Preface

THE pride of ancestry—of those who went before us, who have through generations built up the character, the peculiarities and the distinguishing marks of the present generation—has a place in the hearts of nearly all men. To be a member of a family that has led in the beginning of great movements—the forming of great religious denominations—is cause for congratulation. Looking back on the history of the family of Haggards, from the time when Sir Andrew Ogard came from Denmark and settled in Bradenham, County of Norfolk, England, down to the present day, in the family we find there has been a succession of leaders in thought and action, and the world is better for their having lived.

The most noteworthy fact perhaps is that two of the foremost religious denominations in this country, the Baptists and Christians, were fostered by the Haggard family, which, as the record will show, had a great part in their development and growth.

In compiling this volume of the genealogy and history of the Nathaniel Haggard Family, we are deeply indebted to: the "Genealogy and History of the Haggards, 1433 to 1899," by David D. Haggard; "Quisenberry and Other Families" by Anderson Chenault Quisenberry; "Richard Gentry Family in America, 1676-1909"; Conkwright's "History of Baptist Churches in Kentucky"; records kept by Nannie Kate Haggard and Mollie Haggard Shepard; Family Bibles; and the painstaking research done by our friend, Betty R. Gauldin, and my daughter, Mary Ray Harrington.

—JENNIE HAGGARD RAY.
THE Haggards in England

THE Haggards of Bradenham claim descent from Sir Andrew Ogard (Haggard), Knight, of Bradenham Castle, County Norfolk, who settled in England and was naturalized, Henry VI. (1433). He was a scion of a most distinguished family in Denmark, where the name is still to be found. However this may be, the pedigree of the Haggards can be traced back to the Fifteenth century, about which time we find:

I. David Haggard of Ware (Herts), who was assessed at £10 for lands there (Subsidy Rolls, 14 and 15,) Henry VIII. (1522-23). His will was proved in 1534 (Comm. Essex and Herts), and left a son:

II. John Haggard of Ware, living 33, Henry VIII. (1541) and had:

III. John Haggard, a freeholder in Ware, County Herts, 1561. He left surviving, Elizabeth, his wife (will proved 10 March 1585), at his death in 1584, and six children:

1. John of Ware, church warden many years. Will dated July 8, 1617. Died August, 1617, buried on the 21st.
2. Edward, married in June, 1577, to Mercy Brown, and had four sons and four daughters. All died in infancy except the youngest daughter, Susan: married June 16, 1522, to Richard Pickering of Ware.
3. Thomas (see paragraph IV.)
4. Mabell.
5. Agnes, married 30 January, 1569, to Oliver Cross of Ware.
6. Ellen. married May 27, 1583, to Oliver Harvey of Ware.

IV. Thomas Haggard of Ware, baptised June 8, 1565, died July 22, 1655, aged 90 years. Married, 1603, Catherine ——; buried at Ware February 5, 1630. He left:
2. John, born 1606; died single person March, 1606: buried on the 9th.
3. John (see No. V.)
4. Elizabeth, born 1608; married November 24, 1630, Charles Worth of Ware, and had:
   1. Charles.
   2. Mary, born 1610; died single person May, 1660; buried June 3.

V. John Haggard of Ware, baptised February 14, 1613; married first October 18, 1637, Susan Brown, who died in January, 1641; buried on the 4th, and had:
1. Thomas (see No. VI.)
2. Susan, born 1640; died December, 1640; buried on the 19th.

John Haggard married secondly, 1667, Anna Butcher. He died in June, 1680; buried on the 9th. Had by her:
1. John, baptised October 28, 1668, and six daughters, all died in infancy.

VI. Thomas Haggard of Ware and Royston, baptised September 16, 1638; married 1659 Elizabeth, daughter of Joseph Aunger of Ware. She was buried April 18, 1697. He was buried February 11, 1685. They had the following children:
1. Thomas, born 1660; died February, 1661, buried 27th.
2. Thomas (2), living January 15, 1663.
3. John, buried 1664.
5. John (2) (see No. VII.)
7. Edward, baptised May 4, 1681, living April 28, 1708.
8. Elizabeth, born 1666; married December 10, 1684, Thomas Hulls of Ware, and was buried October 4, 1685.

VII. John Haggard of St. James, Clerkenwell, London, and Bromley, St. Leonards, County Middlesex, and later of Chesterford, County Essex, Department Lieutenant Tower Hamlets, 1740. Born 1671; married first March 29, 1693, to Elizabeth, daughter of Mark Stratton, of St. Botolph, Aldersgate, and had:

CHAPTER II.

The Haggards in America

We learn from the foregoing chapter that the Haggards of England all descended from the one head, to-wit: Sir Andrew Ogard (Haggard), who came to England from Denmark, and was naturalized (Henry VI., 1433), the records showing that to be true. Then we are without doubt of the same stock, for we are known to be of English origin.

The traditions of our fathers are that one James Haggard (the son of a wealthy aristocratic Lord of England), who had been educated for the ministry, left England about 1698 and came to America as a passenger on a merchant ship bound for Norfolk, Va.

When he landed he was yet under 21 years of age, but having a fine education, his first employment was teaching school. There was connected with this school a young woman whose charms so impressed him that they were afterwards married. As the result of this union several sons were born to them.

The above we give as it has been handed down to us, but, be that as it may, we find that in the early part of the 18th century there were four or more families of Haggards in the eastern part of Virginia, and they claim, and are generally understood, to have been sons of the school teacher above mentioned. Their names were:

Nathaniel, Edmund, Zachariah, and Gray (or Grandville).

DESCENDANTS OF NATHANIEL HAGGARD

The records show that Nathaniel Haggard was born November 21, 1723, and that he married Elizabeth Gentry.
a lady of English descent, and that they settled in Albemarle county, Virginia, near Charlottesville. They were members of the Baptist church. They raised a family of seven sons and three daughters, as follows:

Henry, born 1745: Baptist preacher.
Martin, born 1748: Baptist preacher.
Elizabeth, born 1752: married Ned Kindred, a Baptist preacher.
John, born 1754: farmer.
Mary, born 1757: married a Baptist preacher.
James, born 1759: Baptist preacher.
Jane, born 1761: married a Mr. Gentry.
Bartlett, born 1763: carpenter and farmer.
David, born 1763: carpenter and farmer.
Nathaniel, born 1765: farmer.

Bartlett and David were twins and so resembled each other that but few of the neighbors could distinguish one from the other. David was a private soldier in the Revolutionary War, and it is related of them that very often Bartlett would come to visit him in camp and they would quietly exchange clothing and David would go home to make a visit. Bartlett taking his place, and no one in his company or mess being the wiser. Later they married sisters.

In the year 1788 Nathaniel Haggard, with his family, removed to Clark county, Kentucky, and settled between Winchester and Boonsborough, then a wilderness.

He bought a fine tract of land two miles south of Winchester, which he improved and on which he and his wife, Elizabeth, lived the remainder of their days in the enjoyment of the society of their children who had settled near them.

He died August 21, 1820, at the ripe age of 82 years. His wife lived to the extreme age of 88 years and 11 months. They are buried in a lot on the Boonsborough pike, two miles from Winchester and seven miles from Boonsborough.

On this tract of land he built a house of hewn cherry logs with port-holes for defense in case of an attack from the Indians. They were numerous and troublesome at that time. This house is still standing on the land, which has been in possession of the male members of the family from pioneer days to the present time.

This part of Clark county had been settled only a few years before by a colony of Baptists from Culpepper and Orange counties of Virginia. so that when Mr. and Mrs. Haggard arrived at their destination they found already a Baptist church organization; and on the 14th day of June, 1788. Nathaniel and Elizabeth Haggard united with the Providence Baptist church, as shown by the church records, and today the oldest and most famous church south of Mason and Dixon's line is the Providence Baptist in Clark county, Kentucky. seven miles southwest of Winchester. It was organized at a different place from where the congregation now meets, and in those days a great distance away. Virginia was the church's birthplace.

The record commenced December 1, 1780, on Holston river in Virginia. This church started as an organized body from the counties of Orange and Culpepper, Virginia, their destination Boonsborough, Ky., with a membership on first calling of the roll at Holston of forty-five members, but in 1781, it, with the colony, moved to Kentucky, Daniel Boone being included among the congregation. It has in its history occupied three buildings—one of log, one of stone, and the present one, a modern frame.

This is the pioneer church organization in the state, and is a part of the very interesting unpublished history of Kentucky. The pastor of the church. Robert Elkins, held his position for forty years. The present clerk has filled his own place for forty-eight years.

As stated a log house was first built, but a few years later a solid stone structure was erected by the pioneer Baptists. This early day sanctuary has stood the test of time, the masonry showing not a crack today, having stood as firm as the church organization itself. The building is over 100 years old.
Near by this old church is the more modern and commodious house of worship built by the present congregation. No services are held in the old stone structure, but it stands a monument to the thoroughness and careful work of Kentucky's early Baptists.

1. HENRY HAGGARD, the oldest son of Nathaniel Haggard, was born in Albemarle county, Virginia, about 1744. At an early age he became a Baptist preacher and continued to preach until his death, at 90 years of age. Soon after the close of the Revolution he moved to East Tennessee with his family, and after a period of years emigrated to Alabama. To him were born five sons and one daughter: James, David, Henry, Joel and Noah.

   The daughter, Nancy, married a Thancher, and with the father and two of the brothers, Joel and Noah, moved to Alabama. One son, Rev. James Haggard, came to Kentucky in 1790 and settled in Fayette county, near Lexington. In 1821 he moved back to Sevier county, Tennessee, where he died in 1851. He raised six sons and several daughters, as follows: Martin, born in 1785; Atchley, Jackson, James, Noah H., and Porter.

   The daughters, so far as can be learned, are Lydia, Polyne, and Mary.

   Martin, oldest son of Rev. James Haggard, raised five sons and five daughters, as follows: Rev. James P., Zachariah, Clayburn, Pleas, and Martin. The daughters were Fannie, Mary, Elizabeth, Minerva, and Mariah. The sons of James P. Haggard are William, George, Elijah, Murphy, and Alexander. The daughters are Minerva, Elizabeth, and Millie.

   Atchley Haggard, son of Rev. James Haggard, and grandson of Henry Haggard, raised four sons. William M., James, Randall, and Jasper.

   William M. resides at Marysville, Blount county, Tenn. James, son of Atchley Haggard, died in 1878 and left one son, Noah, born 1862. P. O. address, Milican, Tenn.
James, fourth son of Rev. James Haggard, and grandson of Rev. Henry Haggard, moved to Jasper county, Missouri, about 1869 and died in 1890. At one time he was county judge. He leaves one son, James, P. O. address, Sarcoxie, Mo.

Rev. Noah H. Haggard, fifth son of Rev. James Haggard, is now living. His P. O. address is Blackoak, Sevier county, Tenn.

David Haggard, the second son of Rev. Henry Haggard, was born in Albemarle county, Virginia, about the year 1767. He married Millie Elkins. He came to Clark county, Kentucky, about 1790 and settled twelve miles southeast of Winchester. He was a man of energy, thrift, and influence; raised a family of ten children: Polly, Lucy, Sally, Ezekiel E., Zachariah E., John F., Robert E., Nancy, Julia, Noah G., David J., Melissa M., Elizabeth D.

Ezekiel E., oldest son of David Haggard, known as "Bald Davy," and grandson of Rev. Henry Haggard, was born in Clark county, Kentucky, 1798. When a young man he went to Bowling Green and was married to Malinda McAfee. They had one son and five daughters:

1. Lucy J. Haggard was married to Mr. Carter. They reside at New Market, Marion county, Kentucky.

2. Harriet Haggard was married to Mr. Haydon. They reside near Lebanon, Kentucky.

3. Booker Haggard was married to Rev. W. G. Inman, an eminent Baptist divine.

4. Julia Haggard was married to Mr. S. Wright. They reside in Kansas City, Missouri.

5. Melissa Haggard was married to Mr. Richardson. She is a widow and lives in Kansas City, Missouri.

William David Haggard was the only son of Ezekiel E. and Malinda Haggard. He was born at New Market, Marion county, Kentucky, October 17, 1826. He was educated at the academy at Lebanon, Kentucky. Early in life he evinced the rare energy and ambition of his parents, and cherished as his chief ambition that he should become a doctor. He was only eleven years of age when his father died, and devoted himself to the affairs of the farm until he had assisted his mother in freeing their property from encum-brane. He then taught school and afterwards became tax assessor of Marion county at the early age of nineteen. He continued these occupations until he had earned enough money to give him a medical education. He entered the office of Dr. Shuck at Lebanon to study medicine in 1847.
After the usual office reading for one year, he attended a course of lectures at the University of Louisville. He rode horseback to Philadelphia the year following to attend another session at the Jefferson Medical College, where he graduated with distinction in medicine in March, 1851.
He located in Gallatin, Tennessee, in May, 1851. He soon established a large practice. In 1859 he married Martha, the oldest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Elmore Douglass, who died in 1866. To them were born two daughters, the eldest dying in infancy.

Louise Douglass Haggard was born in Gallatin, May 4, 1860. She was very proficient in literature and quite gifted in elocution. She graduated from the Peabody Normal College in 1880. She married J. Y. Crawford, M.D., D.D.S., in 1885. Four children were born to them. The first, George, died in 1896 at the age of 9. The next was named for his father and was born in 1892. Two girls, twins, named respectively Jane Douglass and Mary Louise, are now two years of age. Mrs. Crawford enjoys the distinction of being one of the most accomplished and lovely women of Nashville.

Dr. Haggard moved to Davidson county, Tennessee, in 1864, and from there he moved to Nashville in 1875. In the first year of his residence in that city he became connceted as an instructor with the medical department of the University of Nashville and Vanderbilt University. In 1884 he was chosen to fill the chair of diseases of women and children in the medical department of the University of Tennessee. At the meeting of the American Medical Association at New Orleans in 1887 he was elected chairman of the section on diseases of children. At that time he was one of the attending surgeons at the city hospital, and later also became gynecologist to St. Margaret’s Hospital.
In 1889 he organized the Southern Surgical and Gynecological Association and was honored with its first presidency.
In 1892 he was elected as president of the Nashville Academy of Medicine and in 1893 he was one of the honorary presidents of the Pan-American Medical Congress. He has been a teacher of surgery for nearly a quarter of a century and has thousands of students throughout the South and West. In 1870 he married Jane Douglass, a daughter of Mr.
and Mrs. Robt. B. Douglass. They had two children, William David, Jr., born in 1872, and Douglass, born in 1876.

William David Haggard, Jr., was educated in the city schools of Nashville, completing his education at the University of Tennessee at Knoxville, where he won dis­ distinction in literature and oratory. He took up the study of medicine in the medical department of the University of Nashville, taking an intermediate course in the Kentucky School of Medicine at Louisville. He graduated in the former institution in 1893, receiving the first honor in a class of 113 men. He served as interne in the Nashville City Hospital for one year, then going to New York where he received the appointment by competitive examination to the Womans' Hospital. He was house surgeon at that hospital for two years under the most distinguished surgeon of the day. Upon his return to Nashville he was offered an associate professorship in gynecology in the University of Tennessee, thus becoming the youngest professor of surgery in this country. He was made secretary of the Medical Society of the State of Tennessee, and there given a professorship in abdominal surgery at the University of the South at Sewanee. At the Denver meeting of the American Medical Association in 1897, he was elected secretary of the section on obstetrics and diseases of women of the American Medical Association. He has been offered the authorship of a work on Surgical Gynecology by one of the largest publishing firms, an honor only rarely bestowed after years of labor. He is now associated with his father in the conduct of a private surgical hospital. On January 18, 1899, he was married to Miss Mary Laura Champe, one of the most gifted and brilliant young women of the South.

Douglass Haggard was born in Nashville March 3, 1876. He received a high school education and also studied at the University of Nashville. His medical course was taken in the college in which his father was a professor. He received one of the honors of the class of 1898, having studied also at the University of the South the year preceding. Dr. Haggard is now finishing his course of study in the Presbyterian Hospital in New York City, being on the staff of the pathological laboratory.

Zachariah Haggard, second son of "Bald Davy," was born 1801 in Clark county, Kentucky, and was Colonel of Kentucky militia in his younger days. Was also a representative in the Legislature of Kentucky from Clark county in the winter of 1838-39. He was also a representative member of the Baptist church. Married Zilpa Hodge. They had Charles, Alvin B., Christopher Columbus, Adeline, Malissa, Elizabeth, James, Harvey, Jane, Marinda, William J., John, and Louisa.

We have no history of this family except Alvin B. Haggard. He was born in Clark county, Kentucky, October 18, 1830. Married Crotia A. Stevenson, second daughter of an old Kentucky family, February 27, 1868. Of this union there were four children born:

William Rupert, born December 18, 1868.
Cinnie Belle, born February 13, 1870.
Beverly Price, born March 17, 1873.
Mary Zilpah, born March 20, 1876.

William R. died in infancy. The other children still live to honor a venerable mother and revere the memory.
of a noble father. Alvin B. Haggard and family came to Hallsville, Missouri, many years since. He died October 14, 1890. The family now live at Columbia, Missouri.

Robert E. Haggard, son of "Bald Davy," was born in Clark county, Kentucky, September 28, 1805, and obtained the title of Major under the old State militia laws in his early days. He married Rosaline Edmundson and removed to Scott county, Illinois, in 1840 and settled near Winchester. They had nine daughters, but no sons.

He was a prominent and active man, and highly respected, holding many positions of trust. He enlisted in the fall of 1861 and was Captain of Company F, 61st Ill. volunteer regiment, and was wounded and taken prisoner at the battle of Shiloh in April, 1862, and was in prison at Selma, Alabama, for about six months. When he was exchanged, as his wounds totally disabled him, he was not any more in active service. He died on the 19th of October, 1885.

David J. Haggard, son of "Bald Davy," was born in Clark county, Kentucky, October 11, 1815. He married Sarah A. Edmundson, of same county. They removed to Scott county, Illinois, in 1840 and settled near Winchester, and after many years removed with their families to Saline county, Nebraska, where he spent the remaining years of life. He died November 29, 1886. His wife, Mrs. Sarah A. Haggard, died January 12, 1897. They had three sons and one daughter.

James R., the oldest son of David J., was born in Clark county, Kentucky, October 29, 1839. He obtained a liberal education and served as county superintendent of public schools of Scott county. He chose, however, the medical profession and graduated from the Medical College of Chicago with high honors. The first fifteen years of his medical practice was in DuPage county, Illinois.

In 1883 he removed to Lincoln, Nebraska, his present home, where he has practiced his profession with great success. He was married to Fanny H. Avery. They have four children, three sons and one daughter. P. O., Lincoln, Nebraska:

Laura A., born November 1, 1868, in Scott county, Illinois.

Corwin R. Haggard, the second son, was born in DuPage county, Illinois, June 23, 1874, and was married on January 12, 1897, to Althea Brooks Roberts, daughter of Cornelius Roberts and Elizabeth Brooks. She was born November 2, 1873.

Ralph Waldo Haggard, third son, was born August 23, 1876 in DuPage county, Illinois. P. O., Lincoln, Nebraska.

Zachariah W. Haggard, second son of David J. Haggard, was born in Scott county, Illinois, September 15, 1846. P. O. address, Western, Nebraska.

George T. Haggard, third son of David J. Haggard, born November 28, 1849, in Scott county, Illinois. P. O. Western, Nebraska. They have one daughter, Myrtle, born September 22, 1883.

Sallie E. Haggard Shaw, only daughter of David J. Haggard, was born November 28, 1841. P. O. Western, Nebraska.

2. REV. MARTIN HAGGARD, second son of Nathaniel Haggard, was born in Albemarle county, Virginia, 1748. In early life he united with the Baptist church, and at the age of 20 years began to preach, and was regarded as a man of much promise.

He, with five others on horseback, started West on a preaching tour in East Tennessee and Kentucky, stopping in the different settlements and holding meetings. In passing through the mountain wilderness they were fired upon by either Indians or robbers and he, with two others, was killed.

3. JOHN HAGGARD, third son of Nathaniel and Elizabeth Haggard, was born in Albemarle county, Virginia, in 1754. Was married to Mary Sheppard, and in the last decade of the eighteenth century, moved with his family to Clark county, Kentucky, and settled about eight miles south of Winchester. They raised a family of four sons: Pleasant, Martin, John, and David T. They also had four daughters: Polly, Elizabeth, Sally, and Nancy.

Pleasant married a Watts; Martin married Sally Hampton; John married a Quisenberry; and David T. married Patsy Adams.

Polly married Miner Winn; Elizabeth married Joel Quisenberry; Sally married Jesse Hampton; and Nancy married David Reed.

Rodney Haggard, grandson of David T., Judge of the Clark County Court, son of Augustine L. and Lou Ann Mullins Haggard, was born in Clark county, Kentucky, October 3, 1844, and educated in the common schools of the county and in the high school at Winchester.

At the age of seventeen he began teaching. When the war between the states broke out he dismissed his school and joined the Buckner Guards, in Kirby Smith's command. He was a recruiting officer and raised a company, of which his uncle, Gordon C. Mullins, was elected captain, and himself lieutenant. This was the first company raised for Chenault's regiment of John H. Morgan's command, and Judge Haggard was with this command until Gen. Morgan was captured in the Ohio raid, at which time he was in command of the remnant of the regiment, all his superior officers having been killed, wounded, or captured. He was then a prisoner on Johnson's Island until the close of the war. During his active service in the army he took part in a number of engagements, among which were the battles of Richmond, Kentucky; Hartsville, Tennessee; Green River Bridge, Mills' Spring, West Liberty, Lebanon, and a number of fights in Indiana and Ohio, and in fact in all of the battles in which Morgan's command was engaged during his service with it, and was a gallant soldier.
After the war, not being 21 years of age, he resumed his work, studying and teaching school alternately until August, 1866, when he was elected sheriff of Clark county. This was the first regular election after the war, and the first at which he ever voted. He was the youngest man who ever held that office in the state of Kentucky, and the first to settle his accounts with the auditor each year. In 1870 he was re-elected, and began the study of law under Chief Justice James Sympton, of Winchester, and obtained license to practice his profession from the judge of the court of appeals; subsequently graduating from the Louisville law school, was admitted to the bar in March, 1873, and has ever since his admission to the bar enjoyed a lucrative practice, being engaged upon one side or the other of all important cases in the county. In 1880 he was elected without opposition to the state senate from a district composed of Clark, Bourbon, and Montgomery counties, and served as senator for four years; made a splendid record as legislator, having introduced the act creating the state board of equalization, the act equalizing and extending exemptions, to require county attorneys to assist commonwealth attorneys in prosecutions in circuit courts, and many other important measures, all of which still remain upon the statutes. He was elected county judge of the Clark County Court in 1893 to fill an unexpired term, and in 1894 was re-elected for the full term, and is now serving in that capacity. He has been the attorney for the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad Company for fifteen years, and attorney for the Kentucky Central Division of the Louisville & Nashville railroad for twelve years. He is an able judge and an upright, trustworthy citizen, in whom the community places unbounded confidence. His natural qualities of sturdy, reliable manhood are enforced by the strong prestige of an honorable and honored ancestry. He has always been an active, unflinching Democrat, and his election has always been as the nominee of that party. He is a public speaker of much ability and his time and means have been freely given in the interest of his party.

He was married in February, 1868, to Mary E. Baldwin, of Clark county, daughter of Lieut. W. W. Baldwin, who was killed on the Confederate side in the disastrous fight at Green River Bridge, July 4, 1863. Her mother was Mary A. Eades Baldwin. They have seven living children: Leland, Frank Hunt, Annie Mildred, wife of J. W. McFarlin; Mary Rodney, John Henry, Rodney, and Benjamin Wheeler.

His father, Augustine Lewis Haggard, son of David T. Haggard, of Albemarle county, Virginia, and Patsy Adams Haggard, of Clark county, Kentucky, but originally from Virginia, was born in Clark county, June 3, 1820, and was educated in the common schools of that county.

He held successively the offices of justice of the peace, Judge of the County Court, clerk of the Clark Circuit Court, and master commissioner of the Clark Court of Common Pleas. He took a great interest in public affairs and was an active Whig until that party was merged into the Republican party, when he became a Democrat. He was a man of strong native ability and a philanthropist whose active benevolence was the outcome of religious principle, consequently he was very prominent in church work and his judgment much depended upon in church affairs, as well as in political circles. He divided his time between Winchester and his country home until he died, December 19, 1895, at his home six miles from Winchester. He is buried at Mt. Olive Cemetery, on the Muddy Creek Turnpike Road, where three generations of the family are resting: himself and wife, his father and mother, grandfather and grandmother lie buried side by side.

All of his ancestors have been Christian people, and, like himself, members of the Baptist church, and are of English and Scotch blood. Judge Haggard is now in the prime of life, full of mental and physical vigor, and has the promise of a bright future before him.

4. REV. JAMES HAGGARD, fourth son of Nathaniel, was born in Albemarle county, Virginia, in 1759. He also united with the Baptist church when quite young and was licensed to preach. He was a man of splendid physique, being full six feet high and commanding appearance. He married Betsy Gentry and moved to Clark county, Kentucky, in 1790. Was received into the Providence Baptist church January 5, 1791, and was ordained preacher and elder.

He resided not far from Winchester on a farm and gave part of his time preaching in the new settlements then being made by immigration. He raised a family of three sons, Nathaniel, Dabney, Harmon, and one daughter, Polly, who became the second wife of Archibald Steel.

About the year 1816, Rev. James Haggard with his family, removed to Christian county, Kentucky, and settled five miles west of Hopkinsville, on the east side of the sinking fork of Little River, and, as was his custom, preached at private houses until 1819, when, with the assistance of Dawson Haggard, the West Union Baptist church was organized with twelve members, as follows:

James Haggard and wife, Betsy; Dawson Haggard and wife, Charity; Archie Steele and wife, Betsy, who was a Haggard; John S. Lander and wife, Elizabeth, also a Haggard; John Routt and Martha Routt, also a Haggard; Harmon Haggard (son of James) and his sister, Polly Haggard. The entire membership was composed of Haggards and the husbands and wives of Haggards.

Rev. James Haggard was pastor and Dawson Haggard was chosen deacon. Great revivals followed and large numbers were added to the church, amongst whom were Samuel Lander and wife, Sally Haggard.

During the year 1828, Rev. James Haggard, with his son, Harmon Haggard, and family removed to Sangamon county, Illinois, and settled on a farm three miles west of Springfield, where he spent the remaining years of his life, a man greatly beloved by all who knew him. After preaching Harmon Haggard, third son of Rev. James Haggard, was born in Clark county, Kentucky, July 13, 1790. He came to Christian county, Kentucky, with his father, and on November 5, 1822, he married Sally Bartlett Steel, daughter of Archy and Betsy Steel.

Sally B. Steel was born May 26, 1804.

Harmon Haggard and wife moved to Sangamon county, Illinois, in 1828 and settled on a farm three miles west of Springfield, where they had born to them ten children. Only three of the ten are now living.

Harmon Haggard died August 28, 1874, aged 84 years. His wife, Sally B. Haggard, died September 3, 1852, aged 48 years. Of the children now living are:

1. Zerelda Haggard, born April 12, 1828. She married William D. Hazlett. They have —— children. P. O. address is Bradfordton, Illinois.

2. Martin Haggard, son of Harmon Haggard, was born January 2, 1836. He is married and lives in Labette county, Kansas, Montana P. O.

3. Sally Haggard, daughter of Harmon Haggard, was born March 14, 1841. She married Mr. Robinson. Their P. O. address is Colorado Springs, Colorado. Bristol School.

4. Harmon Haggard, Jr., was born May 12, 1846, and died December 19, 1891. The remainder of the children died in infancy or early youth. Robert Haggard lived to years of maturity; date of death we have not obtained.

5. Bartlett Haggard, sixth son of Nathaniel and Elizabeth Haggard, was born in Albemarle county, Virginia, in 1763. He married Martha Dawson, daughter of Rev. Martin Dawson, an eminent Baptist divine, and a sister to the wife of his twin brother, David. He died in 1844, aged eighty-one years.

In 1788 they moved to Clark county, Kentucky, and settled near Winchester. They had two sons and seven daughters.
Martin, the oldest son, married Elizabeth Kane. They had seven sons and seven daughters. We have no record of any of the daughters. The sons are as follows: Bartlett Denison, Allen Dawson, David, Henry, Martin, John, and James.

Bartlett Denison Haggard married Harriet Arnold. They had two sons and two daughters: the sons were Martin and James. We have no further records of that family.

Allen D. Haggard, second son of Bartlett and Martha Haggard, was born near Winchester, Kentucky. He married Frances, a daughter of Pleasant Haggard, a distant relative.

They had four sons and one daughter, as follows: Bartlett Sheppard, George, James A., and Enoch.

George had four daughters and two sons, as follows: Mary, Elizabeth, Emma, Minnie, Albert, and Bush. (Great grandfather of Bro. Andrew I. Bush, second wife living in Oak Cliff, Dallas, Dallas county, Texas, May 1, 1918.)

James, second son of Allen D. Haggard, had three sons and six daughters, as follows: Bartlett S., Leland, Wheeler L., Anna M., Rachel B., Nettie M., Lou S., Fannie S., and Robie T.

Enoch, fourth son of Allen D. Haggard, resides in Texas. He has five sons and three daughters as follows: Colby, Clifton, Walter, Pinkney, Aquilla, Jennie, Laura, and Pearl.

6. David Haggard, fifth son of Nathaniel and Elizabeth Haggard, was born in Albemarle county, Virginia, in 1763. He enlisted at the age of sixteen years in the Revolutionary army, and was in the service and on duty at Yorktown at the surrender of Lord Cornwallis to General Washington.

In his early life he followed the carpenter's trade, and as he lived near President Thomas Jefferson, he was often employed to make additions or changes in his mansion at Monticello. Mr. Jefferson having been sent on a mission to France by this government, he fell in with some of their styles of architecture. On his return home he determined to make some radical changes in his mansion to conform to the French styles. One of the changes consisted in putting in new front windows extending down to the floor, which he filled with large panes of French plate glass that he brought from Paris. Mr. Jefferson was very fond of the chase and for that purpose kept a fine pack of hounds. While Mr. Haggard was working upon the house an incident occurred that calls to mind the fact that Mr. Jefferson had a brother living with him who was simple, or weak minded, which fact I believe is not generally known nor is it anywhere recorded in history. This simple brother remonstrated against the long windows and finally said: "Why, Tom, the dogs will run right through them."

Not long afterwards Mr. Jefferson's overseer came in from another farm followed by his dog, who took up his position on the veranda while his master sat in the front room talking with Mr. Jefferson. Pretty soon the hounds got scent of the strange dog and gave chase. In order to keep out of their way he ran around the house with the whole pack after him, and when several circuits had been made he espied his master sitting in the room and made a lunge through the glass with the hounds following close at his heels.

In 1779 David Haggard married Miss Nancy Dawson, a daughter of Rev. Martin Dawson, a noted Baptist divine. In 1792 they removed to Clark county, Kentucky, where they raised a family of two sons and eight daughters.

In 1823 they removed to Trigg county, near the Cerelean Springs, and about twelve miles west of Hopkinsville, and in 1836 to Bloomington, Ill., where he died at the age of 80 years.

He was an unusually active and energetic man and of high moral standing. He was a constituent member and active agent in organizing the first Baptist church of Bloomington, Ill.
Although a soldier of the Revolution and entitled to a pension, he never applied for it. He is the only soldier of the American revolution buried in the Bloomington cemetery.

Elizabeth Haggard, oldest daughter of David and Nancy Haggard, was born in Albemarle county, Virginia, in 1791, and with the father and mother came to Clark county, Kentucky, in 1792. She was married to John S. Lander in 1812. About 1816 they removed to Christian county Kentucky, and settled eight miles west of Hopkinsville. They raised a family of seven children. Mr. Lander was an energetic man and did an extensive farming and stock business. Mrs. Lander died in 1833.

Sally Haggard, third daughter of David and Nancy Haggard, was born in Clark county, Kentucky, 1803. She came to Christian county to visit her sister, Betsy Lander, and her brother, Dawson Haggard, about the year 1819, and married Samuel Lander in 1821, and united with the West Union Baptist church by experience and baptism.

In 1835 they removed to Bloomington, Ill., and bought a large farm two miles west of Bloomington, where Mrs. Lander died in 1843. They raised a family of several children as follows: John D., Charles W., Richard M., and Zarelda.

John D., born 1822, and died in Kansas a few years since. Charles W. was born in April, 1828, and resides near Bloomington, Ill. Richard M. was born about 1830, and resides in Bloomington.

Samuel Lander, husband of Sally Haggard, lived to the age of 93 years, and died a few years ago in Bloomington.

Melvina Haggard, the fourth daughter of David and Nancy Haggard, was born in Clark county, Kentucky, in 1805, and came to Trigg county, Kentucky, with her parents in 1823. She married Ludwell E. Rucker, of Shelby county, Kentucky in 1830, and in 1835, removed to McLean county, Illinois, bought a farm three miles west of Bloomington, where they raised a family of four children.
Lucy, oldest daughter, now living in Chicago, single.
Sarah Elizabeth, married Joseph H. Humphreys, P. O. Pueblo, Colorado. They have four sons.

William L. Rucker married Isabel C. Haggard. He was assistant cashier in the First National Bank, in Blooming-ton. He died May 4, 1870.

George E. Rucker, their youngest son, married Lucy Ellen Ballard, daughter of William L. and Mary Ballard, in 1876. They removed to Baxter Springs, Kas., many years since. They have two children, twins: William Rucker, now married, and Mary Bell Rucker, single.

Cynthia Haggard, fifth daughter of David and Nancy Haggard, was born in 1808. She was married to Isham Bab-bitt 1825. They removed to Hancock county, Illinois, in 1835, and a few years after to Tazewell county, near Groveland, and later to Putnam county, where he died.

They had born to them two daughters and three sons, as follows: Teresa, Malissa, William W., John W., and Frank. The first three named are dead.

Mahalla Haggard, sixth daughter of David and Nancy Haggard, married James H. McCaughan in 1828. They lived for some years on a farm in Trigg county, Kentucky. In 1834 they removed to Smith county, Mississippi. They had seven sons and no daughters.

Louesa and Louisa, seventh and eighth daughters of David and Nancy Haggard, were twins. They were born in Clark county, Kentucky, in 1813, and with their parents moved to Trigg county in 1823.

Louesa married William S. Blakely about the year 1830, and settled two miles south of the Cerulean Springs. They had six sons and one daughter as follows:

James D., farmer: married Virginia K. Bryant.
John D., a physician: married Alice Blakely.
The daughter, Louise, married John H. Endsly, and died many years ago.

William H., a physician, living in Bowling Green, Ky.: married Hetty South.
Charles T. Blakely, a farmer: married a Ladd.
Edward F., a farmer: married Fanny Lander.
Lee A., a farmer, married Fanny Rogers.
Louisa, the other twin, married William G. Thompson in 1832. They lived in Cadiz, Ky., until 1835, when they removed to Bloomington, Ill., where she died in 1838. They had one son: died in infancy. Mr. Thompson died a few years since.

Dawson Haggard, son of David and Nancy Haggard, was born June 1, 1793, in Clark county, Kentucky. He was raised on a farm three miles south of Winchester and received a common school education.

On the 9th day of December, 1810, he united with the Providence Baptist church, near Boonsborough. In June, 1813, he was married to Charity Baldwin, youngest daughter of Samuel and Mary Baldwin, of Montgomery county, Kentucky. She died in Bloomington, Ill., March 3, 1849.

In 1818 they removed to Christian county, Kentucky, and later to Trigg county, where he died in September, 1829. He was a farmer and Baptist preacher, and had just returned from holding a series of meetings, when he was taken with malarial typhoid fever, which resulted in his death. He was a man of good ability and was highly respected by all who knew him: his advice and counsel were often sought by his neighbors in important matters. He was one of the most active agents in organizing the West Union Baptist church, referred to in another chapter. They were the parents of seven children.

Their oldest son, Samuel Baldwin Haggard, was born November 8, 1814, in Clark county, Kentucky. He died in Austin, Ill., February 11, 1899, of paralysis, aged 85 years. Most of his boyhood days were spent in Christian and Trigg counties, Kentucky.

His grandfather, David Haggard, was born in Virginia, and was a near neighbor of Thomas Jefferson, and served in the army during the war of the revolution, being present at Yorktown at the surrender of Cornwallis.
When 21 years of age, Samuel B. Haggard moved to Bloomington, Ill., making the journey on horseback. In the fall of 1843 he went to Chicago, making the journey in a wagon, the trip taking about a week. There he entered the employ of Scoville & Gates, with whom he remained until 1847. He then entered the employ of McCormick & Grays, reaper manufacturers. He was superintendent of the works until 1850, when he engaged in the pump business, and later in the hardware trade. In the big fire of 1871 his home and property on the north side were totally destroyed. He soon afterward retired from business, moving to Austin, where he remained until his death.

Mr. Haggard took active part in the suppression of the beer riots that occurred during L. D. Boone’s term as mayor. In 1836 he voted for William Henry Harrison for president, and again in 1840. Since that time he has voted for every Whig and Republican candidate up to and including William McKinley. He was the oldest living member of the Tippecanoe club.

Mr. Haggard was married to Miss Mary Mason, also a native of Kentucky, in 1837. They celebrated their golden wedding in 1887. Mrs. Haggard died in 1889. He was the oldest of seven brothers and sisters, the youngest of whom is 70 years old. They all survive him.

They had seven children:

1. Isabelle C., born September 16, 1842. She married William L. Rucker, November 17, 1864. They had one son. Edwin Sherwin Rucker, was born September 8, 1865, and died August 17, 1866. William L. Rucker died May 4, 1870.

2. Winfield Scott Haggard was born in Chicago, April 2, 1844: enlisted in Company E, 67th Illinois volunteer infantry, and serving out term of enlistment received an honorable discharge. He has been actively engaged in merchandising and other commercial pursuits since 1868. He was married October 24, 1867, to Miss Mary E. Matlock, of Danville, Ind. They have two children:

3. Martha Jane Haggard was born in Chicago, March 26, 1846. Was married to Albert B. Wicker, November 1, 1866. They had five children as follows:
   1. Flora, born March 30, 1868.
   2. Charles Samuel, born July 13, 1870; married April 7, 1894, to Evaline Lowes.
   3. Isabelle Blanch, born November 21, 1873; married to Clarence C. Faust, August 26, 1896.
   5. Robert Fenton, born July 21, 1883, and died January 1, 1897.

4. John David Haggard, second son of Samuel B. Haggard, born December 4, 1847. Enlisted from Chicago, May 13, 1864, in Company D, 134th Illinois volunteer infantry, and served until October 25, 1864, when he was mustered out and received an honorable discharge. He is an extensive manufacturer of spring beds, wire mattresses, and that class of goods in Chicago, Ill. Was married to Sarah Ursula Bennett. She was born December 12, 1849, in Canton, N. Y. They have two children:
   1. Mabel Hawley Haggard was born June 23, 1876, in Deland, Ill.; was married to Frank Warner Yale, January 6, 1897, in Austin, Ill.
   2. Florence Gertrude Haggard was born February 3, 1885, Austin, Ill.

5. Francis E. Haggard was born in Chicago, September 16, 1851, and married Stewart S. Gould, January 1, 1872, and have two children:

David Dawson Haggard, third son of Dawson and Charity Haggard, born November 16, 1819, in Christian county, Kentucky. Removed to McLean county, Illinois, in 1841; lived on a farm the first three years then opened a general store in Concord (now Danvers) in 1844. Removed store to Bloomington in March, 1846, and conducted general merchandise business, and has been in business in Bloomington continuously since 1846.

In 1861 he was elected alderman from the First Ward of the city and was twice elected afterwards in 1868 and 1874. During this last term he was largely instrumental in securing to the city our most excellent system of water works. He is a member of the Society of the American Revolution. He is a man of very temperate habits and has the courage of his convictions, and has been an active official member of the First Baptist church for nearly half a century. August 8, 1847, he married Nancy W., daughter of Dr. Gabriel Minter, of Jessamine county, Kentucky, and they had:

1. Minter Clay, born August 5, 1849; died January 21, 1850.

2. Nancy Kate, born in Bloomington, November 8, 1853; died April 24, 1879.

Married secondly, November 23, 1854. Mary Elizabeth, daughter of Henry and Lucy Ballard, of Fayette county, Kentucky. They had four children:

1. William Henry Haggard, born in Bloomington, November 28, 1855. He married July 9, 1879, Elsie, daughter of Dr. E. A. Wilcox, of Minonk, Ill. They have two daughters:

   1. Elsie, born March 6, 1882. She is a skilful performer on the piano.
   2. Ethel, born November 16, 1883.
   3. Howard Wilcox Haggard, born July 19, 1891.
2. David Dillard Haggard, second son of D. D. and Mary E. Haggard, was born in Bloomington, Ill., April 3, 1860. He was educated at the Wesleyan University at Bloomington, Ill., the Chicago University, and the Baptist Union Theological Seminary, Morgan Park, graduating from the latter in April, 1888, with the degree of Bachelor of Theology.

Soon after he graduated he was called to the pastorate of the Baptist church at Norton, Kas., where he labored with good success for two years. He was then called to the care of the Baptist church at Livingstone, Mont., where he was again successful. Here his voice failed him to such a degree that he was led to the study of medicine, and in April, 1893, took the degree of Doctor of Medicine from the Marion Sims College of Medicine, St. Louis, Mo. He at once commenced the practice as physician and surgeon. He was married September 21, 1892, at Phillipsburg, Kas., to Sarah Murta Bissell, the daughter of William and Mary Bissell. After a successful practice of four years, having regained his voice, he felt called upon to reenter the ministry, and is now pastor of the Baptist church at Louisville, Neb., where he is having a successful pastorate.

3. Samuel Edward Haggard, son of David D. and Mary E., was born in Bloomington, Ill., May 23, 1863. In 1885 he married Miss Ella Ballard. They had two daughters, both died in infancy. His wife, Ella, died September, 1888. He was married to Miss Lillian Mann, of Bloomington, September 26, 1890. For the past twelve or fifteen years he has been extensively engaged in hardware, carriage, and farm machinery business in Bloomington. They have one son, Winfield Ellis Haggard, born February 20, 1893.

4. Lucy Jane Haggard, daughter of David D. and Mary E. Haggard, was born July 16, 1867; graduated from the Morgan Park Female Seminary in 1886. Married Edward Thomas Stone, son of Rev. O. B. Stone, of Bloomington, Illinois, October 24, 1888. Edward Thomas Stone was born January 21, 1861. They removed to Minneapolis, Minnesota. They have three children:

1. Ralph Haggard Stone, born September 17, 1889.
2. Charles Wellington Stone, born September 26, 1892.
3. Lucy May Stone, born December 21, 1896.

Mr. Stone is assistant auditor of the Big Soo railroad. Residence, 3156 Columbus Avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.

Mary Jane Haggard, born April 21, 1822; married August 15, 1853, John Goldsmith Shrock of Covington, Kentucky, where they lived several years and removed to Bloomington. Mr. Shrock died in Bloomington January 20, 1875. They had five children:

1. Mary Elizabeth Shrock, born in Covington, Kentucky, June 8, 1854; died November 26, 1858.
2. Laura Frances Shrock, born in Covington, Kentucky, October 28, 1856; died November 27, 1858.
3. Mary N. Shrock, born in Covington, Kentucky, May 25, 1859, and married Mr. Rudolph Billeaux in Chicago, October 5, 1894.
4. John Dawson Shrock, born in Lexington, Kentucky, April 1, 1862; resides in Chicago, Illinois. Has for past ten years or more been one of the leading members of the Chicago Imperial Quartette. This quartette has been for years deservedly popular. He was married to Edith Sylvia Jones in Excelsior, Minnesota, July 8, 1885. They have three children:
   1. Ruth Mariah Shrock, born July 11, 1886.
   2. Elmer Goldsmith Shrock, born August 13, 1887.
   3. Helen May Shrock, born February 6, 1898.
5. Thomas David Shrock was born in Bloomington, Illinois, November 21, 1865. Still living; single person.

Julia Ann Haggard, born June 20, 1828; married Lemuel Matthews in November, 1854. Mr. Matthews died in Bloomington in 1858. They had two children, Charles, single; John D., married. Both mother and sons reside in Chicago.

John William Haggard, born in Trigg county, Kentucky, June 20, 1828. Removed with the family to the vicinity of Bloomington, Illinois, in 1841 and spent the next five years on the farm. In the spring of 1846 the family moved into the village and he learned the trade of cabinet maker, which occupation he followed about ten years.

His education was only such as could be obtained in the country school of that day. Since quitting the trade he has been engaged in various occupations. About twelve years he spent in the nursery business and about the same length of time was spent as a traveling salesman in different lines of business. Being an expert geographer he spent several years in map surveying in Illinois and Indiana. Edited and published the Bloomington Lancet for six years, and is still a contributor to its columns.

In 1888 he wrote and published a history of the Prohibition party, a work recognized as standard authority throughout the country. He espoused the cause of temperance in boyhood and has ever since been called an enthusiast in that reform. He was one of the founders of the first nucleus of the Prohibition party in 1868, and has occupied important committee positions, including state chairman and member of the national committee. As state organizer he canvassed the state in 1883 and 1884 and did more or less public speaking in more than fifty counties. Has always taken the ground that to license the liquor traffic is to perpetuate crime by law, and that all license laws are in direct antagonism to the spirit and the letter of the constitution of the United States, and that some day the courts will so decide.

On October 8, 1850, was married to Miss Eliza C. Watson, of Madison county, Kentucky, since which time they have been housekeeping on West Washington street.
Bloomington, Illinois. Four children have been born to them as follows:

1. Helen Louise, born August 16, 1851; died March, 1852.
2. Charles Walker, born March, 1853; died September, 1854.
3. Henry Shelby Haggard, born September 25, 1854; graduated from the high school 1873. Was married November 16, 1878, to Miss Annie S. Green. They have four children:
   2. Alice Watson, born September, 1883.
   3. Ashley Peabody, born January, 1893.

   They reside in Chicago, where he is agent for the Wells Fargo Express Company.

4. Fred Porter Haggard, born December 15, 1862. Graduated from the high school in 1879 and from the Illinois Wesleyan University in 1886. Having decided to enter the ministry he entered the Baptist Theological Seminary at Morgan Park, Illinois, 1886, and graduated with high honors in May, 1889, and at once settled as pastor of the Baptist church at Red Oak, Iowa. In the early part of 1892, being desirous of a larger field of operations, he accepted a call to the pastorate of the First Baptist church at Dubuque, Iowa. In March, 1893, he resigned and offered his services to the American Baptist Missionary Union. and on the 19th of September of the same year he left with his family for Assam, India, where he has labored faithfully and successfully as a missionary ever since. On the day he graduated from the Wesleyan University in 1886, he was married to Miss Fannie L. Snow. They have three children:
   1. Roy Snow Haggard, born May 19, 1887.
JOHN HAGGARD OF CARTHAGE

John Haggard, the second son of David and Nancy Haggard, was born in Clark county, Kentucky, May 24, 1800, and died in Hancock county, Illinois, April 14, 1847. About 1822 he came to Christian county, Kentucky. In 1823 he married Miss Ann Snelling. They then settled in Trigg county, two miles south of the Cerulean Springs. There were born to them three daughters:

1. Frances J., born May 28, 1825.
2. Amanda M., died in infancy.

John Haggard secondly married Mary Thompson. They removed to Hancock county, Illinois, in 1835. There were born to them six children: Mariah V., Mary E., America, Charles D., and William N. Mary E. married a Mr. Burns; her address is Winterset, Iowa. Charles D. Haggard is now living in Iowa.

Frances, the oldest daughter by his first wife, married a Mr. Pray and lived west of Carthage for years, and they moved to, or near, Exira, Iowa, and from there to Minneapolis, Minnesota. He was a man of large means. He died a few years since, leaving his widow only, as they had no children. She is now living in Minneapolis, Minnesota.

Martha Haggard, second daughter of David and Nancy Haggard, was born in Clark county, Kentucky, January 16, 1795. She married John Routt of the same county. Soon thereafter they moved to Christian county, and later to Eddyville. In 1829 Mr. Routt died, and his widow with her four children moved to Trigg county near her father, David Haggard. In 1834 she again married, this time to Henry Newton. In 1837 they removed to McDonough county, Illinois, and later to McLean county. To them were born Dawson, now of Boulder, Colorado; Louesa, a twin sister of Dawson, now Widow Wilson of Normal, Illinois, and Martin Haggard Newton, who served as County Recorder from 1887 to 1895, and for the past four years as County Clerk in Bloomington. Martha Routt Newton died in Covel, Illinois, February 12, 1871. Her children by her first marriage were:

1. David, born 1815, and removed with the family to Illinois in 1837, and died soon after.

2. Sally, born in 1818, and came to Bloomington, Illinois, in 1835, and in 1838 married James S. Bay and died a few years later leaving one child, a daughter, who married a Mr. James Walker, and is now a widow; resides at Normal.

3. Martha Elizabeth was born in Christian county, Kentucky, May 22, 1822: removed with the family to Illinois in 1837, and was there married to William Newton. They now reside in Cooksville, McLean county, Illinois.

4. John L. Routt, the youngest son of Martha (Haggard) and John Routt, was born in Eddyville, Kentucky, April 26, 1826. He worked on the farm until about fifteen years old, when he came to Bloomington and learned the carpenter's trade with Samuel B. Haggard. His education was only such as could be had in the country schools of that day. His career in public office began by serving his ward in the town council of Bloomington during the years of 1854-55. In April, 1858, he was elected township collector, which office he held two terms. In 1860 he was elected sheriff of McLean county, which office he resigned in the summer of 1862 to enter the army. He was elected captain of Company E, 94th Illinois infantry. After serving as captain eight months he was detailed as quartermaster in General Herron's command, which at that time was the army of Missouri and Arkansas, with headquarters at Rolla, Missouri. He at once began to get the supplies and stores ready to cross the country to Little Rock, Arkansas, and assist in the siege of Vicksburg.

His services were so appreciated that Judge David Davis and Hon. Isaac Funk and others urged President Lincoln to commission him regular quartermaster, which was done. He held that position until the close of the war in 1865.
Soon after his return home he was elected treasurer of McLEAN county and held this position for two terms. Soon thereafter he was appointed chief clerk to Gen. Giles A. Smith, Second Assistant Postmaster General, but in a short time, without his knowledge, he was appointed United States Marshal for the southern district of Illinois, which position he held nearly two years, when he received a telegram informing him that he had been appointed Second Assistant Postmaster General to succeed General Smith, who had resigned on account of ill health. This office he held about three years when President Grant appointed him Governor of Colorado territory, where he remained until it was admitted as a state, when the people elected him governor. He was again elected Governor of the State in 1890 and at the close of the term was urged to accept the nomination for another term, but declined.

It is a noteworthy fact that all of the foregoing important positions held by him from 1854 to 1894 were filled with great ability and unchallenged integrity.

NATHANIEL HAGGARD

Nathaniel Haggard, youngest son of Nathaniel and Elizabeth Haggard, was born in Albemarle county, Virginia, about 1765, and about 1788 came with his father's family to Clark county, Kentucky. He was married to Elizabeth Hayes. They had four sons and three daughters, as follows: Martin, William, John, David, Polly, Nancy, and Eliza.

Polly married Spencer Holloway and moved to Randolph, Missouri, where they left three sons.

Nancy married James Hanson and resided in Henry county, Kentucky. They had nine children.

Eliza married Dennis Doyle August 28, 1828. They lived and died on a farm eight miles south of Winchester, Kentucky. His age was 73 years and 11 months and her age 71 years and 6 months.
CHAPTER III.

Nathaniel Haggard I--John Haggard I
John Haggard II

NATHANIEL HAGGARD I, born November 21, 1723, in Virginia, married ELIZABETH GENTRY, a lady of English descent, in Albemarle county, Virginia, and they settled near Charlottesville. Elizabeth was the daughter of Nicholas Gentry II. She and her brothers, Moses and David, were the grandchildren of Nicholas Gentry I, who lived in Hanover county, Virginia.

In about 1788 Nathaniel I, his wife Elizabeth, and four of their married sons came from Virginia and settled in Clark county, Kentucky, between Providence Church and Winchester. Here he erected a house of hewn cherry logs which is still standing, and which has been in possession of male members of the family to this date. He and his sons, James, Bartlett and Nathaniel II, joined the Bush Settlement, and the records show that Nathaniel I and Elizabeth were received into Providence Church by letter June 14, 1788. Many other members of the Haggard family were received into this church which is today the oldest and most famous Baptist church south of the Mason and Dixon line. The seven sons and three daughters of Nathaniel I and Elizabeth Gentry Haggard were:

1. Henry, born 1745; Baptist preacher.

2. Martin, born 1748; received into Providence church by recommendation April 16, 1785. Became a Baptist preacher.

3. Elizabeth, born 1752; married Edward Kindred. He was elected Deacon in Providence church in 1791. Later Messenger and Elder in Indian Creek church, and an ordained Baptist preacher.

5. Mary, born 1757; married a Baptist preacher.

6. James, born 1759; licensed to preach when quite young. Married his cousin, Elizabeth (Betsy) Gentry, and moved to Clark county, Kentucky. Joined Providence church by letter May 6, 1786. About 1816 he and his family removed to Christian county, Kentucky, and settled five miles from Hopkinsville. He preached in private homes until 1819, when, with the assistance of Dawson Haggard, West Union Baptist church was organized with twelve members, all of whom were Haggards or husbands and wives of Haggards. With himself as pastor and Dawson as deacon, meetings were held and large numbers added to this church. Rev. James Haggard died at the age of 80 years, having preached 60 years.

7. Jane, born 1761; married her cousin, David Gentry, son of David Gentry.

10. Nathaniel II, born 1765; married Elizabeth Hayes. "In October, 1802, the Church (Providence) appointed Brother Nathaniel Haggard, Jr., to set the tunes insinging." (Conkwright's "History of Baptist Churches.")

EDMUND HAGGARD

"Edmund Haggard, brother of Nathaniel I, was born about 1725 and married a lady of Welsh descent named Rice. They had seven sons, one of whom was Rice Haggard, born in 1769 in Eastern Virginia. He married the daughter of William Grimes, a captain under General Washington in 1776.

"Rice Haggard was ordained as a Methodist minister in 1791, by Bishop Asbury, and preached with great ability and acceptance until about the year 1803 or 1804, when..."
he became convinced that the doctrine was not in full accordance with Bible teachings. He then returned to Virginia and requested his release from relationship to the Methodist church, which was granted. (See old book entitled "Early Methodism.")

"He then wrote a pamphlet called 'Christian' and effected an organization under that name in 1805-6. Thus he was the forerunner of the doctrine made popular by Alexander Campbell at a later date. Rice Haggard and his brother David, who also severed his connection with the Methodist church, traveled extensively through portions of Virginia and Kentucky, preaching their new doctrine and organizing churches of their faith."—Copy: David D.
Haggard's History.
JOHN HAGGARD I.

JOHN HAGGARD I, third son of Nathaniel and Elizabeth Gentry Haggard, was born in Albemarle county, Virginia, April 7, 1754. He married Mary Shepard, born in Virginia March 7, 1754, and they moved with his parents and other members of the family to Clark county, Kentucky, and settled near Winchester about 1788. They located eight miles east of the Bush Settlement on their half of a 2,000 acre tract of land which John Haggard and James French, another pioneer, had secured jointly, either by pre-emption or patent. The Haggard tract, located on the east and south of Four Mile Creek, included the land on which Mt. Olive church now stands. French never settled on his part of this grant, and it soon passed into the hands of the Hamptons (two of whom married Haggards) and became known as the Haggard-Hampton Settlement.

John Haggard I and the Hamptons founded Unity church in 1790. It was built of logs and located on Lower Howard's Creek about two miles from Providence church. During the time that Rev. James Quisenberry was pastor of Unity a division occurred, and John Haggard with others withdrew their membership and constituted a new church known as Indian Creek church. “In August 1823 a deed was recorded in the office of the Clerk of Clark County Court (Deed Book No. 20, page 122) in which John Haggard I and his wife, Mary Haggard, conveyed to the Trustees of Indian Creek church one acre of land and the church house, which was already built, was to be in the center of the church lot.” John Haggard I, his sons David T. and Martin, and his sons-in-law, David Reed and Jesse Hampton, were prominent and influential members of Indian Creek church. In 1845 David T. Hargard, Jesse Hampton and David Reed, working with Joel Quisenberry, John Haggard II, and Pleasant Haggard from Unity church effected a union between the two, forming what is now Mt. Olive church.
It is interesting to note that the Building Committee was composed of Joel Quisenberry, Jesse Hampton, David Reed, David T. Haggard and John Haggard II, all sons or sons-in-law of John Haggard I, who gave the land on which they erected the new church. David T., who had been Clerk of Indian Creek church for many years, was retained as Clerk of Mt. Olive and held that office fourteen years. All the Haggards and Hamptons were members of the church and were wealthy and influential citizens of Clark county. John Haggard I died February 9, 1832. Mary Shepard Haggard died September 9, 1846. Their eight children were:

I. Pleasant Haggard, married Elizabeth Watts. Had one son.

II. Martin Haggard, Baptist preacher. Married Sallie Hampton.

III. John Haggard II, wealthy landowner (See Page 53).

James Buchanan (Buck) Winn, Jr., prominent Dallas artist, is the great-great-grandson of John Haggard I. He was educated in Washington University, St. Louis, Mo., Julianne Academy of Fine Arts, Paris, France; and continued his art studies in Rome. Working with Eugene Savage, he painted the Murals in the Great Hall of State Building, Dallas. Murals in the Medical Arts Building and Village Theatre, Dallas; the monument in Goliad; and the decorations in Hillcrest Mausoleum, Dallas, are the work of this artist. Among his portraits are those of Angus Littlejohn, R. Colburn Butler and C. S. Haggard.

VII. Sallie Haggard, daughter of John Haggard I, married Jesse Hampton.

VIII. Nancy Haggard, daughter of John Haggard I, married David Reed.
John Haggard II
JOHN HAGGARD II

JOHN HAGGARD II, third son of John and Mary Shepard, is the one from whom Clinton S. Haggard is descended, and the only one of that family whose posterity we are recording in detail. He was born March 17, 1794, died December 11, 1858, and is buried in the Elkin family cemetery. On December 22, 1811 he married MOURNING QUISENBERRY, born January 22, 1795; died in 1846. She was the daughter of Rev. James and Jane Burris Quisenberry (See Chapter VI. Quisenberry-Burris Families.)

John Haggard II, wealthy landowner of Clark county, Kentucky, was distinguished in appearance and prominent in church affairs, retaining his membership in Unity church until it joined with Indian Creek church to become Mt. Olive. To him and Mourning Quisenberry Haggard were born four daughters and five sons: I. Jane; II. Luvica Ann; III. Polly; IV. Rhoda; V. Lewis Colby; VI. James Henry; VII. John Tandy; VIII. CHAPTER IV.

TO KENTUCKY

An Appreciation by Rev. Hugh McClellan, Pastor
Central Christian Church. San Antonio, Texas.

"Not the oldest, nor yet the youngest;
Not the richest, nor yet the poorest;
Not the largest, nor yet the least;
But—take it all in all—
For men and women, for flocks and herds;
For fields and skies, for happy hours,
And loving hearts—the best place—outside of Heaven—the good Lord ever made."

Clinton Shepard Haggard

CLINTON SHEPARD HAGGARD, youngest son of John and Mourning Quisenberry Haggard, was born in Winchester, Kentucky, November 12, 1838. His mother died when he was only eight years old, and when he was eighten years of age he and his father came to Texas. They took up a section of land near Plano, and invested in stock, horses and mules. The father, John Haggard II, died December 11, 1858. Clinton S. and Miss Nannie Kate Lunsford were united in marriage September 1, 1859, at the home of the bride’s mother, Mrs. Catherine Lunsford. The ceremony was read by Elder James Muse, pastor of McKinney
Christian church. (See Chapter V, Lunsford History.)
Nannie Kâte was born in Oldham county, Kentucky, March 29, 1839.

Before tracing the descendants of Clinton S. and Nannie Kate Haggard, it is of interest to know that the members of this family are distinguished by their industry, honor and integrity, as well as for their handsome and fine appearance.
All of them are Christians: most of them are wealthy farmers and stockmen; and all are financially successful. They are also characterized by their love of music, good books and happy laughter. They are raising splendid families who cherish and carry on the traditions of their ancestry.

Clinton S. Haggard began his early business life with a capital of three thousand dollars, and by the practice of frugality and hard work, and the exercise of keen business acumen, was fast building up his earthly estate when the Civil War broke out. Being Southern by birth, and deeply sympathetic with the Confederate Cause, he enlisted in Company G. Alexander's Regiment; but in the fall of 1863 transferred to Captain Carpenter's Company, Martin's Regiment, Maxie's Brigade. where he remained until the close of the war. With an honorable discharge at the end of the struggle, he returned home and with quiet determination began the task of retrieving his losses. He succeeded so well that in 1884 he bought more land and built a new colonial home two miles northwest of Plano. Here their children, in whom were deeply implanted the virtues of a long line of distinguished and honorable forbears, grew to maturity, each an honored and esteemed member of the community in which he dwells.

In his later years, Clinton S. Haggard was a man of patriarchal appearance, whose deep steadfast eyes must have

"Dipt into the future,
Far as human eye could see,
And beheld the vision of the world,
And the wonder yet to be."

In his daily life he could as easily take the measure of a man as he could judge the merit of a business venture. He was an outstanding success as a farmer and a stockman, and became one of the largest landowners in Collin county. In 1904 he gave to each of his seven living children 320 acres of fine farm land, or its equivalent, and still retained large land holdings in Collin, Denton and Dallas counties.
He and his wife contributed liberally to the Christian church; to Texas Christian University, Fort Worth; to Juliette Fowler Orphanage, Dallas; and to many other worthy causes. In Plano, Haggard Memorial Park commemorates these beloved benefactors.

Mr. and Mrs. Haggard were members of the Christian church, and all of their children and nearly all of their grandchildren and great-grandchildren have followed their example in this respect. Few lives have been richer in moral and spiritual influence than theirs. They knew from conviction and experience that nothing in human life was as important as the acceptance of religious truth, and that the speculations of men could never be substituted for the eternal truths of God. Deeply interested in furthering the Lord's work upon earth, in 1906 they endowed a self-perpetuating scholarship in Johnson Bible College, Kimberlin Heights, Tennessee; thus founding a system by which men may be educated for the Ministry. Of twenty-seven young men who have received college educations through this generosity of "Uncle Clint" and "Aunt Kate" Haggard, three are in foreign mission fields and twenty-one occupy pulpits in leading cities of the United States, a living and enduring monument to these noble Christians.

"By their fruits ye shall know them." Small and dainty in figure, lovely in character and disposition, was Nannie Kate Haggard, who gave so much that was beautiful and good to the world. "Fairview," as she called their home near Plano, was a place where people from every walk of life, loved to come: and they came again and again—rich and poor, young and old, saint and scholar—knowing they would find there the sympathy, understanding and inspiration they needed. Both Nannie Kate and Clinton S. Haggard possessed an inherent liking for people which often ripened into rich and enduring friendship. Among the close friends who were frequent visitors in their home were: Gen. R. M. Gano; Elder B. F. Wilson; Rev. A. J. Bush; Rev. R. C. Horn; Doctors Addison and Randolph Clark; the Bowmans; Jacksons; Bushes; Huffmans, Formans; Quisenburgs; Harringtons; Oglesbys; Barnettts; Aldridges; Shepards; Carpenters; Fletchers, and McElvains. The Clark brothers founded Add-Ran College, Thorpe Springs, Texas, where several of the Haggard children finished their education. This college was moved to Waco, Texas, and became Texas Christian University. It is now located at Fort Worth and younger members of the Haggard family are being educated there today. In the Haggard home all anniversaries and special occasions were celebrated by holding family dinners to which many of these friends were also invited. The dinner table seated sixteen or eighteen, and on any birthday one was fortunate (if one were a great-grandchild) to find a place as early as the fifth table.

One of the interests of Nannie Kate Haggard in the later years of her life was the painstaking research by which she proved and brought down three generations of history of her own and her husband’s families. Without the foundation which she laid, the compiling of this volume would have been a difficult task. The history of her children and grandchildren is marked with many references to their religious profession and with thanks to God that they are good and useful citizens. Today in these children is found a living and convincing exemplification of obedience to the Fifth Commandment: “Honor thy father and thy mother, that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord, thy God, giveth thee.”
In their beautiful home near Plano, the fruitful years went by. Here on September 1, 1909, they celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding day within six miles of the place where they first started housekeeping together.

The following lines were written and dedicated to this occasion:

1859    THE GOLDEN WEDDING     1909

The silver, the ruby, the gold,
Have all been given you to hold.
Since you have been of God so blest,
Fear not to trust him for the rest.

The diamond's lure still shines afar,
The haven where thy loved ones are;
The harp, the crown, songs of the blest,
And then—the plains of peace—and rest.

Caroline C. Swan.

The celebration was held in the splendid grove of trees north of the home. Across the gateway a banner bearing "Welcome" was stretched: a large platform decorated in white and yellow streamers with the dates 1859-1909 was arranged and all preparations made so that none might be disappointed in any detail. The invitation was "to relatives and as many friends as will come," and the attendance of about 800 guests testified to the number of friends possessed by this worthy couple. Eighty-one relatives were present—including six of the seven living children; 25 grandchildren, and one great-grandchild.

Mr. G. E. Carpenter, a nephew of Mrs. Haggard, acted as master of ceremonies. The Plano String Band furnished music during the day, and piano numbers and songs were given by some of the guests. Mrs. C. S. Haggard, the sweet faced bride of fifty years, rendered a number of old tunes and hymns. At the dinner hour the guests gathered about long tables abundantly spread with barbecued meats and other delicious food, and partook, as most of them had often done before, of the hospitality of these dear friends. The afternoon program consisted of music and talks by numerous old friends and neighbors, among whom were Elder B. F. Wilson, once pastor of Plano Christian church; General R. M. Gano, who was Mr. Haggard’s General in the Confederate Army; Jonas Huffman, lifetime neighbor and friend; and W. C. McKamy. Elder R. C. Horn declared that “such marriages are of God and are always successful.”

Among the hundreds of names that appeared in the Guest Book was that of Mr. L. W. Shepard who attended the wedding fifty years before.

Although Mr. and Mrs. Haggard thought that no presents should be given, some could not resist the ties of friendship. Mrs. Mary E. Harrington, an old Kentucky friend, gave the bride an amethyst brooch; George and Jack Bowman gave the groom an engraved gold-headed cane; Mr. John A. Jackson gave “Early Days in Texas,” a book that he had written; Mr. N. R. Powell, of South Texas, a gold Love Knot, symbolizing true happiness; Mrs. Nellie Carpenter, a beautiful thimble; Mesdames Molly Shepard, Nannie Bishop, Emma Bishop, Annie Belle Aldridge, John and Walter Haggard (sons and daughters), watches to both bride and groom. George and Jennie Ray gave a gold band dinner set; Haggard and George Ray, Jr., gave their grandfather a gold spoon with the golden wedding date engraved on it; and Mary and Romayne Ray gave their grandmother a similar spoon. Jennie Haggard, Minnie Lee and Kate Aldridge gave their grandmother a gold thimble.

A “Grandchildren’s Program” was given as follows:

2. Courtship of John Alden and Priscilla ................................ .... Mary Ray
3. Piano Selection .......................................................... Jennie Haggard
4. Song. “I’ve Grown so Used to You” ................................ Mary Shepard
5. Recitation ................................................................. Gladys Bishop

   Mary Shepard, Emma Shepard, Lottie Newsom
This family, so richly blessed by God, was permitted to gather again ten years later to observe their Sixtieth Wedding Anniversary. The sixty-second anniversary was attended by immediate members of the family and a few very dear friends. Shortly after this event, Nannie Kate Haggard was claimed by death, and nine years later Clinton
S. Haggard, in his ninety-first year, followed her peacefully to rest, but in precept and example they live again in new generations.

In the final summing up of their long years together, lived for posterity, for Country and for God, we are reminded of those words of the Great Apostle:

"I have fought a good fight,
I have finished my course,
I have kept the faith."

The children of Clinton S. and Nannie Kate Haggard are: 1. Mary Catherine (Mollie); 2. Nannie Elizabeth; berry; 6. Annie Belle; 7. Clifton Turner; 8. Mattie Sue;
9. Walter Owen.
The following letter was written by C. S. Haggard, December 25, 1908.

"FIRST FIFTY YEARS IN TEXAS"

"I was born in Clark county, Kentucky, November 12, 1838: came out to look at Texas, Christmas 1856; was in Clarksville, Texas, at Cousin Garrett Igo's. We went down to the Red River hunting, killed two bear. That winter was cold, sleet on the ground for over one week, trees broke down covered with ice. We went to Clarksville, five miles on the ice, skating and sliding on foot. This is my fiftieth Christmas in Texas. Came out to Collin county and was at Cousin A. E. Quisenberry's the night the frost killed the wheat in 1857. Got acquainted with Capt. R. W. Carpenter and his good wife. Her sunshiny disposition made me wonder if she had a sister like herself: they came to Texas same fall from Kentucky. We were married September 1st. 1859. My mother died when I was eight years old. My sisters had all married and had children older than I was: my next youngest brother was eleven years older than me and about the time I was growing up all had gone to homes of their own: so my father and I were left alone, except the darkies. and my brothers said he petted and spoiled me. He came to Texas with me, but died in December, 1858. Since I was married my wife has petted and spoiled me; which I am glad they did, for it has made the world brighter and more beautiful to me. My wife never quarreled with me and never spoke a cross word to me that I remember: never, when I had bad luck, said 'I told you so,' and when I would bring my friends, no difference how many, she never said, 'What did you bring those folks here for?' but always met them with a smile and made their stay pleasant. We have raised eight children to be grown, five girls and three boys: we lost one grand good boy at the age of 23 years, 3 months and 3 days. The others are living and doing well, and a noble set of boys and girls of which we have a good right to be proud of all of them, and hope they will imitate the life of their mother and raise families that will be an honor to their country and a blessing to mankind and a help to Christianity and workers for Christ. Among the best women I know were Mrs. R. W. Carpenter, Mrs. Garrett Igo (she was a Haggard), and Mrs. James Bush (Cousin Arie Barnett's mother). The last but not the least was my Kate. They have made my life better and brighter for which I am truly thankful. If I were to worship anything on earth it would be a good woman. If there are any bad women I do not know them and I am glad of that. Our children have been good, obedient, never talking back or saying 'I won't do it.' but helpful and pleasant to their parents and to one another, never quarreling among themselves, but bright and cheerful. and we have been surrounded by good friends and kind neighbors and we are proud of our connection and good people for which I am truly thankful. Wishing one and all a Merry Happy Christmas.

(Signed) C. S. HAGGARD.

"P. S. I gave each one of the children fifty dollars pin money for them to remember my fiftieth anniversary in Texas, and when I had given the children their gifts. Kate says, 'Where is mine?' so I have her fifty also. Some bought one thing and some another. but all have some keepsake to remember my 50th anniversary in Texas. But September 1st, 1909, will be our Fiftieth Marriage Anniversary, and if it is the Lord's Will and all are spared, we hope to have another Jubilee and cause for rejoicing.

C. S. H."
Mr. and Mrs. Joseph William Shepard
I. MARY CATHERINE (MOLLIE), eldest child of Clinton S. and Nannie Kate Haggard, born near Plano, May 30, 1861, was educated in Three-H Academy (Haggard-Huffman-Houston), a private school organized for the children of these pioneer families. "Pretty Mollie Haggard," as she was called in her girlhood, was married to Joseph William Shepard, December 23, 1880, at the home of her parents on White Rock by Elder Peter Smith, pastor of Plano Christian church.

Since her marriage she has kept a diary and made numerous scrap books in which she has recorded the history of her family. In the Shepard history, which she also included, one finds that Lewis Shepard Stone, film star, is of the Shepard family, born at Shepardville, Virginia, as is also Senator Frelinghuysen of New Jersey, whose daughter, Estelle, was presented at the British Court while Andrew Mellon was Ambassador to England.

In 1930 Mrs. Shepard and her husband celebrated their Golden Wedding Day. Since then they observed the fifty-fifth, and a few months ago, on the 57th anniversary of their marriage, they were the recipients of an unusual gift—a case of "Heinz 57 Varieties," sent to them by the manufacturers of these products.

Mollie Haggard Shepard possesses an extremely keen, alert mind, and back of her gentle manner is an engaging spirit of humor. She is a woman of great nobility of character, and a conscientious Christian who for years was seldom absent from prayer meeting, ladies' aid or church service. In her collection of Bibles are the Huffman, Shepard and Haggard family Bibles, the last given to her by her father before his death. She is generous and compassionate, and her philosophy of life that "God's in His Heaven—and all's right with the world" has given her a serene spirit and a deep insight into the beautiful things of life.
SHEPARD

William P. Shepard, native Virginian, b. Aug. 7, 1800; d. in 1867 in Louisville, Ky. He married Eliza Dick, daughter of Louis and Barbara Dick, natives of Germany.

Lewis William Shepard, b. in Frederick County, Va., March 30, 1828, was the third of eight children born to William P. and Eliza Dick Shepard. He lived in Winchester, Va., until ten years of age, then moved to Louisville, Ky., where he learned carriage-making with his father who followed the business until his death.

On Nov. 22, 1853, he married Mary Ann Huffman, b. July 20, 1834; d. Feb. 4, 1907. Her parents were Joseph Huffman, b. Aug. 19, 1797; d. May 20, 1854; and Catharine Smeltzer, b. Nov. 12, 1804; d. April 2, 1852. (Catharine Smeltzer was the daughter of John Smeltzer, b. May 31, 1766, and his wife, Catharine, b. May 1, 1771).

Lewis W. Shepard continued in the carriage industry until 1857, when he came to Texas, bought land and began farming and stockraising. He was at the full tide of success when the Civil War broke out. He enlisted in the Confederate Army, saw service in many battles, and was Assistant Quartermaster of Third Kentucky (Morgan's) Brigade. At the end of three years he was discharged on account of disability, and returned to Texas and resumed farming and stock raising. He was a Free Mason, an Odd Fellow, and a consistent member of the Christian church. The only child born to him and his wife was: JOSEPH WILLIAM.

Joseph William Shepard, b. Nov. 19, 1856 in Louisville, Ky., came with his parents to Texas when they settled on White Rock Creek near Plano. He is a farmer and stockman who, for fine stock exhibited at County and State Fairs, has won more than 2,000 premiums, including Gold Star Medals, a silver pitcher, and loving cups. An authority in his field, he often goes to Texas A. & M. College to serve as judge of livestock. Mr. Shepard has always loved hunting, and for more than forty years has gone regularly with a party of friends to South Texas to hunt with his brother-in-law, George A. Ray, of Pettus. Other members of the hunting party are Messrs. Kuteman, Lysaght, John Carpenter and John Brown, and it is of interest to know that Mr. Shepard killed a deer on his 75th birthday.

When he and his wife celebrated their Golden Wedding he wore again the elaborate satin vest that was worn by his father on his wedding day.

1. Clinton Edwin, eldest son of J. W. and Mollie Haggard Shepard, born on White Rock April 12, 1882, is a graduate of Plano High School. On one occasion his Grandfather Haggard gave each of the “Clint Haggards” a sum of money, and he (the eldest of the namesakes) won a five dollar prize for making the most out of the original gift. Farmer and stockman, he is associated with his father in business and enjoys with him the prizes which they win. Clinton Edwin and Maude Goode, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Goode of Plano, were married at the Baptist church December 21, 1904 by Rev. J. G. Pulliam. Maude was born June 18, 1883. She has taught music in Plano; plays the organ in church; and on the fine piano which her father gave her plays duets with her sons. Her gentle manner and sweet disposition remind one of Nannie Kate Haggard. Their six children are: (1) William Edwin; (2) Clinton Elmer; (3) John Slater; (4) Julia Maurine; (5) Haggard Goode; (6) George Lewis.

(1) William Edwin (Bill), eldest son of Clinton E. and Maude Goode Shepard, born at Plano Dec. 18, 1907, was educated in Plano High School and Texas A. & M. College. Scientifically trained, he is a very successful farmer. He and Marian Hammond, daughter of W. T. Hammond, were married in the Christian church, Plainview, Feb. 14, 1931 by Bro. Ament. Marian was born Aug. 9, 1909. They live at Oak Ridge, La., and have one daughter (a) Molly Nell.

(a) Molly Nell Shepard, born Jan. 31, 1934, is the eldest great-great-grandchild of Clinton S. and Nannie Kate Haggard. She has her own pony and rides with her mother; and her grandmother for whom she was named says she should have been called "Sunshine."

(2) Clinton Elmer (Buck), son of Clinton E. and Maude Goode Shepard, born at Plainview June 22, 1910. When only six years old he rode in a Horse Show at Plainview Fair, winning first prize in a field of fifty entrants. After graduating from Plano High School at the age of fifteen, he received a business education at Metropolitan Business College, Dallas, and is now manager of a general merchandise store in Oak Ridge, Louisiana. He and Sue Norris were married June 12, 1935, and at his wedding he wore the Shepard wedding vest. Sue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Norris of Oak Ridge, La., was born Nov. 7, 1913. She is a graduate of Kidd-Key College. Sherman.

(3) John Slater, son of Clinton E. and Maude Goode Shepard, born at Plainview, Feb. 5, 1913: died Feb. 24 the same year.

(4) Julia Maurine (Judy), daughter of Clinton E. and Maude Goode Shepard, born Aug. 7, 1914 at Plainview. In Plano High School from which she graduated she was voted the best all-round student in sports, music and class work. She plays the piano, and with her mother is an interested church worker.

(5) Haggard Goode, son of Clinton E. and Maude Goode Shepard, born in Plano April 14, 1921, is named for his grandparents and great-grandparents. A senior in Plano High School, he possesses a natural talent for music, and plays the pipe organ for junior church activities.

(6) George Lewis, son of Clinton E. and Maude Goode Shepard, was born in Plano Dec. 25, 1923.
He is a black-eyed youngster who resembles his mother. At the age of five he began riding in County Fairs and won prizes for the best horsemanship. He attends Plano High School and his interest in athletics has turned to football.

2. Bessie Crawford, daughter of J. W. and Mollie Haggard Shepard, was born at Woodland Cottage March 31, 1884. After graduating with honors from high school, she went with a party of seventeen friends to the World’s Fair in St. Louis, and later went on a Frank Reedy Tour to Yellowstone National Park. She and Robert Leslie Shelton were married in Plano Christian Church, June 7, 1906, by Rev. E. H. Holmes. Bessie likes books and fine needlework; and her hobby is “Finding Out Who is Who.” She is a member of several well known study clubs. She loves her home and makes it a happy place. Robert Leslie, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Shelton, born Sept. 15, 1885, is a graduate in Pharmacy; member of the Masonic Lodge; a Knight Templar and a Shriner. They have resided in Dallas since 1914, and have one son: Robert Leslie, Jr.

   (1) Robert Leslie Shelton, Jr., born Dec. 15, 1915, is a graduate of Highland Park High School; an Eagle Scout; member of the crack team of Highland Park R.O.T.C. He is a Delta Phi Kappa, and is now attending Southern Methodist University.

3. Theodore Clifton, son of J. W. and Mollie Haggard Shepard, born Aug. 5, 1885, was educated in Plano High School and Texas Christian University, Waco. He and Bernice Blanche Gale were united in marriage by Bro. Ament at Dalhart, Texas, March 4, 1909. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Gale of Oregon, Ill. Friendly and generous, Bernice delights in making a happy, hospitable home for her family.

   Theo, seeking a climate beneficial to asthma, settled in Plainview, Texas, where he is a landowner, a director in the bank, and owns and operates the Shepard Buick-Chevrolet Company. He is a Mason and Shriner; Deacon in the Christian church; Past President of Plainview Country Club; and through the Chamber of Commerce, of which he is Past President, works consistently for the upbuilding and advancement of his city. He and his wife had three children: (1) William Gale; (2) Mary Rogene; (3) Molly Ann.

(1) William Gale, son of Theodore and Bernice Gale Shepard, born Aug. 8, 1910 at Dalhart, was a vivid and interesting boy who loved to ride his Shetland ponies in horse shows at County Fairs. An only son—his father’s pride and joy—he died at the early age of six years.

(2) Mary Rogene was born in Plainview, Aug. 13, 1915. After graduating from High School, this vivacious brunette attended Ward-Belmont and Southern Methodist University, and graduated from the University of Texas with a Bachelor of Arts Degree. A member of Kappa Kappa Gamma Sorority, she attended its National Convention in Yellowstone National Park in 1934. She has enjoyed with her family “Seeing America First” and has visited Mexico City and Acapulco.

(3) Molly Ann, born Jan. 10, 1927; died May 6, 1931. The death of this second child, who was as fair and beautiful as an angel, was a heartbreaking loss to her father and mother.

4. Infant son of J. W. and Mollie Haggard Shepard, born and died April 10, 1892.

5. Emma Catherine, daughter of J. W. and Mollie Haggard Shepard, was born at Woodland Cottage May 8, 1888, and was educated in Plano High School and Mary Connor College, Paris, Texas. She and Robert Earl Barham were married in the Christian Church, Plano, June 22, 1917, by Elder John T. Bradberry. After a trip to the Pacific Coast they returned to Oak Ridge where they reside. Emma is active in the local Parent-Teacher Association; interests herself in matters of civic importance; is a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution; and directs the management of a beautiful home.
Earl, the son of the late Wm. T. and Ada Barham, prominent pioneer family of Oak Ridge, La., is a planter whose interests include a sawmill, cotton gins and a general merchandise store, in the management of which two sons and two nephews are employed. He and his wife and their four children are a busy and interesting family. The children are: (1) William Shepard; (2) Robert Earl (R. L.; Jr.; (3) Bessie Catherine; (4) Theodore Shepard.

(1) William Shepard, eldest son of R. E. and Emma Shepard Barham, born May 3, 1918, graduated from Oak Ridge High School and is now attending Louisiana State University. He closely resembles his father, and while given to making jokes, is also methodical in work and habit.

(2) Robert Earl (R. E.), Jr., born Dec. 3, 1920, graduated from Oak Ridge High School and attends Louisiana State University with his brother. Kindly and affable, but practical and businesslike, he spends much of his time in his father’s stores. Likes to make money and save it, and is sometimes called “Lucky Boy Barham” because he seems to have a “Midas touch.”

(3) Bessie Catherine, born Dec. 23, 1923, is studious and independent; constant in friendship, and adaptable to circumstances. She is a pretty brunette with hazel eyes and black hair.

(4) Theodore Shepard Barham, born November 23, 1926, is described as “Slow and Easy,” a boy who sings all the time and always “comes up smiling.”

6. Mary Irene, daughter of J. W. and Mollie Haggard Shepard, born at Woodland Cottage March 12, 1890, resembles her aristocratic grandmother, Mary Ann Huffman Shepard. She inherited from her an artistic temperament and her collection of cameos. After graduating from High School, Mary attended Virginia College, Roanoke, Va., where she studied music and art, majoring in voice. While in College she sang on “Concert Nights,” representing the Voice Department of the school, and after returning home continued her study under Professor Clarence Ashenden at Dallas. She and James Louis White, Jr., were married at the home of her parents June 24, 1913, by Rev. G. A. Faris. James L., Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. White of McKinney, was in the banking business in that city. His father was at one time President of the Texas Bankers Association. After living in McKinney several years, James L. and Mary Shepard White moved to Dallas where he was connected with the American Exchange National Bank. They were divorced in 1926. Mary and her daughter interested themselves in art, and Mary studied first at Dallas under Frank Klepper. She was encouraged in her work by the advice and criticism of Mrs. Virginia Battaile Betts, and has studied more recently at the Artist's Colony, near San Antonio, under Robert Wood, prominent landscape artist. She is a member of the Dallas Art Association, and her pictures have been exhibited in Galleries at Dallas and other cities. At the Texas Centennial in 1936 a Model Home—"The Southern Pine House"—was exhibited with its entire decorative scheme planned around "Texas Cactus," the work of Mary Shepard White.

Their two children are: (1) Mary Louise; (2) Clinton Shepard.

(1) Mary Louise, daughter of James L. and Mary Shepard White, born June 14, 1916 in McKinney, Texas. After graduating from Highland Park High School, Dallas, she married George Dulany Lingo, Sept. 11, 1934. Mary Louise, a charming hostess who loves to entertain her friends, is a member of the Junior League at Dallas. Dulany, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Lingo, born April 30, 1913, is a tennis champion with several trophies to his credit. He and his wife are enthusiastic followers of the sport of sailing, and in 1937 took their boat, the "Breakaway" to New York and Dulany sailed it in the International Snipe Races at New Rochelle. He is Vice-President of Lingo Lumber Company, and a member of Terpsichoreean, Idlewild and Dallas Country Clubs. They have two children: (a) Ann Shepard; (b) Mary Louise.

(a) Ann Shepard Lingo, born Oct. 12, 1936, is a beautiful blonde baby who resembles her mother.

(b) Mary Louise Lingo, born Dec. 4, 1937, is very like her father.

(2) Clinton Shepard White, son of James L. and Mary Shepard White, born July 3, 1918, died Dec. 16, 1925. Resembling his mother whom he adored, Shepard was a child whose tender and understanding love is a precious memory to those who knew him.

7. Joseph William, Jr., son of J. W. and Mollie Haggard Shepard, born in Plano Feb. 1, 1897, graduated from Plano High School and studied business administration in commercial schools and at the University of Texas. Volunteered in the National Army in 1917, and served as Sergeant-Major to Staff Officers in the 18th Division at San Antonio. On July 17, 1919, he married Ann Lowry Eason, daughter of John F. and Adria Jackson Eason of Lenoir City, Tenn., whose mother was a member of the Jackson-Bowman families, and father a member of the Allen-Lowry families, early settlers of Georgia and East Tennessee, and whose history is prominently connected with both Revolutionary and Civil Wars and the development of the Old South. Ann Lowry likes book reviews, plays excellent golf, and has a definite flair for style.

"J. W.," in the cotton oil industry since 1921, moved from Gainesville to Dallas in 1936 to serve as manager of Planters Cotton Oil Company. He is active in community welfare work; is a 32nd degree Mason and Shriner; past-president of the Chamber of Commerce and Lion's Club at Plano; past-president of Rotary and Country Club at Gainesville; member of Rotary and the Athletic Club of Dallas. His recreational hobbies are golf and hunting.
Mrs. Nannie Haggard Bishop
II. NANNIE ELIZABETH, daughter of Clinton S. and Nannie Kate Haggard, was born Feb. 24, 1863, near Plano, Texas. She was educated in Three-H Academy and Add-Ran College, Thorpe Springs, Texas. She married James Paxton Newsom, son of Dr. and Mrs. Allen Newsom, formerly of Jackson Hill, N. C., at the White Rock home of her parents, Nov. 2, 1882. Mr. Newsom was a Methodist preacher and also a merchant in McKinney, Texas, where they first made their home. He died at the Haggard home Aug. 5, 1886, and was buried in Bethany cemetery with Masonic honors. They had one daughter:

I. Lottie Kate Newsom was born in McKinney, June 22, 1885. She graduated from Paris High School and attended the College of Industrial Arts, Denton, Texas. When she was a child she always loved to sit in the second pew at church with her grandmother, Nannie Kate Haggard. Her fine character and lovable disposition endeared her to all who knew her. She and Homer Titus of Greenville, Texas, were married by Bro. Walker, Oct. 5, 1910, in the Christian church, San Angelo, Texas. Homer, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Al Titus, was born near Celeste, Texas. Lottie Kate died at her mother's home in Sinton, Feb. 10, 1915, and is buried there.

After the death of her husband, Mrs. Nannie Haggard Newsom returned home and lived with her father and mother until December 31, 1891, when she and Thomas Connor Bishop of Dallas were married by Elder L. B. Grogan. Mr. Bishop, son of Alexander and Lida Bishop, of Powell Station, Tennessee, was born December 9, 1861. He was a merchant in Hunt county, Texas, until 1900, when he moved to Paris and engaged in commission and brokerage business. He was Mayor of Paris at one time, but later moved to Sinton, Texas, where he died October 5, 1912.

Mrs. Nannie Haggard Bishop returned to Plano in 1916 where she and her sister, Mrs. Emma Haggard Bishop, have a home together. Her friends call her the "Lavender Lady," because she likes to wear that color most of the time. She has an interesting collection of pitchers, some of which are very old, and she also collects miniature elephants. One of her heirlooms, a covered glass preserve dish of Western Hoe design, is nearly one hundred years old, and her piano stool, covered with brocaded velvet, was brought overland from Kentucky in the fifties. Sunny and cheerful in spirit, her father often said of her that, "She has a special talent for being happy." Her children by Mr. Bishop are: Clinton Connor; Gladys Haggard; Mary Elizabeth.

1. Clinton Connor Bishop was born Jan. 29, 1896, at White Rock, Hunt County, Texas. After graduating from Sinton High School, he enlisted in the United States Army and spent one and one-half years with an engineering corps in the World War. After his return from Europe he married Dora Marshall Witherspoon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Witherspoon, in St. Mark's Cathedral, San Antonio, Dec. 12, 1923. They were divorced in 1929. Connor is a successful oil man, with interests in several Texas fields. He is senior member of the firm, Bishop & Woods, with offices in San Antonio and Corpus Christi, Texas. His pleasant personality attracts people to him, and he has many friends wherever he goes. On July 5, 1931, he married Mrs. Dorothy Lucille Greer in Houston, Texas. She is the daughter of Charles Owen Taulbee and Lillian Miranda Johnson Taulbee, born Oct. 28, 1905. She has one son, William David, born Oct. 1, 1927, who by adoption is now William David Bishop. The Bishops reside in Olmos Park, San Antonio.

2. Gladys Haggard Bishop was born May 29, 1901, at Paris, Texas. After graduating from Plano High School, she was married to Frederick Joseph Harrington, Oct. 8, 1919. The ceremony was performed in the Christian church, Plano, by Rev. A. M. Glover. Fred Harrington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Harrington, Plano, was born Sept. 19, 1899. From the estate of his grandfather, Silas L. Harrington, he inherited farm land near Plano which included the original Col. Moss homestead. He and Gladys have recently improved this home, in which they live, and it is now numbered among the country places for which Collin county is famous. The thoughtful study and expert management which Gladys gives her home is evident on every side. In the garden among her flowers are grown the finest varieties of fruit and vegetables, from which she has made cooking and canning an art. She collects antiques and owns several very lovely pieces of walnut. Their children are:

(1) Joseph Hunter, born Aug. 6, 1921, at Plano, Texas. He is a member of the football team at Plano High School, from which he will graduate this year. He displays talent for drawing cartoons, and is a good "mimic," as are many members of the Haggard clan.

(2) Connor Frederick was born Jan. 7, 1925, at Plano. He plays football; is a Boy Scout; collects stamps and old and foreign money.

3. Mary Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas C. and Nannie Haggard Bishop, was born May 3, 1903, in Paris, Texas. An honor graduate of Plano High School, she attended Bonn Avon School, San Antonio, and Texas Christian University, Fort Worth. She and Edgar Howard Bush were married in the Christian church, Plano, Jan. 26, 1923, by Rev. R. D. Shults.

Edgar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Walker Bush, was born at Allen, Texas, Nov. 19, 1889. He attended James Academy, McKinney, and graduated from Texas Christian University with an A. B. degree. He is a Mason and a Shriner, and lives on a farm near McKinney, which is a part of his inheritance. He proudly traces his ancestry through five generations to Phillip and Mary Bryan Bush of Orange county, Va. (See Bush Family, Chapter VII.)

Elizabeth Bishop has a definite talent for artistic and original party arrangements. She has played the violin in church; is past president of the Halcyon Literary Club; president of the Junior Missionary Society. One of her interests is preserving old family treasures. She has the spool bed which Major William Martin Bush gave to Edgar's father and mother when they started keeping house, and a hand-woven coverlet that was made by his Grandmother Franklin in Kentucky. They have one daughter:

(1) Nancy Lou, born Aug. 29, 1924, is a reserved and studious child who makes straight A grades in Junior High School. She is eligible on both sides of her family to membership in Daughters of the American Revolution, and has medals won by her great-grandfather, Major William Martin Bush, as well as a diary kept by him during the Civil War.
III. JOHN WILLIAM, eldest son of Clinton S. and Nannie Kate Haggard, was born December 23, 1865, at White Rock, near Plano. He was educated in Three-H Academy and Add-Ran College, Thorpe Springs, Texas. He enjoyed good music, as do so many members of this family. He bought his first farm in Collin county in 1885 and devoted fifty years to farming. He believed in and practiced the custom of giving his children a part of their inheritance early, and so it was that each child upon reaching maturity received a share which enabled him to make an advantageous start in life.

John William Haggard married Hallie Jackson Fletcher, daughter of John and Martha Collier Fletcher, at the Fletcher home on White Rock, Nov. 18, 1885. Rev. Ed White, pastor of Lebanon Church, performed the ceremony. Hallie was born July 2, 1867, at White Rock. She possesses a genuine interest in people around her. She has raised four sons and one daughter who are a credit and an honor to her. She and her husband celebrated their “Golden Wedding Day” in 1935, with more than 350 relatives and friends present. She is a member of Plano Christian Church, where her husband held the office of Elder at the time of his death.

In appearance and characteristics, John was a true descendant of the handsome and dignified Haggards. His word was his bond and his many friends loved and trusted him completely. He was the third “JOHN” in direct line of descent from Nathaniel—the generations being:

Schoolteacher James Haggard, father of Nathaniel Haggard I. m. Elizabeth Gentry, and had John Haggard I. m. Mary Shepard, and had John Haggard II. m. Mourning Quisenberry, and had Clinton Shepard Haggard, m. Nannie Kate Lunsford, and had John William Haggard, m. Hallie Fletcher, and had Ray Fletcher Haggard, m. Jessie Dean, and had John Yates Haggard.

John William Haggard died April 20, 1937, and is buried in Restland Memorial Park.
Their six children are: Clyde Lee, John Clinton, Ray Fletcher, Jennie Jackson, Walter Dewey, and Martha Kate.

1. Clyde Lee Haggard was born Oct. 8, 1887, at the John Haggard home near White Rock. He was educated in Plano High School and Add-Ran College, Thorpe Springs, Texas. He married Nancy Beatrice Daffron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Daffron, at her home near White Rock, Nov. 28, 1909. Beatrice was born at Old Dublin, near Plano, May 24, 1891. She is known for her sympathy, understanding and tolerance, and she possesses a deep spiritual nature which colors her life.

They lived in Plainview for a short time, but soon returned home and now reside on a farm near Plano. Clyde is large in stature, with many of the characteristics of his father. He is a member of the Masonic Lodge. This family is interesting in its genuine love of country life. Each of their daughters has been taught a fine appreciation of values and the art of managing a home perfectly. They are:

(1) Jennie Marguerite, born Nov. 21, 1911, educated in Plano High School and Teachers College, Denton, Texas, where she specialized in literature and science. She has a definite talent for writing, as shown by her newspaper work. She has auburn hair and brown eyes.

(2) Hallie Maude, born Feb. 15, 1913, graduated from Plano High School and Teachers College, Denton, Texas. She also attended summer school in Boulder, Colo., and is now teaching in Lebanon School. She enjoys horseback riding. While traveling in Yellowstone National Park she started collecting miniature horses and continues this amusing hobby. Her eyes and hair are black.

(3) Quincy Pearl was born Dec. 30, 1921. She attends Plano High School, and is studying music for which she has the Haggard talent. She is the first of the family to be recorded as an amateur philatelist. She is blonde, with blue eyes.

2. John Clinton, son of J. W. and Hallie Fletcher Haggard, was born Jan. 20, 1889. He was educated in Plano High School and Texas Christian College, Waco, Texas. He married Quincy Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Scott, near Waco, Dec. 1, 1915. Quincy, born Jan. 23, 1894, near Bosqueville, Texas, has a strong personality: is original in thought: and is very helpful to people in illness or trouble.

Clint is tall and slender; a friendly, pleasant person: in appearance resembling his great-grandfather, John Haggard II. He loves to read good books and counts them his friends. He enjoys to the fullest the busy industrious life of a farmer, and lives in an attractive home on his farm near White Rock Creek. He and has family are described as being "individual in the perfection of their life in the country." The only child born to them is:

(1) Scott Haggard, born July 17, 1925. He is alert: concentrates on the job: and always makes the honor roll at school. He is interested in life on the farm, and although only 11 years of age, does his share of the work. He inherited the gold chain his Grandfather Haggard received on his 50th wedding anniversary.

3. Ray Fletcher, third son of John William and Hallie Fletcher Haggard, was born July 10, 1893 at the family home near White Rock. He was educated in Plano High School and Texas Christian University, Fort Worth, Texas. He enlisted in the U. S. Army, Company B, 111th Ammunition Train, 36th Division, and served eight months overseas during the World War. He and Jessie Dean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Dean, were united in marriage Nov. 11, 1920, at Dallas, Texas. Dr. W. M. Anderson, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, performed the ceremony. Jessie, who was born Nov. 6, 1904, is a gracious person, who has the happy faculty of making her home a real home. Like his father and his brothers, Ray is a successful farmer and stockman. He resides near Plano in the old Fletcher homestead which he and Jessie have rebuilt into a modern colonial home. It stands in the beautiful grove where his Grandmother Fletcher once kept a flock of gorgeous peacocks. He has many friends—but is given to keeping his own counsel. Their only child is:

(1) John Yates Haggard, who was born Nov. 18, 1921, is named for his grandparents, and is the fifth John Haggard. Johnny is happy and friendly, and attends Plano High School. He inherited the watch which was given to Clinton S. Haggard by his children when he celebrated his golden wedding.

4. Jennie Jackson Haggard, daughter of John William and Hallie Fletcher Haggard, was born Dec. 17, 1896, at the family home. This beautiful daughter attended Plano High School and entered Carr-Burdette College, where she was majoring in music for which she inherited rare talent. While a student in this College she died—after a short illness—on October 12, 1912, her life, so full of rich promise, being brought to a close when she was only sixteen years of age. She is buried in Restland Memorial Park.

5. Walter Dewey (Doc), son of John William and Hallie Fletcher Haggard, was born Sept. 14, 1898, at the family home near White Rock, and named for Admiral Dewey. After graduating from High School he attended Texas A. & M. College, College Station, Texas. He married Florrie Bowman, September 21, 1921, in the Methodist Church, Plano. Florrie, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bowman, Jr., and grand-daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bowman, Sr., prominent pioneers of Collin county, was born Oct. 3, 1901 at Plano. After graduating from High School Florrie attended Southern Methodist University, where she was a member of Pi Phi Sorority. Possessed of innate refinement, she is able to adapt herself to all situations. Another characteristic is loyalty to friends and loved ones. She is keenly aware of the worthwhile things in life, and graciously performs them.

Walter Dewey, an original mimic, sings and yodels and delights his friends with the whimsical quality of his wit and humor. Because of his sympathy and understanding.
adults and children alike value his friendship. Among the family heirlooms which he has are the C. S. Haggard cradle, a four-poster (with rockers) made of solid walnut; the walnut sewing table that belonged to Nannie Kate Haggard; and the gold-headed cane which George and Jack Bowman presented to C. S. Haggard on his Golden Wedding Day. He and his three brothers live on adjoining farms near the original Haggard home on White Rock. He is a steward in the Methodist church at Plano, and his family takes an active part in church work. He and Florrie maintain a happy comradeship with their two daughters: (1) Fannie May; (2) Florrie Kate.

(1) Fannie May, daughter of Walter Dewey and Florrie Bowman Haggard, was born July 13, 1922. She has a merry voice and a happy face, and her winsome grace reminds one of Jennie Jackson Haggard.

(2) Florrie Kate, daughter of Walter Dewey and Florrie Bowman Haggard, was born May 9, 1926. Named for her mother and grandmother, she is called "Kate Haggard." She is straightforward and sincere, with a dislike for four walls and a desire to stay out doors.

6. Martha Kate, daughter of John William and Hallie Fletcher Haggard, was born July 2, 1907 (her mother's birthday), at the family home near White Rock. She is a graduate of Plano High School, and attended Texas Christian University, Fort Worth, and Mrs. Cocke's School of Expression, Dallas. She is another Haggard endowed with a brilliant mind and a love for good books. One of the interests which she enjoys most is the Mary K. Craig Class, where she will be able to develop her talent for dramatic art. Among her family heirlooms are old books, and pieces of glass and furniture which belonged to her grandmother, Nannie Kate Haggard.

On September 6, 1927, she was married to Edward C. Allen, Jr., in the Christian church, Plano, with Rev. Eugene McConley reading the ceremony. Edward, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Allen of Plano, was born Nov. 4, 1906, in Sherman, Texas, and is a direct descendant of Phillip Bush of Virginia (See Chapter VII for Bush ancestry.) He enjoys outdoor sports, and, as a hobby, plays with electrical mechanics. He is engaged in insurance business in Dallas, Texas, where he and his wife reside. They have one daughter:

(1) Annette Allen, born June 7, 1933, is an unusual child with brown eyes and golden hair, who at the early age of three years shows a definite response to music.
Mr. and Mrs. George Albert Ray
IV. Jennie Lee, daughter of Clinton S. and Nannie Kate Haggard, was born July 19, 1868, at the family home. She was named for Mrs. Jennie Collier Jackson (wife of Capt. John A. Jackson, neighbor of C. S. and Nannie Kate Haggard), who played the part of Godmother to her namesake. She was educated in Three-H Academy and Carlton College, Bonham, Texas. One of her happy memories is of a trip to Kentucky with her mother to visit her father's relatives—Mr. and Mrs. Clif Haggard, Mr. and Mrs. John Haggard, Mr. and Mrs. Will Tucker and their daughter Mattie (who later visited her in Texas), and Mr. and Mrs. James Haggard, at Winchester, Ky.

Like her father, with whom she enjoyed many mutual interests, she likes beauty in all forms. Being musical he often requested her to play for him, which she loved doing, and he would give her a gift if she could play by ear something she had heard. Pretty and vivacious, she has always enjoyed social life.

Jennie Lee Haggard was married to George Albert Ray, stockman of Pettus, Texas, June 22, 1892 (See Chapter IX for Ray Family History.) The wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. L. B. Grogan at the home of her father and mother and was attended by many relatives and friends. Her wedding attendants were Misses Julia Mister, Jennie Ray, Susie Porter, Paralee Weaver, and Messrs. Ed C. Lasater, H. F. Kauffmann, W. H. Lewis and W. C. Lemmon.

The Ray country home, "Bonny View," has always reflected the hospitality and friendly charm of its owners. In the Music Room is the Buck Winn portrait of C. S. Haggard, Mrs. Ray's father (it was exhibited in Texas under the title: The Pioneer); and in the Library among the numerous and interesting books is the "Gentleman's Chest" dated 1792 which she inherited from him; and the steel engraving of George Washington which hung in the old family home. She cherishes also the old sampler which her mother made in 1852. Beautifully embroidered are the words:
'If joys which thou has cherished long
  Be severed from thy heart,
If thou hast seen thy brightest dream
  Like sunbeams all depart:
If from the tendrils of thy soul
  Its dearest ties be riven,
Faint not, thou hast a living home,
  A glorious hope in heaven.'

Nannie C. Lunsford,

1852

Mrs. Ray and her husband attended the first World's Fair in Chicago in 1893, and they often went to Colorado during the summer. About 1912 the family summered at Chautauqua, New York, and in 1915 they went to the San Francisco Exposition. In 1934 Mr. and Mrs. Ray, after visiting the Chicago Century of Progress with their son, George, sailed for a three months tour of Europe which included Mediterranean and Scandinavian cruises, and at a later date they visited the Hawaiian Islands.

Jennie Lee Ray has always been admired for her charming manner and genuine interest in other people. She has been a member of the Battle of Flowers Association since its organization; she is a member of Alamo Chapter D. A. R., San Antonio, No. 297910; and an out-of-town member of the Daughters of the Confederacy. She is an honorary member of the Rosetta Club and one of the founders of the Wednesday Luncheon Club of Beeville.

The Christian church of Pettus was largely erected and supported by Mr. and Mrs. Ray, and she has always played the organ for services. In this little church meetings were held by Rev. Randolph Clark, Rev. A. J. Bush, Rev. J. W. Holsapple and many other noted evangelists. The Sunday School Annex has recently been built. Rev. H. S. Sheets, the present pastor, was educated at the Johnson Bible School, where C. S. Haggard aided so many student ministers.

Love for family and pride in ancestry, dominant influences in her life, led Mrs. Ray to compile and publish this genealogy as a memorial to her father and mother.

1. Clinton Haggard Ray, eldest child of George Albert and Jennie Lee Haggard Ray, was born Aug. 4, 1895, near Pettus, Texas. After High School in Tuleta, he graduated from A. & M. College, College Station, Texas, in 1916, and the next year attended Eastman Business College, Poughkeepsie, New York. In 1917 he joined the U. S. army and went to France where he served one and one-half years in the Rainbow Division. While at St. Nazaire he received an invitation from his distant kinsman, Sir H. Rider Haggard in London, to visit him, but to his great regret was unable to secure leave.

He saw his cousins, Connor Bishop and Ray Haggard, in France—also his friend, Loren Bates, of Beeville, all of whom were in the service of their country at this time. He visited in the home of the sister of Louis René Bazin, son of the famous French novelist and friend of Haggard’s sister, Romayne. At Camp Mills, New York, before going to France, he met H. Rider Haggard, son of Dixie Haggard of Missouri, who was named for Sir H. Rider Haggard and who was going overseas at the same time. A strange coincidence.

Shortly after his return in 1919 he assumed management of his father’s large ranch near Fort Thomas, Arizona. In 1922 he came home and married Monna Helen Bates on June 28 at the Presbyterian Church in Beeville. Rev. E. H. Hudson officiating. After living in Arizona for two years, they moved to La Maroma Ranch in Mexico, which he managed for himself and his father until 1926. They now live in a charming home near Pettus.

Haggard is fond of ranch life and is kept extremely busy helping his father supervise their large holdings. He is patient, loyal and sincere. In appearance, like the Harrgards—greatly resembling his Uncle Clifton Haggard. He is a trustee of Pettus High School, and a prominent young business man of Bee and Goliad counties who is highly regarded in every way.

Monna Helen Bates Ray, born Aug. 21, 1901, is the daughter of Mac Warren and Myra Wilder Bates. Mr. Bates, born in Burke county, Ga., came to Texas at the age of 21 years. For many years he was vice president of the First National Bank of Beeville, where he was greatly beloved. Monna graduated from Beeville High School and attended the University of Texas. She likes gardening and books, gives good book reviews and is talented in literary criticism. She is chairman of the Junior Auxiliary of the Presbyterian church in Beeville and a teacher in Sunday School. She is a member of the Bee County Board of Health; past president of the Beta Sigma Sorority; and past president of the Rosetta Club of Beeville.

2. Mary Katharine, daughter of George Albert and Jennie Lee Haggard Ray, was born Nov. 29, 1896 at Bonny View Ranch, near Pettus, Texas. She was the first blue-eyed baby born in the dark-eyed Haggard family. When a little girl, her grandmother, Nannie Kate Haggard, interested her in the history of the Haggards, and it has been her pleasure to carry on the work. An amethyst brooch, the gift of Mary E. Harrington on the Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary of the C. S. Haggards, was given to her by her grandmother. After graduating from Virginia College, Roanoke, Va., where she majored in Music and Domestic Science and received her Bachelor of Arts Degree, she attended Mount Vernon Seminary, Washington, D. C.

She was presented as the “Duchess of Beeville” in the Battle of Flowers, Order of the Alamo, which yearly commemorates the Battle of San Jacinto at San Antonio, and her Princess was her sister, Romayne.

Mary Katharine Ray and Silas Frederick Harrington were united in marriage May 10, 1921 at Bonny View, by Dr. Hugh McClellan. Mary Ray Harrington has an unusual amount of initiative and creative ability, and possesses a determination that makes her see things through. Her sympathetic understanding is a quality that has ideally fitted her for her life as the wife of a successful doctor. She is past president of the Woman's Auxiliary to Dallas County Medical Society; a member of the official board of the Auxiliary to the State Medical Association; vice president of Marianne Scruggs Garden Club; chairman of Children's Entertainment Committee and a member of the Board of Directors of the Dallas Woman's Club.

Silas Frederick Harrington, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Marion Harrington of Plano, was born Dec. 17, 1893. He graduated from Plano High School; from University of Texas; and from the Medical School at Galveston with the degree of M. D. He did post graduate work in the University of Pennsylvania and Jefferson Hospital at Philadelphia, and studied bronchoscopy under Dr. Chevalier Jackson at Temple Hospital in Philadelphia. He is an eye, ear, nose and throat specialist in Dallas, and was elected to the College of Surgeons in 1930. Dr. Harrington is a Deacon in East Dallas Christian church; a 32nd Degree Mason and Shriner; a member of Salesmanship Club; Koon Kreek Klub; Dallas Athletic Club; Dallas Country Club; American Medical Association and State Medical Association. He is especially fitted to be a physician, not only by reason of his training but also because of his love and understanding of people.

The hobby of the Harrington family is amateur photography, taking motion pictures of the family (especially interesting are the pictures of the entire Haggard clan taken on C. S. Haggard's ninetieth birthday); and they plan to take "Famous Gardens" throughout Europe this summer. Their favorite sport is fishing, which they have enjoyed in South Texas, Mexico and Canada.

The two lovely children are:

(1) Marion Ray, born Sept. 20, 1924 in Dallas, Texas. Ray is tall, slender, and quiet—resembling his father. He loves to read, and he also loves to ride and shoot on his Grandfather Ray's ranch, where he and his sister ride with Cris House, trainer of the Ray polo horses. Last year Ray attended National Scout Jamboree in Washington, D. C. He attends Junior High School.

(2) Mary Katharine (Kay), born April 3, 1926 in Dallas, resembles her mother; and her great love of the country was inherited from her grandfather. She has an interesting collection of dolls, and with her brother has a large library of children's books. She is so full of the joy of life that she constantly "bubbles over" with happiness.

3. Romayne, daughter of George Albert and Jennie Lee Haggard Ray, was born Sept. 12, 1900 at Bonny View Ranch near Pettus. She was named for Romaine Fitzwilliams of Leavenworth, Kansas, girlhood friend of her mother. (Mary, Elizabeth and Romaine Fitzwilliams were nieces of the John A. Jacksons, Browny Glen, and frequently visited them and the Frank Jacksons, near Plano.)

While still a young girl of thirteen, Romayne went to school in Roanoke, Virginia, and later entered Bonn Avon School in San Antonio, where she graduated in 1918. She then attended Mount Vernon Seminary in Washington, D. C.

In 1920 she took part in the Fiesta de San Jacinto Coronation in San Antonio with her sister Mary.

On October 16, 1922, she and Walter Guenther Giesecke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Giesecke of San Antonio, were married by Dr. Hugh McClellan at Bonny View. They were divorced in 1937.

Romayne likes to travel and makes many interesting trips, one of which was a long tour of Europe in 1930. Later she made a cruise of Mediterranean and Scandinavian Countries. She has visited Cuba and Mexico City, and goes frequently to California and New York. She lives in San Antonio where she is a member of the Junior League, the Battle of Flowers Association, the Conservation Society, and San Antonio Country Club.

She is slim, brown-eyed and beautiful.
4. George Albert Ray, Jr., youngest son of George Albert and Jennie Lee Haggard Ray, was born Aug. 27, 1903 at Bonny View Ranch near Pettus. After graduating from Allan Carter Jones High School in Beeville he went with Professor T. M. Clark and the Wood boys on a long western trip to California, Washington and Oregon, on a boat trip to Alaska, and back by way of the Grand Canyon. He attended the University of Texas and Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Va. He worked for four years in the Beeville First National Bank, then bought a half-interest in the Roberts Company and an interest in the Pettus Refining Company; and he has gone into the ranching business, owning a herd of cattle which he keeps at Austwell on the Texas coast. He lives with his parents at Bonny View.

George Albert Ray, Jr., is a member of the Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity, a member of the San Antonio German Club, and is a 32nd Degree Mason. He is one of the most successful of the young business men of South Texas. Being independent and strong-willed, he inspires confidence in his judgment, and like his father has the determination to win. He has a droll sense of humor and is very popular with his friends.

5. Dorothy, youngest child of George Albert and Jennie Lee Haggard Ray, born Sept. 17, 1909 at Bonny View Ranch, possesses the capacity for knowing what she wants and going after it. She also has an awareness of values that makes her grateful for the pleasant things in life that come to her. Being very small with big blue eyes, she often surprises people with her self-reliance and ability. She is friendly, generous and adaptable. She attended Hockaday School in Dallas; St. Mary's Hall in San Antonio; and graduated from Martha Washington Seminary in Washington, D. C.

In 1930 Dorothy Ray made her debut in San Antonio while spending the winter with her parents at the Aurora Apartments. She was presented with the Intown Court by the Order of the Alamo as the Goddess of Youth, Hebe, in the Court of Olympus. She visited Honolulu with Mrs.
Walter Nolte and daughter, Eleanor Nolte, another debuttante of that year.

Dorothy and Millard Lewis were united in marriage Nov. 14, 1931, in St. Paul’s Episcopal church, San Antonio, by Dr. W. A. Pearman.

Millard Lewis, youngest son of Hon. Fulton Lewis and Elizabeth Saville Lewis, was born in Washington, D.
C., Dec. 8, 1906. He attended Jackson School in Geotown; Western High School; and Columbian Preparatory School (Schadmann’s). Entering West Point Military Academy July 1, 1926, he graduated June 12, 1930. He continued his army training in the Air Corps Flying School at Kelly Field, from which he graduated with the rank of Lieutenant in October 1931.

He and Dorothy Ray, whom he met when she made her debut in San Antonio, were married and went to March Field, California, to live. In 1933 he was transferred to Hamilton Field, San Francisco, where they lived until July, 1937, when he was sent to Albrook Field, Canal Zone, where he is a First Lieutenant, Air Corps.
U. S. Army. Millard and Dorothy live a colorful and interesting life, traveling almost exclusively by air. For six years they have gone back and forth between California and Washington and San Antonio by plane, and their eldest son, Millard, Jr., when only two years of age had a record of 81 hours flying. Millard is a tennis champion and represents the Army in tournaments in Washington every year.
He is a member of Chevy Chase Club in Washington, and the Army and Navy Country Club, Arlington, Va. Their two sons are:

(1) Millard Lewis, Jr., born June 27, 1934 at Hamilton Field, Calif., on his Grandfather Ray’s birthday; a wide awake chap, the image of his father.
(2) George Ray Lewis, born May 7, 1937 at Hamilton Field, Calif. A chubby baby named for his grandfather and his uncle, George A. Ray, Jr., who is his Godfather.

LEWIS

FULTON LEWIS, father of Millard Lewis, was born in Frederick, Maryland. He attended Central High School and graduated from Columbia University. Practices law in Washington, D. C. He married Elizabeth Saville who was born in Washington, D. C., and educated in Sacred Heart Convent. Their children are:

1. Susan Saville Lewis. Married James Knox Cockrell, Lieut.-Colonel, Cavalry, U. S. Army. Their child, James Knox Cockrell, Jr., attends West Point at seventeen years of age.

2. Fulton Lewis, Jr., married Alice Huston. They live in Washington, and their children are Betsy Lewis and Fulton Lewis III.

3. Millard Lewis, married Dorothy Ray, and is a Lieutenant in the Air Corps, U. S. Army, Canal Zone. Their children are: Millard Lewis, Jr., and George Ray Lewis.
Mrs. Emma Haggard Bishop
V. EMMA FRANCES QUISENBERRY, daughter of Clinton S. and Nannie Kate Haggard, was born Sept. 15, 1870, at the family home near White Rock. She was educated in Plano High School and Carlton College, Bonham, Texas. In 1892 she visited the World’s Fair in Chicago, and at a later date attended the Chautauqua, New York, with her sister, Jennie Lee and family. She and William Preston Bishop were united in marriage at the home of her parents, Aug. 11, 1896, with Elder J. M. Morton officiating. After a wedding trip to Mr. Bishop’s former home in Tennessee, they returned to Texas and lived in a beautiful home near Frankfort, Denton county. Mr. Bishop was a prominent landowner, and a member of the Presbyterian church. He died Jan. 7, 1901, and was buried in Frankfort cemetery, with the Masonic Lodge conducting the funeral service. After his death, Mrs. Emma Haggard Bishop returned to her father’s home and tenderly cared for her aged parents as long as they lived.

Since moving to Plano in 1930, she has continued giving her time and her fortune to good works. She loves pictures, embroidered linens and growing flowers; is a member of Plano Blue Bonnet and Garden Club, Missionary and Aid Society. She is a lovely person to have for a friend. At one time she gave a substantial sum of money to each of 15 nieces and 12 nephews, and watched with a great deal of interest the purpose for which each gift was used. She bought electric fans for the Christian church, and made liberal contributions to the Pipe Organ fund and to building the new parsonage. She supports numerous charities and is faithful in her service to the Lord. Truly, she is “Not as those who have their day and cease to be,” for the influence of her life will light the paths of others long after she has passed from this earthly presence.
VI. ANNIE BELLE, daughter of Clinton S. and Nan­nie Kate Haggard, was born June 6, 1873, at White Rock, near Plano. She was educated in Plano High School and Carlton College, Bonham, Texas. On November 15, 1893, she was married to James Shelton Aldridge at the home of her parents, with Elder R. M. Gano officiating.

Mr. Aldridge, son of Capt. James K. and Mariah Lively Aldridge, was born May 23, 1866, near Plano. He was a successful farmer for many years, accumulating approximately one thousand acres of Collin county land. He was President of the Guaranty State Bank of Plano, and later Vice-President of Plano National Bank. He was a friendly man, blessed with foresight and ambition. He was a member of the Masonic Lodge; the Eastern Star Chapter, and Cent­ral Presbyterian Church. He was a kind and loving father who, after a long illness, died at their beautiful country home May 19, 1918.

Annie Belle Aldridge is dark eyed and stately and very lovely. She impresses one with her warm and vital interest in people. She likes fine linens and china, and treasures an exquisite glass preserve dish left her by Grandmother Lively. She is a member of Plano Christian Church; active in its work; has a good voice, and, in her own words "Dearly loves to sing."

1. Minnie Lee Aldridge, daughter of James S. and Annie Belle Haggard Aldridge, born near Plano, August 28, 1895, is a graduate of Plano High School and Trinity University, Waxahachie, Texas. Loves books and good music and paints china. She and James H. Beall, Jr., were married at the Presbyterian Manse in San Antonio, August 15, 1918, by Rev. Arthur Gray Jones. She is a devoted wife and mother, and much of her time is spent with her family at their cabin on Lake Sweetwater where they enjoy swim­ming and boating. One of her interests is her garden; another a lily pond in which she raises several kinds of fancy fish, as well as lilies.

James H. Beall, Jr., son of the late James H. and Jennie Beall, was born in Sweetwater, Texas, July 26, 1895. At the time of his marriage he was serving in the Department of Military Intelligence, U. S. A., Fort Sam Houston. Both his grandparents were Confederate Veterans—Grandfather Warren Beall a Captain, and Grandfather George a private thrice wounded in action. He is a graduate of Sweetwater High School and the University of Texas, from which he received an LL.B. degree. His father started the practice of law in Sweetwater in 1884, and James H., Jr. is now senior member of the firm, with a Martindale rating of A. V. Among the many positions of honor and responsibility which he has held are: City Attorney, Post Commander American Legion, President of Rotary Club, President Nolan County Bar Association, President Guaranty Investment Company of Sweetwater, Director of Board of City Development, Past President of Sweetwater Country Club, Member Charter Commission and Masonic Orders. The one child born to the Bealls is:

1. James Aldridge Beall, born May 17, 1921. He is a Junior in High School and President of the Student Body; a Star Scout and a Sea Scout. He is Patrol Leader of his troop and has made a tour of Western States with the organization; in 1937 he attended the Washington Jamboree as Patrol Leader of Sea Scouts.

2. Katherine Maria, daughter of James S. and Annie Belle Haggard Aldridge, was born October 29, 1897, near Plano. She was educated in Plano High School and Trinity University, Waxahachie, Texas, where she graduated in Expression. She taught Expression in both Allen and Plano until her marriage. She is a talented reader and impersonator and is a humorous wit. She is active in the B. Y. P. U., and has taught in Sunday school for years. On February 24, 1920, she and Joseph Logan Evans were married by Rev. J. L. Cleveland at her mother's home.
Plano. Joseph was born October 3, 1891. He received his education in Waxahachie High School and Trinity University. He served as City Secretary and as City Tax Assessor of Waxahachie until 1923, when he moved to Plano and engaged in farming and insurance business. His father, Rev. Joseph S. Evans, founded the Texas Baptist Orphanage at Waxahachie, and was for more than forty years a Baptist preacher in Texas. Their children are:

1. Joseph Logan Evans, Jr., born January 30, 1921, won high honors all through High School. Played football four years, winning four letters, and was captain of his team last year. In school entertainments he plays the parts that require whistling and singing. Expects to enter college and study dentistry.

2. Patrick Aldridge Evans, born October 26, 1935, has a sweet disposition. He turns the radio on and dances—keeping time.

3. James Clinton Aldridge, son of James S. and Annie Belle Haggard Aldridge, was born April 23, 1901, near Plano. He received his education in Plano High School and Texas Military College, Terrell, Texas. He has a pleasant disposition and the ability to meet people well. He inherited his grandfather Aldridge’s gold watch, and his father’s Masonic ring. He is a farmer, living on the Aldridge home which he received from his mother, who gave each of her children a farm. He and Bessie May Prouty were married in the Episcopal Church, Wallis, Texas, November 11, 1927, by Bishop Clinton S. Quinn. Bessie May was born in Wallis, July 30, 1902, and is the daughter of Owen R. Prouty. She attended College of Industrial Arts, Denton, Texas, where she graduated with an A. B. degree. She taught English in Plano School, and her business and executive ability are indicated by the fact that she is assistant manager of a well known dress shop.

4. Emma Ruth, daughter of James S. and Annie Belle Haggard Aldridge, was born July 17, 1905, near Plano. After finishing Plano High School, she attended Trinity University, Waxahachie, where she graduated with a B. A. degree, and was for four years voted the most popular girl in school. She is talented in music; active in church, literary and social circles, and teaches in the Primary department of Sunday school. She likes to collect fine old furniture, and has an Aldridge walnut table and the Nannie Kate Haggard piano, family heirlooms. On February 24, 1927, she was married to Chapley Ross Kendrick, by Rev. W. T. Thurman, at the home of her mother near Plano, C. R., the son of Alexander Stuart and Exa Moreman Kendrick, was born August 27, 1901, in Hereford, Texas. He and Emma Ruth lived for a time in Sweetwater, Texas, where he was manager of Dabney Motor Company for 12 years, and where their children were born. They now reside in Winters, Texas, where he owns the Ford agency. Their children are:

(1) James Stuart, born December 20, 1927, has a very bright mind, makes straight A grades in school, and is definitely interested in mechanics.

(2) Marianne, born September 18, 1930, has a kind and lovable disposition, and has a crowd of children around all the time. She loves music and likes to dance.

(3) Janet, born June 27, 1933.

"Face so bright and happy;
Eyes sparkling and snappy;
'Tis Janet's sweet smile—
A charming little child."
VII. CLIFTON TURNER HAGGARD, son of Clinton S. and Nannie Kate Haggard, was born May 14, 1876, near Plano, Texas. He was educated in Plano High School and Add-Ran College, Thorpe Springs, Texas, under Drs. Addison and Randolph Clark, who were close friends of his parents.

After finishing school, he spent some time traveling over the State studying conditions and opportunities. Returning home, he engaged in business for himself. In the summer of 1899 he was stricken with typhoid fever, and after a short illness died on August 17. He was a lovable character, and his death was the first real sorrow that came to this family.

VIII. MATTIE SUE, daughter of Clinton S. and Nannie Kate Haggard, was born February 12, 1879, and died March 16, 1879. She is buried in Bethany Cemetery.
IX. WALTER OWEN HAGGARD, youngest son of Clinton S. and Nannie Kate Haggard, was born March 9, 1880, near Plano. He was educated in Plano High School, Add-Ran College, and Texas Christian University, Waco, Texas. He loved music and as a boy often played the harp and piano at the same time, the harp hung around his neck on a wire frame. He and his brother, Cliff, inseparable pals and unusual in their love for each other, are remembered walking arm-in-arm about the home place during the years they spent together.

Walter and Rosa Lee Rice were married March 8, 1905, in the Christian Church, Plano, with Elder Jewell Howard reading the ceremony. Rosa, daughter of Charles M. and Irene Forman Rice of Plano, was born December 3, 1880. Nannie Kate Haggard is said to have remarked that, with her blonde beauty, "Rosa looked like an angel on her wedding day." She is a gentle person, content to spend most of her time in her home which she keeps beautifully. She has a walnut dresser which belonged to Nannie Kate, and has built an interesting rock garden with unusual stones picked up from their travels over the country.

Walter Haggard is a very wealthy farmer and stockman: genial and friendly, he is known for his laughter-loving disposition and his wit. He was for twenty years a trustee of White Rock School, and is an Elder in Plano Christian Church. He lives in the C. S. Haggard home near Plano which he and his wife have recently improved and made one of the most beautiful homes in the county. At the entrance to the drive he has erected a gateway as a memorial to his father and mother. One of the brick columns bears the inscription "C. S.-Kate. 1884" and the other "W. O.-Rosa. 1930." The wide arch spanning these columns carries in large letters the name HAGGARD.

To W. O. and Rosa Rice Haggard were born five children: 1. Clifton Rice; 2. Katie Irene; 3. Clinton Shepard Haggard II; 4. Emajean; 5. W. O. Haggard, Jr.
1. Clifton Rice Haggard, born June 13, 1907, near Plano. He was educated in Plano High School and Texas Christian University. Having some dramatic talent, he was usually given the leading part in school plays, and played the trombone in both high school and university bands. On his 21st birthday he received one hundred dollars from his father because he did not smoke or drink before that time. He and Louise Rutledge were united in marriage August 4, 1933, at Midlothian, Texas, by Rev. Lanier. Louise, daughter of I. C. and Bertha Hogg Rutledge, was born December 12, 1908, at Midlothian. She was educated in the home school, and Abilene Christian College, and has a B. S. degree from Denton Teachers College. She is a lovable daughter, maintaining a close and happy relationship with her husband's family. Clifton, a deacon in Plano Christian Church, is a master farmer and lives on the original C. S. Haggard homestead which he received from his father, W. O. Haggard. They have one son:

(1) Clifton Rutledge Haggard, born April 5, 1936, a red-headed, brown-eyed baby with a zest for getting into mischief.

2. Katie Irene, eldest daughter of Walter O. and Rosa Rice Haggard, was born October 13, 1911, near Plano, and is named for her two grandmothers. She is a graduate of Plano High School, where she made a record for perfect attendance. In her music study she won a prize for writing the most complete History of Musicians. She taught Sunday school in Plano. On June 9, 1929, at the home of her father and mother, she and Floyd Edgar Bedell were united in marriage by Rev. W. D. Nicholas. Floyd is the son of Walter Edgar and Martha Marie Bedell of Wylie, Texas, and was born October 2, 1907. He is a member of the Methodist Church, and lives on his farm near Carrollton. They have two children:

(1) Floyd E. Bedell, Jr., born September 29, 1932.
(2) Walter Gerald Bedell, born May 9, 1934. These sons are described as "demanding the same things and doing the same things in the same way."

3. Clinton Shepard Haggard II, son of Walter O. and Rosa Rice Haggard, was born October 11, 1914, near Plano. This sweet and obedient child was named for his grandfather, and his death on March 5, 1916, was the first real sorrow in this family. He is buried in Bethany Cemetery.

4. Emajean, daughter of Walter O. and Rosa Rice Haggard, was born February 9, 1917, near Plano. When but a tiny baby girl, just old enough to walk, she was taught by her grandmother, Nannie Kate Haggard, to go into a room and shake hands with everyone present. She bears a closer resemblance to her grandfather, C. S. Haggard, than any of the other children. After graduating from Plano High School, she attended Southern Methodist University, Dallas, and is now in her third year at Texas Christian University, Fort Worth. For two years she has been winner of popularity pages in the Horned Frog, university year book. In 1937 she was chosen Texas Christian University's Honorary Texanita of the Pan-American Exposition in Dallas, and was commissioned by Gov. James V. Allred as one of the one hundred outstanding university women in Texas.

5. W. O. Haggard, Jr., youngest child of Walter O. and Rosa Rice Haggard, was born November 28, 1925, near Plano. He attends Plano High School and helps his father on the farm. When only ten years old he learned to drive a tractor, and at the age of eleven, broke his first field of stubble—130 acres. His father says he really "loves the tractor, but is not too enthusiastic about kindling."
CHAPTER V.

The Lunsford-Mathews Family

ANTHONY and Mary Lunsford had one son. William Lunsford, born February 22, 1779, in Virginia.

William Lunsford's second wife was Mrs. Catherine Mathews (nee Catherine Potoff Schrader).

2. Jacob Elzy Mathews, born February 26, 1822, died July 7, 1845. Married Mary Neal, August 12, 1841.

3. William Gipson Mathews, born September 28, 1824, died May 16, 1890.

4. Benjamin Franklin Mathews, born February 24, 1827, died September 15, 1878. Married Mary Ann Yager, daughter of Aaron Yager, Oldham county, Kentucky, on May 7, 1846. Came to Collin county in 1850. Had eight children: (1) Berila; (2) Aronia Elizabeth; (3)

They lived in McKinney, Texas, where he was manager of Collin County Implement Company. They had six children: (a) Gipson Edgar; (b) John Evan; (c) Nellie Robert; (d) Alleen; (e) Matthew Metz; (f) Myer Clark. Robert's second wife was Mrs. Davis. They live in Dallas and have one son: R. L., Jr.

(6) Benjamin Owen Carpenter, b. Dec. 31, 1869. On Aug. 11, 1896 married Emma Kelly and they had two children: (a) Myrtle Thelma; (b) Edward Jefferson. Emma died Aug. 16, 1902, and Benjamin's second wife was Minnie Blandford. They had: (a) Benjamin; (b) Joseph Francis.

(8) Mary Katie Carpenter, b. Jan. 4, 1877; d. March, 1878.

Mrs. Catherine Mathews (née Catherine Potoff Schrader) and William Lunsford (son of Anthony and Mary Lunsford) were married at her home near Floydseburg, Oldham county, Ky., March 22, 1838, and lived there during his lifetime. He died Sept. 9, 1852, and five years later she came to Collin county, Texas, and lived on Spring Creek with her devoted son, William Gipson Mathews, until she went to live with her daughter. Her death occurred at the home of her son-in-law, John Lyter Brown, April 13, 1884. She is described as being “A remarkably able woman ... Beautiful and attractive, as well as a witty woman ... A member of the Christian church and faithful in church observance and attendance. Her slaves, too, were allowed to attend services and always sat in the back of the church. She wore, as was then the fashion, becoming caps of lace and ribbon which so framed a sweet and benign countenance as to add both grace and dignity.” Her three children by Mr. Lunsford were:

1. Nancy Catherine (Nannie Kate); 2. Mary Susannah; 3. Simon Peter.

1. Nannie Kate, eldest daughter of William and Catherine Schrader Lunsford, married Clinton S. Haggard (See C. S. Haggard History, Chapter IV.)

2. Mary Susannah, daughter of William and Catherine Schrader Lunsford, b. Feb. 17, 1841; married John Lyter Brown at her mother’s home April 9, 1868. For nearly half a century they lived near Allen, Texas, where they raised a large family and took an active part in the religious and civic life of the community. His death occurred April 14, 1913; hers on Aug. 9, 1917. They had nine children: (a) Lydia Catherine; (b) John William; (c) Mary Elizabeth; (d) Carrie Etta; (e) James Allen; (f) Nannie Sue; (g) Henry Arrington; (h) Mattie Dian; (i) Emma Lou.

(a) Lydia Catherine Brown, b. May 5, 1869, married James Lafayette Angle July 3, 1890. Their eight children are: (1) John Lyter; (2) Walter D.; (3) Charlie Allen; (4) Alfred Monroe; (5) Mittie Lou; (6) J. L.; (7) Lela May; (8) Nannie Kate.

(c) Mary Elizabeth Brown, b. May 12, 1873; married Hugh Fitz Erickson, son of Thomas Jefferson and Parthenia Erickson, Dec. 27, 1894. They had four children: (1) Ina Ruth; (2) Clifford Lee; (3) Ethel Parthenia; (4) Eugene Floyd.

(d) Carrie Etta, b. Jan 20, 1875; married William Henry Day, Georgetown, Texas, Feb. 14, 1893. They had ten children: (1) Mary Catherine; (2) Ella Belle; (3) Lena; (4) Emma Lou; (5) James William; (6) Lillie Maud; (7) Etta; (8) Mattie Ruth; (9) Fred Warren; (10) Walter Lee.

(e) James Allen Brown, b. May 15, 1876; d. Sept. 28, 1894.

(2) John Lilburn Moulden, b. Oct. 7, 1903. Married Isobel Ruth Rogers on Sept. 6, 1923. They have two children:

(a) Dorothy Ruth Moulden, born Sept. 12, 1924.

(b) Clarence Pat Moulden, born Jan. 26, 1927.

They had seven children: Eula; Vera Belle; Mary Emma; John Lyter; Lizzie Irene; Edna Catherine; William Henry.

(i) Emma Lou Brown, b. Aug. 5, 1886; on Dec. 6, 1904 married Wilbur Leland Hedgecoke. They had two children: Wilberta; Jack Brown.

(3) Simon Peter Lunsford, son of William and Catherine Schrader Lunsford, b. June 6, 1843; d. Dec. 6, 1914. On Oct. 26, 1867 married Mary Etta Haggard, daughter of John Tandy Haggard. They had fifteen children: (a) John William; (b) Margarette Catherine; (c) Henry Nelson; (d) Simon Gipson; (e) Robert Lee; (f) James Berryman; (g) Martha Nancy Susan; (h) Clinton Haggard; (i) and (j) Mary Elizabeth and twin brother; (k) Josie; (l) Sarah Jane; (m) Fred P.; (n) Lida Lee; (o) Walter Clyde.
CHAPTER VI.

The Quisenberry-Burris Families

A GREAT deal of patient research has as yet failed to penetrate the obscurity which shrouds the origin of the Quisenberry family or the significance of the name. Apparently the name is Norman, though other origins have been claimed by different people. The name, which has been spelled in many ways, is first recorded in America as that of a family living in Westmoreland county, Virginia, in 1663, to-wit:

JOHN QUISENBERY, born in 1627, was the owner of large tracts of land in that county, and is recorded as a wealthy planter. He was probably one of the numerous throng of Royalists who were obliged to flee from the persecutions of Oliver Cromwell, and who came to Virginia and settled for the most part in the "Northern Neck," of which Westmoreland county was a part. His wife, Anne Pope, sister of Humphrey Pope, was probably very closely related to that other Anne Pope of Westmoreland county who married Col. John Washington, the great-grandfather of George Washington.

John Quisenberry's small unpretentious homestead continues to stand after more than 200 years. It adjoins "Stratford Hall," the birthplace of General Robert E. Lee. It is still known as the "Old Quisenberry Place," and is owned by a man named Jenkins who has made it the model farm of Westmoreland county. The Quisenberry family has certainly existed in this county for 286 years and in Clark county, Kentucky, for 254 years.

John and Anne Pope Quisenberry had three sons, John, William, and Humphrey, and it is from Humphrey, the youngest of the three, that the Kentucky branch of the family is descended. He began acquiring lands as early as July 5, 1695, and became a wealthy planter of Westmoreland county.

Before following the line of descent through Humphrey Quisenberry it is interesting to learn that the members of this family were distinguished for their honesty, industry, candor and thrift. They were men who inspired implicit confidence in friends and neighbors. Another virtue possessed by them was that of patriotism. In every war since the reign of Queen Anne, Quisenberry men have fought for the honor of their country. In the Department of State in Washington may be found the records of these men who served nobly in the French and Indian Wars, the Revolution, the War of 1812, the Civil War, the Mexican War, and, in the later generations, in both the Spanish-American and World Wars.

This race of people was deeply and devoutly religious. Most of them were Baptists, "Building their church upon the Rock," and founding their homes and their lives likewise. From their number have come many ministers, particularly Baptists, and many physicians—but most of them have been farmers and planters, and all of them have owned their own land.

Humphrey Quisenberry, through inheritance and acquisition, became a wealthy plantation owner in King George county, Virginia. Many of the records of his early life were destroyed by fire or during the wars, but it is known that among his children were two sons, Humphrey II, and Thomas. We follow through Thomas.

THOMAS QUISENBERRY lived in King George county, and is known to have left, among other children, AARON, who purchased a plantation in Spotsylvania county Nov. 6, 1756, and in 1796 he bought 614 acres of land in Orange county. Of his wife, JOYCE, we have little authentic history. They were all Baptists. Their children were: 1.

Aaron Quisenberry, Sr., died in 1795, leaving a large estate to his wife and children.

James Quisenberry, the last mentioned son of Aaron and Joyce Quisenberry, was born in Spotsylvania county, Virginia, June 13, 1759, and at the age of ten went with his father to settle in the adjoining county of Orange. On December 4, 1776, then seventeen years of age he married Jane Burris, of the same county. In 1783, at the close of the Revolutionary War (in which he saw service) they went to Kentucky and settled. The home he built there stood more than a hundred years, and was destroyed by fire in 1893. The site is still owned by his descendants.

Before he left Virginia, this James was an ordained Baptist minister—the Rev. James Quisenberry. In 1785 he united by letter with Providence Church (Old Stone Meeting House), and he helped to found several churches in Kentucky. He was the second pastor of Unity Church; then with the Haggard faction founded Stoner's Branch Church and was its first pastor. He was pastor of several other churches, and when he died he left twenty-four children, many of whom became wealthy and influential citizens and valuable church members.

Jane Burris, the first wife of Rev. James Quisenberry, was born July 5, 1759, in Orange county, Virginia. She died Nov. 3, 1811, after having borne her husband seven sons and six daughters. She was the daughter of Thomas Burris. (See Thomas Burris history on another page).

4. Joel Quisenberry. born in Madison county, Va. (now Madison county, Ky.) on Jan. 31, 1784. Married Elizabeth Haggard of Clark county (she was a sister of John Haggard who married Joel’s sister Mourning Quisenberry.) Joel was about the wealthiest man in Clark county in his day, and the litigation over his will is one of the causes celebrates in the court records of Kentucky. Henry Clay, a short time before his death, made his last speech before a jury in this case.

   Joel Quisenberry’s daughter, Joyce, married Hon. Harrison Thomson who subsequently represented Clark county for several terms in both the Senate and Lower House of the Kentucky legislature. Their daughter was:

   Elizabeth Thomson. She married Ben B. Groom of Clark county, who was one of the most famous breeders of Shorthorn cattle in America, and who in 1873 sold a bull calf six months old for $17,500.00. About 1879 Mr. Groom went to Texas and engaged in cattle ranching with the “Francklyn Land and Cattle Company”—a syndicate of English noblemen, one of whom, Lord Alfred Paget, a resident member, was killed in Texas. The company owned a hundred square miles of land and hundreds of thousands of cattle. Harry T. Groom, newspaper man of Lexington. Ky., is a son of Ben B. Groom. Joel Quisenberry had numerous other children, all deceased. His grandson, Dr. Silas Evans, was superintendent of High Oaks Sanitarium, Lexington, Ky.
5. James Harvey Quisenberry was born March 13, 1786, in Fayette county, Va. (now Clark county, Ky.) He married a Miss Thomas and moved to Henry county, Ky. His descendants are numerous. One of his grandsons, Capt. John M. Ragland, of Osceola, Mo., while in the Confederate service captured the colors of an Iowa regiment. In 1895 he presented these colors to that state, and for this splendid courtesy he received the grateful thanks of the people through their governor.

6. Colby Burris Quisenberry was born July 7, 1788, in what is now Clark county, Ky. He possessed all the characteristics of a truly great man. He married Lucy Bush, daughter of Francis Bush, one of the founders of the Bush Settlement in Clark county, on Dec. 16, 1810. Lucy was a niece of Captain Billy Bush. Colby B. and Lucy Bush Quisenberry had thirteen children, twelve of whom lived to maturity, and most of whom raised large and influential families. Their fourth son, James Francis Quisenberry, married Emily Cameron Chenault, and they had Anderson Chenault Quisenberry, who compiled the "Quisenberry Genealogy," dated 1897. This man is, therefore, a cousin to Clinton S. Haggard's children.

7. Tandy Quisenberry, born Feb. 8, 1791, in what is now Clark county, Ky., married Peggy Bush of the same county, and they had nineteen children, all of whom lived to maturity. Tandy was wealthy, and one of the most highly esteemed citizens of Clark county.

8. Roger Quisenberry, born in Clark county on Nov. 23, 1792, married Polly Eubank, daughter of Rev. Achilles Eubank. Roger was an exceptionally brave soldier, and acquired considerable wealth.

10. Mourning Quisenberry, born Jan. 22, 1795, in Clark county, Ky. Married John Haggard of the same county. She was the mother of nine children, the youngest of whom was CLINTON SHEPARD HAGGARD, Plano, Texas, who died there June 28, 1930. (See Chapter IV.)

THOMAS BURRIS

THOMAS BURRIS was a very wealthy man for his times (see copy of his will accompanying this article), and he was descended from one of the early Virginia settlers. Anderson Chenault Quisenberry's history of his and other families gives the following "Thomas Burris served in the French and Indian War, in Colonel George Mercer's Company of the Virginia Regiment, commanded by George Washington, and fought at the battle of the Meadows in 1754, and was one of the number 'who received the present of a pistole from the county as an acknowledgement of their gallant behaviour upon that occasion.' (See "Washington Papers," State Department, Washington City), and he was one of the detachment that marched to Augusta some time after the defeat: and he also fought at the disastrous Braddock's Defeat in 1755. For his services in this war he received a share of two hundred thousand acres of land granted under Governor Dinwiddie's proclamation. He appears to have been a born warrior, for he fought in the Revolution also, and was granted lands for that service. The following brief certificate of his service in the Revolution was furnished by the Chief of the Records and Pension Office, Washington, viz:

"It appears from the records of this office that Thomas Burris enlisted February 23, 1776, as a private in Captain William Washington's Company, 3d Virginia Regiment of Foot, Revolutionary War, and his name appears on the muster rolls of that organization to July, 1777. He is reported, with rank of Cornoral on muster rolls, as follows: Captain John Francis Mercer's company of this regiment to and including May, 1778; Captain Robert Powell's company, 3d and 7th Virginia (consolidated) regiment from May, 1778, to September, 1778; Captain Robert Powell's company, 3d Virginia Regiment, for October, 1778; Captain John F. Mercer's company, 3d Virginia regiment to April, 1779: and Captain Valentine Peyton's company, 3d Virginia regiment, to November, 1779.

"Thomas Burris died about the 1st of March, 1789. His wife, FRANCES TANDY, was the daughter of Roger Tandy, whose wife, a Miss Colby, is said to have been a descendant of Edward Colby, of London, who subscribed £12 10s to the stock of the London Company for the Colonization of Virginia, and who came himself to this country and died at Jamestown in 1620. The Burrises and Colbys are of English, and the Tandys of Irish descent, and they were all among the earliest settlers of Virginia."

Thomas Burris and his wife Frances Tandy, had a daughter, Jane Burris, who married Rev. James Quisenberry. (See Chapter VI for further history.)
The Will of Thomas Burrus (or Burris'), father of Jane, the wife of Rev. Quisenberry, of Kentucky.

In the name of God, amen: I, Thomas Burrus, of the County of Orange and Parish of St. Thomas, (Va), being at present time sound in mind and memory, I thank God for the same, do hereby certify this to be my last will and testament, in manner and form as follows: First, after I quit this mortal life I desire my body to be decently buried with every solemnity at the discretion of my Executor; and after paying my just debts, what then remains my will and desire is may be disposed of in the following manner, viz:

I lend to my beloved wife, Frances Burrus, my whole estate, real and personal, during her natural life or widowhood, and after death to be divided amongst my children, hereafter named.

I give and bequeath to my son Thomas Burrus five hundred acres of land at Kentucky (first choice) to him and to his heirs. &c.

Also, I give and bequeath to my son William Tandv Burrus five hundred acres of land at Kentucky (second choice) to him and his heirs. &c., as also one feather bed and furniture, &c.

Also, I give and bequeath to my son Roger Burrus five hundred acres of land at Kentucky (third choice) to him and his heirs, &c., and one feather bed and furniture, &c.

Also, I give and bequeath to my grandson, Thomas Burrus, son of Thomas Burrus, one negro boy Absalom, to him and his heirs, &c.

I give and bequeath to my daughter, Mourning Burrus, one negro woman Nan, and all her increase, but if this said negro should die before my daughter shall be of age or marry, then there shall be another likely girl not under the age of ten years old to be replaced to her and her heirs. &c., and also one beast by the name of Jack, and saddle, and feather bed and furniture.

Also, I give and bequeath to my daughter, Fanny Embry, one negro girl named Sukev, and all her increase, to her and her heirs, it being her part of the slaves I intend for her; also one feather bed and furniture: which said negro and bed is already delivered to her.

Also, I give and bequeath to my daughter, Mildred Embry, one negro boy named Ben, to her and her heirs, &c., already delivered: also ten pounds cash, already delivered.

I give and bequeath to my daughter, Elizabeth Brockman, one negro boy named Duke, also one feather bed and furniture, which said negro'and bed is already delivered: also twenty pounds cash, to be raised out of my estate, to her and her heirs, &c.

I give and bequeath to my daughter, Sarah Tribble, one negro girl named Agness, and all her increase, to her and her heirs, already delivered: also one feather bed and furniture. already delivered.

I give and bequeath to my daughter Jane Quisenberry one negro girl named Dinah and all her increase, to her and her heirs; also one feather bed and furniture; also twenty pounds cash: which portion above mentioned is already delivered.

- 143 -
I give to my granddaughter, Frances Quisenberry, the daughter of Jane Quisenberry, one negro girl named Violet, to her and her heirs forever.

I give to my daughter Frances Tandy Bush one negro girl named Alice, and all her increase; also one feather bed and furniture, to her and her heirs, which is already delivered to her.

Also, I desire after my wife Frances Burrus' death or widowhood, that the negro boy Gilbert, now in possession of my son Thomas Burrus, may be returned to the balance of my estate, and that there may be nine of the choice of my slaves then remaining, to be equally divided between my three sons. Thomas Burrus, William Tandy Burrus, and Roger Burrus, to them and their heirs, &c., and if either of my sons should die under age or before they possess their part of my estate, that their portion shall be equally divided between my sons then remaining.

I also desire that the balance of my land at Kentucky, which is five hundred acres, be equally divided between my five daughters Fanny Embry, Mildred Embry, Sallie Tribble, Jane Quisenberry and Frances Tandy Bush, to them and their heirs forever.

I give unto my daughter, Mouring Burrus, the land whereon I now live, at the death of my wife Frances Burrus, to her and her heirs forever.

Also my will and desire: after the death or widowhood of my wife Frances Burrus, that the balance of my negroes then remaining, with stock and household furniture of all kinds, may be equally divided amongst my sons and daughters above named, except one equal child's part of the last balance of negroes and household furniture and stock to be equally divided amongst my two granddaughters and grandson, Elijah Perry, Dicey Perry and Mary Perry, to them and their heirs, &c.

And I do hereby nominate and appoint my wife, Frances Burrus, Executrix, and Henry Tandy and Thomas Burrus, Executors, of this my last will and testament. As Witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal this 2d day of October, 1788.

THOMAS BURRUS.

Witnesses: Caleb Lindsay, Thos. Bell, James Daniel.

Probated and admitted to record on Monday, March 23, 1789, the executrix and executors herein named qualifying as such, with Joseph Duncan and William Tandy Burrus as their securities.

CHAPTER VII.

The Bush Family

No history of this era is complete without mention of the BUSHES—another old Virginia family that was closely linked by association and marriage with the Haggard-Quisenberry-Burris connection. This family, originally from England, was living in Orange county, Virginia, prior to 1746. They are said to be descended from John and Elizabeth Bush who came from England on the “Neptune” and settled in Kiccoughtan (now Hampton), Virginia, in 1618. They can absolutely trace their ancestry to the John Bush of St. Thomas Parish, Orange county, Virginia, whose will was probated in 1746.

Captain Billy Bush, one of the most colorful members of the entire clan, was born October 29, 1746, and died July 26, 1815. He is a grandson of John and Margaret (or Bridget) Bush who lived in Orange county in 1746, and he married Frances Tandy Burris, daughter of Thomas Burris. She and Jane Burris who married Rev. James Quisenberry were sisters. Captain Bush was a great Indian fighter, and was the companion and friend of Daniel Boone whom he accompanied on his second trip to Kentucky, where he secured vast grants of land near Boonesborough for the purpose of colonization. It was on this land that he induced many of his friends and relatives to settle, forming the famous Bush Settlement of Clark county. About forty families, including his brothers Phillip, Ambrose, John and Francis, as well as his sisters and their families, journeyed out from Virginia to meet him on these lands. Delays en route caused the entire trip to last several years, with stops at Holston, Virginia, where their Baptist church was organized, and at Craig's Station where they spent some time; but they finally reached Lower Howard's Creek in 1785.

Howard's Creek Church was built by them in 1787 on land given by Francis Bush and his brother-in-law, Robin Richard, and it was on this same site that "The Old Stone Meeting House" was finished and dedicated to God in May 1799.

John Bush lived in St. Thomas Parish, Orange county, Virginia. His wife was named Margaret (or Bridget), and in his will probated in 1746 their children are mentioned as follows: Phillip; Martha Bruce; Elizabeth Sanders; John, Jr.; Thomas; Daniel.

Phillip Bush, Sr., son of John and Margaret (or Bridget) Bush, married Mary Bryan, b. 1700. His will, probated Sept. 24, 1772, mentions their children as: Josiah; Phillip, Jr.; John; William (Captain Billy); Francis; Ambrose; Mrs. Sarah Watts; Mrs. Mary Richards; Joseph; Joshua; and Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson. Among the grandchildren is one Frances (Franky) Johnson.

John Bush, son of Phillip and Mary Bryan Bush, b. Feb. 2, 1742. His first wife was Nancy Watson by whom he had three sons: (1) William; (2) Wyatt; (3) Jonathan. His second wife was Mary (Polly) Tillman, by whom he had eleven children: (1) Thomas; (2) Tillman; (3) Nelson; (4) Pleasant; (5) Lawton; (6) Mercedes; (7) Anna; (8) Elizabeth; (9) Polly; (10) Lucy; (11) Frankie.

(12) Lucy Lightman; (13) Hannah Neil. (Note how often the mother's maiden name, Neil, is given her children.)

(CAPTAIN) WILLIAM NELSON BUSH, son of Nelson and Polly Tillman Bush. b. May 27, 1833; d. June 12, 1907. On April 17, 1856 married Elizabeth (Betty) Rainey, b. Sept. 24, 1837; d. Oct. 15, 1917. They came to Texas Dec. 8, 1856, and their children were: (1) James Nelson (Jim); (2) Lula (Lou); (3) Sterling Price Bush.

3—STERLING PRICE BUSH, son of Captain Wm. Nelson and Betty Rainey Bush. b. Jan. 16, 1862; d. Feb. 11, 1933. Married Martha Virginia Bright, b. March 12, 1862; d. Nov. 18, 1913. Their five children were: (1) Lula; (2) Betty; (3) PRICIE; (4) Fred; (5) Charles.

(1) Lula Bush married Frank Elkin and they had: (a) Jennie; (b) Price Bush Elkin.

(2) Betty Bush married Dr. Fitzhugh Wofford.

(3) PRICIE BUSH, b. March 27, 1884; married on Jan. 18, 1906 to E. C. Allen, b. April 3, 1878. They had one son: (a) Edward C. Allen, Jr.

(a) EDWARD C. ALLEN, JR., b. Nov. 4, 1906: on Sept. 6, 1927 married Martha Kate Haggard, b. July 2, 1907. (See John William Haggard history). They have one daughter: (aa) Annette.

(aa) ANNETTE ALLEN, b. June 7, 1933.

(4) Fred Bush married Eddie Wilcox and they had: (a) Sterling Price; (b) Sarah Virginia.

(5) Charles (died).

Two other children died.

1. John Thomas Duncan married Ida Smith, and they had two sons: (1) William Joseph; (2) Alexander Edward.

(2) Alexander Edward Duncan, son of John Thomas and Ida Smith Duncan, married Flora Ross, daughter of the late Alonzo J. Ross of Louisville, Ky. They lived the first years after their marriage at Floydsburg, near Crestwood, Ky., but Mr. Duncan now resides in Baltimore. It was through his donations that the Floydsburg Cemetery, one of the oldest in Kentucky, was increased from a small plot to about sixteen acres, including the spot on which his paternal great grandfather lived for a time. Through the generosity of Mr. Duncan, the grounds have been beautifully landscaped as a memorial to his grandfather's (William Wesley Duncan) branch of the Duncan family, of which he is the sole surviving male member by the name of Duncan. The Duncan Memorial Chapel, built by Mr. Duncan in 1936-1937, was dedicated as a memorial to his wife, Flora Ross Duncan, who died June 20, 1936, and is interred in the chancel of the chapel. This beautiful memorial chapel and cemetery is a lasting monument of which the State of Kentucky and all who had a part in its building have a right to be proud.

(3) Silas Wesley (or William) Duncan, married Annie Smith. They had one daughter: Grace Duncan Crosby.

(5) Henry Clay Duncan, married Mary Smith (a sister of Ida Smith). They had two children: (1) Pearl Duncan Wakefield; (2) Maybelle Duncan (died).

(6) Mary Frances Duncan, married Rochester A. Hawley. They have four children: (1) William Houston Hawley; (2) Ida Hawley Lewis; (3) Clifton Harvey Hawley; (4) Alice Hawley Barnett.

Early history of Jonathan Harrington's daughters, Mary and Amanda, was furnished us by Mary Duncan Hawley, of Crestwood, Ky.

CHAPTER IX

The Ray Family

James Ray, born in 1801, married Miss Julia Barry. They lived in Fayette county, Ala., and died in 1843. They had seven children:

I. Minerva Ray, married Asa Langston.
II. Melinda Ray, married Ira Elder and had one daughter, Virginia Elder. She married George Hufstedder and had one daughter, May Hufstedder. She married Caution Gillette in Sept. 1900 and they had two daughters: (a) Virginia; (b) Aline, married Mr. Roberts, a minister.
III. Susan Ray, married James Sullivan.
IV. Luiza Ray, married —— Elder.
V. Hezekiah Ray, died in 1852.
VI. Elijah Ray (father of George Albert Ray. History given in the following pages).
VII. Miles Ray, died in Mississippi.

Elijah Ray, son of James and Julia Barry Ray, b. in Fayette county, Alabama, May 7, 1826; d. at Goliad, Texas, Feb. 22, 1906. When he was nine years old his father moved the family to Choctaw, Miss., and engaged in farming. The history of Mr. Ray is similar to that of other successful stockmen of Texas. In 1847 he came to Texas prospecting; landed at Galveston and went to Houston, which consisted of one frame hotel and two or three houses. Buying a horse and saddle he started West, stopping at the King Ranch. After staying there a week he went through the Cibola Valley to Sutherland Springs and to San Antonio. After spending a few days there he returned by way of the King Ranch to his home in Mississippi.
In 1849 he was married to Mary Wallace Davis, and the next year, accompanied by his widowed mother-in-law and her family, consisting of four daughters and two sons, he came out to Texas. Of these children Sarah Ann married James Elder; Martha married H. Ammons; and Amanda married a Mr. Miller. Isom and Columbus, the sons, both died while young men. Mrs. Davis brought a number of slaves with her, some of whom contracted cholera while on board the steamer and died soon after landing at Port Lavaca. After an illness of ten days, Mrs. Davis also died from fatigue and excitement.

Mr. Ray had only about $300.00, the greater part of which was used for expenses while in Port Lavaca. He bought a yoke of oxen and a wagon and resumed his journey, reaching Victoria county where he stopped and engaged in farming for one year. By planting corn four times he raised enough for his own use, and also made four bales of cotton. The next year he moved to Escondido Creek in Goliad county, about twenty miles from the site of his late home, and was the first white settler on Escondido. Here he built a house of elm logs covered with pecan boards, the timbers being hewn by a valuable negro slave, John Ray, whom Mr. Ray drew for his wife in the division of her mother’s estate.

In the fall of 1851 Mr. Ray sold a negro slave and with the money from the sale purchased his first herd of cattle, 75 or 100 head. Two years later he traded them to Sal Skull for mustang and Spanish horses. After selling his improvements on the Escondido, Mr. Ray bought 300 acres of land from Mr. Mayfield on the Eclato near Helena. Mary Wallace Davis Ray died here, Jan. 30, 1854, and Mr. Ray was appointed administrator for her estate in 1857. Columbus and Isom Davis, both dying without heirs, left their cattle branded J D H and I D to their sister Mary and her children, James F. and Martha J.

Of the three children born to Elijah and Mary Wallace
Davis Ray, two who lived were: I. James Fayette Ray; II. Martha Jane Ray.

On April 10, 1856 Mr. Ray married Mary Margaret Cox of Goliad, born July 29, 1828; died Dec. 23, 1900.

Mr. Ray traded his horses for an interest in the Captain Peck herd of cattle, and three years later at the close of a contract to take care of the Peck herd for one-fourth of the increase, had a nice herd of 900 head for his own part. He then moved his family to Spring Branch.

During the Civil War he enlisted in the State Militia as part of the Home Guard. A terrible drouth prevailed during the latter part of the war, and nearly one-half of the cattle of the entire region perished.

In 1864 he bought the Steve Best home on Hoard's Creek, consisting of 320 acres of land and a good house. Here in the early 70's he built the lovely colonial home where he lived the remainder of his life. In 1873 another drouth so afflicted the state that nearly 50 percent of the stock perished. Becoming somewhat discouraged, Mr. Ray sold his entire herd to W. A. Pettus for $10,000.00 cash, and invested a portion of his money in sheep. He also engaged in the mercantile business for a few years, but soon sold the store and devoted his entire time to sheep-raising, having bought between 2,000 and 3,500 head from Charles Troy.

In 1880 he disposed of his sheep and again took up cattle raising which he continued successfully until the time of his death. He crossed with three breeds, Durham, Devon and Brahama, and he owned about 20,000 acres of land. He also raised fine horses and mules.

In June 1902 he was married to Maggie Smith of Beeville, Texas.

He died at his home in Goliad county, Feb. 22, 1906, in his 80th year.

His five children by his second wife, Mary Margaret Cox Ray, are: I. George Albert; II. Julia Emma; III. Fannie Sallie; IV. Mary Louiza; V. Jennie Elender.
I. James Fayette Ray, son of Elijah and Mary Davis Ray. b. Oct. 4, 1851; d. Aug. 20, 1907; on Dec. 18, 1878 married Rachel Smith. b. Sept. 3, 1861. They had five children: (1) Norene: (2) Mary Margaret (Maggie); (3) James Wilbur; (4) Imogene; (5) Fannie Wallace.

On Jan. 1, 1879 Mrs. Martha Jane Ray Grantland married Benjamin Bowen Atkins, b. Aug. 10, 1846; d. Dec. 31, 1925. They had three children: (1) Lucy Ray; (2) Robert Lee; (3) Martha Ella.

(3) Martha Ella Atkins, daughter of Benjamin B. and Martha Jane Atkins, b. April 25, 1884: married Dolph Quinn. They have one son: (a) Pat Atkins Quinn, b. Sept. 9, 1922.

MARY MARGARET COX of Goliad, b. July 29, 1828; d. Dec. 23, 1900. On April 10, 1856 she married Elijah Ray. Their ranch home near Goliad, noted for beautiful flowers and genuine hospitality, was a stopping place for their many friends and neighbors who traveled the roads from Corpus Christi and Victoria to San Antonio. Numbered among the old friends of the Rays in Goliad county are the Lott, McCampbell, Pettus, Davis, Hardiman, Lucas, McFadden, Reed, Wilkinson and Greenwood families. Mary Cox Ray, a noble and courageous wife and mother, was loved and honored not only by her family but by her community as well. Her experience in caring for the sick, together with her knowledge of medicine, enabled her to be of great service to her neighbors in those early days when physicians were difficult to reach. In the Episcopal church at Goliad a beautiful window has been erected by her daughters as a memorial to their mother. The five children born to her and Elijah Ray are: I. George Albert; II. Julia Emma; III. Fannie Sallie; IV. Mary Luiza; V. Jennie Elender.

I. GEORGE ALBERT RAY (History at close of this chapter.)

II. Julia Emma Ray was born July 4, 1861 in the log house which was the first abiding place of her parents in Goliad county. When she was two years old they moved to a house six miles away, which became the permanent home of the family. There, in an atmosphere of activity, good deeds and abundant hospitality, she grew up. She attended the little school on the place, going later to Professor Brook's College in Goliad. On May 28, 1889 she married Nathaniel Roe Powell, who according to her daughters was related to Captain John Smith and the poet Cowper. They established their home three miles from that of her parents. When Nathaniel Powell died Dec. 23, 1920, the family continued the life of the ranch, which has become famous for its limitless hospitality.

Julia Emma Powell is a member of the Episcopal church and of the Order of the Eastern Star.

Their three children are: (1) Elijah Ray Powell; (2) Gentry Travis Powell; (3) Gladys Margaret Powell.

(1) Elijah Ray Powell, b. Feb. 11, 1892, in Goliad; d. Feb. 4, 1938, at Kenedy, Texas. He rode horseback three miles to the public school at Charco, and later attended the West Texas Military Academy (now known as Texas Military Institute) in San Antonio. On June 6, 1917 he married Claudia Baldwin and they lived for some years on property adjoining that of his parents. He was a farmer and stockman and for some years interested in the oil industry. He was a member of the Episcopal church; a 32nd Degree Mason, a Shriner, and a member of the Kenedy Country Club. He was known as a kind and generous man, beloved by many people.

(2) Gentry Travis Powell, born Aug. 11, 1894 in Goliad. With his elder brother he rode to the school at Charco, and when he was older went also to the West Texas Military Academy. In 1907, when only 13 years old, he attended Jamestown Tercentenary Exposition with his father and won recognition in a Public Speaking Contest. In Nov., 1914, he was married to Josephine Margaret Schwab of Yorktown. They lived first at their ranch home adjoining that of his parents, and there their two children, (a) Josephine Elizabeth, and (b) Gentry Travis, Jr., were born. For some years they have maintained a home in San Antonio, spending a part of each summer on the ranch. Like his brother, Gentry Powell is a farmer and ranchman and interested in the oil industry. He is a member of the Episcopal church, and is a 32nd Degree Mason and a Shriner. He is a member of The Texas Cavaliers, and of the Conopus Club.

(a) Josephine Elizabeth Powell. b. Nov. 9, 1915. She married W. J. Jarrett of Bristol, Tenn.
(b) Gentry Travis Powell, Jr., born Aug. 18, 1920.
(3) Gladys Margaret Powell. born Sept. 30, 1898 at the ranch home of her parents in Goliad county. She went to the public school at Charco, to the High School and Bonn-Avon School in San Antonio, and to the University of Texas. She is a farmer and ranch woman, and in addition breeds Shetland ponies for sale. She lives with her mother at the Powell Ranch. But her many and varied interests make her active in the social, literary, musical and business life of Karnes, Bee and Goliad counties.

III. Fannie Sallie Ray, born Nov. 25, 1863. She married Hugo F. Kauffmann Feb. 5, 1891 and died Jan. 15 1892. She is buried in Goliad. The death of this lovely daughter was the first great sorrow to occur in the Mary Cox Ray family.

IV. Mary Luiza Ray was born at the ranch home of her parents Oct. 24, 1864. With her brothers and sisters she attended the little school which was part of the equipment of the ranch and also served as church on Sundays. She later attended Georgetown University and Dr. Brook’s College in Goliad. On August 31, 1887 she married Dr. Thomas H. Nott and lived thereafter in Goliad. To this union was born one child: Julia Mary Nott.

“Dr. Thomas H. Nott of Goliad died December 29, 1905. He was a graduate of the Long Island Hospital College, Brooklyn, in 1874. During the Civil War he served as a surgeon. In 1886, he was president of the State Medical Association. He also served at one time as President of the District Board of Medical Examiners.
Dr. Nott's practice extended over a wide range of country around Goliad. As a lover of fine stock he always owned and drove a team of spirited horses. Dr. Nott, like many physicians of his time, kept a skeleton in his office and often showed it to the children when they came to see him, much to their delight and awe. Dr. Nott was an able physician and surgeon, and was justly held in high esteem by his community and the medical fraternity."

After the death of Dr. Nott in 1906, Mrs. Mary Ray Nott moved to San Antonio where she has since made her home. In 1909 she married Dr. Houston M. Carroll. She is a member of St. Mark's Episcopal church.

(1) Julia Mary Nott, daughter of Dr. Thomas H. and Mary Ray Nott, was born Aug. 9, 1888 at the ranch home of her parents. She was educated in St. Mary's Hall, San Antonio, and the University of Texas from which she received a Bachelor of Arts Degree. In 1914 she and George F. Waugh, Lieutenant, U.S.A., were married in St. Mark's Episcopal Church, San Antonio. Much of her life has been lived abroad, gathering material for her work, and in addition to magazine articles and feature stories, she has written an excellent book, "Castro-Ville and Henry Castro. Impresario."

V. Jennie Elender Ray, youngest child of Elijah and Mary Cox Ray, was born Oct. 16, 1867. She attended the little school on the ranch, going later to Georgetown University, to Professor Brook's College at Goliad, and to Baylor College, Waco. On Sept. 20, 1893 she married Hugo F. Kauffmann, and after that divided her time between San Antonio and the ranch home of her parents. In 1902 she came to San Antonio to live. She has been interested in civic affairs and active in club work, serving 18 years as a director of the Protestant Orphans Home, and is Past President of the Board. She has also served on the directorate of the Woman's Club, and the San Antonio Conservation...
Society. She is a member of the Battle of Flowers Association, as well as the Pan-American Round Table. Mrs. Kauffmann, a seasoned traveler, has been abroad three times. She is a good business woman and has many friends. From her home in San Antonio she continues to direct the management of her ranch (a part of the Elijah-Mary Cox Ray estate) in Goliad county.
GEORGE ALBERT RAY

GEORGE ALBERT RAY was born in Goliad county, Texas, June 27, 1857. His parents were Elijah and Mary Cox Ray, and his grandparents James and Julia Barry Ray (See the Ray Family, Page 169). His education was obtained in Professor Brook's School at Goliad and at Southwestern University, Georgetown, Texas.

Mr. Ray was married in Collin county, Texas, on June 22, 1892 to Jennie Lee Haggard, daughter of the late C. S. and Nannie Kate Haggard, pioneers of North Texas. The five children born to this union are: (1) Clinton Haggard Ray; (2) Mary Katharine Ray; (3) Romayne Ray; (4) George Albert Ray, Jr.; (5) Dorothy Ray (See C. S. Haggard Family, Chapter IV.)

George A. Ray, ranchman of South Texas, is one of the largest landowners in Bee and Goliad counties, owning more than 27,000 acres of land. One 20,000 acre tract is located near the town of Pettus.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray reside one mile from Pettus. Their spacious country home, surrounded by Live Oak trees and commanding a view of many miles of the countryside, is one of the beautiful ranch homes of Bee county. Bonny View, as has been said before, reflects the hospitality and warm friendly spirit of its owners.

During his long residence here Mr. Ray has noted many changes. He remembers distinctly when there were only Live Oaks on the hill tops, and the country was wide open range with lakes and streams filled with fish; and wild game, consisting of turkey, deer, geese and Mexican wild hog, was abundant.

The dominant interest in his life has always been ranching in all its phases. Other interests are the Santa Cruz Silver Mine at Durango, Mexico: raising thoroughbred horses which he has trained for polo; and the development of oil fields in Bee and Goliad counties. It was through his determination and faith in the last mentioned venture, that... drilling was started which resulted in profit for many in that part of the State.

An example of the fidelity and loyalty existing between Mr. Ray and his employees is found in Sam Blackwell, who has worked on the ranch sixty-five years.

In 1920 Mr. Ray became President of the First National Bank of Beeville, Texas. He had been a director of this institution for fifteen years, and is a stockholder in the Nichols National Bank at Kenedy, Texas.

Mr. Ray is a member of the Masonic Lodge: the Chapter and Commandery at Beeville: and his Shrine membership is in Alzafar Temple, San Antonio. He also holds membership in the Bankers Association and the Cattle Raisers Association. Throughout his long life he has been a constructive leader, working for the development and progress of his community, and it is in such men as he that the true spirit of Texas is reflected.

On June 27, 1937 George A. Ray celebrated his eightieth birthday by inviting all the descendants of his father to meet him at the Elijah Ray Ranch Home, which he had recently purchased and restored. In this old home are portraits of Elijah Ray, his wife, Mary Cox Ray, a daughter, Fannie, and other members of the family. There is also an old square piano bought by Mrs. George A. Ray from Mrs. John Rice of Plano. This piano was brought from Kentucky by Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Forman who came to Texas at the time Mr. Gipson Mathews and his mother, Mrs. Catherine P. Lunsford, came.

Seventy members of the Ray family, together with a few close friends among whom were Rev. and Mrs. Sam Hill of Beeville, were present on this occasion. Rev. Hill paid an interesting tribute to Mr. Ray, whom he called "Uncle George": then Mr. Ray in a talk which he called "Rambling Remarks." told of his father's coming to Texas: of the years that followed: of the thrift, wisdom and energy of his parents: of his own experiences and those of his neighbors,—a heart-to-heart talk long to be remembered by those who heard him.

A barbecued dinner, climaxed by a giant birthday cake bearing eighty candles, was served to relatives and friends, whose names follow:

Lieut. and Mrs. Millard Lewis and two sons, Millard, Jr., and George Ray Lewis, of Hamilton Field, near San Francisco, were unable to attend.
Other members of the family who were absent were Ray Harrington, who was in Washington, D.C., attending National Boy Scout Jamboree: Mrs. Josephine Powell, Gentry Powell, Jr., Elizabeth Jarrett, and her husband, Ray Jarrett.

The Gillette family are descendants of Elijah Ray's sister, Mrs. Melinda Ray Elder.

"A happy man or woman is a better thing to find than a five pound note. He or she is a radiating focus of good will: and their entrance into a room is as though another candle had been lighted. We need not care whether they could prove the forty-seventh proposition: they do a better thing than that—they practically demonstrate the great theorem of the Liveableness of Life."

—Robert Louis Stevenson.
