THE AUTHOR'S PREFACE

The preparation of these additions and corrections for Thomas Hungerford of Hartford and New London, Conn., that I published in 1924, has been attended with no ordinary degree of perplexity and toil, on account of the imperfect and disordered condition of the records, and the necessity of resorting to various other sources for information. I have aimed at but two results—fullness and accuracy, but it is hardly to be expected that errors have been wholly avoided, and it is hoped that they are but few, and that they do not impair the usefulness of the work.

I made two errors in my 1924 work which I have corrected in this, but the printers dropped type when they went to press, and were responsible for several. On page 14, in lines 35 and 38, they make the surname of the children of 5. Joseph Douglass^r Soule, Barnes instead of Soule. Mr. Soule married Mary Elizabeth Barnes.

The first words that invite the eye in a book are the last written. When the preface is prepared the work is finished. Many lines in this volume are up-to-date, but the genealogy of the Hungerfords goes on. More great men of the name are to come. The logic of all genealogy contemplates the conclusion we confidently declare—it is, that some day one of the descendants of this tribe will publish the 187 pages of manuscript of our English ancestors that I have before me.

The name Hungerford had a distinguished history long before John of Gaunt gave the inhabitants the horn. And in order to find out all concerning this I referred to Lysons and other writers, documents in the Record Office, and to the excellent historical sketch of the history of that town written by Mr. Money, who has done so much to elucidate the history of Western Berkshire. We cannot be too grateful to him for all that he has done in investigating the annals of that county. First, as regards the origin of the name. We may remark that in Domesday the name appears as Inglesfol, and Canon Isaac Taylor interprets it as Engleford or Angleford, the ford of the Angles; but Mr. Money connects it with Hingwar, a Danish chieftain, who was drowned in attempting to cross a ford there in 870 A. D. Hence it should be Hingwar-ford.

This interpretation is probably correct and is confirmed by a passage in the book of Hyde, wherein the chronicler describes the greatness of the East Anglian Kingdom and the usurpation of the Danes under Hingwar and Hubba after the martyrdom of King Edmund, and concludes "Which Hingwar was drowned as he was crossing a morass in Berkshire, which morass is called to this day by the people of that county, Hyngerford."

This certainly seems to confirm this origin of the name. I find that the word is spelled, as we now spell it, as early as the year 1204.

About sixty-four miles out of London, where you follow the quaint old Bath coachroad, you would arrive at the village of Hungerford, in pastoral Berkshire. Hungerford is well off main-traveled tourist routes, but it holds more than passing interest for the traveler who likes to linger long in quaint byways of this world, studying customs of olden days where they are still observed in all their simple ingenuousness. Such a traveler would delight in the Hungerford observance of Hock Day. This holiday occurs on Thursday, the sixteenth day after Easter. The celebration actually begins with a macaroni supper and punch bowl at the old John of Gaunt Inn, on the Friday before Hock Tuesday. By 9 o'clock in the morning, on Hock Tuesday, the Hungerford jury have assembled in the Town Hall. The first business to come up at this, their annual meeting, is the appointing of two tithing-men to collect a poll tax of two-pence from each burgess of the borough and a kiss from each wife and daughter. This solemn ceremony is a recognition of the ancient power of the lord of the manor, who if he chose, it seems, had the right to collect such kisses personally. When they start on their Hock Day duties, the two tithing-men carry short poles gaily bedecked with blue ribbons and flowers. Back of them walks a man who is literally weighed down with oranges. Every kissed person must be presented with an orange, and the school and work-house children also come in for their share. The progress of the tithing-man and the orangeman is triumphant. Wherever they go they are greeted by cheers. One by one the village homes are entered and the letter and the spirit of the law are observed. Nor is the kissing confined to the young and pretty, for the old ladies of Hungerford would feel sadly neglected were the tithing-men to pass them by.

Last, but not least, the author desires to give due acknowledgment to the following persons that have been interested in the dissemination of correct information about the Hungerford family: Hon. Uri Taylor⁷ Hungerford, New York City and Briarcliff Manor, N. Y. (deceased); Mr. Newman⁸ Hungerford, Hartford, Conn.; Mr. Warde⁹ Hungerford, Bridgeport, Conn.; and Miss Julie E. Fairchild, State St. and Park Ave., Bridgeport, Conn. (deceased).

THOMAS¹ HUNGERFORD

THOMAS¹ HUNGERFORD was undoubtedly a descendant of some branch of the distinguished Hungerford family of England, but of which branch is unknown. He came to New England some time previous to 1639, as the Register of Hartford, Conn., shows him a proprietor there. He had a triangular piece of land, with a house. In Trumbull's "History of Hartford, County," 1633-1884, Vol. 1, there is a map of Hartford as the town was in 1640, on which is shown this property as "Tho^s Hongerfort to Nich. Ginnings." Also, on page 247, is the following: "Thomas Hungerford (Hungerfoot), a proprietor 'by courtesie of the town'; his home-lot was on the west side of the road to the Cow Pasture; removed to New London ab. 1650, where he d. 1663. He m. as his 2d wife Hannah, dau. of Isaac Willey, of New London ab. 1658; she survived him and m. (2) Peter Blachford, of New London and Haddam (q.v.); (3) 1673, Samuel Spencer, of Haddam."

The "road to the Cow Pasture" was afterwards called Burr St., but is now North Main St.

I. I. Murphy in his "Life of Col. Daniel Elihu Hungerford," published in 1891, writes "Thomas, brother of Sir Edward Hungerford, K.B., landed on the shores of New England in 1628." He also writes "the Town Register of Norwich, Conn., states that Thomas Hungerford acquired property there in 1630."

These statements I believe are erroneous.

First. The first Sir Edward Hungerford, K.B., born in 1596, was a son of Sir Anthony Hungerford of Black Bourton, by his first wife Lucy, daughter and co-heir of Sir Walter Hungerford of Farleigh, widow of Sir John St. John. Sir Edward Hungerford had no brothers. He had two sisters, Bridget who married Sir Alexander (John) Cheek or Cheke, and Jane who married Robert Strange.

This Sir Edward married Margaret, daughter and co-heir of William Holliday, alderman and Lord Mayor of London.

Sir Anthony by his second marriage to Sarah, daughter and co-heir of John Crouch of London, widow of Walter Wiseman (or Wildman), had: 1, Anthony of Farleigh Castle; 2, Sir Giles of Coulson; 3, John; 4, Henry of Standen; 5, Mary; 6, Sarah; 7, Cicely.

These sons and daughters were half brothers and sisters of Sir Edward Hungerford, K.B.

The second Sir Edward Hungerford, K.B., son of Anthony Hungerford of Farleigh Castle (half brother of the first Sir Edward Hungerford of the Black Bourton branch) did not have a brother Thomas. He was born 20 Oct. 1632, four years after Mr. Murphy claims Thomas¹ "landed on the shores of New England." He was immensely wealthy, squandered the family fortunes and acquired the title of "spendthrift." He died in 1711 and was about the last of the family in England.

Second. Norwich, Conn., was purchased from the Indians in 1659, and most of the settlements began after this date.

If the Town Register shows that he acquired property there as early as 1630, it is peculiar that neither the Vital Records of Norwich nor Miss Frances M. Caulkins in her "History of Norwich" mentions the fact. She mentions Thomas¹ Hungerford several times in her "History of New London."

Third. Thomas¹ Hungerford may have come to America in 1628, but I doubt if there are any records to prove it. There were very few records kept by the emigrants to New England at that date.

Again, in a booklet, "The Hungerfords in America and the Tyler-Abbott Genealogies," published several years ago, Mr. Murphy's "Life of Col. D. E. Hungerford" is quoted from. This booklet reads "Thomas, brother of Sir Edward Hungerford, K.B. (of the Cadenham branch), landed on the shores of New England in 1628"; also, "1—Thomas (1), baptized in Bremhill Parish, England, in 1602, died in or near New London, Conn., 1663."

Mr. Murphy does not write that Thomas¹ was of the Cadenham branch nor does he claim that he was baptized in Bremhill Parish in 1602.

The Thomas Hungerford baptized in Bremhill Parish in 1602, was a son of John Hungerford of the Cadenham branch, and is styled in Sir Richard Colt Hoare's "Hungerfordiana," "Thomas of Blacklands." He married, and had two sons and two daughters and did not come to America.

It is quite evident that serious misstatements have been made in some of the earlier writings on the family.

Miss Caulkins in her "History of New London, Conn.," shows him to have been a resident there in 1650, and lands were set off to him in 1651, and he was a constable in 1652. He was awarded "40 acres in the neck of land to the north of John Prentice, his land and Robert Hempstead, his land."

In Dec. 1652 he and John Pickett were given the land for fire wood on which Fort Trumbull now stands.

The name of the first wife of Thomas¹ Hungerford is unknown and it is evident that she was not living in Nov. 1657, as under the date of 2 Nov. 1657, he wrote his sister Anne, at Ipswich, Mass., where she was living with her husband, John Leigh (Lee), thanking her for her offer to take his daughter Sarah.

That the plans suggested in the letter were carried out is proven by the will of John Leigh probated 16 Sept. 1671, which contains a provision for "Sarah Hungerfoot." This will is on file in Salem, Mass.

Children of Thomas¹ by his first wife:

2. i. THOMAS², b. about 1648.

3. ii. SARAH, b. about 1654. After her mother's death she went to live with Aunt Anne Leigh, at Ipswich, Mass. She later m. Lewis Hugh, of Lyme, Conn.

Thomas¹ married 2nd about 1658, Hannah, daughter of Isaac and Joanna Willey. She was baptized in Boston, Mass.

They had one daughter, 4. Hannah, born 1 May 1659, who married a Mr. Ross or Rose of the Plantation of the Narragansetts in Rhode Island.

Thomas¹ died in 1663 and the inventory of his estate taken 1 May 1663 showed property to 100£, 5s, 6d.

His widow married 2nd Peter Blachford of New London. He died 1 Sept. 1671.

Their children were:

JOANNA, b. 1667.

PETER, b. 1669, who settled in Salem, West Jersey.

MARY, b. 1671, at Haddam.

Hannah married 3rd Samuel Spencer of Haddam. She died about 1681. He died 7 Aug. 1705.

Their children were:

GRACE, b. 27 July 1674.

JOHN, b. 17 Sept. 1676.

ISAAC, b. 8 Jan. 1678.

HANNAH, b. ——— 1680.

ANNE HUNGERFORD

ANNE, or JOANNE as she was sometimes called, was a sister of Thomas¹ Hungerford. She came to America sometime previous to 1639. It is presumed that she and her brother came here together but nothing definite is known.

She married before 1639, John Leigh (Lee) of Agawam (Ipswich), Mass.

Their children were:

JOHN, b. about 1639.

JOSEPH, b. Oct. or Nov. 1643.

A daughter who m. ——— PATCH.

SARAH, m. ——— HUNKINS (or HONKINS).

MARY, m. ——— TUTTLE.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2, 1895.

E. C. HUNGERFORD, ESQ.

Dear Sir:—Yours of June 20 received with much pleasure, I am glad to know there are several of the family that are trying to form a line and if we all contribute our mite we will after a time complete it.

I visited about 1869 Hartford and other places to gain dates and obtained much. I have a copy of the map of Hartford of 1640 with lots and names of owners.

J. Hammond Trumbull, Librarian of ——— Library, Hartford, tells me that Thomas Hungerford undoubtedly came over as a mariner, coasted along the sound, up the river and landed at Hartford in 1639, as his name does not occur in any of the lists as passengers.

Little is known of him when in Hartford for the records of the old Center Church were destroyed when the church was burned. He sold that lot to Nicholas Gennings or Jennings in May, 1650. I saw the record in the Hartford

Town Record. He with eleven others went to New London when John Winthrop was laying out that town and each of them took a lot with what they termed outlots beside. The name of his first wife is not known, but Thomas and Sarah were children by her, and Thomas was born in Hartford as at his father's death in 1663 he was fifteen years old, and that would bring his birth 1648. That Sarah was also a child by her is shown that she was nine years old, born 1654. Thomas married Hannah Willey in 1659 and in 1657 he wrote an interesting letter, a copy of which I have, to Anne Leigh, wife of John Leigh of Ipswich, Mass., commending his daughter to her and speaking to her and of her as if she were a sister of his wife. He had not met her but she had evidently written him desiring to take the child and care for her which she did. She is mentioned in John Leigh's will in 1671 when he leaves her "20 pounds at her marriage provided that she proceeds orderly therein and shall continue to live till that time with his wife in ye same way as hitherto she hath done."

Thomas Hungerford 2nd, son of Thomas 1st, married before June 6, 1671, Mary Gray of Narragansett, R. I. All that I have had communication with, Orville Hungerford of Watertown, N. Y., and Robert E. Day of Hartford, lately deceased, and Henry Hungerford Drake of West Winsted, Conn., agree on Mary Gray.

If you have any further data we would like to get it. The proof of the marriage at that time whether Gray or Greene is from the following record:

"New London County Court, June 6, 1671. Thomas Hungerford and Mary his wife being presented to this court for committing fornication before marriage this court considering the case circum (not clear, W. H.) doe adjudge that the s^d Hungerford and his wife to pay within one month five pounds to the treasury of this county or in defect there of to receive corporal punishment." "The (word left out, W. H.) hath accepted a barrel of pork for this fine by P^d by M^r Palines to George Tongue on County's account." As Thomas Hungerford 3rd was the first mentioned in his will it is fair to presume he was the child born of this fornication.

Here this letter abruptly ends unsigned, but it is evidently from Austin N. Hungerford.

2. THOMAS² HUNGERFORD (*Thomas*¹), of Hartford, New London, and East Haddam, Conn., was born in Hartford about 1648; and died 11 Jan. 1714, in East Haddam, and his will was proved 5 Apr. 1714. He moved with his father to New London in 1650 and lived there until about 1687. He married before 6 June 1671, MARY GREEN or GRAY of the Plantation of the Narragansetts in Rhode Island; and secondly MARY² GRAVES, daughter of John, b. in England, and sister of Benjamin², who married Mary Hoar. See Graves family. He moved to Lyme in 1685, and in Dec. 1687, he sold his land in New London that was granted to him in 1673. He moved to and settled in East Haddam in 1692, where he was a blacksmith, had the title of Mr. and was the first selectman of the town.

In Mail and Express I see that Thomas Hungerford married Mary Gray at Narragansett in or before 1671.

Was this your Thomas Hungerford 2nd?

Perhaps this is all familiar to you, but I note that you asked the question about Grays, and if this Mary was your Mary, the suggestion in Mail and Express that she may have been granddaughter of John Winslow and Mary Chilton, is very interesting.

Respectfully submitted

By MRS. HENRY ELIOT FOWLER,
Guilford, Conn.

The Mail and Express contains the following:

No. 5.554 Gray.—Mary Winslow, born 1630, dau. of John Winslow of the Fortune and Mary Chilton of the Mayflower married Edward Gray, 16 Jan. 1651. Among their children Mary Gray, born 1653.

Whom did she marry? Was this the Mary Gray who married Thomas Hungerford in or before 1671 at Narragansett.

It is said that Edward Gray owned Narragansett Club.

Note.—Thomas Hungerford, born about 1648, was about 23 years old in 1671. This Mary Gray was about 18 years old in 1671.—W. H.

He married 3 Dec. 1702 ("Spencer Genealogy," by Nathaniel Goodwin, in Genealogical Notes gives the date as 23 Aug. 1695), DEBORAH (4th child) daughter of Timothy² Spencer (Jarred¹); born ———; died 14 Oct. 1750.

The following will of 7. John⁸ Hungerford, made at East Haddam, is recorded at Hartford:

"Considering the counsel of the prophet to be very good and wholesome advice to set thy house in order, for thou shalt surely die, and not live; and knowing the body of death, I constantly carry about with me and daily admonish to me of my approaching change and dissolution, and being at this time in the full strength of my reason and understanding do make and ordain this to be my last will and testament, hereby disposing of and settling that temporal estate which God in his kind providence hath committed to my trust and care; and first and above all I do humbly recommend and commit my spirit to God that gave it, and my body to the dust from whence it was taken, hoping and entirely depending upon the mercy of God through the merits of Jesus Christ a glorious resurrection and uniting of both at the last day.

And now as a token of respect to my loving and tender consort and yoke fellow above and beyond her third part of all my movable estate, I give and order her to have the sole improvement of the South room in my dwelling house, with the conveniency thereto belonging, together with the use, benefit and improvement of my orchard and fruit trees, as also the improvement of five acres of plow land southward of my barn, with the privilege of half said barn, and a riding horse or mare for her use, benefit and improvement during her natural life.

I give to eldest son Robert Hungerford no more, but only the ratification of what I have given him before; whom I constitute my Executor to this my last will and testament, and also I give him half of my house lot.

Item: I give to my son Thomas Hungerford, the half of my house lot excepting those reserves for my use as above said.

Item: I give to my daughter, Ruth, or her heirs thirty pounds old tenor bills.

Item: I give to my daughter, Jane, ten pounds money in the same tenor.

Item: I give to my daughter, Esther, twenty and five pounds money in the same tenor.

Item: I give to my daughter, Thankful, thirty pounds money in the same tenor.

Item: To my two grand-sons, Levi and Thomas Hungerford, the off spring of my daughter Deborah, deceased, thirty and five pounds in the same tenor, between them, or if one survives the other, to him that surviveth, or if both die before my decease, then to be equally divided among my children.

And now as for the particular sum or sums of money, I order my sons, namely Robert and Thomas Hungerford, to pay—whom I likewise ordain, constitute and appoint to be my executors to this my last will and testament, that is to pay or cause to be paid to each and every person or persons above mentioned within two years after my decease; and all the rest of my estate whether personal or real, I give to my two sons Robert and Thomas Hungerford, and all my wearing apparel.

In confirmation of the premises I have hereunto set my hand and fixed my seal this 6th day of March in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and forty five, and in the eighteenth year of his Majesty's reign by the grace of God, George the second of France and England King.

Signed, sealed, published, pronounced and declared to be by the said John Hungerford as his last will and testament in presence of us the subscribers.

The 15th Militia Regt., was composed of companies from Southington, Farmington, Kensington, and Harwinton, in the central part of the state and far from Fairfield County.

Early in 1748 he removed to New Cambridge, in Farmington (now Bristol, Conn.) and lived on what is now West Street. He married about 1736, SARAH MORSE of Lyme, Conn., born 7 Dec. 1709. They moved to Plymouth (now Bristol) and later, in 1751, moved to what is now Watertown, but was then known as the parish of Westbury and was in the limits of the town of Waterbury. Mr. Hungerford was a well-to-do farmer for those days, but the fire of patriotism burned fiercely in his breast and 7 Sept. 1755 he enlisted in Capt. Eldad Lewis' Co., of the 4th Conn. Regt. He was discharged 24 Nov. 1755 but reenlisted 11 Apr. 1758. His widow survived him and in Apr. 1761, married Thomas Doolittle of Waterbury as his second wife. 5 Sept. 1758, Sarah the widow of David and her eldest son David went into the Court of Probate of Woodbury and objected to the will of the late David on the ground of unfair treatment to the said wife. The Court sustained the objection and set aside the device, appointing said Sarah and David as administrators of his estate, whereupon they immediately produced an inventory of his property dated 28 Aug. 1758 showing a valuation of £196/13s/7d and the Court then ordered distribution.

22. SAMUEL^s HUNGERFORD OF NEW FAIRFIELD, CONN.

Copied from the first book of Fairfield, Vt., Records

Aug. 18, 1763, Samuel Hungerford of New Fairfield, Ct., obtained for himself and associates of Governor Wentworth grants of three townships on the North East of Lake Champlain, chartered by the names of Fairfield, Smithfield and Hungerford.

The first meeting of the grantees was held at Fairfield, Ct., Feb. 16, 1774, at the house of Gershom Bradley, L. C. Osborne, moderator, meeting adjourned until the 17th at the house of John Hubbell, same town,—Stephen Hull, moderator, John Banks voted proprietor's clerk, Samuel Hungerford, Capt. Abraham Gould and Daniel Smith, committee to manage the prudence affairs of the townships, and warn meetings from time to time. Voted, John Camps, Hezekiah Bradley, John Hubbell, Gershom Bradley to set up notifications. Voted to proceed to survey and lay out the township.

At a proprietors' meeting, Apr. 1774, voted every proprietor pay Azariel Ward of Wellstown, and David Ives, of Goshen,—lawful money, on each single right, or give a quit claim deed, of one-eighth part of said right to said Ward and Ives for their trouble for laying out said township. Voted that the committee of said township shall have power to agree with some suitable person to go and see said township, in order to see what sort of land it is, and to be paid by proprietors, and to return in a reasonable time.

Aug. 22, 1774, voted to lay out the township into 78 equal shares—Arah Ward, David Ives, and Stephen Hull, a committee for that purpose. Voted that the town should be surveyed by the first of Jan. 1775, each lot bounded and numbered, and a plan of same returned to the proprietors. Mar. 14, 1775, George Burr, John Banks, and Stephen Hull were chosen Selectmen, and Benjamin Wynkoop, as an additional selectman for the new township.

Dec. 22, 1780, voted to send an agent to the State of Vermont to apply to His Excellency and his Council or to the General Assembly of said State for liberty to sell so much of delinquents lands in the above townships as would raise a sum sufficient to pay the expenses of said township, Stephen Hull chosen agent for that purpose. The first meeting of the proprietors in the State of Vermont, was held at Pawlet, Sept. 5, 1783. The meeting adjourned to Pownal, Sept. 8th when it was voted to lay out one division of land containing 160 acres to each proprietor, James Stewart, Stephen Hull, Ebenezer Wakeman, Beach Tomlinson, and Wakeman Hull, a committee for that purpose, and May 17th to lay out a second division of 100 acres to each proprietor, to be drawn according to the statute laws of the State of Vermont. Isaiah Hungerford, Beach Tomlinson, and Hubbard Barlow, were chosen for the above purpose.

Pownal, Sept. 6, 1786—Voted to accept the plan or plot of the 1st and 2nd division exhibited by Capt. Beach Tomlinson and Hubbard Barlow, with a survey bill of the same for recording. Voted to draw for the 1st and 2nd division lots, and that one draught shall answer for both, and that the number any proprietor shall draw, shall be the number of both his lots. Pawlet, Feb. 13, 1787, Hubbard Barlow, Ralph Gregory, and Isaac Luce, chosen a committee to lay out roads.

At a meeting in Georgia, Oct. 2, 1788, Joseph Wheeler moderator, Voted, to accept the doings of the committee for laying out roads. Voted to raise a penny half-penny per acre for cutting roads. John Leach, Hubbard Barlow, and Andrew Bradley chosen committee. Voted to adjourn the meeting to the dwelling house of Hubbard Barlow, in the town of Fairfield, County of Chittenden, State of Vermont, Apr. 3, 1789. Apr. 21, 1789, Joseph Wheeler, moderator, Hubbard Barlow, proprietor's clerk, John Leach collector, David Hoyt, Hubbard Barlow, Bradley Barlow, committee for laying out roads. Sept. 21, 1789, Beach Tomlinson, moderator, voted to lay out a 3rd division of 50 acres, Andrew Bradley committee, a 4th division of 140 acres—Hubbard Barlow, committee, and a 5th division of 4-acre lots in the cedar swamp.

The object of this division that each proprietor might have his share of cedar and pine for fencing, immense quantities of which have been taken from it annually in the time of sledding, the swamp being impassable at any other time. This tract lies in the westerly part of the town, on a stream called Dead Creek, and many an exciting scene has been enacted among the rail splitters of this dismal swamp in the olden time. Hooking rails seemed to be a business of frequent occurrence. Hundreds of miles of fence have been made from the rails of this bog. The stage road now from St. Albans to Bakersfield passes directly through the marsh, and its annual calls for repairs severely try the patience of the Fairfield tax-payers.

Besides this 5th division, there was also a town plot set off, intended for city lots, the site is a rocky hill about 2 miles S. W., of the present center of the town, and the first building has not yet been erected in the innascent city, though over a century has elapsed since its survey.

Proprietors' meeting June, 1790, voted to draw for 3rd and 4th lots.

Fairfield as originally chartered contained 23040 acres, but in 1792, the greater part of Smithfield was, by the act of the legislature, annexed, thus giving the town its present dimensions, nearly 60 sq. mile or 38000 acres, and making it the largest town in Franklin Co. It is centrally located in that county lying in latitude 44° 49' and longitude 4° 5' East.

It is regular in outline except that the west side is notched by the eastern extremities of St. Albans and Swanton and the southwest corner extends in point to a corner of the town of Georgia. The other adjacent towns are Sheldon upon the north a corner of Enosburg and Bakersfield upon the east, on the south are Fletcher and Fairfax.

The surface is very uneven, being broken by short ranges and spurs of hills and alternating valleys. The rocks are mainly "talcoseschists" in the eastern part of the town, dipping easterly at an angle of about 75°, while in the western part they are "conglomerate."

No minerals of importance are known to exist. The soil in the valleys is alluvial, and is especially adapted to the growth of grass and the principal cereals of the North, while the uplands yield rich and abundant pasturage. The timber is principally maple, beech, and birch; hemlock, spruce, butternut and other varieties abound, while cedar is the principal growth of the swamps. So far as known this town and vicinity was not probably the home of any of the Indian tribes but it is tolerably well established that this was for a long time one of the favorite hunting-grounds and that deer, beaver, and wolves were their worthy game.

The first permanent settler of whom there is any record was Joseph Wheeler, who came to Fairfield in Mar. 1787. Soon after or during the following year, John Sunderland and John Mitchell were succeeded by James Hawley, William Beaden and Gabriel Sherwood, as settlers from Huntington, Ct. Nathan and David Hoyt (Hoit) and Ebenezer Lobdell came from Bridgefield; John Leach and Samuel Roberts from New Fairfield, Ct., Edmund Town and Joel Barber from Simsbury, Levi Wakeman from Norwalk, and Lucius Hull from New Milford. In 1789, New Fairfield, Ct., gave to the new settlement Hubbard Barlow, Andrew Bradley, and Clark Burlingame; Jabez Burr came from Reading, Ct. In 1790 Dimon Barlow, Samuel Gilbert, Samuel Hollister and Jehiel Smith found a residence here. Joseph Soule of New Fairfield Ct., came early in 1791. He had a large family. His sons were: Timothy, Isaac Newton, Salmon, Joseph, Hiram and Harry who also became residents of Fairfield and Fairfax.

The three townships granted to Samuel Hungerford and associates are in latitude 44° 49', longitude 4° 5' East, but I will insert the following Order of King in Council which will probably give Mrs. L. D. Himebaugh more light in regard to the records of New Hampshire Grants in Samuel's time.

"Jehiel Hawley, of Arlington, Vt., was a man of great conscientiousness and fervent piety. Had he not been tainted with devotion to his King, he would have been ranked among the honored in our history. History shows both the temper of the times and the fact that up to this period no division of sentiment in regard to matters of public policy had taken place. It was high time that something should be done to appease the growing storm. At a meeting of deputies of Bennington, and adjacent towns, held at Manchester, Jehiel Hawley and James Breckenridge were appointed their agents to repair at once to London for the purpose of soliciting a confirmation of the New Hampshire Grants. Hawley was chosen on account of his being a large proprietor, a prudent man, and the fact moreover that he and the people represented by him were for the most part decidedly attached to the church of England may have had its weight."

"Order of the King in Council, forbidding the Governor of New York to make grants of any lands already patented by New Hampshire, at the Court at St. James the 24th day of July, 1767, Present"

The King's Most Excellent Majesty.

Archbishop of Canterbury	Earl of Shelburne
Lord Chancellor	Viscount Talmouth
Duke of Queensbury	Viscount Barrington
Duke of Ancastor	Viscount Clare
Lord Chamberlain	Bishop of Lendor
Earl of Litchfield	Secretary Conway
Earl of Bristol	Hans Stanley, Esq.

Samuel Hungerford who seemingly had a passion for staking claims, was one of the fifty-two persons who surveyed Ashtabula Co., Ohio, a part of the Western Reserve, according to the Ashtabula Historical Society Records, and the National Magazine of December, 1845.

"She was a fine large woman and was greatly beloved by all who knew her. She was early left a widow with four daughters to care for. Her husband Solomon Jones had started West and was supposed to have been killed by the Indians. She was a very intelligent and ambitious woman and reared her daughters with the greatest care. They were taught, as were all the women of that day, to spin and weave wool and flax for clothing for men and women for summer and winter use. Their education along all lines was of a practical nature.

After the marriage of her daughter Sally to John Putnam, she lived for a time with them and while there married Mr. Putnam's father. After his death, she lived with her daughter Cornelia Howe. J. A. Putnam, her grandson, remembers her well. She was, he says, 'a dear good soul, a Christian of the ancient type.

She visited her daughter Laura at Waukesha, Wis., for a time, and our recollection of her was of a large, rather imposing person, in features her daughter Laura resembled her, although she was smaller in stature. Laura said she was often reminded of her mother as she passed the mirror.

James Walton, her grandson, remembers that she used to smoke a clay pipe, and that she might always have it with her, she carried it in her stocking, and as matches were not as common at that time, she had a little wire tongs to take a coal from the grate to light her pipe with.

Mother visited her once when she was living at the home of her daughter Cornelia Howe. She went from Buffalo on the Canal Boat, stopping at the Howe Landing, and as she walked up the path her mother stood watching her from the door and exclaimed, 'Why, Laura, is that you?'

She died at Knowlesburg, N. Y., April 20, 1853, and is buried in Ridgeway Cemetery. Her tombstone bears the name of Tuttle. Homer D. Waldo copied many dates, and Mrs. Mary Howe, June 5, 1905, visited the cemetery. She says the grave is in Tanner Cemetery, located between Knowlesville and Medina Town of Ridgeway, Orleans Co. (N. Y.), and contains the following:"

had two teams of horses and $500, with part of which he purchased a box of shoes as stock to trade with while finding a home. From Buffalo they crossed a part of Canada, and Michigan, around the lower part of Michigan on the "Chicago Turn Pike," to Chicago, which was then a small village, and on to Milwaukee, an Indian trading station, arriving there Mar. 1st. Leaving his wife and four children there in the upper room of the house of Solomon Juneau, a French and Indian trader.

During the summer he went with a party of surveyors, twenty miles west, following an Indian trail, and broke the first wagon road to Prairieville, now Waukesha, Wis. Here he built a log house, and in October 1836, brought his family from Milwaukee. Both are buried in beautiful Prairie House Cemetery, which is a part of their own farm.

Their children were:

1. Louisa S. Walton, b. 25 Aug. 1829, in N. Y. (dau. of his first wife Louisa [Wilson]); m. 3 Apr. 1850, in Milwaukee, Noah Westley Todd.

She took notes by the way, and sent them to her home paper. Her two brothers and herself lived together, and each proved up on a claim of 160 acres. She remained in Kansas until 1873, then returned home and continued on with her teaching in the Union School. After her marriage in 1882, they lived upon the farm of 300 acres until 1908, and then removed to Wichita, Kan. They had one child: Roscoe Walton Himebaugh, who lives upon the farm.

Seven of the children were married in Waukesha, and two are still living there (1913). They all received their education in the Waukesha Schools, Seminary and College. All were members of the Baptist Church, and by occupation farmers.

GRAVES FAMILY

JOHN¹ GRAVES and his wife came from England to Concord, Mass., in 1635. He was one of the signers of the petition to the General Court in 1643 in favor of Ambrose Martinmand. In 1644 his name was attached to a document pledging its signers nearly every head of a family in Concord, to the support of the government, one of these signatures, probably the first is now in the possession of New England Historic Genealogical Society. Soon after coming to America he and his wife became members of Rev. Peter Buckley's Church. He is mentioned in the records of Concord as one of the expedition against the Indians, and "New England Historic Genealogical Register," Vol. 38, mentions John Graves of Concord, against the Indians.

In the Vital Records I find five children. They probably had more: BENJAMIN², b. 1645; m. 21 Oct. 1668, MARY⁴ HOAR (John³, Charles³, Charles³). (See Hoar Family.) They moved to Saybrook, Conn., where he d. 1716-24. He was a member of Captain Wheeler's Vs. Co., and was given credit 20 Sept. 1675, and again 29 Feb. 1676, for service in King Philip's Vs. War. He and John Graves, of Sudbury, Mass., with others purchased on 20th day of May 1681, from Christopher Hall, "all the mines and minerals of one kind and another, found or that may be found on his land in Groten, Mass., at a placed called Cold Spring, near William Longley vs. house with liberty to dig, delve or use the land and to erect buildings, etc."

He moved to Saybrook, Conn., in 1703, where he purchased 25 Jan. 1703, of Nicholas Stoughton by consent of William Shipman at a place called Pottaconk, whatever the division of whichever part is agreed upon is made. Thomas Hungerford's wife was Mary Graves, sister of Benjamin Graves who m. Mary Hoar." I find the following paragraph in a letter from Mr. Warde⁹ Hungerford: "I came to the conclusion myself that the wife of Thomas Hungerford, of East Haddam, was Mary Graves. Not Gray or Grey. In Him the Patriot and the Hero joined,
The Warrior's prowess with good sense combined,
His Country's wrongs provok'd his manly zeal,
His love for virtue and the public well,
His noble breast undaunt'd courage fir'd.
His men rever'd him and his friends admir'd
Such! Death involv'd in her Devouring womb,
And sunk the Warrior to the Silent Tomb.

During the campaign of 1777 the British attempted to cut off New England from New York, and they sent detachments of troops to ravage the country. Against the military stores at Peekskill, on the east side of the Hudson, and into Conn., for similar purpose, they marched from Fairfield through the county with great speed to Danbury, destroying or carrying away everything. But on their return they were met by the militiamen under Wooster, Arnold and Silliman, who had gathered from all the neighboring States. They handled the British forces so roughly that they were glad to reach their boats. General Wooster was mortally wounded. (From "Coll. of Conn. Hist. Soc.," Vol. 3, p. 182.)

He married at New Fairfield, Conn., ESTHER⁶ MEAD, born 10 Aug. 1760, in New Fairfield; died at Stanbridge, Que., 22 Dec. 1836, aged 76 years, 11 days; daughter of Stephen⁵, of Redding, born 1728; died 18 Oct. 1806; married 31 Oct. 1751, Rachel Stanford, born 23 July 1733, daughter of Ephraim Stanford (Jeremiah⁴, Joseph³, Joseph², William¹ Mead).

In Aug. 1763, his father obtained of Gov. Benning Wentworth grants of three townships on the N. E., of Lake Champlain, chartered by the names of Fairfield, Smithfield and Hungerford. In 1783 he sent this son Isaiah to manage the prudence affairs of the townships, and he and Hubbard Barlow were chosen to lay out the divisions of land to each proprietor. "Among the grantees, was a family by the name of Field. In the course of time this family bought not only Mr. Hungerford's share, but the rights of most of the others, so that nearly the whole town of Hungerford belonged to 'Daddy' Field, as the patriarch was called, and to Timothy Rogers, of Ferrisburg, who was one of the town's first surveyors. From them it was purchased by Samuel, George and Elisha Sheldon, and the name of the town was changed from Hungerford to Sheldon, 8 Nov. 1792."

In the Revolutionary War, Isaiah and 117. Ezra⁵ Hungerford were in Capt. Hubbell's Co., and 59. Josiah⁵ Hungerford in Capt. Giddings' Co., Pay Roll for horse travel Capt. William Hubbell's Co., in the 16th Regt. Militia commanded by Nehemiah Beardsley, Esq., Col., in Expedition to Fairfield, Norwalk and Stamford. New Fairfield, 8 July 1779. (See "Conn. Capt. Uriel⁵ Hungerford, Ezra's brother.

William Wilcox moved from East Haddam to New Fairfield, and died there May 2, 1805, ae. 76 years. The name of his first wife has not been traced, he married as his second wife, Feb. 6, 1797, Esther Buckley. In Hurd's "History of Fairfield Co." (Town of Sherman), he mentions an Esther Wilcox as Deaconess in the Sherman Congregational Church, April 29, 1797. She was probably the wife of William Wilcox.

First Census of the U. S., in 1790, there was a William Wilcox in Haddamtown, Conn., who had in his family one male over 16, one male under 16, and one female, including head of family. It is probable that this was the William Wilcox who was the father of Caroline and Hannah, and moved to New Fairfield, as there is no record in the census of Wilcox in New Fairfield in 1790, and this was the only William Wilcox recorded in or near East Haddam on that date.

Ezra Hungerford lived and died on his farm in Sherman, Conn., and he and his wife are buried in the Sherman Center Cemetery. His record for service in the Revolutionary War is recorded in the "Collections of the Connecticut Historical Society," Vol. 7, pp. 197-199:

Militia Regiments, Tryons Invasion, Capt. Hubbell's Company Pay Role for horse travil Capt. William Hubbell's Co., in the 16th Regt. Amos Northrop was born in 1765, at New Fairfield, Conn., and died April 6, 1848, at Fairfield, Vt. He came with his wife, and two small children, to Fairfield, Vt., with the settlers of 1792.

He cleared the land and built the house which was later owned by Thomas Hale. Here he resided until his death, and their gravestones are in Bradley Cemetery.

"During the War of 1812 he started to market, at Plattsburg, with a load of oats, and upon his arrival there was pressed into the service of the United States, and sent with his team to Sackett's Harbor, to transport soldiers and supplies, and was retained from home from January until March. During a portion of this time he was obliged to camp in the forest with no protection from the weather, and thereby had his feet frozen so badly that a portion of the right foot had to be amputated."

His Northrop ancestors have established one of the oldest and most honored families in the United States. He was a well respected farmer, and was selectman of Fairfield in 1796-97-98.

He married LYDIA BIGELOW, born 31 Mar. 1743; died 14 Nov. 1820; daughter of John and Sarah.

The will of John Bigelow dated 22 June 1787, proved 7 Mar. 1789, mentions wife Sarah, son John, Jr., daughters Anne and Sarah, then single, Lydia Hungerford, grandson Ephraim Bate Bigelow, granddaughters Mary and Ellis (Alice?) Bigelow, daughter Mary Bigelow, and father John Bigelow, deceased.

236. ORVILLE⁶ HUNGERFORD (Timothy⁵, Benjamin⁴, Thomas³, Thomas², Thomas¹), of Farmington, Conn., and Watertown, Jefferson County, N. Y., born in Farmington, 29 Oct. 1790; died 6 Apr. 1851, in Watertown. He married 13 Oct. 1813, BETSY (ELIZABETH) PORTER STANLEY, born 27 Mar. 1786, at Wethersfield, Conn.; died 17 Sept. 1861, in Watertown, daughter of George and Hannah (Porter) Stanley. She was a woman of beautiful character and disposition, and an efficient colaborer with her revered husband in all his benevolent works.

"One of the most distinguished of the earlier settlers in the Black River County, Orville Hungerford's memory is held in honor for his lofty character marked with all the traits that distinguished the old-time gentlemen, his broad intelligence and remarkable judgment, and his highly useful service in commercial life, and in community and state affairs.

In 1804, when he was fourteen years of age, he accompanied his father to Jefferson County, N. Y. His was a life of industry and thrifty habits from the beginning. He had none of the advantages of a liberal education, having only been privileged to attend the common schools of his neighborhood. In these, however, and by private study of such books as he could gain use of, he thoroughly grounded himself in the elementary branches of knowledge, and at the same time became so habituated to reading and observation that even as a young man he was liberally informed, and in mid-life his attainments would put to confusion many collegiates of the present day.

Soon after his going to that county he took employment in the store of Jabez Foster, at Burrville, which in 1808 was removed to Watertown. His duties began in menial tasks, but all were cheerfully performed, and he gave to his work such diligent interest and conscientious care that he was advanced from place to place until after about seven years' service, and having attained his majority, he was received into partnership with his employer, under the firm name of Foster & Hungerford. Their business developed into the largest in all the region, the War of 1812 bringing to them a large governmental patronage in furnishing provisions and other supplies to the troops rendezvousing at Sacketts Harbor. In 1815 Mr. Hungerford, then twenty-five years of age, engaged in mercantile business upon his own account, and he continued in it with much success until 1842.

Mr. Hungerford abandoned mercantile pursuits in order to enter upon a career of larger usefulness. He was a principal factor in promoting the construction of the railroad from Rome to Cape Vincent, the most important undertaking of that day, and the consummation of which enterprise contributed greatly to the development of the entire region in agricultural and industrial lines. Mr. Hungerford's success was not attained without great labor, patience and perseverance. At times the obstacles in his way appeared to be insurmountable, but his hopefulness and courage overbore all weariness and discouragement. He was elected first president of the railroad company, and held the position until his death. He was early identified with the Jefferson County Bank, was for many years a member of its directorate, and for a number of years previous to his death he was president. It is not too much to say that this institution, with its long record of honorable and successful management, owed much to his personality. In this, as in all else in which he engaged, he was conservative yet enterprising, gifted with a prescience which was little less than remarkable, and unalterably honest to the last detail. He possessed the entire confidence of whatever body with which he was associated, and it seemed a matter of course that they should place him in the position of leader and follow to the fullest whatever policy he might recommend.

A Democrat in politics, Mr. Hungerford was, without his seeking it, conceded a position of leadership in his party, and was elected to Congress in 1842, and reelected in 1844. His conduct in that body was most praiseworthy. At the first session of his first term he was appointed on the committees on Revolutionary pensions and on accounts, two of the most important committees of that day, and his excellent abilities found recognition in his appointment to the chairmanship of the committee on ways and means in his second term. In the latter position he displayed to the best advantage his business sagacity and his courage in maintaining principles and policies which met the approval of his conscience. Having introduced into Congress, as coming from his committee, what came to be known as the distinctive protective tariff of 1846, he aroused the antagonism of his southern colleagues in Congress. They, desiring to secure the marketing abroad of the southern cotton product and to import free of duty the goods into which they were manufactured, were inimical to Mr. Hungerford's bill, and used every influence to prevail upon him to modify its provisions to meet their desires. To this time they have been able to control the northern congressmen, but Mr. Hungerford was proof against their blandishments, their promises and their threats. He was even tendered the vice-presidential nomination if he would recede from his position and modify his bill to suit southern requirements, but he was resolute, and his measure was enacted almost exactly as he reported it. The southern leaders resented his heedlessness of their wishes, at first by less courteousness of manner, and later by withdrawing from him entirely. His modesty and peacefulness of disposition would not permit him to resent their conduct, but his subsequent indifference to public honors is, probably, ascribable to his experiences during this period. It is certain that had he desired it, and exerted himself to the purpose, he could have been made either governor or senator.

Mr. Hungerford's characteristics have been epitomized by a former writer (Mr. John A. Haddock) as combining all those excellencies which made Silas Wright, William L. Marcy and Thomas H. Benton famous, and he has been pronounced their equal in suavity, commanding presence, knowledge of parliamentary laws, sympathy for the country's toilers, and regard for the public weal. To descant upon what spirit he would have displayed, what power he would have wielded, had he lived to the Civil War period, would offer a fruitful field. Certain it is that his intense patriotism and his knowledge of the character and desires of southern politicians would have made him not only a staunch, but aggressive friend of the Union.

Until his last days Mr. Hungerford exerted his influence for the best interests of his community and county. His benefactions to institutions of learning and to organized charities were munificent, and many such received liberal endowments from his generosity. He took great interest in the Jefferson County Agricultural Society and in the Jefferson County Bible Society, and was for several years president of that last named. He was one of the largest contributors to the building fund of the First Presbyterian Church, whose house of worship was thus made possible.

Mr. Hungerford died after a brief illness, in his sixty-first year. The sad event was a public calamity, and meeting of the citizens of Watertown, of the officials of the Jefferson County Bank, of the railroad company, and of the various associations in which he had held membership, were held, to testify to their sorrow in his loss and to pay tribute to his memory. At the funeral service his pastor said: "On account of his influence, and the important trusts which had been confided to his hands, being in the full maturity of his strength, his judgment ripened by experience and years, and his natural force unabated, I know of no one in the community whose death would have been regarded as so great a calamity as his. The assembling of this great congregation, as a tribute of respect to his memory, shows how he was estimated. A prince has fallen in the midst of us." See "History of Jefferson County."

376. JOHN⁶ HUNGERFORD (*John*⁵, *Capt. John*⁴, *Thomas*³, *Thomas*², *Thomas*¹), of Wolcottvill, Conn., born in 1787, at Southington, Conn.; died 30 Aug. 1856, at Wolcottvill. He married first 3 Mar. 1814, ELIZABETH WEBSTER, of Albany, N. Y., who died 12 June 1819; secondly 5 June 1820, CHARLOTTE AUSTIN, born 2 March 1800, at Torrington, Conn.; died there 1 Mar. 1894, daughter of Nathaniel and ——— (Mills), niece of Rev. Samuel J. Mills, founder of the foreign missionary movement.

In 1813 Mr. Hungerford moved from Harwinton to Wolcottvill soon after the first woolen mill was built, and stocked a store on the south side of the bridge on Main Street, the red building, second south of the brick academy building where he continued a few years, then occupied what is now the Coe furniture rooms, during the time he was building the store now occupied by Workman and Weeks, where he continued until 1836, when the store was united with the woolen mill and he became largely interested in the manufacturing business. He built the store building now occupied by Agard and Church, and in which his son Walter kept store until 1852-3, and he removed the dwelling built by John Brooker, and on its site built the house, now the residence of L. W. Coe.

When the first mill was burned in 1844, he united with N. F. Hawley in forming the Union Manufacturing Company, and started what is the present woolen mill. Previous to this he had become one of three equal stock owners of the brass mill, in which he took more and more interest and finally purchased the whole of the property. This was the first brass and brass-rolling mill establishment in America—the pioneer of the vast industries of that character which now line the course of the Naugatuck River in his native state.

He was a man of marked public spirit, strict integrity, and firm religious convictions, who always advocated higher ideals of character and conduct. From these items, the inference is very clear that Mr. Hungerford was during thirty years a leading business man in Litchfield County, and during considerable of the time one of the most prominent of such, and it is pleasing to add, maintained an honorable, upright and benevolent character to the last.

Mrs. Charlotte (Austin) Hungerford, a devoted wife and mother, was left with a large family, and the next year the great financial crisis came, but the family, left with a large amount of business responsibility, struggled through to success and victory.

Charlotte Austin Hungerford was closely identified with the beginnings of what is now the flourishing city of Torrington, but which in her childhood was little more than a pine swamp bordering the Naugatuck. Torrington, on the West Street of which she was born, was at this time one of the leading villages in that part of the state, and its standing is still attested by the broad street which runs many a furlong past what were once fine representative, stately homes of the thriftest class of New England farmers, when New England farmers were the chiefs of the land.

Her reading and conversation dwelt with world-wide topics, moral, religious, social, political. This mental breadth and activity helped to keep her perceptions clear. Along with it was a remarkable progressiveness of thought. Deeply imbued with the theological teaching of her earlier time, she made her way through many phases of thought and feeling, always keeping pace with anything new, always in sympathy with advanced views and methods. This woman in her nineties was abreast of the end of this nineteenth century, with its electric cars and its civilian manners, a lover of progress because she was a lover of humanity.

The Charlotte Hungerford Hospital is more than a memorial, it is a modern, perfectly equipped institution, active in the service of the people. It carries on on a large scale, activities to which the woman in whose memory it was dedicated, devoted a great deal of effort. The hospital also denotes in one who was born there, affection for the community of Torrington; one who lived there long enough to become thoroughly imbued with the spirit of progress that has made Torrington what it is today.

Personal, unassuming helpfulness was the dominant theme of Charlotte Hungerford's life and it was the hope of her son Uri Taylor⁷ Hungerford, New York City and Briarcliff Manor, N. Y. (deceased) that this hospital dedicated in her name will serve suffering humanity as she would serve it were she still alive.

Children (surname Mitchell):

1. *David Nash*⁸, b. 2 Oct. 1859, at Pike River, Que.; d. 11 Apr. 1921, at St. Joseph's Hospital, Milwaukee, Wis. Copied from the Pittsville paper Apr. 14, 1921:

"The community was shocked Monday morning to learn of the death of Nash Mitchell, at St. Joseph's Hospital, Milwaukee, where he had been taken just a week before. Death was due to the shock and complications following an operation for the removal of a large tumor from the abdomen. The operation was made Friday of last week and death resulted at 5.15, Monday morning of this week.

The remains were brought to Pittsville, Tuesday evening, accompanied by Mrs. Mitchell, Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Bleck and Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Mitchell. The train was met at Babcock by an escort of Masons who took charge of the body, depositing it at Masonic Hall, where it reposed until the time of the funeral, which was held today at 1 o'clock under the auspices

THELMA RUTH¹² FAIRFIELD
Born at North Stanbridge, Que., March 26, 1903
Great-grand-daughter of
4192 NASH DAVID⁹ and ELIZABETH⁶ (HUNGERFORD) PHELPS

of Pittsville Lodge F. & A. M., of which deceased has long been a member. Former master of the local lodge, John Whittingham, now of Ladysmith, acted as master of ceremonies, assisted by the brethren. The impressive funeral ceremonies of the Masonic Order were carried out at Masonic Hall and at the grave in Mound Cemetery, where the remains are deposited."

Brother Mitchell received his education at the academy in Bedford, Que., then entered the employ of American Waltham Watch Co., and such was his ambition and earnestness in his chosen career that he later resigned as superintendent of the watch factory at Springfield, Ill. He was induced to open a watch repair shop and jewelry store at Pittsville, Wis., when that community was wild and in the making. The same qualities that advanced him from messenger boy to superintendent in the watch business forced on him offices of trust in that new land. He was elected registrar of deeds of Woods County and served two terms. During this time the family lived at Grand Rapids. After 1891 his life was spent among the people of Pittsville and surroundings.

He gave up the watch business and moved onto his farm just south of the town of Dexter. While living there he was elected chairman of the town and served for a number of terms. Later, moving back to Pittsville, he was elected assessor and served as such until the time of his death. He was also a member of the Wood County Jury Commission, secretary for many years of the Masonic Lodge, and secretary of the E. F. U. at the time of his death.

These offices of public trust and the honorable mention of him, the attendance at his funeral of Brothers and friends from all over the county and the banks of floral offerings as a last tribute offer a mighty testimony of the regard in which he was held by the people of Pittsville and neighbors surrounding. Business houses of the city were closed during the funeral, the high school, of which he had a son attending, closed for the afternoon, and the school flag was flung at half mast, while the city flag staff carried its flag at half mast several days in honor of his patriotism and work during the World War.

597. GENERAL SOLON DEXTER⁷ HUNGERFORD (Dexter⁶, Timothy⁵, Benjamin⁴, Thomas³, Thomas², Thomas¹), of Watertown and Adams, Jefferson County, N. Y., born in Watertown, 12 Mar. 1818; died 1884, in Adams.

He married in 1845, ANN HUNTINGTON, of Watertown.

General Hungerford's earliest home was on a farm in Watertown. He entered the drygoods store of Mr. Adriel Ely, at the age of fifteen, which proved a business discipline of great service in shaping his successful financial career. After remaining in this position for four years, he decided to prepare for a collegiate course, but, upon the advice of his kinsman, Hon. Orville Hungerford, he took the position of bookkeeper in Jefferson County Bank for a year. At the expiration of that time he was promoted to the position of teller, which office he held for eight years, when he was elected cashier of Lewis County Bank, at Martinsburg. At the end of two years he was urged by his friend, Mr. Ely, and his uncle, Hon. Orville Hungerford, to go into banking on his own account, under the general banking law of 1838.

Through the influence and at the urgent invitation of his friend, Robert B. Doxtater, and other leading citizens, he was induced to found an institution at Adams called Hungerford's Bank, with a capital of $50,000, October 25, 1845, which he successfully conducted as an individual bank till September, 1853, when the capital was increased to $120,000, with the same name, and under a board of directors of which General Hungerford was president. The Banker's Magazine, after a notice warmly commending the management of the Hungerford National Bank, as it became under the national banking law, mentions "a remarkable fact connected with the history of Hungerford's Bank. It has never suspended specie payments during its existence of upwards of twenty years, having honored every and all demands in coin until the advent of greenbacks, in 1861."

General Hungerford had no superior in the successful management of this complicated business. For clearness of judgment, pleasing address and, beyond all, honest and reliable financial management, he was equally remarkable. His love of agriculture was always intense, both for the pleasure it afforded and the beneficial influence upon his health, while it was intimately connected with his business operations. He was, for many years before his death, closely identified with the Jefferson County and New York State Agricultural Societies. For sixteen years he was on the executive board of the State Society, and finally took the chair of president. His "Valley Park Farm" was one of the most beautiful in the state. On this he kept one of the best herds of thoroughbred Ayrshire cattle in the United States, and was largely engaged in importing and breeding these favorites; also "Short-horns," Leicester sheep, and Yorkshire swine; and shortly before his death devoted much attention to rearing horses, having had a just appreciation of this prince among animals. The Boston Cultivator, May, 1863, mentions a particularly fine group of cattle on the Hungerford estate.

Railroad interests claimed a share of Mr. Hungerford's time and attention. His general enterprise found scope in this direction during the first attempts to connect the northern part of the state with the great thoroughfares and commercial centers. Both money, time and influence were always at command. In 1855 he was elected a director of the Rome and Watertown railroad, at the earnest desire of such men as Philip Dater, of New York, and later of the Rome, Watertown and Ogdensburg Railroad. He was complimented by capitalists interested, for his substantial improvements in the management of the road. The sound judgment and integrity seen here, as in all other financial concerns, received a significant testimonial in an incident, one among many, gleaned from a private letter addressed to a personal friend by one for years bitterly prejudiced against Mr. Hungerford. In this the writer alludes to certain differences of opinion existing between Mr. Hungerford and himself, and states for his motive for voting for the former's reelection, his "fearless" discharge of duty in a position where so much "knavery and dishonesty" exists.

But a higher object than business enterprise and success was at Mr. Hungerford's heart. Since 1836, when engaged in banking, "the idea of establishing a first-class educational institution in my native county has been very much on my mind," says Mr. Hungerford in reply to the question as to just when his attention was drawn to the greatest achievement of his life, the founding of Hungerford Collegiate Institute, whose splendid position among the literary establishments of the land is a joy to his own heart and an honor to his native state.

An attempt was made about the year 1855 to erect the proper buildings and put the plan into operation, but owing to disagreement as to the site of the prospective edifice, the whole thing fell through for the time being. But in 1864, a large building, erected for hotel purpose, fell into Mr. Hungerford's hands; this he offered to donate to a board of trustees selected from the several neighboring churches, consisting of twenty-four, provided the citizens would raise an endowment fund of ten thousand dollars, the interest to be devoted to the payment of insurance, repairs, etc. The offer was accepted, a charter secured, and the institute put in successful operation for three years, when the building was burned down. Another site being obtained with the insurance money, avails of the old lot, and contributions to the amount of over eighty thousand dollars, the present structure was erected.

At the opening of the first institute referred to, the exercises were of an unusually interesting character. Special trains were run to the village from neighboring places, General "Joe" Hooker being among the guests. These were welcomed by Rev. Mr. Hobart, in behalf of the trustees, and escorted by the Watertown Cornet Band to Jackson Hall. After music and congratulatory addresses, Dr. Fisher, president of Hamilton College, delivered the inaugural address.

The school opened with one hundred and sixty students; and the promise given by its dawn was fulfilled in the years that followed, when it shed the light of an enlightening and refining influence over the surrounding country. A most interesting account of the dedication of the new and elegant building erected subsequent to the fire is given by the press. At the dedication Rev. S. S. H. Greeley was the speaker of the day. He was followed by citizens and invited guests. General Hungerford, owing to previous illness, took no part in the exercises but, after loud and renewed applause, came out of the anteroom in response to a call of the audience. He simply bowed and retired.

Mr. Hungerford's military career dates back to the year 1835; when quite a young man he was commissioned aide-de-camp to the brigadier-general of the Fifty-fifth Brigade of Infantry. In 1853 he became captain of infantry in the Thirty-sixth Regiment, and brigadier-general of the Eighteenth Brigade of the Fourth Division of New York State Militia in 1859. In 1861, when the Rebellion broke out, General Hungerford, commanding the Sixteenth Brigade, and also commissioned to inspect volunteer companies, was loyal to his trust and untiring in his efforts to cooperate with the government. He won the grateful recognition of the state and of his fellow citizens at home.

Mr. Hungerford's political career was made by himself—a brief one—beyond his influence in connection with business and social relations, and his prompt action when it was needed as a citizen. He was by nature and education of the conservative school in politics. This fact, along with his general popularity, was the cause of his nomination to Congress by the Coalitionists of the Twentieth District in 1866, when an effort was made to defeat the ruling party by a combination of all those dissatisfied with its measures. Mr. Hungerford declined the nomination in a letter which was consistent with his principles, dignified and loyal, an honor to his head and heart.

But in no position has he been more honored and useful, although attracting less popular interest, than when president of the Jefferson County Bible Society, an office he held for many years.

"Wednesday, January 13, 1904.—Jonas Hungerford, the survivor of the famous Hungerford twins, who lived to celebrate their 87th birthday anniversary, died at his home in Watertown at noon yesterday after an illness of about a week with pneumonia. Mr. Hungerford was granduncle of A. E. Culver, treasurer of Smith's Theatre, and was well known in this city, where he had visited and where he had made many friends.

"Jonas and Joel Hungerford were born June 3, 1816, on a farm in Watertown, now known as the Morgan Morehouse place. When they celebrated their 87th birthday anniversary they displayed the ruddy hue of health. Practically their entire lives have been spent in farming. Joel died about four months ago.

"Jonas Hungerford and Miss Delia Atwood were married and were the parents of five children, only one of whom, Frank A., survives. During the past few years Mr. and Mrs. Hungerford have taken a trip to Florida during the winter, but this year it was deferred because Mrs. Hungerford fell and broke her hip at Torrington while visiting there, a short time ago. 762. ANSON⁷ HUNGERFORD (Anson⁶, John⁵, Capt. John⁴, Thomas³, Thomas², Thomas¹), of Harwinton, Conn., Monticello, Ga., and Hartford, Conn.; born at Harwinton, Conn., 15 Aug. 1814; died at Hartford, 17 Mar. 1871. He married at Harwinton, Conn., 9 Oct. 1839, CAROLINE CATLIN, born at Harwinton, 19 Nov. 1815; died 17 July 1900, at Hartford, daughter of Abijah and Orinda (Williams).

Mrs. Hungerford died suddenly at her home at 45 Prospect Street, 17 July 1900, in the eighty-fifth year of her age. She was a member of the Center Church, a person of a strong Christian character, and of a type of the well-bred, well-trained and intelligent New England woman of some generations past. She was well versed in all progress of the times, taking an active interest in later developments, yet lived on the background of early memories which were fully as vivid as the incidents before her. She joined this Society 18 Apr. 1893, as the granddaughter of Abijah Catlin, of Harwinton, a Revolutionary soldier in 1776; her son, Clarence C. Hungerford, whose obituary appears in the last year Book, having also been a member as a descendant of the same ancestor.

Anson⁷ Hungerford, Esq., died suddenly, shortly after one o'clock. He complained of feeling ill, and as the family were about to dine, said he would eat nothing but would rest awhile. Very soon after he retired to his room, his wife went to him and found him in a condition of great suffering. Dr. Stearns was immediately called and pronounced him dying from apoplexy. It seems that he had on two previous occasions what were thought to be slight attacks of paralysis, but during the past two months his health had been unusually good and in many ways he had appeared better than for a long time previous. In thirty minutes after he was taken ill he was dead.

The deceased was in the fifty-second year of his age. He was a native of Harwinton, and was a brother-in-law of the Hon. Abijah Catlin of that place. He conducted business for several years in the South, in company with Mr. W. S. Hurd, who was (at the time of Mr. Hungerford's death) boarding at the United States Hotel, and retired with a competency, and went to Hartford to permanently reside. He was a very pleasant, agreeable gentleman, very greatly esteemed by all who knew him, and in an unostentatious way dispensed his charities to many deserving objects. He was a member of the Center Church. Funeral services took place at his residence, Wednesday, March 22nd, at 11 o'clock.

771. THEODORE ALFRED⁷ HUNGERFORD (Anson⁶, John⁵, Capt. John⁴, Thomas³, Thomas², Thomas¹), of Harwinton, Conn., and Chicago, Ill.

Mr. Hungerford was born in Harwinton, Conn., 29 Aug. 1838, and died 23 Nov. 1903, in New York City, and was buried in Harwinton, Conn.

Hundreds of hotel men throughout the country will remember Theodore A. Hungerford, who became identified with the Hotel Gazette in 1881 and in 1883 became its sole proprietor. In 1887 he sold a one-half interest in the publication to John Martin, its editor and proprietor for many years, and who began his work upon the Hotel Gazette in 1880.

Before going to New York, Mr. Hungerford was a book publisher in Chicago. He was well known in Palm Beach, Fla., where for several seasons he became the guest of the Hotel Royal Poinciana upon the opening day and remained there until its close.

Upon Mr. Hungerford's death his affairs were left in the hands of Mr. Newman Hungerford, his nephew, as his executor, under whose direction the Memorial Library was erected.

The Theodore A. Hungerford Memorial Library is built of Roman brown brick, granite trimmed; has a green tile roof, copper cornices, and is an absolutely fireproof structure. All the woodwork is comprised in the doors and window frames. The interior is finished in oak. It has a large reading room, with a beautiful outlook over the village and country; a children's room; librarian's room; stock room; and every appurtenance of an up-to-date library. There is a large room in the attic for the collection and display of articles of historical interest, and another room in the basement devoted to the same purpose. The library offers a fine collection of books, and it is hardly necessary to say that it is freely used and heartily appreciated by the townspeople.

774. WALTER M.⁷ HUNGERFORD (John⁶, John⁵, Capt. John⁴, Thomas³, Thomas², Thomas¹), of Torrington and West Haven, Conn., was born in Wolcottvill, Conn., 6 Feb. 1822; and died 15 Feb. 1895. He married AMY SWIFT, of Dutchess County, N. Y.

Mr. Hungerford conducted a store for some time at what is now known as Agard's Corner. In 1874 he removed his family to Mount Pleasant, Iowa.

778. REV. EDWARD⁷ HUNGERFORD (John⁶, John⁵, Capt. John⁴, Thomas³, Thomas², Thomas¹), of Torrington, Conn., and Burlington, Vt., born 20 Sept. 1829, at Wolcottvill (Torrington); died 5 Aug. 1911, at Burlington, Vt. He married 1859, MARIA A. BUELL, born 12 Oct. 1827, in Burlington, Vt.; died there 1908; daughter of Frederick, born 21 June 1792, at Litchfield, Conn., and Eliza W. (Hickok), born 8 Apr. 1801, at Burlington, Vt.

He attended schools at Norfolk, Ellington and Hartford in his preparatory course for higher instructions. He entered Yale College in 1846, but, in consequence of ill health, passed one year out of study, graduating in 1851, and spent the following winter in Louisville, Ky., studying chemistry under Prof. B. Stillman. In the autumn of 1852, he went to Germany and entered the University of Gottingen, and in pursuit of higher studies remained in Germany nearly four years, and after devoting a short time to travel, especially in Italy, returned to Wolcottvill in 1856. In his studies abroad he had devoted himself more especially to natural science, and on his return was appointed in the autumn of 1856 to the geological survey of Iowa, on which work he continued until the summer of 1857, when receiving an appointment to a professorship in the University of Vermont, at Burlington, he repaired to that place and entered upon his work. In 1859, in consequence of financial embarrassments of the University he retired from the professorship, purchased and retired to what was then known as the Reed Place, on Winooski Park, in Colchester, an idyllic place of orchards, grassy slopes and terraces, with the cataracts of Winooski River rushing through gorges cut in the limestone cliffs. Here he spent several years, devoting himself to favorite studies, purchasing in the meantime the larger so-called Penniman Farm, to the old colonial house of which he removed his family. (This house was burned in December, 1902). His interest and activities soon became engaged in Christian work in various parts of Vermont.

Being introduced to this work thus unintentionally he was led on by gradual stages until his plans of life were entirely changed and he was ordained to the gospel ministry in 1871, and was settled as pastor of the Center (Congregational) Church in Meriden, Conn., in February, 1872.

Besides various sermons published in the secular papers, there have been published of his writings, an article on glacial markings on the summits of the green hills, in the American Journal of Science; "Buddhism and Christianity," in The New Englander, 1874; "The Rise of Arabian Learning," Atlantic Monthly, 1886; "Intellectual Mission of the Saracens," Atlantic Monthly, 1886; "Spiritual Preaching for Our Times," Century Magazine, 1886; "The Arabian Brothers of Purity," Andover Review, 1889; "Prayer, Subjective and Objective," Andover Review, 1890, and same article, Congregational Review, London, England; "Our Summer Migration, A School Study," Century Magazine, 1891. His latest contribution to the subject of public worship is contained in a little volume under the title, "The Common Order of Morning Worship."

York City, born 14 Dec. 1841, at Torrington, Conn.; died Nov. 1929, at Briarcliff Manor, N. Y. He married DELIA HYDE, of Brooklyn, N. Y., who died 1 Mar. 1877.

As a boy Mr. Hungerford attended the Wolcottvill, Conn., district school and in 1855 entered Mt. Pleasant Military Academy where he studied two years, leaving in 1857 to enter upon his business career. The following eight years were spent in Philadelphia. In 1865 he became associated with the firm of Wallace & Sons, brass rolling mill operators of Ansonia, Conn., with offices in New York City.

He remained with Wallace & Sons until 1893, at which time he entered the brass and copper business for himself. In 1896 he founded the U. T. Hungerford Brass & Copper Co., which three years later, in 1899, was incorporated under New York State laws and has since developed into one of the largest concerns in the copper and brass industry, with warehouses in New York City, Boston, Baltimore, Philadelphia and Cleveland and a sales office in San Francisco.

From early youth Mr. Hungerford has always manifested the same praiseworthy characteristics of candor and uprightness for which in later life he has been noted among his business associates. His private charities have been numerous and varied, but always conducted in a quiet unassuming manner.

Although Mr. Hungerford left Torrington early in life, his interest in the community has never diminished, quite the contrary in fact, it has increased with the passing years and in 1917 this affection for the place of his nativity was exemplified in the gift of the Charlotte Hungerford Hospital to the city of Torrington in memory of his mother; a tribute from a devoted son to his mother's cherished memory; an institution of mercy and service in memory of a woman who had an important part in the early development of Torrington.

Under date of Dec. 16, 1924, in The Torrington Register, the leading newspaper of Northwestern, Conn., I find the following paragraphs:

"Uri T. Hungerford, donor of the Charlotte Hungerford Hospital which stands as a magnificent memorial to his mother, has given $200,000 for an endowment fund, the income of which is to be devoted to carrying on the work of the institution. Announcement of this gift was made by Frederick L. Braman, president of the board of trustees and board of governors of the hospital, at the testimonial dinner to Mr. Hungerford given last night at Conley Inn by the incorporators and professional staff. The dinner was in recognition of Mr. Hungerford's 83rd birthday, which was last Sunday."

"Unfortunately Mr. Hungerford himself could not be present owing to ill health, but he was represented by one of his close personal and business associates, Bernard Ris, of Brooklyn, N. Y."

"The tender of the $200,000 fund was made by Mr. Hungerford in the following brief letter addressed to the trustees of the hospital:

"Gentlemen:—It affords me great pleasure to present to the hospital the enclosed five percent gold bonds of the Hungerford Brass Corporation. It is my desire that you retain these bonds as an endowment, interest only to be used for the expenses of the hospital."

"Sincerely yours,
"URI T. HUNGERFORD."

785. JUDGE FRANK LOUIS⁷ HUNGERFORD (John⁶, John⁵, Capt. John⁴, Thomas³, Thomas², Thomas¹), of New Britain, Conn., was born at Wolcottvill, 6 Nov. 1843; died 1909; married 21 Dec. 1868, SARAH A., born 6 July 1841, at New Britain, daughter of William A. Churchill.

He attended the public schools and by private study fitted for college. After two years in the University of Vermont he accepted an opportunity to study law in the office of Senator George F. Edmunds, at Burlington, Vt. He was admitted to the bar in 1865, and could have remained in Burlington in charge of Senator Edmund's practice, but he preferred to return to Connecticut, and he opened his office in his native town in 1866. He was successful from the first and soon afterward was elected judge of probate. In 1869 he removed to New Britain, to become the partner of Hon. Charles E. Mitchell, afterward Commissioner of Patents of the United States, under the firm name of Mitchell & Hungerford. Some twenty years later John P. Bartlett was admitted to the firm and the name changed to Mitchell, Hungerford & Bartlett. His firm occupied a position of prominence among the lawyers of the state for a generation and Judge Hungerford was one of the foremost attorneys of the county. He was city attorney of New Britain and corporation counsel, and his influence and wisdom contributed substantially to the development of the thriving city in which he lived. He was a director of the Russell & Erwin Manufacturing Company, the Stanley Rule & Level Company, the New Britain National Bank, the Turrill Savings Bank and the New Britain Institute. He was an active and prominent member of the First Church of Christ, and was elected deacon in 1874. He was one of the mainstays of the Young Men's Christian Association, and from 1889 to 1901, a period of twelve years, was its president. In 1879, Judge Hungerford's law firm was dissolved and he became the head of the firm of Hungerford, Hyde, Joslyn & Gilman, of Hartford, and continued in this relation until his death. This firm ranks among the best known and most successful in the state. In politics he was a Republican, but he declined public office in later years, though his advice was often sought in shaping useful legislation, and his influence was acknowledged by leaders of his party. He received from the University of Vermont the honorary degree of Master of Arts in recognition of his achievements in law and public life.

From the eulogy of Charles Elliot Mitchell, formerly his partner, at a special meeting of the Hartford County Bar, held in the Superior Court room at Hartford, 25 June 1909, I quote:

"From the first Mr. Hungerford exhibited great aptitude for all forms of legal business, especially those which brought into requisition the exercise of sound judgment and the faculty of presenting causes in such a way as to be thoroughly understood by men of common sense. Early in the development of the partnership life, my attention was diverted in the direction of patent litigation, and a mutual arrangement was made which caused the major portion of the general law business to devolve upon Mr. Hungerford, while his partner devoted himself largely to causes involving the law of patents. This division of labor proved a happy one, and was maintained for the most part during the whole life of the partnership of nearly thirty years. Mr. Hungerford served as judge of probate first in Torrington and afterwards in New Britain, acquitting himself in those positions with his customary judgment and integrity. In 1897 he became senior partner of the firm of Hungerford, Hyde, Joslyn & Gilman in this city. As head of the firm he met all the demands of a large business, keeping him closely confined to his law practice, acquiring a great reputation as a trial lawyer and never seeking or accepting office, excepting where the legal function was the dominant one. * * * He drew to himself the respect of all by the influence which he unconsciously exerted, and this respect increased as the sphere of his influence broadened from year to year. He became the corporation counsel of the city of New Britain at a time of rapid change in the growth and needs of the rising young city.

The city grew with the rapidity of a western township. The old charter, which had served its day, had become an outworn garment. The town and city governments were to be amalgamated. * * * Just, sincere and affectionate in the very roots of his nature, his life could not avoid exhibiting, unconsciously, of course, the exalted character of the sweet soul of Frank Hungerford. I never knew him to give utterance to an impure word or an impure sentiment. Dishonesty was not conceivable of him. There was never a written contract between us and we never had a difference. When the lawyer said he would give a great sum of money for Hungerford's face as a means of prevailing in the presence of a jury, he forgot that the face which he coveted simply reflected the sincerity of character which was the secret of its prevailing power. Nor should any one associate his purity of character with any supposed weakness in any direction. Mr. Hungerford was a full strong man, a lover of life and of good things of life, which he was not accustomed to reject as they came along. He was a lover of horses, as his stables witnessed. He loved an intelligent dog and an unflawed diamond. He loved the broad horns of the farmyard, and a day by the brookside with his trout rod in the cherished intervals of an exciting business supplied him not only with sorely needed rest, but with almost unutterable joy.

It remains to be added that Mr. Hungerford had one quality which, whether a felicity or a failing, undoubtedly stood in the way of political preferment, if indeed he ever desired political preferment. His nature was so ingrainedly truthful and sincere that he could not stoop to the insincerities which sometimes characterize the professional politician. His reticence was remarkable and increased with his years, but his infrequent words were like the scarcest of metals—all gold throughout."

856. SAMUEL JAMES⁷ HUNGERFORD (*Samuel*⁶, *Isaiah*⁵, Samuel, *Thomas*³, *Thomas*², *Thomas*¹), of Montreal, born 16 July 1873, near Bedford, Que.; married at Winnipeg, Que., 13 Apr. 1893, ALBERTA, daughter of Rev. J. W. Demorest.

Samuel J. Hungerford, president of Canadian National Railways, has been engaged in the business of the "rolling wheel" many years. As a boy of 14, at Farnham, Que., he first really became acquainted with a railway locomotive. Metaphorically speaking, he boarded it then and has made it carry him from the lathe of the machinist's apprentice to the chair of the president.

Mr. Hungerford is a man of quick action who never seems to be in a hurry. He has a wide circle of friends in the railway world—friends that he made while mastering his various jobs in the mechanical department at important railway points across the country. Any of these friends, officer or employee, easterner or westerner, will say that "S. J. is there with the goods" and that he knows a locomotive and a car from the rails up, and how to utilize them to the best advantage. He has the reputation of being past master in the art of handling men, of one who cannot be beaten on wage negotiations, and of one who is an all-round diplomat but firm as the proverbial rock when necessary.

In 1910, when the Canadian Northern, having little more than 3,000 miles of railway in Western Canada, required a head for its mechanical department, the management approached Mr. Hungerford, at that time superintendent of the C. P. R. shops at Winnipeg. The decision was typical of the method of the man in all things. He foresaw a bright future for the new line that was being so rapidly extended, and gave up 24 years of service with the C. P. R. to become superintendent of rolling stock of that company's only western competitor.

At the end of five years, the mechanical department of Western Lines of the Canadian Northern Railway was in first-class shape, and S. J. Hungerford's jurisdiction was extended over the Eastern Lines of the System in May, 1915. For two years and a half he was superintendent of rolling stock for the System at Toronto, having wider jurisdiction than that of the general managers, but he built up no departmental walls. When that work had been completed, a vacancy occurred in the general managership of the Eastern Lines of the Canadian Northern and Mr. Hungerford was appointed to the position, which he occupied until the consolidation of the lines of the Canadian Government Railways with those of the Canadian Northern Railway System was effected one year later.

Again there was necessity for standardization in connection with the shop practices and equipment of those two systems, but the Canadian National management did not consider it desirable to establish a separate mechanical department, so a new title was created—assistant vice-president—and Mr. Hungerford was appointed to it. As such, he was the head of the mechanical end of the system, and second in command of the operating and maintenance force. This arrangement was continued until the recent appointment of Mr. M. M. MacLeod as vice-president in charge of construction of the system, Mr. Hungerford in sequence becoming vice-president of operating and maintenance activities.

In July 1932, Mr. Hungerford was elected president of Canadian National Railways, succeeding Sir Henry W. Thornton, K.B.E., resigned.

They went to the Middle West where they lived after 1864. She was a woman of great mentality and a devoted Christian. She had the joy and satisfaction of helping to build up the Middle West. A trip to California in which she visited most of the places of interest south of San Francisco was taken when she was 81 years of age, just before her death. Her mind was clear and she took an active interest in everything about her until the very end.

Mr. Noah W. Loomis was son of Ebenezer Loomis, and a descendant of Joseph Loomis who settled in Windsor, Conn., in 1639. On account of his wife's health he moved with his family to Milwaukee, Wis., in 1864, and lived in the West until his death. 1074. CLARENCE CATLIN⁸ HUNGERFORD (Anson⁷, Anson⁶, John⁵, Capt. John⁴, Thomas³, Thomas², Thomas¹), of Hartford, Conn., born at Harwinton, Conn., 2 Oct. 1844; died at Hartford, 2 May 1899, his illness being very brief from atrophy of the heart.

Mr. Hungerford's boyhood was spent in Monticello, Ga., where his father was engaged in business. The conditions foreshadowing the Civil War compelled his family to come North, and they settled in Albany, N. Y., in order to give their son the benefit of the Albany Academy. Later they settled in Hartford, where in 1871 his father died, leaving him the head of the family. Mr. Hungerford was a clerk with the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Co., and from there was called to a responsible position with the Ætna Fire Insurance Co., which he held until illness caused by overwork and a too close attention to business, compelled him to relinquish it. He was never again able to engage actively in business. In his work he was accurate and original, and had the art of a true worker—of making himself necessary. He honored his duties by putting his whole heart into them, and the words that seemed to be his motto were Truth and Honesty. To him there was but one way—the right way—and his integrity of action, in all cases, was absolute.

Clarence Catlin Hungerford bore a good name and sought to bear it well. He loved and respected the virtues of his ancestors and tried to perpetuate them. He was a sensitive nature, with an inherited refinement that one recognized upon all occasions, for with him no lapse came to show the venerate. He was always a student, and in the last few years of his life derived much pleasure from travels in this country and the many trips he made abroad. His mother and a brother, Mr. Newman Hungerford, survived him. He was admitted to this Society 18 Oct. 1892, through his descent from Abijah Catlin (his great-grandfather), of Harwinton, who was a soldier at the battle of White Plains.

Mr. Hungerford was also a member of the Society of Colonial Wars, being a descendant of Capt. Joseph Wadsworth, of Charter Oak fame.

At Mr. Hungerford's funeral Rev. Doctor Lamson spoke as follows: "When God calls home one whom he has prepared for the service and hospitality of Heaven we mourn, we cannot avoid mourning, though we know that he has entered into a life of rest. The former things, the pain and weariness have passed away, and he that sits upon the throne hath made for this man all things new. But in our sorrow we have precious memories that can never be lost. Out of our lives he has taught us how to suffer, to endure and yet give cheer. Those memories and our knowledge that with him all is well will do much to make us strong though we grieve that he has stepped forth out of our field of view. It is good for us today to remember him with grateful and definite memory. He loved his church, its spirit, its association and history. He was Christ-like also in this that he loved his mother. Last Sunday, his last Lord's day on earth, he worshipped in the church with the mother, and it was a fitting place to unite the two sacred loves, the love of her and of his God. He has more than once in thought faced death, and in this has proved himself not only to be a refined man but a man of courage. He did not fear the inevitable that came from God. Death has now taken away the weariness and pain and justified his faith. Life, eternal life, has admitted him into the world where the true and pure are also joyful and strong. To that world we are now moving, a world more attractive to some because he is in it.

1075. NEWMAN⁸ HUNGERFORD (Anson⁷, Anson⁶, John⁵, Capt. John⁴, Thomas³, Thomas², Thomas¹), of Torrington, Conn., was born 14 May 1849, at Monticello, Ga. He married at Hartford, Conn., 7 Dec. 1892, HELEN DOTH A WILSON, born 4 June 1863; died 4 Sept. 1898; daughter of Albut G. Wilson, of Harwinton, Conn.

Copy from The Hartford Courant, Thursday morning, 8 Sept. 1898: "Mrs. Helen Dotha Wilson Hungerford, the wife of Newman Hungerford, died at her home, No. 45 Prospect Street, Hartford, after a brief illness. She was born in Harwinton, and was the daughter of Albut G. Wilson. Mrs. Hungerford was thirty-five years old. She was a member of the Center Church, and was a woman of many estimable traits of character. Her husband is a salesman for the Blodgett & Clapp Company. The funeral arrangements have not been made." 8 Sept. 1898: "The funeral of Mrs. Newman Hungerford took place at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon from the family residence, No. 45 Prospect Street. The services were conducted by the Rev. Dr. C. M. Lamson. Mrs. Hungerford was much interested in the Warburton Chapel, and the singing at the funeral was by the girls in the Chapel class. Mrs. Hungerford had charge of a class of boys at the Chapel known as the Golden Rule Club, and the boys wore their badges at the funeral, consisting of a silver wreath and golden colored ribbon. The interment was in the family lot at Cedar Hill. The bearers were John W. Cooke, Major Charles T. Wells, Oscar A. Phelps, Ferdinand Richtie, J. Coolidge Hills and C. T. Millard."

The Rev. Dr. Charles M. Lamson spoke as follows regarding her at the first Communion service after her death, 2 Oct. 1898:

"On September 4th Mrs. Newman Hungerford died. In the few years in which she has been one of our fellowship she has taught us in gentle, quiet ways the meaning of Christian service. She shrank from all advertisement, but she shrank from no service that appeared to her as duty. In unobtrusive ways she revealed the sincerity of her heart and her devotion to the will of her Lord. She gave herself to the work of Warburton Chapel with earnestness, tact, and constancy. The one word that gives her religious character in epitome is trustworthiness. She was worthy of confidence. The children trusted her, the home trusted her, and felt her truth and self-forgetfulness. In the last days she suffered greatly, but patiently. Her desire that her sufferings should not make others suffer touched, at times, the heroine. She loved the gospel of the common life, and has taught us all that common duties are divine, and that in common service we may teach the great love of God."

Mr. Hungerford entered upon his business career as a clerk in the hardware establishment of Terry & Cone (later J. H. & W. E. Cone) at Hartford, Conn., in which position he continued for six years. He then entered the steel business as a traveling salesman in the employ of R. F. Blodgett & Co. (later Blodgett & Clapp Co.) with whom he remained for twenty years, at which time he resigned his position on account of the ill health of his mother.

Mr. Hungerford has been a member of Center Church, Hartford, Conn., since 1866. He is a member of the Society of Colonial Wars and Sons of the American Revolution. He is a resident of Hartford, but spends his summers on his farm, which he purchased in 1905, in Harwinton.
