TO THE DESCENDANTS
OF ASA IRISH AND HIS WIFE
PATIENCE RANKINS
THIS BOOK IS DEDICATED.

PREFACE

This genealogy has been compiled to establish the lineage of Asa Irish, for the sake of his descendants who may wish to trace their ancestry back to Thomas Rogers who was a passenger in the Mayflower.

The author in trying to preserve a record of every descendant of Asa Irish, has disregarded the general rule of carrying out the male lines only, and has completed every line, including all changes in surnames due to marriages.

The writer of this family record wishes to acknowledge the help received from "The History of Gorham, Me." by Hugh McLellan, and from "A Sketch of the Life of Gen. James Irish" by Lyndon Oak.

She wishes also to thank Howard Irish for the loan of the family Bible which originally belonged to Obadiah Irish, and contains the name of his son, Asa. Also, the several descendants of Asa Irish who have furnished material for this genealogy.

CHAPTER I.
Ancestors and Descendants of
Asa Irish
1620—1932

Asa Irish was the fourth generation from James Irish¹ who, according to the Maine Historical and Genealogical Recorder, Vol. I, p. 130, "came from Boxfordshire, England, about 1710 and settled in Falmouth (now Portland)," Maine.

In 1724-5 James Irish¹ was Sergeant under Col. Thomas Westbrook in a company sent to Penobscot Bay, against the Indians.

In 1738 he moved his family to the "township" now known as Gorham, Maine. He had six children. One of his sons, James,² born at Falmouth, Jan. 28, 1736, married in 1756, Mary Gorham Phinney, born in Gorham, Aug. 24, 1736. Nine children were born of this union.

The second James Irish in marrying Mary Gorham Phinney, gave to his descendants an ancestry worth recording, as she was the sixth generation from Thomas Rogers who, with his son Joseph, came over in the Mayflower.

Thomas Rogers was one of that Pilgrim band who died during the first winter in Plymouth. It is said that these graves were all leveled during the winter, then in the spring (1621), a corn field was planted over the graves, so that the Indians could not know to what extent their little colony had been reduced in numbers during the winter. At the present time there is a Cenotaph, containing all the bones that could be recovered, placed on Cole's hill as a memorial to that first burying-ground.

The son, Joseph Rogers, grew to be a man, married Hannah — before 1633 and died during January, 1677. Their daughter, Mary Rogers, born in Duxbury, Sept. 22, 1644, married in Barnstable, Mass., on August 10, 1664, John Phinney² born Plymouth, Mass., Dec. 24, 1638, the son of John Phinney¹ who emigrated to America earlier in 1638 and became a member of the Plymouth colony.

Twelve children were born to John Phinney² and Mary Rogers. During the year 1662 John Phinney² had moved to Barnstable where later John Phinney³ was born.

The second John Phinney was a soldier in King Philip's war which began in 1675, and his service in that bloody war with the Indians had considerable influence on the affairs of his family two generations later.

John Phinney³ was born in Barnstable, Mass., May 5, 1665, died in Barnstable Nov. 27, 1746. He married May 30, 1689, Sarah Lombard. Nine children were born to them. Of these, one was John Phinney⁴ born Barnstable April 5, 1696, and died in Gorham, Maine, Dec. 29, 1780. He married in Barnstable Sept. 25, 1718, Martha Colman born

Mary Gorham (Phinney) Irish
1736 - - 1825
First white child born in Gorham, Maine.

Barnstable March 4, 1698, died Gorham, Me., Dec. 16, 1784. Their children were Elizabeth, Edmund, Stephen, Martha, Patience, born in Barnstable, John and Sarah born Falmouth, Maine, and Mary Gorham, Colman and James born Gorham, Me.

About this time tracts of land known as "townships" had been apportioned off and given to the soldiers of King Philip's war (and to their heirs) as "supplemental compensation for their heroic services in that terrible war."

John Phinney² had been a soldier in that war, and in May 1736 his grandson John Phinney⁴ with his son Edmund, a boy of fourteen years, left their home in Falmouth, and made their way in a canoe up the Presumpscot River to township "Narragansett Number Seven," and there established the first home in what was later to become Gorham, Maine.

†It was there in a small cabin that Mary Gorham Phinney was born in August of that year, the first white child born in Gorham.

The History of Gorham, Me., by McLellan pays a fine tribute to Capt. John Phinney⁴ and his many and valuable services to the community in which he lived. It is through him that the descendants of Mary Gorham (Phinney) Irish are able to trace their lineage back to Thomas Rogers who was a Mayflower passenger.

†Note: In 1810 this old farm was sold to Seth Hersey of Hingham, Mass.

SECOND GENERATION

In 1777, when their youngest child was but one year old, the husband, †James Irish², was called into service in the war of the Revolution, leaving the care and support of this large family of children entirely to his wife.

Lyndon Oak, in his Sketches of Gen. James Irish, says of this remarkable woman: "Early in the war of the Revolution her husband was summoned to the service of his country. During his absence she supported her family by spinning and weaving by hand and selling the products of her toil at Portland, fourteen miles distant from her home, whither she carried them over frightful roads on horseback, returning with a fresh supply of raw material for the wheel and loom. While Mrs. Irish was a woman of the heroic type, she possessed the kindlier instincts of her sex. In a year of unusual scarcity of food (1780), although her own larder was not overstocked, she put her children on allowance, that she might relieve the hunger of her neighbors' children."

†Note: James Irish² was also a soldier in the war of 1812.

born 1766 died 1853
who died at the home of their son
Asa Irish
in Sebago, Maine*

THIRD GENERATION

3. Obadiah³ Irish b. Gorham, Maine, July 17, 1765, died Sebago, Me., April 17, 1852, married Jan. 7, 1790.

†Mary Deane, b. 1766, died Sebago, Me., 1853.

Children, probably born in Limington, Me.

William⁴ Irish, b. 1791.

Asa⁴ Irish, b. July, 1793.

‡Polly⁴ Irish, b. 1797.

Deane⁴ Irish.

Casiah⁴ (Desire) Irish, b. Sept. 20, 1809.

John⁴ Irish.

†Note 1: The History of Gorham, Me., by McLellan, p. 584 says "Obadiah Irish b. July 17, 1765, m. Mary Deane, Jan. 7, 1790, moved to Ossipee." (Supposedly the same state.) The History of Maine by Williamson, Vol. II, p. 554 says, "A. D. 1792. Limington, hitherto called Ossipee plantation, was incorporated Feb. 9, when it contained about 670 inhabitants. It was settled about 1773." This would indicate that in 1790, when Obadiah Irish and Mary Deane married and moved to Ossipee, it was probably what we now know as Limington, Maine.

‡Note 2: Polly⁴ Irish, b. 1797, d. 1854. married John Warren b. 1788, d. 1844. Their oldest child, Martha, married her cousin Dominicus⁵ Irish, son of Asa and Patience (Rankins) Irish.
