phillip¹ Towle, who came from England in 1640 and settled in Hampton, N. H., where our ancestor, Edward Colcord¹ lived after 1645.

Jonathan⁴ Towle, of Sarah³ Hobbs, of Sarah² (Colcord) Hobbs, was the father of Reuben⁵ Towle whose daughter, Ann⁶ R., married Tristram⁶ C., and John⁶ C. Colcord, who are the first members of the Towle family, given in this record, which was mostly taken from "Towle Genealogy," (1892, Franklin, Vt.,) which see for remainder of Towle family. It will be noted that all descendants of Reuben⁵ Towle, of Franklin, Vt., are also descendants of Edward Colcord, through Sarah² Hobbs.—See Towle Genealogy, page 11.

^b Eliphalet Colcord was in the Army of the Revolution in Capt. Pike's Co. in 1777 and 1778. The name indicates that he was from Brentwood or Kingston, but proofs are lacking of the date of his birth, and also of his parentage. See Eliphalet, later.

^c Abigail⁵ and William Moore of Stratham had a daughter, Mary Moore,⁶ who married Gideon⁵ Colcord. No dates.—Dudley Gen. 1894.

WILLIAM ROGERS COLCORD.

1826—1901.

GENERATION VI.

Families of Daniel,⁵ Mehitable⁵ and Hannah,⁵
(of Samuel,⁴ Samuel,³ Samuel,² Edward.¹)

1. Children of Daniel⁵ and Dolly (Clifford) Colcord, of Kingston, N. H.

Louis, born Oct. 21, 1772. Married——.

Hannah, born March 28, 1774. No record.

Peter, born 1775. No record.

(a) Daniel, born June 13, 1781. Married Polly Woodman.

^a Daniel⁶ Colcord had a son Daniel born at Kingston, June 9, 1818, who died at Brentwood, N. H., Aug. 12, 1897, and was buried at Kingston.

2. Children of Mehitable⁵ (Colcord) and Hon. William Patten, of Kingston, N. H.

(a) Aaron Patten, born 1775.

Isaac Patten, born 1786.

(b) Colcord Patten, born Sept. 2, 1789. He had four sons and one daughter.

^aThe genealogy of the Patten family, with the history of Kingston, by Colcord Patten, shows that the names William and Aaron continued through several generations of this family, whose record I have not transcribed.

^b Colcord Patten, to whom we are indebted for much information concerning the early history of Kingston, left his notes to his son, the late Ichabod Bartlett Patten, a druggist of Boston.

I have not endeavored to follow this well known family in its later generations for want of time and space. Much data has been collected which may be published later. The Bartlett, Patten and Colcord families are connected by several inter-marriages in the last century.—See Appendix, Patten families.

3. Children of Hannah⁵ (Colcord) and Dr. Joseph Bartlett, of Kingston and Salisbury, N. H.

Joseph Bartlett, born 1775.

Susanna, born 1777; married Moses Eastman; died 1806.

Samuel Colcord, born Jan. 16, 1780; married Eleanor Pettengill.

Hannah, born March 25, 1782; died Nov. 12, 1802.

Levi, born June 3, 1784; died June 21, 1864.

(a) Ichabod, born Jan. 24, 1786; died Oct. 19, 1853.

Peter, born Oct. 18, 1788; died Sept. 8, 1868.

James, born Aug. 14, 1792; died June 17, 1837.

Daniel, born Aug. 25, 1795.

For Bartlett families, see Appendix.

^a Hon. Ichabod Bartlett was one of the organizers of the N. H. Historical Society in 1823. He was a noted lawyer and politician, a member of the N. H. Constitutional Convention, nominee for Governor, etc., and an active worker in the Councils of the State.

*Families of Jonathan,⁵ David,⁵ Samuel⁵ and Joseph,⁵
(of Jonathan,⁴ Jonathan,³ Samuel,² Edward¹.)*

1. Children of Jonathan⁵ and Elizabeth (Boardman) Colcord of New Market, N. H.

(a) Phineas, born July 12, 1767; married Rebecca Bradbury.

(b) Jesse, born Feb. 8, 1769; married, 1st Elizabeth Nasson; 2nd Betsy Emery.
Jonathan, Jr., born Dec. 3, 1770; married Nancy Marshall; died Jan. 7, 1835
Joseph, born Feb. 17, 1773.

(c) Wilson, born May 25, 1775; married Polly Hobbs.
Rhoda, born July 17, 1779; married——

^a Phineas married a sister of William Bradbury, the noted musical composer. She was born Sept. 3, 1766.

^b Jesse married Elizabeth or Susan Nasson for his first wife in 1791. She was born in 1771, died in 1793, leaving one son, John N. His second wife, Betsy Emery, was born in Sanford in 1771 and was the daughter of Caleb Emery, born in 1740, a son of David Emery, born in 1680, who came to Elliott, York Co., Me., in 1710. Jesse died in 1835.

^c Rev. Wilson Colcord, of Waterville, Me., had one daughter, Fanny. Other children not known.

2. Children of David⁵ and Eunice (Parsons) Colcord, of New Market and Londonderry, N. H.

- (a) David, born April 7, 1778; married, 1st Rebecca Smart, 2nd Rebecca (Ellis) Harriman.
- (b) Benjamin, born 1779-80; married Abigail Park; died 1831.
 Chase, born 1783; married Abigail Lanpher.
 William, born 1785; married Sally Ames.
 John, born 1787; married Amelia L. Park.
 Eunice, born 1790; married Capt. August Lanpher.
 Polly, born 1792; married Capt. Josiah Towle.

^a David⁵'s second wife was a niece of his first wife. David Colcord, Jr., Lieutenant in Capt. Jonathan Dow's company, in the War of 1812, moved to Prospect, now N. Searsport, Me., in the winter of 1798, when his oldest child was only one year old. He traveled across the frozen rivers and through the dark forests in a "pung," the first one seen in the new settlement where he located. He built a home on the shore of a little sheet of clear water, now called "Swan Lake," then "goose pond," and the homestead remained in the family for more than a hundred years. He was a pious man, a fine singer and a music teacher, and at "three score years and ten," was tall, straight and active, as the author when a lad remembers seeing him. All the children of David⁵ were sea captains or the wives of sea captains.

^b Captains Benjamin, Chase, William and John Colcord were all sea men, engaged in coasting or West India trade generally, and had homes in Prospect or Belfast, Me., where their sisters, Eunice Lanpher and Polly Towle also lived. Searsport, Me., was a part of Prospect until 1845.

3. Children of Samuel⁵ and, 1st, Mary (Pearson or Parsons), and, 2nd, Anna (Robinson) Colcord, of Nottingham, N. H. His children were by his first wife.

(a) Samuel, born 1774; married, 1st Mary Tuxbury in 1801, and, 2nd, Hannah Knowles, June 5, 1817.

Josiah, born 1776; died in Atkinson, single,

(b) Jonathan, born 1778-9; married and moved to Ohio and had children.

(c) Charles, born about 1781; married and was a Free Baptist minister in Ohio. Jerusha, born 1783; married Mark Maloon and moved South.

Nancy, born 1786; married Moses Snow and lived in Maine.

Mary, born 1788; date unknown; lived on homestead; unmarried.

^a Samuel,⁶ like his father, was a man of great piety. His first wife was of Deerfield. His second, of Northwood, was a daughter of Simeon Knowles and a sister of Deacon Levi Knowles. He was a millwright and a successful business man.

^b Jonathan settled in Jackson Co., Mo., near Fort Sibley, where he raised a large family. "He prospered and left a very valuable farm, now owned by Judge Samuel Hudson, his grandson."—Letter of C. F. Colcord.

^c C. B. Colcord⁶ settled at North Middletown, Bourbon Co., Ky., in 1813, then about twenty-seven years old, from the state of New Hampshire, with an older brother, Jonathan, going into business together. Their spirit of business venture, however, was not to be satisfied in a village traffic; so they engaged in extensive speculations, which proved remunerative, C. B. Colcord being the first man to take a drove of mules by land from Bourbon county to New Orleans. He was married to Mrs. Louisa Medcalf Bristow in 1824, and by that union were born six children, only two of whom grew to maturity: William R., born Nov. 26, 1827, and Francis Palmer, Sept. 17, 1829, receiving liberal education at Western Military Institute, then located at Georgetown, Ky., at which time James G. Blaine was one of the preceptors.—Letter of James R. Rogers, of Paris, Ky., Dec. 1908.

Charles B. became very prosperous and prominent, and owned a very fine estate when he died. His wife's maiden name was Medcalf. By his marriage with Mrs. Bristow he became the father of two sons, Wm. R. and Frank P., and one daughter, Louisa. It is said that Charles B.'s grandfather, Capt. Parsons, whose daughter Mary was the wife of Samuel M. Colcord, of Nottingham, N. H., (See Gen. V) lived to be 116 years old, and followed the sea until he was 90 years of age. He was probably a brother or cousin of Rachel Parsons, of Cape Ann, Mass., (Gloucester), who married Gideon Colcord of New Market and Stratham, N. H., about 1745. Several members of the Parsons family were sea captains, and one, Josiah, married Eunice Sargent in 1719 and moved to N. H. He had 10 children.

Of Jerusha and Nancy nothing further is here recorded. See Appendix.

4. Children of Joseph⁵ and Fanny (Russell) Colcord, of New Market, N. H., and Salem, Mass.

(a) Thomas, born Oct. 25, 1780; married Esther Marshall; moved to Salem, Mass.

Sally, born 1780; married William Safford, of Exeter, N. H.

Joseph, born 1783; married Sally Jenness, of South New Market.

John, born 1787; married Comfort Folsom.

Betsy Armit, born 1790; married Cotton S. Brown, of Concord, N. H.

Fanny, born —; married Prescott.

Caroline, born —; married Watson.

(Exeter and New Market Directory, Beckett.) No dates.

^aThis Thomas Colcord, whose son Thomas, Jr., "went West," seems to have returned from Salem, Mass., to South New Market, where he died, as his children were born there. He may have been the grandfather of the Springfield, Oregon, Charles Colcord, whose father's name was Thomas.

Families of Edward,⁵ John,⁵ Samuel⁵ and Harvey,⁵
(of Edward,⁴ Edward,³ Samuel,² Edward.¹)

1. Children of Edward⁵ and wife (unknown) Colcord, of Exeter, N. H.

Edward, born 1768-80; married Sarah Weeks about 1805. (a)
 George, born about 1780, Exeter, N. H.

^aThe Weeks families, of whom Joshua, Jonathan, Joseph and Samuel were residents, of Greenland (set off from Portsmouth) in 1714. Thomas Edgerly and Samuel Weeks were among the first members of Gilmanton First Baptist Church, 1773.—McClintock's History of N. H. See General Notes.

2. Children of John⁵ and Helena (Carpenter) Colcord, of Exeter and Brentwood, N. H.

(a) Tristram Coffin, born 1784; married Anne R. Towle.
 (b) John Carpenter, born 1787; married Mrs. Ann R. (Towle) Colcord.
 Several daughters. Names unknown.

^aTristram⁵ Coffin Colcord was a grandson of Jane Coffin⁴, wife of Edward, who was a granddaughter of Tristram Coffin of Hampton, who married Deborah² Colcord, Edward's daughter, who was born 1664. He and his brother, John C., went to Thornton and Chester and in 1810, when he married Anne R. Towle, he was said to be of Candia. Miss Towle was born on a farm at the south end of Enfield Pond, June 17, 1787. Tristram removed to Franklin, Vermont, where his only child, Betsy, was born in 1812, and the next year he died from a fever, leaving his wife and little child suddenly without support in the wilderness, one hundred thirty miles from her father's home. Her father, Reuben Towle, made the long journey and took his child and grandchild home, but on the way the wagon overturned and Mrs. Colcord suffered the dislocation of both wrists and completed the journey in this sad condition.

^bJohn C. made a home for the widow in Franklin, Vt., where they raised a large family.

3. Children of Samuel⁵ and (1) Deborah (Gilman) and (2) Anna Walden (Gilman) Colcord. (See note page 27.)

Edward, born 1774, Exeter, N. H.

Hannah, born 1777, Exeter, N. H.

Abigail, born 1779, Exeter, N. H.

Josiah, born 1781, Exeter, N. H.

Daniel, born June 30, 1786; married Mehitable Sampson.

Thomas, born June 30, 1786; married Judith Wiggin; died August 4, 1860.

Daniel and Thomas, twins, were the sons of Samuel's second wife.

4. Children of Harvey⁵ and (wife unknown) Colcord, of Exeter and New Market, N. H.

Abigail, born 1788-90; married Rev. Theodore Moses Harmony, Me.

Samuel, born 1790-91; married ———; wife died 1839; a carpenter.

(a) Thomas, born 1792-93 married Sarah Kimball, Exeter, N. H.

Deborah, born 1795; married George Van Duzee, Exeter, N. H.

Ann, born 1798-99; married (1) Chas. Robinson, (2) Rev. Jere Marsh.

Mary, born 1801-02; married John Badger.

^aA Thomas Colcord, Jr., born 1762, or earlier, was a grantee of Protectworth in 1782. He was probably a son of Thomas⁴, a Revolutionary soldier and a grandson of Jonathan³. No record of his wife or family found, but the name occurs in the seventh and later generations in Somerset families. Isaac Colcord, of Army records, probably had children born 1778 and later. No record found.

Families of Nathaniel,⁵ Josiah,⁵ Joab⁵ and Benjamin,⁵

two daughters married and had families. See Gen. VII and VIII.

4. Children of Benjamin⁵ and (——) Colcord, of Northwood, N. H.

(a) Gideon, born about 1790; married Mrs. Lois (James) Lyford.

(b) Enoch L., born 1794; married ——, E. Boston, Mass.

^aNo authentic record of Benjamin's family has been found. Mentioned in Dudley's Genealogy without dates.

^bEnoch L. Colcord had a son born in Boston in 1829. See Austin N. Colcord, Gen. VIII.

Families of Ebenezer,⁵ John,⁵ and Samuel,⁵
(Of Ebenezer,⁴⁻³ Samuel,² Edward.¹)

1. Children of Ebenezer⁵ and (——) Colcord, of Brentwood, N. H.

(a) Dorothy, born 1775; married Jedediah Felbrick, in 1790, at Kingston.

(b) Ebenezer, born 1780; married Mrs. Elizabeth (Clifford) Payson.

^aThe record of the marriage of Ebenezer⁴ (N. H. Hist. Society) in 1749 or 1750 fixes the date of Ebenezer⁵'s birth as not earlier than 1751, and the date of Ebenezer⁶'s birth probably not earlier than 1778. He was married about 1809 and died 1815. His wife was the daughter of John P. Payson. They resided at Brentwood, N. H., and Dudley or Turner, Me. His wife's mother was Hannah, daughter of David Clifford. The Cliffords were among the first settlers of Hampton Falls, 1715. See Appendix.

2. Children of John⁵ and Lydia (Merrill) Colcord, of Kingston.

John, born 1789; married Hannah Thyng.

Eliphalet, born 1792; married Olive Steele, of Exeter.

Harvey, probably.

A Mrs. Olive Colcord was living on Oak street, in Exeter, N. H., when the Exeter Directory was compiled by Beckett in 1872. See Gen. VII.

3. Children of Samuel⁵ and (——) Colcord, of New Hampton, N. H.

Samuel, born 1774; married ——, in Exeter. (See Samuel (7), born 1797.)

GENERAL NOTES.

Gideon Colcord, probably of the VI Generation, married Mary Moore, of Stratham, about 1800 to 1810. No record of their children has been obtained. Mary Moore was a grand daughter of Hannah⁴ (Colcord) Gilman of Jonathan.³

In the census of 1790, Edward⁵ Colcord, of Exeter, N. H., had two sons more than sixteen years of age, and one daughter whose name has not been learned.

The record of the large family of Edward⁶ is given in the next generation, and some descendants of George⁶ have been recorded.

There is a tradition that Samuel,⁵ who was the father of Jonathan and Charles Colcord, came from England in 1784 and settled in Concord, N. H., but no records or proofs have been found by the author to substantiate this story. The Samuel⁵ of Deerfield and Northwood was the son of Mary Parsons or Pearson, who was a daughter of "Capt. Parsons," who is also said to have been the grandfather of Charles and Jonathan, connecting the Kentucky family with Samuel of Nottingham, N. H., formerly of New Market, N. H.

The records of Ralph B. Colcord, copied from the Westboro, Me. Bible, in 1828, commences with Jonathan,⁵ born 1743, and gives his children and the family of Ivory⁶ Colcord, born 1799, and of Ralph⁷ B. Colcord and descendants to 1906.

The family of David⁵ is from original records and of Samuel⁵ from Cogswell's History, 1878.

The records of the Maine branches are taken from various sources, principally from Town Records and from original communications. Approximate dates have been supplied where exact dates are wanting.

The sons of Jonathan⁴ scattered after the close of the War and became widely separated. Jonathan⁵, Jr., born 1743, remained on the farm until near the close of the century. David went, probably, to Parsonsfield, or that vicinity, on the Ossipee River, then to Londonderry, N. H., where David, Jr., was born (1778) and later to Tamworth, N. H., from which town David, Jr., emigrated to Prospect, Me., in 1799.

Samuel⁵ went to Nottingham, N. H., probably, before 1780.

GENERATION VII.

Families of Louis,⁶ Hannah,⁶ Peter⁶ and Daniel,⁶

(Of Daniel,⁵ Samuel⁴⁻³⁻², Edward.¹)

1. Children of Daniel,⁶ and Polly (Woodman) Colcord, of Kingston, N. H.

(a) Daniel, born, June 9, 1818; married —; died Aug. 12, 1897, in Brentwood.

(b) Monroe, born, 1820?; married Hannah Webster, of Kingston.

^a Daniel Colcord, the grandson of Samuel B., lived and died in Brentwood and was buried in Kingston, N. H. We have no record of wife or children.

^b Monroe Colcord married Hannah Webster, of Kingston, a descendant of Ebenezer Webster, Hon. Daniel Webster's father.

No records have been obtained of the families of Louis⁶, Hannah⁶ or Peter⁶. Two sons and four daughters were recorded in the census of 1790, the sons being under 16 years of age in family of Daniel of Kingston.

For record of Bartlett and Patten families, see Appendix.

Families of Phineas,⁶ Jesse,⁶ Jonathan,⁶ and Wilson,⁶

1. Children of Phineas⁶ and Rebecca (Bradbury) Colcord, from Waterboro, Me., Bible record. (R. B. Colcord.)

(a) William, born Jan. 20, 1791; died at Bath, N. Y.

(b) Wear, born Sept. 15, 1792; married Elizabeth Edgerly.

(c) Betsy, born Nov. 16, 1794; married Joseph Plaisted.

(d) Joseph, born March 31, 1797; married Sally Dickinson.

(e) Ivory, born August 21, 1799; married Elzina Smith.

Nancy, born July 17, 1801; died in infancy.

Mary, born Sept. 30, 1803; married — Brown, Boston, Mass.

Polly, born Feb. 14, 1806. No record.

(f) Phineas, Jr., born Jan. 6, 1812; married Eliza Russell. Died in Boston.

^a William, with his brothers, Joseph and Ivory, walked from Maine to New York State in 1818 on their way to Ohio. At Bath, N. Y., they found some friends from Maine and decided to locate on Bonny Hill, near Bath, where William died. He was never married.

^b Wear Colcord, born near the Piscataqua River, married Elizabeth Tate Edgerly of Durham, N. H., Nov. 13, 1817, and lived in Lowell, Mass., and later in Malden, Mass., where he died Oct. 27, 1869. His wife, who died in 1873, was a daughter of Samuel Edgerly, of Durham, the son of Jonathan. Thomas Edgerly was one of the delegates from Dover in 1689 to organize a council for the government of the Colonists of New Hampshire, who were then without a charter; and in 1773, another Thomas Edgerly, a descendant, was one of the original male members of the First Baptist Church of Gilmanton, a new town formed from the older towns of Exeter, Northfield and Dover, N. H.

Durham was originally a part of Dover, formerly called Oyster River, and was incorporated a parish in 1765.

Mesheck Wear, for whom Wear Colcord was named, was President of the Senate in 1775.

^c Betsey Colcord Plaisted had seven sons and one daughter. One son, Ivory Plaisted, settled in Cleveland, Ohio. Record not followed.

^d Joseph had learned the blacksmith trade in Portland, Me., and in addition to working at his trade, he cleared and tilled a large farm on Bonny Hill. He had a big nose and a jovial, kindly disposition, loved to play harmless practical jokes but was sincere and upright in character, unrefined but generous, industrious and of excellent habits.

^e Ivory Colcord was married in 1820. He staid a few years on Bonny Hill, where eight of his children were born, and then moved to Sterling, Whiteside County, Ill., in 1837. It required forty days to make the journey. In 1828, he went back to his old home in Waterboro, Maine, where he copied the family record from the Bible, and from this record, which was preserved in the Illinois home, Ralph B. Colcord, Ivory's son, obtained the names and dates of birth of Jonathan⁵ and his children and grandchildren, a copy of which was sent to the Author in 1907, before Ralph B. died. Proofs of the accuracy of this record have since been obtained by the Author from other reliable sources, and many of Ivory's descendants will be found in the later generations here recorded, but some names and dates are still lacking. Ivory was a man of sterling worth and a successful business man. Many of his children and grandchildren still reside in Illinois. The families of his sisters, Mary and Polly, have not been recorded here.

¹ Phineas, Jr., married Eliza Russell and went to California during the early settlement of that State, where he kept a store. His health failed and he returned to Boston, where he died. He left two children, a boy and a girl, whose names the Author has been unable to obtain.

2. Children of Jesse⁶ and, 1st, Susanna (Susan) Nason and 2nd, Betsy Emery, of Sanford, Me.

(a) John Nason, born April 18, 1798; married (1st) Polly Armala; (2nd) Clara Webster, of Sanford, Me.

Elizabeth, born Nov. 30, 1794; died April 19, 1795, Sanford, Me.

(b) David, born April 28, 1796; married Sally Mason; died June 9, 1867.

(c) Mary H., born April 27, 1798; married John Pearl; died Aug. 28, 1876.

Betsey, born July 13, 1800; died Dec. 8, 1800, Sanford, Me.

Rhoda, born March 16, 1802; died April 27, 1802, Sanford, Me.

(d) Jesse, Jr., born April 8, 1803; died Nov. 25, 1825; Sanford, Me.

(e) Phineas, born Feb. 8, 1806; married Nancy Garland; died Aug. 21, 1846.

Susan N., born Dec. 4, 1808; died July 18, 1832, Porter, Me.

(f) Isabella, born June 5, 1811; married Stephen Brooks Jan. 3, 1841.

(g) Caleb E., born Mar. 4, 1814; married Mary Kennard in 1840; died 1853.

(h) Charlotta S., born Feb. 18, 1817; married Peter H. Hatch; died, Oregon City, Ill.

It seems certain that Jesse's first wife's name was Susan.

^aJohn Nason Colcord, whose mother died soon after his birth, went to sea when a young lad and was one of the impressed seamen taken by a British frigate, whose impressment brought on the war of 1812. After his escape he served in the navy for three years, then joined the first Astor expedition to the Northwest Coast, following the sea for a number of years. Being ill on one of these voyages, he was left at the Sandwich Islands where he married a half-breed Spanish woman named Polly Armala, and in 1818 built the first house built by an American in Honolulu. He raised a family there, and after his wife's death, he returned to Maine (in 1840) where he married Clara Webster, of Sanford, Me. He went back to Honolulu, S. I., with his second wife in 1842, but in 1845 took his wife and family to Woburn, Mass., where he spent the remainder of his life, dying there May 5, 1852. See Appendix.

^bDavid Colcord, of Porter, Me., was referred to by Dearborn in his "History of Parsonsfield," Me., as the late Capt. David Colcord. He was Selectman of the town for several years, leaving four children at his death. One still living.

^cMary H. Pearl raised a family; not recorded here.

^dJesse Colcord, Jr., died single.

^ePhineas Colcord married in 1835 and died 1846. He was lame from infancy. Probably had children, but no record obtained.

^fIsabella or Isabel Brooks lived in Porter, Me.

^gCaleb Emery Colcord was a dwarf. Had no children.

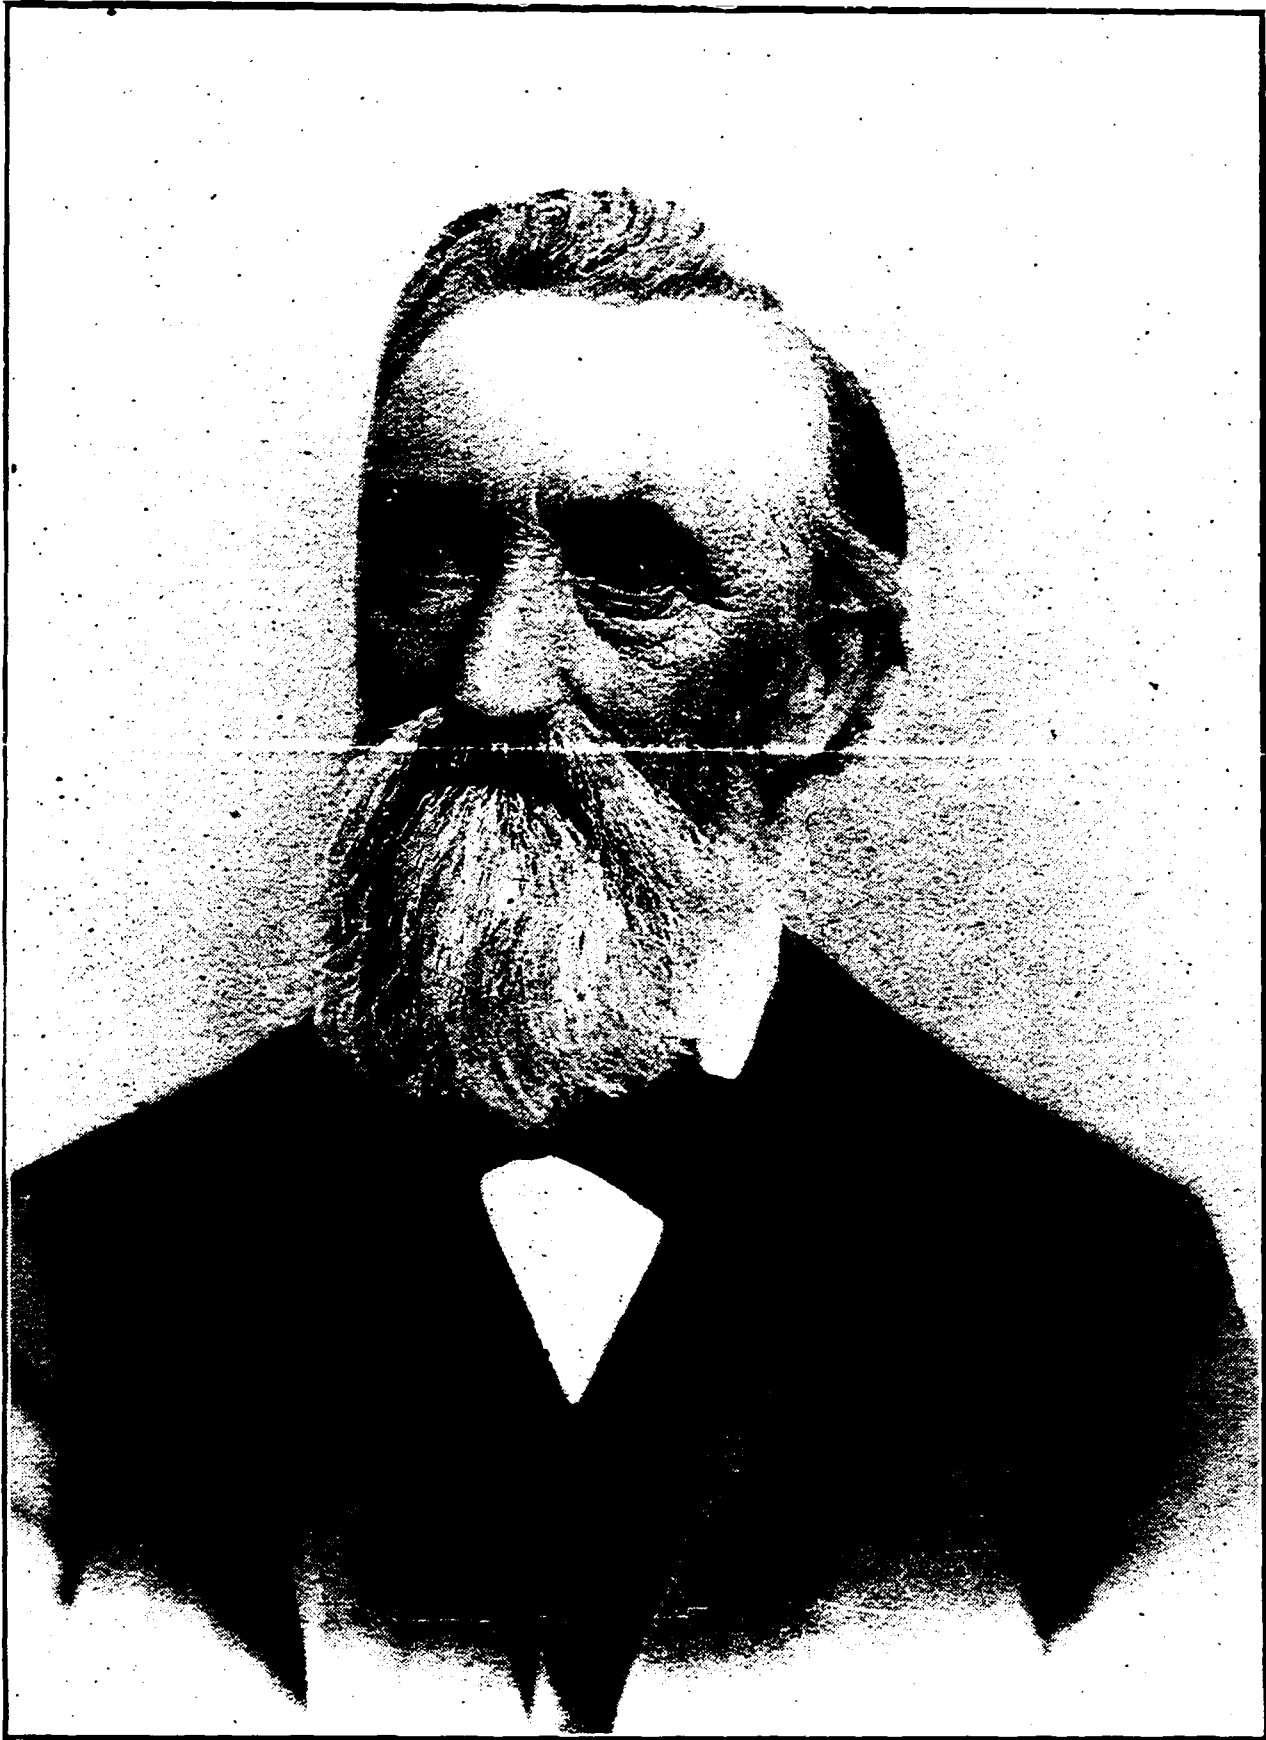

^hCharlotta S., born in Porter, Me., went to the Sandwich Islands and was married there to Peter Hatch, of Winchester, Mass. She died in Oregon City (Dearborn) Ill. (?) in 1846.

GENERAL NOTES.

Jesse⁶ bought a large tract of land in Porter, Me., in 1808. His first wife died when John⁷ N. was only nine days old. His grandmother Nason took the babe and kept him until he was four years old.

Moulton's History of Porter, Me., page 24, reads: "Jesse Colcord, born New Market, N. H., Feb. 9, 1769, married (1st) Elizabeth Nason, who (?) died April 3, 1835. Children (1st) John N. born in Sanford, April 18, 1793. Died, May 25, 1852. He married (2nd) Betsy Emery, April 6, 1794. She was born Oct. 21, 1771, died Dec. 6, 1829. (2nd.) Elizabeth, born Nov. 30, 1794, and etc." This account is not clear and has given rise to much confusion and controversy. Emery's History of Sanford, Me., page 426, reads: "John Colcord, son of John and Susannah (Nason) Colcord, born April 18, 1793, and etc." I have followed the record of J. W. Colcord, John N's son, which agrees with Moulton's History as to his father's name, John N(ason), but says he was born in 1791, differing from both Moulton and Emery in date. Joseph B. Colcord in a letter to the author in 1907 says: "John, not John N., was Jesse Colcord's second son, and while in the Sandwich Islands married a native woman and had three children, two boys and one girl." Unfortunately the date of Jesse's marriage to his first wife is not recorded. It seems probable that the name of his first wife was Susanna, not Elizabeth, and it was certainly Jesse, not John N. who married Elizabeth (or Betsy) Emery, whose first child was named Elizabeth, born Nov. 30, 1794. The name of the Sandwich Island woman, the first wife of John N., is given as "Polly" by Mrs. Sarah Wyman, who is a granddaughter of Jesse Col-

^a Jotham Colcord raised a family, but all his children have passed away, and no record found.

^b Leonard Colcord lived in South Berwick, Me. His wife was a descendant of the Burleys and Dudleys of Massachusetts and New Hampshire, one of whom married Jonathan,⁴ Leonard's greatgrandfather.

^c Emily Colcord married a manufacturer of Great Falls, N. H., named Burleigh. He lost his eyesight, was operated on for cataract in Paris and afterwards died, leaving his wife a young widow. She was noted for her beauty, and became celebrated as a teacher, having a select school for girls in Exeter, N. H., and also in Salem, Mass., which were successfully conducted and widely known in New England fifty years ago. She never remarried.

^d Charles J. Colcord was the father of John E. Colcord, Chief Clerk at U. S. Navy Yard at Kittery, opposite Portsmouth, N. H. His other children not known.

^e Samuel M. Colcord, ex-President of the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy and of the American Pharmaceutical Association, a charter member, was for a number of years a wholesale druggist, corner Hanover and Portland streets, Boston, Mass., and for fourteen years partner of Theodore Metcalf, son of Judge Metcalf, a well-known retail druggist. He died in 1895.

(f) Amanda, born May 15, 1825; married 1st, William S. Young, 2nd, Greenleaf P. Curtis. (Living in 1908), Searsport, Me.

Amasa T., died single.

^a Elizabeth Colcord was born in Tamworth N. H., and while an infant was taken in a "pung" across the country to Prospect, Me. She married young, raised a large family, celebrated her "Golden Wedding" in 1862 and died painlessly, after a beautiful and happy Christian life.

^b Rev. David Colcord, whose mother died while he was a boy, early became a sailor, and rose from cook to captain in the coasting trade. A good singer and an earnest Christian, he became a sailor preacher and preached, when in port, from Maine to Florida, along the coast. His health failing, he spent his later years as a farmer and local preacher in Bucksport, Me., where he died in 1858. He was buried in the Long Pond Cemetery in Bucksport, Me.

^c Mark Colcord was a successful business man and had a fine home near Searsport Village, Me., where he raised a large family, but his later years were shadowed by the tragic death of a son, who was caught in the machinery of a mill on his farm, and by the early death of nearly all his children, none of whom lived to raise large families, except the oldest daughter, Hannah.

^d James, the twin brother of Mark, died in 1875, in Prospect, Me., where he had always lived.

^e Wilson Colcord was the son of David's second wife. He married Catherine Black in 1843, and lived in Searsport, Me.

^f Amanda (Young) Curtis, one of the few living members of the VII Generation from Edward, is living with a daughter in Searsport, Me., and many of the records of the Prospect branch of our family have been furnished by her, or corroborated by her memory of names and facts.

2. Children of Benjamin⁶ and Abigail (Park) Colcord.

(a) Benjamin, born 1803; married Abiah Blanchard, Prospect, Me.

Matilda, born 1804; married Augustus Webber, a sea captain.

Amelia, born 1806; married Nathum Griffin, Searsport, Me.

(b) John, born 1808; married Betsy Curtis, Searsport, Me.

^a Captain Benjamin was a well-known and highly respected sea captain, whom the Author often heard his father speak of when a boy. He died in 1872. Two of his sons and several of his grandsons "followed the sea." "Capt. Benjamin Colcord died in 1868, aged 64 years, 9 months and 11 days." (Letter of Captain Charles A. Colcord, Sept. 1908.) The above date of birth is deduced from this record of his son, Charles A. The other dates are approximate only.

^b Capt. John sailed with the Author's father when they were young men, and became a master in his turn, marrying into the Curtis family.

Benjamin and John Colcord were seamen and became captains and owners of vessels, sailing from Searsport, Me. Their descendants live in various places now, but many of them still follow the sea. Their records have been compiled mostly from notes gathered by Miss J. C. Colcord of the X Generation.

The descendants of Matilda and Captain Webber and of Amelia (Griffin) are given partially, from Miss J. C. Colcord's records, with approximate dates. See Generations VIII, IX and X.

3. Children of Capt. Chase⁶ and Abigail (Lanpher) Colcord, of Prospect, Me.

Abigail, born 1802; married Ezekiel Messman.

(a) Emily, born 1803; married Alpheus Field.

Chase, Jr., born 1805; married——

Mary Ann, born 1806; married —— White.

Eunice, born 1808.

Elizabeth, born 1810.

(b) Jonathan D(avid), born Jan. 13, 1813; married Hannah Smart, Feb. 25th, 1838.

Above dates approximate, except that of Jonathan D.

^a Emily (Colcord) Field resided in Searsport, Me., and raised a family there.

^b This was Captain Jonathan, a coaster, who lived in Searsport in the early part of the last century. The record of Captain Chase Colcord's family, except in the families of Emily (Field) and Johathan D. is incomplete.

4. Children of Captain John and Amelia L. (Park) Colcord.

Elmira, born 1806; married James Mossman.

Mary Ann, born 1810; no record.

John Greenleaf Pendleton, born 1812; married Nancy Pendleton.

5. Children of Capt. William⁶ and Sally (Ames) Colcord, of Prospect, Me.

Mary Jane, born about 1800; married ——Batchelder.

Sally, born 1803; married Marshal Dutch.

John S., born 1806; married Sarah House.

Josiah, born 1808; married Miss Berry.

William, born 1812; married Miss Hidibone. Living in 1908.

No later records of this family have been received. The children lived in Prospect, and Searsport, Me., where many of their descendants still reside.

6. Children of Eunice (Colcord) and Capt. Augustus Lanpher, of Prospect, Me.

Augustus Lanpher, born 1800; married Eliza Towle.

Eliza Lanpher, born 1803; no record.

William Lanpher, born 1805; married Abigail Turner.

Abigail Lanpher, born 1808; married Thomas True.

Eunice Lanpher, born 1810-12; married John Mason.

Dates are approximate, and no later records.

7. Children of Polly⁶ (Colcord) and Josiah Towle.

Josiah Towle, Jr., born about 1805; married Blanche Snow.

(a) Margaret Towle, born about 1807; married A. T. C. Dodge, of Washington, D. C.

Isabel Towle, born about 1810; married Levi Fundy.

David Towle, born about 1812; married——

Ann Towle, born about 1814; married —— Sparrow.

Mary Jane Towle, born about 1816-18; married —— Gardner.

Abigail Towle, born about 1820; married —— Piper.

Henry Palmer Towle, born about 1824. No record.

The dates are approximate and no later record.

^a For children of Margaret Towle Dodge see Amasa T. C. Dodge family in Appendix.

The genealogy of this branch of the Towle family has not been traced here, but Capt. Josiah Towle was doubtless a descendant of the Towles of Hampton, N. H., whose ancestor was Philip Towle, who came to Hampton, N. H., in 1640. See Towle Genealogy.

Families of Samuel,⁶ Jonathan⁶ and Charles,⁶

(of Samuel,⁵ Jonathan,⁴⁻³ Samuel,² Edward.¹)

1. Children of Samuel⁶ and, 1st, Mary (Tuxbury), and, 2nd,

Hannah (Knowles) Colcord, Northwood, &c., N. H.

Mary, born April 28, 1803; married Levi Knowles, of Northwood, in 1822.

Bradbury, born 1805; married—; has children; went to Texas.

(a) Samuel, born 1807; married—; Kentucky; has children.

Nancy, born 1809-11; married Joseph Harvey; Northwood.

^aSamuel,⁵ of Nottingham, who came from New Market “early in its history” lived between Northwood and Deerfield when Samuel⁶ was born, and he married his first wife Mary, Jan. 23, 1801, in Deerfield. She died July 1st, 1811, and six years later, June 5, 1817, he married Hannah Knowles, daughter of Simeon Knowles, of Northwood, who was left a widow by Samuel’s death in 1841. She died March 19, 1851.

The families of Bradbury and Samuel have not been heard from. Nancy (Harvey) had one daughter, Mary A.

2. Children of Jonathan⁶, and Rebeccah (McMillican, of Charleston, S. C.,) Colcord, of Bourbon Co., Kentucky, —C. F. Colcord’s record.
3. Children of Charles B.⁶ and Louisa (Bristow) Medcalf Colcord, of Bourbon Co., Ky., 1824.

William Rogers, born Nov. 27, 1826; married—Marie Clay; died 1901.

Francis Palmer, born Sept. 17, 1829. died, 1899.

Louisa.

William and Francis Colcord were educated at Western Military Institute, then located at Georgetown, Ky., when Hon. James G. Blaine was teacher there. William Rogers was named for a friend of his father, Charles B., who was born in N. H., in 1772, and lived in the same neighborhood in Kentucky.

Families of Thomas R.⁶, Joseph⁶ and John⁶, (Of Joseph,⁵ Jonathan⁴⁻³, Samuel², Edward.¹)

Families of John C.⁶ and Tristrum C.⁶,
(of John,⁵ Edward,⁴⁻³ Samuel,² Edward.¹)

1. Children of John C.⁶ and Tristrum C.⁶, and Ann R. (Towle) Colcord.

- (a) Betsey T., born July 12, 1812; married Enoch Pomeroy in 1837.
 (a) Henry C., born Aug. 29, 1816; married Lestina E. Fleteher, Franklin, Vt.
 George, born June 12, 1820; died 1825, Franklin, Vt.—Towle Gene.
 (b) John, born April 18, 1822; married Sylvia Prudentia Bowman, Franklin.
 (c) Maria, born Sept. 20, 1826; died April 2, 1847, Franklin, Vt.
 (d) Sarah T., born Sept. 25, 1828; married Joshua W. Peckham.
 (e) George, born June 21, 1831; married, 1st, Parmelia Earle; 2nd, Martha Armstrong.

These children are connected with Edward Colcord,¹ thus:

{ John and Tristum(6), John(5), Edward(4), Edward(3), Samuel(2), Edward(1).
 { Ann R. (6), Reuben Towle (5), Sarah Hobbs (4), Hobbs (3), Sarah and John Hobbs (2), Edward (1).

^a Henry C.⁷, was a blacksmith and farmer. He lived in Berkshire, Canada, and Franklin, Vt., dying in Franklin, July 3, 1884.

^{b c} John's wife, Sylvia P., was the daughter of Eben. Bowman, of Westford, Vt; married June 7, 1849. He remained on the farm. He was a Representative in 1863 and 1864, a member and official in the Church for more than fifty years; died April 20, 1898.

^d Maria, a most estimable young lady; died in 1847.

^e Joshua W. Peckham lived on a farm one and one-half miles North of Franklin Centre. A faithful member and steward of the church; he died young, November 25, 1860.

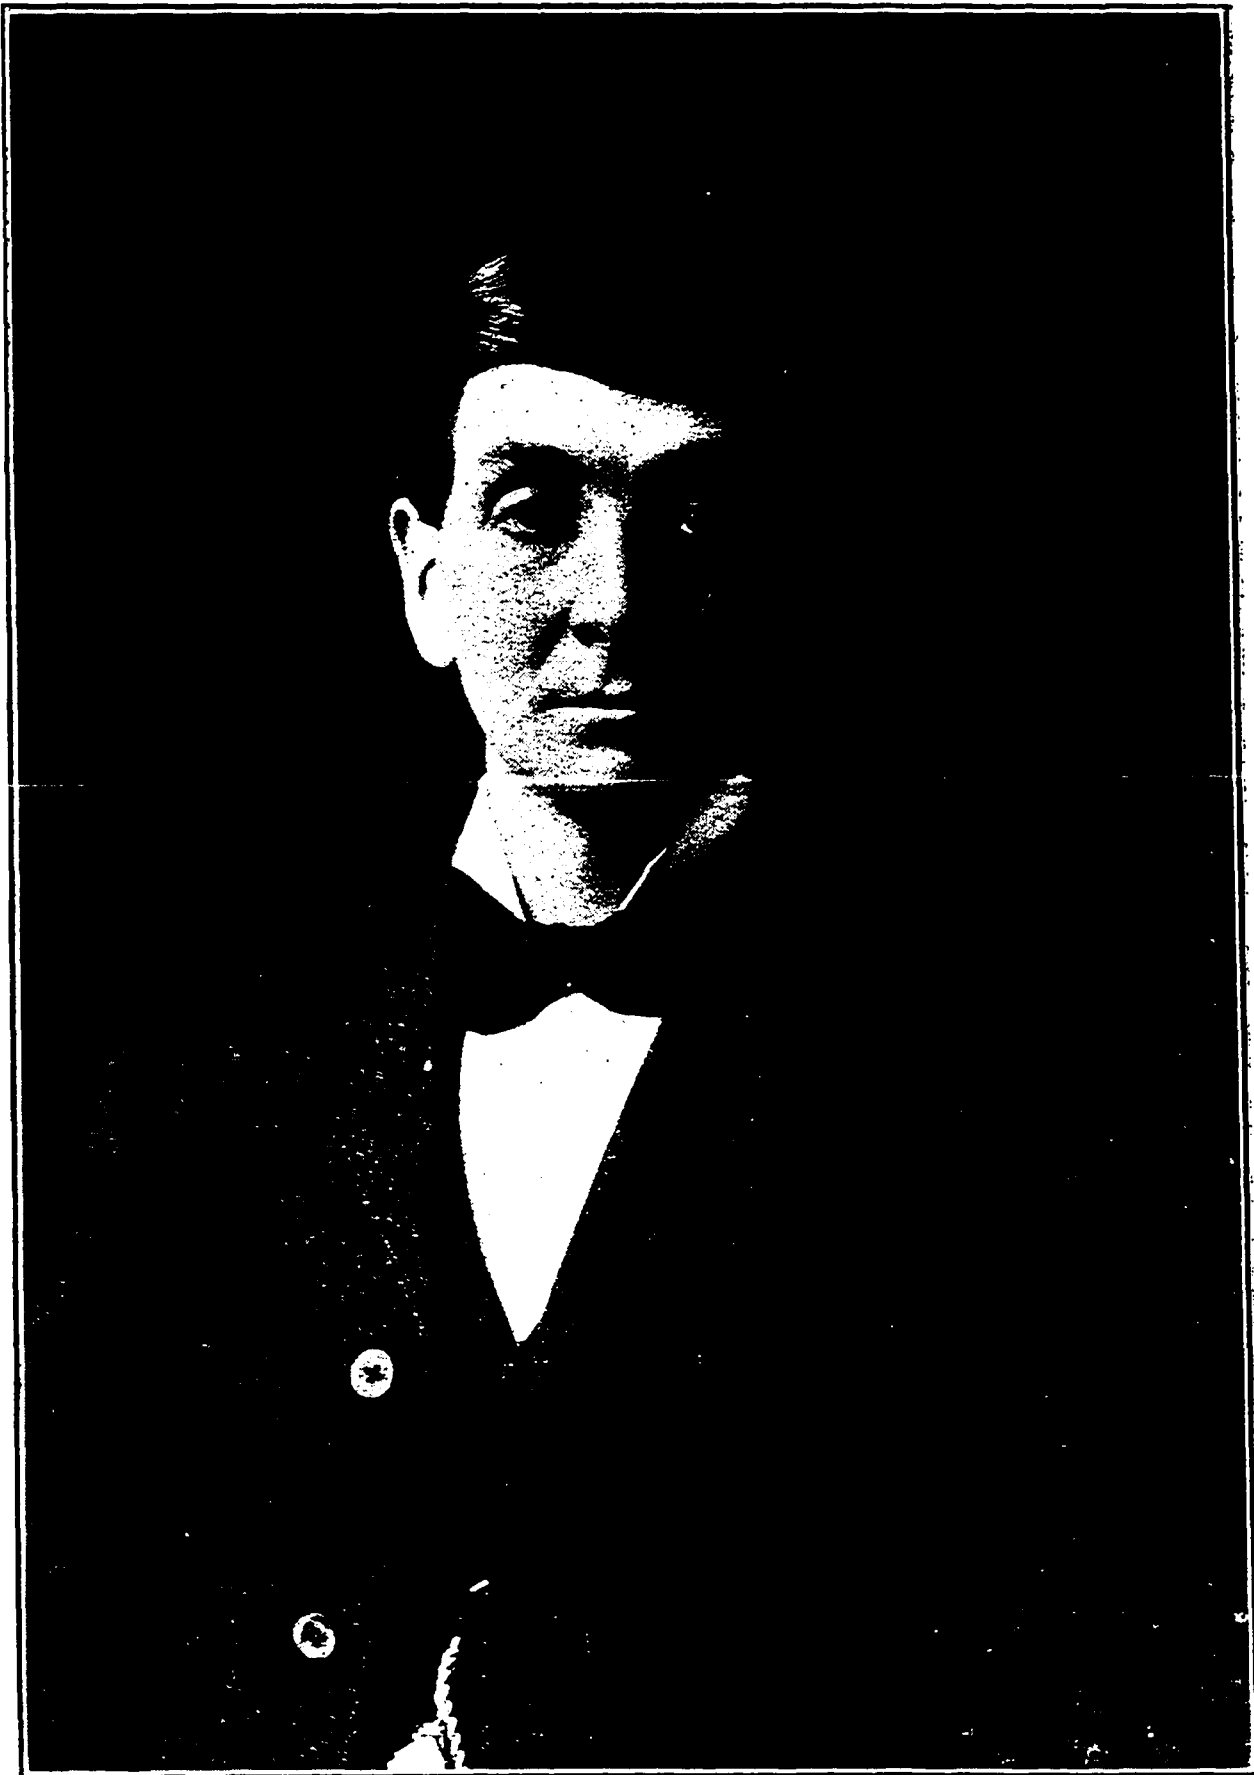

^f George married Miss Earle, of Burke, N. Y., and lived on a farm in South Berkshire for several years. His wife died in January, 1866, and he married Martha, daughter of Alexander Armstrong, of St. Armand, P. Q., and lived some years in Berkshire, after which he went to Minneapolis, Minn., working as carpenter and builder there in 1892. He died Oct. 19, 1904.

Several members of the 7th Generation of this branch of the Colcord family were alive at the beginning of the present century. Many interesting incidents are related of them and their ancestors in the "Towle Genealogy," 1892, to which the reader is referred.

Family of Daniel,⁶

(of Samuel,⁵ Edward,⁴ Samuel,² Edward.¹)

1. Children of Daniel⁶ and Mehitabel (Sampson) Colcord,

CHARLES F. COLCORD.

of Exeter, N. H.

- (a) Samuel, born July 27, 1811; married Elizabeth Perham, Exeter, N. H.
- (b) William Sampson, born Oct. 17, 1815; married, 1st, Mary E. Beckett; 2nd, Frances W. Plant; died 1892.

Jane, born June 9, 1819; married Jacob Clark, Greenville, Ill.
Aml, born 1824; living (1908) Bunker Hill, Ill.

^aSamuel Colcord was married to Elizabeth Perham, May 1, 1836. He went to Bond Co., Ill., and was a merchant in Greenville for several years. Miss Perham was a descendant of the Pilgrims. See Appendix—Rev. Samuel⁸ Colcord.

^bWilliam was a storekeeper and postmaster in Greenville, Ill., where his descendants still live. He was born in Exeter, N. H.

^cOtis Colcord was a dealer in live stock and owned a farm near Greenville, Ill. He had one son, ^{ERRATA} whose name has not been obtained.

Probably another family of Samuel⁶ but records lacking.

2. Children of Thomas⁶ and Judith (Wiggin) Colcord, of Exeter, N. H.

- (a) John Wiggin, born 1818 in Exeter, N. H.; married, 1st, Martha Owen Colcord; 2nd, Emily Radford; 3rd, Mercy A. Hussey.

^aA graduate of Colby University, (A. M.) 1841, he became a successful educator, teaching in Portland, Me., Chicago, Ill., and in Peabody, Mass. Principal of Literary and Scientific Institute in 1842; Portland, Me. High School and Academy, 1847 to 1850; Peabody, Mass. High School 1855; Chicago, Ill. 1856; returned to Portland, Me. and was editor of "Zion's Advocate" for 15 years thereafter. (Hayward's History Hancock, N. H.) Well known and highly spoken of in Maine as a writer, teacher, and speaker.

Families of Rachel,⁶ Gideon⁶, John S.⁶, and Abby⁶,
(of Josiah,⁵ Gideon,⁴ Edward,³ Samuel,² Edward.¹)

1. Children of Rachel (Colcord) and Stephen Swett, of Parsonsfield, Me.

Mary Swett, born about 1807; Alice, 1809; Meribah, 1811; Mercy, 1814; Asa, 1816; John, 1818; Stephen, 1822; Josiah, 1825—had one daughter, Emily a teacher in Parsonsfield, Me.

2. Children of Gideon⁶ and Comfort (Doe) Colcord, and 2nd, Mrs. Devlin, of Parsonsfield, Me.

(a) Elizabeth Doe, born June 20, 1811; single; died 1891.

(b) Rufus, born June 20, 1813; married Roxanna Wentworth, born June 7, 1822; died August, 1891. Parsonsfield, Me.

Josiah H., born July 6, 1817; married Anna Hobbs; died 1852; had one daughter, Clara, born 1849.

Climena, born April 13, 1820; died Nov. 1885; never married.

Mercy S., born May 23, 1825; spinster; died Jan. 21, 1859; Parsonsfield.

(c) Clara L., born Apr. 26, 1826; married Rev. Eph. A. Edwards, Beverly, Mass.
 John D., born July 21, 1829; never married; died Aug. 20, 1853.

^a Elizabeth was a teacher, lived in Parsonsfield and was buried there.

^b Rufus Colcord, born in Parsonsfield, Me., was a grandson of Josiah, a soldier of the Revolution, who shouldered his musket and walked from Parsonsfield to Boston, as soon as he heard of the impending conflict there in 1775. Rufus lived on the homestead in Parsonsfield where he died in 1884. He had three sons, one of whom, Henry W., still lives on the old homestead in Parsonsfield. All are married and have children.

^c Clara Leavitt Colcord was loved and respected by all who knew her, being possessed of a gentle and lovable disposition. She left her home when but a young girl, having lost her mother, went to Lowell, Mass., where she had an older sister, secured means for obtaining an education by her own efforts, and attended the Academy at New Hampton, N. H., where she was a classmate of Mrs. H. B. Stowe. She was very successful as a teacher. She married a Baptist Minister in 1853, by whom she had six sons, four of whom are still living in Beverly, Mass.—Letter of Benj. I. Edwards, 1908.

No record found of John S. later.

3. Children of Abby⁶ (Colcord) and Morris Lord, of Parsonfield, Me.

George C. Lord, born about 1822; lived in Lowell, Mass.

Josiah C. Lord, born 1824, Lowell, Mass.

Augustus C. Lord, born 1827, Lowell, Mass.

Families of Joab,⁶ Josiah,⁶ Samuel⁶ and Charles,⁶

(of Joab,⁵ Gideon,⁴ Edward,³ Samuel,² Edward.¹)

1. Children of Joab⁶ and Betsey M. (Towle) Colcord, of Exeter, N. H.

John M., born December 13, 1819; married Lucy Bingham, Nov. 27, 1849; Exeter, N. H.

Elizabeth, born 1821; died 1823.

Henry A. F., born Nov. 24, 1823; married, (1st), Nancy C. Wingate, 1850; (2nd), Eliza A. Towle, Sept. 6, 1855.

Charles, born Nov. 26, 1826; died Jan. 18, 1830.

Simeon F., born April 2, 1831; died Jan. 14, 1833.

Clarinda, born 1837; died 1838.

The Towle family, originally of Hampton, N. H. (1640) early intermarried with the Colcord family, and several somewhat distinct branches have resulted therefrom. The Franklin, Vt., families are from Anthony Towle and Sarah (Colcord) Hobbs on the one side, and from John C. Colcord who married Ann R. (Towle) Colcord on the other. Some of the Towle families, of Hampton, moved to Maine after the war of the Revolution, and we find them in Parsonfield, Prospect, and other Maine towns, where their descendants married the Colcords of later generations.

2. Children of Josiah⁶ and Mary (Griffeth) Colcord.

Martha Owen, born about 1820-25. Married Prof. John W. Colcord, of Exeter, N. H., and Portland, Me.

I have not been able to find the other children of Josiah⁶, or full proofs of his line of descent. The above line seems most probable.—D. B. C.

3. Children of Charles⁶ and Abigail (Towle) Colcord, of Parsonsfield, Me.

Juliette, born about 1826.

Hester, born about 1828-30.

Other children died young.

Families of John,⁶ and Thomas,⁶

1. Children of John⁶ and (Hannah Thyng) Colcord, of Kingston and Brentwood, N. H.

Jacob, born 1815-20; died single.

Frederic, born 1818; married; had two sons.

John, born 1820-24; died single in Central America or California.

Abby, born 1822-26; spinster; died May, 1908, on old homestead, at Brentwood, N. H.

John⁵ Colcord and Lydia Merrill were married in Kingston, May 10, 1787.—Kingston Records. Their son John⁶, born about 1789, lived on the lands granted to Samuel Colcord, or Samuel Dudley in the first settlement of Kingston and Brentwood. Only one son, Frederic, married and raised a family. John⁷ went to sea and, by tradition, was said to have died in Central America. Abby remained single and lived to be nearly 90 years of age.

Family of Ebenezer,⁶

1. Children of Ebenezer⁶ and Elizabeth Clifford (Payson) Colcord, of Turner, Me.

(a) Aurelia, born about 1811; married Thos. C. Norris; died in Perry, Ia.

(b) Ebenezer Payson, born Aug. 9, 1813; married Sarah Towne in 1837.

^a Aurelia and her husband both died in Perry, Iowa,

DANIEL WEBSTER COLCORD, M. D.

after 1870, leaving four children, one of whom was alive in 1906. See Gen. VIII, Elizabeth Norris.

^b Ebenezer⁷ was born in Dudley, or Turner, Me., and died in Rio Janeiro, Brazil, May 15, 1852, while on the way to California.

Ebenezer Colcord, of Brentwood, born 1726, married Patience Stevens in 1749-50. No record of the birth of their children has been found, but Ebenezer, Jr., if born before 1755 would have been 25 years old or more in 1780, and he signed the "Association Test" in Brentwood in 1776. If he married in 1780 to 1790, he would have been between 23 and 33 years old when Ebenezer Payson Colcord (his oldest son) was born. No other Brentwood or Kingston Colcord has been found who would fill these conditions.

Family of Eliphalet,⁶

(John,⁵ Ebenezer,^{4,3} Samuel,² Edward.¹)

1. Children of Eliphalet⁶ and Olive (Steele) Colcord, of Exeter, N. H.

Mary Olive, born Nov. 1, 1824; married Jacob Carlisle; died Dec. 23, 1907.
 Elizabeth A., born Oct. 20, 1828; married John Coburn.
 William H., born Dec. 24, 1832; married——; living in 1908.
 Charles Eliphalet, born Dec. 17, 1835; married Sarah E. Clarke.

Family of Samuel,⁶

(Of Samuel,^{5,4} Ebenezer,³ Samuel,² Edward.¹)

It may be that this Samuel was a son of Edward,⁵ (Edward,^{4,3} Samuel,² Edward.¹)

Children of Samuel⁶ and (——) Colcord, of Exeter, N. H.

Samuel, born 1795; married Lydia Palmer.
 Stephen, born ——; married Sarah Smith, Meredeth, N. H.
 Otis, born ——; married Adellne Worthen.
 Abigail, born ——; married Edward Chamberlin.
 Mehitabel. Betsy.

Children of Enoch L.⁶ and (——) Colcord, of Boston, Mass. (May have been of John⁶, of Exeter, N. H.)

Austin N., born June 10, 1829; married Kate Spear, Boston and Philadelphia.

GENERATION VIII.

Families of Daniel⁷ and Monroe,⁷

(of Daniel,⁶⁻⁵ Samuel,⁴⁻³ Samuel,³ Edward.¹)

1. Children of Daniel⁷ and (——) Colcord, of Kingston, and Brentwood, N. H.

No records received.

2. Children of Monroe⁷ and Hannah (Webster) Colcord, of Kingston, N. H.

Monroe Taylor, born May 20, 1847; died Nov. 22, 1869; single.

(a) Daniel Webster, born May 23, 1850; married Laura A. Walton.

^a Daniel W. Colcord, M. D., was practicing medicine in Seabrook, N. H., in 1908. He was married Jan. 10, 1877. No children. Doctor Colcord is a very kindly, hospitable man, a skillful physician, a lover of well-bred horses and a scientific checker and chess player, games in which he takes great delight.

Families of Wear,⁷ Joseph,⁷ Ivory⁷ and Phineas,⁷

(of Phineas,⁶ Jonathan,⁵⁻⁴⁻³ Samuel,² Edward.¹)

1. Children of Wear⁷ and Elizabeth (Tate Edgerly) Colcord.

Sarah Ann, born about 1819; spinster; Durham, N. H.

Ivory, born 1821; bachelor.

(a) William, born Nov. 2, 1823; married Sarah Maria Cousins; died Jan. 12, 1876.

Emeline, born about 1825; spinster; now dead.

Mary Elizabeth, born 1827; married Israel Tibbetts, E. Cambridge, Mass.

Charles, born about 1830; married Lucy Lincoln, of Somerville, Mass.

Ellen, born about 1832; spinster.

^a William Colcord's father and his family continued to reside in Durham, N. H., until his son William was seven years of age, and then, in 1830, moved to Lowell, Mass.

The family attended the Appleton Street Congregational Church for some ten years, the then pastor being Rev. William Twinning. In 1840 he united with the Appleton Street Church, but in 1842 changed his church connections and became a member of the John Street Church, and so continued until the Summer of 1853. After graduating from Lowell High School, William went to work for Selwin Bancroft, of Lowell, in the grocery business, under a contract for four years, which contract was completed and he entered into a second contract for four more years, on which second term contract he worked one year, which brought him to the age of 21, when his employer proposed to him a co-partnership, which was satisfactorily consummated, and the business was thereafter continued in the firm name of Bancroft & Colcord, and so continued until 1853, when the firm sold out.

Meantime, William Colcord had been married to Sarah Maria Cousins on May 1st, 1845; she was a daughter of Ichabod Cousins and his wife Mary Wiggins, of Baldwin, Maine. After the marriage of William Colcord and his wife they continued to live in Lowell, Mass., where their first children William Henry and Frederick Wear were born, and until September 1853, when, becoming enthused with the "Western Fever," the business having been sold out on that account, William Colcord, and his wife with their two children struck out "Westward-Ho," but they got only as far as Cincinnati, Ohio, where friends prevailed on them to remain, so there they squatted or settled, and he obtained a position as book-keeper in a bank in Cincinnati, where he remained but a short time, and in May, 1854, entered the employ of Gaylord Son & Co., owners and operators of blast furnaces and rolling mills, and while here employed he removed his family to Newport, Ky., a suburb of Cincinnati, on the opposite side of the Ohio river, in Kentucky, where two daughters, Mary Elizabeth and Fannie Cousins were born, then in 1857, under a contract with Gaylord Son & Co., he, with his family removed to St. Louis, Mo., and established a branch house there for that firm; the business proving very successful up to 1868, when William Colcord withdrew from the old connections and succeeded to the control and sole ownership of the Saint Louis business of Gaylord Son & Co. and thereafter continued in the iron business in St. Louis, Mo., up to 1874.

William Colcord and his wife were members of First Congregational Church, of St. Louis, of which Rev. Truman Post was pastor from 1857 to 1866, and from 1866 to 1876 they were members of Pilgrim Congregational Church, of St. Louis, Mo. William Colcord died Jan'y 12, 1876; his wife, Sarah Maria Colcord died April 30, 1904; buried in the family lot, Bellefontaine Cemetery, Saint Louis, Mo.

2. Children of Joseph⁷ and Sally (Dickinson) Colcord, of Bath, N. Y.

- (a) David Dickinson, born 1821; died 1905; married Sarah Peet, July 4, 1844.
Phineas, born 1823; died 1842; unmarried.
- (b) Nancy, born 1825; married Giles Gustin.
- (c) Eliza, born 1828; died Dec. 8, 1908; married Jacob Peet.
Emily, born 1830; died 1857; married John Calkins.
Harriett, born 1832; died 1833.
- (d) Amos D., born 1835; died 1885; married Sarah Taggart.
- (e) Albert, born 1841; married Elizabeth Shearer.
Wilson, born 1848; died 1849.
- (f) M. Bradbury, born 1852; married Sarah Morrison.

^a David Dickinson Colcord was born on Bonny Hill, Steuben county, N. Y. Struck out for himself at the age of 16 and went to Coudersport, Pa., where he attended the academy under William H. DePuy, the talented son of a Bonny Hill neighbor, and from whom he acquired a thirst for knowledge and an ambition to fit himself for the higher callings of life. He studied medicine while teaching school but did not practice till late in life, having devoted about thirty years of his life to teaching and farming. He held a license as local preacher for some years and was active in Sunday School and church work. He was a very vigorous, active man, generous to a fault, and devoted to the service of his fellow-men. He served one year in the Civil War, coming out considerably broken in health. He practiced medicine from about 1872 until within a year or two of his death.

^b Nancy (Colcord) Gustin was married at Bath, N. Y., and early in their married life she and her husband moved to Homer, Pa., where he built one of the first saw mills in that backwoods country. They endured many hardships of pioneer life while rearing a family, and later moved to Illinois, thence to South Dakota, and finally went to live with their daughter, Emily Hasbrouck, at Pine Island, Minn., where Mr. Gustin died. Nancy is living (1908) in wonderful possession of her mental faculties, which were always clear and bright, tho now in feeble health and nearly blind. She was a charming story-teller, as many of the children who listened to her sweet voice can testify, and a splendid correspondent, her letters being models of conversational style.

^c Eliza (Colcord) Peet was born at Bath, N. Y., and came to Coudersport with her brother David about 1843, to attend the Academy, then under the principalship of Harrison DePuy. She taught school one term and shortly afterwards married Jacob Peet, youngest son of John Peet, the well known Potter county pioneer. They took up a piece of land in what was known as South Woods, three miles south of Coudersport, being one of the first settlers in that almost unbroken forest. She was truly a help-meet, doing her share in buffeting the hard conditions of pioneer life, bravely enduring and energetically overcoming the hardships and privations of the early settler. A large family of children were reared, until the terrible diphtheria scourge of 1862 claimed four from their fireside. Four children grew to maturity under the care of a father and mother whom they can well "rise up and call blessed." Mr. Peet died in 1892 and Mrs. Peet made her home with her daughters until she died.

An obituary of Mrs. Peet says: "Mrs. Peet was a woman of rare good sense and boundless hospitality. Her home from first to last was a haven for travelers and a place of hearty welcome for a host of friends. She was a woman of spotless character and sincere piety. She hated iniquity in all its forms but cherished a loving charity for the erring and a quick sympathy for the afflicted. To those who knew her best, her memory is a benediction, her example an inspiration, her death a personal loss."

^d Amos D. Colcord was born on Bonny Hill, and left home at the age of sixteen, going to Cleveland, O., to learn the trade of marble-cutter. That not being to his liking, he joined a party of gold-hunters and went as far west as Iowa "to seek his fortune." There he enlisted in the U. S. Cavalry and was in Texas under Bragg at the outbreak of the Rebellion. He chose the stars and stripes and came North while many of his comrades espoused the cause of the Southern Confederacy. He served all through the war, escaping from over sixty engagements without a scratch, altho having his clothing pierced many times and several horses shot under him. He was a most hospitable man, kind and charitable. Altho having but little education he had a wonderful memory, could repeat a speech or sermon almost verbatim. After the war he lived at Coudersport, Pa.

^e Albert Colcord was born on Bonny Hill, Steuben Co., N. Y. Moved to Pennsylvania in 1868. Blacksmith and farmer. A typical Colcord. Rollicking lover of fun. A great mimic. Served two years in Civil War. In many battles. Lives near Coudersport, a prosperous retired farmer.

^t Melvin Bradbury, born on Bonny Hill. Has lived in Minnesota, New York and Pennsylvania. Has been a S. D. A. preacher, a blacksmith and a farmer.

^aRalph Bennett Colcord was born at Bath, New York. When he was nine years old his parents, Ivory and Elzina Colcord, moved from New York to Illinois, making the trip down the Ohio and up the Mississippi rivers. His education was obtained in the public schools at Lyndon and Knox Colleges. He was a close Bible student all his life, and became a Christian while a boy, joining the Methodist Protestant church. He united with the Christian Church in 1875, and organized a church of which he was a charter member. He was an elder in the church nearly all his life and always a teacher in the Sunday School until a short time before his death. As a young man he was a teacher in the public schools. He purchased one hundred sixty acres of land and built a fine home, for those times. For fifteen years he lived on the farm, overseeing its care and following his chosen business, that of a marble and granite dealer until 1869, when, for the better school advantages for his children, he moved to Sterling where he built a new home and continued in business until 1893, when, for the benefit of his wife's health, he sold his business to W. J. Moore and moved to Pasadena, California. There he built another home and having retired from active business, and with Mrs. Colcord's improved health, his desire was to spend the evening of his life devoting himself entirely to the church, his home and loved ones. On November 21, 1902, Mrs. Colcord passed to her reward, leaving him and their daughter, Miss Luella, in the old home. He preserved the record of the family, copied by his father from the Bible in Waterboro, Me., in 1828, and continued the record of his own family to 1907, sending a copy to the Author a few months before his death. He enjoyed traveling and had visited every state in the Union and on Oct. 13, 1907 he went on his last journey to the Eternal home. Among his last words were these, "I am glad I have kept the faith."

4. Children of Phineas⁷, Jr., and Eliza (Russell) Colcord.

A boy, born in Massachusetts about 1836-44. went with his father to California.

See Page 63.

^a John Amala, the son of a half-breed Spanish woman of Honolulu, S. I., came to the U. S., with his father in 1845, or later, and then returned to the Sandwich Islands, and became Governor of one of the smaller islands, before the revolution there. Later history not obtained.

^b Jesse Colcord, A. B., Yale College, attorney-at-law, was a bright young lawyer in 1862, or about that date, when he visited Ralph B. Colcord and his other relatives in Illinois. Ralph B. wrote of that visit that "he (Jesse) was a fine looking man, a little dark, but of good address, and could speak seven languages." He died in Denver, Col., of consumption, leaving a widow who died in 1866.

^c Susan Colcord, being the youngest child of John's first wife, was brought to Massachusetts to be educated, but died of consumption while young.

^d Joseph Webster Colcord, born in Honolulu and raised in Woburn, Mass., was engaged in mercantile and drug business in Cincinnati, O., in California and, later, settled in Lynn, Mass., his present residence. He was a soldier in the Civil War and returned to Lynn, Mass., in 1865, after the War was over. He has been connected with pharmacy in some form since the '60s, and has held the positions of secretary of local, State and national associations for many years.

^e George F. Colcord was born in Woburn, Mass. He enlisted in the 1st Massachusetts, Co. L., and was wounded before Petersburg, from the effects of which wound he died. After the Civil War he went to Iowa and had a drug store at Wilton Junction, where the Author saw him in 1868. He was married May 7, 1872. He later studied law and was a very successful attorney at the time of his death, which occurred at Sutherland, Iowa. "A kind, just man, whom even his enemies honored and respected."

^f Mrs. Clara M. Jeffers, of Swampscott, Mass., who has furnished several interesting and important particulars about this branch of the family, writes that her mother, Clara T. Webster, was born in Sanford, Me., but thinks her father was born in Saco, Me. She says, "There is a legend in the family that my great-grandfather married twice and had six children by each wife." The Author has not been able to verify this legend, but Jonathan,⁵ the great-grandfather referred to, had five sons and one daughter, of whom proofs are on record, by his wife, Elizabeth (Boardman), and his father, Jonathan,⁴ also had six children.

 David Colcord, born 1834; died 1837.

^a Amasa Taylor Colcord Dodge studied law and practiced in Washington, D. C., for many years. His family have become separated since his death, a few years ago, but one brother and a sister still reside in the capital city.

^b Flavilla Dodge Maglathy had four children by her first husband, and being left a widow, married a Mr. Goodell in 1856, by whom she had one son, Raymond Dodge Goodell, now dead. He lived in Contacook, N. H.

^c Asaph Dodge, lieutenant in Civil War, has been for many years employed in the War Department Office at Washington, since 1890. He was in Co. F. 16th N. Y. Infantry. Mustered out at Albany, N. Y., May 22, 1863. His wife was born Sept. 8, 1843, and died Jan. 4, 1908.

^d Persis Ann (Fernald) lived in the old homestead on the Shore of Swan Lake (formerly Goose Pond) in North Searsport, Me., after the death of her father, where the Author spent many happy hours after the close of the Civil War, with "Uncle William" and "Aunt Betsy." Their Golden Wedding anniversary occurred in 1862. Mrs. Fernald died there in 1906, leaving no children, and the homestead has passed into other hands.

^e Mary H. (Dodge) Rosenbaum is still living in Washington, D. C. Residence 121 S. E. 11th St. Her husband died suddenly July 26, 1906.

Nearly all of the fourteen children of this family have passed away, but the saintly lives of their parents and the loving cheerfulness of the old home will not soon be forgotten.

2. Children of David⁷ and 1st Martha (West) and 2nd, Hannah Doane (Blood) Colcord, of Searsport and Bucksport, Me.

- (g) Ruth Ida Nickerson, born Aug. 1851; married Devillo Gates; died Dec. 1889.

^a Seldin Colcord was a stone mason and never married, dying while still a young man, at his father's home in Bucksport, Me. He was a prominent member of the Sons of Temperance, and was buried by that Order in the Long Pond Cemetery near the old farm.

^b Emily Colcord married a mason by trade, a fine young man who contracted the drink habit and died early from intemperance. She was a nurse in the Civil War, and was an active worker in temperance and other reforms. She later married and lived in Boston, where her husband (Smith) died, and she spent her last years with her only living daughter, Mrs. Clara Phillips, in Ellsworth, Me., dying July 15, 1908. She was buried by the side of her first husband and an infant daughter in Bangor, Me. She was an active Christian worker and died happy in the faith in which she had lived.

^c Mary Colcord married Daniel Brown, a tanner and millwright in Dedham, Me. She had seven children, two of them being twins. She was a devoted mother, and outlived her husband, dying in Minneapolis, Minn., in 1888.

^d Clarissa Jane married J. Jones in Great Falls, N. H., and moved to a farm in Wisconsin, near Warren, Ill. She had four children.

^e Rev. William David Colcord went from Maine to Wisconsin in 1855; married there and went across the plains to California with his young wife, where he founded a home and raised a large family. He was in the cavalry service during the Civil War, was a local preacher of the M. E. Church, and after a long and painful illness died in Humboldt County, Cal., in 1882.

^f Doane Blood Colcord, B. S., M. D., was born in Bucksport, Me. He married Luella Spencer, of Hanover, N. H., in 1872, by whom he had one child, which died in infancy, and was buried with its mother in Norwich, Vt., in 1873. He married Mrs. Marien Grace Hooper Nov. 5, 1878, in Burlington, Ia., by whom he had two children, both living at the present date. He was a student and teacher at E. M. C. Seminary and was in the army as leader of the Signal Corps Post Band during the Civil War. He graduated from the Scientific Department of Dartmouth College in 1867 as B. S.; was seven years in the Engineering Department of the B. C. R. & N. Ry. Co.; graduated from Bellevue Hospital Medical College in 1875 as M. D.; practiced medicine in Waymart, Pa., with Dr. Niles, now of Carbondale, Pa.; then removed to Cedar Falls, Ia., and in 1888 to Topeka, Kan., where he remained for about fourteen years. He was elected Professor of Chemistry and Toxicology in Kansas Medical College in 1893, and was Orthopedic Surgeon to Stormont Hospital. He was surgeon for the Mt. Carmel Coal Co. in 1899-1900, where he contracted blood-poisoning from a surgical case and after several months' illness went to Colorado for his health, accepting a position with the Colorado Fuel & Iron Co. as consulting and chief engineer on water supply, having charge of the construction of reservoirs, canals and pipe lines for the water supply of the Bessemer Steel Works, at Pueblo. He assisted in the difficult task of locating the D. N. W. & P. Ry. (Moffatt Short Line) from Denver to Steamboat Springs, being with the pioneer surveying party and making the location over and through the main range and Gore range of the Rocky mountains in 1902 and '03. He then had charge of final location and construction of the Mt. Hood (Switch-back) railroad and a loop line extension of the Sumpter Valley railroad over the Blue mountains in Oregon, and later was employed by the O. S. L. Ry. Co. in locating a double track between Green river and Granger, and in the location and construction of the Willow Creek branch of the O. S. L. Ry. in Wyoming. He is now living with his youngest daughter, Mrs. Armitage, in Creswell, Ore., practicing medicine, doing some literary work and taking life easy. He has always been an enthusiastic lover of music, led a church choir for more than twenty years, a class leader, church, Sunday School and temperance worker, and is proud of his Colcord ancestors.

§ Ruth Ida Nickerson Gates, named for her Aunt Ruth Doane (Nickerson), was afflicted with heart disease from girlhood, but lived an active Christian life in church and temperance work and died as she lived,—a devoted Christian. She never had children. She married a cabinet maker, and died from heart trouble in Chicago in 1889.

^aJosiah Perham Colcord, at the age of seventeen, enlisted in the 22nd Illinois Volunteers for the American Civil War, without the consent of his parents, and on their objection to his enlisting at that age, the enlistment was cancelled. A little later, parental objection being removed, he enlisted as a private in the 130th Illinois Volunteers and soon rose to the rank of Lieutenant. He was about to receive another promotion, when in the battle of Vicksburg he was twice wounded, the second wound being so serious that he was carried from the field. For months following this he was either lying in a hospital recovering from his wounds or on crutches getting about with difficulty. His final recovery left him with a slight lameness which, much to his regret, prevented his return to the service.

He moved to St. Louis where he studied law and was admitted to the bar. At the early age of twenty-two was by the Governor's appointment, made prosecuting attorney for the new Court of Criminal Correction. On the expiration of his term, he was elected to this office by popular election and held it until he resigned to become a member of the Missouri House of Representatives to which he was elected.

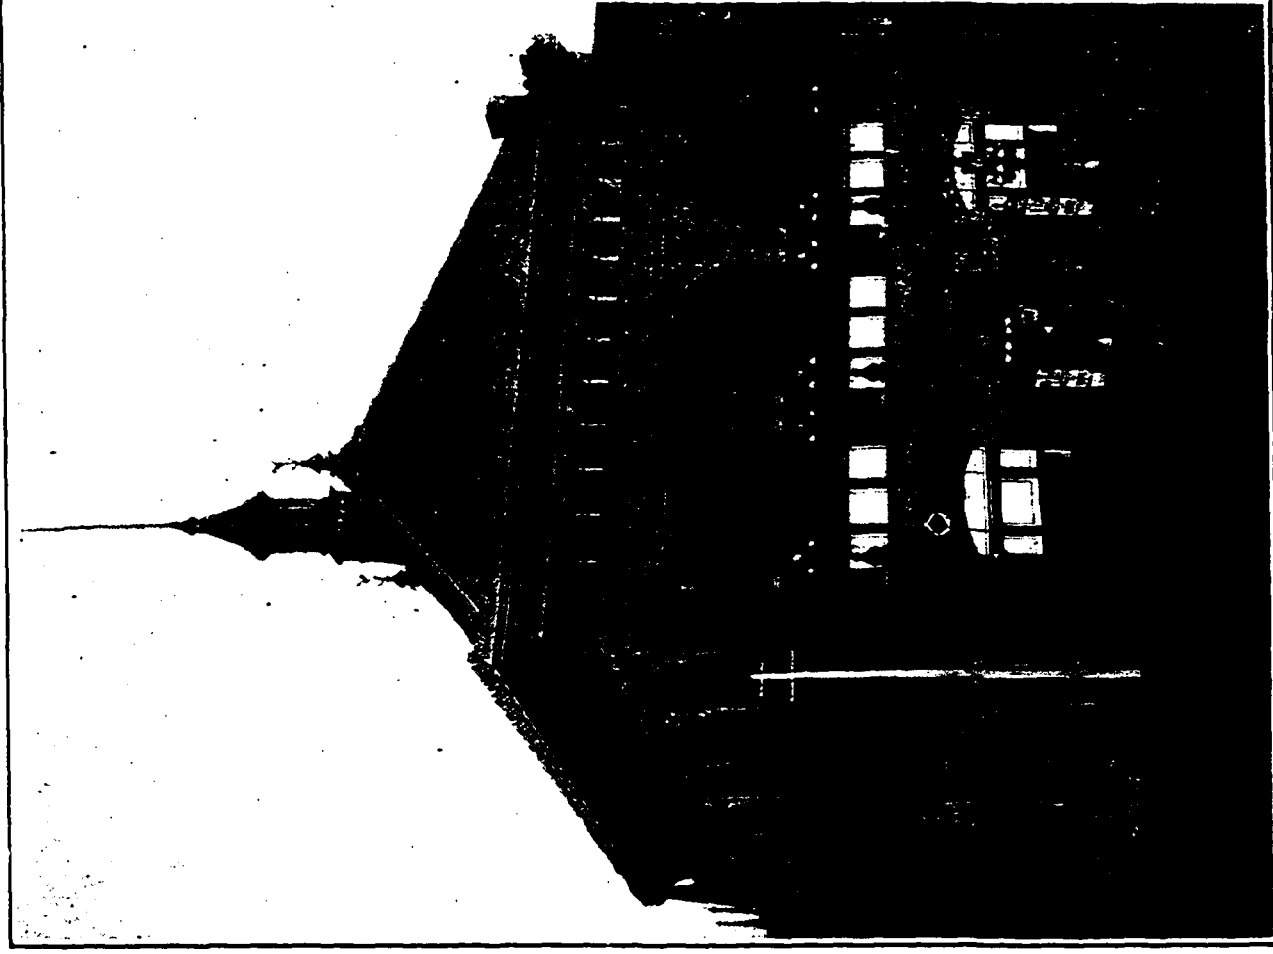

He was in much demand as a public speaker and by many regarded the most brilliant platform speaker in the state. Had he lived, there is every reason to believe he would have attained a much higher public position and wider influence. His wife was a brilliant and beautiful woman, but died in 1907 in an insane asylum.

^bThe Rev. Samuel Colcord was educated at Illinois College and ordained a Congregational minister in New York City at the Broadway Tabernacle in 1873. Two years later, at the age of 26, he was preaching in Chickerling Hall, corner of Fifth Avenue and 18th street, where he continued to preach for seven years to one of the largest congregations in the city and which frequently overflowed the hall. He became the Pastor of Puritan church in Brooklyn where he made a supreme effort to relieve the church from debt and secure for it the valuable property which it now owns. At the same time he attempted to carry on his work in Chickering Hall, preaching there every Sunday afternoon and in the church morning and evening. The effort succeeded, but at the cost of his health which was seriously broken.

Reluctantly yielding to his physicians' commands, to the great regret of his people, he resigned his charges and for several years engaged in business in New York City. In this he was eminently successful amassing a large fortune. His fortune took wings and left him with restored health, struggling for years to lift a great load of debt at a time when he was most anxious to forsake business and return to his chosen work.

He felt that his mission was to preach to the educated and cultured non-church-goers of his city, who, he insisted, were the most neglected by religious influences of any class in the community. His Chickering Hall work was to that end. Though in business life, he is still a member of the Manhattan Association of Congregational Ministers and frequently preaches. He has little regard for denominational lines.

The exactions of business did not prevent his return to the platform in a memorable debate with the famous agnostic, Robert G. Ingersoll, in 1895, in which he was proclaimed the victor. His lecture, growing out of this debate, was in such demand that it was delivered twenty-five times in New York City within sixty days and afterwards in leading cities throughout the country. On the occasion of one of these lectures in Chickering Hall, Col. Ingersoll sat in the audience. His presence encouraged several of the many agnostics present to attack the lecturer with volleys of questions and determined interruptions in what was evidently a preconcerted attempt to break up the lecture. Against this assault, Mr. Colcord held the platform for two hours, administering to his foes a defeat so decisive that the great audience, not satisfied with ordinary methods of applause, arose and cheered for some minutes, waving handkerchiefs, hats and even umbrellas with such persistence that the speaker had for a time almost as much trouble quieting the enthusiasm of his friends as he had before in subduing the interruptions. Seldom has a lecture been more universally acclaimed. The New York Herald said: "The great hall was crowded to the utmost to hear this lecture, hundreds having waited for two hours in the rain before the doors were opened. Great applause greeted his retorts, men, and women even, stamping on the floor to swell the sound." The New York World described him as "skilled in language, witty and fearless, keen and entertaining" and adds, "Ingersoll was applauded, but cheers greeted the sallies of Colcord." The same paper, speaking of his audiences, said, "A furor arose and the people demanded more. Night after night they forced him to speak. Throngs came and made Ingersoll's audiences look like a pailful of dried seaweed alongside of a field of hay." The Independent described it as "brilliant and effective," while the famous Dr. Parkhurst in his characteristic style said of the lecture, "it is generous, pertinent and pungent; and if it does not gain access to the intelligence of his hearers, it will be because their intelligence is sitting with closed doors."

Cora Ann, born April 28, 1846; (by second wife) married Benjamin Slater; died April 7, 1890.

^a Harry Colcord was a born artist, and because his father did not sympathize with his ambition to develop his talent, the boy ran away from home and went to sea. After four years before the mast, and a few years in the studio of a famous artist in New York, he joined Blondin, the great tight-rope walker, and rode on the latter's back three times across Niagara Gorge on a tight rope. The first trip was made in August, 1859, the last one in the presence of the Prince of Wales and 250,000 people. This feat required superhuman nerve. The publisher of this book saw Harry in Chicago in 1886, where he lived at ease by means of his brush, being a portrait painter of considerable skill, tho he told the writer that it was the disappointment of his life that he could not realize his one ambition to paint a great picture.

Harry's recital of his daring adventure has been frequently published, and is a thrilling story, given in his own words, from which we quote :

"There were 2,000 feet of the rope. It was of manilla, three inches in diameter, made in a New York ropewalk, in two pieces. It took us nearly five months to stretch the rope and to get the guy lines in place.

"It was two hundred and fifty feet above water at its lowest point, which was fifty feet below the highest—in other words, there was a grade of fifty feet in each one thousand feet. There were 75,000 feet of guy line altogether. Each of them was weighted with a ten-pound sand bag to drop them out of the way of Blondin's balance pole, which was thirty feet long and weighed sixty pounds.

"I took my place on Blondin's back, and he began the descent from the Canadian side on the rope. By reason of the fact that I had to bear my weight on his shoulders and had to use my arms, and with main strength, to support myself, frequent rests were necessary. I told Blondin when I wanted to rest, and then I dropped down on the rope on one foot and waited till my arms were relieved, when I would spring up again, using only my arms to lift and hold myself in place.

"There was a forty foot length between the guys on one side and those of the other, and this it was impossible to make steady. It was the middle span. Below us two-hundred and fifty feet roared the river, and over it we swung from side to side. Still moving on steadily, however, Blondin never trembled. When he had gone about ten feet on the middle span somebody on the American side pulled the other guy line. We afterwards found out it was done intentionally, and the rope was stopped in its swing. Blondin stopped and his pole went from side to side in the vain effort to enable him to secure his balance. At one time it was up and down on the right side, at another up and down on the left, and I recall now with wonder that I was only curious to know whether he would succeed in getting control of himself or not. I didn't feel any fear. Failing in getting his balance, he started to run across the horrible span, and we safely reached the point where the guy rope came from the American shore. Then to steady himself Blondin put his foot on the guy rope and tried to stop. but the guy line broke and with a dash of speed he ran swiftly twenty-five feet further to the rope. There he recovered his balance and whispered loud: 'Descendezvous.' The perspiration stood out on his neck and shoulders in great beads, and we balanced ourselves on the swaying rope. Presently he said, 'Allon', and I raised myself to his shoulders and we went on in safety and without accident toward the shore.

"It was not until we landed that I appreciated what had been done. Then it occurred to me that the man who pulled the guy line was one of those who bet that the feat could never be accomplished, and my indignation mastered any reactionary feeling of fear. You see, many thousands of dollars were bet upon the ability of Blondin to carry a man over, and human cupidity stops at no sacrifice. Then there were the congratulations and the praises of pluck and the rest of it, so that in my foolish, boyish elation I forgot everything else."

^a William H. Colcord resides in Pittsburgh, Pa. Through his efforts the records of the descendants of Jonathan⁵ Colcord's sons, Phineas⁶ and Jesse⁶ have been corrected and brought down to date, and much information concerning other branches of the family has been obtained. To his ancestral contribution he adds the following regarding himself:

“As the oldest child of my father's family I was taken to St Louis, Mo., in 1857, at the age of ten years, and there I attended the public schools and the University until I had absorbed as much of book learning as my wise and good father deemed me mentally capable, and at the same time, in a measure, qualify and fit me to take up his line of work, and as his heir and ‘Crown Prince,’ so to speak, assume the responsibilities and execute the duties and trusts evolving from a busy, hustling and strenuous life in the iron and steel industries, in which my father was extensively interested at the time.

“To what extent I may have made good, if indeed I made good at all, or in any degree, is not for me to say. This much, however, I do say,—that I early commenced on the job, have loyally staid by it, am still holding it down, and hope to round out an even century of time ere ‘I go to the land where my father is gone, where he shall rejoice in the name of his son.’

“Could I in early life have followed my own youthful inclinations, the promptings of my own heart, my own mind’s line of thought, I would have become a naturalist, a discoverer perhaps, certainly a traveler in the cause, but there were influences that decreed otherwise. I traveled ‘all right all right,’ from ocean to ocean, from Quebec to Key West and Cuba, from British Columbia to Mexico City and Panama, afoot, horseback, by canal boat, steamboat, stage, railroad, automobile and air-ship, as a salesman of iron and steel and of the products of iron and steel. So much for your Uncle Billy.

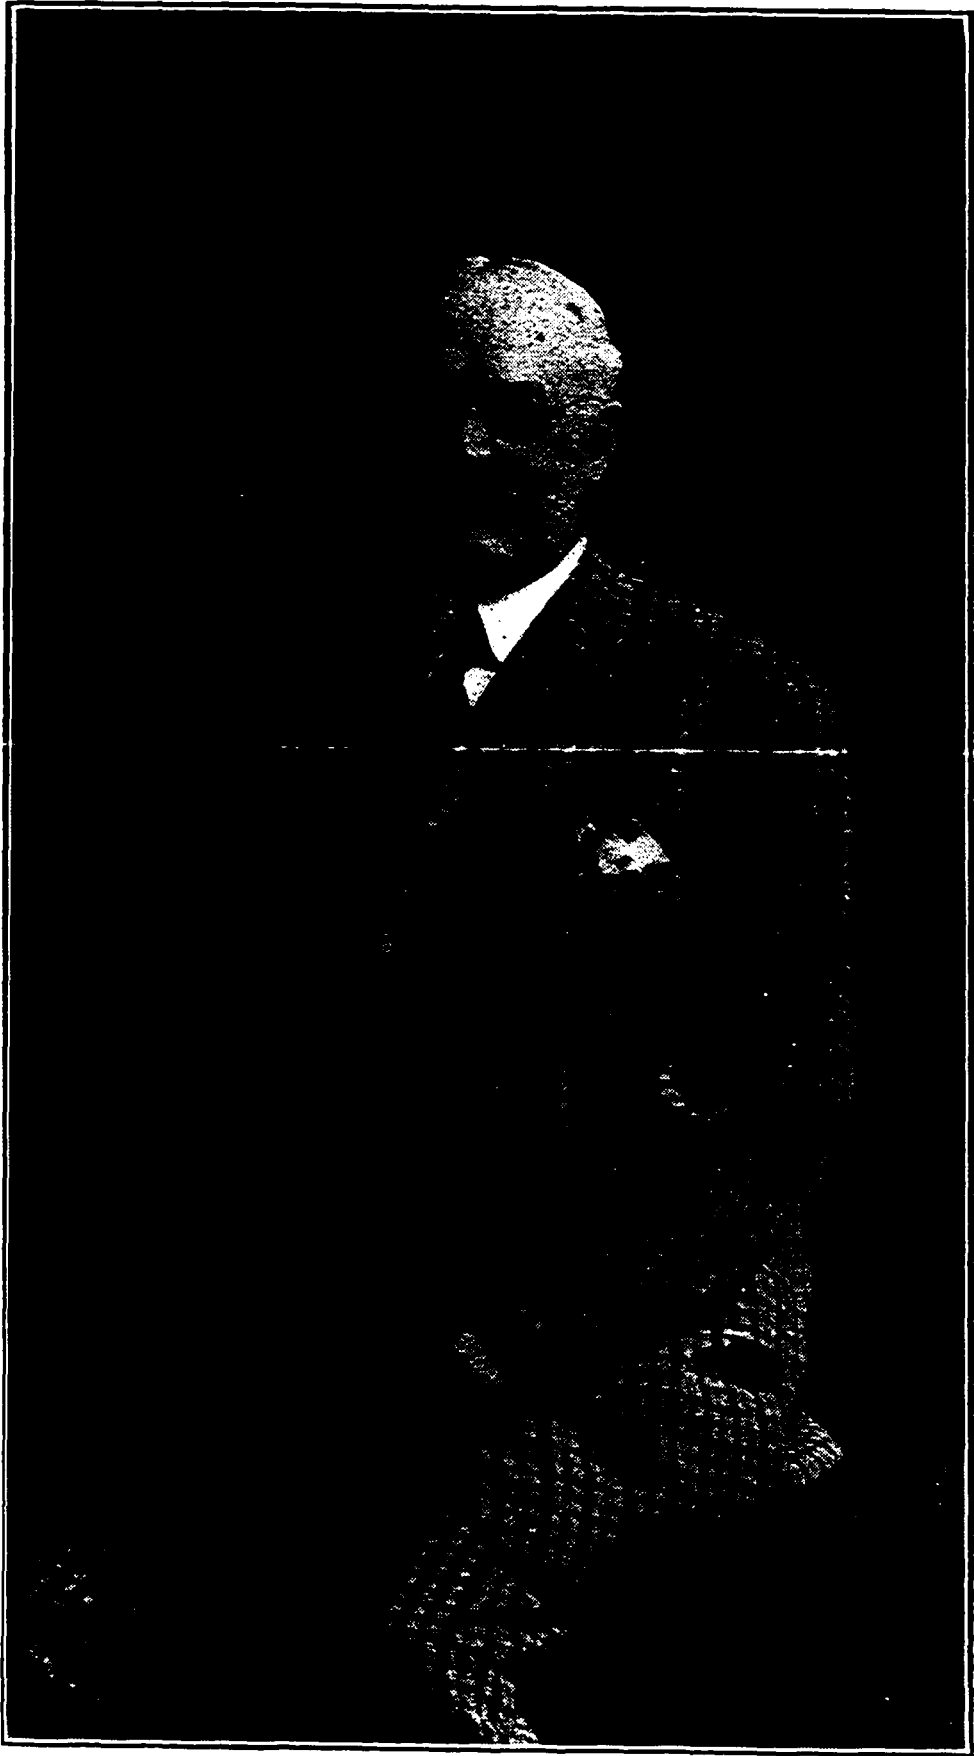

“From 1857 to 1877 my home was in St. Louis, Mo.; from 1877 to 1900 in Chicago, Ill., and from 1900 to the present time, Pittsburgh, Pa. In Chicago, on October 1, 1884, I married Jennie Inkerton Pearce, a daughter of James Pearce and his wife, Mary Goss, of Cincinnati, O. We lived happily together until my wife died May 2, 1897, leaving no issue; hence, as there has been “nothing doing” since, it must be evident to any inquiring mind that I am certainly long on ancestry and short to the limit on posterity.

“Speaking of ancestry calls to my mind the verses of John Kendrick Bangs, which are here quoted for the benefit of the readers of this little booklet, as they are in harmony with this genealogy :

'First families' are very fine,
 If one believes in caste ;
 'Tis very well to have a line
 Of ancestors for eons nine—
 Fair Eve and Adam started mine ;
 But, take it first and last,
 There's little in a family tree
 Whose fruit has gone to seed ;
 'Tis better far for one to be
 A mushroom minus pedigree,
 But of the best variety
 In character and deed.

My boast is not of how I trace
 My line to noble Guelph
 To leaders in some bygone race ;
 But how I'm going to win a place,
 However fast or hot the pace
 As ancestor myself ;
 So that, when all is over here,
 Up in the realm of bliss
 My forebears back to Adam's year
 When I arrive will shout and cheer
 And whisper in their neighbor's ear:
 'We're relatives of his !'

^bAlbert E. Colcord was born in St. Louis, Nov. 17, 1863. After completing his course at the public schools he attended the manual training school, from which he was graduated at the age of eighteen. This was followed by a two-years' course at Washington University, the latter the most celebrated institution of learning in the Southwest. Prior to attending the Washington University he had some practical experience as an engineer, which was of great value to him. In 1880 he was topographical engineer on the Missouri River Commission, accompanying Captain Wellman, United States Engineer Corps. They surveyed the Missouri River from Fort Randall to Sioux City, Iowa. There were eighty in the party, comprising a full corps of engineers. The aim at the time was to straighten the river. In 1881 he was one of another party which went out in charge of Professor J. B. Johnson, one of the most distinguished engineers in this country, now dean of the College of Engineering at the University of Wisconsin, and who has written much upon the subject of engineering. This party was known as a precise leveling corps and surveyed the route of a proposed deep water channel from Fulton, Ill., to Lake Michigan. The value of association with these men was almost inestimable, because it was at a time when talented men had time and opportunity to devote attention to study and the discussion of the various subjects under consideration. His career is further detailed by the "Construction News :"

WILLIAM HENRY COLCORD.

“In 1881 Mr. Colcord entered Washington University, where he remained two years, and then took a two years’ course of architecture at the Art Institute. Completing this course, he entered the office of Kirtschner & Kirtschner in 1885. They were at the time architects for the board of education at St. Louis, but Mr. Colcord’s work was not connected with that branch of their practice. He devoted his attention to the general work of the office. After two years, or in 1887, he went with the Wabash Railway, designing cars. After a year he returned to the office of Kirtschner & Kirtschner, where he remained for six months. He then devoted his attention to monumental designing for the Hurricane Granite Company, with whom he remained two years, or until the Company closed the St. Louis offices, and Mr. Colcord then went to the quarries at Hurricane Island, Maine, where he remained about six months. Mr. Colcord came to Chicago in 1890 and has been very busily occupied since that time. In 1892, he formed a partnership with Thomas R. Bishop, which lasted seven years. Mr. Colcord was then for two years in the office of the city engineer, Chicago, designing bridges and work of a public character. While in this office he completed the course in bridge engineering at the International Correspondence Schools at Scranton, Pa.

“In 1901 he again embarked in business for himself under his own name and has designed a large number of residences and apartment houses.

“He has had a pleasant line of work. He is at the present time engaged in the construction of the Manistee County Savings Bank building at Manistee, Mich., the cost of which will be $90,000, and the First National Bank of Menominee, Mich.; also preparing plans for the Bank of Sheboygan, Wis., and the People’s Savings Bank of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. He has also designed a number of high grade residences, including, recently, twenty at Jackson Park Highlands for Frank I. Bennett and associates, and is at work on plans for twenty more to cost from $12,000 to $15,000 each. Mr. Colcord is a Fellow of the American Institute of Architects, is a Knight Templar, and a member of the Medina Temple."

Albert has one son, born February 19, 1909, named Albert Edward, Jr., whose portrait is found herein.

Walter Rea Colcord was born in St. Louis, Mo., and educated in the public schools of St. Louis. His father died when his son was nine years of age. His mother, left with a large family and small means, succeeded thru self-denial and rare good management in providing him an education. Of her he writes: "Having at an early age been deprived of the guidance of a father, whatever in life there may be worthy of esteem, is due to the ever pure and noble influence and example of my most honored mother."

His first position was that of clerk in a railroad office, but at the age of twenty he determined to learn a mercantile business, and went to Chicago, accepting a position as stock clerk at a salary of six dollars a week for that purpose. At that time he was much interested in religious matters and soon became very active in church work, being president of a Christian Endeavor Society, and teacher of a Sunday School class. A few years later he changed his opinion of religious matters and dropped all connection with the church.

At the age of twenty-two he was appointed traveling salesman which occupation he followed for five years. At the age of twenty-seven he determined to have the name of Colcord once more listed among the business houses of St. Louis, and he returned to his native city in 1894 and established himself as manufacturer's agent in the machinery and supply business.

June 1st, 1896, he was married to Meta Eliza Garrels, daughter of William Gerhart Garrels, of St. Louis.

In 1897 the partnership of Colcord & Sanderson was formed, a small store opened and a stock of machinery and supplies laid in. One year later he bought out his partner and continued the business under the name of W. R. Colcord Machinery Company. In 1903 the business was incorporated under the same name, with W. R. Colcord, President and Treasurer, J. H. Bentzen, Vice President and Secretary.

He has two children, a son Gerard Rea, born in St. Louis, Nov. 1st, 1900, and a daughter, Eunice, born May 24, 1908.

^aClara J. Brown was a successful teacher in the city of Cedar Falls, Iowa, and elsewhere before her marriage and an earnest worker in church, temperance, social and musical circles. She had to contend against poor health being afflicted with asthma. She married a cabinet maker whose health failed, and is now residing near Ramsey, N. J., on a fruit farm.

^bCharles S. Brown was born in Dedham, Maine. He inherited a love for mechanical pursuits, became a stationary engineer and later an inventor, some of his inventions yielding him a fair profit. He lost his first wife, whom he married in Cedar Falls, Iowa, and later married and settled in Lake Mills, Minn., where he has a pleasant home.

^cNettie and Nellie were born in Dedham, Maine, and received their education in Cedar Falls, Iowa, where their father lived for several years before moving to Minnesota where their parents died. They looked so nearly alike that their own mother could not always tell them apart. They were bright, healthy girls, musical and vivacious and had many friends when young. They married in Minneapolis and raised families there where they now reside. Nellie spent several years in Europe, one child being born in Sweden. Her husband died in London, England in 1906.

^d Edwin F. Brown, a millwright and general foreman, was born in Dedham, Maine. Married in Cedar Falls, Ia., and has been for many years in the employ of Johnson Bros. in Dallas, Oregon and elsewhere, engaged in the lumbering business. He is now (1908) in a new lumber-town, Walville, Wash. An upright, active and capable mechanic and a hard-working man of excellent character and habits. He lost his only child, Claire in Minneapolis, Minn., 1896, which greatly shadowed and saddened his life.

(a) Mabel, born July 13, 1873, in San Francisco.

Harry Payson, born 1866; died 1871.

^aMabel is a vocalist and actress. The Boston papers say of her: "Among the younger group of Boston actresses perhaps none is better known and better liked than Miss Mabel Colcord, who is now a permanent member of the John Craig Stock Company at the Castle Square Theatre, and who in the few weeks since the opening of the season has given satisfactory evidence of her cleverness. Miss Colcord is an artist in every sense of the word, and no matter whether her role be large or small, long or short, important or unimportant, she is inevitably certain to give it the distinction that comes of an engaging personality and the rare skill of the player, who has studied her art and realizes its every possibility. There are few parts that Miss Colcord cannot play, and whether it be as a grand dame or a governess, as a heroine or as a servant she is always sure of applause, both for herself and her acting. Her ingenuity in dialect roles is especially marked, and she may be relied upon to give character to every person she represents on the stage." — "As a newspaper correspondent of 10 years' experience, both as a girl and a woman, Mabel Colcord, now playing heavies in the Keith Stock Company, had most excellent training for her chosen profession. Nobody so much as the newspaper man or woman gets an insight into human nature and the ways of the world." — "Enthusiasm, hard work, and last, but not least, personal magnetism, are the three qualities in Miss Colcord's make-up which have contributed the most towards her rapid advance. When she talks about her work she can't conceal her enthusiasm; it leaps right out of her hazel eyes, and you can't help feeling that, to use a homely phrase, 'she would rather act than eat.'"

Family of Benjamin.

Several families of Colcords in Boston do not appear herein, as no record has been furnished of their lineage. Charles A. died in that city in Feb'y, 1907, at the age of 65. He was for many years deputy superintendent of State charities. His brother, Joseph George, a painter, lived at 60 Joy Street, Boston, in 1908, and they had two brothers, William H., and Benjamin F., besides a sister, Mrs. Harry Slavers, who lived in Somerville. Their father was Benjamin, of Exeter and Concord, and he had two brothers, Daniel and George. Considerable effort was made to get the records of these members, but without avail, and they could not therefore be connected in this work with any branch of former generations.

Edward.¹)

1. Children of Lincoln Alden⁹ and Jennie (Sweetser) Colcord, of Searsport, Maine.

(a) Joanna Carver, born 1882.

(b) Lincoln Ross, born 1883.

^a Miss Joanna Carver Colcord is an assistant in Chemistry at the Maine State Agricultural College Experiment Station at Orono, Maine. She has a liberal education, has accompanied her father, Capt. Colcord, on some of his voyages to China and the Orient, and has been a help and inspiration to the Author in gathering materials for this book.

^b Lincoln Ross Colcord was born in South Atlantic Ocean on bark Charlotte A. Littlefield. Attended University of Maine. Civil Engineer with the Bangor & Aroostook R. R. from 1904 to 1907. Writer of sea stories, several of which have been accepted by the American Magazine, which says of his first one: "This is the first story ever published by Lincoln Colcord. Read it and see if you don't agree with us that in Mr. Colcord we have found a real story teller. We have more stories of his. Mr. Colcord's father was a sea captain and he himself has made voyages, so it is probable that there is a certain foundation for all these tales of the sea that he tells. 'Ah-Man' is full of wild adventure, and also affords a glimpse of the inscrutable Chinese." The Belfast Journal says of him: "Mr. Colcord, or 'Linc' as he is known to his college friends, was a student at the University of Maine in the class of 1907. He is a member of the Kappa Sigma Fraternity and his list of college honors was a long one. Besides his contributions to The Prism, The Campus and Blue Book, he made the executive committee of the Athletic Association and was a Junior Prom. aid. Not only in literary circles does Mr. Colcord shine, for he contributed largely to the art department of The Prism as well, doing the title page, a charming series of drawings to precede the class histories, some of the club headings and other decorations. The Blue Book owes to him its artistic cover. The Junior Prom. dance order cover also bore one of his drawings, which was reproduced in color. The Maine students also owe to Mr. Colcord the words and music of their well-loved 'stein song', and 'Maine' men everywhere will unite with other friends in extending congratulations and good wishes for future success."

Maternal Ancestors of the Colcord Family.

In only a few instances has the descent of the Colcords been traced backward through maternal lines. Such of these records as have been furnished to the author are given in concise form as follows.

PROF. D. H. COLCORD'S MATERNAL ANCESTORS.

Sarah (Towne) Colcord, mother of Daniel H. (8) Colcord was a descendant of:

- A 1 William Towne and wife, Joanna Blessing, settled in Salem, Mass., in 1640. 2 Edmund, 3 Joseph, 4 Daniel, 5 Thomas, 6 Daniel, 7 Sarah.
- B Thos. Browning of Boxford, Mass., whose daughter, Mary, married 2 Edmund Towne.
- C Robert and Mary Smith of Boxford, whose daughter, Amy Smith, married 3 Joseph Towne.
- D Thomas Dorman of Topsfield, Mass. 1 Thomas, 2 Thomas, 3 Amos. 4 Dorothy, who married 4 Daniel Towne.
- E Judith Wood, who married 2 Thomas Dorman.
- F John and Dorothy Robinson, whose daughter, Dorothy, married 3 Amos Dorman.
- G Anna Brown of Salem who (being widow of George Traw) married 5 Thomas Towne.
- H Christian Brown, widow, Salisbury, Mass., 1640. 1 Christian, 2 Henry, 3 Henry, 4 Eleazer, 5 Joseph 6 Hetta, who married 6 Daniel Towne, and was the mother of Sarah Towne Colcord.
- I John and Priscilla Putnam. 1 John, 2 John, 3 Hannah, who married 2 Henry Brown.
- J Rebecca Prince, who married 2 John Putnam.
- K John and Priscilla Putnam. 1 John, 2 Thomas, 3 Joseph, 4 Sarah (sister of Gen'l. Israel Putnam.)
- L John and Mary Porter, Dorset, England, 1596. 1 John, 2 Israel, (of Hingham, Mass., 1643) 3 Elizabeth, who married 3 Joseph Putman.
- M Wm. and Ann Hathorn (Hawthorne) in Salem Village about 1630; 1 William, 2 Elizabeth, who married 2 Israel Porter.
- N Richard and Alice (Bosworth) Hutchinson. 1 Richard, 2 Joseph, 3 Joseph, 4 Ebenezer, 5 Bethiah, who married 5 Joseph Brown.
- O Lawrence and Cassandra Southwick (Quakers, persecuted in Salem (See Whittier's Poem.) 1 Lawrence, 2 John, 3 John, 4 Hannah, who married 4 Ebenezer Hutchinson.
- P Robert and Persis Black. 1 Robert, 2 Hannah, who (as widow of — Fallett) married 2 John Southwick. Daniel, who died about 1850.

I have not the Payson line in full, but conjecture it thus: 1 Edward Payson, 2 Edward, 3 John, 4 Jonathan, 5 Thomas, 6 John Phillips Payson, 7 Elizabeth Clifford Payson Colcord. If so, my father was a descendant of Benit Elliot, father of John, Indian Apostle; of George Phillips, and Samuel Appleton.

Historical and Traditional Notes.

In 1661 Chief Justice Sewall of Massachusetts, then a small boy of six or seven years, was taken by his mother from a small town in the northern part of Hampshire Co. England, called Stoke-Bishop, to join the Colonists in New England, an account of which is given in a letter from Judge Sewall to his son published in the N. E. Hist. and Gen. Register. On reaching the coast of Mass. the mother and son were lodged by Richard Colcord (or Colcott) who took the "Freeman's oath" in 1632 and who was Clerk of the Court of Assts. of the Mass. Bay Colony in 1672. Mrs. Sewall seems to have been acquainted with the Colcord or Colcott family in England, Edward Colcord's youngest son, Samuel, was at this time a lad of five or six years and was living in or near New Hampton, N. H.

No record has been found of this Richard Colcott's wife or children.

Mrs. Jane (Colcord) Clark, a great grand-daughter of Edward (4) Colcord, 85 years old (1908), has collected and written down the following statements.

"Three brothers by the name of Colcord came from England (to America). Two of them married and settled in this country. The third never married, was a sea captain and was lost at sea." No dates or names are given. She narrates the following incident relating to the home of Edward (4) of Exeter.

"When my grandfather (Samuel 5, Colcord) was a boy, one day he was up stairs and saw a large party of Indians coming to the house. The house is a quaint old two-story building, with quite a large yard inclosed by a stone fence. I called there a few years ago and was greatly interested in the old home, with its very large fire places and brick ovens, and the curious large wooden door latches. The front hall was of greater interest, with its steep, painted stairs, which turned near the top, where there was a broad stair. On the broad stair there was a large bag of beans, not tied up, on the day when grandfather saw the Indians. As the boy rushed down stairs to give the alarm, he upset the bag of beans, which pounded down the stairs into the hall below, making such a noise that the Indians were frightened and left in a hurry."

Mrs. Nancy Gustin, of Pine Island, Minn., in a letter to the author relates that "three brothers came to America from England at an early day, by the name of Colcord. One of the brothers was the father of my great grandfather, Jonathan, R. B. Colcord said." (Nancy Colcord Gustin is now 84 years old). "One of these brothers returned to England and bought cards for a carding machine, and started the carding business. For this a trunk was sent him from his friends (?) in England, with strict orders to see that it was not opened until this Colcord opened it. The strictness of the orders created suspicion in his mind and he put the trunk on a shelf over his head before opening it. When he turned the key the lid flew open and two pistols were fired at him, which would have shot him had he been in an ordinary position." As Edward (1) was only 14 or 15 years old when he came to America, it seems probable that he came with older relatives, but direct proofs are lacking.

History mentions Edward's name often, and the early lists of settlers and grantees contain his name, but no mention of relatives. Two conveyances of lands purchased from the Indians, bearing date of April 3, 1638, bear Edward Colcord's name, (Wentworth's History) and in Savage's History "his first coming is reckoned 1631." This date is confirmed by Edward's own statement relating to his first visit to the Pascataqua River country, as recorded in the New Hampshire Provincial

Papers, Vol. 1, Page 110, in which he affirmed "there were but three houses in all that side of the country adjoining the river."

Traditions in several branches of the family relate that two or three brothers came together when Edward first came from England, but none of them gives names until a later date, when Samuel and Jonathan are spoken of, as in the Kentucky branch of the family, which relates that "Samuel Colcord came to Concord, N. H. from England about 1784," etc. "Gideon and Edward came from England about 1700."—Dearhorn. No Colcords have been found by the author who are mentioned in early New England History and who are not Edward's descendants.

Rev. John Wheelwright, who was banished from Massachusetts because of his religious opinions, sought to escape the intolerance of the Massachusetts colony by purchasing lands from the Indians in the wilderness of New Hampshire to found the new town of Exeter. He is said to have employed Edward Colcord to make the purchase. The controversy over the title to these lands led to much litigation and strife. It is conceded by historians that Edward was competent by education and Indian experience to make purchases of the Indians in 1638, the date of the conveyances, whether he did actually treat with them or not.

Later historians have contended that the actual settlers of Dover and Exeter who were driven into exile, had more right to the lands which they acquired from the Indians than the Massachusetts Bay Colony, which simply assumed control, even when without a Charter, and without purchasing them from the rightful owners, the Indians. It is not the purpose of this history to enter into a discussion of the famous Indian deed to Rev. John Wheelwright and others, long ago set aside.

The Colcord families for 150 years, from 1630 to 1780, lived on or near the shores of the Pascataqua Bay and River, N. H., and on the small rivers emptying into the Pascataqua. The first settlements of Dover's Point, Portsmouth, Hampton (Beach) and Exeter could all be reached by small river craft, and new settlements were made on the shores of the smaller streams. Edward and his companions sailed a short distance up the Cocheco River, from Dover point and founded the town of Pascataquake or Dover, and when appointed a magistrate, it was for the Pascataqua settlements in 1642.

The new settlement made by Edward Colcott and others, called at first Pascataquake, was soon partially abandoned on account of Indian raids, and Edward returned to Exeter, and received two or more land grants as a citizen of Exeter. Northam was incorporated in 1641 (including Pascataquake) and was called Dover in 1642. The bounds between Exeter and Hampton were determined in 1646 by Samuel Dudley and others. Edward lived in Hampton after this date until his death in 1682.

Here Samuel (2), Edward's youngest son, was born in 1656, and his, Edwards, daughters married and settled in Hampton. Samuel (2) was a grantee of Kingston, which was settled by twenty Hampton people in 1694, and here Lieut. Samuel (2) died in 1736. His grandson, Samuel (4) (Samuel (3) died in 1716) and his son-in-law, Samuel Dudley, and Mary, (4) who married Col. Eben Stevens, were among the grantees of the town of Stevenstown, (afterwards Salisbury) in 1749. Edward (3) and Ebenezer (3) settled in S. W. Exeter and were grantees of Brentwood, formed from Exeter in 1742, while Jonathan (3) remained in Newmarket (which was formed from Exeter in 1727) and the "Jonathan" farm was partly in Newmarket and partly in Exeter in 1775. S. Newmarket was incorporated in 1849.

Hampton Falls, North Hampton, South Hampton, Kensington and Seabrook were originally included in Hampton. Danville, formerly Hawke, was a part of Kingston, where Edward (3) lived before 1740. In the 4th Generation Samuel's daughter, Mary, (4) married Col. Ebenezer Stevens, from whom Stevenstown was named. Ebenezer Webster, born 1739, father of Daniel Webster, resided many years with Col. Stevens and his wife, Mary (McClintock). During the 5th and 6th Generations, from 1750 to 1800 the four original towns in New Hampshire, viz: Exeter, Hampton, Dover and Portsmouth, the two latter on the northeast and the former on the southwest along the Pascataqua River, had been divided into many smaller townships, and the new towns of Nottingham, Deerfield and Londonderry on the southwest and of Durham, Lee, New Durham and others (made from Dover) on the north east, and South Hampton, Sea Brook and Hampton Falls (of Hampton) took the place of the older towns. Farther to the north on the Ossipee River and Lake, Ossipee, Tamworth, Tuftonborough and other towns were incorporated after the Revolution, and into these new towns went the younger members of the Colcord family. Samuel's descendants, as we have seen, migrated into the adjoining towns of Brentwood, Stevenstown (Salisbury) and South New Market, while Jonathan's and Edward's sons separated more widely, members of the 5th and 6th Generations going eastward into Maine, to Waterboro, Saco, Kennebunk and Turner, and northeast to Ossipee, N. H., Parsonsville and Porter, Me., and later across the state to Prospect, on the Penobscot Bay. Many of the daughters married into more settled lives, and became the wives and mothers of professional men.

Of these we may name in order of time, Deacon John Hobbs, Rev. Benj. Fifield, Dr. Joseph Bartlett, Col. Ebenezer Stevens, Hon. Wm. Colcord Patten, Hon. Ichabod Colcord Bartlett, Hon. Wm. Patten, Dr. Samuel Colcord Bartlett, Pres. Dart. Coll., D.D., LL.D., Hon. Ezra Bartlett, Chief Justice William Henry Bartlett, and many others of the early generations.

From "Towle Genealogy" we learn that "Anthony Towle, born in 1703, married Sarah Hobbs in 1734." She was a grand daughter of Sarah Colcord, the daughter of Edward (1). Anthony Towle lived in Chester, N. H., and had ten children, one named Jonathan, born 1739, being the father of Reuben, who was a tanner by trade. Reuben moved to Enfield, N. H., and married Sarah Clough in 1786, and from Reuben and Sarah (Towle) the Towle and Colcord families of Franklin, Vt., sprang. Reuben's oldest daughter, Ann R., married first Tristram C. and after his death, his brother, John C. Colcord, from whom the Colcords of Franklin, Vt., were descended. Both Reuben Towle and John C. Colcord's fathers were soldiers of the Revolution, Reuben enlisting when only sixteen years of age. These Colcords were said to be of Thornton, N. H., before marrying into the Towle family, having pushed forward into the wilderness northward and westward from the original settlements in Exeter, Hampton and Newmarket.

In the 5th Generation, Samuel Colcord, Jonathan's son, married Mary Pearson or Parsons, as the name was variously spelled, while his brother David married Eunice Parsons, Mary's sister. Eunice and Mary were the daughters of Capt. Josiah Parsons of Gloucester, (Cape Ann) Mass., and his wife Eunice Sargeant. The following incident is related by C. F. Colcord, of Oklahoma City: "I have heard father tell of one of his great-grandfathers by the name of Capt. Parsons, who lived to be 116 years old, and was on the sea until he was 90 years old; that he lived four miles from his son's home near Boston, and when my father was put up behind the old Captain, on the old family mare to take him home, as soon as he would get out of sight he would get off and walk, saying that he could walk and liked it much better. This was when he was over 100 years old. He was born in 1697. He or his son Josiah sold land in Gloucester in 1743, and was then called a 'Coaster'."

Josiah Parsons, born 1720, in Gloucester, was the brother of Rachel Parsons, who was Gideon Colcord's wife, born 1726. This branch of the Parsons family is of Jeffrey Parsons, and Sarah Vinson born 1630, and John, born 1666, who was the father of Josiah, born 1697. See Babson's History of Gloucester, Mass.

There is a tradition in one branch of the Colcord family that one of their ancestors was an officer in the British Army during the war of the Revolution and that he afterwards went to Central or South America, but no proofs of such a Col-cord have been found by the Author. Many wild adventures were entered into shortly after the War of the Revolution and about the time of the War of 1812, the recital of which at the firesides along the New England Coast, incited many young men and women to leave their homes in the early part of the last century, and seek to emulate or outdo the deeds of their fathers by perilous journeys by sea or by land. They were the ambitious sons and daughters of hardy, adventurous frontiersmen and sailors, and so we learn that Tristram and John Colcord made the long trip of one hundred thirty miles through the wilderness from Enfield Pond, N. H., to found a home in Western Vermont; three of the children of Phineas Colcord of Waterboro, Me., made the long journey toward Ohio, the "Land of Promise," one hundred years ago, stopping in New York State and leaving some of their family there, while others, reinforced by friends, pushed on across the wide prairies to the fertile lands of Illinois, after a few years, —and thus New York, Penn'a, Ohio and Illinois contained settlements of Colcords which have continued to this day. But to many of the boys the seaman's life appealed more strongly, and often against the mother's wish and the father's command, the boy sailed away into the unknown future.

John N. Colcord, the son of Jesse, of Porter, Me., was one of these adventurous lads whose story is told elsewhere, and each family seems to have had one or more boys of the same class. Charles and Jonathan, the sons of Samuel (5) of Northwood, took their way to Kentucky, via Ohio, and became prosperous stockmen and traders there. David, with his wife, Eunice Parsons, of sailor stock, went through the forests of Maine to the fine harbor of Searsport, Maine, on the Penobscot Bay, where their children continued to "follow the sea," and later, in the 8th Generation, two of the grandchildren sailed "around the Horn" to seek their fortunes in California, while one took the "overland route" across the arid plains of the Great Desert, to the land of gold. One, Roswell K., attained wealth and distinction in Nevada, where he became Governor of the territory, and later Supt. of the U. S. Mint at Carson City; one accumulated some property, married, and died childless; and the third lost his health and property and left a large family to struggle with adversity at his death.

The records of some of these adventurous men are only fragmentary, as in the case of Harry Colcord of New York State, who made the perilous ride on Blondin's back across the Niagara river about fifty years ago, on a tight-rope stretched across the chasm below the Falls. His father's name was Moses and his place in the family has not been determined, but he related that when a young man, (he was born in 1828), he ran away to sea on a "whaler" and sailed to the Arctic Ocean, probably shipping at New Bedford, Mass., which was then the great whaling port of the U. S. He was doubtless one of the "lost boys" in our family records. The Author's maternal grandfather was a New Bedford "whaler," (Bangs Doane) and related many tales of thrilling adventure connected with the pursuit and capture of the "monsters of the deep," which would strongly appeal to the young men of those days.

During the Civil War, 1861 to 1865, the Army and Navy Rolls contain the names of Colcords from nearly every State in the Union. Date and rank of service has not always been given in the preceding pages, but facts are related pertaining to the service when ascertained.

Many of Samuel's (4) descendants, of Kingston, continued to live in New Hampshire for several generations. While the children of Jonathan (4) and of Jonathan (5) scattered soon after the Revolution, Edward (4) had the pleasure of keeping his family near him, in the old Exeter home and in New Market and Brentwood for many years. In the 6th Generation, however, we find this family also separating widely, and now the members of the 8th and 9th Generations are found in many States from Maine to Oregon.

OF EBENEZER'S (3) DESCENDANTS.

In the Census of 1790 Ebenezer Colcord, of Brentwood, as head of a family, had two sons over sixteen years of age, and one son under sixteen. His son, Ebenezer (4), Jr., had two male children under sixteen years old and one daughter. As Ebenezer (4) was 64 years old his youngest son was probably born between 1776 and 1781, and Ebenezer (5), Jr., born about 1751-2, was married before 1785 as he had three children in 1790. His oldest son became the father of Ebenezer Payson (7) Colcord, born 1813, of Turner, Me. Samuel (6) Colcord, of Candia, born 1797, may have been the son of Samuel (5), Ebenezer (4-3) son whose record is incomplete. The names of the daughters of Ebenezer (5-4) do not appear in the records. Recent clues have been found by which the family record may be completed by later historians, with the help of vital statistics and historical data gathered by the N. H. Historical Society.

 SONS AND DAUGHTERS OF THE REVOLUTION.

From the Army Rolls published in the N. H. State Papers, Vols. 14, 15, 16 and 17, we find that the following descendants of Lieut. Samuel (2) Colcord and of Edward (1) Colcord are eligible to membership in the S. and D. of Rev. Soc'y, viz:

1. All descendants of Reuben Towle (5), who was a soldier from Chester, N. H. and of John C. (6) and Tristram C. (6), whose father, John (5), was an officer in the Revolutionary Army from Exeter or Newmarket. This includes all Franklin, Vt., Towles and Colcords.
2. All Parsonsfield, Me. and other descendants of Josiah (5) Colcord, who was in Capt. Hill's Co., 1775, at Bunker Hill, Saratoga, &c. A private and non-commissioned officer.
3. All descendants of David (5) Colcord, of Newmarket, N. H. and Prospect, Me. David (5) was in Capt. Hill's Co. in 1775, and in Joseph Parson's Co.
4. Brentwood and Exeter families of Edward (5) Colcord, who was in Capt. Gilman's Co., 1775 with John (5) Colcord.
5. Of Joseph (5) Colcord of New Market, a Corporal in Capt. Hill's Co., 1775, &c.
6. Descendants of Jonathan (5) Colcord, Jr., Newington, N. H., — N. H. Provincial Papers, Vol. 7. Includes the families of Phineas, (6) Jesse, (6) Joseph, (6) &c.
7. Descendants of Thomas (5) Colcord of Portsmouth or Protectworth. A Corporal in Capt. Brown's Co. in 1786, &c.
8. Of John (5) of New Market [of Ebenezer (3) or Edward (3)] in Capt. Gilman's Co., 1775.
9. Descendants of Job (or Joab) (5) of Exeter or Tuftonboro, N. H., Capt. Zebulon Gilman's Co., 1775.
10. Eliphalet (5) Colcord's descendants of Capt. Robert Pike's Co. He marched to Rhode Island in 1777.
11. John (5), of John (4), was in Capt. Porter Kimball's Co. at Saratoga in 1775. Probably of Exeter, N. H. A 2d Lieutenant.
12. Descendants of Isaac Colcord, of Capt. Joseph Waite's Co. in Jan. 1778. Was taken prisoner and later exchanged. None of his descendants has been found by the Author. He was of Walpole, N. H. (?)

Maternal lines of descent have not here been followed. Descendants of Captains Samuel, Zebulon, Nicholas Gilman, Samuel Gilmore and Joseph Waite, and other Revolutionary Army officers, some of whom had children who married into the Colcord family, are also eligible to membership.

Additional Notes of Ivory⁷ and Two of His Sons.

Some interesting facts concerning the life of Ivory (7) Colcord, and two of his sons, which came to hand too late for insertion in the body of the book, are added here. See pages 40 and 63.

“Ivory Colcord, Sr., was a native of Alfred, Me., and his wife of Keene, N.H. They arrived in the state of Illinois in October, 1837, when the Indians were still plentiful in that region. The couple with their six little children, traveled the entire distance from New York state, by water, shipping at Olean Point on a flat boat with household goods, going down the Alleghany river to Pittsburg, descended the Ohio, thence up the Mississippi to Fulton, Ill., the place being known as Baker's Ferry. They camped out that night and the next day went across country about twenty miles to what was afterwards known as Genesee Grove. Here was their first abode, a small log house, 12x12. Their home boasted a puncheon floor made of split logs, with the rough halves turned up. This was quite different from the dirt floors of those pioneer days. The house was actually provided with windows, the glass being brought from the East. The dwelling was considered commodious, as there were three rooms, two down and one upstairs. Mr. Colcord built another room at his own expense off the house, and in this he taught the first school ever known in the state. About fifteen attended school, most of them coming on horseback. Mr. Colcord was the first coronor of Whiteside County. He was also the first justice of the peace, which office he long held. In 1853 a ten room house was built in the woods, and this house is in good repair and in use today. This was a great novelty in those days, people coming for many miles to see the first large house ever built in that portion of the state. During the dark days of the Rebellion, the Colcord home was one of the stations of the famous ‘underground railway’ when escaping slaves were aided to go on their way towards the Canadian line. Hundreds of slaves were brot to the home, just before daybreak, and safely stowed away in the attic until night, when some of the boys would take them thru the darkness to the next station. All day long Grandma Colcord and the girls would sew for the little black urchins or their poor mother, and in the evening the little negro boys and girls, who had been as still as mice all day long, would be let out to scamper under the trees before being loaded like so many ‘Berkshires’ in the wagon to be carted away. Ivory Colcord died in the year 1865, age 65 years and was survived by his wife twenty years, she dying in 1885, age eighty years; two lives replete with good works, whose memories like kind deeds will live on as long as memory or tradition remains, thought of and spoken of with reverent words and manner.”

The following paragraph copied from the obituary of William H. Colcord, son of Ivory (7) and Elzina Colcord, will give an insight into the kind of citizen he was. “He served several terms as principal of the Coleta school, and was honored with many positions of public trust, such as assessor, justice of the peace, postmaster and supervisor. The latter position he held for a dozen successive years, and for the last term, was chairman of the board of supervisors of Whiteside county. In all these positions, he discharged his duties intelligently, honestly and thoroughly. No man in the township or in the county was better known or more thoroughly esteemed. During his residence of over half a century in Genesee township, he injured no man, and he benefited, helped and encouraged many. Mr. Colcord was abreast of the times, thoroughly progressive, well informed, an original and forcible writer, earnest in his convictions, but honest and charitable in his judgment of men and events. No man wielded greater influence in his community than he, and even his enemies, if he had any, must admit that this influence was generally exerted for the right."

"Geo. W. Colcord, son of Ivory and Elzina Colcord, was born on the old Genesee homestead; he secured his early education in the district school, and later attended the Shimer Academy at Mt. Carroll, Ill. He early began teaching school and entered the ministry later. He was a devout believer in the faith of the Seventh Day Adventist, and for several years was general secretary and evangelist of the church in Illinois. He opened an academy at Milton, Oregon, and after bringing this denominational school up to his ideal, went to Graysville, Tenn., where he started a similar academy. There the work was too severe for him and at the advice of the authorities at the Battle Creek Sanitarium, he was sent to Boulder, Colo. He preached and taught in the college at Boulder, until his death. Mr. Colcord was a musician of some note, giving lessons in both instrumental and vocal music. He died, leaving his wife, Ada Lucretia Colcord, to whom he was wed in 1866."
