

GENEALOGICAL SKETCH

OF

OF

REINOLD AND MATTHEW MARVIN,

WHO CAME TO NEW ENGLAND IN 1635.

COMPILED FROM AUTHENTIC SOURCES,

BY T. R. MARVIN.

BOSTON :

☞ This pamphlet contains the names of the descendants of REINOLD MARVIN only ; it is intended to publish the names of the descendants of MATTHEW, at some future time.

T. R. M.

THE following Sketch is necessarily imperfect, from the fact that the records to make it complete are not within the reach of the compiler. It was originally commenced by him with the hope of tracing the direct line of his ancestry to the first emigrant to this country; in this he has been entirely successful. If those of the name will communicate to the compiler correct lists of their families, he will hereafter incorporate them in the Sketch, should he print another edition. Those interested are requested to forward him such an amount, from one to five dollars each, as they may feel disposed, and copies of the Sketch will be forwarded to them. The money contributed will be applied to the object of completing and printing the Genealogy, so far as practicable.

T. R. MARVIN,
24 CONGRESS STREET, BOSTON.

In some of the following records, there are apparent discrepancies, in regard to the ages of persons, arising from the fact that their birth was recorded for Old Style, and their death for New Style. The following remarks will shed light on the subject.

At the settlement of New England, the civil year of the English nation commenced on March 25, that is on "Lady Day," or day of the "Annunciation of the Virgin Mary," Luke i. 31, 35,—according to ecclesiastical tradition. Conformed to this arrangement of the beginning of the year, many of the dates of early transactions are made; but not in all cases, as the astronomical year generally, if not invariably, began with January 1.

In 1582, Pope Gregory XIII. made a correction in the Roman Calendar. He dropped ten days from the computation of that year. This amended Calendar, known as the Gregorian computation, or New Style, was speedily adopted in all the Catholic countries of the continent of Europe; but in England, and its American colonies, the Julian reckoning, (or Old Style,) was retained in law, till the middle of the last century. Then New Style, for which the people had long manifested their preference in practice, was legally established by Act of Parliament, which ordained, that it should commence and be observed throughout the British dominions from January 1, 1752. This Act, which was passed 1751, directed that from and after December 31, 1751, each year should be reckoned to begin with January 1, instead of March 25, as heretofore; that eleven days, to which the difference of the two styles had then accumulated, should be dropped from the calendar of 1752, by calling the natural day that should next follow Sept. 2, of that year, Sept. 14; and that the same expedient should be adopted for preventing the recurrence of that difference for the future, which had been provided by the decree of Gregory XIII. in 1582, viz.: by omitting the intercalary day three times in 400 years, (in 1700, 1800, and 1900.)

To bring Old Style into New Style, we should add TEN days, if the event occurred between Jan. 1, 1600, and Jan. 1, 1700,—and ELEVEN days if the event occurred between Jan. 1, 1700, and Jan. 1, 1752, this being the time when New Style commenced here.

GENEALOGICAL SKETCH.

THE first family by the name of MARVIN, who came to New England, consisted of two brothers, Reinold and Matthew, and one sister, Hannah. I have not been able to ascertain in what year Reinold came to New England. Matthew, and his family, came over from England in 1635, as will be seen by the following statement :

During the summer months of 1842, James Savage, Esq., of Boston, Mass., who was on a visit to England, was chiefly occupied with searching for materials to illustrate the early annals of New England. He was richly compensated for his toil. The result of his investigations was published in the 8th Vol. Mass. Hist. Coll., 3d series, under the title of "Gleanings for New England History." From this article I extract the following items:

"Perhaps the acquisition most valuable, in the opinion of our local antiquaries, is my copious extracts from a MS. volume in folio, at the Augmentation Office, (so called,) where the Rev. Joseph Hunter, one of the Record Commissioners, presides, in Rolls Court, Westminster Hall. It contains the names of persons, permitted to embark, at the port of London, after Christmas 1634, to the same period in the following year, kept generally in regular succession. This was found a few months since, and may not have been seen by more than two or three persons for two hundred years."

Under date of "15th April," 1635, is the following entry in the above named volume:—

"Theis parties hereafter expressed, are to be transported to New England, imbarqued in the Increase, Robert Lea, master, having taken the oath of allegiance and supremacy, as also being conformable, &c. whereof they brought testimony per certif. from the Justices and ministers where there abodes have lately been."

The following names are included in the list above referred to :

		Age.
" husbandman	Matthew Marvyn,	35 yrs.
uxor	Elizabeth Marvyn,	31
	Elizabeth Marvin,*	11
	Matthew Marvyn,	8
	Marie Marvyn,	6
	Sara Marvyn,	3
	Hanna Marvyn	$\frac{1}{2}$ "

The brothers Matthew and Reinold were among the original settlers of Hartford, Con., and both were proprietors of land in that ancient town.

MATTHEW resided on the corner of Village and Front streets, Hartford, for some years. He was among the pioneers in the settlement of Norwalk, which town he represented in the General Court in 1654. Matthew, his son, represented that town in 1694 and 1697; John in 1734 and 1738; and Samuel, his grandson, in 1718. He died at Norwalk, in 1680.

✓ REINOLD sold his land in Hartford and removed to Farmington, and was probably among the first settlers of that town. About 1648, he sold his property in Farm-

* In Mr. Savage's article, the age of Elizabeth is stated to be 31. This doubtless is an error—not of Mr. Savage, for he is proverbially correct in his dates, &c., but of the person who made the entry in the original MS. The age doubtless should be 11. For this correction, as well as for information in regard to the early movements of Reinold Marvin, I am indebted to Sylvester Judd, Esq. of Northampton. I am also under particular obligation to Mr. William S. Porter, of Farmington, for aid in my researches.

† This name is spelled in different ways—Reinold, Reinold, Renold, Reynold. I have used Reinold, in these records.

ington to John Warner. The property sold to Warner consisted of a homelot of five acres, a new house, and other lands, which are recorded at Farmington. This "was a prominent homelot, having Mr. Willis, of Hartford, on one side, and Mr. Hopkins on the other; it was on the west side of the main street." From Farmington he removed to that part of Saybrook which is now Lyme, where he died in 1662. He had two children, Reinold and Mary. His daughter Mary married William Waller of Saybrook; they had sons William, John, Samuel and Matthew. The early town records of Saybrook have been unfortunately destroyed by fire,—and the Farmington town records do not extend back farther than 1646; so that it is only by collateral evidence that some of the foregoing dates and conclusions have been arrived at. His will is recorded on the Colony Records, at Hartford, in which he directs that to each of his grandchildren, "there be provided and given a Bible as soon as they are capable of using them." The inventory of his estate amounted to over £800.

HANNAH married Francis Barnard, at Hartford, in 1644; and removed from thence to Hadley, Mass. She died in 1676.

✓ REINOLD MARVIN, (son of Reinold, preceding.) born about 1634. He is known on the town records as Lieutenant Reinold Marvin. He was one of a Committee appointed to divide the town of Saybrook, in the year 1665. That part of the town lying east of Connecticut river, was named Lyme, from Lyme Regis, in the south-west of England. Lieut. Marvin was a large landholder, and a prominent man in the town. He represented Lyme in the General Court in 1670, and from 1672 to 1676. He had three sons,—John, born 1664–5; Reinold, born 1669; and Samuel, born 1671. He died in 1676, aged 42 years. His remains were interred in the old burial-ground in Lyme village—grave about the centre of the burial-ground. The following is the inscription on his grave stone :

1 6 7 6 .

Lieut.

REINOLD MARVIN,

Aged 42.

His widow, Sarah Marvin, married Capt. Joseph Sill, Feb. 12, 1677-8. She was his second wife, and had children,—Joseph, born Jan. 6, 1678-9; and Zechariah, born June 1, 1682.—Captain Sill had formerly lived in Cambridge,—his first wife was Jemima Belcher, daughter of Andrew Belcher, by whom he had several children. He had distinguished himself in Philip's Indian war. He died Aug. 6, 1696, aged 60.

JOHN MARVIN,¹ first son of Lieutenant Reinold, born in Lyme, 1664-5, married Sarah Graham, daughter of Henry Graham, [or Grimes,] of Hartford, May 7, 1691; died Dec. 11, 1711, æt. 47. His wife died the relict of Richard Sears, in Lyme, Dec. 14, 1760, æt. 91. Their children were,—1. Sarah, who I suppose married a Lay, for her first husband, and for her second, Dea. Reinold Marvin, son of "Lyme's Captain" (see p. 13); 2. Mary; 3. John, born Aug. 9, 1698; 4. Elizabeth; 5. Joseph, born 1703; 6. Benjamin; 7. Mehitable; 8. Jemima.

Oct. 18,

The above inscription, as also that on the grave-stone of his first wife, was executed by an illiterate artist, and with bad spelling, and the effects of time, is now (1846) rather obscure. The following is the inscription on the grave-stone of his first wife:

HERE LIES THE BODY OF PHEBE MARVIN, WIFE OF
REINOLD MARVIN.
WHO DIED OCTOBER 21, 1707,
IN THE
31 YEAR OF HER AGE.

Her body only resting here,
Her soul is fled to a higher sphere.

On the tomb-stone of his second wife is the following inscription, which is well and correctly executed.

HERE LIES THE BODY OF MARTHA MARVIN, RELICT OF
CAPT. REINOLD MARVIN,
WHO DIED IN PEACE, IN HOPES OF A GLORIOUS RESURRECTION,
Nov. A. D. 1753,
IN THE 74TH YEAR OF HER AGE.

These three graves are in the north-east corner of the burying ground, none other of the name being near.

The children of "Lyme's Captain," are as follows:

1. Phebe, born Dec. 3, 1696; 2. Reinold, (Daniel, on the town records—I suppose he took his father's name, in preference to Daniel,) born Jan. 1701-2; 3. Lydia, born Jan. 12, 1703-4; 4. Esther, born April 3, 1707; 5. (by second wife,) Martha, born April 3, 1710; 6. Elisha, born Sept. 26, 1711, (died in childhood); 7. James, born May 26, 1713; 8. Sarah, born March 8, 1715-16; 9. Elisha, born March 8, 1717-18; 10. Miriam, born March, 1719-20, married Samuel Beckwith, Feb. 1, 1738-9. [Lyme, Con.]

REINOLD MARVIN, first son of Captain Reinold, was born Jan. 1701-2; died Feb. 24, 1761; married Mrs. Sarah Lay, (who I suppose was the daughter of John Marvin,) Dec. 23, 1725. His second wife was Mrs. Mary Kellogg, married July 7, 1746. He was known and spoken of as Deacon Marvin. His children were, 1. Reinold, born Oct. 23, 1726; 2. Phebe, born March 18, 1728-9; 3. Dan, born Jan. 2, 1731-2; 4. Lydia, born Sept. 14, 1733; 5. 6. twins, (by second wife,) Ann, and Eunice, born Sept. 30, 1748; 7. Esther, born Feb. 14, 1755; 8. Judith, born April 16, 1757. [Lyme, Con.]

A great many anecdotes are related concerning "Deacon Marvin,"—which have generally been attributed to "Captain Reinold." I am fully convinced, however, from my investigation of the matter, that they all belong to his son Reinold; both being Deacons, and both having the same Christian name, the mistake could easily be made. This son Reinold was unquestionably the poet who composed the epitaphs on his father's and mother's tomb-stones, and the odd genius of whom a multitude of anecdotes and queer sayings and rhymes, are still related;—the most of them are positively known to apply only to the son of Captain Reinold. An aged descendant of this Deacon, as also other aged persons now living in the vicinity, insist that this is the fact.

Mr. Barber, in his "Historical Collections of Connecticut," has published some of these anecdotes, and attributes them, probably from hearsay, to "Lyme's Captain." It is to be hoped that in future editions of his work, he will correct the mistake.

Reinold Marvin, first son of Deacon Reinold, was born Oct. 23, 1726, graduated at Yale College, 1748; studied law; resided in Litchfield. He left a daughter who married a Kirby.

Dan Marvin,¹ second son of Deacon Reinold, born Jan. 2, 1731, married Mrs. Mehitable Selden, Oct. 14, 1762; died Dec. 30, 1776, æt. 46. Their children were, 1. Reinold, born July 21, 1763, died Dec. 10, 1767; 2. Dan, born Oct. 15, 1765; 3. Reinold, born March 21, 1769; 4. Sarah, born Sept. 21, 1771, married Joel Pratt, of Saybrook; 5. Selden, born Nov. 24, 1773; 6. James, born May 16, 1776, died Nov. 6, 1779.

Richard-Pratt Marvin, son of Selden, born Dec. 23, 1803; married Isabella Newland, of Albany, N. Y. Sept. 1834. He was a Member of the 26th Congress. Is at this time (1848) one of the Judges of the Supreme Court of the State of New York. Children,—1. Selden-Erastus, born Aug. 20, 1835; 2. Sarah-Jane, born Oct. 18, 1836; 3. David-Newland, born Aug. 6, 1839; 4. Mary-Elizabeth, born July 3, 1841; 5. William, born Nov. 10, 1843; 6. Robert-Newland, born Oct. 13, 1845. [Resides, 1848, at Jamestown, Chautauque co. N. Y.]

William Marvin, son of Selden, born April, 1808. Is a District Judge in the U. S. Court for the District of Florida, and resides (1848) at Key West. He married Harriet N. Foote, of Cooperstown, N. Y. Oct. 15, 1846. She died March 30, 1848, leaving an infant daughter.

Died, at Key West, Florida, March 31st, Mrs. Harriette N. Marvin, wife of Hon. William Marvin, and second daughter of the late Judge Foote, of Cooperstown. This dispensation of an all-wise Providence throws the pall of grief over a large circle of acquaintances and friends. The peculiar loveliness of Mrs. Marvin's character endeared her to all with whom she was conversant; but in the domestic circle, and the unreserved intercourse of intimate friendship, the deep devotion of her self-sacrificing spirit was most conspicuous. As a daughter, a sister, a friend, to say that she was unsurpassed is but a feeble expression of the reality; as a wife, the heart of her bereaved husband only knew her worth. Mrs. Marvin endured a lingering and painful illness with unwavering patience. For weeks she viewed the approach of death with entire composure, and spoke of her departure from earth as she would have spoken of going to the home of her childhood; she knew in whom she had believed, and with joyful confidence committed into his hands not only her own spirit, but the beloved ones she was leaving. Grace triumphed over the struggles of nature, and her husband, her infant daughter and orphan sisters were given up to Him who has said, "I will never leave thee, nor forsake thee." When her lips could no longer utter the words of hope and love, when "flesh and heart were failing," after a look of intense affection at each one who stood at her bedside, she raised her eyes on high, and as they were fixed there, a smile of ineffable sweetness and holy peace illumined her countenance, and as "gently as night dews descend," she ceased to breathe. "And I heard a voice from heaven, saying unto me, Write, Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord."—New York Observer, July 1, 1848.

Sarah Marvin, daughter of Selden, born 1810; married 1st, Nelson Guile, in 1829, and 2d, Addison Lakor, in 1833. She died in 1839. Children,—1. Charlotte, born 1830; 2. Malvina, born 1834; 3. Henry-Marvin, born 1836; 4. Mary-Ann, born 1838.

“Departed this life, on Friday morning, in the forty-fifth year of his age, of the yellow fever, General Elihu Marvin, whose enlightened understanding, whose philanthropic heart, whose regular deportment and domestic virtues, distinguished his character. While society regret his loss as a citizen, all his acquaintances lament a friend. Though misfortune had shaded his life, it had not stained his integrity. He had improved by its painful instruction, and fell at a moment when prosperity was dawning upon him.”—Norwich Courier, Sept. 1798.

Sarah-Rogers Marvin, daughter of Elihu, married George-Washington Trott, June 24, 1806. She died Sept. 13, 1807. Their only child was Elihu-Marvin, born Aug. 30, 1807. — Elihu-Marvin Trott, son of George-W., married Mary Clark, May 17, 1832. Their children were,—1. Sarah-Elizabeth, born April 11, 1833; 2. Enoch-Marvin, born June 7, 1835; 3. Mary-Jane, born July 23, 1837; 4. John-Clark, born Dec. 21, 1839;

5. George-Washington, born March 2, 1842 ; 6. Martha, born June 4, 1844.

Catharine-Mather Marvin, daughter of Elihu, married Luther-Fraseur Dimmick, May 4, 1820. She died Dec. 8, 1844, at. 51 yrs. 10 m. 11 d. Their child, George-Marvin, born March 27, 1826, died March 31, 1826.

A Memoir of Mrs. Dimmick was published in 1846, more particularly designed for distribution among her personal friends. From a notice of this work written by a lady intimately acquainted with the subject of it, the following extract is taken.—“Those who were favored with an intimate acquaintance with her, need no additional inducements to lead them to an attentive perusal of this valuable work. To others it may be recommended as an exhibition of character, suited both to elevate the intellect, and improve the heart. . . . Endowed with a mind of a high order, which was improved by early mental discipline, and by judicious, persevering self-culture, she treasured up stores of varied knowledge, which she could use to advantage, either in conversation or in writing. . . .

“To the Christian, who wishes to learn more of the principles and of the practice of holy living, the consideration of an example like the one before us, cannot fail to be useful. The entire consecration of herself to God, at the commencement of her Christian life, and that solemn covenant with Jehovah, signed by her own hand ; He, with whom she was engaged in the transaction, being the only witness ; her frequent renewal of this covenant ; together with her oft repeated and deep self-scrutiny, her constant, confiding application to the Saviour for grace to help, reveal to the reader, the secret of her deadness to the world, and her likeness to Him, whose meat and drink it was to do the will of his Heavenly Father. Her religion was not merely contemplative and devotional ; it was also expansive, self-denying, and benevolent ; blessing her who gave, as well as those who received. After having made progress in the divine life for several years, she writes in her journal,—‘ I feel, that for my own benefit, I must be employed in some definite exertions for the promotion of Christ’s kingdom. This, and this alone, will bring into exercise the affections, the Christian sympathies, the whole train of Christian graces, which the gospel requires, and afford the desired evidence, that the possessor is an heir of Heaven.’ This principle was carried out in her life. While thus consecrated and heavenly in her spirit, she devoted the time and the thought necessary to the proper arrangement of household affairs ; and with her own industry, skill, and dexterity, accomplished a great amount of that kind of labor which is required for the health and comfort of the body. Yet she did all heartily, as unto the Lord, and kept her mind set on things above."

"Died, at Granville, Massachusetts, November 26, Captain William Noyes Marvin, aged sixty. A tribute to the memory of departed excellence is not only alleviating to sorrow, but promotive of virtue and the best feelings of the human heart. The eye reposes with chastened delight on the lineaments of a character which was honorable to our nature; and while tears flow and the solemn sound of mourning is heard in the family and friendly circle, justice to the dead demands a token of friendship commemorative of his virtues, and as a word of condolence to the afflicted connections.

"The subject of this notice was the youngest of a numerous and respectable family, and being left in early life with an ample patrimony, was enabled to listen to the promptings of a generous mind and a heart overflowing with the purest and most expanded benevolence. His yielding spirit was awake to the calls of indigence. Less mindful of the advancement of his own personal interest than the wants of the needy, his hand was open; his substance was free; his house was the home of the destitute, and the objects of penury and distress always found a refuge and an asylum under his hospitable roof. Capt. Marvin was an officer in the war with Great Britain of 1812, and sustained its emergencies with gallantry and credit. He was an agreeable and social companion; popular among his townsmen, and was repeatedly called by their suffrages to fill various offices in town affairs, the duties of which he discharged with efficiency and to the acceptance of his fellow citizens. No man possessed higher notions of honor and honesty, or was more devoted to the principles of truth and justice. His friendship was sincere and general, and in the various avocations of life he manifested an unyielding integrity, a contempt of every thing mean and dishonorable, and a constant aim to do to others as he would that they should do to him. To all who have had intercourse with the deceased, his memory will be cherished; and his tomb will be visited with the unfeigned outpourings of a bereaved community."—Hartford (Conn.) Courant, December, 1845.

Mary Marvin, daughter of William-Noyes Marvin, married Ammi Filley, 1831. Their son William, born in 1832, was lost among the Indians, an interesting account of which, and his recovery, prepared by a gentleman in Granville, Mass. was published in the newspapers of the day, and is here subjoined.

In 1835, Mr. Ammi Filley, of Windsor, Conn., having in 1831, married a daughter of Capt. William Marvin, of Granville, Mass., removed with his family to the town of Jackson, in the State of Michigan. In this town, then a wilderness, he located himself, and by his industry, economy and perseverance, he soon found himself in possession of a productive and profitable farm, and by the accession of settlers, the town from an uncultivated desert, became a flourishing and populous village. Although in the vicinity of numerous hordes of savages, and often visited by wandering families of the natives with whom the citizens occasionally traded, yet no hostility was ever manifested, all was peace and quietness, and every thing conspired to render their abode pleasant and happy.

On the 31 of August, 1837, his little son, then a child of five years old, went out to a swamp in the vicinity of their dwelling with a hired girl to gather whorleberries. The swamp was in the direction from Mr. Filley's to the dwelling of a Mr. Mount, the father of the girl, whither they expected to go to spend the night, and the scene of their amusement was about a mile from the house of the former and some twenty or thirty rods from the dwelling of the latter.

Having satisfied himself with picking berries, the child discovered a desire to return, whereupon the girl conducted him to the road and placed him in the direction to the house of Mr.

Mount, not doubting, as the house was in plain view, and only a few rods distant, but the little fellow would reach it in perfect safety. The girl returned to the swamp, and after completing her supply of fruit, went home to the house of her father, and found to her astonishment, as well as that of the family, that William had not arrived. Notice was immediately communicated to the parents and an alarm given through the settlement, and the whole population rushed at once to the assistance of the almost distracted family. Day and night, for weeks, witnessed the praiseworthy exertions of his neighbors, and the whole country in every direction to an extent of more than twenty miles, was searched with untiring vigilance. — Every stream of water and pond was examined and dragged, and every rod of ground scrutinized for many successive days, and no trace could be discovered of the absent child. As an inducement to continue the search, notice of the event was published in the papers, and Mr. Filley offered a reward of two hundred dollars for a recovery of the child, either dead or alive.

As suspicions were entertained that foul play had been practised by the Indians, inquiries were made of the different tribes and families in the vicinity, and pecuniary offers tendered to their chiefs and head men, and Mr. Filley himself traversed for months, the wilds of Michigan, Wisconsin and Iowa, but his efforts proved ineffectual; no discovery could be made and no tidings received, and he returned to his heart-broken family with the sad conclusion that their little William was lost!

For seven long years this stricken family endured the agony of an affliction which seldom falls to the lot of humanity to experience. “Months of vanity and wearisome nights were appointed to them.” If the shaft of death had smitten down their first-born while under their fostering care, and they had seen him laid in the grave of their own churchyard, time would have tempered their grief and mitigated the anguish of their bereavement, but the painful suspense, the awful uncertainty that hung over his fate, was an abiding sorrow which time could not soften and earth had no balm to heal. As time rolled on, hope became more and more extinguished, but William was not forgotten. The mournful event, with its aggravating circumstances, was a corroding canker upon every comfort of the family—a fatal disease seized the mother and she sunk into an untimely grave.

Since the decease of his wife, Mr. Filley has visited Connecticut, the place of his nativity, and while here, by a mysterious course of events beyond the comprehension of human wisdom to fathom, his long lost child has appeared and been restored to his fond embraces.

It seems that the lad before reaching the house of Mr. Mount, was overtaken and kidnapped by a band of Indians, who in their wanderings, happened to pass that way at that time. In this family he lived, and traveled with them in all their migratory movements from the time he was captured until the autumn of 1843. About this time, this family visited Albany, N. Y., and while there this white child was discovered among them.

The Municipal Authorities of the city becoming acquainted with the circumstance, at once caused their arrest, and took measures to compel them to disclose the means by which they became possessed of the child. They were alternately flattered and threatened, but no disclosure could be obtained. They manifested their native obstinacy and resolved to submit to any punishment rather than make any communication by which the paternity of the child could be ascertained. They were therefore discharged, the child retained, and very humanely placed in their Orphan Asylum.

Subsequently, in the Spring of 1844, Mr. L. Cowles, of Tolland, Mass., being in want of a boy in his family, was recommended to this place, and was furnished with this lad, whom he brought home with him to his residence in Tolland.

In the month of December last, by a series of events unequivocally bespeaking the intervention of Divine benevolence, the facts that transpired at Albany in relation to this boy, came to the knowledge of the Rev. Dr. Cooley of Granville. The Doctor having frequently heard the circumstances under which the child was lost, immediately communicated the intelligence he had obtained to Mr. Marvin, the grandfather of the child, and he made known the tidings to Mr. Filley, who was then with his friends in Connecticut.

From the knowledge thus obtained, Mr. Filley was prompted to call without delay on Mr. Cowles, and examine the child,—although time and exposure had changed his countenance and somewhat obliterated his youthful features, yet in his personal appearance he found a correct counterpart of the other members of his family. His size, his age, the complexion of his eyes and hair, and all his prominent characteristics, resembled those of his child, and upon appealing to a known scar upon his head and an indubitable mark in the hair of his head, his identity was plainly recognized, and with emotions of unspeakable joy he pressed to his bosom his long lost Son.

From the story of the boy, it appears he has constantly continued in the same family, consisting of four Indians, Paul Pye and Phebe Ann Pye his wife, Martha Ann Pye their daughter, and Thomas Williams, who seemed to be an inmate in the family. They adopted him as their son, and he was taught and believed that Paul and Phebe were his parents, and Martha his sister. He supposed himself an Indian boy, and was not aware of any difference of complexion or distinction of nation until his deliverance at Albany. It seems he felt an instinctive repugnance to their manners, and attempted once or twice to run away, in consequence of which they cut off one of his toes, by which means they could more readily reclaim him by his track. He has an indistinct recollection of attending school, but when or where, he knows not. This seems to be the only remaining fact in his memory that he can recognize as having transpired prior to his capture, and he does not seem to associate this with any other fact indicative of his home, except that he did not go to school with Indians.

The first place which he remembers to have visited was Green Bay, of the scenery of which he gives a faint, though correct description. In traveling to that place they probably either went or returned by water, as he remembers sailing in a steam boat. He was compelled to accompany them in all their migrations, and was used as a mendicant to beg clothes at the white settlements through which they passed, and furnish the family with food when their indolence prevented their obtaining it in any other way.

In the summer they made their periprinations back and forth through the States of Michigan and New York, and sometimes visiting Connecticut, and at one period encamped themselves for several weeks in Stonington. In the winter they generally quartered themselves in wigwams in the vicinity of some village, and lived on small game, such as rabbits, skunks, and bullfrogs, the latter of which they deemed a sumptuous repast.

Occasionally they made a few baskets and taught the trade to the boy, and also instructed him into the art and mystery of bartering the commodity for whiskey.

He recollects living near Detroit, Utica, B. othertown, Catskill and Hudson, and several months at Hillsdale, N. Y.

In all their rambles, in summer and winter, he traveled barefoot, suffering in winter from the cold, and at all times from hunger and fatigue. His little Indian sister was his only solace, and like a second Pocahontas, her tender assiduities contributed essentially to render his captivity endurable.

Although he cannot recognize his new friends, he rejoices in the felicity of a civilized and permanent home, and all parties feel a grateful sense of the kindness of the Author of all good for this marvellous display of his benevolence in "redeeming us from our enemies, for his mercy endureth forever." c. s.

Mrs. Abby-Marvin Delavan, wife of Edward C. Delavan, (see p. 10,) died June 19, 1848. The following obituary of Mrs. Delavan, is copied from the New York Observer :

Died, at her residence in Ballston, on the 19th June, Mrs. Abby, wife of Edward C. Delavan, Esq., in the 48th year of her age. Mrs. D. was naturally amiable, and became highly educated and truly pious. Placed in affluent circumstances, and with large opportunities, she devoted herself assiduously, meekly and conscientiously to doing good. In her family and in society she was singularly useful, and few individuals, it is believed, could have died more universally lamented. She fell suddenly, and with but a few hours' warning, but safely, as we trust, through the merits of that Redeemer in whom she believed and strove to honor. Her reward we have no doubt, is in heaven; and her bereaved and anguished relatives can derive adequate consolation from no other quarter. She was buried in the beautiful Albany Cemetery, and a large concourse of neighbors and friends testified their respect for the living and the dead, by following her remains to their distant grave.—N. Y. Observer, July 1, 1848.

Uriah Marvin, first son of Benjamin Marvin, (mentioned on p. 8,) died at Albany, N. Y., November 24, 1848, aged 78 years.

FAMILY OF RICHARD MATHER.

As a number of the families of MARVIN, have for their common ancestor the Rev. RICHARD MATHER, one of the early Fathers of New England, I have thought proper to give the following sketch of the MATHERS, so far as they stand in connection with the MARVINS.

RICHARD MATHER, the progenitor of all the Mathers in New England, was born in 1596, at the village of Lowton, in the parish of Winwick, two miles from Warrington, in Lancashire, Eng. His parents, Thomas and Margaret Mather, were of ancient families in that village, but in reduced circumstances; his grandfather was John Mather, who also resided in some part of Lancashire. So great was his proficiency in his studies at Winwick School, that in 1611, at the early age of fifteen, he was invited to take charge of a public school at Toxteth Park, near Liverpool. During his residence at Toxteth, he suffered for some time great anxiety and distress of mind, which the knowledge of his own character as a sinner produced, but in his eighteenth year he found peace and joy in the gospel of the Redeemer. Having spent seven years as an instructor, and fitted several scholars for the University, he removed there himself, and was entered a student of Brazen Nose College, May 9, 1618, at the age of twenty-two. But he had been here but a few months before he was invited by the people of Toxteth to return and become their minister. This invitation he accepted, preached his first sermon Nov. 30, 1618, and was soon after ordained by Dr. Morton, Bishop of Chester. He married for his first wife Catharine Holt, daughter of Edmund Holt, Esq. of Bury, Eng. His second wife was the widow of the famous John Cotton. After his marriage in 1624, he removed his habitation to Much-Woolton, three miles from Toxteth, but continued to preach at Toxteth. Having thus spent fifteen years, he was suspended from his ministry in August, 1633, for Nonconformity to the ceremonies, but in November following was restored through the intercession of some gentlemen in Lancashire. This restored liberty, however, continued not long; for in 1634, Neal, Archbishop of York, sent his visitors into Lancashire, who suspended Mr. Mather again, chiefly for not wearing the surplice. Being thus silenced, and seeing no chance of resuming his ministry, and apprehending further persecution, he meditated a removal to New England; and he was confirmed in this purpose by urgent letters received from Cotton and Hooker. He embarked at Bristol, Eng. in May, 1635, and arrived at Boston the 17th of August following. He remained for some months in Boston, and was admitted to the church there Oct. 25, 1635, with his wife, and Daniel Maud, his fellow-passenger. He immediately received invitations to settle at Plymouth, Roxbury, and Dorchester. By the advice of his friends Cotton and Hooker, he chose the last place, where a new church was formed Aug. 23, 1636, (the former church, with its pastor, Mr. Warham, having removed to Windsor, in Connecticut,) and he was ordained their teacher. Here he spent the remainder of his days, and died April 22 1669, in the seventy-third year of his age, and was buried in Dorchester burying-ground. Of six sons, all by his first wife, four, Samuel, Timothy, Nathaniel, and Joseph, were born in England, and two, Eleazar and Increase, in New England. Four of them were settled in the ministry,—Eleazar at Northampton, in Massachusetts; Samuel at Dublin, in Ireland; Nathaniel at Barnstable in Devonshire, at Rotterdam in Holland, and in London; and Increase, President of Harvard College and father of Cotton Mather, in Boston.

Richard Mather had begun a Memoir of himself, which he had brought down to the thirty-ninth year of his age, being the year in which he came to New England, but left it unfinished. It was never printed, and is probably lost. Mr. Mather was a leading mind among the men of his generation in New England. He assisted Mr. Eliot and Mr. Welde in 1640, in making the New England version of the Psalms. The model of Church Discipline, which he presented to the Synod of 1648, was the one which was chiefly adopted in the preparation of the Cambridge Platform, in preference to those prepared by Mr. Cotton and Mr. Partridge.—One of the Public Grammar Schools of Boston, situated in that part of the city which was formerly Dorchester Neck, is called the Mather School, in honor of this patriarch.

Mr. Mather kept a Journal on his voyage to New England, which has been preserved. Mr. Young, the able editor and compiler of the "Chronicles of Massachusetts," to whom I am indebted for a great part of the preceding sketch of the life of Richard Mather, says, "The MS. of the preceding Journal, which is now printed for the first time, was discovered in Dorchester in November, 1844, in a box of old papers, which had not been examined for twenty-five years. The manuscript, which is the original, in the handwriting of the author, is in excellent condition, considering its age, 211 years."
