PREFACE

The first serious attempt to compile a record of Horsford-Hosford families in America appears to have been made by Franklin Homer Hosford who was for years the Washington correspondent of the Detroit Free Press. He collected a large body of material but unfortunately became mentally unsettled and destroyed most of his records before his death. A part of his work was preserved and was made use of in the present compilation. Harriet Horsford Cushman [470] prepared a valuable account of the genealogy of her branch and Eunice Williams (Hosford) Sheldon left an interesting narrative regarding her parents part of which is included in the Appendix, A. p. 197.

The data here presented have been gathered from many different sources; wills, land and court records, town and county histories, published genealogies, family traditions and records, church registers, births, marriages and deaths as recorded by town officials, tombstone and cemetery records, genealogical journals have all been made use of. The records do not always agree; dates in family Bibles may be found to differ from those set down by the town clerk or church official. Tombstone inscriptions are sometimes subject to doubt not only as regards the virtues of the deceased, where there might be room for difference of opinion but even in such definite matters as dates of births and deaths. Where authorities differ, that which seems best attested has in general been followed or given first; in some cases the variation is briefly discussed giving the authorities.

As a rule the female lines have been followed for one generation only, that is to say effort has been made to list the children of all women born Hosfords. In some cases where the data has been available such lines have been followed somewhat further.

There is plenty of room for further research in our family history. This record is far from complete. Without doubt many of our name have lived and many are now living in our land who have not been found and listed. There are also very many Horsford-Hosford descendants bearing other names who do not appear. In all probability there are errors here of various kinds. Additions and corrections will be welcomed by the compiler; authorities for such changes should be given.

In the collection of data I have been aided by many persons. I wish to mention especially Mrs. Mary Abbe Estes who worked out with great care the first five generations of William's line and kindly allowed me to use her material. It is out of the question to name all who have helped by collecting and sending me the records of their own families and relatives. Among those who have assisted in a more general way, besides Mrs. Estes, are Mr. John M. Pearson, Mrs. Mary B. Slade, Mr. Thomas H. Norton, Mr. E. C. Ripley, Mrs. J. B. Benson, Mr. George C. Martin and Mrs. Vanetta Hosford Warren who also undertook the greater part of the correspondence in connection with publication and made the drawings for the frontispiece and the map of Windsor.

To all who have helped to widen the scope and increase the value of this compilation sincere thanks are tendered.

In the annals of this country and also in those of England our name appears in various forms, as Horseforde, Horsforde, Horsford, Horsforth, Hosseforde, and Hosford. At the present time two forms, Horsford and Hosford, prevail at least in this country but it is clear from the records that these, as well as other modifications, are of similar origin and do not indicate distinct family groups.

The name is plainly Saxon and may be traced, by implication at least, to times before the Conqueror. Before bridges were numerous places where streams might be forded were of special importance and many names of places ended in "ford." It has been conjectured that our name originated where, in some remote age, a man, perhaps our early ancestor, kept horses ready to assist travelers in crossing a stream. Such an origin may be compared with that of Oxford or Oxenford. However, students of names class ours as a "place" name. Surnames were unknown in England before the conquest and were not in general use before the end of the 13th century. Some are derived from an ancestor's Christian name as Jackson, Johnson, Thompson, etc. Others are from trades or official position as Smith, Cook, Carpenter, Clark (clerk), Chamberlain. Many are "place" names indicating residence. Such names in early use were often prefixed by a preposition meaning "of" as Von in German, Van in Dutch and "de" in French. The last prevailed in England when Norman-French was the language of the aristocracy. In time these prefixes were often dropped.

The Calendar of Inquisitions, Henry III (1216-1272) names the manor of Horsford in Norfolk, England, as "held of King of Almain." Almain was an old name of Germany or Saxony. The Calendar of Inquisitions, Henry VII (1485-1509) also names the manor of Horsford or Horsforth in County Norfolk. The History of Norfolk by Rev. Charles Parkin, Vol. X, under Horseford has the following:

"Robert Malet, baron of Eye in Suffolk, had a grant of this town for his eminent services to the Conqueror, on the deprivation of Edric, lord of it in King Edwards time. The lordship was called the barony of Horseford." It included "a castle and park or forest of Horseford. Many of the holders were interred in Langley Abbey. The site of the castle is still (1809) to be seen, the moat and keep. There was a park stocked with deer in time of Henry VIII. Now (1809) it is a naked heath of 900 acres. There is a church and rectory, the church with nave, chancel, north chapel, square tower, three bells, a List of Vicars (1335-1734). The town takes its name from a ford over the river Hor or Or."

Tax lists of Norfolk name:

Johannes de Horsford, 1379.

Robertus de Horseford, 1379.

Alicia de Horsford, 1379.

James de Horsford, clerk.

The History of Norfolk by Blomefield and Parkin names William de Horsford, burgess in Parliament for Norfolk, 4 Edward III (1327-1377).

A marriage license was issued in London in 1682-3 to Ridley Horsford and Mary Roe.

From the above it would seem that the village or town of Horsford in County Norfolk, Eng. was held in Saxon times under grant of a Saxon king and in the reign of Edward the Confessor belonged to Edric. It was taken over by Robert Malet under William I. It is clear that the name as applied to persons comes from the town as place of residence.

In Yorkshire, Eng. near Leeds is the town of Horsforth as shown on modern maps. Ancient records, however, refer to the place as Horseforde, Hoseforde, Horsford, and Horsforthe. One writer derives the name from "horse" and "ford" indicating a place where the stream was too deep to pass on foot; another states that the name refers to the "ford of the Ox." That a ford was really involved appears from a description of land which mentions the "Horsford ford." Horsforth stone has long been used in building. About 1237 Neal or Nigel de Horsforth gave stone to Kirkstall Abbey. In the time of Elizabeth the manor of Horsforth was purchased by John Stanhope and others.

The evidence seems to prove that our name is a "place name" of Saxon origin and that it originated independently in two places at least. The exact derivation seems to be doubtful. Beside the explanations given above it has been stated that it comes from a ford over the river Ouse. In view of the frequent peculiar treatment by the English of the aspirate its presence or absence presents no difficulty.

There were Horsfords at Beaminster, County Dorset, in the reign of Henry VIII. An address by the parishioners of Beaminster to the Dean of Salisbury was signed by Robert Horsford and others. According to the Register of the Parish, Mary, daughter of Harry Horsforde was christened there Oct. 18, 1585. A John Horsford is also named.

A William Horsford of Dorchester, County Dorset, Eng. made his will June 30, 1621. He names Joan, his wife, daughters Joan and Sarah, a brother Hugh and his daughter Grace. This William Horsford may have been related to the American pioneer of the same name.

Under Cromwell a Hosford Regiment served in Ireland and there are today many persons of the name in Ireland especially in the vicinity of Cork. Some of these claim descent from ancestors who came from England with Cromwell or with William III. Horsfords and Hosfords are now found in various parts of England and the British Empire.

The Irish families have an interesting tradition regarding their original Horsford ancestor. The story goes that he came from Stroud, Gloucestershire and was known as Stroud. He joined King William's army and fought at the Battle of the Boyne; there he discovered a "ford" across the river which cavalry could use in safety and so received the name of Horsford. There may be truth in this tradition but, as shown above, our name is centuries older than the Battle of the Boyne.

Works on Heraldry show various coats of arms and crests under our name. Burke gives the following, possibly the most ancient:

Azure; on a chevron argent three lions heads erased. Crest; out of a ducal coronet a demi-pegasus. (See frontispiece.)

Drawings showing arms of this description with the motto, Servare Mentem are in the possession of some of the Irish Hosfords.

Henry Housford and Isaac Horsford were early in Antigua, West Indies, and many descendants have been prominent in the colony. This family bore arms described as follows:

Azure; on a chevron, or, three eagles heads erased, between three swords erect. Crest; issuant out of a mural coronet gules, a demi-pegasus with wings addorsed ermine, gorged with a collar gemel also gules and holding between the paws a tilting spear erect and resting on the coronet proper.

The arms of a later descendant are more elaborate, being impaled or quartered but show three lions heads erased on a chevron.

Armorial Families of Fox-Davies gives the arms of Horsford of Penryn, Cornwall, dated July 6, 1804, thus:

Vert; on a chevron perpale argent and or, between three horses heads erased of the second, three mullets pierced purpure. Mantling vert and argent. Crest; on a wreath of the colors a horse passant, per pale argent and sable, fording through water proper. Motto; Benigno numine.

Fairbairn gives a similar crest:

On the waves of the sea, proper, a horse passant argent. Benigno numine. (See frontispiece.)

Under Horseford Fairbairn gives another crest: A lion's head azure between two wings or. (See frontispiece.)

Regarding the persons to whom these arms were granted and those who are entitled to bear them now the compiler has no knowledge and saith naught. They have certain features in common; in all appear the chevron and the three heads erased but these are of three kinds, lions, eagles and horses. In most cases the heads are on the chevron but the Cornwall arms show the chevron between the heads.

The first of our name in America of whom there is record was Rev. or Elder William Horsford who came to Dorchester, Massachusetts Bay Colony, about 1630. The charter of this colony was granted in 1628 and confirmed the following year. The first settlement under the charter was at Salem by Governor Endicott and 300 others. That was in 1629. The next year, 1630, 17 ships came bringing 1500 to 1700 immigrants to join the colony. Among the earliest comers was a company made up of persons from the western counties of England. Rev. John White of Dorchester, Eng. was active in organizing this party. It included several gentleman past middle age but was largely made up of young married and single persons. Two ministers, Messrs. Maverick and Warham were to conserve the religious interests of the immigrants while the arm of the flesh was represented by Captain John Mason, Captain Richard Southcote and Quartermaster John Smith who had served in the campaign of the Palatinate on the continent.

The party numbering 140, after a Day of Fasting at Plymouth, Eng., set sail for the New World Mch. 20, 1630, in the good ship Mary and John, of 400 tons burden, Capt. Squab, Master. They were two months at sea, the voyage being enlivened by "preaching and expounding the Word of God" every day. On Lord's Day, May 30, 1630, they were landed at Nantasket, now Hull. The newcomers called their settlement Dorchester in honor of Rev. White of Dorchester, Eng. William Horsford may have come with this party; at any rate he is said to have been at Dorchester in 1630 and he is soon found associated with those who are named as coming in the Mary and John.

A difficult year followed. Supplies were scanty but food came from friendly Indians and ships from Virginia, Holland and Ireland supplied in part the needs of the settlers. In 1631 a Connecticut River sachem visited Boston and Plymouth urging the whites to make settlements on the Connecticut River and offering corn and beaver skins. It appeared later that his real object was to gain the aid of the settlers against the Pequots who were harassing the river Indians. His overtures aroused little interest at the time.

In 1633 the Dutch from New Amsterdam bought land on the river from the Indians and built a fort called the "House of Good Hope," on the present site of Hartford. The Plymouth people sent envoys to New Amsterdam who showed the Dutch Governor Van Twiller their commission granting the river and country of Connecticut to the English. Van Twiller replied courteously but claimed that by prior discovery, occupation and grants the districts in question belonged to the Dutch West India Company and asked the Plymouth people not to settle on the river until the matter could be arranged amicably.

However the Plymouth Trading Company sent out a "large new bark" with one William Holmes in command. He carried the frame of a house and with friendly Indian sachems sailed up the river past the Dutch fort and erected his house just below the mouth of the Tunxis or Windsor River. The Dutch protested but got no satisfaction. Threats and parleys followed but the Dutch were reluctant to use force and their interest declined gradually and ended in 1655. While in general the Dutch appear to have had justice on their side the land occupied by the English was apparently above that which the Dutch had bought from the Pequots whose title too was questionable.

In 1635 a company of Dorchester men set out to prepare for a settlement on the river. They arrived at the Plymouth Trading House in June and explored the country to the north but returned to Matianuck (Windsor). Others were on the ground. Francis Stiles representing Lord Say and Seal and other lords who had received a grant of the region in 1631, reached Matianuck about July 1, and a conflict of claims followed. Several considerations urged the Dorchester people to make settlements on the river without further delay. An epidemic of small pox had greatly weakened the Indians of the region while the claims of the Dutch, the Plymouth Company and of Lord Say and Seal were still active. In October, 1635, a party of about sixty men, women and children set out from Dorchester to go by land to the river. Furniture and other heavy articles were sent around by water. Winter came on early that year. The settlers reached the river with difficulty but their goods had not yet come up the river and there was no knowledge of their whereabouts. About thirteen of the party started back to the Bay by land, others went down the river and found a small vessel, the Rebecca, which carried them to Massachusetts in five days. A few passed the winter in Connecticut but suffered from cold and famine.

In the spring, on Apr. 16, 1636, a company again started from Dorchester and made permanent settlement at Matianuck. At first the town was called Dorchester but at the court of Feb. 21, 1636-7 Dorchester became Windsor. William Horsford was one of the early settlers. He was Commissioner to the General Court in 1637 and was a ruling elder of the First Church of Christ in Windsor. This church is said to be the oldest evangelical church in America and with exception of the Southwark church of London the oldest orthodox Congregational church in the world.

In 1639 William Horsford was granted a lot 20 rods wide on the east side of the main street or common road quite near the Palisado. The Foulke lot was west of the Palisado and after William Horsford married the widow of Henry Foulke he moved to the Foulke property giving his own lot to his son-in-law, Stephen Taylor. A thoroughfare from the main road to the Foulke place was known as Horsford's Lane.

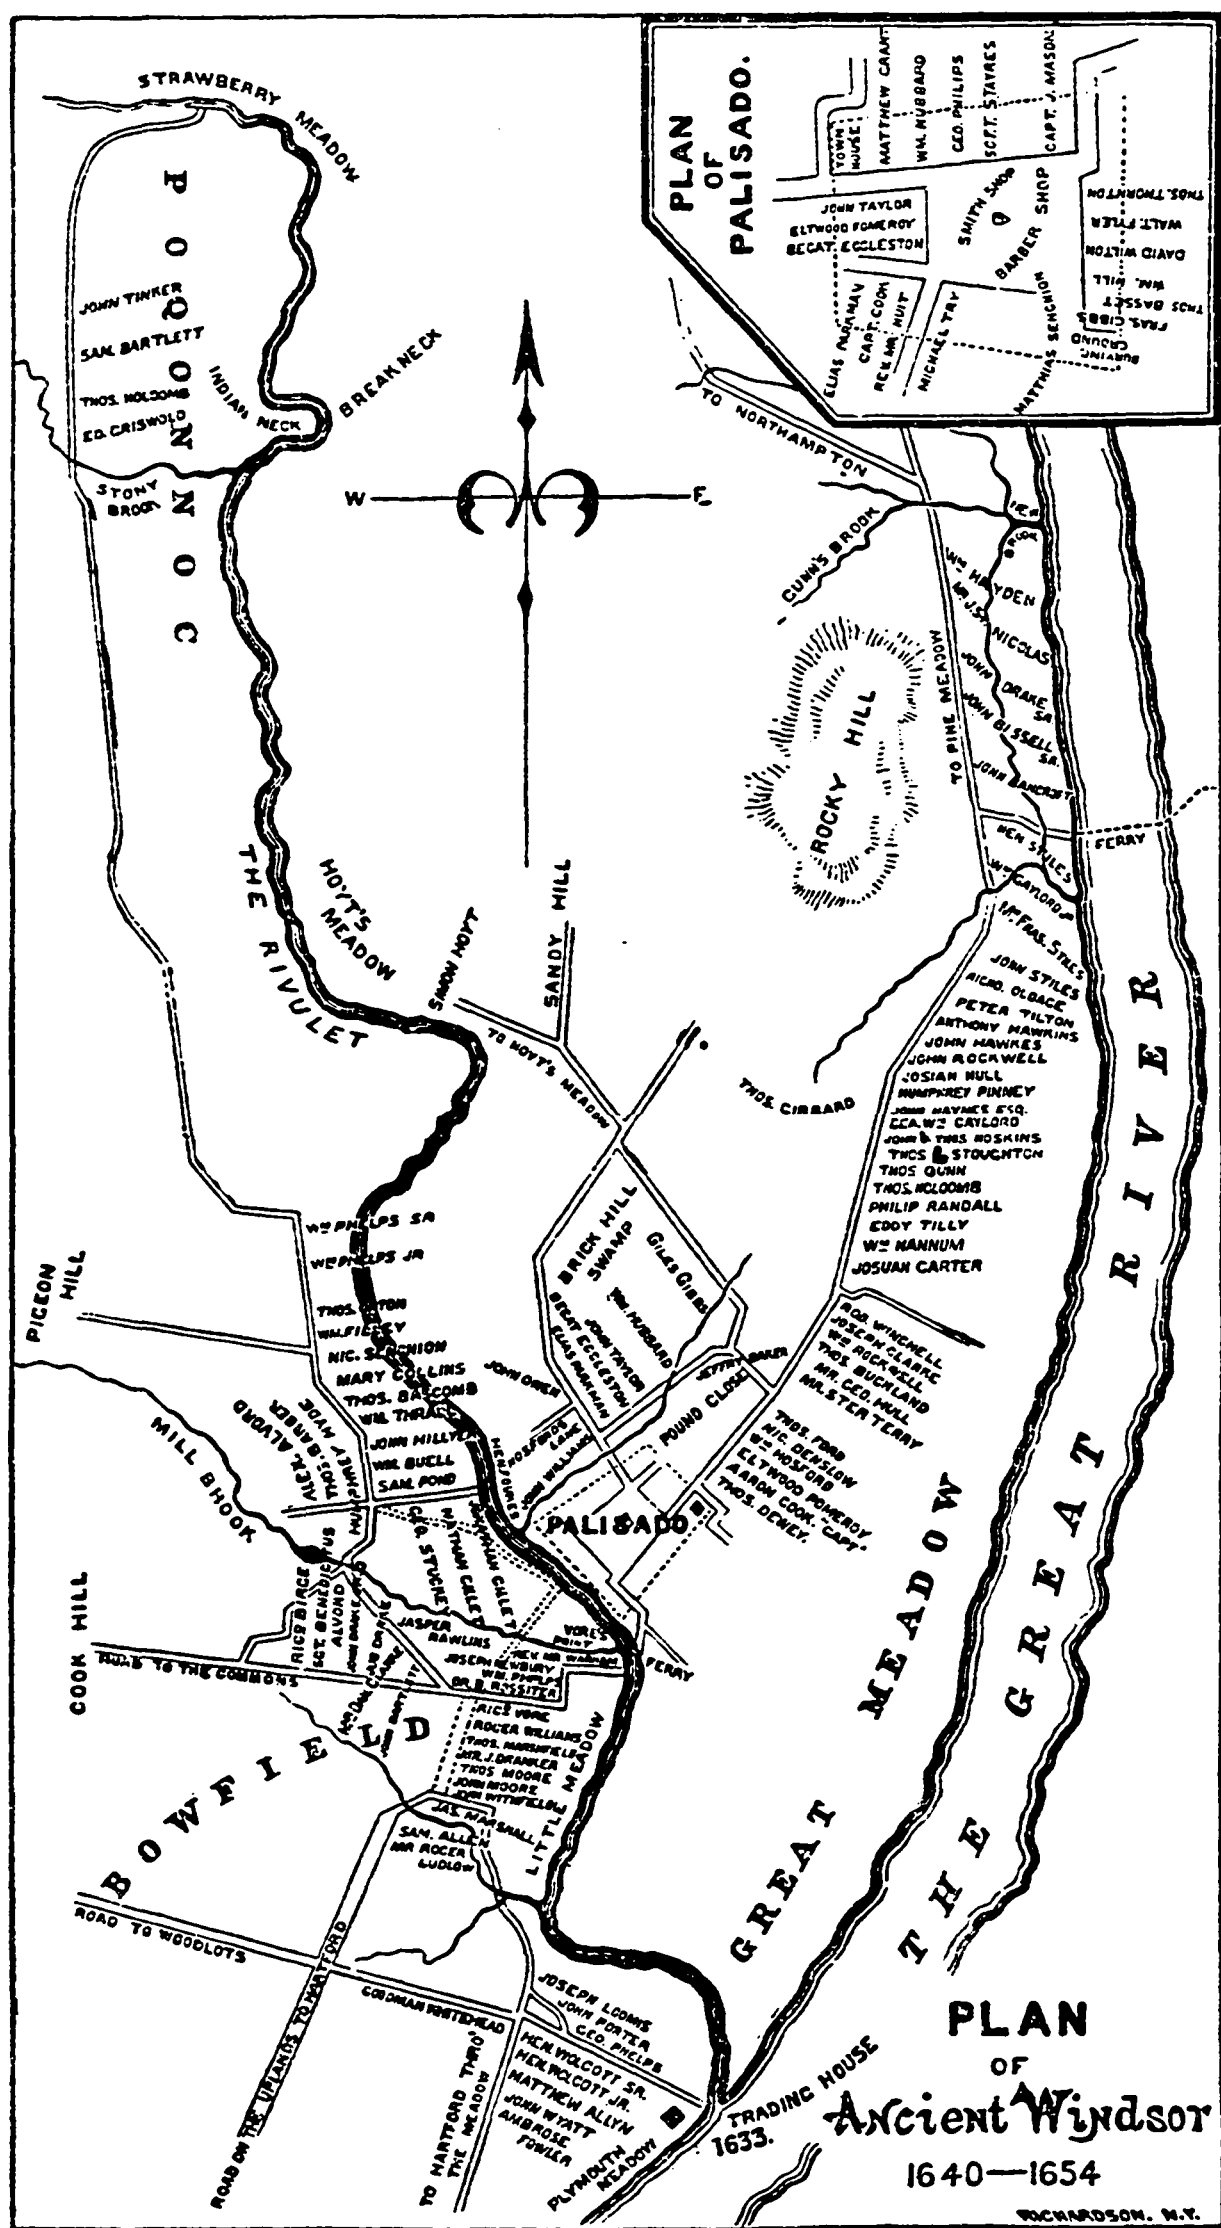

William Horsford who with John Witchfield and John Banker, the schoolmaster, served the Windsor church as ruling elder was called in 1653 to be minister of the church at Springfield, succeeding Rev. George Moxon. A record in an account book of Springfield, under date of Feb. 16, 1653 reads as follows:

“ffor Mr. Horsford's maintenance        50, 00, 00 pounds ffor bringing up Mr. Horsford's goods 4, 08, 00 pounds”

The stay at Springfield was not long. In 1653-54 William returned to England, his wife Jane following him in Aug., 1655. He died at Tiverton, County Devon, Eng., but the date is not known.

A church record at Windsor states that John Horsford, son of William, paid by his mother, 3s. 6d. for a short seat in the meeting house. This is under date of Jan. 18, 1659-60, and indicates that Jane was then at Windsor. She later is again in England and on

“W<sup>m</sup> Horsford came to Windsor in 1639 with Rev. Mr. Ephraim Huit” - Hinman

Oct. 13, 1692, as she had not been heard from for nearly forty years she was declared to be legally dead. Her will was approved by court in May, 1693.

John Horsford, only son of William, was born at Windsor and died there in 1683. He took the oath of a freeman May 20, 1652.

In March, 1657/8 a troop of 30 horsemen, the first in the colony was organized under command of Captain John Mason. John Horsford was a member of this troop and served as a trooper in King Philip's war, receiving in 1675 6 s, 8 d. for such services. John left an estate of 1203 pounds which was large for those days. His children, ten in number, were all born at Windsor but as they came to maturity several became residents of other towns near Windsor or further west. Timothy, who after the death of his father was the most prominent man of his family in colonial affairs, was a proprietor of several towns as Harwinton in 1732, Torrington in 1739 and Norfolk. He finally moved to Litchfield, Conn., where he died in 1740/41. Nathaniel was interested with Timothy at Torrington and also moved to Litchfield. He was one of a committee to build forts in Litchfield in 1725. Obadiah became resident and prominent at Hebron. William, Samuel and John lived and died at Windsor.

In the next generation the pioneer urge carried Horsford families to Vermont where four towns, Thetford, Charlotte, Poultney and Pownal were early Horsford centers, also to western Massachusetts and over the New England borders to New York where we find Horsford men marrying Dutch girls. The story is told again in pioneer settlements in Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Colorado and the Pacific coast. The record is one of honor. Men of our name have served in every war waged for our land from the early Indian wars down to the great World War; they have done good service in many vocations. Many have been farmers especially in the pioneer days; the roll also includes clergymen, physicians, lawyers, teachers, scientists, artists, writers and men engaged in the various fields of business. Very many have been prominent in promoting the civil interests of town and state.

About a century after William Horsford came to America a Joseph Hosford appeared in Connecticut. Family tradition, quite uniform in different branches, have it that Joseph was born in Ireland of English parentage, and came to America when only seventeen. So far as known he was not related to William though certain facts seem to indicate a connection of some sort. Near Cork in Ireland are many Hosford families descended from men who came from England. Some claim that immigrants came with Cromwell; others name the reign of William III as the time of coming. Among these families is one in which the names Joseph and Benjamin have prevailed for generations. Evidence has been recently found showing that this branch of the immigrants came from Devonshire in England which was William's county. Also representatives of the two lines lived in neighboring towns in Connecticut and Massachusetts. While several families of William's line were living at Williamstown, Mass., Joseph and some of his children were at Pownal, just over the line in Vermont. There is also a suggestive correspondence in certain names. Under the conditions acquaintanceship at least between the two lines is altogether probable and a distant relationship may have existed. Joseph like William was a man of some education and was a teacher all his life in the town schools of early New England.

In later years persons of our name have come from time to time to our shores. Some of these are listed later in this volume. All are clearly of English origin.

At present, for the most part the descendants of Col. Obadiah [46] and the families centering at Charlotte, Vt., and at Madrid, N. Y., use the earlier form of the name—Horsford, but both in England and in this country the shorter form—Hosford—seems to have gradually become more common.

HORSFORD—HOSFORD GENEALOGIES

Persons born under the family name are numbered serially. Numbers enclosed in brackets [—] are such serial numbers. Names of children shown in small capitals will be found repeated with full data under the succeeding generation. By means of the serial numbers one may easily follow any line in either direction, i.e. back to ancestors or forward to descendants.

Where two children in the same family received the same name, as was often done when the first died early, they are distinguished as (1) and (2).

(TSR) stands for Tomb-stone Record. Other abbreviations will be readily understood.

WILLIAM HORSFORD

1. WILLIAM<sup>1</sup>

William Horsford was born in England and came with his wife to Dorchester, Massachusetts Bay Colony, about 1630. He returned to England and died at Tiverton, Co. Devon, about 1660. His first wife, the mother of his children, died Aug. 20, 1641. He married, second, at Windsor, Conn., Jane, a widow of Henry Fawkes (Fokes, Fookes, Fouks, etc.). Henry F. died in 1640. Jane followed her husband to England and died there after 1674.

William is said to have been at Dorchester in 1630. The old Town Records of Dorchester, Mass. have several items relating to William:

Dec. 2, 1633. "It is ordered that William Hosford shall have one of the Two Great Lotts that were Captain Southcotes." Southcote had gone back to England.

Jan. 6, 1633. "It is ordered that the Marsh and Swamp in front of Goodman Hosford and davy Wilton shall be divided among themselves and Symon Hoyt."

Sept. 1, 1634. "Whereas William Hosseford, desiring to have some medowe next Mr. Williams, which could not be granted, nowe therefore it was graunted that none should have a lott there untill he be heard therein."

Nov. 3, 1634. "It is also ordered that the common gates shall be forthwith made and set up sufficiently with the poles belonging to same, one at Mr. Woolcots, one at . . . . ., To be polled betwix William Horseford's lott and the creeke."

Dec. 29, 1634. "The persons appoynted to view the poles are . . . . . for the North field Will Horsford, Roger Clapp.

Apr. 17, 1635. "It is granted to Mr. William Horseford to have four acres of medowe ground, next to goodman Denslowes meadow ground.

In 1636 probably, he joined the Windsor, Conn. colony where he was associated with John Witchfield and John Banker, the school-master, as ruling elders of the Windsor church. He was Commissioner to the General Court in 1637. In 1652 he was called to be minister of the church at Springfield, Mass., where he served until 1654-5 when he returned to England. He made two wills; the first, not witnessed, is dated Aug. 27, 1650. This will is in his own handwriting and is shown in facsimile on p. 19. It reads as follows:

August 27, 1650.

"I Will Horsford do mack this as my Last will and testament. I give to my wife Jane Horsford halfe my dwelling house half my Barn and Half my cow house during the time of her life. I give all so unto my wife that medowe I bought of Elyas Parckman lying in ye lytell, medow, during her life, also I give unto my wife on hoge halfe the apelles that grows in the orched this yeare, 5 bushelles of wheat 10 bushelles of Indyan corne all so she is peaceably to in joye the Lands that wear her owen be fore my maryag only halfe anacker of the orched which lys by the hie way going into the medow wch is specified on wryting I give to my sonne John Horsford. He I mack my executor and do give unto him all my Lands housing catell goods and debtes. What housing I have given to my wife during her life I do give to my sonn John after my wifes life and all such lands as my wife do in joye during her life which was given to my wife at my marryag, specified on wryting, I do give to my sone John and his ayres after my wifes life and in case my sone dye be fore his mother and have no children or child either bourne or in the wombe to in joye the sayd lands and housing I do then give yt to my too daughters children equally to be devided; I do give to my daughters ten pounds apece to be payd in 2 yeares time my son is to pay my debtes if he takes the executor shop.

William Horsford."

(Not witnessed)

A second will is dated 6 September 1654:

"I do bequeath unto my son John Horsford all my estate in Windsor. I do appoint him to discharge my Bill into court for Richard Samwais his children, as also a bill under my hand to my wife for about £40 if my wife stays in New England but I hope she will come to me in England.

William Horsford.

Recorded 14 July 1660

Witness: Walter Fyler, Jane Fyler."

It is probable that this second will was recorded after William's death. The estate was in litigation for some years and was finally settled in 1674.

Jane, second wife of William, followed him to England in 1655 but before doing so made a will which reads thus:

Aug. 1 27. 1550.

I will for ever do more this as my last will and testament I give to my wife Jane. Gifford half my dwelling house half my land and half my tithes during the time of her life. I give all the rest of my wife her mother's house of half year's man, living in the place. mother's house during her life all the rest of my wife on her half the apples that grow in the orchard. her yearly 5 bushels of wheat is bushels of Indian corn all the rest is payable to in her the land that now her own to her my manor, on by half another of the over the house by the side way going in to the mother's house promised on my part. I give to my son John Gifford the half of my manor and the half of the land. Give all my land's house and goods which: what Gifford I give to to my wife during her life. I do give to my son John after my wife's life. and all the land as my wife do in her house during her life with her given to my son at my marriage promised on my part. I do give to my son John and his heirs after my wife's life and in case my son do be for his mother and land no children or child either born or in the womb to in her the said land and house and the house to my two daughters equally to be divided: I do give to my daughters ten pounds a year to be paid in 2 years and my son to pay my debts if he takes the executor's part.

William Gifford

Windsor, Conn. July 23, 1655.

"This is the last will and Testament of Jane Hosford, the wife of Mr. William Hosford: I being going after my husband unto Old England, and not knowing when God may take me out of this life, do dispose of my goods as followeth: Imprimis: I do bequeath and it is my will, that after my decease the Church of Wyndsor, of which I am now a member, shall have and forever enjoy that piece of meadow Land which belongeth unto me called Hoyt's Meadow, for the use of a pastor or Teacher of the Church, as the Church shall see most need, and, when one dead, to go successively to another always. Item. Concerning the rest of my Estate, in the Hands of whosoever it is left or may be found, I bequeath unto my sister Elizabeth Wildish and her children which I suppose live in Rochester in Kent, to be equally divided among them.

Jane X Hosford

Entered in Public Records, 25 January 1677."

Some years later by a document dated at Tiverton, Co. Devon, Eng., Jan. 15, 1671, Jane gave the use of the land described in her will to her stepson, John Hosford, during her own life. On Oct. 13, 1692 as she had not been heard from for nearly forty years she was declared by court to be legally dead and on May 11, 1693, the court was asked to approve her last will and testament. John claimed that he had no knowledge of her death in England and held on to the land until legal proceedings, instituted by the Society, compelled him to relinquish it in Sept., 1695. This meadow land was sold in 1861 by the Society and the interest derived therefrom is still applied to the support of the pastor of the church.

It has been asserted that the father of William Horsford was Job Horsford; on what authority this rests is not known. William's English family connections have not been determined with certainty. The name of William's first wife is not known but has been conjectured to be Sarah. The name of his second daughter is also in doubt but Esther appears probable.

Windsor records name three early Horsfords who were probably related to William. A Joanna Horsford died at Windsor Sept. 18, 1640. She was perhaps a daughter of William. Another of the name is Thomas Horsford "whose lameness was such" that at a town meeting in 1667 "his wife's straits for firewood" were considered and "3 more loads of wood granted her." Thomas may have been a brother of William. Lastly Philip Horsford was a member of the Windsor church in 1674-84. He is named in court records as defendant in two suits in 1695. In one suit Samuel Horsford and Joseph Phelps are co-defendants.

Children of William and his first wife, perhaps Sara by name:

- 2 i. SARA ( -1647)
- 3 ii. ESTHER (?)
- 4 iii. JOHN (1636(?)-1683)

2. SARA<sup>2</sup> (William<sup>1</sup>)

Sara was born in England and died at Windsor, Conn., 1647. She married at Windsor, Nov. 1, 1642, Stephen Taylor of Windsor. He was born in England and died Sept. 1, 1688. Stephen married, second, Oct. 25, 1649, Elizabeth Newell who died Aug. 5, 1689.

Stephen Taylor lived (1642) on the William Horsford place in Windsor. In 1656 he sold it and moved across the river.

Children of Stephen and Sara:

- i. Stephen, born Mch. 11, baptized Mch. 16, 1644. He married Nov. 8, 1676, Joanna Porter of Farmington.

By Benjamin Collins-Lebanon Crank"

The Benjamin Collins of the last line was the maker of the tombstone, possibly the composer of the epitaph. Lebanon Crank does not refer to Mr. Collins but denotes a town adjacent to Hebron which later became Columbia.

Obadiah moved from Windsor to Hebron, Conn. Court and land records show him at Hebron in and after 1706. The people worshipped for a time in Dr. Obadiah Horsford's barn. Sheldon's History of Northfield states that David Barber and 13 others were baptized in this barn in 1717. The church was later built upon the N.W. corner of Obadiah's farm. In 1712 Obadiah petitioned the General Court for leave to practise medicine. The following testimonials are on file:

The first was given by Gershom Buckeley, by profession first a minister, later a physician. He was evidently of a discreet and cautious temper.

"Gasen bury, May 7, 1712.

As to Mr. Obadiah Horsford's desire of a Testimonial to ye wld fr his allowance to practise Physick, my answer is that when men give any Testimony whatever, they ought to testify what they know, not what they do not know.

I know by written report and in part from himself that he hath practised divers years, but as for his having skill and success in ye art and practise of Physick, I know nothing. It may be very good for ought I know.

G. Buckeley."

The second testimonial is from Samuel Mather, also a physician:

"Whereas Docter Obediah Hosford of Hebron, desireth a testimonial from us as to his qualifications fitting him for ye practise of Physick in this Collony—we do by what we have heard of his practice some years past and by ye good acceptance he hath had among his people and by what we conceive he hath gained, by Reading and Experience in that Science, approve of his being an allowed Physitian and hope he may be allowed and encouraged therein.

Saml Mather (Practr Medicine)

Windsor, May 16, 1712."

At New Haven, Oct. 11, 1722, The Court of Conn. Colony established and confirmed Mr. Obadiah Hosford to be Captain of a Train Band in Hebron. In 1729 and 1731 he was Deputy from Hebron to the General Court. He kept an inn at Hebron and in 1731/2 was one of the incorporators of the New London Company "invited for trade and commerce."

Obadiah's will, dated Sept. 14, 1737, proved June 1, 1741, describes him as Captain Obadiah Horsford of Hebron and names wife Mindwell, sons Daniel, Joseph, Aaron, Obadiah, and daughters Anna and Mindwell.

17. DANIEL<sup>4</sup> (Timothy<sup>3</sup> [7], John,<sup>2</sup> William<sup>1</sup>)

Daniel was born at Windsor, Conn., July 5, 1695, died at South Canaan, Conn., May 23, 1777. He married at Hebron, Conn., Apr. 6, 1721, Elizabeth Steward who was born at Hebron, 1705/6 and died at Williamstown, Mass., May 28, 1781.

Daniel Horsford was an early settler with Capt. Obadiah Horsford at Hebron going there soon after 1705. In 1741 he bought land in Canaan, Conn. and moved there, where he was associated with his half-brother Timothy. Daniel and his wife were admitted to the Canaan church as from Hebron, Jan. 7, 1754. He was Lieut. and later Capt. in the train band at Canaan. Evidently Daniel was an active business man as he was a miller and also interested in iron works. On Nov. 1, 1752 he and his son William bought House Lot No. 44 in Williamstown, Mass.

In the will of Daniel and in his distribution and that of his wife the only children mentioned are daughter Elizabeth Curtis and five sons as given below.

While Daniel lived to a good old age his end was sudden and terrible; he was burned to death. The inscription on his tombstone at Grassy Hill Burying Ground, Canaan, Conn., is as follows:

"In fiery flames my spirit fled
And left my flesh to burn and fry.
Now I am numbered with the dead,
Mortals, remember you must die."

Timothy was born at Windsor, Conn., Sept. 3, 1709; died at South Canaan, Conn., Apr. 8, 1787. Perhaps buried in Allen Cemetery at Cornwall.

Timothy married before 1744, Anne Smithrem or Smithran, daughter of Esther S. Later, the wife of Timothy is called Nancy. It has been thought that Timothy married twice, first, Anne Smithrem and second, Nancy ..... but it seems possible that "Nancy" was a nickname for Anne.

Timothy bought land in the "northern township" in 1740 and moved with his half-brother Daniel [17] in 1741 to South Canaan, Conn. He is named at Cornwall in 1742 and at Norwich in 1748.

Information regarding the wife or wives of Timothy is meagre. Esther Smithrem of Albany, N. Y., widow, under date of Aug. 27, 1744, left an estate, one-half to daughter Anne, wife of Timothy Hosford of Canaan. Timothy Hosford of Canaan was one of the executors. The will was proved at Albany, Aug. 5, 1751. There was also a bequest to "cousin Elizabeth, wife of Abraham Hallenbeck."

Brown

A Canaan land record states that Smithrem (or Smithran) Hosford bought land on Apr. 7, 1774 which Esther Robbins bought of Timothy Hosford. Smithrem Hosford's estate was settled June 27, 1797. He left his property to his sisters and brother.

Experience died Apr. 14, 1794, at "age 88" and is buried at Berlin, Conn., beside her son Amos.

In 1718 Benjamin was a proprietor of Litchfield, Conn. He became resident there and deacon of first church (1723). He and Abiel Smith were administrators of the estate of Nathaniel Smith in 1726. He is found at Farmington, Conn., in 1743.

Joseph and Susannah (Enos) Phelps and grand-daughter of Sarah (Hosford) Phelps [9]. She was born at Hebron Dec. 10, 1720 and died Nov. 5, 1773, "in the 53rd yr of her age."

Daniel was a farmer and lived at Hebron near the village. His house at Hebron is still (1930) standing. The will of his father allowed him to choose for his home "either the farm at Burnt Hill or on my home lot or the land near adjoining." The Burnt Hill farm went to Daniel's sister Anna. In 1748 Daniel Horsford was a member of a committee to build a meeting house in Marlboro and in 1757 he and others asked permission to build a schoolhouse at the center. His will, dated Oct. 9, 1773, names wife Sarah, six sons and five daughters as listed below. Aaron is mentioned as a physician. The inventory made Nov. 18, 1773 lists: 40 cattle, 6 or 8 horses, 57 sheep, 16 swine, 370 acres land, house and barn and potash on it, 21 bbl. cider, 40 gals. rum, 222 lbs. cheese, methyglin, 32 yds. cloth on loom. Joel, Lydia and Susannah all died in the same year as their parents of an epidemic disease.

Susannah Enos was daughter of James, Jr. and Abigail (Bissell) Enos. This name sometimes appears as Eno. The s was added by Gen. Roger Enos but was always silent.

46. OBADIAH<sup>4</sup> (Obadiah<sup>3</sup> [14], John,<sup>2</sup> William<sup>1</sup>)

Obadiah was born at Hebron, Conn., Jan. 20 or 26, 1724/5. He died at Hebron, July 11, 1783, "in the 59th yr." He married, first, Apr. 28, 1751 (or 1757), Mary Buel, who died Oct. 3, 1771. He married, second, Mary (Champion) Mason, widow of Rev. Elijah Mason and daughter of Lt. Henry and Mehittabell<sup>4</sup> Champion. Mary (Champion, Mason) Horsford was born at East Had-dam, Conn., Nov. 28, 1731, and died June 20, 1783, "in the 51st yr." She married Rev. Elijah Mason, Feb. 16, 1757. He was installed in May, 1767 as third minister of the church at Chester, Conn. He died Jan. 13, 1770. There were no children by the second marriage.

Obadiah was on the French and Indian War Rolls, 1755-57. In 1757 Obadiah Horsford's was rendezvous for soldiers. He was Ensign, North Co., Hebron, in May, 1761; Lieut. of 5th Co., 12th Reg. in Oct., 1764, and Capt. of same company in Oct., 1766. He was Deputy for Hebron at various times, 1767-70. In 1776 he was Lt. Col. in command of 12th Reg. under Brig. Gen. Saltonstall in campaign around New York. Resigned, 1776.

Obadiah's will dated July 8, 1783, proved Aug. 5, 1783, gives one-half his estate to his only son Talcott and names daughters Molly Phelps, Rachel, Elizabeth and daughter-in-law Polly Gilbert. A deed was given Apr. 12, 1787 by Talcott Hosford, Mary Hosford Phelps, Reuben Phelps, and Rachel Hosford to John Mann and David Owen of Hebron, for 73 acres of land with buildings, "estate of Col. Obadiah x Henry Champion m. Mahittabell Rowle Jan. 16, 1717.

Hosford late deceased." Elizabeth must have died before 1787, daughter-in-law Polly Gilbert also is not named.

The John Mann place is opposite the gate of Obadiah's Nine Acre cemetery and adjoins the farm that Daniel took instead of the Burnt Hill farm.

Oct, 3, 1771 has been given as the date of death of Mindwell (Phelps) Horsford, wife of Capt. Obadiah [14]. This apparently rests on a Hebron record which cites that date for death of "Marcy, w Capt. Obadiah Hosford." But the wife of Capt. Obadiah was Mindwell, not Marcy and Obadiah's [46] title in 1771 was Captain. He became Col. in 1776. Another Hebron record gives "Mary, w Col. Obadiah Hosford d June 20, 1783 in the 51st yr." This clearly refers to Mary Champion, born in 1731. Marcy and Mary are often confused in written records. It seems most probable that the first record refers to Mary Buel, first wife of Capt., later Col. Obadiah.

Children of Obadiah and Mary (Buel) Horsford.

109. TALCOTT<sup>5</sup> (Obadiah<sup>4</sup> [46], Obadiah,<sup>3</sup> John,<sup>2</sup> William<sup>1</sup>)

Talcott was born at Hebron, Conn., June 18, 1761 and died, probably at Clarendon, Vt., Dec. 10, 1841. He married, first, Polly Gilbert (Colchester Probate Record); second, Apr. 20, 1784, Martha, daughter of Roger and Martha (Phelps) Fuller. She was born at Hebron, June 7, 1768, died at Clarendon, Dec. 15, 1841. By Gilead church record Patty, wife of Talcott Hosford, recommended from the first church in Hebron joined church May, 1812.

Talcott lived at Hebron and Manchester, Conn., and at Thetford and Clarendon, Vt. He was a proprietor of Thetford. He was a farmer and shoemaker. According to the old "Phelps Account Book", Capt. Roger Phelps of Hebron had all his family shoes made by Talcott Hosford, 1793 to 1807. He was paid by such items as wood, veal, rye, oats, cheese, potatoes, flax, corn, a fat sheep; "price agreed 8 shillings, 6 pence"; "To board your daughter one week, Aug. 1801—3 shillings."

Talcott's first marriage to Polly Gilbert is inferred from the will of Talcott's father, Obadiah, dated July 8, 1783, proved Aug. 5, 1783. The will names only son Talcott, daughters Molly Phelps, Rachel, Elizabeth and daughter-in-law Polly Gilbert. If Polly was the first wife of Talcott she must have died soon after her father-in-law as Talcott married Martha Fuller in 1784.

Is it possible that Obadiah had another son who died, leaving Polly Gilbert a widow?

Martha Fuller was a Mayflower descendant.

She joined the Methodist church at 15 and was an ardent abolitionist like her husband. William and Catherine are both buried at Oskaloosa.

William moved with his parents from Litchfield, Conn., to Westfield, Medina Co., O., in 1824. In August, 1855, he went to Kansas and settled on a farm near McLouth, Jefferson Co. In Ohio he was a teacher and often attended church meetings held by Rev. Adam Poe, presiding elder, his brother-in-law. He studied medicine with Dr. Dewey of Medina Co. and practiced for some years in Crawford, Richland and Knox Counties, O.; later in Kansas. He used many remedies prepared from roots and herbs which he grew himself.

He was a Free State man, also anti-Mason. In 1837 his sulky disappeared while he was attending a patient; he found it next morning with the wheel spokes sawed off in the Huron River. Notwithstanding his positive convictions he had the respect of his Pro-Slavery neighbors and through the border war often acted as peacemaker.

RUSSELL HOSFORD

Russell Hosford was undoubtedly of the Thetford branch though the exact connection has not yet been ascertained. He was born at Thetford, Vt., May 24, 1808. By a Vermont record he was son of John and Parney (Hibbard) Hosford but what John Hosford was his father is not known. There was another Hosford, Stephen by name, at Thetford about the same time whose connections also have not been established. Perhaps Stephen and John were related. Parney Hibbard's mother is said to have been an Indian woman, of what tribe is not known. Little more is known of Parney though she is named in Thetford records. Russell named one of his daughters for her.

The story of Russell is a romantic one. He was a man of few words but occasionally talked to his children and grandchildren about his early life. His grandson's report is substantially as follows:

At an early age Russell was "bound out" by his parents to Gen. Whitlaw who was a prominent surveyor of the region. For many years he was Surveyor General of Vermont. From him it would seem that Russell learned much of the surveyor's art; at any rate he did a great deal of surveying himself later in life. When he was about twelve by one account, sixteen by another, which seems more probable, he got tired of being a bound boy and decided to run away and go west. He took to the road with only a bundle of clothes and travelled as far as Michigan which at that time was the Far West.

He then sailed on all the Great Lakes and down the St. Lawrence to Quebec. Next he went up the St. Francis River toward Sherbrook and joined the St. Francis tribe of Indians. Perhaps he was then with his grandmother's people. After four or five years he tired of the wild life and started to return to Thetford. At East Haven he met a young girl of about his own age, fell in love and married. He cleared a farm and reared a large family. As mentioned above he did much surveying in the vicinity of East Haven.

JOSEPH HOSFORD

1. JOSEPH<sup>1</sup>

According to uniform family traditions Joseph Hosford was born in Ireland of English parentage about 1722. He died at Berkshire, Broome Co., N. Y., Mch. (or May) 1, 1806, age 84. He married Sarah Calkins described as "of Green River,"—no state indicated. She was probably born about 1735. In 1811 she was living with her son Stephen C. Hosford at Goshen, Mass.

Information regarding this Joseph Hosford is derived largely from a narrative left by his grand-daughter, Eunice Williams Hosford, a letter written in 1894 by his grand-son, Franklin Hosford and data collected by Franklin H. Hosford who consulted another grand-daughter, Sarah (Hosford) Lynch. The first official record of this man found as yet is the U. S. Census of 1790 which places him at Pownal Vt.

It appears that Joseph Hosford came to America at seventeen years of age, married and settled "somewhere in Connecticut" and "raised a large family." He was an educated man and was a teacher all his life. No record of the marriage of Joseph Hosford and Sarah Calkins has been found as yet nor anything conclusive regarding the parentage of Sarah. Turner Calkins was early at Green River, Columbia Co., N. Y., and he had a sister Sarah, born July 14, 1734, daughter of Stephen and Sarah (Calkins) Calkins. Another Sarah Calkins, daughter of Thomas and Sarah (Rogers) Calkins was born in 1736. She was twin with a Jonathan. Both Sarahs were descended from Elder William Brewster of the Mayflower. Evidence from the names of Joseph's children as well as the Green River connection seems to favor the first Sarah as the wife of Joseph. Her father was Stephen, her mother Sarah and her grandfather was Jonathan and Joseph Hosford's children bore these names.

In a letter to Rev. Henry Brown Hosford, Mr. Franklin H. Hosford, at that time studying Hosford genealogy wrote that he had abandoned the traditions and believed that Joseph Hosford was descended from William of Windsor. There is some indirect evidence for this view. If Joseph was at Westfield, Conn., or even at Westfield, Mass., he was near the homes of many of William's descendants. At Pownal, Vt., he was close to Williamstown, Mass., where William and Josiah Hosford settled and their brother John owned land in Pownal.

Children of Joseph and Sarah:

2. i. JOSEPH (1761-1847).
3. ii. Samuel, born at Westfield. Served in Revolution; was enlisted by Lt. Moore for two years. Mustered May 18, 1782 in a N. Y. Reg. Said to have visited his brother Jonathan in Ohio when an old man. Probably did not marry.

4. iii. STEPHEN C. (1763-1855).
5. iv. Sarah, married (Nathan) Ide. A Mary Hosford Ide was member of the Congregational Church at Stockbridge, Mass. in 1783.
6. v. JONATHAN (1774-1853).

2. JOSEPH<sup>2</sup> (Joseph<sup>1</sup>)

Joseph was born at Westfield, (Conn. according to Franklin Hosford), Dec. 7, 1761 and died at Portage, N. Y., Jan. 5, 1847. He married at Stockbridge, Mass., Aug. 1, 1793, Mary Williams, daughter of Azariah and Beulah (Brown) Williams. She was born at Mt. Ephraim near Stockbridge, Oct. 23, 1768, baptized 1773. She died at Nunda or Portage, Livingston Co., N. Y., July 9, 1841, age 73.

Joseph enlisted in the Continental Army at sixteen years of age and served six years. He enlisted at Rochester, N. Y., in 1777 2nd N. Y. Reg. Capts. Charles Graham and Wright; Col. Philip Van Cortlandt; was at surrender of Cornwallis. Much of his service was on the frontier in New York. Discharged June 7, 1783. In 1820 he was allowed a pension for six years actual service as private. The N. Y. Balloting Book records under date of July 8, 1790 that Joseph Hosford balloted 600 acres in the military tract . . . . Lot 27 in Township 24 (Virgil, N. Y.). In 1793 it is recorded that Joseph Hosford delivered military patent for 600 acres of land in the Military Tract to Silas Pepoon.

Soon after his marriage Joseph joined a colony and emigrated to Berkshire, Broome Co., N. Y., where all his children were born. The place was later called Newark, Tioga Co. His grand-daughter Hattie stated that he settled on land which came to him from Hon. Amos Patterson, a relative by marriage and that a street in Newark was named Hosford in his honor. Berkshire or Newark was first known as the Boston Purchase or Brown's Settlement. About 1808 Joseph moved his family to Victor, Ontario Co. and about 1822 to Nunda, Livingston Co., N. Y. For further details regarding Joseph see the very valuable and interesting narrative of his daughter Eunice, Appendix, A, p. 197.

Jan. 9, 1803 the wives of Enoch Slosson, Stephen Williams, Joseph Hosford and Levi Bailey were dismissed from the Stockbridge church to church to be formed at Tioga, N. Y.

- I. JOSEPH WARREN HOSFORD d. Oct. 2, 1926 was born at Cork, Ireland and came to America in 1880. He was son of John and Anne (Jordan) Hosford and descent is traced from Benjamin Hosford who was born at Cork in 1800 and died there, 1880. The line may apparently be traced two generations further back to Joseph Hosford who was born about 1740. A brother of Joseph Warren, named Benjamin F. Hosford moved to South Africa. Joseph Warren married, Oct. 10, 1874, at Cork, Katherine Withers.

There have been and still are many representatives of this branch in and about Cork. The progenitors came to Ireland from County Devon, Eng., probably with Cromwell or perhaps with William III. The names Joseph and Benjamin appear frequently in these families. It seems probable that the Joseph Hosford who came from Ireland about 1739 was of this branch. See pp. 15, 161.

APPENDIX

A. NARRATIVE OF EUNICE WILLIAMS (HOSFORD) SHELDON

"One generation passeth away and another generation cometh," saith the wise man. Our ancestors pass off the stage of action and soon are lost in the grave of oblivion, their names and memories are as though they had never been. Many persons seem entirely ignorant of the birthplace of even their own parents, or the history of the early part of their lives. In order to perpetuate and cherish the memory of my beloved parents and that my children may know something of them, (if they wish to) I write this short, imperfect sketch. Imperfect it must be—"gleaned from the reminiscences of the long ago"—and I, myself, am old.

My father was born in the state of Massachusetts, town of Westfield, if I am not mistaken, in the year 1761. His father was an Englishman by birth and emigrated to this country long before the Revolution. He was a "schoolmaster" of the "olden time" and followed that profession until a late period of his life, (having died at the age of 85). My father possessed more than an ordinary share of ideality and love of learning but as he lived in the days that "tried men's souls," education and almost every other individual concern was lost sight of in that all-absorbing struggle for Independence and Nationality; his advantages, of course, were extremely limited. He was a soldier in the Revolution, entered his country's service at the age of sixteen and continued in the army nearly the whole time until the close of the war. (Note by F. E. Landers: Certificate shows that he stayed until the surrender of Yorktown.) A soldier's life is generally considered the highway to vice and every other species of human degradation, but at that time and under those existing circumstances, it was not always so, and my father came off free from the scathing blight of immorality, and even while the camp was his home that thirst for knowledge and education still fired his soul and was practically developed by every means in his power for improvement. I have heard him say that at one time, when the regiment to which he belonged was stationed in winter quarters, he secured the assistance of an under officer of the company who was a good arithmetic scholar by giving him his own ration of rum every day. My father was a man of few words, seldom spoke of the events of his soldier life, yet he would sometimes tell over the hardships which he endured while traversing the western wilderness, as it was then, to scout the Indians with the detachment commanded by Gen. Sullivan and sent out for that purpose. Poorly clad, worse fed, with no shelter, far away from the American settlements and out of reach of supplies, they traversed through the country by day and when they halted by night threw up breastworks of snow to protect them from the piercing wind, lit their campfires to keep off the wild beasts, spread hemlock boughs upon the snow for their beds; thus night after night was passed in the winter of the year 1780,—I think called the “Hard Winter.”

That part of the army to which my father belonged was ordered to turn after proceeding as far as the Genesee River; but history gives a much better account than I can.

When the British “War Dogs” had ceased to howl, and the banner of American liberty waved triumphant, my father returned to his home in Stockbridge, Mass., worn in health, broken down in constitution, for with all his troubles he had the misfortune to have the small-pox while in the army. He was unable to pursue any occupation and with the hope of regaining his health he went to live near the seashore where he made his home for several years and while there learned the tailoring business. With his health improved he returned to Stockbridge, married, purchased a house and lot in the village of New Canaan and worked at his trade.

Stockbridge was my mother’s birthplace and she was brought up trained by precept and example in the Puritan principles of morality and religion. Her mother’s native place was Boston. She belonged to a family of the old-fashioned aristocracy, so it was no wonder that my mother possessed a pretty large stock of self-respect. But the most peculiar trait in her character was charity,—she was disposed ever to speak well and think well of everyone, and if there was anything wrong she had some excuse or palliation to offer in their favor, “force of circumstances,” “wrong training,” or something that made them more objects of pity than of censure. Strictly honest and truthful and benevolent, almost to a fault, she ever had friends,—live where she would and under whatever circumstances. I never knew of her having an enemy.

Soon after my mother’s marriage a band of pioneers from her native town emigrated to the new country of Chenango—a great distance as was then thought,—being over “two hundred miles.” Among them were some of her own family and old acquaintances. This little band of pioneers settled in the fertile valley on the banks of Owego Creek not far from the Susquehannah River, calling their town Berkshire in memory of their native county. Some four or five years afterwards, my father, thinking to benefit his health, and as he owned land in that section of the country, resolved to give up the pleasures of civilized life and join these relatives and friends in the wilderness. Like all new settlers they had to endure many privations at first, but in the “march of progress” the wilderness was made to bud and blossom and B. became a flourishing and wealthy town. There, in a log cabin between the hills, I first looked out upon the sunlight of life. Next to their daily bread all these New Englanders prized their moral and religious institutions. A place of worship was soon erected to which a ride of four miles (generally on horseback), brought my parents and family. We did not often remain at home for a light sprinkle of rain or a few clouds nor were we permitted to grow up in ignorance because the school was too far off for us to attend through the winter months. Those long winter evenings were employed in spelling with one parent in our class while the other was teacher.

Facilities for learning were not then what they are at the present time. Books were not plenty and the few that were used were on an entirely different plan from those now in use. Paper was an article difficult to be had as stores were few and far distant. Sometimes my father would cut out the blank leaves from his account book rather than that we should neglect our writing. Thus with his careful training we were not far behind children of our age who enjoyed constant school privileges.

There in that pleasant vale, beside those pure rolling streams and on those sunny hillsides, covered with berries, was spent the gay morning of my childhood. And still those dear scenes and childish pleasures are treasured up in my heart's memories. Oft I think of that brother who walked life's young pathway by my side. I think of him as when he used to row our small boat over the sparkling waters while closely nested within were my young sisters and myself; that brother who in early manhood was cut down by the scythe of death.

After a residence of some fourteen years in that place my father removed with his family to Victor, Ontario Co. where he lived about the same length of time, and from there removed to Allegany Co. So after the lapse of nearly forty years he found himself in the same locality of country which he had traversed in his soldier days. But the scenery had changed; instead of those pathless wilds without inhabitants except a few scattering Indians' villages or now and then a solitary wigwam, now broad towns and flourishing villages stretched over the whole length of the fair domain.

But, as I have passed over many years, eventful years, through which my parents, like others struggled in the tide of life,—life, varied with scenes of care, sorrow, toil, hardship, hopes, ambitions, disappointments, pleasures and enjoyments, I will turn back and notice some particular incidents.

About eight years after they had settled in the new country their eldest child, a daughter of ten years, died of scarlet fever. A few days afterwards, two more children (of other families), died of the same disease, all about the same age and each one the eldest of their respective families. And I judge from what I was afterwards told (for I was very young at the time), that those three deaths created more sensation in that community than half a dozen of those fearful railroad accidents, which are becoming so frequent, do on the public mind. Soon after this event my grandfather came from Massachusetts to visit my parents and teach school for he could not give up his occupation, though he was far advanced in years, yet his intellect and strength still held out. After one trial my parents persuaded him to give it up entirely and live with them. How long he remained with them I cannot tell; several years, I think, for I remember that dear good grandparent well. (Note by H.H.H.: Stay of Joseph, sr., was less than a year, probably. Eunice was only five years old at the time.) He was very fond of children and we loved him dearly. His death was in such a manner as to cause much sensation and sorrow. The evening before his death he was not quite as well as usual and my mother nursing him up as she often did, he was soon asleep, and before she retired she slipped into his bedroom and awoke him to ask if he would have anything more done. He replied that he felt better and thought he should sleep all through the night. An hour or so afterward my father awoke and hearing a noise like something falling, and springing from bed found his aged parent lying on the hearth, his head in contact with the embers. On raising him he found that he was not badly burned, yet he expired a few moments later without speaking. He had risen from his bed, dressed himself, walked across the room and fallen in a fit, as was supposed.

I have heard my mother say that on the day of his funeral the weather was so cold that those who assisted at the grave came near perishing and that they were obliged to run their horses to and from the grave to keep from freezing.

The next victim of death was an infant son and while they resided at Victor they buried their youngest daughter. But their greatest affliction was the death of their eldest son soon after they removed to Allegany. He it was to whom they looked for their "stay and staff" in their declining years. They had left their former home and its associations for the purpose of living near him and had not long been settled in their new home when he was called away from them. But they had long known the lesson of the uncertainty of life and the futility of all human calculation and knew, too, from what source to draw consolation.

They had now buried four of their eight children. Four are still remaining, though scattered far apart. My mother died at the age of seventy-three. My father had been quite helpless before his death on account of palsy, at times unable to feed himself; yet he survived her some six years and died at the advanced age of eighty-five. He suffered much during the last few years of his life, yet he suffered patiently,—was ever grateful for the care and attention that his necessities required and manifested great resignation to the will of Providence.

In a sunny spot, not far from the village of Nunda, Livingston Co., side by side, their dust is now reposing and near them that of their son whom they so deeply mourned, taken so suddenly away from his family and friends by a fatal illness in the prime of manhood and usefulness.

In what I have written I would be supposed to regard my parents as faultless. No, they were frail human beings like the rest of mankind and often did they deplore their errors and faults and often did they seek forgiveness. But they were kind and good parents, especially my mother, whom I have often thought was the only true friend that I ever had. Often still do I seem to hear her kind words and see her love-lit countenance beam forth upon me, creating a feeling of hope and trustfulness in some of the dark passages of this, my changeful life. I am conscious that I never have been as good a mother to my children as she was to me. If my erring heart hath been often strayed from the principles taught me in my youth, it is my own fault, for they aimed to "train me up in the way I should go" and most dearly do I cherish their memories.

B. PIONEER EXPERIENCE OF MRS. HANNAH DAY HOSFORD, from Mr. Frederick S. Pease and Miss Genevieve Horsford.

About 1785 Daniel Horsford was on the site of Charlotte, surveying and laying out the town. He sent for his wife Hannah who came down the lake by sailboat and was landed by canoe in a little bay expecting there to meet her husband. For some reason he did not meet her and with her baby in her arms and such luggage as she could carry she started out along the newly constructed road through the woods to meet him.

Her progress was necessarily slow and night came on; deeming it unwise to go on in the darkness she constructed a rude shelter of branches of trees and gathered evergreen boughs for a couch and lay down to pass the night, naturally wakeful but in safety and reasonable comfort.

Continuing her journey in the morning she soon met her husband and her troubles for the time were over.

The baby would seem to have been Flavia, the first child. She was the great grandmother of Dr. Lester Prindle of the Department of Latin at the University of Vermont.

The remains of the old first dock may still be seen under water at the Pease place at Cedar Beach.

C. CHURCH RECORDS; THETFORD, VT., Nov. 23, 1802/3.

"Three complaints" . . . . "The first against Joseph Hosford, the neglect of family prayers. He acknowledged the fact, yet he did neglect this duty and plead in his justification that it was contrary to the word of God. After hearing his arguments against its being a duty and arguments in favor of it, the question was put whether family prayers be a duty; voted unanimously in the affirmative. On motion of Joseph Hosford to have time to consider of the matter of charge against him, voted he might consider the matter of it until the adjourned meeting."

"By the proceedings of the church on the complaints mentioned, . . . . . Joseph Hosford (and) . . . . . are considered as excommunicable, agreeable to the sentiments of the church until they manifest that repentance which will again restore them to our charity."

D. VERSES BY MRS. MARY PETERS HOSFORD.

These verses were written by Mrs. Hosford for her children. While not without defects as poetry, they are of great interest as the production of a busy pioneer wife and mother and, as has been said, "there is history in every line."

When I was young in the bloom of life
Time quickly passed away;
I chose a mate, it was my fate
With him to come away.

He being young and had no home,
Nor money to command,
He thought it right to take his flight
Into a foreign land.

My parents kind were not resigned,
But said we had better stay;
Oh! do not go so far away,
You will throw yourself away.

But lo! I came and left my home
A long and tedious way,
Though pleasures lack, could not go back,
Must settle here and stay.

The town all new, neighbors few,
In trouble was my mind:
My husband said, "Don't feel so bad,
We will hope for better times."

Our house was poor and but one door,
Barks covered from the storm,
A little wheat, some sauce and meat,
And fire to keep us warm.

Sweetland lived near, his wife was here,
Their house afire got,
Two children in the flames consumed,
This thing we ne'er forgot.

Under Hampshire we did settle free,
This was a firm report.
They ran the line in process of time
And set us in New York.

Four daughters young, we had no son,
As plainly did appear,
As time rolled on we had a son,
Born in my thirtieth year.

God's judgment bent, on us was sent,
For sin, a punishment,
The worms then covered all our land,
Destroyed all where they went.

Black butterflies did fill the sky,
Their wings all trimmed with white.
They tarried here three weeks or more
And then they took their flight.

And from their seed the worm did breed,
Destroyed our crops and corn,
Into our house and kneading troughs,
Like to the palmer worm.

Our tyrant king did such a thing
As sure was never known,
Forbid were we to chop timber trees
On land that was our own.

A rumor was, we heard from far,
Between the states and king.
They blocked up our ports and manned our forts;
This trouble sure did bring.

Those of our friends and near akin
Did not think it right
That acts or laws could be the cause
For men to go and fight.

Two daughters near, as you will hear,
Of daughters we had six,
The youngest died, we mourned and sighed,
Although her fate was fixed.

The doctors brave could not her save,
But surely die she must.
She never cried but groaned and sighed
And turned to her native dust.

We had two more boys to increase our joys,
It was pleasant them to see.
Both stout and brave, if we them could raise,
Of sons we now had three.

Our head men went on, they say,
To give in their account;
Their liberty they gained free,
A new state called Vermont.

We had three more girls,
 Perfect and well, a blessing God hath given.
 Now these are all, when them we call,
 The number is eleven.

This busy mind, when not resigned,
 Is troublesome we see.
 Now in old age must quit the stage,
 Life's but a winter day.

Now I am old, my blood is cold,
 And nature does decay.
 My time rolls on, will soon have done,
 We all shall have an end.

Seventy-nine years, through many fears
 And sorrows I have passed.
 I am alive and do survive,
 Though I must die at last.

Mary Hosford.
