PREFACE.

FEW persons can have any adequate idea of the amount of labor which, during the last one hundred and twenty-five years has been expended upon this Family History. About 1765, Deacon Jeremiah Lane of Hampton Falls carefully prepared a genealogical chart, containing extensive records of that branch of the family with which he was connected. The diary of his brother, Deacon Samuel Lane of Stratham, contains much valuable information upon the family history.

In 1839 Deacon E. J. Lane of Dover, N. H., took up the work left by his grandfather and his great uncle. He visited many places, and with untiring perseverance continued, as he had opportunities, to collect records, for more than thirty years.* At length his advanced age, and impaired health compelled him, with deep regret, to relinquish the idea of completing the volume as he had designed.

It was then placed in the hands of Rev. James P. Lane, who in 1869, entered upon it with great interest, and for more than twenty years continued, at much expense, collecting records of different Lane families in New England. Some of the valuable results of his labors were published in the New England Historic Genealogical Register for 1888, and in pamphlets published at different times. But his professional duties in his pulpit and in his parish, and his failing health, compelled him to leave the work unfinished at his death, in January, 1889.

* In April, 1873, Deacon Lane furnished for the N. E. Historical Genealogical Register an abstract of the descendants of William Lane, his ancestor, for four generations, covering five pages of that volume, which awakened much interest in the family history.

At the family meeting for the dedication of the granite monument in Hampton, the home of their ancestor, William Lane, and the birthplace of many of his descendants, George W. Lane of Salem, Mass., Rev. John W. Lane of North Hadley, Mass., Dr. Edward B. Lane of Roxbury, Mass., Rev. James H. Fitts of South Newmarket, N. H., and Rev. Jacob Chapman of Exeter, N. H., were chosen a committee to resume the work commenced so long ago, to gather up the fragments of our family history, that nothing be lost, to complete another monument of different material, a portable and a permanent monument, that every one who values the Lane blood in his veins may know whence it came, and be able to derive some moral and spiritual help from the examples of good men who being dead yet speak to all who value the lessons of the past, and are able to profit by the experience of those who have gone before us.

We wish to preserve in our homes the records of our ancestors, not that we may worship their manes, but that we may cherish in our hearts any valuable traits we have inherited from them, and avoid, if possible, any of the faults and follies into which they may have fallen.

Nearly two years ago, the manuscript of Deacon E. J. Lane and Rev. James P. Lane were placed in my hands; and the best part of my time since, has been spent in correcting and confirming these, and in enlarging the work by adding many families unknown to these writers. In this important and somewhat perplexing work I have had the valuable assistance of Rev. James H. Fitts, by his antiquarian researches well known as a careful student and an accurate writer, to whom we are indebted for the records of the Candia family with which he is connected, and the Chester family, descended from John Lane^d, who removed from Rye and settled in that place.

It was our intention to include in this volume the descendants of William Lane of Dorchester, Mass., of Job and James Lane of Malden and others of the name; but the manuscript grew to such a size that it was decided to make two volumes. This first to include the family of William of Boston, John of York and John of Fishersfield, N. H., leaving the records of the other families in the hands of Mr. Fitts to be completed at some future period.

We are indebted to many for aid in preparing this volume: Rev.

M. T. Runnels, in the History of Sanbornton ; B. Chase in the History of Chester ; Levi E. Lane of Hampton Falls, who inherits some of the talents of his ancestor, Deacon Jeremiah Lane ; the late Joseph Cram of Deerfield ; J. J. Lane of West Epping and others whose names and assistance are mentioned in the following pages.

Since many have so long anxiously waited for this volume, three members of the committee, (the first two and last) have assumed the pecuniary responsibility of publishing it. They believe many more of the family will order copies of it, when it is ready for delivery and will recommend it to others, who ought to know whence they came as well as whither they are going. They ask no donations ; but that persons connected with the family, will aid in circulating a volume, the sales of which will never return one half of the cost of preparing and publishing it. The number of copies is limited, and there will be no second edition. When those who may have ordered the volume are supplied, it is expected that the price will be higher.

Like my departed friends who commenced and continued this work so long, I have given my labor without expecting any compensation but the satisfaction of perpetuating the memory of good men, most of whom have gone to their reward, and the hope that the examples here exhibited may aid many in future generations to prove themselves worthy descendants of an honored ancestry. It has seemed, however, necessary to give a few specimens of Lane character, in the sketches of Dea. E. J. Lane, his father, Jabez, and several others, that the readers may be aided in obtaining a correct view of some family characteristics, that have descended from early generations, that perhaps have induced so many churches and societies to elect their deacons and treasurers from the Lane family. One of them who was very tall, is said to have spoken of himself as "The long Lane that has no turning." But usually they have been slow to speak of themselves, and have left their works to praise them.

JACOB CHAPMAN.

EXPLANATIONS.

1. Names of Towns in New Hampshire are not often followed by N. H., the initials of the State.

2. When several children are born in the same place, the name of the town is given with the first, and not repeated with the name of each child.

3. Dates before 1752 are in Old Style ; and when double dates are given, from January 1st to March 25th, I use the last figures to indicate the Historical in preference to the Civil and Ecclesiastical year, which began March 25th. When during that period only one date is found, the year is uncertain, and in different records a different year may be named.

4. Abbreviations : abt., about ; ae., aged ; b., born ; bapt., baptized ; ch., children, or church ; d., died ; dau., daughter ; m., married ; unm., unmarried ; rem., removed ; res., resided, or residence ; s., son ; w., wife ; s. p., (sine prole) without issue.

5. The small index figure at the right of a name denotes the generation of the person, dating from William Lane¹ of Boston.

6. Families are numbered in order, and large figures, at the left of a name, refer to the number of the family, on pages following.

7. The children of a family are numbered by Roman numerals, I, II, III, &c. These numbers are not always in the same order as their births. The grandchildren are numbered by Arabic figures, 1, 2, 3, &c. The great grandchildren by figures as 1), 2), 3), &c.

8. The names of children that died young are often omitted in the index.

9. Passages enclosed in brackets with an interrogation point []? are doubtful.

10. In spelling I usually follow the briefest and latest form, spelling the names among the earlier generations as I suppose they wrote their names.

11. I would gladly have given more extensive notices of many families and of more prominent and useful individuals ; but have been compelled to condense and abridge the materials in my hands, in order to bring the expense of the work within the limits of the funds within my control.

William Lane of Boston, 1650,

AND DESCENDANTS.

AMONG the early settlers of New England, there were at least a dozen named Lane.

About 1635, John Mason sent to the Province of New Hampshire thirty men and twenty-two women. Among the eight persons called Stewards was Sampson Lane. About 1650, he lived at Piscataqua and was agent for Capt. John Mason.

In 1648, September 23, Ambrose Lane, merchant of Strawberry Bank, bought eight acres of John Crowther. On the 22d of March, 1649, "Ambrose Lane of Teignmouth, Devon County, England, living of late in New England," left an estate in the hands of Sampson Lane, probably while he was gone to England. June 7, 1651, Ambrose Lane of Strawberry Bank sold to Jn. Jackson eight acres of land and Ambrose Lane, Jr., signed as witness. In 1693, Thomas Lane of Great Island signed a petition that the Island be made a township separate from Portsmouth. In 1651, October 20, Ambrose Lane, Brian Pendleton and Henry Sherburne were appointed for one year associates with Capt. Thos. Wiggin, "to keep one court in a year at Strawberry Banke," &c.

In June 17, 1656, Ambrose Lane was dead, and his widow, Olive Lane, was administratrix, by his will. It is supposed she and her son, Ambrose Lane, Jr., returned to England.

"At that period the name Lane was common in England, Scotland and Wales. It may have been derived from the French word Laine—wool, applied to a class of wool growers."

Edmund Layn of Dover, N. H., trader, made a will, on the 13th of September, 1739, naming his wife Jane, but no child.

There was a tradition that William Lane of Boston and two brothers, cordwainers in Beverly or Gloucester, Mass., and in Maine, were nephews of William Lane of Dorchester, Mass., who in 1635, came from Norfolk County, England, whose two adult sons, Andrew and George, settled in Hingham, Mass.

William of Boston may have been connected with Job, James and Edward Lane, from Yorkshire, England, who settled in Billerica (now Bedford), in Malden and in Gloucester, Mass., and in Falmouth (now Portland), Me. But the connection is not traced.

"Some records might be harmonized if William Lane¹ were residing in Hartford, Ct., where he had a son, Samuel, b. 8 August, 1648, and visiting in Lynn in 1651. [See Hist. Gen. Reg. XII. 196]. He was made freeman 6 May, 1657. His wife, Mary, member of first ch. in Boston (probably from England), died 22d May, 1656; and he was married (2) 21st August, 1656, by Richard Bellingham, Deputy Governor, to Mary (dau. of Thos.) Brewer of Roxbury, Mass. Her father, Goodman Brewer, in 1642 resided in Ipswich, removed afterward to Roxbury, and died at the home of his son-in-law, Thomas Webster, in Hampton, 3 Mar., 1689-90."

A few days before his death he called to his bedside a son eight years old to receive his dying counsel, "to be kind to his mother, brothers and sisters, to be a good child, to pray to God and to teach his younger sister to pray." "The calmness and composure with which he spake, made a deep and lasting impression upon the child." Even at that early age, he felt that to die as his father died was very different from what it was to die without hope; and he felt even then that he was not prepared to die. His widow, who had lived with him 27 years, survived him 26 years, faithfully caring for the large family, the youngest only 5 yrs. old. [See Note VI, Appendix.]

About 1869 Rev. J. P. Lane became interested in the Genealogy of Wm. Lane of Boston and Descendants. The extensive records of Dea. E. J. Lane, collected with much labor, were placed in his hands, and we cherished the hope that he would be able to complete and publish the volume upon which the writer had spent so much labor. He succeeded in tracing in Connecticut, the descendants of Samuel Lane², half brother of William², of Hampton; and he supposed that he had found in Capt. John of York Co., Me., another son of William Lane¹, of Boston. We have no reliable evidence that he was mistaken. In deference, however, to tradition, I placed the records of that family, by themselves, in the second part of this volume.

William Lane² of Hampton on 20 Feb., 1689, signed a petition to the governor and council of Massachusetts Bay, "That they may enjoy government and protection as formerly."

He was one of the soldiers of Hampton, impressed, and he served at Oyster River, from 20 Aug. to 12 Nov., 1694.

Between 14 Nov., 1695, and 8 Apr., 1696, he was a soldier, one month in the garrison at Exeter, and received £1, 4s. On 29 Oct., 1696, he "was allowed 6 shillings for garrison duty at Daniel Tilton's." In Oct., 1698, he was allowed 12s. for serving two weeks in the garrison; and 12s. for two weeks' service as a scout under Captain J. Davis in 1712.

NOTE II.

[From the MSS. of Dea. E. J. Lane of Dover, abridged and completed.]

"Deacon Joshua Lane³ was a good man, governed in all his conduct by the love and the fear of God and good will to men. He was just in his dealings, generous to the poor, kind and compassionate to the sick and the afflicted, rejoicing with those who rejoiced and weeping with those who wept. So he gained the love and the respect of all. He had clear views of the great plan of salvation, of the depravity of man, of his own unworthiness and of the need of being born again. He trusted in the Son Jesus Christ, and the power of the Holy Spirit to renew and sanctify his soul. He was eminently devout, a man of prayer, not only in the social meeting, but in the family and in the closet. He was a constant attendant at public worship, and made diligent use of the means of grace, daily studying the Bible and meditating upon its instructions. As a father he was affectionate yet faithful, thus securing the love and the respect of his children, and a numerous posterity seemed to inherit his faith and his piety, and rose up to call him blessed."

Joshua Lane³ died at a time when there was no minister in the parish, and at his burial his son, Deacon Jeremiah, wrote and read a funeral discourse called "A Memorial and Tear of Lamentation." It was printed for the benefit of his descendants eighty-two of whom were living at the date of his death. This has been reprinted, and on 15 Aug., 1889, an expensive granite monument erected over his grave, was dedicated to the memory of the early members of the Lane family.

Bathsheba (Robie) wife of Deacon Joshua Lane, was an active, intelligent Christian woman, an excellent mother, efficiently aiding her husband in training up their children to habits of industry, sobriety and morality. Her grandfather, Samuel Robie, was born at Castle Dunington, the family seat in Yorkshire, England, 12 Feb., 1619, and he came to America as early as 1639.

At the ordination of Rev. James Miltimore in Stratham, Jan., 1786, the eight sons of Deacon Joshua Lane met at the house of their elder brother, Deacon Samuel Lane, who was then sixty-eight years old, and Josiah, the youngest brother was forty-eight years old.

The sisters of Deacon Joshua Lane³ deserve more notice. Sarah, who d. in Rye, Jan., 1776, aged 87, left two children. Ten years after her death, her husband, William Berry, a farmer of Rye, being quite aged, in his will, dated, 21 Aug., 1786, named first a son Jeremiah and a grandson Levi Berry, a second daughter, Mary Hobbs, and her son, Jonathan Hobbs, whom he appointed executor of the will which was proved 18 Oct., 1786.

The second sister Elizabeth, married 12 Oct., 1714, Elias, son of Elias and Martha Critchet of Lamperiel in Dover, now Durham, from whom he inherited much land.

I have not yet obtained any further information respecting the third sister, Abigail, who married John Vittum.

NOTE III.

Deacon Samuel Lane⁴ removed in June, 1741, from Hampton to Stratham, where he continued the business of a tanner and shoe-maker, and purchased first "a piece of wet land, on the east of the stream, then three acres of dry land, on the opposite side, where he built a house. He afterward bought eighty acres and added the business of farming to that of a mechanic. He was often called away from home to survey lands. The township of Bow and several others were surveyed by him. He was elected selectman in 1751, and for several years afterward was justice of the peace. He was a member of the Provincial Assembly in 1766, and from 1774 onward, was town clerk. When seventeen years of age he united with the Congregational church and drew up certain rules to govern his conduct as a Christian, to which he firmly adhered through life. On 4 July, 1765, he was elected deacon, and held the office till 28 May, 1800, when he was chosen elder, which office he held till his death, 29 Dec., 1806, "displaying an exemplary Christian character, and enjoying that respect which his consistent life obtained from his fellow citizens." He was deputy from Stratham to the Fourth Provincial Congress at Exeter, 17 May, 1775. Deacon Samuel Lane⁴ was peculiarly happy in his family relations. His first wife, Mary (James), the mother of his eight children, though feeble in health, lived with him twenty-seven years, a kipld companion and a good mother. Five years after her death, he married Mrs. Rachel (Parsons), widow of Gideon Colcord, who survived him for a few years. She was an excellent Christian woman, and though she had the care of seven fatherless children by her first husband, she took a deep interest in training the children of her second husband, so that his children and grandchildren long cherished the memory of her discreet and faithful care of them, and her affectionate interest in their welfare. She died 18 Jan., 1813, aged 87 years.

Deacon Lane was a great lover of good books and collected a large library, which was especially rich in the department of theology. His systematic plan of devoting two hours a day to study, enabled him to become familiar with the best writers of the age, and qualified him to be useful in the affairs of the government and the church.

NOTE IV ON NO. 6, V.

[BY J. H. FITTS.]

Joshua Lane⁴ was a man of sterling integrity and unsullied Christian character. He was careful in keeping the Sabbath, and regular in observing family worship and the public worship of the Sabbath. His horse, Jack, developed a remarkable habit of attending church. On the morning of the Sabbath, if not taken up from the stall or the pasture he would sometimes find his way to the accustomed hitching post by the meeting house, leaving the family, if tardy, to come on foot. This horse, Jack, used to draw in winter the firewood for the year from the woods to the farm house. When the folks at the house had unloaded the sled, he would return, if told, to the woods where his master was cutting another load for him, patiently hauling wood six days, but on Sunday he knew enough to go to meeting.

A somewhat apocryphal story is related of Mr. Lane, whose Sabbath began at sunset, Saturday evening. It is said he once commenced shaving, shortly before this time, but when he had finished half his face he was interrupted by callers, and the sun went down before he could return to this work, and that he laid aside the razor and appeared at church, on the Sabbath, in his half shaven face.

THE CLARK FAMILIES

Were numerous among the early settlers of New England. Twenty-five of the name are found in the Genealogical Dictionary before the year 1700. One hundred and four of the name graduated at Union College, at Princeton, and at the New England Colleges before 1826, and twenty-eight of them became ministers of the gospel. John Clarke, son of a ship carpenter in Haverhill, Mass., settled in Stratham on a farm, where his grandson, Benjamin³, was living in 1826.

One of his sons, Joseph, b. in Stratham, May, 1719, was a cooper, and owned lots in Sanbornton. He m. Deborah, (dau. of Jonth.) Taylor of Hampton, b. Oct., 1718, and d. in Stratham. Three of his sons, Nicholas³, b. 1745, John³, b. 1749, and Joseph³, b. 1752, settled in Sanbornton, the latter, who m. in 1777, Bathsheba Lane, settled on one of his father's lots in what is now Franklin, where he d. 25 June, 1810, æ. 58. His cousin, Benjamin³, inherited the homestead in Stratham, and was the father of Hon. Daniel⁴, U. S. Senator from New Hampshire, and Hon. David J. Clark, who graduated at Dartmouth College, 1836, and was a lawyer, partner with his brother in Manchester, where he d. 3 Sept., 1866.

Hon. James Clark of Sanbornton, 1784-1861, was a prominent citizen, justice of the peace, a distinguished surveyor and "lot layer" for many years. He was President of the New Hampshire State Senate in 1836, having previously been clerk of the House of Representatives, also register of probate for Merrimac County from 1839 to 1843. For a generation he was well known all over the state for his general intelligence and readiness to communicate information, both in matters pertaining to his own business and on more general practical and scientific questions. He was especially versed in the history of that part of the state and became an acknowledged authority. He drew up several papers upon the archæology and the Indian history of the Winnipisiogee valley and kindred topics, some of which were published, and others remaining among his surveying papers, have proved of real service to recent investigators.

NOTE VI ON NO. 18, VIII.

From the obituary notice of Jabez Lane, written by his near neighbor, Hon. Paine Wingate. After referring to his early opportunities for Christian culture he says :

"These opportunities were not neglected by him, even in his youth, but by constant diligence and attention he became distinguished for his knowledge and sobriety. He shunned youthful vices, was a pattern of industry and honesty, was inoffensive and benevolent. Thereby he secured the friendship and esteem of those acquainted with him, and who knew how to appreciate those amiable virtues. In early life, he was not indifferent to the requirement of that knowledge which fitted him for the management of his domestic concerns and for usefulness as a member of society; but he considered religious knowledge as most important. To that he paid particular attention and became a good proficient therein. He embraced no external form of religion for fashion's sake, nor prematurely conceived his religious opinions. He read and examined for himself, and constantly attended the public ministration of the word and other means of spiritual edification, and from a serious view of his own mind, he resolved openly to profess that religion which he was persuaded to be divine, and which he humbly trusted had operated in him a regenerating change through the influences of the Divine Spirit. And he has since lived an ornament to his Christian profession. He was charitable towards those who differed from him in circumstantialia of religion, wherever they appeared to love Jesus Christ in sincerity, but he continued to the last to retain that system of Christian doctrine and that mode of worship denominated Congregational, of which he made a profession. His opinions were the result of serious and diligent inquiry, therefore he was not given to change. * * *

"In his domestic relations he was an example worthy of our esteem and imitation. He excelled in filial piety, conjugal affection and parental care. His household was watched over, instructed and managed with unusual assiduity and regularity, even to the minutest concerns. As a neighbor he was ever ready to friendly offices, and when occasion required he shunned not to perform the most difficult part of the duty of a friend, a neighbor and a Christian, to admonish, to counsel and with meekness endeavor to reclaim those who were deviating from the path of rectitude. In his charities to the needy and distressed, except on public occasions, when he was sufficiently liberal, he studiously avoided ostentation, but they will be gratefully remembered by many who have experienced his seasonable and bountiful relief. He was too honest and too wise to court popularity by flattering the vices of men, and did not through ambition aspire to offices of distinction, but when called upon to perform any official duty, he failed not to discharge it with ability and fidelity.

"As he had lived in the habitual exercise of Christian graces, and in the diligent cultivation of the Christian temper, and having while in health, set his house in order, when he was visited with his last sickness, he had little more to do than to trim his lamp and patiently wait for the moment of his departure. * * * From the first approach of his illness he expressed an entire resignation to the divine will. He bore his maladies, which were sometimes distressing, with patience. As his bodily weakness increased and he viewed death approaching, his faith and hope were in lively exercise and afforded him consolation and support in the moment of dissolution. In the most peaceful manner, in the enjoyment of his reason to the last, he fell asleep, and we have abundant reason to believe that he rests from his labors and his works will follow him. If we consider the character of the deceased, in its various relations, from his youth to his grave, we shall seldom find one in the private walks of life more deserving of our esteem and imitation."

John Lane⁵ (Josh.⁴, Josh.³, Wm.²), 1750-1823, b. at Poplin, 24 Oct., 1750, [O. S.] m. 30 Nov., 1775, Hannah Godfrey, b. in Poplin, 19 Nov., 1755, dau. of Joseph and Susanna Morrill Godfrey. The farm of Hon. Ezekiel Godfrey and his son, Esq. Joseph was the best one in the neighborhood. Esq. Joseph did the most town business and was the richest man in town. The Lanes and the Godfreys lived on adjoining farms, and John and Hannah were intimately associated from childhood. They settled in Candia in 1775, on a farm about one mile from the village on the North Road. He also carried on the business of a cabinet maker and land surveyor, and used a compass box and tripod of his own manufacture. He regularly maintained family devotions, and was a constant attendant and supporter of public worship. He furnished soldiers supplies, 1778, £188, and took an active part in town affairs as moderator, selectman, representative for fourteen successive years, 1806 to 1820. He died while about making his will, 12 Mar., 1823, at the age of 73 yrs.

Hannah Godfrey Lane was characterized by marked intelligence and common sense, great sweetness of temper and cheerful Christian grace. Owing to conscientious doubts respecting the rite of baptism, she did not make a public profession of religion till 1838, in the eighty-third year of her age, when she united with the Congregational church. She survived her husband many years, having her home with her son, Deacon Ezekiel Lane on the place where she had passed her wedded life. For some time previous to her death she lost, in a large degree, the use of her faculties and became as helpless as a child. Her mind wandered amid the scenes of early years; she imagined herself away from home and longed to go to her father's house. She d. 15 Oct., 1845, in the ninetieth year of her age. Eleven children.

John Stearns, 1762-1843, was a son of Rev. Josiah Stearns and uncle of Rev. Josiah H. Stearns, D.D., descendants from Isaac Stearns who came from England with Governor John Winthrop in 1630. Parson Stearns was a high patriot. Returning home from a state convention in Exeter, he called his children together, told them he had pledged himself for freedom against British tyranny, and added: "If the cause prevail it will be a great blessing to the country; but if it should fail your poor old father's head will soon be a button for a halter." — New Hampshire Churchs.

A memorial of John Stearns, the son, to the general assembly, shows that he enlisted as a soldier in the service of the state in 1779, and prays that the depreciation in his pay may be made up.

Prof. Chadwick's sketch of this worthy couple in the "Suncook Valley Times," 1869, says:

"Theirs was an early marriage, when he was twenty-one and she eighteen. Losing his own mother when he was four and a half years old ; entering the Revolutionary army when he was sixteen, a boy of moderate size, marching with New Hampshire veterans, from near the Piscataqua to the Hudson, enduring all the perils and hardships of a frontier campaign in the darkest period of the war ; a minister's tender son evincing the patriotism that burned in the bosom of a minister and child, in those days that tried men's souls ; coming home from camp and pitching his tent so early in the wilderness of New Hampshire ; moving from Pittsfield to Deerfield when he was thirty-nine and his brave wife less than thirty-six, with nine young children from sixteen years down to three months, with the rapid addition of three more to be reared in the paths of virtue, religion and usefulness ; living together to see seventy-eight children of the next generation and many of the fourth ; going with their household for miles to meeting every Sabbath day as punctually as the Sabbath came, and always in good season ; becoming a teacher of the oldest Bible class in the Sabbath school long after 'the grinders had ceased because they were few, and they that look out of the windows' had become dim. Surely that noble pair did not eat the bread of idleness, nor sail to the skies 'on flowery beds of ease.' "

Hon. George W. Crocket (s. of John, gr. s. of Mary Lane), b. in Sanbornton, 1789. When fifteen years old he entered Salisbury Academy, Ichabod Bartlett, afterwards M. C., preceptor, but left on account of ill health ; commenced mercantile business in Durham, subsequently removed to Portsmouth, and after 1820 resided in Boston till his death in 1859.

In 1843 he was a common councilman, in 1847 representative to the Legislature, in 1849 senator from Suffolk County, Mass. In 1853 he was a member of the convention for revising the Constitution of the state. In 1850 he was the first president of the Bank of North America ; was one of the founders of the Boston Academy of Music, which was organized at his house. In a notice of his death, the Boston "Journal" said, "Mr. Crocket through his long and active life, belonged emphatically to that circle of princely merchants and solid men which for years has given character to our city and formed a conservative element in our midst. * * * He was a man of remarkable integrity and high minded purposes, and secured the confidence of every one."

His second child, Martha Jane Crocket, member of the Bowdoin Street church choir (b. in Portsmouth, 1817, d. 13 July, 1833), evinced great precocity in the department of music, and was a favorite pupil of Lowell Mason, who at her death composed as a tribute to her memory, the tune "Mount Vernon," and Rev. F. Smith, D.D., the lines sung to it, commencing,

"Sister, thou wast mild and lovely. Gentle as the summer breeze, Pleasant as the air of evening when it floats among the trees," etc.

Charles Lane⁶ (Jabez⁵, Sam'l⁴, Josh.³, Wm.²), b. 27 Nov., 1796, went to Newmarket (Newfields) in 1817, was one of the entering class of the Methodist Seminary there, which was afterward transferred to Wilbraham, Mass., and was the last survivor of that class. He d. in Stratham, 27 Oct., 1884, ae. 87 yrs., 11 mos. When a student he occupied a room with a young man who afterward became the famous sailors' preacher, Father Taylor, who at that time needed the aid of his room-mate to read his letters and write answers to them.

Mr. Lane began business as a tanner and shoemaker in Newfields (now South Newmarket village) and continued for about fifty years. As business increased he employed journeymen and apprentices, and from selling shoes and leather proceeded to sell groceries and dry goods. So it became necessary to erect a larger building which he occupied for several years. It has since been occupied by his son-in-law, J. C. Hanson. When the population of the town increased, he built houses for rent and for sale. He became one of the most useful and reliable citizens of the place, filling with ability and faithfulness the various offices to which he was chosen. Being firm and decided in his convictions of duty, and faithful in its performance, he had the respect and esteem of the entire community.

He was, before he united with it in 1849, one of the chief supporters of the Congregational church, and his life was consistent with his profession. His charity began at home, but went out in aid of missions both home and foreign. When his youngest son, who had devoted himself to the work of the ministry, died just as he had completed his course of study at Andover Theological Seminary, Mr. Lane gave to that institution five hundred dollars to found a memorial scholarship.

In November, 1867, when past seventy years of age, he closed his business at South Newmarket and returned to the ancestral home in Stratham, where he passed the last years of his life in quiet retirement, but always active and useful in some occupation till his health and strength failed, and he was compelled to relinquish the cares of this life and patiently wait for the summons to enter the world beyond the grave. His death was on 27 Oct., 1884, ae. 87 yrs., 11 mos.

NOTE XI ON No. 47, VIII.

[BY REV. J. P. LANE.]

Deacon Edmund J. Lane, b. in Stratham, 1802, was from 1825 to 1831 a teacher in Durham, and united with the Congregational church there in 1827. He then took charge of a school in Dover, but on 1 Feb., 1832, he bought the book store of Eli French, in Dover, and for many years continued the bookbinding business with the book trade.

In July, 1832, he united with the First church, and in December, 1838, was chosen deacon, which office he held 46 years, till his death in 1884. From Mar., 1853, he was 14 years clerk of the parish, and from Mar., 1840, he was for 16 years one of the wardens of the parish. They raised by subscription and paid, quarterly, the minister and parish expenses. He was connected with the Sabbath school, and for 14 years superintendent or treasurer.

In 1854, with his associated deacon, he visited and held religious conversation with every member of the church. For 30 years, to 1868, he was treasurer of Strafford County Conference of Churches, receiving donations from the churches and paying the money to various benevolent societies, and reporting the same at the annual meetings.

He was honored by his fellow citizens, not only in church, but in civil trusts. He was selectman, representative to the General Court, an alderman of the city, for 11 years city treasurer, and from May, 1871, to his death a trustee of the Savings Bank of Strafford County. He was never robust, but in advanced age suffered from disease of the heart, and died 28 Feb., 1884, in the 82d year of his age.

From a memorial discourse by his pastor, Rev. G. B. Spalding, D. D., we give the following tribute :

"Beyond most men that I have ever known, Deacon Lane could say, 'For me to live is Christ,'—not in a boastful spirit, nor out of any spiritual conceit, but out of his conscious sense of Christ's presence with him and his determination to bring his whole life, his very self into conformity to his character. And yet, it is the last thing that we can think of him as saying. His extreme modesty, his shrinking self-reserve, his profound humility would surely have kept him from any such spoken words. But, nevertheless, it was apparent to all, even to those who knew him least, that here was a man whose earnest, unswerving aim was to be a true Christian. And to a wonderful degree, he reached his aim.

"Religion was in his life. It was his life. It came to be his nature. Wherever the world found him, it found him an honest man ; and the world felt it and gladly confessed it. In all the years of my acquaintance with him, I never heard a man, woman or child say aught against his integrity, his truthfulness, his severe honesty. * * * Yet here was a man who stood in the front of action, in the very glare of life,—a business man, keenly alive to all its varied interests,—a citizen who took an active part in every movement of the community. He was a man of earnest convictions, of positive opinions, and when need be, of strong, unmistakable utterance. Was it that this man, like every other good, strong man, had had his days when malice shot at him, and rivalry and hatred sought to foul the fairness of his name? Was it that with the long life that heaven in kindness gave him he was enabled to weary out the persisting of evil speaking? Did rancor and envy and uncharitableness which pursue to their graves many short lived men, fall away from the long pathway of this man's life as if overcome by the length of the chase?

"Doubtless it was a blessed thing for his reputation that his years were so many. But it was the inherent goodness in him, the sterling beauties of his character, the unsullied probity of his entire living that enabled him to ally to himself so strong an element as this of time. The long years which reveal the hidden rottenness of so many well-seeming lives, and topple to the dust so many stately reputations, served this good man mightily, in so establishing his truthful qualities before the world, that the world came, at last, to accept him as genuine and unalterable, and so joined in the chorus of his praise. It has been a great thing for religion, a great thing for the churches of Christ, that this man, through half a century of inflexible honesty, of unchallenged righteousness of living has lived into a gainsaying generation a respect for the Christian name, and a faith in the genuineness of a Christian profession! For let me say, as one who knew this man, the principle of his integrity was Christ,—the rock-bed of this massive honesty which you all unite in honoring rested upon the Rock of Ages. Naught save a Christian faith enabled him to carry out even what may have been the natural righteousness in him into all departments of his life with such a superb consistency and fulness.

"But his integrity was not his single virtue. For him, to live was Christ; and so from that affluent source he drank in and poured out other graces, as beautiful as this one was strong. He was not simply a righteous man crowned with splendid honesty, but he was a good man, carrying in his hand the sceptre of love. He was tender in his feelings, swift and warm in his sympathies, kind and gentle in his speech, faithful, yet loving in his reproofs and unwearied in his benefactions. He was always giving. To objects that were large and public in interest, he gave largely; while to those incessant appeals, which in small ways are made upon every generous man in a community, his hand was always open. No worthy solicitation was ever made in vain to him. No poor were ever turned away from the door of his home, or the desk in his store, with a sad heart and an empty hand. What a useful life. * * * What a work for the church he did ! He loved it. How it lived in his thoughts and breathed in his prayers ! * * * What a happy life ! He had caught the secret of happiness. He was content with his lot in life ; glad wherein he was called to abide with God. He once wrote. ' If I can hear the Master say, ' Well done good and faithful servant, you have been faithful in a few things, enter thou into the joy of thy Lord,' I shall be satisfied.' With a joy, as though his eyes had caught the upper splendor, he ceased to breathe. His prayer was answered. He heard the "Well done," and he is forevermore satisfied."

Dea. Lane left upon record the following tribute to the memory of his wife Elizabeth Barker Lane, who died of consumption four years after marriage, aged 40 years :

"She bore her sufferings with the patience and fortitude becoming a Christian ; made arrangements for her departure with great composure,—took affectionate leave of her family, committing them and herself to God, then calmly waited, without one murmuring word, till her change should come. She slept in Jesus. She was kind and benevolent to the poor,—an affectionate friend, a prudent and industrious manager of her household,—devoted to the interests of her husband, sympathized with him in his trials, watched over him in his sickness, and by kindness, in a thousand nameless acts of attention, [contributed to his comfort.] He conferred with her, on all important business transactions, with the full assurance that his confidence was not misplaced."

Of her sister, his second wife, who d. Jan., 1870, it is said, "She was a good wife and mother, a kind and generous neighbor and friend, and an active, intelligent and laborious worker in the church and parish. Her end was peaceful."

NOTE XII ON NO. 67, IX.

[By Levi E. Lane of Hampton Falls, N. H.]

George G. Lane, my brother, had certain peculiar gifts that are not granted to other people. He is described in the Popular Science Monthly ; (the No. for May, 1884), and the question is asked, "Is he an idiot?"

His forehead was fully and finely developed,—his occiput rose in a high point ; but on each side there was a deep depression. His head would have been, phrenologically speaking, well formed ; save for these depressions, at the back part.

His education was limited to a knowledge of the names of the letters ; but he was never able to combine them into words or syllables. He could count as far as five or six ; but became confused when he went beyond that number. And yet, in certain directions, his mathematical powers were really wonderful. If you named to him any year, past or future, he would without waiting a moment tell you the Dominical letter of that year. Strangers would oft-times tell him the date of their birth, and he would at once, tell them what the day of the week was ; and also what day of the week their birthday would come in any future year.

There seemed to be no limit to his power in this one line of thought.

He appeared to go through no process of calculation ; but grasped the result at once, as by some inward power of apprehension.

His literary preference seemed to be for almanacs, often having three or four which he studied and compared.

He took a great interest in books and papers, spending much time in perusing them, apparently with much pleasure.

He did not hold the book or paper with the columns perpendicular, as others do ; but turned them to a horizontal position and read from right to left. If he commenced to read, when it was growing dark, and became interested, he would continue his reading till hardly any thing in the room could be distinguished by others. He kept the old papers on file in the attic ; and if any one wishing to see a paper would tell him the name and the date of the paper, he would get it as well in the darkest night as in the day time. If he could avoid it, he would never touch any sharp edged tool ; and he was never known to touch a lighted lamp or meddle with the fire.

Martha, the mother of Elias Critchet, Jr., in 1730 a widow, residing at Oyster River, now Dover, was a daughter of John Goddard, and received from her own father, lands in various places, which after the death of her three husbands she distributed by deeds to her children and grandchildren by her different husbands. In Feb., 1743-4, her son, Elias Critchet of Durham, shipwright, conveyed lands to his son, John Critchet of Durham, joiner, and in Dec., 1746, lands, adjoining the same, to his son, James Critchet of Durham, cordwainer.

As I find no further notice of their mother Elizabeth (Lane) Critchet. I conclude she may have died when her children were young.

PART SECOND.

The Buxton Lane Family.

DESCENDED FROM CAPT. JOHN LANE.

It has been supposed that Captain John Lane was the son of William Lane¹ of Boston, [see p. 9] b. 5 Feb., 1653-4. In 1674 a John Lane, cordwainer, was a citizen of Boston; and in Mar., 1675, John Lane was a soldier in King Philip's war, under Captain Poole, of the same company in which Samuel Lane² (Wm.¹) served under Captain Turner in 1676. In Nov., 1692, when he married in Newbury, Mass., he was Mr. John Lane. Ten years later he is called Captain John Lane and so afterwards. "In 1699, Dec. 10, John Lane of Newbury gave a deed of land to John Frost of the Isles of Shoals" (J. Kelly). About 1708 "Captain Lane is mentioned among the brave men of the garrison." [See History of Wells and Kennebunk.] He afterwards served as captain in the Province of Maine, and in 1717 was commander at Fort Mary, Winter Harbor, near Biddeford, at the mouth of the Saco River, where he d. and was buried about 1720.

NOTE A.—Joshua Lane⁴ (Jabez³, Jn.², Jn.¹), 1782-1860, of Buxton, Me., often said in the hearing of his son, Joshua C. Lane⁵, "My great-grandfather, Capt. John Lane¹, came over the water and two brothers with him." "He married Joanna Davidson, and was commander of Fort Mary, Winter Harbor, Me."

Capt. Jabez Lane³, grandson of Capt. John¹, of Buxton, b. 1742, said to his grandson, Stephen P. (s. of John) Lane, "We were Jersey men. His son said the Lane families were descended from three brothers, John, William and Jabez Lane, from England, who were stationed at the Pool in Biddeford, officers in the British service, and that one of them was buried there, over whose grave the stone was standing," (about 1832).

Folsom (in Hist. of Saco, p. 204) says, "Captain John Lane¹ was in 1717 commander of Fort Mary, Winter Harbor, where he died not long after," and that, "He was b. in Limerick, Ireland, and emigrated to New England while a young man. Before his military appointment he had settled at Hampton, N. H., and married Johannah Davinson, Nov., 1693; it appears by the records that they had quite a family."

In a note dated "Buxton, 21 May, 1890," Miss Mehitable Lane says, "To be sure there are a good many facts which seem to add strength to the probability that the First John Lane (of York Co.,) was half brother to William², the ancestor of the Hampton family, e. g. the name Samuel, elder brother of William² and Jabez, have been handed down in our families of Lanes to the present time. But yet there is some doubt with us, as uniform tradition says, "John Lane, eldest son of John Lane of Limerick Co., Ireland, * * * came to America and commanded the fort at the mouth of Saco River, near the Pool." Notwithstanding it may be probable that the families were connected, as neither of them can be traced so near to any other. If William¹ was the father of John, of York County. The iron chest brought over by the first emigrant (and containing the coat of arms), which was left in Boston and could never be found, belonged to William¹." M. W. LANE.

Some have supposed that Captain John Lane's name was originally MacLane, and that after leaving Limerick in Ireland he dropped the first syllable, "Mac," in his name, as some others have done. But we have no satisfactory proof that he did so. Among various notices of John Lane in old records I find that, "At Portsmouth, 14 Jan., 1702-3, Mrs. Jane Shirburne complained to the Council Board against Mr. John Lane of Hampton, for not paying the rent of her house, beds, &c., and endeavoring to wrong her. The trial was appointed the next Monday at ten o'clock."

But as I did not find any records of the trial, or of the decision of the council in the case, it may have been settled without coming before them. "At Georgetown, Me., 12 Aug., 1717, several Indian sachems asked that Captain Lane, or some other person be chosen to deal with them in the room of one in whom they had lost confidence."

J. C.

No. I.

CAPTAIN JOHN LANE¹ of Newbury, Hampton and York Co., Me., and his w. JOANNA (DAVINSON), had:

I. ABIGAIL², b. in Newbury, Mass., 15 Aug., 1693.

(2) II. JOHN², b. in Hampton, 1 Mar., 1701-2. He entered military service early, under his father, was a lieutenant and at the death of his father became captain. He served in various places in Maine, and became famous in fighting the Indians. In a report to Lieutenant Governor Dummer, dated York, 21 Apr., 1724, Col. Thomas Westbrook says, with regret, that "Lieutenant John Lane has been so imprudent as to suffer his men to kill sundry creatures belonging to the people of the County of York. He did not deny the fact, and made satisfaction to the people." He m., about 1733, MARY (dau. of Peter) NOWELL of York, Me., and had 5 ch. [N. E. Hist. Gen. Reg. XLV, p. 130.] [See Note B.]

III. LIVING², b. in Newbury, 13 Nov., 1704. He is supposed to have had a family and res. in Massachusetts, but I have been unable to trace any families to a connection with him. Others may hereafter be more successful.

IV. MARY², b. 5 Feb., [1702]?

V. And probably JABEZ² and other children whose names are lost.

NOTE B.—Captain John Lane², b. in Hampton, N. H., 1702, led an adventurous life. His three sons John³, Daniel³, and Jabez³, were "splendid looking men, possessed of great physical powers and personal bravery." They inherited the military spirit of their father, and each of them became a captain in the Revolutionary War. He lived at York, Biddeford, Broad Bay, St. George, &c. In the French war that commenced in 1744, the Indians burned his house, and "he enlisted a company under Col. Harmon and met them in the battle at Norridgewock "[?] "When the province granted bounties for scalps, he was out all the winter of 1744-5, after the St. John Indians." He was captain of a company in the expedition against Louisburg, under Sir William Pepperill, and after the surrender was mustered out in June, 1745. He was soon after taken sick, sent to Boston, and was unable to serve again till Apr., 1746, when he was given command of a company on the eastern frontier, but he suffered a relapse and did not recover for many months, being at his home in York, with his wife and three small children, suffering from sickness and poverty so that, in Feb., 1748, he received 7 pounds from the General Court, and again in April, 1749, the Legislature voted 5 pounds for his relief, and on 7 Dec., 1749, 4 pounds. In the next war against the French and Indians, he was at Boston in April, 1756, with a company of Biddeford men and served in the expedition against Crown Point. But a return of this company, dated 11 Oct., 1756, reports Captain John Lane, Sr., as dead, and the command as devolving upon his son, John Lane, Jr. It is supposed he died in the service of his country, at the age of 54, and was buried not far from Crown Point, Essex Co., N. Y.

He was at the capture of Quebec, and his account of it is printed. He was also for some time a prisoner among the Indians. [See Note D.]

(6) V. CAPTAIN JABEZ³, b. in Wiscasset, Me., 21 Sept., 1743, d. at Buxton, 30 Apr., 1830. [See Note E.] He res. in Buxton, one mile from the Lower Corner, on a farm, often engaged in "lumber operations." He m. 27 Aug., 1772, SARAH (dau. of Joshua) WOODMAN, who had 10 ch., and d. 11 Mar., 1825.

The three sons of Captain John Lane were captains in the Revolutionary Army and did faithful service in many places outside of New England, and suffered many hardships. Afterwards they were leading men among the early settlers of Buxton, and active in the duties of citizens, as the town records show.

NOTE C.—Capt. John Lane³ (Jn.², Jn.¹), 1734–1822, at the age of 20 years, was 2d Lieut. under his father, at Fort Halifax, on the Kennebec. In April, 1756, then a cordwanier, of Biddeford, he was commissioned 1st Lieut. under his father, in Col. J. Dwight's regiment, and upon the death of his father, near Crown Point, July, 1756, he was returned as Captain of the company. In October, 1756, was a proprietor of Narraganset, No. 1, (now Buxton). With other inhabitants, he petitioned Gov. Francis Bernard, and the General Court of Massachusetts, for relief from taxes. In 1764 their petition was granted, on account of their poverty, caused by the Indian war of 1759, and the fire of 1762. By the will of his father-in-law, Wm. Hancock, he became the executor, and settled the estate. The minor sons, John, Isaac and William Hancock, received bequests of real estate. In the Spring of 1775, he petitioned the Provincial Congress, at Watertown, Mass., and was appointed captain of 120 men, who were, for 8 months, stationed at Cape Ann Harbor, and was sent, commissioner to the Penobscot Indians, who were on the point of joining the British, but they were induced to send their chief, Orono, and other delegates, with him, to Cambridge and to ratify a treaty with the colonies. In 1776, he was in the campaign in Rhode Island and in New York. After the Revolution, he returned to Buxton, where he remained a prominent and useful citizen, living to the age of 88 years.

"In 1775, a company under Capt. John Lane had been enstationed all summer somewhere on the Cape for the defence of the seacoast, but it does not appear to have engaged in the affair against Capt. Lindsay of the ship "Falconer" in his attack upon Gloucester, August 8th. In September this company was supplied with wood and barracks by the town. It suffered in some degree from the non-payment of wages, but in November was allowed to draw clothing from the public stores. In the latter part of the summer the people of Gloucester commenced privateering."—John J. Babson.

NOTE D.—Capt. Daniel Lane³ (Jn.², Jn.¹), 1740-1811, at the age of 16, enlisted on the 11th of October, 1756, in the company commanded by his father, which was sent to Crown Point, his brother John Lane³ being lieutenant. In 1759, when 19 years of age, he was the only soldier from Narraganset, No. 1, at the siege of Quebec, under Gen. James Wolfe. His journal, from July 8 to Dec. 14, 1759, was published in the N. E. Historic Genealogical Register for 1872 (pp. 236-243). In 1761, his journal from May 19 to Dec. 29, shows that he aided in erecting the fortifications at Halifax, N. S. In May and June, 1762, he was enlisting soldiers and arresting deserters, in Maine and Massachusetts. In November, 1776, he enlisted in the Army of the Revolution, and in 1777 was taken prisoner near Fort Edward, N. Y. He was stripped of his clothing and his watch, and carried to the headquarters of Gen. Burgoyne, who released him upon parole, writing for him a memorandum, dated August 9, 1777, which enabled him to pass the lines, on his way home. It is carefully preserved by his family. On Jan. 1, 1780, he was discharged, and returned to care for his large family in Buxton. The journal he wrote during the Revolution is deposited with the collection of the Maine Historical Society, at Brunswick, Me.

NOTE E.—Capt. Jabez Lane³ (Jn.², Jn.¹), 1743-1830. His name in 1754, appears on the roll of his father's company, "as a son under age, not 12 years. The muster roll of Capt. Jabez Lane's³ company is dated 1 Jan., 1777, and he served through most of the Revolutionary War. In early youth his taste for military affairs was cultivated in the company which his father commanded at Crown Point, where his eldest brother John, was Lieutenant at the age of 20, and his brother Daniel a private at the age of 16. Col. Isaac Lane once met a Southern gentleman, in Washington, D. C., who said that his father, an officer in the Revolutionary Army at the South, once fought a duel with a Capt. Lane from the East. That "it was at a dinner given by the officers, that when they had become excited over their wine, his father said something derogatory to the Yankees, and Capt. Lane slapped him in the face, and a challenge followed. Capt. Lane was wounded in the side, and his father in the leg. Col. Isaac concluded, if it was either of the three Buxton captains, it must have been Capt. Jabez³, for neither of the others would have kept it secret so long. After his return to Maine, one Saturday afternoon, when Capt. Jabez³ and "a goodly number of citizens were met at his store, drinking rum and molasses, telling stories, swapping horses, etc., Col. Isaac related the story of the duel. Capt. Jabez³ at the close of the story, removed his clothes and showed the scar, left by the wound, on his side." He was a quiet man and remained on the farm where he settled, in 1772, till his death in 1830.

He afterward was, for many years, a merchant, and in 1792 bought his father's claim to lands in the West. In the War of 1812 he commanded a regiment, in which his brother, Daniel, was a major. Their aged uncle Lieut. Moses Atkinson, left his home at Bar Mills, and went to their camp, north of Plattsburg, N. Y., anxious to engage again in conflict with his old enemies, the English. They were going into winter quarters, in Nov., 1813; Col. Daniel Lane, said, "My brother and I had a large tent for both of us. After pitching our tent, we laid down with a fire towards our feet. I lay between Lieut. Atkinson and my brother. We saw that he was covered with blankets and whatever we could spare. In the night I waked and stirred the fire. I turned to Lieut. Atkinson; he lay just as when he first laid down. I spoke to him, but got no answer. I shook him, and found he was cold, stiff and dead." In Jan., 1873, this Col. Daniel Lane was living with his son-in-law, Mr. Bingham, at Newtonville, Mass.

(4) IV. DENNIS³, b. in Barre, Vt., 10 Feb., 1818, d. 29 Mar., 1888. He was early distinguished by the industry and ingenuity which brought him into public notice as a skilful inventor of valuable machinery. In his boyhood Dennis gave evidence of unusual taste and talent for invention. By the cultivation and development of this talent he became widely known as a successful inventor of useful machinery. About 1858, while operating his saw mill, he conceived the idea of a machine for setting logs in position for successive cuts of the circular saw. "The Lane Patent Lever-set Saw Mill, now in general use, is the result of his studies." To meet the demand for this article he bought the foundry and machine shop in Montpelier, Vt., and in a few years the Lane Manufacturing Co. was organized, which continues his business and perpetuates his memory. He was elected to various offices in Plainfield and in Montpelier, a director of the savings bank, an extensive owner of real estate, largely engaged in the lumber business, in Lanesboro. At Plainfield he engaged in cutting and in manufacturing lumber, which he continued through most of his life; but in Montpelier his company made not only Lane's Patent Circular Saw Mills, Saw Mill Set Works, but shingle and clapboard machines, planing machines, etc. He was kind to the poor and pitiful to the afflicted, and will long be remembered by many who shared in his benefactions. REMARKS.

No one can be more sensible of the defects and the errors in this volume than the writer, who has given so much time and labor to the preparation of it. I insert a list of omissions and errors which I have already discovered; and I hope that persons receiving the book will take the trouble to correct with a pen these errors on the pages where they are found. Persons finding other errors in this volume are requested to correct the same, and if they are important, to inform the editor. Some names sent him are written so carelessly that one has to guess at the names of the letters in them. Among the many thousands of names, dates, etc., he has had no means of correcting but a very few. When two or three persons, sending him records, give different names and different dates for the same person, or the same event, how is the editor to know which to correct? If he should undertake to visit the homes of the living and the graves of the dead, it would be an impossible task.
