

THE FELTON FAMILY

Descendants of Nathaniel Felton who came to
Salem, Massachusetts

FOREWORD

This book is primarily an extension of the Felton Genealogies published in 1886 and in 1935 by Cyrus Felton and by William Reid Felton.

In order to establish a relationship with these earlier books, I have used essentially the same format. Space limitation has made it impossible to repeat all the family histories of the earlier generations. I have therefore condensed the first seven into merely names and numbers and have deleted some material from the eighth generation. Full biographical details about persons in these eight generations may be found in the 1935 edition of the genealogy.

Lest the book be just a record of vital statistics, I have included supplementary historical, biographical, and anecdotal material wherever I thought it would make interesting reading. This has all been impersonally gathered and is objectively presented.

Our family truly represents a cross section of American life over a period of three hundred and thirty years. If they serve no other purpose, my records may be of assistance to those who wish to carry on researches into the history of the Felton and allied families farther than I have done.

A WORD OF EXPLANATION

Whether or not one has a copy of the 1935 edition of the genealogy, a few words about the numbering system seem to be called for in order to make this book comprehensible, particularly in the early generations.

To make reference to the 1935 edition easy I have given, in parentheses, each person's number as it appears in that book. Since new numbers were needed for all born since 1935 (and a few whom research brought to light), I have renumbered throughout. The new numbers are those not in parentheses and they run in numerical succession straight through the book.

In the first seven generations, I have listed only males who married and had families. Each head of family will be found with, listed below his name, the names of his sons who married and are included in the next generation. This makes it possible for any member of the family to trace his ancestry back to Nathaniel First.

Beginning with the eighth generation, all children in each family are listed, with the plus sign being used to indicate the sons who married and are carried to the next generation.

Nathaniel First is of course the only one whose number is unchanged. He is the first generation. His sons, John and Nathaniel, are the second, and so on. (Nathaniel First also had six daughters but, as has been explained, only married sons are listed in the first seven generations.) Believing the first Nathaniel to be of singular interest, I will begin my book by quoting his history exactly as it appears in the earliest Felton Genealogy.

FIRST GENERATION

1 NATHANIEL FELTON, born about 1615, came from England to Salem, Massachusetts, in 1633 where he lived about 72 years. He married Mary Skelton, daughter of Rev. Samuel Skelton, the first minister of Salem. Mrs. Mary Felton died May 9, 1701, aged about 75 years. He died about four years afterwards, July 30, 1705, aged 90 years. His will, dated October, 1703, proved May, 1706 mentions sons, John and Nathaniel, daughters, Elizabeth a widow, Ruth and Hannah.

2 John, b. about 1645; m. in 1670

(1807) 466 KATHARINE CONWAY, daughter of John Brooks Felton (No.(1305) 319) and Kate (Baldwin) Felton, born at Oakland, California, July 7, 1873; graduated from the University of California at Berkeley with highest honors in 1895. She later received Honorary Doctor of Laws degrees from both the University of California and Mills College. Miss Felton became head of Associated Charities of San Francisco in 1901. She established the Childrens Agency, a branch of Associated Charities, in 1903, and served as its director until two days before her death.

We are indebted to Jean Burton whose book "Katharine Felton and Her Social Work in San Francisco" (published in 1947) tells the story of Miss Felton's long and distinguished career. To quote briefly from Miss Burton's book, Katharine Felton was for forty years an "extraordinary personal force in San Francisco and nationally, in the ranks of social workers, she was a recognized leader". Miss Felton fought against abuses in orphanages and for better laws regarding adoptions. She is said to have found homes for 30,000 children during her lifetime.

Miss Burton in her book gives Katharine Felton credit for drafting nearly all the early legislation in California relating to welfare and relief and for shaping in large part the child welfare program of the West.

Katharine Felton died August 14, 1940. On the day of her funeral the flag at the University of California hung at half mast, and the "San Francisco News" called her, "one of San Francisco's great citizens".

Page 165 - 6th line from bottom should read, "Mr. Felton was a member of the class of 1916 Harvard College."

Page 166 - 2nd line from top, sentence beginning "He is" should read, "He was a candidate for Board of Overseers of Harvard College."

In 1633 our common ancestor,
Nathaniel Felton, came to Salem,
Massachusetts.
In 1963 his descendants were living in all the cities and towns represented by dots on this map.
(An Index of Places will be found at the back of the book.)
