COMPILER'S NOTE.

The following notes are published at this time, both to insure the preservation of material gathered at a very great cost of time and labor, and to excite among the members of this large and historically important family, an interest in the record of their race, by showing what has been accomplished by determined effort and foreshadowing what may be achieved if the numerous branches of the race will yield the information they have in keeping.

There is a vast fund of information which can be gathered, if the individual members of the family will contribute to the extent of the slight effort necessary from each.

The present compilation is almost exclusively confined to the vital statistics of the family, a desire not to unduly extend this work, having lead to the omission of the history of the achievements of the individual members.

There has been gathered, a great amount of material in addition to that herein presented, and a greatly extended work is in course of preparation and will be issued whenever the family interest appears sufficient to warrant the expense,

While thanks are due to many, for information and encouragement, it is only just to make special mention of the service rendered by Miss Asenath W. Cole of Warren, R. I. who, with the most unselfish generosity, placed at the disposal of the compiler, material for nearly two-thirds of the present volume and without whose assistance and encouragement this work would never have existed.

This is in reality her work and to her should be given whatever credit is due.

Those into whose hands this may fall are earnestly requested to communicate to the compiler, any information relating to the family history which they possess and may feel assured of hearty thanks and cordial reciprocation from the store which he has gathered.
