SUPPLEMENT.

In 1903 the City of Boston printed the Aspinwall Notarial Records comprising the records of William Aspinwall, Recorder of the Suffolk County Court, 1644-1651. This publication has opened up a mine of information to the genealogist and historian and gives us a record of Tristram Dodge in 1647, some 13 years previous to his appearance at Block Island. Heretofore all efforts to find historical mention of him previous to 1661 has been unavailing. The records are as follows:

Pages 126-127.

"26 Day of September 1647 William Davies of Ferriland, Newfoundland, acknowledged a debt to Charles Dobson to be paid in Sterling moneys or merchantable drie fish.

Sealed and signed in the presence of

James Warranie
Trustram Dodge.

"Above certified as a true copy by me, Wm. Aspinwall, Notary.
3 mo., 23 day, 1648."

"3 mo., 24 day, 1648, I subscribed a copie of a bill of Trustram Dodge, another of William Woolcots and another of William Davies.

Pages 127-128.

"3 mo., 24 day, 1648, Valentine Hill granted a tre of Attr. to Joseph Grafton to recover and receive the bills of Trustram Dodge, William -----, and William Woolcot and William Davies, or any other in Newfoundland with absolute power, etc."

We thus see that Tristram Dodge was living in Newfoundland as early as 1647.

Mr. Arthur Mews, Deputy-Colonial Secretary writes as follows:

"I return you herewith the two letters which you forwarded to me some time ago, making enquiries respecting Tristram Dodge, who was living in Ferryland in 1647. The Records of Vital Statistics in this Department, of course, show nothing, as the first registration is but 14 or 15 years ago. I, however, sent the papers to the Roman Catholic Clergyman at Ferryland, thinking he might be able to trace the name through his records, but he informs me that it is utterly impossible. I then gave the papers to one of the old families living there, who have the Church of England records, but they likewise could find nothing whatever so far back as 1647. In those early years people simply came out here for the summer and left again in the Fall, and it is more likely that a trace of this person could be found in the records in England, for I do not think there was any record of people kept in Newfoundland in those early years."

I trust that some one having access to literature relating to early Newfoundland history may be able to find further mention of Tristram Dodge and communicate it.

DODGE GENEALOGY

1. TRISTRAM DODGE, according to Robert Dodge's Tristram Dodge and Descendants (1886), sailed April, 1661, from Taunton, Mass., with the original fifteen settlers and their families and settled on Block Island, Rhode Island. Rev. S. T. Livermore, A.M., in his History of Block Island (1876), page 17, names Tristram Dodge as one of the passengers in the shallop which sailed from Taunton, 1661, and he says on page 327 that, although he was not among the first purchasers, he was among the first party of settlers. The following, taken from the records of New Shoreham (Block Island), Rhode Island, would indicate that Tristram Dodge closely followed the first settlers if he did not come with them:

“To All Persons to Whom This Testimony Shall Appear:

“Know Ye, I, Simon Ray of Block Island, being eighty-one years of age and now upon oath doth testify and declare that on ye first erecting and settleing of s'd Block Island there was some undivided land reserved by ye first purchasers for to accommodate fishermen for promoting of a fishing trade, and Tristram Dodge Sr. a fisherman came from Newfoundland and ye freeholders willing for to settle him on s'd Island, gave unto him said Tristram Dodge three acres of land unto him and his heirs forever which land ordered by freeholders for to be measured unto him said Dodge situated and being on ye South East of ye Harbor that now is joining to the land of John Rathbon.

“And unto ye truth of this testimony I set to my hand,

Harris' Block Island Epitaphs, p. 10, says the grave of the elder Tristram is not marked.

Descendants of David Britain³ Dodge (John,² Tristram¹) have carefully preserved records that say that the sons of Tristram followed him in 1667, and that they came from the north of England near the river Tweed. This statement is entitled to much consideration, as it is corroborated by many families scattered widely over the United States. Tristram Dodge, Sr., was Freeman May 4, 1664; Sergeant, 1676. He was dead intestate in 1720. His four sons were made Freeman July, 1670, and of course then of age. Children, order not known:

*Simon Ray, Sr., d. 17 March, 1737, age 101. (g. s.) Block Island (N. E. H. & G. Reg., Vol. XIII, p. 38). He had by wife Mary, dau. of Nathaniel Thomas of Marshfield, Mass., the following children: Sibel, b. March 19, 1665; Mary, b. May 19, 1667; Dorothy, b. Oct. 16, 1669; Simon, b. April 9, 1673, d. March 9, 1755. Simon Ray, Jr., had two daughters, who married governors of Rhode Island, viz., Anna, m. Samuel Ward, and Catherine, m. William Greene.

2. i. JOHN², b. 1644, d. 1729, aged 85.
 3. ii. ISRAEL.
 4. iii. TRISTRAM, b. 1647, d. Aug. 18, 1733, "in ye 87th year of his age," says his slate gravestone in the ancient burial ground at Block Island.
 5. iv. WILLIAM.
 - v. MARGARET. We have no record of her except that given by John C. Cooley of Oswego, N. Y., in his Rathbone Genealogy (1898). He says John³ Rathbone (John², Richard¹), b. about 1634, married Margaret Dodge, dau. of Tristram Dodge. Children:
 1. Thomas³ Rathbone, b. 1657, m. Mary Dickens.
 2. John Rathbone, b. 1658, m. Ann Dodge.
 3. Sarah Rathbone, b. 1659, m. Samuel George.
 4. William Rathbone, b. 1661, m. Sarah ———.
 5. Joseph Rathbone, b. 1670, m. Mary Mosher.
 6. Samuel Rathbone, b. 1672, m. Patience Coggsall.
 - vi. ANN, given as a dau. of Tristram Sr. in Austin's Gen. Dic., p. 66. In view of the above record in the Rathbone Gen. this statement would seem to be an error. New Shoreham records say Ann Dodge m. Nov. 11, 1686, John Rathbone, Jr., d. 1723, son of John, d. 1702, and Margaret Rathbone. The Rathbone Gen. says Ann was second wife and adds that her father settled on Block Island in 1662 and d. 1723, but fails to mention his name. Her children:
 1. Mary³ Rathbone, b. Oct. 3, 1688.
 2. Jonathan Rathbone, b. May 22, 1691.
 3. John Rathbone, b. Dec. 23, 1693.
 4. Joshua Rathbone, b. Feb. 19, 1696.
 5. Benjamin Rathbone, b. Feb. 17, 1701.
 6. Ann Rathbone, b. Aug. 9, 1703.
 7. Nathaniel Rathbone, b. Feb. 6, 1708.
 8. Thomas Rathbone, b. March 2, 1709.
2. JOHN³ DODGE (*Tristram*¹). Freeman July, 1670. Wife, Mary. New Shoreham rec. say John Dodge m. Feb. 4, 1696. Bought land in Block Island Oct. 1, 1720, from his brother Israel of New London. Sold land in Block Island Feb. 1, 1724-5. Children:
- i. JOHN³, b. Jan. 10, 1680-1, d. April 16, 1682.
 - ii. MARY, b. April 18, 1682, u. after 1720, m. Dec. 28, 1698, John Rose, b. Oct. 10, 1678, d. 1720. Children given by Austin's Gen. Dic.:
 1. Tourmet⁴ Rose, b. Nov. 3, 1699.
 2. Daniel Rose, b. Oct. 6, 1701.
 3. John Rose, b. June 29, 1703.
 4. Ezekiel Rose, b. July 17, 1705.
 5. James Rose.
 6. Ann Rose.
 7. Mary Rose.
 8. Catherine Rose.

6. iii. JOHN, b. Jan. 15, 1685-6.
iv. CATHERINE, b. March 17, 1687-8.
7. v. DAVID BRITAIN, b. Dec. 26, 1691, d. July 30, 1764.
vi. SARAH, b. April 7, 1694.
vii. ELIZABETH, b. Nov. 4, 1696.
viii. ALEXANDER, b. June 15, 1699. Freeman, Block Island 1721.
3. ISRAEL² DODGE (*Tristram*¹). Freeman, July, 1670, in Block Island. Oct. 1, 1720, Israel Dodge of New London, late of Block Island, sold land located in Block Island, formerly belonging to his father Tristram, to his brothers John, Tristram and William of Block Island. He was on a farm in North Parish (Montville), New London, Conn., in 1694. In 1705 the Queen's Court reported him settled there on Indian Fields. As the New London records were burned by Benedict Arnold Sep. 6, 1781, it is difficult to give dates concerning his family. Baptisms by Rev. Jas. Hillhouse, Second Cong. Church of North Parish, supply the following names of Israel's children and grandchildren. He appears to have disposed of all his real estate before his death. In 1707 he bought land in Montville of Samuel Rogers. In 1719 he and wife Hannah gave his son John a part of this land. In 1725 John sells same land to his brother Israel for £40. Israel Sr. gave some of this land to his sons William and Samuel, and they sell sixteen acres of it in 1725 to their brother Israel. In 1727 Israel Sr. gives more of this land to son Samuel, "all of his own farm except improved part," latter to fall to Samuel when Israel Sr. and wife die. In 1722 Israel gave some of this Montville land to son Thomas, "near John's portion," deed made out at Norwich. In 1724 Israel gives son Israel more of this land. In 1730 Samuel Dodge sells land in Montville "where Israel Dodge now lives" (probably brother Israel) to Gideon Comstock for £42, and this was doubtless after the death of his father and mother when the homestead had fallen to him, "said land beginning at the highway that goes to Colchester." Robert Dodge, in his Tristram Dodge and Descendants, p. 136 et seq., has got Israel and his family badly mixed up. Children from church records:
 8. i. ISRAEL,³ bapt. adult Dec. 16, 1722, d. 1745.
 9. ii. JOHN, b. 1689, bapt. adult Dec. 16, 1722, d. Nov. 16, 1776 (Norwich Rec.).
 10. iii. THOMAS, bapt. adult Dec. 16, 1722.
iv. WILLIAM, bapt. adult Dec. 16, 1722.
v. SAMUEL, bapt. adult Dec. 16, 1722.
4. TRISTRAM² DODGE (*Tristram*¹). Freeman, Block Island, July, 1670; m. Jan. 7, 1680, Dorcas Dickens, b. 1664, d. Feb. 18, 1737, dau. of Nathaniel, d. 1692, and Joan Dickens, who was widow Tyler. Will dated July 26, 1733, proved Block Island June 7, 1735, names wife Dorcas and following

 vi. TRISTRAM, d. 1760. Removed to Cow Neck, L. I. In 1730, with wife Mary of Cow Neck, deeded to Wm. Hamer of New Shoreham. m. Nov. 28, 1741, Phebe, widow of Adam Mott. For descendants of TRISTRAM DODGE see p. 97 et seq.
 vii. SARAH, m. Samuel Mitchell Aug. 4, 1727.
5. WILLIAM³ DODGE (*Tristram*¹). Freeman, July, 1670, m. Sarah George, dau. of Peter and Mary George. Perhaps he married again, as New Shoreham records say William Dodge m. April 24, 1694. Children:

 - iii. MARY.

He embarked from New London, Conn., April 13, 1745, in the command of Gen. Roger Wolcott. On June 19 following tidings arrived that he had fallen a victim to disease. Dodge, this Nathaniel is called Noah, and many other errors in names and dates occur in the book. 20. JOHN⁴ DODGE JR. (John,³ Israel,² *Tristram*¹). In Tristram Dodge and Descendants he is placed as a son of Israel², an obvious error as a generation has been omitted. N. E. Hist. and Gen. Reg., Vol. XV, p. 254, calls him a son of Edward instead of brother of Edward, as records prove. He m. Oct. 23, 1748, Lydia Rogers (Colchester Rec.), and is then called Junior. Lydia Rogers, b. 1729, d. Sept. 3, 1770 (Canterbury Rec.), dau. of William Rogers of New London, Conn., b. 5: 10: 1693, d. 1: 2: 1744, m. Elizabeth Harris, 8: 27: 1713. Elizabeth, dau. of Samuel Rowland of England. James Rogers removed to New London about 1660 and d. Feb., 1687.

John Dodge Jr. m. 2d in Canterbury, Dec. 3, 1770, Elizabeth Willis. She d. Dec. 27, 1785, no issue. He m. 3d (Hanover Church Rec.) Nov. 22, 1787, Mrs. Martha Shaw, who survived him and d. about 1827. John Dodge Jr. sold land in Canterbury, Conn., March 30, 1770, to Ephraim Adams. Benjamin Smith and Dorcas Dodge, administrators on estate of Joel Dodge, late of Canterbury, removed judgment against John Dodge Jr. dated 4th Tuesday of June, 1772. John Dodge Jr. deeded a farm on the banks of Little River to pay a debt he owed Joel Dodge. This was probably the homestead which lies near the town line. As they were Baptists the Dodges went to the Hanover Church instead of the Congregational Church in Canterbury. They at one time attended the Brunswick Church (so called), which was in the s.e. part of the present town of Scotland, Conn. The old Dodge place was later included in the limits of the Hanover Society, whose records show that several were received from the Brunswick church. The record of death of John Dodge Jr. and his wife Elizabeth and his marriage to Mrs. Martha Shaw was discovered in the Hanover Church Rec.

Copy of letter in the possession of Dr. John L. Dodge of Groton, Conn., written to Hon. Andrew T. Judson, by Hubbard Adams of Canterbury, Conn., Jan. 12, 1852:

"Dear Sir:—By your request and the wishes of Mr. Dodge [Dr. N. Dodge 2d], I have endeavored to get the pedigree of the Dodge family, which I think is correct.

"Mr. Dodge [John] came into Canterbury something like ninety years ago, and settled on the bank of Little River, near what was then called Brown's Mills. He was a blacksmith by trade and made many instruments for the husbandman that were of use, such as broadaxes, steelyards, etc. I have now in my use a broadaxe and pair of steelyards as true as a die.

"As it respects his family, they were as follows: Mr. John Dodge married for his first wife Miss Lydia Rogers, with whom he lived and raised a large family, and they were as follows: Jordan, John, Israel, Josiah, Lydia, Elizabeth, Jeremiah, and Nehemiah. Elizabeth Dodge died when a young lady. Lydia Dodge married Mr. Richard Winchester, and lived in Canterbury a number of years, and then moved to the far west. Mr. D. for his second wife married Miss Elizabeth Willis, with whom he lived a number of years. She also died, and left no children. For his third wife he married Mrs. Martha Shaw. He then died himself. The widow died something like twenty-five years ago. The old mansion ground is plain to be seen. The ground that the old blacksmith shop stood on is very visible to this day. There are within six rods of the mansion ground the graves of five of the family, namely, Mr. Dodge, and his two first wives and two daughters, one an infant. At the graves there are no monuments of intelligence, nothing more than a simple stone. The family have all been gone from the neighborhood for many years, but are fresh in the memory of the neighbors. I live within about sixty rods of the old place, and pass by it almost every day.

[Signed]

"HUBBARD ADAMS.

"P. S.—The first wife was a very pious and devoted Christian, and quite gifted in religious exhortation. The second wife was also religious, but not as gifted in talent. Their place of going to meeting was at the Brunswick meeting-house, Baptist, standing over the line in the Society of Scotland. The first wife wrote poetry, and Mrs. Peck, an aged lady, now says that Mrs. Dodge would talk equal to any minister. Mr. John Dodge used very often to speak the names of his children arranged so as to rhyme, as follows:

"Jordan and John,
Israel and Josiah,
Lydia and Elizabeth,
Jere and Miah."

The foregoing copy of letter was sent me by Miss Julia E. Dodge of Morristown, N. J. Miss Dodge finds in her correspondence that John Dodge, in speaking of his three wives, compared them with "Heaven, Earth, and Hell." Miss Anna Bowles Williams of Springfield, Mass., has assisted in fixing the parentage of John Dodge Jr., which has hitherto been unknown. His first seven children are of record in Colchester, Conn., and all of them are recorded at Canterbury, Conn. The first seven were probably born in Colchester, as they are all entered together in Canterbury records. The rest of the children are entered in Canterbury records at intervals. Children:

Being in sympathy with the Revolution, he was taken prisoner as a "suspect" by the British, and after a long and cruel captivity at Detroit, was sent in irons to Quebec, whence he managed to escape within the American lines. Governor Jefferson had taken him into his confidence and had appointed him an Indian agent in 1780. Nothing is known of his descendants.

32. REV. JORDAN⁵ DODGE (John,⁴ John,³ Israel,² *Tristram*¹), m.

in Canterbury, Conn., Oct. 22, 1769, Lucy⁶ Adams, b. Canterbury, Conn., March 23, 1752, d. Vermont, May 8, 1831, dau. and eldest child of Levi⁵ and Margaret (Perkins) Adams (David,⁴ Jonathan,³ Lieut. Thomas,² Henry¹ of Braintree, who came 1640). The ancestry of President John⁵ Adams was Dea. John,⁴ Joseph,³ Joseph,² Henry¹ of Braintree. Levi⁵ Adams was a Revolutionary soldier, and was at New London, Conn., at the capture of Fort Griswold by the British. He and his three sons escaped, but two Adams brothers were murdered there. Lieut. Thomas² Adams was lieutenant of a military company at Chelmsford, Mass., which his brother Capt. Samuel Adams commanded. Lucy⁶ (Adams) Dodge was granddaughter of David Adams, who m. Dorcas Paine, a descendant of Stephen Hopkins of the Mayflower. Thus the descendants of Jordan Dodge are entitled to membership in the Revolutionary, Colonial and Mayflower societies by the ancestry of his wife Lucy.

Jordan Dodge was a celebrated Baptist minister of his time. Not much is known of his early life. He was a worker in iron, like his father and many of his family. He made some inventions in nail-making appliances. He was pastor Baptist Church at Sturbridge, Mass., from Oct. 27, 1784, to 1788 (see Hist. Worcester Co., Mass.). Larned's Hist. of Windham Co., Conn., p. 246, says that Jordan Dodge preached in Hampton, Conn., after 1776, much to the annoyance of the settled pastors but with the result that many were converted that would not have been reached by the regular clergy. The same work states, p. 231, that about this time Jordan Dodge, a zealous Baptist itinerant, held meetings in Scotland, Conn., that resulted in revivals, the converts joining the Baptist congregation in neighboring towns. He removed from Sturbridge, Mass., to Granville, N. Y., 1789. In 1792 he was called to the ministry of Granville, where he officiated as pastor until Sept. 13, 1800. He is found in Fair Haven, Vt., in 1804. Rev. N. S. S. Beaman, D.D., says in Adams' History of Fair Haven, Vt.:

"Among the patrons of my school I may mention Mr. Dodge, a Baptist preacher, who seemed to maintain a kind of independent position in his relations. Two of his children, a son and a daughter, I well recollect. The girl was older than myself, and was the best scholar in the school, and the boy had a spice of his father's eccentricity. The lads made the fires by turns, and there had been some neglect on this subject, and we had suffered for several mornings in consequence. It was young Dodge's turn to make the fire in the morning. The preceding evening I gave strict orders to have the former nuisance abated if the officer in charge had to sit up all night and burn up the entire woodpile at the door. In the morning the sanctum was warm as the tropics, and little Dodge sat demurely studying his lesson in the corner.

"I have spoken of the peculiarities of the elder Dodge. One anecdote used to be related in Fair Haven in that day which may be forgotten now. The messenger of peace worked six days for his daily bread, and dispensed the gospel on the seventh. He was employed as a bloomer (rather, nailer) in the Fair Haven Iron Works. One day a dispute took place between Elder Dodge and a fellow laborer, and after the preacher had invoked all the patience he had to his aid in vain, he threw down his tongs and straightened himself up to his full height, threw off his black coat and said: 'Lie there, divinity, till I do this man justice.'

"I heard the elder preach once in the school house, but never in the 'Lord's barn,' as it was then generally called, whether excluded by the elements or by church authority I am not able to say. He was a man of talents and wit. His son I met a few years since, in the town of Black Brook, in Essex County, N. Y. He [John Adams Dodge] is a respectable Baptist clergyman, and he very pleasantly reminded me of the incident of fire-making in the old school house in Fair Haven, in 1804, sixty-five years ago."

From Adams' History of Fair Haven, Vt.: "Elder Jordan Dodge was a Baptist preacher, resident here in 1804, and is said to have been really the first settled minister of the town. He preached in the school house and in private houses, and a portion of the time at the church in Hampton. He lived, at one time, on the south side of West Street, beyond the old burying ground; at another, and perhaps later period, on the north side of the street running past the iron works, then called Johnnycake Lane, having a shop on the rocks above the iron works, where he is said to have worked at his trade of nail-making. Dr. Beaman represents him as a bloomer, working in the forge during the week, and preaching on Sunday. He was a man of excitable temper, eccentric, naturally talented, and witty. Numerous anecdotes and stories are told concerning him, all similarly characteristic.

"It is related that, as he had some trouble in the church, the church taking him to discipline for some violence on his part, he felt himself persecuted, and remarked that an apple-tree which held many clubs in its branches was clubbed on account of the superior quality of its fruit, when one hearing it replied that sometimes trees were clubbed because of great hornets' nests contained in them."

In his later years he resided at Monkton, Vt., but he traveled extensively, spreading the gospel throughout the land. He was considered a powerful preacher, and was welcomed by the people wherever he appeared. By request, he preached to the legislature at Albany, N. Y., and was presented with $200, and a cloak costing $75, which he always wore. When he returned home and was asked why the legislators were so generous to him, he replied that he "prayed for all the big men." Some of his writings appeared in print, and the writer of this has a small pamphlet of twelve pages in which he answers certain religious questions, entirely in rhyme. The following lines were written by him in 1818, while on one of his tours, and will serve to show the costume of the time:

"Dear Children you would laugh I guess
 To hear of your old fathers dress.
 A shirt of english flannel red
 Drawers of the same when go to bed.
 Over, a cotton shirt thats white
 Which keeps me warm both day and night.
 A vest, coat, and a Jacket oer
 And lined so thick warms every pore,
 A broad cloth coat well lined with baze
 So warm that warmth a life doth raise.
 I've a greate coat down to my feet
 With a rich cape half way doth meet
 While my old cloke as it is sed
 Is warmer than a covered.
 Over my drawers are overalls
 With thick yarn stockings as some calls.
 With Jonathans warm shoes well lined
 And over them a cover find.
 My hat has a rich velvet case
 Green silk the underside doth face.
 Dear Achsahs gloves I still have got Covered with quilted mittens hot.
 There's one thing more I'de not forget
 The furniture of my old neck.
 Linen, silk handkerchief and sash
 Cost more than five dollars in cash.
 The faithful muse she sweetly sings
 Bless God for these inferior things,
 But if you worship them as God
 You sure will feal his chasning rod."

The following letters are given in full, as they illustrate the life and hardships that the traveling preacher endured on the frontier.

Letter written Nov. 18, 1818, by Rev. Jordan Dodge to his daughter, Achsah Tinker, of Lyme, Conn.:

"My Dear Children:—By this you are informed your poor old father is just recovered of a serious sickness by which he was brought as low as any time in life in the length of time, by a disorder, common to the place, what is called the bloody flux or desentary. I was taken ill after a meeting, where I preached to (as supposed) a thousand people. Six or seven ministers present. I spake two hours and ten minutes then fainted, such a day I seldom ever saw. I told the people I felt as if my days were numbered and I giving my last address. Every heart appeared affected. A stranger invited me home. Everything was done for me that could be done. They sent to town for a Doctor who was a father, brother and friend. By the mercy of a kind God whose governing hand cast me among kind friends, I recovered and am now comfortable. Since I wrote to you I have passed through many trying scenes, too tedious and perhaps not profitable to relate, but in general terms I can with pleasure say the Lord has been kind to me, a poor old sinner. I must be as concise as I can. My nerves are too affected. I can scarcely make a letter, I must omit many things. After I left my sister with whom I had a most agreeable interview, together with the connections, I drove several hundred of miles to a place called Sinsinnati, a city on the Ohio (400 miles from Pittsburg) to see a daughter of my brother Israel. I found her and knew her soon as I saw her and she me, and called each other by name, by the image we saw of her father. She is near a perfect beauty, 30 years old. Buried her first husband three years ago, left her and three children as she told me thirty thousand dollars. She had a great property by her father. She owned the City Hotel which she rented with several other houses and plantations. She is a woman of great and good abilities, married to a young man of 25 years, a methodist minister. They appeared to be transported beyond measure to see me, hung on my neck and wept, soon invited me to stay with them till Spring. I stayed but a few days and left them. I preached nearly every day, going and coming. She said a great deal of her brother Henry at the Illinois. Said if I would go to see him he would give me 1000 dollars. I had heard much of him before by my sisters and others. It is said he was so great a general in the late war as Bonaparte. He has been high sheriff, treasurer of the District and collector. Considered the greatest man in the territory except the governor and it is said he is beyond him. The office of high sheriff is a lucrative office. He was envied by high characters, accused with being confederate with Burr, on which the governor took from him his office. The Supreme Judge informed the governor he could not sleep safe in his bed, as his house would not stand a month as General Dodge was called the poor mans friend and had paid $1000 of his own money to help poor families and many of these poor men were like Rageing Lyons. After being tryed by the court he was acquitted with honour and resumed his office. I should have gone to see him 800 miles, but the marches so bad by land, and water low, and very sickly and as my sister had advised me not to venture I gave up. I had calculated to cross the mountains into the Carolinies 600 miles to see Lydia. But I was so weak by sickness and informed it was bad crosing and through a wilderness at this season, I feared my friends would blame me. I conclude to return 400 miles to the city of Pittsburg where I had preached four months having acquaintances and friends all the way, turned my route, am now on my way, the Lord only knows what is before me. I am attacked severely with the Rhumatticks, all my consolation is I am in the care of a kind preserver, who has hitherto raised up friends among strangers yea and among enemies who would rob me of all I have if they could for a trifle. It is costly traveling in many parts but I have money I hope sufficient to pay expenses. I have clothing enough of every sort, a strong able horse and carriage and I hepe in good time to see my dear friends in New England once more. I am troubled about your poor old mother. I was much pleased to hear in your letter that Mr. Tinker sent her some help for which he has my warmest thanks. I was happy my dear Achsah to learn your tenderness to the poor afflicted widow Sena. I can but just give a hint of matters as I have many to mention and that as familiarly as speaking face to face. I know you wish to learn every particular relative to your poor father as it must be near a miracle if ever you see him again, but not greater than what a kind God has done for him ever since he left you. I am surprised at myself, how a kind God continues my abilities. I preach to courts, to Judges, Lawyers, preachers of every order and the greatest criticks. Last week I gave a disorce to the court. The states attorney told the gentlemen where I lodged next day, it was the most instructive that he ever heard delivered within the court house walls, would be willing to give a dollar every night to hear the like (he had contributed a silver dollar the evening before). A kind God was pleased to carry me beyond my self, as I seldom was ever more feeble. Join with me my dear children to praise him for his wonderful goodness to the poor, old broken vessel, who is fast decaying. I wish to hear from you dear creatures, but how shall I? You may direct a letter as you did before to the Post Office at Washington, County of Washington, State of Pensylvaney to the care of Heugh Wilson Esq., merchant. Should I live to get there I could have the agreeable and animated satisfaction of hearing from my wife and children. Doubtless you wish to know the reason I did not like to stay at your rich cousin Nancy's, once Dodge. I shall say but a few words. She was so taken with her young husband 25 years old an irishman not worth a dollar. She married him for his religion. I believe him to be a man of some abilities but not capable as is said of bringing up those fatherless children. She has rented her house but two or three small rooms all huddle and bubble. I will give a specimen of the whole. His father come to see his rich daughterinlaw. He was hudled into bed with myself, with a boy at the foot, crossways. The bed had feathers in it but lay on the cords, which cut my hips and back. The other in bed with them. The other with the hired maid on the floor with my sheepskin cushion for their pillow. I was informed by a judge the name Dodge was heard with terror and Joy. General Henry owns by his father Israel 15 miles of land, the soil where the city is built. His uncle John owned 15000 deeded by Congress as compensation for service in the war and as agent of the 6 nations of Indians with a pension during life, but he is gone. You see I must stop. May a kind God take care of you my dear children. Riches were blessing if ourselves do not make them a curse. Write to friends soon as you receive this. I thank you my dear for your punctuality in your other letters. I cannot endure the cold as I am feable. Do not mean to borrow trouble. I wish you would not. I am happy in that myself and all mine are under the control of Him who knows best. Dated at Stoutsburgh—with a friend I was acquainted with 32 years ago, 700 miles in the Jerseys where I had the small pox, my old nurs lives near by—they are old friends both of Kentucky 400 miles down the Ohio from Pittsburg.

“JORDAN DODGE.

“November 20th, 1818.”

Letter written by Rev. Jordan Dodge to his daughter, Mrs. Achsah Tinker, and postmarked Uniontown (no state), Feb. 9, 1819:

“To Mr. Jonathan Tinker,

“Lyme, New London Co., Conn. =

“My Dear Children:—I have not arrived at Washington, Pa., where I directed you to send your letter, consequently have heard nothing from you since yours of the 13th inst. of June. When I shall get there the Lord only knows, as I am now in the Ohio, Fairfield County this 28th day of January, 1819. I have had very good traveling the fall past and beginning of Winter but it is now bad to the extreme. There came a warm turn and took all of the frost out of the ground, so that it is difficult for my horse to carry me through the mud holes and clay pits, altho he is fat and strong as a Lyon. But thanks to a kind God I am at present among kind friends altho I never saw them before; a wealthy Dutch Baptist Brother by the name of Samuel Comer who sometimes preaches, but I could not get him to preach while I was there. I have preached several times on the Sabath and week meetings. They are an ignorant people as to religion but know enough to take good care of me and horse better than some of my Bapt. brethern have done. Some of them have treated me as if they knew but little either of religion or politeness, but thank God all are not so. I have found many good friends among them that are ashamed of the rest. I think I mentioned to you concerning pawning my stockings to pay for my ferriage, to another Bapt. brother who lived a few rods from their meeting house. When I preached on the Sabath I did not get enough with a handful of paper money I had with me to pay for shewing my horse. I preached at another Bapt. house. A Br. invited me home with him. His house stood on the bank of the river, and his son ferried me across. I asked him what my ferryage would be, he says thirty seven and half cents. It was very difficult to find good money enough to pay. I thought they might give me ferriage to get rid of me, if nothing for my preaching. I speak of this little thing my child to let you know what a world I have to travel through. The banks have so failed and broke that common paper is worth but little. But thank God I have some specia left yet that I do not fear trouble on that account (except stole from me as has been). But in the midst of all my troubles, the Lord is wonderfully kind to your poor old decrepit father in a distant world, among strangers and savage enemies. Not only giving him a wonderful share of health for an old man near 70 but many rich blessings spiritual and temporal. I have been wonderfully favored with (as I trust) Divine assistance in preaching to thousands and tens of thousands to my own astonishment as well as others and been not only the happy means of awakening sinners (as they have confessed) but comforting the Dear Little flock of Christ for which may I ever be humble and thankful. When I shall see you my dear children the Lord only knows. I calculate to make my way to you soon as practicable. I think I shall not try to get further than Pittsburg this winter. Don't think it safe to risk my life across the mountains as I have done. I wish to see my dear wife and children, they fill my thoughts but what service could I be to them? I expect to ramble the world as long as I am able to preach the word of truth. I think I cannot die in a better cause nor live more happy, notwithstanding all my troubles. I wish to hear from your poor old mother, where and how she is, together with dear Nancy. I did not think it prudent to risk a journey over the mountains at this season of the year by Kentucky to Georgia to Lydia. I should be happy to answer dear Jonathans request, send him my likeness, but I should want poor Nancys wish for sheet as big as a coverlet. It is drawn on canvass big as a small table near as large as life. I carry it rolled on a cillinder, reaches near across the wagon (it cost me 'your thankful servant'). I shall send it by the stage when I think I can safely, that you might see your father's face when he is gone.* It is an evidence of the respect the citizens had for the poor old man. My love to your young Dodge and all the rest. I must leave you in better hands than my own or your own either, that if we meet no more in this militant state, may be so happy as to meet in a better state where the chief Shepperd and all the dear sheep will meet together. No more climbing hills and mountains, filled with concern and anxiety for each other. I must stop by testifying I remain your most affectionate and friendly parent

"JORDAN DODGE.

"To Jonathan & Achsah (Dodge) Tinker."

When Elder Dodge got too old to get into his wagon he had constructed a very peculiar looking carriage, built close to the ground and suited to his infirmities. He continued preaching and traveling the rest of his life. One day he drove up to the house of a friend, and entering he repeated the verses beginning, "And must this body die?" He then asked for a place to rest, which was gladly given him, and when his room was visited shortly after, his spirit had flown to the Master he had so faithfully served. His children were (order of birth not known):

43. i. JOHN⁶ WINCHESTER, b. New London, Conn., May 3, 1783, d. 1862; buried Morgantown, Ind.
34. ISRAEL⁵ DODGE (John,⁴ John,³ Israel,² Tristram¹), m. 1st Nancy Hunter. He was divorced from her and removed to upper Louisiana. On a trip to New Orleans he stopped at Baton Rouge and m. 2d Miss Lewis, sister of Seth Lewis, judge of the Supreme Court of Louisiana. Rev. Wm. Salter says: "He m. 3d Mrs. Catherine Guion, daughter of Rev. Ichabod Camp." The country on the west side of the Mississippi River, together with New Orleans, was ceded by the king of France to the king of Spain, by treaty of November 3d, 1762. The first Spanish commandant at St. Louis arrived there November 29th, 1770. The transfer of government did not change the manners, customs or language of the people, which continued to be French. About 1790 Americans began to find their way over the river, attracted by offers of land from the Spanish government; many also having a presentiment that the country would eventually fall into the hands of the United States. They were the vanguard of that movement which has since spread American institutions to the Rocky Mountains and the Pacific Ocean.

Among the earliest of these adventurers was Israel Dodge, then a young man of thirty years.

Israel Dodge, at the age of fifteen, had gone on a slaver to the coast of Africa; at seventeen joined the Connecticut troops in the army of the Revolution, served as second lieutenant and was wounded at Brandywine, served at the extreme outposts of Fort Jefferson and Kaskaskia on the Mississippi River, and afterwards shared the exposures and perils of the "dark and bloody ground" in the settlement of Kentucky. He occupied grants of land at New Bourbon, near St. Genevieve, that were made to him by the Spanish government. Before 1800 he had opened a large farm, built mills, distilleries, and breweries, and carried on a prosperous trade, as was certified by the commandant at New Bourbon. Lieutenant-Governor Delassus, in the concession of December 11th, 1800, called him "one of the most ancient inhabitants of the country" (Am. State Papers, Public Lands, Vol. VIII, p. 49). Upon the purchase of Louisiana by the United States, he was present at St. Louis to greet the stars and stripes as they were unfurled in that city March 10th, 1804. The same year, October 1st, he was appointed sheriff of the District of St. Genevieve, by Wm. Henry Harrison, "Governor of Indiana Territory and of the District of Louisiana." His son Henry acted as deputy, and was appointed sheriff after the death of his father in 1806.

When Israel Dodge joined in the western emigration of the period, he fell in with the Hunter family. In the record book of Col. John Todd, county lieutenant of Illinois, by appointment of Governor Patrick Henry, which is in possession of the Chicago Historical Society, the name of Israel Dodge appears as acting under the military authority of his brother John Dodge, at Kaskaskia, under date of April 29, 1782.

Subsequently, the family established their home at Spring Station, near Louisville; afterwards at Bardstown.

At Bardstown, Israel Dodge built the first stone house, which was used as a tavern. Here his second child was born, named Nancy for her mother.

Israel Dodge was a man of restless enterprise, eager for the chances that fortune threw in his way. About 1790 he left his family and removed to upper Louisiana, attracted by the liberal policy of Spain in offering lands to settlers. He located at New Bourbon, just below St. Genevieve.

Nancy Ann Hunter was the youngest child of Joseph Hunter and Mollie Homes, his wife who came from Ireland and settled near Carlisle, Pa. Nancy was born in Carlisle about 1769. The family removed to the land where the town of Washington, Pa., now stands. They subsequently removed to the neighborhood of Louisville, Ky., some of them going to Kaskaskia. On one occasion when the Indians had beleaguered the settlement, a favorite cow and calf strayed outside the gate. Nancy Ann Hunter ran out into the open space, and taking up the calf brought it within the enclosure, the cow following, while the arrows of the savages whistled by and cut her clothing, herself unharmed. After her marriage to Israel Dodge they removed to Kaskaskia, and in 1782, while on the way to visit her parents in Kentucky, her son Henry was born at Post Vincennes, Ind., under the roof of Moses and Ann Henry. This son was the first American child born in what now constitutes the state of Indiana. The earlier white inhabitants were Canadian French. Moses Henry was a gunsmith for the Indians. A few days after the birth of the child an Indian chief came in and attempted to dash out its brains. The mother plead for the life of her first-born, and Moses Henry prevailed upon the chief to allow the child to live, as they would soon go on their journey. In gratitude to her benefactor, Mrs. Dodge gave his full name to the child, which he retained until he was grown, when he adopted the single name Henry. While still a young child, her son Henry was taken captive by the Indians but returned unharmed. Five of his uncles fell under the Indian hatchet, and the mother, sister, and brother of Mrs. Dodge were killed and scalped by the Indians.

Her second husband was Asael Linn, son of the brave William Linn, who performed an adventurous trip to New Orleans at the opening of the Revolutionary War and brought up a supply of gunpowder for the defence of the frontier; afterwards served with Col. Clark at the capture of Kaskaskia, in 1778, and lost his life in a conflict with Indians, near Louisville, in 1781. When a boy of twelve, Asael was carried off a captive with three other lads by Shawnee Indians, and escaped by killing or maiming two old Indians who had been left as their guard while the young Indians of the band were gone away on a hunt. The children of Mr. and Mrs. Asael Linn that survived to maturity were Mary Ann Linn, b. Nov. 24, 1793, m. Jos. McArthur, and Dr. Lewis Fields Linn, b. Nov. 5, 1795, near Louisville, Ky., d. Oct. 3, 1843, St. Genevieve, Mo. They were early deprived of both their parents (the father dying when Dr. Lewis F. Linn was eleven years old), and in the vicissitudes of after years clung to their half-brother, Henry Dodge, as their counsellor and guide, having joined him at St. Genevieve. Their mother proves to have been the only woman in the land to whose name attaches the distinction of having two of her sons become senators of the United States: Dr. Lewis F. Linn having been senator from Missouri, 1833-1843; Henry Dodge, senator from Wisconsin, 1848-1857. Her grandson, Augustus C. Dodge, was a senator from Iowa, 1848-1855. At one period, 1841-1843, all three of these descendants of Nancy Ann Hunter sat together in the Capitol.

Senator Lewis F. Linn m. July 1, 1818, Elizabeth Relfe, dau. of John Relfe of Virginia.

During the Civil War the Federal troops attacked the house and fired on Mr. Fritts, but he escaped and hid in a cottonfield. The soldiers loaded the contents of the house on wagons and departed, leaving Mrs. Fritts without fire or bedding. She supposed her husband was killed and went to find his body. After some time she found him, and returning to the house found their four children chilled from cold, and they died from the exposure. Thus the family is extinct in this line.

He was a celebrated divine and pastor of the First Baptist Church of New London, Conn., until 1823, when he assumed charge of the First Universalist Society there, and afterward took a pastorate in New York City. He was a tall, fine-looking man, and often occupied in settling disputes between pastors and congregations among his Baptist brethren in New England. His memory was prodigious. He knew the New Testament by heart, and could give chapter and verse for any text in the Old Testament. In conducting services, he rarely looked at either Bible or hymn book. His change of views in later life, brought about by intense study of the Scriptures, subjected him to much persecution from his former associates. A keen sense of humor and quickness of repartee, together with a fine voice, especially for singing, made him much sought after socially. Children:

He m. 2d on Jan. 6, 1836, Sarah Peake, half-sister of his first wife. The life work of Mr. Dodge was in the Baptist ministry, but in his minority he learned to make steelyards and cut nails. In 1817 he bought the cut-nail works at Ferrisburg, Vt. He made the nails with which the old state house in Albany, N. Y., was shingled. After the invention of machinery which superseded hand-work in nail-making, he manufactured hames for horse collars and made many inventions useful in the prosecution of that business. From want of a house in Ferrisburg, he moved into a house just over the line, in Monkton, Vt., and there he invented the first American sewing machine in 1818 (see Johnson's Encyclopedia). The following account is taken from Batley's Sewing Machine Manual:

"The First Sewing Machine"

"The honor of inventing the first sewing machine has been claimed by different parties, and for different periods; but justice—alike to individual merit, and impartial history, assigns that honor to the Rev. John Adams Dodge, of Monkton, Vt., who, as early as the year 1818, invented and constructed an instrument which made the 'back-stitch' and sewed a perfect seam. No effort was made, however, to introduce it to the public. The journeymen tailors, alarmed and offended, denounced the sewing machine as an invasion of their rights; the public had not then learned to have much confidence in labor-saving machinery of any kind; the rude state of the mechanic arts at that period was against him; and Mr. Dodge, having the pastoral charge of two, and sometimes three churches, found that he must abandon either his invention or the care of his flock. In view of all these difficulties he decided to give up the machine; and thus terminated the first effort of inventive genius to relieve the overburdened wife and mother from the 'drudgery of the needle.' Yet this effort of Mr. Dodge is not to be regarded, in its relation to the public welfare, as labor lost; for such was the impression it made upon the public mind that, from that day forward, inventive genius never lost sight of the sewing machine problem until it had been successfully solved.

"During the next thirty years, the names of Thimonier, Hunt, Greenough, Bean, Corlies, and Howe, were successively added to the list of 'early sewing machine inventors.' Each succeeded in producing an instrument that would make a seam; though neither of those instruments, as at first presented to the public, was much of an aid to the seamstress; and it is doubtful if either of them equaled, in originality of invention, or in the perfection of the seam it made, the machine of Mr. Dodge.

"But the honor of introducing the sewing machine is generally conceded to the late Mr. Howe, whose machine was patented in 1846. His invention, though doubtless original with him, was in some of its features merely a reproduction of mechanical devices previously invented by others. The 'combination of an upper with an under thread,' and the use of the 'eye-pointed needle' and the 'shuttle,' were both embraced in the machine of Walter Hunt, of New York, which was invented as early as 1833; while his 'feed-device' was in principle the same as that of Mr. Dodge. The original machine of Mr. Howe would sew a straight seam, in short lengths or 'reaches'; but it would not sew a continuous or a curved one. Thus the sewing machine was still very far from perfect; and so it remained, with little improvement, till other inventors came to his aid."

Although the Dodge invention has never played any part in the battles of the patents, a great deal of interest has been directed to it, and Mr. Dodge made a written statement of the matter when he was eighty years old. The following answers were also made by Mr. Dodge to questions put him by a friend and neighbor. The questions were written by one familiar with sewing machines, and read to Mr. Dodge. The answers were recorded at the time by one having no special knowledge of their import:

Question. "What kind of a stitch did it make?" Answer. "A complete back-stitch."

Q. "Did the needle work up and down, or horizontally?"

A. "Horizontally."

Q. "Did the machine use two threads or only one."

A. "Only one."

Q. "Did the cloth lie flat on a table, or was it held in a clamp hanging edgewise?" A. "Edgewise in a clamp, the same as a shoemaker holds his leather."

Q. "Was the thread cut off and used in 'needlefuls,' as in hand sewing, or was it taken from the spool as the sewing went forward?" A. "In 'needlefuls.' There were no spools of thread in those days."

[NOTE.—I did not get the idea how the thread was held to draw it tight; he said there was something.]

Q. "What kind of thread was used?" A. "Such thread as women used in those days—home-made linen."

Q. "Was the cloth fed along as the stitches were made, by the machine itself, or was it moved by hand?" A. "By the machine itself; just the same as a log is moved in a mill."

Q. "Was the machine worked by hand by a crank, or by foot by a treadle?" A. "By a crank. Had it been brought to perfection, it would have gone by foot."

Q. "What kind of goods were sewed?" A. "Common fulled cloth."

Q. "Did it sew without missing stitches?" A. "Yes, if the thread did not break."

Q. "Did it sew a strong seam?" A. "Yes."

Q. "What became of the working parts?" A. "Do not remember."

Q. "What circumstances first suggested the idea of a machine to sew with to thy mind?" A. "Seeing others sew by hand."

Q. "Was it a saw-mill feed?" A. "Yes."

Q. "How did the stitch compare with a hand-made back-stitch?" A. "Full as good."

Q. "How long a seam would it sew without moving back the feed?" A. "One-half yard."

Q. "How long without renewing the thread?" A. "One-half yard."

Q. "Was any effort made to improve the apparatus, so as to sew continuous or curved seams?" A. "No."

Q. "Was more than one machine made?" A. "No."

Q. "Was any effort made to get a patent, and if not, why?" A. "None, for want of means and time to build model."

Q. "Had thou, at the time of thy invention, ever heard of any one ever having tried to make one." A. "No."

This machine sewed numerous pieces of cloth together which were carried away by visitors. Mr. Dodge carried a sample to some journeyman tailors at Vergennes, Vt., but they seemed to be offended that an attempt should be made to throw them out of business. Mr. James Higby stated in 1893, when nearly ninety years old, that he had seen the machine in operation and that the last he knew of it was in the attic of Stephen F. Stevens' place.

The following article was published Feb. 10, 1893, by the Sewing Machine Times, of New York:

"The First American Sewing Machine"

"We give here a sketch of the first American sewing machine, from the inventor's description of it. We do not attempt to show more than is essential to convey the idea of Mr. Dodge's invention, as he remembered it, fifty years after it was abandoned. He did not go into the details of what to us would be interesting features, especially the control of the thread. Concerning the features that he omitted to mention, we can only conclude that his devices were in line with the mechanism of that day and what was done by other mechanics in producing analogous results. Referring to Mr. Dodge's letter, printed in our issue of October 25th, and supplemented in that of November 25, 1892, the reader will see in the above sketch the two planks set on end, facing each other, held by cross-pieces about four feet long. Near the top is another piece, reaching from end to end, on which the cloth-holding carriage runs.

"The cog-wheel that moves the carriage is also seen, but the cranks and pitmans to move it are not shown. No doubt the connection was with the rotary shaft below in the manner common to the old water-power saw-mills. There must, however, have been two connections, and of different lever-ages, to give the full forward and half-backward movement required for a back-stitch. It may interest our readers to know that a part of the 'saw-mill' feed was used in the original Weed machine. A ratchet-wheel, driven by the usual pawl, gave motion to a wheel feed; and these machines were in the market as late as 1868-9, competing with the other machines of that age.

"We show one of the two needle arms, which he describes as about three feet long, working on steel-pointed bearings in iron boxes. The double-pointed needle is seen in the clamps at the top of this arm. The other arm was, of course, a duplicate of the one shown.

"Mr. Dodge states that points, attached to the cross-piece on which the carriage ran, opened and shut the needle-holding clamps. As he gave no description of their construction, or the manner of working them, we do not attempt to show them; but it is not unlikely that they were over the shaft of the ratchet-wheel, and derived motion from it.

"In his written statement, Mr. Dodge says nothing about the control of the thread, and in answer to a question on that point he said there was something to draw it tight, but unfortunately the idea was not caught by the questioner. The devices used by others for tightening 'through-and-through' stitches have varied. Corliss had a very elaborate and complicated arrangement; Greenough used a weight hung on the end of the arms, which simply pulled them, with needle and thread, out as far as the constantly-decreasing length of thread permitted. This involved the fastening of the thread to the eye of the needle. Speaking of the improvements that suggested themselves to his mind, Mr. Dodge said it was seen that the tension of the thread might be regulated by springs; and from this we can infer that his thread ran through the eye and was pulled by some simple gripping device—a plan much more practical and intelligent than was adopted by others who used double-pointed needles.

"He says he thought of substituting cams for the cranks that drove the arms, and of applying a foot motion, but felt that the weight of the long arms was too great for a rapid motion.

"A point that distinguishes this machine from all others that used its equivalent in the shape of clamps and carriages for holding the work is the clamping on both sides of the seam. This would seem to call for a generous width of seam. When we consider the clumsy needle that must have been used and the roughness of the common skein flax that constituted the sewing thread of that day, we can readily imagine that such support was necessary.

"In this simple and crude construction sewing mechanists will observe all the necessary elements of a seam-stitching machine."

The following newspaper clipping gives an account of Mr. Dodge's life as a minister. It was contributed by Mr. S. D. Moxley:

"The Late Rev. John Adams Dodge.—In accordance with my promise, I furnish yourself and readers with a synopsis of the life and labors of the late Rev. John A. Dodge. He was the son of a Baptist minister, and was born in Sturbridge, Mass., Nov. 7, 1788. In 1816 he went to Ferrisburg, Vt., to enter into business. Finding no religious service in the town excepting a Quaker meeting, and the majority of the inhabitants making of the Sabbath a gala day, he declared (though at this time not a Christian) that he could not live in a community neglecting the command, 'Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy.' This led to the establishing of a meeting in a schoolhouse, at which he and others read sermons. Many were influenced to seriously consider the lives they were leading, and soon a powerful revival resulted; and among the converts was Mr. Dodge. From the day of his conversion he was an earnest Christian, and began to preach immediately. After about three years spent in such preparation for making the ministry his life-work as the times and region afforded, he was ordained and entered upon the full duties of his profession. He labored among the churches in Vermont about twenty years, serving the interests of the Baptist churches in Ferrisburg, Monkton, Charlotte, Hinesburg, Bristol, Panton, Addison, and New Haven. It may seem, by the number mentioned, that his pastorates must have been short, but at that time some of these churches were small and weak, and his services were divided among two or three of them at the same time.

"In 1838 he accepted a call from the Baptist church in Jay, N. Y., and with them he labored four years. This was his last regular pastorate, though he preached more or less until the last two years of his life.

"Among the places that enjoyed his labors after he ceased to be a resident pastor, were St. Armand, Union Falls, Ausable Forks, and Port Kent on this side of the lake, and Charlotte, in Vermont.

"Over the last-named church he acted as a pastor until failing health compelled his return home. With this church, so dear to both his earlier and later ministry, he retained his membership through the remainder of his life.

"For more than twenty years he has been an esteemed citizen of this community, and within the Baptist and other places of worship his voice has often been heard, and his earnest words will long be remembered.

"It may be worthy of note that he preached the first and last Protestant sermon in the old Baptist church on the hill in this place.

"Every heart has its little chapel within which memorial tablets have been erected, to keep fresh the memory of some special event or friend. On many of these tablets, in many hearts, are touching memorials inscribed to the memory of Father Dodge, of times when he rendered them acceptable and comforting service in the capacity of citizen, friend or clergyman.

"The record of his ministry is crowded with self-sacrificing devotion to his calling; and as its reward he could look over his finished course, at last, and count hundreds led to the Saviour by his efforts, and hundreds who beneath his hands received the divine ordinance of baptism.

"To such events he looked back in the days of his age and confinement. They were sunny places, and he loved to live them over. But they furnish him greater joy as in the city of God he meets so many of those whose steps he directed thither, so many whom he comforted by his words as they passed away from this to a higher and holier life.

"The esteem in which Father Dodge was held was shown by the large number who gathered at his funeral, and followed him to the grave, where his earthly part was committed to its kindred element to await the general resurrection, when the corruptible bodies of those who sleep in Jesus shall be made like unto His own glorious body, according to the working of His mighty power whereby He is able to subdue all things unto Himself."

His first eight children were by his first wife.

44. HENRY⁶ DODGE (Israel,⁵ John,⁴ John,³ Israel,² *Tristram*¹), m. 1800, at the Bonhomme Settlement, near St. Louis, Mo., Christiana McDonald, b. Feb. 2, 1785, Bardstown, Ky., d. March 30, 1865, dau. of James McDonald. She came to Upper Louisiana with her parents in 1796, and m. at the early age of fifteen, while her husband was nineteen.
- Henry Dodge was a tall man, over six feet high, straight as an Indian and possessed great strength. He died a member of the Episcopal Church. His wife was a zealous Baptist, and joined the church in early life. The slaves which he inherited from his father he took to Wisconsin, and there gave them their freedom. He was one of the original trustees of St. Genevieve (Mo.) Academy, which was incorporated by act of the governor and judges of the Territory of Louisiana June 21, 1808. A work of this kind affords brief space for biography, and cannot do justice to this brave soldier and statesman whose public service continued without interruption for over fifty years. Rev. William Salter of Burlington, Iowa, has written his life, and the Iowa Historical Record, Iowa City, Iowa, has published several articles on his services and family, also written by Mr. Salter. Those interested in the Dodge history would do well to address Mr. Salter, who will cheerfully supply the works named. Most of the matter in this volume concerning the life and family of Henry Dodge (excepting the genealogical data) is gleaned from Mr. Salter's works. Henry Dodge's public life began as deputy sheriff of St. Genevieve, Mo. district in 1805. In 1820 he was elected by the people a member of the convention that framed the constitution of Missouri. In 1831 he was elected member of the legislature of Michigan Territory. In his capacity as Major-General of the Missouri troops he received the Marquis de Lafayette upon his visit to St. Louis April 29, 1825. He removed to Wisconsin in 1827, and was there a leader in the Winnebago and Black Hawk wars. He engaged extensively in lead mining near Dodgeville, Wis. He was regarded as the hero of the Black Hawk War, and his services in the campaign against the Indians are recorded in a highly interesting account in the works of Mr. Salter already mentioned. Henry Dodge was called to Washington in 1833, and President Andrew Jackson had arranged to appoint him marshal of South Carolina had nullification matters grown worse in that state.

He commanded as Colonel of U. S. Dragoons, 1834, the first U. S. military expedition to the Indian country west of Arkansas and Missouri. A portion of the country traversed is now Oklahoma. Lieut. Jefferson Davis was one of his officers. George Catlin, the celebrated portrait painter, joined the expedition, and his portraits of chiefs, views of Indian villages, adventures in hunting, etc., are incorporated in the history of the George Catlin Indian Gallery at Washington. Mr. Catlin painted a portrait of Col. Dodge just as they returned from a buffalo hunt. This portrait is reproduced in the Iowa Historical Record, Oct., 1889. The Secretary of War, in his report of 1834, says that Col. Dodge led the expedition in the most satisfactory manner, and that his efforts to introduce amicable relations with the distant tribes of Indians were successful without a single act of hostility.

Col. Dodge commanded the first U. S. military expedition to the Rocky Mountains via the Platte, returning via the Arkansas in 1835. He marched sixteen hundred miles in this expedition in a continuous wilderness, and conferred with many nations of Indians. This was the eleventh mounted expedition which Col. Dodge had commanded. While Colonel of U. S. Dragoons, in command of Fort Leavenworth, his career as a soldier was closed by his appointment, April 30, 1836, as Governor of Wisconsin, comprising the territory now included in the states of Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota and that portion of the Dakotas east of the Missouri River. He was also made Superintendent of Indian Affairs for the Northwest, in addition to his duties as Governor. A sword and the thanks of the nation were voted him by Congress for his unsurpassed ability as an Indian fighter.

Among his papers, which were preserved by his son, Augustus C. Dodge, is a package bearing the simple inscription in his handwriting, "Commissions in the Service of My Country." There was also included in this package the commission of his father, Israel Dodge, as sheriff of the District of St. Genevieve, signed by William Henry Harrison, governor and commander-in-chief of the Indiana Territory and of the District of Louisiana, John Gibson, secretary, October 1, 1804.

The commissions of Henry Dodge cover a long period of public service. They embrace the signatures of six Presidents of the United States, and of many other distinguished men. It is doubtful if there exists another collection of equal interest and value in the documentary history of the West, unless it may be in connection with the life of William Henry Harrison, or the life of Lewis Cass, who were illustrious pioneers. They were not born, like the subject of this memoir, in the West; but they filled with honor some of its highest stations.

The following is a list of commissions in the package referred to:

19. Governor of the Territory of Wisconsin for three years from Feb. 3, 1846; signed by James K. Polk, President; James Buchanan, secretary of state, Feb. 3, 1846.

Governor Dodge was removed from office by President Tyler in 1841, and on July 19 of that year he was nominated for Congress and duly elected. He took his seat Dec. 7, and for four years sat by the side of his son Augustus, who had the previous year been elected from Iowa. On May 13, 1845, Henry Dodge was restored to the office of governor by President Polk. In 1848 Wisconsin was admitted into the Union, and on June 8, 1848, Henry Dodge was elected to the United States Senate. His son Augustus joined him the next December as senator from Iowa. At the end of his second term in the Senate, Henry Dodge was tendered the office of governor of Washington Territory, but declined on account of his advanced age, being in his seventy-fifth year. He was a warm friend of Andrew Jackson and Martin Van Buren, and refused the nomination for President in 1844 in the Democratic convention, as he was loyal to Van Buren. Had he accepted he would have been President instead of James K. Polk. Four years later his name was presented to the convention which nominated Lewis Cass, who was defeated by Zachary Taylor, an old companion-in-arms of Henry Dodge at the battle of Bad Axe in the Black Hawk War. In June, 1848, Henry Dodge was nominated for Vice-President by a convention at Utica, N. Y., but declined. The following August a Free Soil convention at Buffalo, N. Y., nominated him for President. He refused the nomination, and Mr. Van Buren was named as President and Henry Dodge as Vice-President, and when he declined again the name of Charles Francis Adams was substituted. In 1851 he was proposed for President by Col. Benton and other liberal members of the Democratic party, and received votes in the early ballots of the convention the next year. In the United States Senate his personal dignity, martial bearing and unstained record ranked him with Webster, Clay and Calhoun. He was pall bearer at Clay's funeral. After retiring from public life he returned to his home at Dodgeville, Wis., and died at the residence of his son in Burlington, Iowa. In 1870 the legislature of Wisconsin appropriated $2,000 for Knowles' marble bust of Gov. Dodge which stands in the capitol. No other citizen of Wisconsin has been thus honored at public expense. 55. DANIEL⁷ DODGE (John A.,⁶ Rev. Jordan,⁵ John,⁴ John,³ Israel,² Tristram¹), m. Nov. 24, 1852, Eunice Reed. No issue. He was the inventor of machinery for the manufacture of horseshoe nails. Very few are aware of the great difficulties experienced by the first inventor of this wonderful machinery, and the great persistence, patience and energy exhibited by him in times of trial, when all condemned his scheme as impracticable and withdrew financial support. A sketch of the history of this invention and of the inventor may not be devoid of interest. Daniel Dodge came of a family possessed of great inventive powers. His great grandfather, John Dodge, was the inventor of cut nails with heads and certain tools for their manufacture. He was a blacksmith and hoe maker, and the invention came about in this way: After plating out the blade of the hoe as near to the desired form as convenient, they used to complete it by shearing from the edges any surplus of metal there might be. It occurred to the young man that some of these clippings, which were of a tapering form, might serve for nails if properly headed. He collected a few of them and headed them by gripping them in a vise and upsetting the large end with a hammer. Finding they answered the purpose, he cut up other pieces of similar scrap and headed them in the same way. He then made a tool for the purpose of holding the shank more perfectly while being headed. Finding a ready demand for nails so made, he collected a quantity of old hoops and worked them up. The demand increasing, the business was increased and new facilities added for manufacturing the article, and new hoop iron purchased. The trade so commenced was followed, to some extent, by John Dodge's son and grandson. At a later date they of course used plates rolled expressly for the purpose, but they headed them by hand until the invention of Reed's improvement.

Previous to the age of 25, Daniel Dodge's educational advantages were mainly a few months' attendance at a county district school each year during his boyhood and two or three terms at an academy. From the age of 10 to 18 years his time was mostly divided between the labors of the farm and the business of ironing hames for horse collars. He then removed to New York State with his parents, and continued his labors as before, teaching school and studying at home. At the age of 25 he entered Madison University, at Hamilton, N. Y., but after two and a half years of study there was compelled by failing health to leave the institution. In the fall of 1848 he began what proved to be the principal labor of his life, the invention and construction of machinery for the manufacture of horseshoe nails. Unable to apply himself to books, and having a taste for mechanical pursuits, he determined to select some subject affording exercise of the inventive faculties, and apply himself to the production of some mechanical improvement. In the search for such a subject his attention was soon attracted to the manufacture of horseshoe nails, as offering an open and inviting field. Such nails were at that time all made by hand, the process of making them was slow and laborious, and there was evidently room for improvement. He commenced on a very small scale. Having no money to invest in the enterprise, he proceeded to construct with his own hands a small model made wholly of iron and steel which could be operated by hand. This model would produce from lead and copper miniature nails of about one sixty-fourth the weight of an ordinary horseshoe nail, and with such facility and so perfect in form that it won the confidence of friends and enabled him to command the means to experiment on a larger scale. The plan of this first model was the result of considerable study, and was adopted, after a careful comparison of several conceivable plans, as the most feasible, and promising the most valuable results. In the spring of 1849 he began building a machine of full working proportions. Several months were consumed in its construction, and much difficulty was encountered in the want of facilities for doing work with the perfect accuracy requisite. The machine when completed produced nails with the expected rapidity (about 100 per minute) and of satisfactory form and finish, but they were found to possess one fatal defect. The rapid absorption of heat by the machinery from the metal under operation had so cooled the points of the nails before completion that the quality of the metal near the points was found to be impaired by the continued action of the hammers upon it. With the machine, as constructed, this could only be remedied by running it with greater rapidity, but increased speed was found to increase the strain on certain parts beyond their capacity for endurance. Several months were spent in altering, improving and experimenting with this machine, not so much in hopes of making it a success as with a view to learning all that could be learned from it before attempting to construct another, and, what was equally important, convincing men who had means to invest that it would pay to build another. Before this last point was reached, however, those who had furnished the means thus far became greatly discouraged and disinclined to prosecute further experiments. At this juncture a stranger passing through the town purchased a fractional interest in the machine and enabled Mr. Dodge to proceed far enough with the experiments to interest those with ampler means, when he re-purchased the fractional interest. A new machine was built, and then another and another; each an improvement on the other, but none proving profitable for permanent use. After a few months' use the repairs would become more and more frequent until it became necessary to abandon them. This result was due to the gradual crystallization resulting from the violence of the percussion of a hammer stroke sufficiently instantaneous to prevent undue absorption of heat from the point of the nail. After pursuing these experiments for nearly seven years, at a cost of many thousands of dollars, making many shifts to secure the necessary means, he determined to abandon entirely his original plan and adopt one radically different and entirely new. On this plan he built a machine early in 1856. This proved a comparative success. It overcame the great difficulty encountered in the former plans, but its capacity for production was comparatively small, and it required many subsequent additions, alterations and improvements to render it a complete success. It was not until 1862, and after a long series of expensive experiments, that he felt warranted in building a large number of these machines. From that time the machines were rapidly multiplied until more than 100 were in operation in his own country, and large numbers in Canada, England and various European states. His American patents bear dates June 22, 1852; June 3, 1856; Aug. 23, 1859; Aug. 30, 1859; Jan. 5, 1864, and Aug. 4, 1874. Unlike many inventors, Mr. Dodge reaped the benefits of his invention.

By means of this useful invention Mr. Dodge acquired wealth. But he used it so generously that he was a blessing to all around him. He pitied the poor, and befriended particularly the industrious poor. He had himself been one of that class, and knew how they suffered. He gave also generously and constantly to large philanthropic and religious objects. Foreign missions, home missions, the Bible cause, religious publications, all received his moneyed gifts. One of his last gifts was that of his elegant mansion and grounds in Keeseville, N. Y., which cost him over $20,000. This he gave to the American Baptist Publication Society, in whose large, beneficent and world-wide missionary operations he was a profound believer. Though this elegant home sold for far less than it originally cost, it was nevertheless an expression of his love for Christ, and the Publication Society's great and good work.

Intellectually, Mr. Dodge was a great thinker and an uncommon man. He was the author of a treatise on Law and Liberty, which handles some of the more intricate problems of psychology, metaphysics and theology in a masterly fashion. Above all else, he was a simple, child-like lover and server of Jesus Christ. Though hindered from becoming a settled pastor and preacher, he wrought in the spirit of one "called of God" throughout the whole of his long life. He was the main pillar and support of the little Baptist church of which he was for so many years a member and an office-bearer in Keeseville, and he was also the same wise counselor and worker in the Tabernacle Church of Albany, in whose fellowship he passed the last few years of his useful and beautiful Christian life. His home was charming, his hospitality was genial and abundant, his conversation abounded in wisdom and wit, and his reading and expositions of the Bible at the family altar, in the old-fashioned style, were a blessing to all who were permitted to be present.

St. Genevieve, Mo., Nov. 14, 1814 (living in 1902), dau. of John Baptiste Bequette, b. Canada, d. 1825, and Mary Louise Mesplais, b. New Orleans, La., 1781, d. Dodgeville, Wis., July 7, 1864. He was Sheriff of Iowa Co., Wis.; Captain Vols. Black Hawk War. His brother, Senator A. C. Dodge, speaks of his death as follows:

"My own brother, Henry Lafayette Dodge, U. S. Indian Agent in New Mexico, by appointment of President Pierce, was captured by the Apaches and burned to death at the stake. Before his sad fate became known, as it did through friendly Indians, large rewards of every kind were offered in vain for his ransom. Besides the tender of money, he might have successfully pleaded (for he could speak ten different dialects), before any tribunal other than the infuriated Apache, the preservation of the lives of two of their race, an Indian woman and her child, snatched by his own hands from the jaws of death in the heat of battle at Bad Axe, exposed as he was to the fire of friends and foes when he accomplished the deed.

"Or, if hereditary acts of mercy and favor of older date and greater magnitude could have availed aught to stay the slow consuming fire of the stake and its agonies, my brother might have pointed the demoniacal Apaches to the lives of five hundred men, women and children of the Miami tribe, not only spared by his father after they had become his prisoners, but protected from almost instant death by Colonel Dodge, who threw himself between the Miamis and the muzzles of a hundred and ten cocked rifles in the hands of Capt. Marshall Cooper's company, aimed at the Indians by brave but enraged Missourians, who had given way to the ignoble passion of revenge—the Indians having a short time before murdered a number of their kindred and friends."

The following letter was written by Mr. William F. Fox, who m. Captain Dodge's daughter Mary:

"6425 Monroe Ave., Chicago, Aug. 23, 1901.

"T. R. Woodward, Esq., Chicago.

"Dear Sir:—I have looked over the report we have of the facts concerning the death of Capt. H. L. Dodge of the Volunteer service in New Mexico, while acting as Indian Agent for the government in that territory. It appears from the information received shortly after his death, that he was killed in that territory on Nov. 15, 1856, by a band of Apache Indians, who were hostile to the Navajos. I take it that a summary of the facts is all you desire. The circumstances of his death as reported are substantially these: Henry Lafayette Dodge, who was appointed Indian Agent by the government in 185—, was stationed in New Mexico. It appears that there was located at Fort Defiance, New Mexico, a military post, the officers of which were Major Kendrick of Co. 'B,' 2d Artillery, commanding, and among other subordinate officers Henry L. Dodge, Captain. On or about the 10th of November, 1856, a command under Major Kendrick left the fort for the purpose of laying out a road from Fort Defiance to Salt Lake. While en route, on the morning of Nov. 15th, Capt. H. L. Dodge, who accompanied them, left the command, and in advance sought to do some hunting. Not returning at the proper time, scouts were sent out to find him, thinking possibly he might have become lost. Not finding him, they returned to camp late at night, and as a heavy fall of snow occurred that night, the immediate search for him was given up. In the following spring, when the snow had melted, Major Kendrick with twenty men started out from the post to renew the search for his body, or to get tidings of him. They searched faithfully, and found nothing but his skull, which had been placed between two projecting rocks, about thirty miles south of the Zuma and toward the Giles River. No traces of his body were found. His skull was brought to Fort Defiance, and interred with military honors.

"Captain Dodge was looked upon as the 'Great Father' of the Navajo tribe, who were at war with the Apaches, and hence their hostility to him, which accounts for their murdering him as they did. These are the substantial points of the tragedy as related by Charles W. Wentz of Co. 'G,' 1st Cav., N. Mex. Vols. The writer adds, 'Captain Dodge was esteemed by the entire people of New Mexico, and his untimely end deeply deplored.'

"Yours truly,
"W. F. Fox."

Augustus Caesar Dodge was born at St. Genevieve, then in the Territory of Louisiana. This town, sixty miles below St. Louis, is the oldest settlement on the west side of the Mississippi River. It was commenced in 1735 by a few French people who moved from Kaskaskia. The old village, "Le Vieux Village," was inundated in the great flood of 1785, when it was abandoned for the present site of the town. French manners and customs and a patois of the language prevail there to this day.

He removed with his father's family to Galena, now in the State of Illinois, arriving there July 4, 1827. Although only fifteen years of age, he marched with W. S. Hamilton's company in the campaign against the Indians. He also served in his father's command during the Black Hawk War, and was elected lieutenant. In 1838 he was appointed by President Van Buren Register of the United States Land Office at Burlington, and removed to that city, which was his home the rest of his life. On the 14th of January, 1839, Mr. Dodge was appointed by Governor Lucas Brigadier-General of the Second Brigade of the first division of the militia of Iowa Territory.

On the 3d of February, 1840, Mr. Dodge was elected alderman by the people of Burlington; his commission was signed by Governor Lucas and James Clarke, Secretary of the Territory.

On Oct. 5, 1840, he was elected delegate to Congress.

On the 2d day of September, 1841, Mr. Dodge took his seat in the Twenty-seventh Congress, then convened in extra session. On the 7th day of December, he welcomed his father to a seat by his side, as delegate from the Territory of Wisconsin—the first and only instance of a father and son sitting together in the House of Representatives since the foundation of the government. In 1843 he was elected to the Twenty-eighth Congress, and in 1845 he was elected to the Twenty-ninth Congress. He served as delegate until the admission of the State of Iowa into the Union, December 28, 1846.

On the 15th of December, 1846, Mr. Dodge presented to the House of Representatives the Constitution of the State of Iowa, and on the 28th of the same month the State was admitted into the Union.

He was Presidential Elector in 1848. The First General Assembly of the State was not able to agree upon the election of the United States Senators. The Second General Assembly, on the 2d day of December, 1848, chose Mr. Dodge and George W. Jones. Upon taking their seats in the Senate Chamber on the 26th day of December, they drew lots for their respective terms of office. Mr. Dodge drew for the short term (ending March 4, 1849), whereupon the same General Assembly, on the 10th day of January, 1849, chose Mr. Dodge for the following term of six years (ending March 4, 1855).

As seven years before the son had welcomed his father to a seat by his side in the House of Representatives, so now the father, who had entered the Senate on the 23d of the previous June, as one of the Senators from the State of Wisconsin, greeted the arrival of his son in the Senate Chamber. A father and son Senators of the United States at the same time was an unprecedented occurrence. They enjoyed this honor together until February, 1855. No case of the kind has since occurred.

Possibly, Henry Dodge and Augustus C. Dodge will remain the only instance in our annals of a father and son as contemporaneous Senators of the United States. It was also noteworthy that Augustus C. Dodge was the first person born west of the Mississippi River to become a Senator of the United States.

On the 8th of February, 1855, Mr. Dodge resigned his seat in the Senate, and on the following day President Pierce nominated him to be Minister Plenipotentiary to the Court of Spain. He sailed with his family from New York on the 2d of May. Immediately upon his appointment, Mr. Dodge commenced the study of the Spanish language with a skillful teacher, and acquired such mastery of it that in less than a year he understood it in conversation perfectly, and could read it as well as he could read English.

Mr. Dodge returned to the United States early in the summer of 1859, and on the 23d of June was nominated by the Democratic State Convention of Iowa for Governor, but the election went against him.

At the Joint Convention of the General Assembly, held on the 14th of January, 1860, the Democratic members expressed their esteem for his character and services by giving him their unanimous vote for United States Senator. He was Delegate Chicago National Convention, 1864. Withdrawn the rest of his life for the most part from official station, Mr. Dodge retained to the end his interest in public affairs. In 1874 he was elected Mayor of Burlington by a spontaneous movement of citizens irrespective of party.

Fort Dodge, Iowa; Dodgeville, Iowa; Dodge Street, Dubuque, Iowa; and Dodge Street, Burlington, Iowa, are named after him, and Dodgeville, Wis., and Dodge County, Wis., are named after his father.

A very complete life of Mr. Dodge, by Rev. Wm. Salter, is printed in the Iowa Historical Record, January, 1887.

Mrs. Clara Ann (Hertich) Dodge, wife of Augustus C. Dodge, was born at St. Genevieve, June 20, 1819. She was the daughter of Prof. Joseph Hertich, a native of Switzerland, who came to the United States about the year 1796, landing at Baltimore, and, after teaching awhile in Danville, Ky., came to St. Genevieve in 1810, where he established a flourishing school, and was married to Miss Mercelite de Villars in 1815.

Mrs. Dodge was descended on her mother's side from some of the oldest and most respectable French families who settled in the ancient province of Louisiana in the last century,—the families of Villars and Valle. Her mother was the youngest of sixteen children of Claude Joseph Villars, and was born in New Orleans in 1782. Claude Joseph Villars was one of the commissioners appointed by the French government for the purchase of goods in that market for the French islands in the West Indies. His services in promoting the trade and interests of France at New Orleans are honorably recorded in Gayarre's History of Louisiana under the Spanish Domination, pp. 106-118. He served subsequently in the Spanish service as a civil commandant in Upper Louisiana. The maiden name of his wife was Marie Valle; she was a daughter of Don Francois Valle, pere, and sister of Don Francois Valle, fils, who were commandants of the post of St. Genevieve during most of the time it was under the Spanish domination.

Mrs. Dodge was fond of study and assisted her father in the school room. Among his pupils was Augustus C. Dodge; she frequently assisted him in mastering his lessons, and their acquaintance ripened in their marriage on the 19th of March, 1837.

Mrs. Dodge accompanied her husband to Madrid when he was appointed Minister to Spain, and on leaving there the Queen presented her own portrait to Mrs. Dodge in token of her majesty's appreciation and esteem. She was buried in Burlington, Iowa, by the side of her husband. Near by are the graves of Governor Henry Dodge and his wife, and of Governor James Clarke and his wife. Governor Clarke was the third and last governor of the territory of Iowa; his wife was a sister of General A. C. Dodge.

A more extended notice of Mrs. Dodge appears in the Iowa Historical Record, October, 1891. Children:

60. MARY LOUISE⁷ DODGE (Henry,⁶ Israel,⁵ John,⁴ John,³ Israel,² *Tristram*¹), m. at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., April 1, 1835, Col. John Dement, b. Gallatin, Tenn., April 26, 1804, d. Jan. 17, 1883. They resided at Vandalia, when it was the capital of Illinois, removing from there to Galena, Ill., where they remained until 1845, when they went to Dixon, Ill., and resided there the rest of their lives.

Colonel Dement was a pioneer of Illinois and a prominent landmark in its political history. He was a resident of Illinois for a period of sixty-five years. He had personally seen every governor of the State of Illinois and been personally acquainted with every United States senator from the state. He had been an eye-witness of the marvelous growth and prosperity of his adopted state, had seen the wonderful changes in her political history, and was himself one of the conspicuous actors during all these years.

He began his political career as sheriff of Franklin County in 1826. In 1828 he was elected representative in the legislature from Franklin County, and re-elected in 1830, serving two terms and taking a leading position in that body. In 1831 he was elected by the legislature to the office of state treasurer, and was twice re-elected to the same office, the last time receiving every vote of the Assembly. He held the office consecutively until 1836, when he resigned to again accept the office of representative in the legislature, to which he had been elected to represent the district composed of the counties of Fayette and Effingham. He was induced to do this in order to exert his influence in retaining the state capital at Vandalia, at least until after another session of the legislature had been held. As the champion of the then "capital district," he battled with the "long nine" from Sangamon County, and during the session broke many a parliamentary lance with Abraham Lincoln, their able leader. At the organization of the house at this session he was voted for speaker, receiving next to the highest number of votes, but was finally defeated by James Semple, who afterwards became United States senator from this state. Prominent among his colleagues at that memorable session were Abraham Lincoln, Ninian Edwards, John A. McClernand, Edward D. Baker, Jesse K. Dubois, Augustus C. French, N. F. Lindes, James Shields, Stephen A. Douglas, John J. Hardin, Richard N. Cullom, and William A. Richardson.

In 1837 he was appointed receiver of the public land office at Galena. In 1840 the office was removed to Dixon, to which place he took his family. His fortunes as receiver of public moneys were varied and peculiar. He was appointed first by President Jackson, and removed by President Harrison; then appointed by Polk and removed by Taylor; again appointed by President Pierce, re-appointed by Buchanan, and continued in office until the land office was removed to Springfield. He was a presidential elector on the Democratic ticket in 1844, and cast his vote for James K. Polk.

Colonel Dement had been a member of every constitutional convention of Illinois except that of 1818, and had the distinguished honor of being chosen temporary chairman of those of 1862 and 1870. Twice he aspired to the office of governor of the state and had a strong following of party friends in the nominating conventions. The first time he was defeated for the nomination by Joel A. Matteson, and the second time by William A. Richardson, who was defeated in the election by William H. Russell, Illinois's first Republican governor.

Colonel Dement gained his military title in the Black Hawk War, serving with great gallantry and marked distinction in three campaigns. The old chief, Black Hawk, himself had such a high opinion of Colonel Dement's courage and fighting qualities that afterward, in speaking of the battles in which he had met Colonel Dement and the forces under his command, he took occasion to compliment him highly on his skill and bravery in the field.

Although active as a politician, Colonel Dement was no less enterprising as a citizen and successful as a business man. His years were full of honor in his private as well as in his public life. His children were:

LONG ISLAND DODGES

DESCENDANTS OF

SAMUEL³ DODGE
THOMAS³ DODGE
TRISTRAM³ DODGE
HEZEKIAH DODGE
JEREMIAH³ DODGE

Many descendants of the above are shown in Tristram Dodge and Descendants, but as the arrangement of that work is not systematic, and as it contains no index of names, the author has thought best to include it, so that the information may be accessible through the complete index at the end of this volume. This has been made possible by the very generous permission of Mrs. Martha A. Dodge of Parkfold, Rockville Centre, Long Island, the widow of the late Robert Dodge, author of Tristram Dodge and Descendants. Every name mentioned in Mr. Dodge's work therefore appears in the following pages, to which is added a large amount of genealogy in these lines which the writer has gathered since the publication of Mr. Dodge's book in 1886.

Thanks are also due to Mr. Richard Despard Dodge of Brooklyn, N. Y., who has kindly given the use of his valuable chart of Mr. Robert Dodge's publication and the appendix to same.

THE POLITICAL SENTIMENTS OF THE AUTHOR, 1779

Hark! hard! the trumpet sounds— The din of War's alarms
 O'er seas and solid grounds, Do call us all to arms.
 Who for King George do stand, Their honors soon will shine,
 Their ruin is at hand, Who with the Congress join.
 The acts of Parliament, In them I much delight,
 I hate their curst intent, Who for the Congress fight.
 Who non-resistance hold, They have my hand and heart,
 May they for slaves be sold, Who act a Whiggish part.
 The Tories of the day, They are my daily toast,
 They soon shall sneak away, Who independence boast.
 The Congress of the States, I hate with all my heart,
 Blessing upon them waits, Whoe'er take Britain's part.
 To General Washington Confusion and dishonor,
 May numbers daily run, To Britain's royal banner.
 On Mansfield, North and Bute May daily blessings pour Confusion and dispute, On Congress evermore.
 To North, that British Lord, May honors still be done,
 I wish a block, or cord, To General Washington.

THOMAS³ DODGE, OF LONG ISLAND

AND HIS DESCENDANTS

1. THOMAS³ DODGE (Tristram,² *Tristram*¹), (see p. 8), b. Jan. 23, 1684 (N. S. Rec.), d. July 14, 1755; m. 1712, Susannah Hutchings, b. Dec. 28, 1690, d. April 11, 1778.

Richard Despard Dodge writes, May 8, 1902, the following concerning the birth of Thomas Dodge: "I went yesterday to Port Washington, L. I., and examined the old family Bible in possession of Henry T. Dodge, and find the Bible was published in 1684, and find the following entries are written therein:

- " 'Thomas Dodge was born the 9th of Feb., 1690.'
- " 'Thomas Dodge deceased 19th of July, 1755.'
- " 'Susannah Hutchings was born the 28th of Dec., 1690.'
- " 'Susannah Hutchings deceased the 11th of April, 1778.' "

Thus it will be seen that the New Shoreham Records conflict with the family Bible, unless the former refer to another Thomas Dodge. Children, b. Cow Neck, L. I., where he settled about 1718:

JEREMIAH DODGE, OF LONG ISLAND

AND HIS DESCENDANTS

1. JEREMIAH³ DODGE (William,² *Tristram*¹). The first record we find of him he bought land Cow Neck, Long Island, March 31, 1730. He has not been connected with the line until Mr. Richard Despard Dodge of Brooklyn, N. Y. (see his appendix to Tristram Dodge and Descendants) discovered a letter written June 16, 1776, by Samuel⁴ Dodge (Samuel,³ William,² Tristram¹) to his "Loving Cousin," Thomas⁴ Dodge (Thomas,³ Tristram,² Tristram¹), in which he requests that he be remembered to his Uncle Jeremiah's family. He adds that he saw Uncle Jeremiah's grandson Stephen Dodge at Fort Montgomery "last Wednesday," and that Stephen was again in Capt. Rosekrans' Company. New York in the Revolution, p. 49, gives Stephen Dodge as a soldier in the New York Line, 4th Regiment, in which Capt. James Rosekrans commanded a company. This evidence establishes Jeremiah Dodge as the son of William and grandson of the first Tristram. Judge A. W. Savary of Annapolis Royal, Nova Scotia, confirms the above parentage in his excellent History of Annapolis County, and writes me, April 29, 1902, that the line was given him by the late William E. Chute, compiler of the Chute Genealogies. Child (and probably others):
 2. i. TRISTRAM,⁴ d. 1763 (or 1760).
2. TRISTRAM⁴ DODGE (Jeremiah,³ William,² *Tristram*¹). He settled at Oyster Bay, Long Island, where he d. 1763; m. at St. George's Church, Hempstead, Jan. 13, 1726, Sarah⁵ Hawxhurst of Oyster Bay, dau. of William⁴ Hawxhurst (Christopher,³ Samson,² b. 1571, Christopher¹). The New York Genealogical and Biographical Record, Vol. 32, p. 175, has an article on the Hawxhurst family by Robert B. Miller, stating that the parents of Tristram, who m. Sarah Hawxhurst, were Tristram and Dorcas Dodge. This seems an error. Children named in will (order not known):
 3. i. STEPHEN,⁵ b. Oyster Bay, L. I., about 1748, d. Wilmot, N. S., June 6, 1808.
 - ii. DANIEL, had a son, Daniel⁶, who d. N. Y. City about 1814 without issue. This branch believed to be extinct.
 - iii. FREELOVE, m. Townsend Parish, Dec. 9, 1761.
 - iv. SARAH, d. unmarried.
 - v. ANNE, d. unmarried.
3. STEPHEN⁵ DODGE (Tristram,⁴ Jeremiah,³ William,² *Tristram*¹), m. Feb. 17, 1771, Blanche Shadwin. New York in the Revolution, p. 49, says he was in Col. James Holmes' regiment, N. Y. Line, 4th Regiment, Capt. James Rosekrans'

Company. Service Aug. 3 to Oct. 17, 1775. (These troops were regiments in the United States service under General Washington.) The same work gives the following military service of Stephen Dodge, but it is thought that the second item (p. 83) refers to another Stephen.

Page 145: Stephen Dodge was a soldier in the Dutchess County Militia, 6th Regt., Col. Morris Graham. (The militia could not be called out of the state for more than three months. At the beginning of the war they volunteered, but later they were called out by the Convention.)

Page 83: Stephen Dodge was in Col. Albert Pawling's Regiment of The Levies. Service in 1781. (These troops were drafts from the different militia regiments and sometimes from the people direct as well.)

After the above service in the Continental Army, it seems that Stephen Dodge changed his mind as to the prospects of the result or as to the merits of the war.

Page 354 (Supplement): The Commissioners of Sequestration of New York reported, July, 1781, that the property of Stephen Dodge had been sold.

Page 270 (Supplement): The Commissioners of Forfeitures of New York listed the estate of Stephen Dodge among those forfeited. These commissioners sold the real estate of Tories or others who had either gone over to the enemy or were suspected of not being friendly to the American cause. They did not begin work until late in the war, and were more systematic in their accounts than the Committee of Sequestration, who dealt for the most part with personal property. Samuel Dodge was a commissioner for the counties of Dutchess, Orange, and Ulster, and as such he probably sold the estate of his kinsman, Stephen Dodge.

The comptroller of the state of New York writes as follows concerning the confiscation of the estate of Stephen Dodge:

"The name of Stephen Dodge mentioned in New York in the Revolution (Supplement) among those whose estates were forfeited and confiscated, appears on the original documents as follows:

"List of farms and houses sold by the Commissioners of Sequestration in Dutchess County states that the house and small lot of Stephen Dodge of Charlotte was sold to Gilbert Worden May, 1779, and that in March, 1780, he paid eight pounds.

"Alphabetical list of forfeited estates contains the name of Stephen Dodge. Name also appears on a list of forfeitures. No additional information.

"On a statement of sales of forfeited estates sold by the Commissioners of Forfeitures in the Middle District there appears the name of Stephen Dodge, opposite which is set the amount, one hundred and thirty pounds.

"A claim of Joseph Mabbett appears for thirty-four pounds fourteen shillings and seven pence against the forfeited estate of Stephen Dodge, and states the indebtedness was incurred previous to forfeiting the estate."

In Smith's History of Dutchess County, N. Y., p. 49 (small, old edition), it is stated that Charlotte Precinct, just previous to the Revolution, was composed of the present towns of Clinton, Stanford, and Washington, in Dutchess County, a dozen miles or more northeast of Poughkeepsie. It was settled about 1750. Mabbettsville P. O. is in Washington. Joseph Mabbett had a claim against the forfeited estate of Stephen Dodge of Charlotte, and the P. O. name is a corroboration.

It seems probable that two of this name served in the Revolutionary War, and which of them suffered confiscation may not be certain, but all authorities seem to agree that Stephen³ Dodge, son of Tristram, emigrated Oct., 1783, with wife and five children, to Nova Scotia and settled there pursuant to conditions of treaty of peace. Judge Savary, in his History of Annapolis County, Nova Scotia, calls him a "worthy Loyalist," and says that he settled first at Grauville but afterwards in Wilmot, where he obtained a grant to the rear of the river grants, north of Middleton West. In a list or "muster roll" of discharged officers and disbanded soldiers and Loyalists taken in the County of Annapolis in June, 1784, the name of Stephen Dodge appears, "1 man, 1 woman, 3 children over 10, 3 children under 10, eight in all." Another reference to Stephen Dodge is made in the sketch of his grandfather Jeremiah on a preceding page.

DODGE ARMS

APPENDIX

DODGES IN ENGLAND

Something may be expected in relation to our ancestors in England. We have heard considerable about a grant of arms to Peter Dodge, of Stopworth, County of Chester, in 1306, and a later patent to John Dodge, of Rotham, in the County of Kent, in 1546, in which he is declared to be descended from the Peter Dodge born in Stopworth. These patents are on record in the College of Arms, London.

In Earwaker's history of East Cheshire, 1877, Vol. II, pages 108-9, occurs as follows:—"The Dodge family were connected with Offerton for many generations. The name at first was spelt Dogge (the g's being pronounced soft), and sometimes Doggeson. One of the earliest references to them is the record of a very curious grant of arms, which was granted to Peter Dodge, of Stockport, so early as the 34th Edward I., 1306. From this date down to the end of the last century I have met with a large number of references to this family, chiefly in connection with Stockport and Offerton, and their names are frequently found in the Stockport registers, and also in those of Chesdall, Marple, etc. In 1384-5 is mention of Robert, son of Robert Doggeson, and in 1390 of William, his son, holding lands in Stockport. In 1422-3 William Doggeson, Stockport, had lands in the Hillgate, and in 1428 he is spoken of as William Dogge, mercer, of Stockport. The name then becomes more common, and members of this family are found filling the office of Mayor of Stockport. I have a pedigree of this family going back to the fourteenth century, in my MS. collections, but it is not sufficiently verified to entitle it to be here printed. Their connection with Offerton is shown from entries in the Stockport registers as early as 1592, and in the Parish Church a black marble tablet on the south wall records the burial of "Mr. Robert Dodge, of Holliday Hill, in Offerton, interred in Offerton pew, May 7th, 1765, aged 54." "A group of houses in this township is still known as Dodge Fold, on one of which are the initials and S. D., 1742; but there are traces of an earlier building." In a foot note on page 109 of the same work: "The Charity Commissioners, in their report for Cheshire, 1839, refer to a previous return, wherein it was stated that Samuel Dodge, about 1720, gave £3 for apprenticing poor children in Offerton; and that about 1765 Robert Dodge gave land, producing 10s per annum, for teaching poor children. After many inquiries, no trace could be found of either of these charities in 1839, and the commissioners came to the conclusion that they were irretrievably lost."

In Vol. I, pp. 346-7, we find: "The following members of the Dodge family filled this office up to 1674, and it is extremely probable that during the 126 years of which there is at present no published list of names, other townsmen of this name acted in the same capacity: 1433-4, William Dodge; 1454, William Dodge; 1475, William Dodge; 1483-4, William Dodge; 1485-6, William Dodge; 1499-1500, Oliver Dodge; 1571, Oliver Dodge; and 1671, Robert Dodge. In 1812 Samuel Dodge was mayor.

In Vol. I, p. 346: "In a deed, 1512, are the names of Ralph Dodge, Nicholas Dodge and Robert Dodge, burgesses of Stockport. On page 108, same volume, in the pedigree of Thomas Winnington, of Offerton. Elizabeth⁵ Winnington (Randle,⁵ d. 1591-2, George,⁴ Richard,³ Nicholas,² *Thomas*¹) m. Oliver Dodge, of Stockport. She was living 1553.

Page 349. William Doggeson, in 1422-3, and Ralph Dodge, 1437-8, were grantees of land. Rundle Dodge in 1511 appears as lessee.

On page 350 George Dodge, in 1577, makes oath.

Page 351. "Stopworth, a town of Cheshire," seems, in 1644, to be the name for Stockport; in 1538, Stopford; and in 1545, Stopforthe.

The Stockport Advertiser of 14 August, 1891, quotes Ormerod's History of Cheshire, p. 838, note, but in the edition of 1819 the note is not found. The quotation refers to the grant of Arms to Peter Dodge in 1306. It says "a family named Dodge held a "small property in Offerton in the reign of Elizabeth, and were of "Holliday Hill, in the same township, in the middle of last "century. Dodge Fold is the name of a hamlet in Offerton, "having acquired its name from some yeomen of the family."

Hence there is no doubt about Stockport, in the County of Chester, being the seat of a long list of Dodges who have been known there for nearly or quite 600 years. It is difficult to assign a limit to the probable descendants of Peter Dodge.

In Earwaker's "East Cheshire," before quoted, p. 231, William Dodge [prob. of Stockport] m. 26 August, 1639, Margaret Heginbotham; p. 410, Elizabeth, wife of Robert Dodge, Sen., Alderman, 27 March, 1704, was buried; p. 470, Robert Dodge, of Swyndells, gent., was juror 25 January, 1624; p. 411, 12 April, 1722, Samuel Dodge, of Offerton, yeoman, was buried at his house; p. 465, William Dodge is mentioned in 1408. In "Marriage Licenses by the Bishop of London," Vol. I, p. 17, John Dodge, of Christ Church, Newgate, and Agnes Goodwyne, of St. Margarets, Westminster, at St. Margarets, aforesaid, 1 September, 1555; Vol. I, p. 28, 1520-1610, John Dodge, of the city of London, and Anne Parrett, widow, of St. Clement Danes, were granted a general license 22 July, 1564.

In Berry's Genealogies of Kent, 1830: Francis Champney, son of Sir John Champney, who d. 1556, m. Mary, dau. of Edward Dodge, of Wrotham and died without issue. Perhaps the most tangible evidence that the Dodges of Essex County, Mass., are descended from Peter Dodge, of Stopworth, Cheshire, is to be found in a letter from the poet Tupper to Robert Dodge, of New York, in 1847, while the latter believed he was descended from William or Richard Dodge. Robert Dodge was b. in N. Y., 15 Dec., 1820, and is author of "Tristram Dodge and his Descendants."

Martin Farquar Tupper, D. C. L., was b. in London in 1810, educated at the Chester House and Christ Church, Oxford, where he grad. in 1831, and was admitted to the bar at Lincoln's Inn. He is the author of about 35 volumes; one of the most famous and most criticized was "Proverbial Philosophy," 1846.

ALBURY NEAR GUILFORD, SURREY, ENGLAND.

October 14th, 1847.

MY DEAR DODGE:—

Before I answer your kind letter just received, I will descant on the interesting topic of your Coat Armor; and here I have to congratulate you on a matter always pleasing to an intellectual and high minded man; the undoubted antiquity and gentle blood of which you can boast.

Long before Virginia was christened, aye, long before Columbus found out your western world, your goodly ancestry were of honorable station in the dear "Old Land" and gladdened Norfolk and Kent and Cheshire with all the hospitality of good old English gentlemen, all of the olden time.

Now let me tell you that this is a point of respectability which many an ennobled man cannot boast, and I think it is one too, which gives secret satisfaction, even to a republican nature.

My heraldic friend has been able to collect this much about your Coat Armor and ancestry, and he tells me that on your return you can have as copious extracts as you please, with an authorized drawing of your Arms for a trifling fee. I send you a sketch of your true Coat, and extract from my friend's note the following: "In the Herald College a manuscript volume of the time of Charles 2d. has the following entry

DODGE, (Cheshire).

'Barry of 6 or and sa: on a pale gule: a woman's dug distilling milk proper. The above is the only record or allusion to the 'Weeping Eye' and it is supposed to have arisen from ill done or defective emblazonment, which has mistaken the breast for the eye.

"In the College Books we find the second Coat granted to Peter Dodge, Stopworth, Cheshire temp: Edward 1st., the crest being a demi Sea Lion. These arms are repeated in three different MS. volumes in the College Library; once in pen and ink and twice in colors; with one is a notice of three generations of Dodges, with another, where the arms of Houghton and Dodge are in juxtaposition, is a record of the marriage of John Houghton, Alderman, and Sheriff of London to one of the Dodges."

Some of these days when you return, the thing will be worth looking into. Possibly you continue both Coats, but "Rouge Dragon" considers that your legitimate one is as within (Cheshire).

But enough; you will think me unphilosophic in having dwelt so long upon this, but I knew it would interest you.

Yours very sincerely,

Signed, MARTIN F. TUPPER.

The emigrant, William Dodge, came over from Cheshire, England, to Salem in 1629. He was issued from an old Kentish stock, the only one of the name noticed in Burke.

Several patents, granting arms or confirming preceding grants, are preserved in the family to this day.

NOTE.—[By J. T. D.] Rotham or Wrotham in Kent is about 25 miles s. e. of London. Epping is about 15 miles north of London.

It should be stated that from the time of Peter Dodge down to the time of John, of Rotham in Kent, no mention has been found of the arms of the Dodge family, and that may suggest the reason why John sought and obtained a confirmation of the grant to himself.

It would be easy to infer that John Dodge of Middlechinnock, Somerset, who d. in 1635, was the great grandson and heir of the honors of John of Rotham in Kent, if the record did not state positively that John, the grandson died without issue. Still, it may be that John of Mannington, Norfolk, had other sons who were not heirs of his honors and his lands. Let each indulge in his own conjectures. The above quotations show conclusively that in the 16th and 17th centuries there were Dodges of honorable character and connections in the Counties of Cheshire, Kent, Norfolk and Devon, but the statements of Mr. Vermont that William Dodge came from Cheshire and that he was from Kentish stock are not supported by good authority.

The above quotations also mark out in a general way the field in England to be explored by any interested who have the time and means.

THE INHERITED RIGHT TO BEAR COAT- ARMOR IN AMERICA

"Most conclusive of all the mass of proof of the American right to use coat-armor is set forth in these words of Washington: 'It is far from my design to intimate any opinion that heraldry, Coat-armor, &c., might not be rendered conducive to public and private use with us, or that they can have any tendency unfriendly to the purest spirit of republicanism. On the contrary, a different conclusion is deducible from the practice of Congress and the states, all of which have established some kind of Armorial devices to authenticate their official instruments.'—Maxims of George Washington, &c. J. F. Shroeder, D.D., p. 22.

"Many seals are now in possession of descendants, and give substantial proof of the inheritance of coat-armor. The Colonial governors all used armes, as shown by the seals of Sir Wm. Phipps and many others, of which copies are extant.

"General Washington had two seal forms as well as the book plate. Heraldry, though applied to coat-armor, is in truth a term for the work of the herald, and is much more than blazoning and marshalling armes. The coat-of-arms is literally a dignified trade mark, in the genealogical sense, or badge of the name and family to which it pretends. It is useful for the identification of persons and property, and is more to be relied on in research than the family names, which, by reason of variations in spelling in old records, etc., are difficult to follow, while the accuracy of a coat-of-arms can always be relied on. It shows connection, descent and important marriages—being the most useful guide to historians, genealogists and pedigree compilers. It began seven hundred years ago as an aid to the identification of persons, and to-day it exists exactly in the same sense. The use of heraldic bearings is not indicative of rank or title. It is, and always has been, the distinction of a house, whether commoners, gentles or nobles. In all countries this is true to-day, and in them all men, if gentlemen—as we in America understand the term—are entitled to this name distinction, for legal as well as social purposes. This is equally true of the helmet, crest, mantle, or flourish and motto.

"In this country we preach that all men are equal, and long before that doctrine was accepted politically, coat-armor made all men above servants equal. There is absolutely no class or distinction in heraldic bearings; all coat-armor is complete, finished and equal, one shield to another, the armes of a king are no more, no less, and no better than those of the poorest commoner in the kingdom.

"In the English roll of armes to-day there are some sixty-six thousand blazonings. Of these less than three thousand are in the peerage and baronetage, the others are in the gentry or people of England.

"Again, we find coat-armor in the earliest times was closely connected with the bearing of surnames, the one begetting the other. Not until after the 13th century were surnames established, and almost, if not quite at the same time, heraldry became a regulated usage. So armes and surnames in Europe have been synonymous for centuries. For a man without armor—that is, not bearing coat-armor—it was unnecessary to have a surname, as he was either a vassal, servitor, retainer or peasant. When he had gained or assumed a surname the possession of coat-armor soon followed. As to the right of inheriting a name, that is so established as to be understood and never disputed. A grant of coat-armor indicates an attachment to name, and implies that it is a hereditament—never going with a title or estate, but strictly and solely with the name to the immediate heir. As we accepted the right of inheriting family names, and through usage the right to bear armes jointly, naturally it follows that the right still exists, only ending when all branches of the house are extinct. In fact, the right cannot be vacated by disuse on the part of a family in the line of descent, as is often the case, and any generation, after first establishing the right by connecting the lineage thus broken, can claim and bear the coat-of-armes." The above is somewhat abridged from Mortimer Delano, Pursuivant of Armes, in VOEUE.

THE DODGE ARMS.

Lew Trenchard, N. Devon, Eng., 9 May, 1895.

Dear Sir:—The Doidge family of this county came from Milton Abbott near [5 ms. n. w. of] Tavistock [on river Tavy, 16½ ms. n. of Plymouth] where they were tenants of the abbots of Tavistock in Henry VII's reign [1485-1509], they occupied a fine old house, Coombe, not their own but subject to the Duke of Bedford. They got reduced at the beginning of this century & were dispersed. The ante-penultimate Duke pulled Coombe down. Somewhere about 1750-80 this [Duke] had Hurlditch in Larneston [parish], and the shield in the arms in plaster was over the doorway. Hurlditch has been rebuilt but the present owner, R. Mushead, Esq., has the original plaster cast. The arms are the same as those you describe.

The representative of the Doidges now is a surgeon, Mr. Maurice Doidge, who has, I believe, some mementos of the family, old plate, &c, but he does not know anything of the pedigree. He was at Lifton [$\frac{1}{2}$ ms. e. of Launceston] but has left. His address now is Elmhurst, Haverhill, Suffolk.

There are a number of Doidges, farmers & laborers in this neighborhood. Farmers of this name still in Milton Abbott. The name hereabout is spelled Doidge, but pronounced Dodge.

There is a Maurice Doidge in Larneston p'sh, N. Tavistock yeoman, owner of Woodley, which has been in the Doidge possession for some centuries.

I remain yours truly,

Dear Sir:—I shall be most pleased to do anything I can for you in the matter of the Coat-of-Arms but the same is much worn by exposure and I scarcely think it would be worth photographing.

I am leaving home to-day for a couple of weeks and on my return will see Mr. Baring Gould and get his opinion on the matter. I will then write you again. Please excuse haste.

My dear Sir:—I must ask your pardon for my delay in answering your letter. I have been much from home of late and my time has been fully occupied. I am much interested to hear of an American branch of the family, for such no doubt yours is.

I fear that my information as to the family is very meagre. I have never had time to thoroughly investigate the subject: certainly I claim the right to the use of the arms. The Devonshire Doidges have always used them for the past two centuries and I have believed ours to be really the only direct line of Doidges left, for the name is very rare in England—the other form of it—Dodge—your form, is much more common in the States, I fancy, than in England. You will see from the slip I enclose (which I use for pasting inside any books I value) what the arms are. You will also see from the head of this sheet of paper that we—I mean many generations past—have been in the habit of using the crest as is the custom in this country. I do not think the crest is quite correctly described in the account you quote of it in Mr. Tupper's letter; it should be called a "demi-sea dog" not "sea-lion," so I have always been told. I have records of the Doidges being seated at Milton Abbot, near Tavistock in West Devon, for more than two centuries past; really they have been in that neighborhood it is almost certain for over three centuries if not four; but I have no precise date earlier than 1655. From this you will see that I cannot tell you anything of William of Somersetshire who was the founder of the American branch. But in all the old county histories of Devon, and Cornwall also, (parish of Stoke, Clairsland) there are notes of a gentle family of this name residing in West Devon for centuries past. At one time they held considerable properties in that part of the county of Devon. I have a photograph of the manor-house of Hurditch in the parish of Larneston, near Tavistock, with the arms of Doidge over the chief entrance; this place belonged to the family in the early part of the last century and has been pulled down to be rebuilt within the last few years. The present owner who has built the new house, sent me the photo. of the old one. There was also Coombe House, in Milton Abbot, Devon, which I saw once, and which was pulled down about 30 years ago. This was a fine old house, and with an estate round it, had belonged to the Doidges till sold to the Duke of Bedford on the death of Maurice Doidge, my grandfather's grand uncle; the house had stood and belonged to the Doidges (according to Mr. Baring Gould) since Elizabeth's time.

How the family got into Devonshire I do not know, but certainly they spring from the Cheshire family, the founder of which was Peter Doidge of Stopworth to whom Edward I. granted the arms we now bear in the year 1273 (April 8 is the exact date of the grant) (not 1305).

I have never heard the connection of the Devon branch with the original family of Cheshire traced; but it is the same family, and evidently from the arms the Norfolk and Kent families were also descendants of the Cheshire stock. These two branches in Norfolk and Kent appear to be extinct. Doubtless the Somersetshire family from whom you trace descent had emigrated from the adjoining county of Devon—I do not know that any Doidges are now found in Somerset. Do you happen to know in what parish of that county the death of John Doidge, the father of William of Salem, is registered? If so I should much like to know.

I have a few bits of old plate in my possession, but none dating back to the date of the emigration to America. I have two fine old silver tankards, one bearing date 1707 and the initials H. D., another of almost exactly the same date (as the marks show) bearing the arms of Doidge; a smaller one bearing the date 1720, and also a few old spoons bearing either crest or initials, the oldest of which is 16—. I have also in my possession the official seal of Richard Doidge who was High Sheriff of Devon in 1771 (an office of great dignity in England). I do not know if a photo. of any of these things would interest you as you ask me for photographs of family possessions; if so, of course it will give me pleasure to obtain one and send to you. I wish it was in my power to tell you more of the Cheshire Doidges from whom we both spring. I have often thought of going into Cheshire to endeavor to trace the family, but have never had the time to spare for what is a long and troublesome search. But if the small amount of information I have been able to give you is of the slightest interest to you I am very glad to have been able to do it. Believe me to be

My dear Sir,

Very faithfully yours,

March 15, 1896.

My dear Sir:—I greatly regret leaving your last letter so long unanswered, but my time has been very fully occupied. I have been compelled to shift my quarters from the county of Suffolk to this place, thus returning once more to the West of England. I find that Chinnock, of which you speak, is not very far distant from Glastonbury and I hope one day to be able to go there and perhaps I may collect any interesting item of news relative to your branch of the family; if so I will not fail to communicate them to you. I find that the name Dodge is still known in this immediate neighborhood, so that evidently it has lingered in this part of Somerset since the emigration of William in the 17th century. I can only answer your question as to the spelling of the name by telling you that so far as I know it has always been spelt in that way by the West Devon branch: in some old county histories & books of that sort dating some centuries back you will find the family mentioned as that of "Doidge or Dodge."

The translation of the motto "Leni perfruar otio" is "Let me enjoy gentle ease." So many of the family have acted thoroughly on the motto that the last few generations have not enjoyed any of the ease due to the possession of property, as it has long ago disappeared.

St. Badeaux, the place in Devonshire which you mention, is not far distant from Tavistock, both being in the western part of the county,—so no doubt can exist of the Devonshire origin of the Somersetshire Doidges. The photographs of the silver plate represent four silver tankards, the earliest of Queen Anne's time,—the seal is that of Richard Doidge who was High Sheriff of Devon in the last century sometime, and the largest of the three tankards also belonged to him and bears on it the arms of Doidge impaled with those of some other family, probably his wife's. These things of course are of no interest to any one else but from the tone of your letter they will, I am sure, possess some interest for you.

I have to thank you very much for the volume you sent me, the pedigree of the American Dodges, which is of course of much interest to me. I hope that some day you will be able to carry out your desire to visit the old country, in which case pray remember that Glastonbury is in itself a most interesting town, and that you will not be without a welcome if you pay it a visit. I am, my dear Sir, faithfully and sincerely yours,

MAURICE J. DODGE.

INDIVIDUAL AND FAMILY NAMES

BY THE REV. WILLIAM COGSWELL, D.D.

“WHAT’S IN A NAME?”

Imago animi, vultus; vitæ, Nomen est.—Puteanus.

Individual Names, or Names of Individuals, were given for the distinction of persons, one from another, as Adam, Eve, Noah, Abraham, Sarah, Paul and John. Such names have always been in use, and, at the present day, are generally termed christian or baptismal names. They were adopted originally, to a great extent, from the consideration of their signification. As an illustration of this remark, we present the following names:—First, of men: namely, Adam—earthy, taken out of the earth; Abel—just; Alexander—helper of men; Andrew—manful; Benjamin—son of the right hand; Caleb—heartly; Chrysostom—golden mouth; Constantine—firm; Daniel—judgment of God; David—beloved; Edmund—happy; Edwin—happy victor; Edward—happy keeper; Ellis, (corruptly for Elias)—Lord God; Erasmus—amiable; Francis—free; Frederic—rich peace; Gabriel—man of God; George—husbandman; Godfrey—God’s peace; Goodrich—rich in God; Hector—defender; Humphrey—house peace; Hierome—holy name; Isaac—laughter; Israel—prevailing in the Lord; John—gracious; Joseph—increase of the Lord; Leonard—lion-hearted; Luke—luminous; Matthew—reward; Moses—drawn forth; Nathaniel—the gift of God; Neale—blackish; Nicholas—conqueror; Oswald—steward; Paul—wonderful; Philippe—lover of horses; Robert—famous in counsel; Roger—quiet; Reuben—vision of the sun; Seaborn—born upon the sea; Sebastian—majestic; Sylvanus—woodman; Stephen—a crown; Theophilus—lover of God; Thomas—a twin; Vincent—victorious; William—a defence of many; Wilfred—much peace; Zachariah—the memory of the Lord. Secondly, of women: namely, Abigail—the father’s joy; Alice—noble; Adeline—descending from nobles; Barbara—strange; Catharine—chaste; Clara—bright; Dorcas—a roebuck; Eleanor—pitiful; Eve—giving life; Florence—flourishing; Joanna—grace of the Lord; Judith—praising; Lucia—lightsome; Mary—exalted; Margaret—precious; Priscilla—ancient; Rosamund—rose of the world; Susanna—lily; Sophia—wisdom; Theodosia—God’s gift; Ursula—little bear. Thus, christian names were originally given as expressive of some circumstance of birth, personal quality possessed, good desired by parents, or some other reason. Much importance was attached to the name as indicating the fortune of the child. Hence the proverb, “Bonum nomen, bonum omen.”

Family names were given for the purpose of particularizing families. They are a sort of hereditary distinction, and are called by the French and English, surnames, because added to christian or baptismal names. In the early state of society among the Jews, Egyptians, Persians, Greeks, Romans, Germans, Gauls, Britons, indeed among every nation, no individual had more than one name; but in a more advanced or refined period, an additional name was given, in order to mark the different families to which individuals belonged, as well as to distinguish members of the same family from each other. Among the Greeks a few families at Athens and Sparta had family names. When the league was established between the Romans and the Sabines, to confirm which it was covenanted that the Romans should add Sabine names to theirs, and that the Sabines should add Roman names to theirs. These were termed nomina Gentilitia, et cognomina, as their previous names were termed prænomena. Commonly among the Romans, each person had three names; namely, a proper name (prænomen, which distinguished the individual,) the name of the clan, (nomen,) and the family name, (cognomen.) Sometimes also a surname was added, which was given on account of some distinguished exploit or remarkable event. The prænomen was placed first, and usually written with one or two letters; as M. for Marcus, Q. for Quintus, Cn. for Cneius. Then followed the nomen; as Fabius, Julius (from the clan (gens,) Fabian, Julian.) Lastly came the cognomen; as Cicero, Scipio. In the name M. Tullius Cicero, M. is the prænomen, which distinguishes him from his brother Quintus; Tullius, the nomen, which distinguishes the clan, (gens,) and Cicero, the cognomen, which shows his family. An instance of a surname, (agnomen,) is Africanus, added to Scipio; as Publius Cornelius Scipio Africanus.

The Hebrews in their genealogies, instead of surnames, used the name of the father with Ben, which signifies son, as Melchi, Ben Addi; Addi, Ben Cosam; Cosam, Ben Elmadam;—that is, Melchi, son of Addi; Addi, son of Cosam; Cosam, son of Elmadam. A similar practice prevailed among our English ancestors, as Ceonred Ceolwadding, Ceolwald Cuthing, Cuth Cuthwinning;—that is, Ceonred, son of Ceolwald, Ceolwald, son of Cuth, Cuth, son of Cuthwin, the termination or suffix, ing, meaning son or offspring. In the same sense, the Welsh Britons used Ap, (son,) as Ap Owen; Owen, Ap Harry; Harry, Ap Rhese—that is, son of Owen; Owen, son of Harry; Harry, son of Rhese. The same may be said with regard to the Scotch in the use of Mac, (son,) as Donald, Mac Wharter; Wharter, Mac Dowell; Dowell, Mac Clelland;—that is, Donald, son of Wharter; Wharter, son of Dowell; Dowell, son of Clelland. With the Irish, the expression for son is Oy or O'; as, O'Neal; Neal, O'Riley; Riley, O'Brien; Brien, O'Connell; Connell, O'Harra;—that is, son of Neal; Neal, son of Riley; Riley, son of Brien; Brien, son of Connell; Connell, son of Hara. In like manner, the old Normans in their surnames used Fitz, a corruption for Fitz, (son,) as John, Fitz Robert; Robert, Fitz William; William, Fitz Hugh; Hugh, Fitz Gerald; Gerald, Fitz Herbert; Herbert, Fitz Roy.

Surnames began to be used by the French nation about the commencement of the eleventh century,* and by the English nation about the time of William, the Conqueror, in 1066, when the Conquest was achieved, or, as some suppose, as early as Edward the Confessor, who began his reign in 1041. It is certain that the occasional use of surnames in England dates beyond the ingress of the Normans. But before the Conquest it was usual for persons to subscribe to deeds and all legal instruments, with a cross and a single name, without a surname, in the following manner: + Ego Eadredus confirmari; + Ego Edmundus corroborari; + Ego Sigarius conclusi. In the authentic record of the Exchequer in England, called the Domesday Book, surnames are first found in public records in established order. The Scotch date the use of surnames about the time the English do; but it is not certain that they are correct in doing it. In England those names were introduced gradually. They were first assumed by the people of the "better sort," generally, who took the names of their estates, and it was not until the reign of Edward II., (1307,) that they were "settled among the common people fully." In Germany and some kindred nations, family names were little used by the commoners before the fourteenth century. The most current opinion is, that surnames can scarcely be said to have been permanently settled before the era of the Reformation, in the sixteenth century.†

The origin of surnames is various. The greatest number, probably, are derived from towns, villages, seats or patrimonial possessions. The most ancient, says the learned Camden, are from places in Normandy, and countries adjoining it. All names having the French De, Du, Des, De la prefixed, or beginning or ending with Font, Fant, Beau, Saint, Mont, Bois, Aux, are of this description. The names of Warren, Mortimer, Percy, Devereaux, Harcourt, Tracy, Montfort, and Cayly are derived from places in Normandy. Indeed, there is scarcely a village in that country which has not given a name to some family in England. From places in France are derived the names of Courtney, Bolleyn, Paris, Corby, Bohun, Saint George, Saint Andrew, Cressy, Lyons, Loring,‡ and Beaumont. Nearly all

*Ducange says the use of surnames in France began about the year 987 when the barons adopted the practice of designating themselves by their estates.

† Archæologia, Vol. XVIII., p. 108.

‡ The name of Loring, though not found in the Roll of Battel Abbey, by Fox, is found in Leland's copy of the Roll, to which Lower, in his Essays on English Surnames, says, "The preference ought unquestionably to be conceded." The name Loring is derived from Lorraine, a province in France.

the towns, villages and hamlets, also, in England and Scotland, have given names to families, as Murray, Clifford, Stafford, Gordon, Douglass, Heydon, Berkeley, Leigh, Hastings, Hamleton, Booths, Clinton, Cotton, Hume, Stanhope, Sydenham, Arlington, Whitney, Wentworth, Fanshaw, Carié, Hartshorne, Gifford, Bassett, Howard, Talbot, Lovell, Tirell, Blunt, and Bissett. Most of the families in Cornwall have names, a constituent part of which is contained in the following distich:

"By Tre, Ros, Pol, Lan, Caer and Pen,*
You may know the most Cornish men."

All names, which in England had Of set before them, which in Cheshire and the North was contracted into A, as Thomas a Dutton, John a Standish, Adam a Kirby, or which in Latin had De prefixed, were derived from places. The same may be said to a considerable extent, of those names which had Le before them. Under the head of local names may be placed also such as Hill, Wood, Field, Pool, Pond.

Next to local names or those derived from places, the most numerous are those derived from trades or professions, as Archer, Brewer, Brazier, Baker, Carpenter, Goldsmith, Cutter, Fisher, Taylor, Potter, Smith, Saddler, Painter, Webster, Wheeler, Wright, Wheelwright, Mason, Gardner, Turner.

Some names have been assumed from office, as Chamberlain, Cooke, Marshall, Sergeant, Foster, Fowler, Page, Butler, Clarke, Proctor, Abbot, Bishop, Priest, Dean.

Names have been taken from titles of honor, dignity, or estate, as King, Prince, Lord, Baron, Knight, Squire.

Names also have been derived from bodily or mental qualities, as Goodman, Wise, Proud, Strong, Armstrong, Long, Low, Short, Little.

Periods of life have given rise to names, as Old, Young, Child, Baby.

Some names have been derived from parts of the body, as Head, Whitehead, Legge, Foot, Arm, Heart; and others from the color of complexion or dress, as White, Black, Brown, Green; and others again from fruits and flowers, as Pear, Peach, Lilly, Rose.

Many names are derived from beasts, as Lamb, Lyon, Bear, Buck, Fox, Wolf, Hog, Roe, Badger, Hind, Hare; others from birds, as Dove, Lark, Nightingale, Swallow, Peacock, Sparrow, Swan, Woodcock, Crow, Wren, Parrott; and others from fishes, as Pike, Crab, Bass, Salmon, Haddock.

A considerable number of surnames have originated from christian names, as Francis, Leonard, Herbert, Giles, Lewis, Humphrey, James, Jacob, Daniel, Thomas, Anthony, Alexander.

The names of Corbet, Goodwin, Goodrich, Fabyan, Hervey, Howard, Osburn, Payne, Searle, Star, Swain, Wade, Warner,

*These words signify in order a town, a heath, a pool, a church, a castle, a promontory.

Hamlin, Talbot, and Maynard were formerly christian names, and in use about the time of William the Conqueror.

Many surnames are formed by the addition of son to a christian name, as Williamson, Robertson, Richardson, Johnson.

Nicknames or nursenames have, in process of time, become family names: as Bill, or Billy, for William; Dick, or Dickey, for Richard.

We might proceed to give other specimens of the origin of names; but our limits will not permit us to enlarge. A sufficient number has been presented to show that it is almost indefinitely various. It is computed that there are between twenty and thirty thousand surnames in England alone. Their origin, too, is often curious. Persons fond of the study of individual or family nomenclature will be entertained and instructed with the perusal of Camden's British Remains, Lower on English Surnames, Chambers' and Brande's Dictionaries, and the different Encyclopædias on this subject, to which we have been greatly indebted in preparing this piece.—New England Historical and Genealogical Register.

ORIGIN OF THE NAMES OF THE DAYS OF THE WEEK AND OF THE NAMES OF THE MONTHS

SUNDAY, the first day of the week, now generally termed Sabbath day, was called Sun's day, being a day anciently dedicated to the Sun.

MONDAY, a compound word of Moon and day; a day formerly sacred to that planet.

TUESDAY, is from Tuesdaeg, the name of a deity, that presided over combats and litigation; hence Tuesday is Court day, assize day, the day for combat or commencing litigation.

WEDNESDAY, anciently Wodin's day, from Wodin, a deity among the northern nations of Europe.

THURSDAY, from Thor's day; the day consecrated to Thor, the god of thunder.

FRIDAY, from Friga's day; a day consecrated to Friga, the Venus of the north.

SATURDAY, from Saturn's day; a day devoted to Saturn, one of the most ancient of the heathen gods; the reputed son of Cælus and Terra, (Heaven and Earth,) and father of Jupiter.

Instead of these names, the early settlers of New England used the words, first, second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh, to denote the several successive days of the week, and the like words, up to the twelfth, to designate the several months in the year; but, when writing, they more frequently made use of Arabic numerals, from 1 to 12, to designate the months; "because they would avoid all memory of heathenish and Idol's names."

At the foundation of Rome, about 750 years before the Christian era, the year consisted of ten months, and of them March was accounted the first month in the year. Two others, January and February, were subsequently added by Numa Pompilius; whereby the year consisted of twelve months, January being the eleventh and February the twelfth and last month in the year; the length of which was established by Julius Caesar, who appointed it to consist of 365 days and 6 hours; which 6 hours made one day in four years; and that day every fourth year, added to the number of days in February, makes that year to consist of 366 days, and is called leap year, on account of its leaping forward one day.

He also placed January at the Winter solstice, followed by February; whereby January became the first month, March, the third, and December the twelfth and last month in the year. This is called the Julian Calendar.

JANUARY is from the Latin, Januarius, so called from Janus, an ancient Italian King, who was deified after his death. A Temple, and in it a Statue, was erected in honor of him; the latter represented him with two faces, looking in opposite directions, upon the past and upon the future. January being the boundary month between successive years, the one face was towards the retiring, the other towards the coming year. Hence the expression "Janus-faced," now used as a term of reproach.

FEBRUARY is from the Latin, Februo, to purify by sacrifice, and thus signified the month of purification.

MARCH, from the Latin, Martius, Mars, the god of war.

APRIL, from the Latin, Aprilis, opening, open; because in this month all things are, as it were, opened and budded.

MAY, from the goddess Maia, wife of Jupiter and the mother of Mercury; to her sacrifices were offered on the first day of the month. At this late period flowers are sacrificed on that day, if not to her.

JUNE, from Juno, the queen of the goddesses, and patroness of marriage and wedded life.

JULY, from Julius, the surname of CAIUS CAESAR, the Dictator, who was born in this month. MARK ANTHONY first gave this month the name of July; previously it was called Quintilis, signifying the fifth month in the year according to the old Roman calendar.

AUGUST was so called in honor of the Emperor, OCTAVIUS AUGUSTUS, who entered upon his first consulate in this month; previous to which it was called Sextilis, six, the sixth month from March.

SEPTEMBER, from the Latin, septem, seven, the seventh month.

OCTOBER, from the Latin, octo, eight, the eighth month of the primitive Roman year.

NOVEMBER, from the Latin, novem, nine, the ninth month, and DECEMBER also from the Latin, decem, ten, the tenth and last month in the year of the early Romans.

OLD AND NEW STYLE

STYLE, in Chronology, is the method of computing time according to the Julian and Gregorian calendar. The former is called old, and the latter, new style.

The Julian calendar was found to be erroneous, as it contained more than eleven minutes in a year too much. This excess amounted to ten days in 1582; in which year Pope Gregory XIII., corrected that calendar, and, to bring the vernal equinox, which happened on the ninth of March in that year, to the twenty-first of that month in future years, and as it occurred in 325, directed that the year 1582 should consist of 365 days only, and that ten days be abated between the fourth and fifteenth of October in that year; and furthermore, to preserve future regularity in the seasons, he ordered that no year ending a century should be leap year, excepting each four hundredth year; whereby three days are abated in every four hundred years, three days being nearly equal to eleven minutes for every year in that period.

By each four hundredth year is meant the closing year of that number of centuries, that can be divided by 400 without a remainder. Such are leap years of 366 days; when there is a remainder, they are common years, or years of 365 days. Thus 1600, 2000, and 2400 are leap years, while 1700, 1800, and 1900, are common years; and all other years in a century, which can be divided by 4 without a remainder, are also leap years, as 1804, 1808, 1812, &c.

This calendar was soon adopted in most countries, but for a time rejected by our Protestant ancestors, on account of its pagan and popish origin.

At length, by an Act of Parliament, in 1751, it was adopted in England, and thereby extended to her colonies.

That Act provided for regulating the commencement of the year, abated eleven days of September, 1751, the third to be accounted the fourteenth, and the year to commence on the first day of January, 1752.

The difference between old and new style, was, previous to 1700, ten days only; but as that year contained only 365 days, by the Gregorian calendar, instead of 366, as by the Julian, it became, after 1700, eleven days, and another being lost by the omission of leap year in 1800, the difference now is twelve days.

Previous to 1752, two methods of commencing the year prevailed in England; the Ecclesiastical, as also the Legal year commenced on the twenty-fifth of March, and the Historical year on the first of January.

This two-fold practice of beginning the year led to double dating the year, between the first of January and the twenty-fifth of March; as, for instance, 10th of Feb., 1725-6. These figures denote, the 4 first, the Ecclesiastical and Legal year, beginning in March, while the fifth, or suffix 6, denotes the Historical year.

These months were frequently written in Arabic numbers, instead of being expressed by their names, and preceded by the number of the days in the month. This practice ceased in 1752, when the year for all purposes was made to begin on the first day of January.

DODGE FAMILY OF BEVERLY, MASS.

The Dodge family, of Beverly, has found a very able historian in Mr. Joseph T. Dodge, of Madison, Wis., who has published a genealogy of the family comprised in two volumes. We are indebted to Mr. Dodge for the matter contained in this appendix, which relates to the Dodge family in general, and we have also been kindly permitted by him to use the following account, which appears in his work.

In the course of the researches for the Dodge genealogy only two main branches of the Dodge family have been found, one descended from William or Richard, of Beverly, Mass., and the other from Tristram Dodge. No connection has yet been discovered between the two branches except the identity of some of the names.

At the time of the meeting of the Dodge Family at Salem, in 1879, it was supposed by the author of the call that all the Dodes in the United States were descended from either William or his brother Richard, but his later investigations led him to abandon that opinion and to consider himself and a large body of others as descended from Tristram Dodge.

Progress has also been made since the Salem meeting in learning the precise locality from which William and Richard emigrated. From papers left by the late Capt. Fred L. Dodge, and now in the possession of the New Eng. Historic. Genealogical Society at Boston, it appears that in 1881 an examination was made of the parish register of East Coker, Somersetshire Eng., with the result of finding the births of the children of Richard and of his brother, Michael, which will be shown later in a proper place. It was also learned that Richard Dodge in 1633 was duly admitted tenant, by entry-hold, of lands in Helyar manor, East Coker; that the manor of East Coker came into possession of a Devonshire family named Helyar, about 1616, and that said family still resided there; that Richard Dodge went to East Coker from St. Badeaux, Devonshire, about 4 miles from Plymouth, about the year 1616. Close examination of the parish register of East Coker did not show the name of William Dodge, brother of Richard.

In Vol. 44, p. 297 of the N. Eng. Hist. and Genealogic. Register for 1890, in Genealogical Gleanings in England, by Henry F. Waters, A.M., is found the following abstract of the will of "John Dodge of Middlechinnock, [Eng.] 2 April, 1635, proved 15 October, 1635. To be buried in church-yard there. To the church ten shillings. The same to the poor of the parish. To the minister for preaching funeral sermon, ten shillings. Wife Margery shall hold and enjoy one tenement in the parish of Halstocke, Co. Dorset, containing by estimation ten acres more or less, during her life natural if my sons Michael and William shall happen so long to live. To Wife Margery forty pounds and the bed that I now lie in and the bedstead and all things belonging thereunto. I give and bequeath unto her so much of my other household stuff as shall amount to four pounds, of such kinds as she shall think most needful and useful for her. Item. I give and bequeath unto my son William forty pounds more, over and above that portion which I have already given him. To my son Richard one sheep and to take his choice in my whole flock; and to John the son of the said Richard forty shillings. To Mary my daughter twenty shillings and to her son John forty shillings. And my will is that all these goods shall be delivered half a year after my decease.

Item. All the rest of my goods unmentioned I give and bequeath unto my son Michael whom I make and ordain the executor of this my last will and testament.

Witnesses, Geo. Parsons, clerk, William Dodge, William Templeman. (Sadler, 101.)

[Chinnock and Coker are neighboring parishes in the extreme south part of Somerset Co., and Halstock, Dorset Co., is just over the line south of the above parishes.]

If William Dodge, one of the above witnesses, was not William the emigrant, then his relationship is at present unknown. Tradition says William returned to England and was married.

From Hubbard's Narrative in Young's Chronicles of Massachusetts Bay, it appears that Rev. John White, of Dorchester, Dorsetshire, being grieved in 1626 at the failure of the first company, wrote to Mr. Roger Conant:

"Not" to desert the business, faithfully promising that if himself with three others, viz.: John Woodbury, John Balch and Peter Palfrey would stay at Naumkeag [Salem] and give timely notice thereof, he would provide a patent for them and likewise send them whatever they should write for, either men or provision, or goods wherewith to trade with the Indians." Answer was returned that they would all stay on those terms.

The delay in receiving returns was so great that the last three repented of their engagement and were on the point of going to Virginia with Mr. Lyford. Mr. Conant's sublime resolution to remain alone, finally prevailed with the others to remain with him. They then (1627) sent John Woodbury back to England "to procure necessaries for a plantation." Gov. Endicott was sent over in the summer of 1628, arriving in September and making the colony to consist of about 100, including the new comers. His prosperous journey, safe arrival and good report, caused a large increase, and the Massachusetts company in 1629 sent over about 300 more, "most servants." In the second general letter of instructions to Gov. Endicott and his council, dated London, 28 May, 1629, the secretary states that Mr. White [Rev. John] desired the following to be recommended to your care, viz.:

"That you would show all lawful favor and respect unto the planters that come over in the Lion's Whelp, out of the counties of Dorset and Somerset; that you would appoint unto William Dodge, a skilful and painful husbandman, the charge of a team of horses, to appoint Hugh Tilly and William Edes for servants to Sir Richard Saltonstall, to give approbation and furtherance to Francis Webb in setting up his saw-mill [Webb had subscribed £50, and was, therefore, one of the "adventurers"], and to take notice that all other persons sent over by Mr. White are servants of the company."

The Talbot, a vessel of 300 tons, and the "Lion's Whelp, a neat and nimble ship of 120 tons," having taken on their supplies while lying in the Thames left Gravesend, 25 April, 1629, and reached Yarmouth, on the Isle of Wight on the 8th of May. Rev. Francis Higginson, who was on the Talbot, kept a journal of the voyage, which has been preserved. According to his journal the Lion's Whelp had on board "over 40 planters specially from Dorchester and other places thereabouts," many mariners, 8 pieces of ordnance, provision and four goats. Both vessels sailed from Yarmouth May 11th, 1629, and arrived at Salem 29 June.

From the above we have the origin and arrival of the first of the name of Dodge in America.

William settled in that part now called Beverly, but, until 1668, a part of Salem and known as Bass River-side; being separated from Salem proper by the Bay. Tradition says that he was tall, with black hair and dark complexion, and that he returned to Lancashire (doubtful) where he married, and returned to Salem with his brothers Richard and John. Tradition is not distinguished for accuracy, and in this case it is possible that he returned to England to be married, but we find no trace of Richard in Salem till 1638, and the John of tradition is undoubtedly John the son of Richard, born in 1631, who, of course, came with his father.

William Dodge became "freeman" 17th April, 1637, and received a grant of 60 acres of land next to John Woodbury's, 3rd September, 1637. He bought for £40, 28th July, 1644, 200 acres, "late the property of Peter Palfry," near the head of Bass River, being a part of the Old Planters' tract, which, on the 25th January, 1635, the town of Salem granted to Peter Palfry, John Balch, William Trask, John Woodberry and Roger Conant, 200 acres each, the whole being 124 rods by about 1,290. These grantees were all settlers before Gov. Endicott's arrival, and hence were called Old Planters.

The fact that William Dodge came to Salem nine years earlier than Richard gave him more prominence in the community, but the same fact implies a greater degree of enterprise, if not ability, than was shown by the act of following where another had led the way. Hence, William has sometimes been called the father of all the Dodes. The records, however, indicate that the descendants of Richard Dodge are much more numerous than those of William, as might be expected, since the latter left but two sons while Richard left five.

Richard for a short time lived on land belonging to his brother. He was received as an inhabitant 29th October, 1638, was granted by the town of Salem, 12th November, 1638, ten acres of land, and 26th of November, 1638, the undivided half of eighty acres more, the other half being granted to his brother William. This last tract was on the east end of Conant's, John Woodberry's and John Bales's farms, whereof twelve acres were meadow. The 3d of December, 1641, the town granted to Richard forty acres more, making ninety in all. He was received into the church at Salem, 5th May, 1644. In 1667 he was one of the founders of the First Church, now of Beverly. Richard died in Beverly 15th June, 1671, leaving a will, by which it appears he left a brother Michael in England, and that Michael was to pay him £4 per annum for land which Richard either owned or had an interest in. The will of Richard, in connection with the will of his father, John Dodge, lately found in Somerset House, London, renders the origin of the Salem Dodes very certain. It is also shown by deeds recorded in Register's office of Essex County, vol. xi, p. 231 and vol. viii, p. 163, that William Dodge, senior, had a nephew William Dodge (Coker William, or William of Coker, son of Michael), to whom, by a deed dated 12th May, 1685, he gave "16 acres taken from my home farm next to the south end of Brimble Hill" (on which Beverly reservoir now stands). On the same date he also imposed upon his son, Capt. William Dodge, of Beverly, the duty of paying "to my brother, if he come to New England and dwell in this town Beverly, £5 per annum, so long as he shall dwell here." This refers unmistakably to a brother then in England, and probably to Michael, who was then no doubt his only brother, Richard having died in 1671. In 1692 Coker William still claimed that William Dodge, senior, had promised to give him ten acres of land, but William Dodge, senior, being dead, and the land being in the hands of his eldest son, known as Capt. John Dodge, the son honored the memory and good name of his father by giving the claimant five acres. This William Dodge, son of Michael, called also William secundus, in deeds, married Elizabeth, daughter of Roger Hascoll in Beverly, and is said to have had two sons and five daughters, among them a Mighill and a Margory. On the 20th February, 1696-7, he and his wife Elizabeth conveyed to Joseph Herrick, probably the son-in-law of Capt. William Dodge, "for £70-8s. in silver," one parcel of land in Beverly, containing five acres more or less, "with my dwelling house thereon," and another parcel in Beverly, containing ten acres more or less. After this conveyance, the name of William of Coker is not found in the records of Essex County.
