KOLLOCK GENEALOGY.

I. 1. JACOB KOLLOCK was born 1657,* but where is unknown. His wife's Christian name was Mary. The first reference to Jacob Kollock in Sussex County, Delaware, is at the March Term of the Court of Common Pleas for that County, 1689, where he applied for a grant of land which was granted.† He is sometimes styled "Cooper" and sometimes "Merchant." He was quite a large landholder, both in Sussex County and also in Philadelphia, as appears from the records at both places.‡ He was executor of Jacob

“THE LOST OFFICERS.

SKETCHES OF THE BRAVE MEN WHO WENT DOWN ON THE AMERICAN VESSELS.

WASHINGTON, March 30.

Captain Cornelius M. Schoonmacher, commander of the Vandalia, who was drowned, was a New Yorker, and was born February 2, 1839. He was appointed an acting midshipman at the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, on September 28, 1854, and graduated as midshipman June 9, 1859. He served in the squadron on the west coast of Africa in 1859–60, and from May to September, 1861, was on the steam frigate Minnesota, bearing the flag of Flag Officer S. H. Stringham, which participated in the fights with Forts Hatteras and Clarke and captured them. He was sailing-master of the Minnesota in August, when about 700 prisoners were taken. He was promoted to lieutenant on August 31, 1861, and was detached from the Minnesota in September. From November, 1861, to July, 1863, he was executive officer of the gunboat Wyandotte, of the South Atlantic Blockading Squadron, and from October, 1862, to March, 1864, held the same position on the steamer Octorara—one year in Rear-Admiral Wilkes' Flying Squadron and the rest of the time in the West Gulf Blockading Squadron, blockading off Mobile Bar. He was then transferred to the monitor Manhattan and was her executive officer from May to September, 1864. While on board this vessel he participated in the passing of the forts in Mobile Bay, in the fight with and capture of the iron-clad steamer Tennessee and other Confederate gunboats and the capture of Forts Morgan and Gaines on August 14, 1864. From September to December, 1864, he was executive officer of the gunboat Augusta, convoying Aspinwall steamers, and in March, 1865, he was ordered as executive officer of the Catskill, Charleston Harbor. In June, 1865, he was ordered as navigator of the steamer Juniata, at Port Royal, South Carolina, and sailed for the Brazil Squadron. He served one year as navigator and another as executive officer.

On December 24, 1865, he was commissioned as lieutenant commander, and in October, 1867, was ordered as navigator of the steam frigate Piscataqua, afterwards called the Delaware, bearing the flag of Rear-Admiral S. C. Rowan. They joined the Atlantic Squadron, and upon the arrival at the station he became the executive officer, and held the position until the end of the cruise. He returned to New York in November, 1870, and from January to May, 1872, was in charge of torpedo instruction at Newport, R. I. From May, 1872, to September, 1873, he commanded the steamer Frolic, bearing the flag of Vice-Admiral Rowan, U.S.N. In May, 1873, he went to St. Johns, New Foundland, and received and conveyed to Washington the part of the crew of the Polaris taken from an ice floe. From September, 1873, to October, 1874, he was navigation officer at the Navy-Yard, New York. He was commissioned as commander February 14, 1873, and in December, 1874, was ordered to duty as inspector of the Eighth Light-house District, with headquarters at New Orleans. On October 7, 1886, he was commissioned as captain. He took charge of the Vandalia on April 5, 1888, succeeding Captain Henry L. Howison."

The Vandalia was lost in a hurricane in Apia harbor, Samoa, March 15, 1889.
