PREFACE

MY father, Horace E. Horton, during the last ten years of his life was interested in tracing the ancestry of himself and my mother, Emma Babcock Horton. While he did not work at it continuously, he did in the aggregate spend considerable time and effort in obtaining the information which appears on the following pages.

I often talked with him about this work and suggested many times that he publish the data he had collected, and I think such was his ultimate intention. After his death I filed his papers in connection with this work in an unused drawer of my desk where they have remained for the past eight years, almost forgotten.

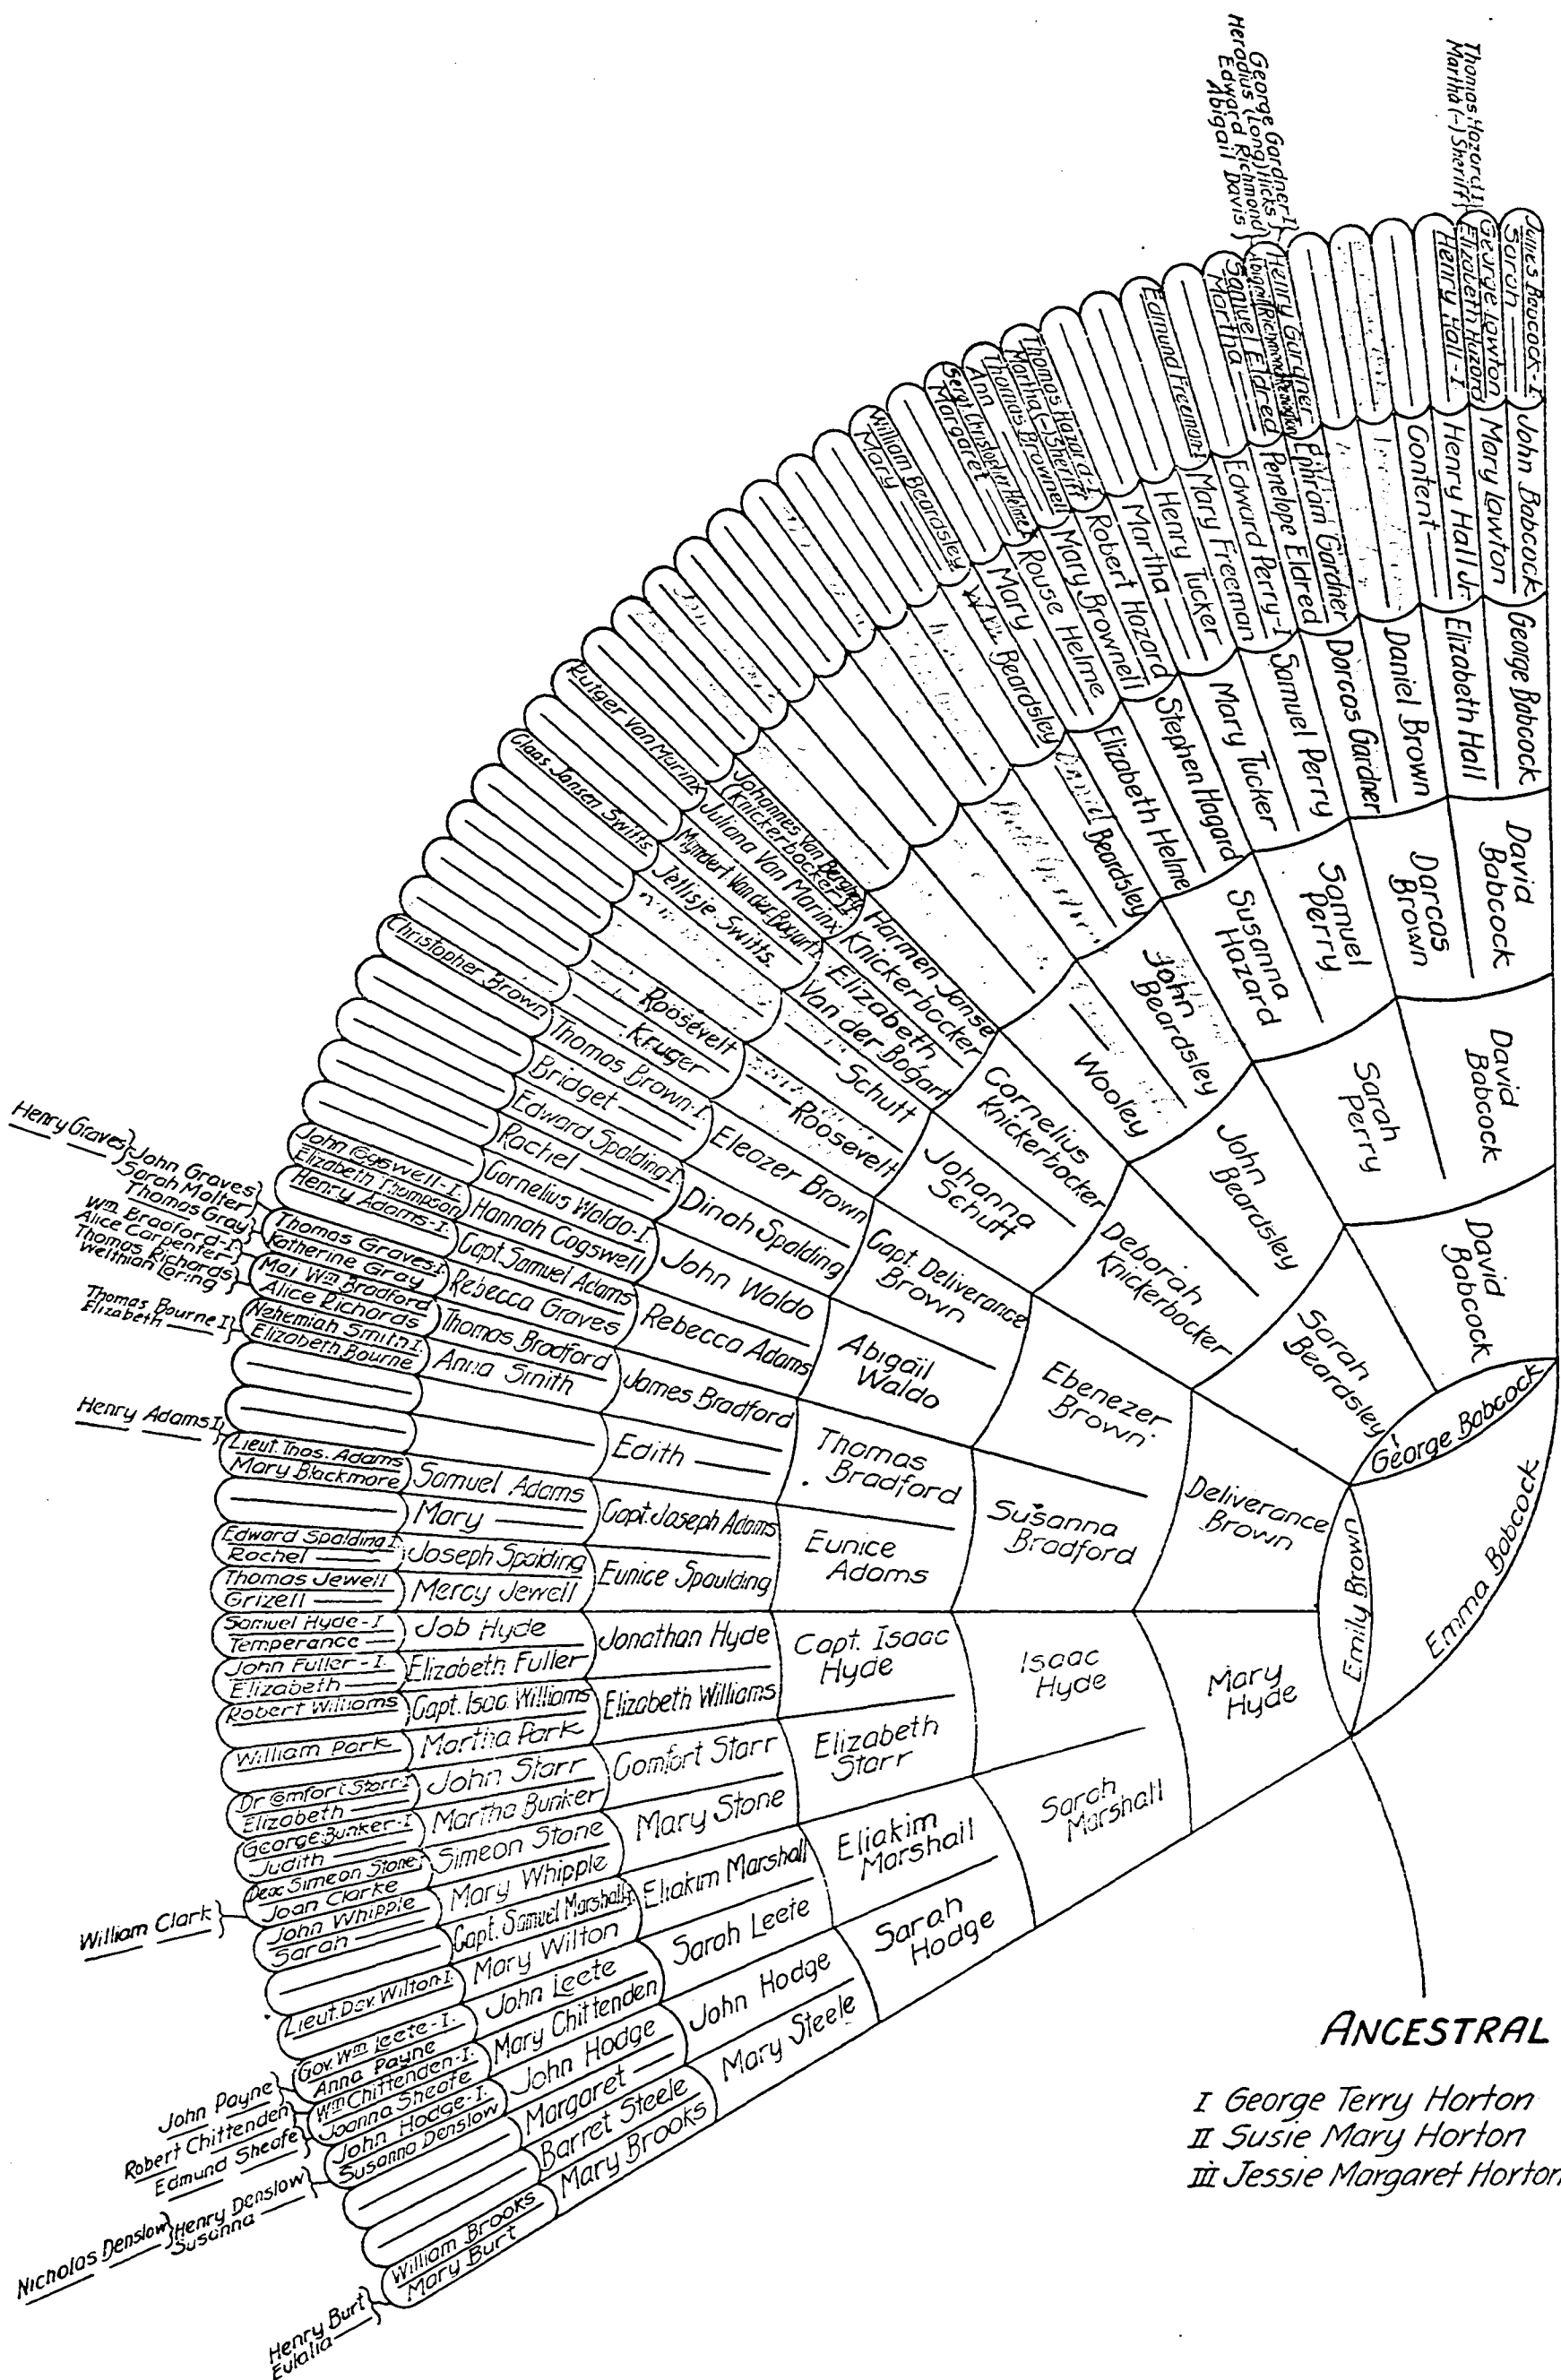

I have not attempted to make any further genealogical researches myself, but have simply arranged and put into what I hope is accessible form, my father's compilations. Some one with the interest and inclination may perhaps find pleasure in continuing the research. Whoever does, will I am sure, find plenty of occupation in obtaining the names which belong in the many blank spaces appearing on the chart.

Among my father's papers I find correspondence indicating that much valuable aid had been rendered him by relatives and family connections; accordingly apart from my own personal interest, I have always felt that an obligation rested on me to have this pamphlet prepared.

HURD ANCESTRY

1. ADAM¹ HURD, with his brother John Hurd, came to Stratford, Conn., among the first settlers in 1639, Stratford being the seventh plantation settled that year. He married Hannah, daughter of John Bertram. His son
2. JOHN² HURD, son of Adam and Hannah (Bertram) Hurd, married Mrs. Johanna Judson, Widow, Dec. 10, 1662, and removed from Stratford to Woodbury, having secured a grant from the Indians of a large tract of land lying along the Shepaug. This first settlement of Woodbury did not long remain in peace. The Indians became unfriendly and there were long weary months of devastations, conflagrations and massacres until the death of King Philip, when they were enabled to settle down and turn their attention toward improvements.

They grew corn but had to grind it by means of a pestle and mortar which required much time. John Hurd then became the builder and owner of the first mill to grind corn in the State of Connecticut. The millstones, 24 inches in diameter and 6 inches thick he secured at Stratford, and carried them on horseback, through the forests to Woodbury. It ground a bushel and a half per day. In 1681, the population having increased, he replaced the old mill by a larger one of sufficient capacity to do all the grinding required by the townspeople. The original millstones have been preserved; one is at the foot of a monument in the center of the town of Woodbury, and the other has found a place in the Capitol at Hartford.

John Hurd owned considerable land. In an agreement in settling his estate after his death his widow Ann and children signed the paper (Probate Rec. B., 1689-1701, p. 148).

There is a tradition in the family that during the Revolution the quick wit of Sarah (—) Reeves, mother of Sarah Reeves, saved not only her property but that of a merchant in the Long Island town near which she lived.

She, with her children and invalid husband, lived on the outskirts of the town. The merchant, knowing that a British raid was expected, concealed in Mrs. Reeves' cellar several cases of fine wine. Previous to this the fire-arms of the family had been concealed in a neighboring swamp—supported on crotched sticks to keep them from the ground.

When the soldiers entered Mrs. Reeves' home and began their search, nothing of value was discovered. The brick oven was full of new bread, which they took, leaving in its place some hardtack, with the remark: "This is good enough for the rebel's brats."

Not satisfied with their search, they asked her if she had any arms. Sarah Reeves then threw up first one arm and then the other, saying, "Oh, yes! This is one and here is the other." The officer, turning to his men, said, "Poor fool, she does not know what we mean."

The soldiers decided it would be a useless waste of time to search the cellar and so the wine was saved, the British taking only the bread. After the close of the war the merchant rewarded her by presenting each child with a bottle of wine. One of these bottles is still in the possession of one of her descendants, Mrs. J. B. Root, great-grand-daughter.

BABCOCK ANCESTRY

1. JAMES¹ BABCOCK, born 1612 in England, probably in Essex County; died at Portsmouth, R. I., June 12, 1679; married Sarah —, who died 1665.

His residence for the first twenty years was in Portsmouth, R. I. He moved to Westerly, R. I., in March, 1662. A tract of land twenty miles by ten miles, known as Misquamicut, afterwards Westerly, was purchased from the Indian Chief Sosoia, June 29th, 1661-62, by a Company numbering sixty or more, headed by William Vaughan, and it was in the following March that they made their first permanent settlement in Westerly.

The records of Westerly show that James Babcock was a man of sterling integrity and of strong convictions. He was honored and trusted as a citizen and ready to serve the community in whatever capacity he was appointed.

Children:

- i. James,² b. 1641.
- 2 ii. John, b. 1644; m. Mary² Lawton.
- iii. Job, b. 1646.
- iv. Mary, b. 1648.
- v. Joseph, b. 1670.
- vi. Nathaniel.
- vii. Elizabeth.

2. JOHN² BABCOCK, second son of James, born Portsmouth, R. I., 1644; died Westerly, R. I., 1685; married Mary Lawton, daughter of George and Elizabeth (Hazard) Lawton, of Portsmouth. She died Nov. 8, 1711.

Tradition says that John and Mary eloped from Newport, R. I., in a boat and married themselves, calling on the moon and stars to witness the solemn vow. They settled on the east bank of the Pawcatuck River, on Mussetuxet Cove, two and one-half miles from Westerly, on the Watch Hill Road, with no neighbors but the friendly Indians, and were not found until several months later, when their parents made inquiry of the Indians.

John settled in Westerly on the banks of the Pawcatuck River, and his eldest son, James, inherited the homestead. Some of this homestead land has never passed from the ownership of the descendants of John. When he died, the inventory of his personal property amounted to £790, 3s, the largest amount recorded in the town of Westerly for many years.

Children:

- i. James,³ b. 1663.
- ii. Ann, b. 1665.
- iii. Mary, b. 1667.
- iv. John, b. 1669.

- ix. Hezekiah, b. March 25, 1715-16.
- x. Elisha, b. May 18, 1718.

4. DAVID⁴ BABCOCK, son of George and Elizabeth (Hall) Babcock, born Westerly, R. I., Dec. 22, 1700; died South

Kingston, March, 1783; was married by his father on Feb. 24, 1730, to Dorcas,⁵ daughter of Daniel and ~~Dorcas~~ (Gardner) Brown, who was born May 23, 1713, and died at South Kingston, Dec. 28, 1798.

At the time of his marriage, David was living in South Kingston, R. I., and he continued to live there the rest of his life.

The will of David Babcock is dated April 10, 1782. From the first clause of his will there is reserved "from the household plate" left to his wife "my silver tankard," and by the second clause of the will, in addition to real estate given to "my beloved son David," is given "my silver tankard." The tankard has been handed down in the family and is now owned by Mr. George Terry Horton, eldest son of Horace Ebenezer and Emma (Babcock) Horton.

Children:

- 5 i. David,⁵ b. April 10, 1734; m. Sarah⁵ Perry.

5. DAVID⁵ BABCOCK, born April 10, 1734, at South Kingston, R. I. Was a sailor. Married at Charleston, Sarah⁵ Perry, daughter of Samuel and Susannah (Hazard) Perry, born March 30, 1738. Was admitted a Freeman of North Kingston in 1756, and late in life removed to Otsego County.

(Following from Records of War Department)

The records show that David Babcock served as a private in Capt. Robert Johnston's Company, 3rd New York Regiment, commanded by Col. James Clinton, Revolutionary War. His name appears on a muster roll of the company covering the period from June 28th, to Oct. 3, 1775, and bearing the latter date at Camp at Ticonderoga, which shows that he enlisted July 13 (year not stated). Nothing additional has been found of record relative to this soldier.

The records also show that David Babcock served as a private in Captain Caleb Bentley's Company. Colonel Cornelius Humphrey's (4th) Regiment, New York Militia, Revolutionary War. His name first appears on a muster roll dated at Ft. Constitution, Sept. 3, 1776, and is borne on a pay-roll covering the period from Oct. 1 to Nov. 1, 1776. Neither the date of his enlistment nor the date of his discharge appears on record.

GARDNER FAMILY

1. GEORGE¹ GARDNER came to America —; died —, 1677. Herodius (Long) Hicks was his common-law wife. Her story is that upon the death of her father, she was privately married in London at the age of 14 to one John Hicks, with whom she came to New England, settling at Weymouth, where she lived for two and one-half years, thence going to Rhode Island about the year 1640. Soon after this, she was deserted by her husband, who went away to the Dutch, carrying with him most of her estate sent her by her mother. She then became the wife of George Gardner. On May 11, 1658, carrying with her a six months old baby, she went from Newport to Weymouth to deliver religious testimony upon which she was carried to Boston before Gov. John Endicott, who sentenced her to be whipped ten lashes with a three-fold knotted whip, after which she was confined to prison for fourteen days longer. All this after a long and difficult journey of above sixty miles through a wilderness almost impassable for a man.

PERRY FAMILY

1. EDWARD¹ PERRY, first American ancestor of the Rhode Island Perry Family, was a member of the Society of Friends or Quakers. Notwithstanding his Quaker convictions, he thrived and prospered, and was appointed to fill many offices of trust. He was born in England in 1630, and came to America with his parents in 1639. He married a Puritan maiden "of high degree," Mary Freeman, daughter of Edmund Freeman, the Lieutenant-Governor—some time acting Governor of Plymouth, and persuaded his father-in-law that the marriage ceremony should conform to the simple Quaker rite. This departure from Puritan forms of religion was so offensive to the law-makers of Plymouth that Perry was annually condemned for many years to pay a fine, the largest except one ever imposed in the Colony.

Children:

BEARDSLEY FAMILY

1. JOHN¹ BEARDSLEY, born Nov. 22, 1725, in Norwalk, Conn.; married in 1748, Deborah Knickerbocker, who died in 1811. His father's name was John, whose wife's family name was Wooley and who came from Stratford, Conn.
Junice Bedford
2. SARAH² BEARDSLEY, dau. of John and Deborah (Knickerbocker) Beardsley, born at Sharon, Conn., Sept. 2, 1765; died at Ames, N. Y., 1856; married David⁶ Babcock.

It is known that the father of John Beardsley, mentioned above, was ~~John~~ Beardsley from Stratford, who was, therefore, in all probability, descended from William Beardsley, a mason from St. Albans, Eng., who came to America 1635 with Rev. Adam Blakeman in the ship Planter. With him were his wife Mary —, and four children. He landed at Hadley, Mass., where he remained until 1638. He then moved to Hartford, Conn., and later to Stratford, where he was one of the first settlers. Was Deputy to General Court for seven years. His will was proved July 6, 1666; died at the age of 56. Had eight children:

(From Hist. of Stratford, Conn.)

In a letter written to Mr. Horace E. Horton, by Mrs. Rose Knickerbocker Bradford, 490 St. Nicholas Ave., New York City, August 1, 1904, we find a statement that the John Beardsley born Nov. 22, 1725, was the son of Samuel, son of Daniel, son of William and Mary who came in the ship Planter, 1635 or thereabouts.

KNICKERBOCKER FAMILY

- I. HARMEN JANSE¹ KNICKERBOCKER, head of the family in America, was the son of Van Wye Harman Janse Van Berghen Knickerbocker and his wife Juliana Van Marnix, dau. of Rutger Van Marnix, Lord of Botselaer. The name "Knickerbocker" is variously spelled and is supposed to mean marble-baker and to have been assumed by Harmen Janse Van Berghen after his arrival in America. (Smith's Hist. of Rhinberts.)

Harmen Janse Knickerbocker was born in Friesland in 1648, entered the Dutch Navy at an early age and served during that period when Holland was so remarkable for its naval victories. He was severely wounded at the battle of Solebay off the coast of England, July 25, 1665, where the Dutch ships engaged the combined English and French Fleets. On his recovery, he resigned his commission and came to America, where he soon after married (before 1688), at Albany, Elizabeth Van de Bogaart, dau. of Myndert Hermanse Van de Bogaart, well known surgeon of the Dutch ship Endraaght, and subsequently commissary of Ft. Orange.

In 1690, Harman Janse Knickerbocker removed from Albany to Schaghticoke, and later to Pine Plains, Dutchess Co., N. Y.
