FOREWORD

I trace my line to the Mayflower through the Gorham families. While working out my lines I accumulated a great deal of Gorham data which I thought too valuable to lose. So I am assembling it here all together.

The material was collected from many sources, as libraries, cemeteries, old Bibles and an extensive correspondence. I am especially indebted to the late Mr. Frederick Wood, of Philadelphia, who has produced large and accurate blue-print charts of Gorham families, a copy of which may be found in the New England Historic Genealogical Library, Boston.

Many conflicting dates and statements will be found, all of which are given as I cannot prove which are correct. No doubt other errors will be found - they are to be found in all genealogies. I trust they will be corrected by the reader, whenever discovered.

Each person is given a number which is his, only. With each family is given the number of the head of that family, the number of his parents and children, which will make tracing of lines easier. When the name of a child is underscored, it means that he is carried forward into the next generation as the head of a family. Daughters are usually completed where their name first appears. They are carried for only one generation as they drop the name of Gorham at marriage and then belong in their husband's genealogy. Their children are given when known.

Usual abbreviations are used. "GR" means "Grave Records".

A complete Index will be found at the end of the volume.

The early French and English Histories of the de Gorram (Gorram, Gorham) families, as it has been written, is incomplete, but to this effect:

1. Ralph de Gorram, in the 11th century, lived at La Tanniere, near Gorram, in Maine, on the border of Brittany, in France. He had three sons:
2. William, born there during the period from 1078 to 1080.
3. Geoffrey, emigrated to England about the year 1100 and became Abbott of St. Albans in 1120.
4. Henry. Little is known of him.

WILLIAM de GORRAM, son of 1. Ralph de Gorram. Had:

5. Geoffrey.
6. Zahill.
7. Ralph.
8. Robert, Abbott of St. Albans from 1151 to 1156.

5.

GEOFFREY de GORRAM, son of 2. William de Gorram. Had:

9. Henry, who became Lord of Westwick.

HENRY de GORRAM, son of 5. Geoffrey de Gorram. Had:

Was Lord of Westwick.

10. Sir William, who d. about 1230.

10.

SIR WILLIAM de GORRAM, son of 9. Henry de Gorram.

21. Ralph, b. 1575. d. ca. 1643, at Plymouth, Mass.

18. James Gorham's descent is traced from the de Gorrams, of Le Tannere, near the village of Gorram, in Maine, on the border of Brittany as early as the beginning of the twelfth century. In 1158 Giles de Gorram led an expedition to the Holy Land and returned to La Tanniere in 1162. Several of the family followed William, the Conqueror, to England. The Gorhambury Manor, in Hertfordshire, was in the possession of the Gorham's from quite early in the twelfth century to 1307 when John and his wife, Isabelle sold the ~~reversion~~ reversion of the estate after their death and thus it passed from the family. In 1338, a William de Gorham was living in Oundle, a place near Bennofield.

21.

RALPH GORHAM, son of 18. James Gorham & Agnes Berrington.

B. 1575, Bennofield, England. He came to America before Oct. 2, 1637, when he was granted land in Plymouth Colony. His name appears in Court Records June 4, 1639. Probably settled in Duxbury in 1637.

D. ca. 1643, at Plymouth, Mass., age 68. No grave stone found. (He may have returned to England and d. there. He left no widow.)

The very earliest history of the Gorham families of which there is authentic traces to its origin in France.

In the beginning of the twelfth century, the de Gorrons were living in Brittany, an old French province in the western peninsula. The earliest of their old castles, the Chateau de Gorron, was situated on the river Futage at the village la Tarniere seven miles from the little town of Gorron, first called Gorram, and twenty miles from the city of Mayenne. It was ~~by~~ granted by Geoffrey Plantagenet to Juval II, Lord of Mayenne in 1155. In recent years a modern church has been built on the site once occupied by the old chateau. It is thought most probable that the family took its name from the old town of Gorron. Gorron is a quaint little farming village in the province of Maine, France, nine miles from a railroad and twelve miles from Mayenne.

Another old Chateau de Gorron is located here. It was built in 1199 and stands a picturesque mass of ruins, close to the White Pigeon Hotel. From its shattered remains, one clearly distinguishes its outline although houses and shops are built close up to its old walls. A road and a little stream winds through its old grounds from which glimpses of an old corner tower may be seen. The old tower is topped by a modern roof and contains an ancient fireplace. Fragments of another corner remain, only a rough ivy covered wall.

We do not know when succeeding generations ^{begin to write} the name as we do today, but after the lapse of years mention is made of the Gorhams. Some of these early Gorhams of France were Crusaders. There is record of one Giles de Gorham, son of William, who took the Cross from the hands of William, Bishop of Mans, in company ~~of~~ with Geoffrey, son of Juval II, Lord of Mayenne, with 108 knights in the church of St. Mary, of Mayenne, A.D. 1158. Only 38 of ~~this~~ noble company returned from the Holy Land, Nov. 7, 1162, others having died for the Faith in Sinai. In this latter year, 1162, he made grants, ~~to~~ probably as a pious acknowledgment of preservation from the Infidels, to Savingy Abby, of lands in the Tarniere. (A facsimile of his Seal representing a Knight in armour, is given by Rev. George C. Gorham, is in his notes Vol. V.)

It is thought certain that some of the family followed William, the Conqueror, to England, for at the time of the Domesday Survey, William, son of Gorham, was a tenant of lands in Cippenhall, near Fressingfield, Suffolk, England, held by Hervey, of Borgeau, France.

Again, Geoffrey de Gorham was descended from a noble family of Caen, Normandy, France. He was 16th Abbot of St. Albans, Hertfordshire, England, being elected in 1119. He built the first Manor House in Gorhambury Park, England. His tomb is in St. Albans Cathedral."

Later we find "John de Gorham, the last of the Hertfordshire family of that name who possessed the Manor of Gorhambury. They sold their reversion in 1307, after the death of the survivor of either."

Gorhambury continued with the Abbey of St. Albans until the dissolution. It was granted by Henry VIII to Ralph Rowlett, esquire, who sold it to Sir Nicholas Bacon, father of Lord Bacon. In "Six Thousand years of History," Vol. I, p. 225, mention is made of Gorhambury as the home of Lord Bacon's wife at the time of his death. Gorhambury Manor is in the midst of a beautiful park and contains a good collection of portraits.

There is another Manor House in England, Churchfield Manor. It was owned by William de Gorham who was living in 1338. Churchfield is in the Parish of Oundle, Northamptonshire, England. Oundle is very near Bennefield, from which place John Gorham emigrated to Plymouth 1689? (1635)

From an old record handed down from the Mass. Gorhams, we find that Geoffrey de Gorham, son of Ralph, came to England about 1100 and was Abbot of St. Albans in 1120. He had two brothers, William and Henry. William was father of Robert, Abbot of St. Albans in 1151/56, and of John, Ralph and Geoffrey.

Geoffrey was father of Sir William I who was father of Sir William II by his wife Cecile de Lanford, governess of Princess Joanna, sister of King Henry III. Sir William II was father of Sir Hugh, who was b. about 1250 and died in 1325. He was Lord of Churchfield in Northamptonshire and father of William III, Nicholas and Thomas, by his wife Margery, daughter of Sir William d'Anjou, who died in 1331. William III inherited Churchfield which he sold in 1332. His family fell into obscurity but appears again in the Gorhams of Gasthorn and Burnfield, both within a mile of Churchfield. John Gorham, of Gasthorn, who died about ~~1538~~ 1588, was, by his first wife, Eliza, father of James and ~~John~~ John. James was born in 1550. By his wife, Agnes Barrington (Bernham) whom he married in 1572. He was father of Ralph, born in 1575. Ralph was father of John, who was Capt. John Gorham and married Desire Howland by whom he was father of James Gorham, born in 1650 and married Hannah Huckins and had James Gorham, Jr. who was born in 1676 and married Mary Joyce. They had Capt. Isaac Gorham, born in 1715, who married Mary Cobb and had Col. James Gorham, born Aug. 4, 1745, who came to North Carolina prior to the Revolution.

Sir Hugh de Gorham was Templar under Richard III, of England. His Crest was a sword in pole, supporting on the point a garland of laurels proper. Another crest is a griffins head between two wings, all on motto, Ready and Faithful. The Coat of Arms; Gules, three Shachbolts conjoined in the fesse point or, Motto; Ready and Faithful.

The first authentic record of which we know begins with James Gorham of Bennfield, England. He married Agnes Bernham (Barrington) and lived between the years 1556-1570 at Bennfield, England. His son, Ralph Gorham also lived at Bennfield during the period 1575 and 1639. He married here and had John Gorham.

The history of the family in America really begins with the landing of the Pilgrims, Dec. 21, 1620. Among the passengers were those who were destined to become the ancestors of all the Gorhams of this country: namely John Tilley, his daughter Elizabeth Tilley and John Howland.

John Tilley married first Elizabeth Carver, (?) daughter of Governor Carver, in England. and to them was born Elizabeth Tilley, in 1607. Elizabeth Carver Tilley died in England before 1615, for the old Huchford Bible gives records of John Tilley's marriage to Bridget Van de Velde during the year. John Tilley with his family were passengers on the Mayflower. He is given as a signer of the Compact.

Elizabeth Tilley, daughter of John Tilley and Elizabeth Carver (?) became the grandmother of the early Gorhams of Mass. who were famous for their brilliant military achievements, courage and strength of character. She was only 13 years old when she set foot upon the bleak New England coast at Plymouth, but no doubt, after the hardships of the voyage she was grateful for the successful ending and with her companions, welcomed the sight of land. However, there must have mingled a touch of sadness with the joy of beginning life in a new country, for Elizabeth left her own mother sleeping under the sod of England and before the lapse of a year's time, John Tilley and his wife Bridget Van de Velde (?) had succumbed to the hardships of the Colony, leaving Elizabeth to the care of her grand father, Governor Carver.

We know little of the life of Elizabeth Tilley in the Colony, but we have the indubitable evidence and the clear affirmation of Governor ^{Duxbury} as to her parentage. There must have been days of sadness and homesickness for this little orphan girl. Mention is made of Desire Minter who helped to cheer the long days of hardship and loneliness.

Perhaps it may have been during this period that she formed the friendship of John Howland. The old Huchford Bible confirms their marriage on Aug. 1, 1623. To them were born nine children. As given in the History of Duxbury they were Jacob, John, Jr., Isaac, Joseph, Desire, Hope, Elizabeth, Lydia and Ruth.

John Howland came into possession of his property at Island Creek Pond and two other small islands in Cobscook Harbor and with possession came the thought that his time should be given to the management of his property, so for a time he went to live at Duxbury, Mass. Before 1635 he moved to Rocky Hook, Kingston, Mass. where he died Dec. 22, 1672. Elizabeth Tilley Howland died Dec. 21, 1687.

John Howland was called a Godly man and an ancient follower of the ways of Christ. He was one of the first comers who proved a useful instrument in the place where he lived. Governor Bradford had implicit confidence in John Howland. He called him among ten "principal men for the third exploration", for Howland was of a military mind. Howland, with Jonathan Brewster was appointed to be joined with the Governor toward the charge of soldiers. Alden and John Howland were men of similar tastes in many respects, in others vastly different, yet they entered into all enterprises side by side. Plymouth records show that Howland was associated with Governor Bradford and six other men of the Colony in 1627 in a Compact made with London Merchants in regard to the relinquishment of claims upon certain conditions.

Of his children, Jabez married Bethiah Thatcher. He was Lieutenant under Church in the Indian War against Philip. It was interesting to note that Jabez, Jr. was a vestryman of St. Michael's Episcopal Church in 1724.

Isaac Howland lived in Plymouth. He was a distinguished officer in war, giving himself and his services at the command of his country.

Hope Howland married Elder John Chipman, of Barnstable. The descendants of this family are living broad lives, extending their influence to whatever promotes general interest and public welfare.

Lydia married John Brown, of Swansea.

Ruth married Thomas Cushmore, of Plymouth Nov. 7, 1664.

Desire married Capt. John Gorham in 1643. He came to Plymouth in 1639 with his father, Ralph Gorham. Another item of interest in the Howland family is that Joanna Howland, great grand daughter of John Howland, married Gildon White early in the last century. Buckingham, in his "Travels in America" refers to her house as a remarkable depository of Mayflower relics. Hannah White and Mary White, daughters of Joanna and Gildon White, great great grand daughters of Perigrine White, died unmarried, Hannah in 1843, Mary in 1839. Joanna White, their sister, married Pelham Winslow. It was at the house of these maiden sisters that Buckingham saw an ancient Coat of Arms. A long search found it in possession of Rev. T. Howland White, of Shelburne, N.S. In a letter dated June 1, 1885 he says: "It was left me by my venerable aunts, Mrs. Winslow, wife of Pelham Winslow and Miss Hannah White. The copy in my possession, is evidently a very ancient one and the tradition is that it was brought over soon after the arrival of the Pilgrims, if not in the Mayflower."

John Gorham, later Capt. John Gorham, son of Ralph Gorham, was baptized Jan. 28, 1620 in Bennetfield, Northamptonshire, England. On January 20, with his father, Ralph Gorham, who was son of James Gorham and Agnes Bornham, sailed from Gravesend, near London, England and arrived in Plymouth in 1639 on the "Philip", Capt. Richard Morgan in command. He is enlisted in the passenger list of the "Philip" as 18 1/2 years old. His father, Ralph Gorham, was born in Bennetfield, England and died in Mass. in 1643.

Capt. John Gorham and his wife, Desire Howland, lived in Plymouth until 1646 when they moved to Marshfield, Mass. Later, in 1652, they made their home at Yarmouth, adjoining Barnstable. He was owner of a grist mill and wharf, also, a tannery. He was Deputy to the Court and held various Town offices. His greatest service, however, was of a military nature in King Philip's War.

A letter from Capt. John Gorham to Governor Winslow in 1675 is recorded in the Mass. Archives. On Aug. 12, 1696, Lieut. Governor Stoughton, in his instructions to Maj. Church says: "You are to advise as you have occasion with Capt. John Gorham who accompanies you in this expedition and is to take your command in case of death". During the expedition, he was Capt. of one of the Military Companies. From exposure and fatigue incident to the expedition, he contracted fever and died in Swansea Feb. 5, 1675, leaving a widow and eleven children.

At Gorham, Maine, on the Town Monument, may be seen a quotation from the letter of Capt. John Gorham to Governor Winslow in which he offers "to serve God and his country as long as he had life and health" which he did.

He was a member of the Governor's Council of Nova Scotia in 1749. Was sent to England in 1749/50 to explain military affairs in the Colonies and advance claims for expenses in the late war. He died there in a few years and his wife married and settled in Gloucester.

Governor Shirley, in a letter to the Duke of Bedford, Oct. 3, 1749, says: "Captain Gorham's authority and usefulness in his Majesty's service, I cannot too much commend to your Grace".

The following letter copied from the Mass. Historical Society's Archives is one of several written by him to Sir, William Pepperall.

"In the camp,
May 7, 1745.

Honorable Sir:

I beg the party from the Grand Battery may be as private as possible in getting their boats ready and cannot be willing to proceed without Shaw to be my pilot. If he has not come by land, should chose to send a boat for him immediately and also the city may have as warm fire as can give them in different places until one o'clock or two, and then cessation until they hear us engaged. Hope to have all ready. Pray send Shaw.

Sir, your most obedient and humble servant,

John Gorham."

Col. Gorham and his wife, Elizabeth Allen, were presented at Court. She was a most accomplished woman.

There is in Stamford, Conn. a portrait, painted by Copley in 1762, of Elizabeth Gorham Rogers, daughter of Col. John Gorham and his wife, Elizabeth Allen. The original of this portrait was born in the old Gorham house, now standing in Barnstable, Mass., in 1739. This portrait is on exhibition at Copley Hall, Boston, among others of famous and beautiful women.

David, another son of Shubael Gorham, was also a soldier in the siege of Louisburg in 1745 and performed other military service. He was Registrar of Probate for many years, and attained rank of Colonel in the militia. His son, William Gorham, of Gorham, Maine, was prominent in the Revolution and afterward held office of Common Pleas.

Joseph, another son of Col. Shubael Gorham, was at Louisburg in 1749. He was Lieut. of Rangers under Cornwallis, being raised to Major in 1760 and to Lieut. Col. in 1771. In 1766 he became member of the Nova Scotia Council and for many years was Lieut. Governor of New Foundland. He had great influence with the MicMac Indians in Nova Scotia.

John, a son of Col. Shubael Gorham, had sons Joseph, Benjamin, etc. Benjamin married Mary Sturgis. Their son Sturgis Gorham had Mary Sturgis who married John Palfrey and had Hon. Gorham Palfrey.

James Gorham, oldest son of Capt. John Gorham and Desire Howland, was born at Marshfield, Mass. Apr. 29, 1650 and died in 1707. His wife was Hannah Luckins, of Barnstable, Mass. She was born Oct. 14, 1653, married James Gorham Feb. 24, 1673 and died Feb. 23, 1727. In 1703 James Gorham was the richest man in Barnstable.

James Gorham, Jr. son of James Gorham and Hannah Luckins, was born March 6, 1676 and died Sept. 7, 1713. He married Mary Joyce, of Yarmouth, Mass. Sept. 29, 1707. To them was born Capt. Isaac Gorham, baptized Apr. 17, 1715.

Capt. Isaac Gorham married first, Hannah Hallett; second, Mary Cobb, Sept. 2, 1715. She was daughter of Gresham Cobb. To them was born James Gorham, baptized Aug. 1, 1715, in Barnstable, Mass. Capt. Isaac Gorham died in Scotland when his son James was only 7 or 8 years old. Mary Cobb Gorham, his widow, married second, James Churchill, of Barnstable, who so endeared himself to his family that the name Churchill still persists in the Gorham families to this day. Capt. Isaac Gorham willed his home, which was built about 1700 at Barnstable, to his son, James Gorham. Later Col. James Gorham, of North Carolina, but his mother had a life interest in the property and lived to be very old. Col. James Gorham died in 1804, before the death of his mother.

Col. James Gorham married first, Mary Baker, of Mass. who died before he came to North Carolina. His second wife was Sarah Davis McClure, a widow, daughter of James Davis, of New Bern, North Carolina, in 1792. She was born at New Bern, Jan. 4, 1757 and died in Pitt County, North Carolina Aug. 15, 1820.

The following from Walter K. Watkins' "One Cape Cod Family" is interesting in connection with the old Gorham houses at Barnstable, Mass. "On Saturday, the Old Colony Commission appointed recently by Governor ~~W~~ Greenbalge under an act of the Legislature "To investigate certain spots of general historic interest within the counties of Bristol, Barnstable, Plymouth, Norfolk and Nantucket and collect such historical information in relation thereto as shall seem expedient" met at the Courthouse in Barnstable, to hear testimony of the claims of that locality. The Commission consists of Hon. William T. Emery, of Taunton, and L. Vernon Briggs, Esq. of Hanover."

"Of the spots for which claims will be advanced as to their historic interest perhaps the most interesting and important is the old Gorham homestead, in which were born and reared members of a noted Cape ~~Cod~~ Cod family whose descendants have become famous.

In the eastern part of the town of Barnstable, Mass. on the north side of the road and several houses west of the Yarmouth line, stands the old house formerly owned by the Gorham's, now owned by Mr. Gilmore. It is one of the most interesting relics of old times that vandalism, under cover of improvement, has permitted to remain interesting from its family associations, style of domestic architecture and interior finish. It is the oldest of four houses now standing which were built by the Gorhams. The structure which sheltered the birth of many of the characters in the early history of the Commonwealth and Nation is deemed a fitting spot to be marked, that future generations will have preserved to them the memory of active and principal participants in the turning points in the Nations history."

Col. Gorham and his wife are buried at Strawberry Hill, the old farm home on Tar River in Pitt County, North Carolina. All records point to a life of plenty and lavishness in the early days. This record would be incomplete without the mention of the faithfulness of the old slaves, many of whom attended the descendants in loyal devotion through several generations. It is a never ceasing regret that accurate record was not made of the vast store of family lore they handed down through the generations.

Col. Gorham was prominent during his life in North Carolina. He was Chairman of the Safety Committee of Pitt County in 1775, was on the Relief Committee to the city of Boston in 1775. He was also on the committee appointed by Congress for the purchase of fire-arms in 1775 and was appointed to the ~~Provincial~~ Provincial Congress at New Bern and at Hillsboro in 1775.

Congress appointed him Major in 1775 at New Bern. He served during the revolutionary war and attained the rank of Colonel. He was a member of the Great Congress at Halifax County, North Carolina, in 1776 and assisted in framing the Constitution and By-laws of the state. He was appointed by Congress to various other Colonial Committees. He served his State, County and country with honor and faithfulness. He served in the State Legislature in 1773, 1779, 1781 and 1782. He met and defeated Col. Tarleton at Ruffins Bridge.

His wife, Sarah Davis McClure was a daughter of James Davis, of New Bern, the pioneer printer and known as the father of printing in North Carolina. In New Bern, on the corner of East Front and Bevard Streets, near House River, where James Davis had his printing office, there is erected by the local chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, a granite boulder with a bronze tablet bearing the inscription:

Site of
first printing press in North Carolina established in 1749 by James Davis
born in Virginia in 1701, died in North Carolina in 1786
here he printed in 1751
the first issue of the paper

The First Book Printed in the Province
 Here he Printed the North Carolina Gazette
 Founded in 1751

The first Newspaper published in the Province
 For 33 years he served the State as Public Printer. He also served the state and town in many other offices, as Justice of the Peace, Sheriff, Member of the General Assembly, Commissioner of Public Safety, Second Provincial Congress of 1775, as Member of the Council of State in 1781 and as Judge of Courts for the District of New Bern in 1775. He died March 17, 1785. Pieces of type are still picked up from the lot where his office was located. It has taken 176 years for North Carolina to give Davis his rightful rank and to properly commemorate his bringing the first printing press to North Carolina.
