FOREWORD AND HISTORICAL SKETCH

The main purpose of this book is that the records so diligently gathered by Charles Mather should not be lost but may be of service to posterity. To these have been added what further information time and the means at hand permitted me to secure and the whole is presented in the hope that it will form a basis, at least, upon which any particular branch of the family may work. The publication has been accomplished through the generosity of Lewis J. Levick, Esq., of Philadelphia.

The name Mather appears to be derived from the Anglo-Saxon word "Maed," which in different genders has the meanings "honor, rank, a cutting of grass."

One of the earliest records we have of the family is the purchase of the Manor of Ible in Derbyshire, by Henry Mather, from Sir George Vernon, in 1565. A pedigree in this connection, without dates, mentions numerous Mathers with given names of Samuel, Benjamin, Hannah, Joseph, Thomas, Mary and Elizabeth, mostly all of Derbyshire, but very familiar names to those who trace the family in this country.

According to Burke, the Mathers were seated at Toxteth Park during the reign of Elizabeth, and we find deeds of land bearing the name of Richard Mather, of Bedford, in Lancashire, in 1618 and 1628. He was the son of Hugh Mather, and had brothers Hugh, James, Thomas and John.

In Besse's "Sufferings of the People Called Quakers," there appear many Mathers who suffered for their "conscience sake," from 1660 to 1683, one, in fact, dying in prison.

As our family is sprung from Lancashire we are interested particularly in Richard Mather, who was taken out of a religious meeting, February 10th, 1660, for refusing to swear, and committed to Lancaster Goal. A similar thing happened to him on June 16th, 1661. For attending a meeting at the house of Thomas Sale, at Bury, June 20th, 1665, he was sent again to Lancaster Goal, and on January 19th, 1684, was once more committed for meeting "In the fear of God, to worship him in Spirit and in Truth. They rejoiced greatly and sang praises that they were thought worthy to suffer for his Name's sake." As our first known ancestor, Joseph Mather, came from this section, was a Friend, and named a son Richard, it is possible that the above named was his father. It is also striking that the name Richard appears most in every generation of the family down to the present day.

Foreword and Historical Sketch

The New England Mathers are descended from the Rev. Richard Mather, who came from Lowton, Winwick Parish, Lancashire, England, in 1635. He was born there in 1596, was the son of Thomas and Margaret Mather and the grandson of John Mather, all of Lowton.

The earliest record of a Mather, written "le Madour," in Winwick Parish is a Writ dated 1417, from the Risley Charters, which mentions Mathew and Richard Mather of Culceth. The registry of wills records the disposal of considerable property belonging to Mathers in this parish. Thus John Mather with a son Richard and brothers Nicholas and James; will dated 22nd April 1601. Symound Mather and wife Alice; will dated 12th November, 1609. Inmen Mather with brothers William and Richard; will dated 5th October, 1633. John Mather with wife Elizabeth and sons Richard, Nicholas and John; will dated 25th November, 1637. Richard Mather with sons Roger, Nicholas, Thomas and John; will dated 7th October, 1669. John Mather with wife Margaret and sons John, Thomas and Richard; will dated 29th October, 1633. These were all churchmen and buried in the Winwick Parish Church.

Foreword and Historical Sketch

There also appear the wills of Richard Mather of Mydlehulton with wife Elizabeth and sons Henry and James, will dated 18th October, 1600, and Thomas Mather of Eccleston, near Croston, with wife Margery and sons Adam, John and William, will dated 21st November, 1640.

Nearby, in West Leigh, we find deeds of the Mather family from 1609 to 1632. These relate mainly to Symond Mather, his son Geoffrey and grandson Geoffrey.

Symond had sons Geoffrey and Robert and daughters Margaret, Jane and Ann. Geoffrey, the elder, was married 12th December, 1591, to Anne Parr, at Leigh Church, where their children Symond, Geoffrey, Ellen, Robert, John and James were all baptized. The Hundred of Leigh, in which is situated Lowton and Culceth, adjoins Bolton on the south. From 1545 to 1680, there are sixty-five wills of Mathers probated in the county town of Chester, Lancashire.

While I have found no positive direct connection of our own Joseph Mather with these mentioned, the records are interesting to show that the family was a large and prominent one in the particular part of Lancashire County from which he came, and there can be little doubt but that he was related to those recorded, as they all lived within a radius of ten miles.

The family had arms granted to it at various times and they are described as follows: "Ermine on a fesse wavy Azure, three lions rampant Or. Crest, a lion sedant Or." Motto, "Sunt Fortia Pectora Nobis"—"We have Courageous Hearts." Also, "Virtus Vera Nobilitas Est"—"Virtue is true Nobility."

Ermine is one of the three furs used in heraldry, with which the shield is generally covered. The lion is most frequently the charge in England. The Fesse indicates one-third the width of the shield. In heraldic language Or means gold and Azure means blue. The helmet in profile designates an esquire or gentleman. Other Arms are described in 1575: "Ermine, a fesse embattled Gules" and again "Barry of six. Azure and Argent on a chief of the last three mullets of the first." "Crest a hand erect issuing from a cloud, holding an arrow, point downwards" and also "a dexter hand, Apaume charged with an eye." Motto, "Deus Providebit."

A book-plate of John Mather of Broughton Hall, Manchester, in Lancashire, shows arms: "Ermine, a fesse embattled counter embattled gules." Crest, "A griffin segrant argent." Motto, "Non nobis nascimur."

The arms shown in this book were used by the Rev. Richard Mather, of New England, the first one of the name to come to this country.

The granting of these arms is simply recorded here as a matter of history. It was the custom to thus mark those who were useful, respectable and distinguished, and it is right that we should have a pride that our family was so included. It is only through the customary marks of the times in which they lived that we can tell who and what they were. George Washington and Benjamin Franklin both bore arms, and where two such patriots led, no citizen of the Republic need be slow to follow. The Nation has its coat of arms as has each of the States. Societies and clubs have their emblems, corporations their seals and merchants their trademarks.

The Borough of Bolton, from whence came Joseph Mather, is in the Parish of Bolton-Le-Moors, Lancashire County, England, and was successively the resort of the Flemish clothier, the French refugee and the Rhenish weaver, all workers in woolens. It was an ancient manor but a modern parish, situated in the Hundred of Salford, deanery of Manchester and archdeanery of Chester. The manor was received from William the Conqueror by Roger de Poitou. During the civil wars of the time of Charles I,

Foreword and Historical Sketch

Bolton was called the "Geneva of Lancashire," because of its dissention from the church, and was the first place in the kingdom to raise a militia under the authority of the Parliament. It remained true to this cause until taken by the Earl of Derby, in 1644, after a bloody conflict. It soon returned to the Parliamentary allegiance, however, and was the scene of the beheading of the Earl of Derby in 1651.

The town is divided into two parts by the River Croal and is principally engaged in the manufacture of cotton. Here Arkwright invented the spinning jenny and water frame and Crompton the mule, a combination of both. Such an environment naturally brought forth a weaver and a Quaker.

Radcliffe Bridge, which seems to have been the actual dwelling place of Joseph Mather's parents is one of the two small collections of houses in the parish of Radcliffe, the other being Radcliffe. It is on both sides of the river Roch and is united by a bridge of three arches, half a mile from Radcliffe, five miles directly west from Bolton and six north from Manchester. The Roman vicinal road from Manchester to Ribchester runs through the parish.

Radcliffe is a parish in the Union of Bury and hundred of Salford. It is the smallest parish in the County of Lancashire and consists of 2435 Acres, 2005 of which are meadow and pasture land. It is of decidedly Saxon origin and so appears in the Domesday Book, being one of the four places in Salford Hundred which are mentioned. It was held by Edward the Confessor for a manor and was conferred on Roger de Poitou but forfeited by him soon after the Domesday Survey. It remained in the crown until granted by Stephen to Ranulph de Gernons, Earl of Chester. The antiquity of the Radcliffe family is very great and Radcliffe Tower was anciently one of the most considerable manorial residences in Lancashire as William de Radeciue, one of the knights of the Grand Inquest, 13 John, was of "Radcliffe Tower." The Church is about the age of Henry IV.; an ancient manuscript carries it back to 1282. Spinning and weaving are the principle manufactures and these industries, established by the Flemish weaver, flourish also in the town of Bury, which is nearby in the parish of like name.

Nearly all of our early ancestors in America were farmers, being established upon large tracts of land which descended from father to son. To their agricultural pursuits was often added the skill of the artisan in some particular trade, and this necessity continued a custom with all youths until well into the nineteenth century. Their occupations arose from necessity, as they came to a vast wilderness with a courage and determination to meet its requirements and establish their families in peace and prosperity.

In seventeenth century England, from whence they came, there were few families where learning was esteemed. In his account of the country gentry Burnett writes: "They are the worst instructed and least knowing of any of their rank I ever went amongst." At the universities men were taught merely to dispise all who had forsaken the church, and he found the Dissenters alone well taught. Macauley says: "Few knights of the shire had libraries so good as may now perpetually be found in the servant's hall, or in the back parlor of a small shopkeeper. As to the lady of the manor and her daughters, their literary stores generally consisted of a prayer book and a receipt book. During the latter part of the seventeenth century the culture of the female mind seems to have been almost entirely neglected. Ladies highly born and highly bred were unable to write a line in their mother tongue without solecisms and faults of spelling such as a charity girl would now be ashamed to commit." Swift, writing a letter to a young lady lately married, takes it for granted that she cannot read aloud or spell.

Foreword and Historical Sketch

This being the general condition of culture in the mother country, we can easily believe from the wills of our ancestors, their letters, their position in the affairs of the community, their deep religious concern and their acceptable service in all the testimonies of the Society of Friends, that they were of gentle birth and above the average culture. The early generations of the family in this country were without the advantages for the education of their children that we have to-day. This mere handful of people in a wilderness, three thousand miles from home and help, had to win the battle for existence before they could give much attention to the arts that cultivate and refine. The principles of the Society of Friends, under which our sires were raised, made for high breeding and refinement as the natural consequences of clean and righteous lives. Proud, in his history, says: "The Friends were so careful in the education of their youth that there were none among them brought up without a competency of useful and plain learning." Clarkson, writing in 1806, says: "It may also be mentioned that they possess extraordinary knowledge. Every Quaker boy or girl must, if the discipline of the Society be kept up, receive an education."

The books read in those days comprised the classics only, together with the literature of Friends. In the year 1708, a catalogue of Friends' books was published by John Whiting, which contains the names of five hundred and twenty-eight writers and gives the titles and dates of about two thousand eight hundred books and tracts.

In 1697, John Barnes, who had purchased two hundred and fifty acres of land in Abington and settled there, vested by will in the Trustees of Abington Meeting one hundred and twenty acres for the use of the meeting and for a schoolhouse. The present school dates from 1702, and beyond a doubt, it was here that our ancestors were educated, as there was no other school nearer than Germantown, the only village in the vicinity.

Foreword and Historical Sketch

Here they were well taught as is universally the case in a Friends' school, the masters chosen, even in that early day, being of distinguished ability.

We see, therefore, that our ancestors were educated, well bred and of upright character. It is the feature that has constantly stood out in my research and talks with older members of the family. The meeting was their one common center and the basic truth of their Society became a splendid reality to them, so that as they moved about the beautiful country in which they lived, they had the daily experience of a direct communion with a Divine Power without any intermediary.

There are still memories of them as they assembled on First-day morning beneath "Ivied Abington's serene old house." Sweet faced women in gray, and men, calm and dignified, clad in broadcloath and wide brimmed hats, all with "high thoughts seated in hearts of courtesy."

John G. Whittier has penned a fitting tribute to our ancestors in his "Quaker of the Olden Time":

"The Quaker of the olden time—
How calm and firm and true,
Unspotted by its wrong and crime,
He walked the dark earth through.
The lust of power, the love of gain,
The thousand lures of sin
Around him, had no power to stain
The purity within.

With that deep insight which detects
All great things in the small,
And knows how each man's life affects
The spiritual life of all,
He walked by faith and not by sight,
By love and not by law;
The presence of the wrong or right
He rather felt than saw.

Foreword and Historical Sketch

He felt that wrong with wrong partakes,
That nothing stands alone,
That whoso gives the motive, makes
His brother's sin his own.
And pausing not for doubtful choice
Of evils great or small,
He listened to that inward voice
Which called away from all.

O spirit of that early day,
So pure and strong and true,
Be with us in the narrow way
Our faithful fathers knew.
Give strength the evil to forsake,
The cross of Truth to bear,
And love and reverent fear to make
Our daily lives a prayer."

BARTHOLOMEW PENROSE

The word "Penrose" is of Cornu-British origin, and, according to the "Parochial History of the County of Cornwall," is derived as a surname from the Manor of Penrose, in the Parish of Sithney, County Cornwall, which manor gave dwelling to the very ancient family seated in that place, it is said, before William the Conqueror landed in Britain. The manor was charmingly situated near Hels-ton, on the banks of Loo-Pool, which partly belonged to it. The arms of the family are: Argent three bends sable, each charged with as many roses of the field. Crest, a Loo trout naiant or. These appear from the Herald's Visitation of Cornwall, 1531, and the tablet and window placed in St. Sithuinus Church, 1532. The roses in the Penrose coat-armor were probably suggested by a play on the last syllable of the name, a custom quite common in early heraldry, and a tradition in the family makes the Cornish Penroses adherents of the House of York in its famous feud with the rival House of Lancaster.

Through the marriage of his daughter, Sarah, to Richard Mather, Bartholomew Penrose became the ancestor of many of the Mather descendants. He was of Cornish stock residing at Bristol, England, where he was engaged in building ships. He came to Philadelphia about 1700, and lived at Delaware Avenue and Market Street, where he continued the shipbuilding business with William Penn, the Founder, William Penn, Jr., James Logan and William Trent, as partners. He built the ship "Diligence," which made many voyages to foreign parts under his direct command.

He was an Episcopalian, and dying 11-17-1711, was buried under the present Christ Church on Second Street. His wife was Esther, daughter of Toby Leech and Esther Ashmead, whom he married in 1703.

There are many notable descendants of Bartholomew Penrose in Philadelphia to-day, among whom are Clement B. and Arthur Newbold, Charles Penrose Keith, Dr. Charles Bingham Penrose, United States Senator Boies Penrose and Judge Clement Biddle Penrose.

TOBY LEECH

Among the early settlers of Cheltenham Township, in the Province of Pennsylvania, was Toby Leech, the son of Toby Leech of Cheltenham, Gloucestershire, England, where he was baptized 1st January, 1652, and married 26th December, 1679, to Hester, daughter of John and Mary Ashmead. Toby and Hester Leech, with Mary Ashmead, arrived in Philadelphia, in 1682.

Within the intended limits of the city he purchased largely, chiefly near the River Delaware, and to this he added a greater part of Reedy Island, in the Delaware, together with a large tract of land, being a part of Oxford and Upper and Lower Dublin Townships in the County of Philadelphia. He also purchased land in Chester County, and in the County of New Castle, on the Delaware.

At Cheltenham, he built his house, which was burned with all his papers in 1700. He rebuilt on the same ground a dwelling which is still standing, though neglected and in dilapidated condition, on the Tacony Creek near what is now Ogontz. He also had tanyards and ovens and kept up famous hunting grounds, which gave the name to the village of "Fox Chase."

He bore arms Ermine, on chief indented gules, three crowns Or. Crest, out of a ducal coronet, an arm erect ppr., grasping a snake, environed around the arm, vert. Burk affords us an explanation of the coat when he says that one of the family living in Barkshire, near Windsor, in the time of Edward III, entertained three kings in his house—the King of England, the King of France and the King of Scots, the two latter being prisoners to King Edward. "To requite his good entertainment and other favors the King gave him three crowns on his chief indented gules ye field ermine."

Toby Leech was a member of the Provincial Assembly in 1713-14-15-17 and 19; he signed the Remonstrance to Governor Markham, 3-12-1696; he was one of the jury to lay out the York Road in 1711 and was County Commissioner in 1718.

His daughter Hester, born in 1680, married Bartholomew Penrose, 1703, and their daughter Sarah married Richard Mather.

Hester Leech died 8-11-1726, aged 66 years, and Toby, 11-13-1726, aged 74. Toby Leech's will, signed 4-7-1724, probated 12-7-1726, Philadelphia Register's Office, is one of the longest and most specific of the many wills in the register's books. Besides money and securities, he left to his sons several houses in Philadelphia, more than 3,000 acres of land in Philadelphia County, and seven slaves. He is buried at Trinity Church, Oxford, with his wife and many descendants.

RICHARD WALL

By the marriage of his granddaughter, Sarah Wall, to George Shoemaker, Richard Wall becomes a direct ancestor of a numerous branch of the Mather family who trace their descent from the Shoemakers. He married Joane Wheel 8-1-1658, at Gloucester Monthly Meeting of Friends in England and came to America, probably with Toby Leech, in 1682. They came from Cheltenham, in Gloucestershire, and gave the name to the Township in which they settled.

Richard Wall bought 600 acres in Cheltenham Township, extending from the Abington Township line on the north to the Bristol line on the south, and covering the site of that which later became known as Shoemakertown and now is Ogontz. There is little doubt that his house still stands, forming the rear of Joseph Bosler's dwelling. This house was chosen as Friends' Meeting House, and is the oldest one now standing in this country.

It was known as "Dublin Meeting," afterwards Abington, and, in 1685, was made a Monthly Meeting. Here it continued until 1700, when Abington Meeting House was built. Many marriages are recorded at the "House of Richard Wall," among them that of Joseph Mather and Elizabeth Russell. It was to the Monthly Meeting held there that the first protest against slavery issued in this country was addressed.

Richard Wall died 1-26-1698, and Joane, 12-2-1701. Both are buried at Cheltenham, in the little graveyard on Cheltenham Avenue.

FIRST GENERATION

Joseph Mather, the first representative of the family in Pennsylvania, was a weaver by trade and came, at the age of eighteen, with Phineas Pemberton, James Harrison and others from Bolton, Lancashire, England. They sailed from Liverpool in the ship "Submission," James Settle, Master, Seventh month 5th, 1682, and arrived at Choptank, Maryland, Ninth month 2d, 1682, having been brought there, as many think, through the dishonesty of the master of the vessel who was paid "headmoney" by those interested in the settlement of Maryland, for all emigrants brought into the colony, notwithstanding he had contracted in Liverpool to land them up the Delaware River.

However, as the ship's log ceases in misty weather after a fearful storm at sea, several days before they landed, it is very probable that the captain did not know where they were.

It has been erroneously stated that Joseph Mather was the servant of Phineas Pemberton. The log of the ship "Submission" has been preserved and he does not appear in such a list but on the contrary his name is listed among the "ffree Passengers."

Many of those registered as "servants" appear to be closely related to and quite the equal of their masters, and had been influenced to emigrate on account of the liberal inducement offered by the proprietor, William Penn.

Joseph Mather contracted with Phineas Pemberton in consideration of his paying the expense of his passage, he not having the means, to serve him the term of four years, ending Ninth Month 2nd, 1686, and to have a warrant of fifty acres of land, being the Governor's allowance. Phineas Pemberton was himself similarly bound, at one time, for seven years to John Abraham, a grocer at Manchester. The Pemberton family, together with those who came with them, settled at Falsington, Bucks County, and the records at Doylestown, the county seat, show that Joseph Mather fulfilled his contract. His daughter married Phineas Pemberton's grandson.

Philadelphia was yet a wilderness when they entered it on horseback from Choptank, Maryland, in November, 1682. "They could not obtain entertainment for their horses. They 'spancelled' them and turned them out in the woods; having sought for them the next morning and for two days in vain, they gave up the search for the time, and were obliged to take a boat in order to proceed on their way to Bucks County, the place of their destination. One of these horses was not found until the succeeding January." (Pemberton Papers in Friends' Miscellany.)

Phineas Pemberton and his father-in-law, James Harrison, became two of the most prominent men in the Province. William Penn was an intimate and dear friend of the former and called him "the ablest as well as one of the best men in the Province." Penn made Harrison the steward of his affairs while absent in England. Pemberton stayed at the house of Lyonel Britain near the Falls until he could erect his house. On 11-17-1683 he purchased five hundred acres on the Delaware River opposite Oreclan's (later Biles') Island and built a house there. This plantation he called "Grove Place." Being desirous of erecting a more comfortable home for his family he finished one in 1687 some five miles distant and more in the interior. This was called Bolton Farm and is now owned by Effingham B. Morris Esq., of Philadelphia. On the 18th. of 5th. month 1699 Phineas Pemberton married a second time, taking Alice Hodgson of Burlington for his wife in the Falls Meeting House. The original certificate, now in the possession of Henry Pemberton of Philadelphia, shows Joseph Mather's signature as a witness to the marriage.

In the Pemberton Manuscripts at the Historical Society of Pennsylvania there is a letter dated "8 day 4 month 1683" to Ralph Pemberton, father of Phineas, from Margery Vose and Richard Mather. The first part, evidently written by the former, sends "my deare love to Joseph Mather," and the last part better written in a similar hand to the signature of Richard Mather sends "dear love to you and my brother Joseph."

In 1676 Ralph Pemberton, having resided until this time at Aspul, went to live at Radcliffe Bridge which is about two miles from Bury and five from Bolton. Here he kept a grocery store, in which he was assisted by Margery Vose, one of the signers of the above letter. The business was sold to Nathaniel Atherton when the Pembertons went to America, but Margery Vose seems to have remained in charge. Her letters to Ralph Pemberton are full of affection and gossip about the neighbors whom he had left behind. She writes from Radcliffe Bridge 18th. 6 Mo. 1684 sending "my dear love to Joseph Mather." She also transmits the love of "Richard Mather Junior" who "Remembers his kind love to you and to his brother Joseph." She writes from the same place again to Ralph Pemberton 24th. 3rd. Mo. 1684 and speaks of a Samuel Mather. Also twice sends her love to Joseph Mather. There is a postscript in this letter which says "Ralph my deare love to you who am your old friend R. M." This would seem to indicate Richard Mather. Ralph Ridgway of Manchester, not far distant, writes to Phineas Pemberton 21st. 10th. Mo. 1696 "our old friend Richard Mather of Rattclifbridge was buried at our burying place about ye 5th. of ye 4th. Mo. '96," Phineas Pemberton writes from London to his father Ralph at Radcliffe, 6-11-1677 and sends "my love to R. M. & Margery" and adds postscript "Tell R. M. yt. I am even now wh. his son & he is well & he remembers his love to him. " Ralph Pemberton shows his intimacy with Richard Mather by constantly mentioning him in his letters to his son Phineas and to John Clark, particularly under dates-2-7-1679, 2-16-1679, 6-25-1679, 8-27-1679 and 6-6-1680, all from Radcliffe Bridge.

From these letters it is proper to assume that Joseph Mather was the son of Richard Mather of Radcliffe Bridge, who died in the year 1696, and that he had a brother Richard junior of whose marriage to Elizabeth Buckley of Rossendale Meeting, 2-26-1671, there is a record.

The first account of Joseph Mather, after his arrival, on record is as a witness to the marriage of Richard Lundy with Elizabeth Bennett, Eighth Month 24th, 1684, and again as one of the Friends who, in Seventh Month, 1692, signed the testimony against George Keith, issued by the Yearly Meeting then assembled at Burlington, N. J.

At the Falls Monthly Meeting he applied for a certificate on account of marriage, to Abington Monthly Meeting, with Elizabeth Russell, daughter of John Russell, who, with his daughter, emigrated from England and took up three hundred acres of land in Cheltenham Township, then Philadelphia County now Montgomery, Third Month 23rd, 1683.

It is a family tradition that the Russells came also from near Bolton, and that Joseph Mather was in love with Elizabeth Russell before they crossed the sea. The patent for the Russell tract is recorded in Patent Book A, page 282, July 7th, 1700, and the original in good preservation is now in the possession of Peter A. B. Widener, owner of the tract where the first homestead was erected.

now MATHER.

They removed to the Russell plantation and the following year John Russell died intestate. His daughter being the only heir at law inherited the real estate and Joseph Mather administered the estate. In 1716 Joseph Mather obtained a Patent for the town lot belonging to the Russell tract, situated at the southeast corner of Fourth and Race Streets. He sold the lot in 1719 for one hundred pounds.

In 1720 Joseph Mather obtained a certificate from Abington Monthly Meeting to visit England on his own affairs, a favor perhaps never before or since granted by the Society, except on a religious concern. This indicates his place in the meeting and the upright character he possessed.

First Generation

As the journey in those days was a long, perilous and expensive one, we are led to believe that Joseph Mather must have had important business to transact and probably had near relatives or property there. Dying in 1724, his wife administered to his estate, the letters of administration being granted to her without requiring any security on her bond for the following reason as appears on record "that she was too well known to require security." She was a Minister of the Society of Friends and is thus described in a notice appearing in The Friend, Vol. 29, No. 36, published in 1856, being an extract from the minutes of a select meeting of Ministers and Elders.

"Elizabeth Mather the widow of Joseph Mather of Abington Particular Meeting was a minister of the Gospel for a number of years in good esteem. She was a serviceable member of the religious Society she belonged to and was employed in its concerns. Her friends inform us her testimony was well received, and she was of an innocent life and conversation."

She deeded the tract of three hundred acres to her son Richard in 1727 and died September, 1730.

At Richard's death he willed this original grant to his three sons, Benjamin the western end with the original homestead, Bartholomew the middle, and Isaac the eastern end. The entire tract lay upon the southeast side of Washington Lane which then ran straight and did not make the turn at the top of the hill above Cheltenham Hills Station on the west. This turn was caused by Isaac Mather about 1800 so as to reach his mill which still stands at Cheltenham Hills Station. Thus it will be seen that the tract extended from the present City line, along Washington Lane, almost to the York Road, and comprises what is now the estates of Peter A. B. Widener, the late Jay Cooke, Frederick W. Morris, D. B. Wentz, the late Henry and Joshua Lippincott, John Wanamaker and Isaac P. Mather. These include some of the finest residences in this country: The Ogontz School, Cheltenham Military Academy and Cheltenham Hills Station of the Philadelphia & Reading Railway.

The original homestead is still standing as one of the buildings of the stock farm of Peter A. B. Widener near Washington Lane and City Line.

First Generation

Bartholomew Mather built his house on the middle section of the tract in 1781 and this is now owned by Frederick Wister Morris at Washington Lane and Church Road. Five generations of Mathers inhabited this house, and it is now very little changed from its original appearance. The old house across Washington Lane from it was built by Thomas Mather, a son of Bartholomew, about 1800, and was also occupied by five generations of the family. It is now owned by Horace G. Lippincott, Jr., and remains much the same.

Isaac built his home on the eastern end upon the hill above Cheltenham Hills Station and his mill, in 1769 and this is now the residence of Rodman Wanamaker. The mill is little changed except for the installation of an electric plant which serves the Wanamaker estate. The home of Isaac Mather, the centenarian who died recently, upon the extreme eastern end of the original grant was built in 1806 and is now owned by his son, Isaac P. Mather, who resides there with Martha and Israel Mather. It is the only part of the first grant now owned by a Mather, having been in possession of this family for 227 years.

The children of Joseph and Elizabeth Mather were:

3. Mary, born 2-11-1698. Died 10-15-1747. Married Joseph Barger and John Iden.
4. Richard, born 8-14-1699. Died 7-15-1776. Married Sarah Penrose.
5. Sarah, married Joseph Wood.
6. Isabella. Died 7-1728. Married Phineas Jenkins.
7. Margaret, born 9-16-1704.
8. John, born 11-7-1710.

SECOND GENERATION

3. Mary Mather¹ (Joseph²) was born 2-11-1698, and in 1722 married Joseph Barger, son of Thomas Barger who brought a certificate of membership from the men and women's meeting held in Cornwall, County of Tipperary, Ireland-1-24-1717 to Philadelphia where Joseph obtained a certificate of marriage with Mary Mather. The following year he asked for a certificate of removal to Duck Creek Meeting in Delaware where he purchased a farm and gave his father-in-law a bond for seventy pounds probably in payment for a farm within the limits of Concord Monthly Meeting to which his father removed about the same time. Joseph Barger died in 1730 and the widow returned to the limits of Abington Meeting where she married John Iden of Upper Dublin in 1745. She died 10-15-1747. Issue of the first marriage:

9 Thomas, Died Single.

10 Johu, Died Singie

4. Richard Mather, son of Joseph and Elizabeth was a Carpenter by trade but followed farming as an occupation. He married Sarah Penrose in 1727. She was the daughter of Bartholomew Penrose a shipbuilder and partner of William Penn, and was born in 1705. Her father had died when she was quite small and her mother marrying again sent she and her sister Dorothy to reside with their grandfather Tobias Leech the elder. As the girls grew up their young associates being Friends induced them to leave the church of their grandfather at Oxford (Episcopal) and to join the Society of Friends. Dorothy married Isaac Shoemaker and her grandson married Sarah's granddaughter.

Richard Mather entered into an agreement with Dorothy Shoemaker, daughter of Bartholomew Penrose and widow of Isaac Shoemaker, and John Tyson of Abington, 11-6-1746 to build "a corn-grist mill, to be built jointly in the partnership between the said parties." This mill is situated on the York Road at Ogontz and is now owned by Joseph Bosler.

Richard Mather was one of the most prominent members of Abington Meeting as his parents had been before him. He was almost universally, in conjunction with Joshua Morris, on the important committees of both Monthly and Quarterly Meetings. As a father and neighbor he appears to have been highly esteemed; his rule of action was governed by the principle of integrity and his last will and testament disposes of the property of a country gentleman. It was made less than a month previous to his death, which occurred 7-15-1776 in the 77th year of his age. He was soon followed by his wife whose decease occurred 2-28-1777.

5. Sarah Mather² (Joseph¹) married Joseph Wood, farmer, of Upper Dublin, 3-1727. He was a son of John Wood, one of the first settlers of Darby. They left no children.

6. Isabella Mather² (Joseph¹) married Phineas Jenkins son of Stephen and Abigail Jenkins of Abington and grandson of Phineas Pemberton, in 6-1728. He was a farmer by occupation. Isabella died in 7-1728, less than a month after her marriage. Phineas married again and left a large family.

THIRD GENERATION.

11. Joseph Mather³ (Joseph¹, Richard²) married Elizabeth daughter of Edward Miller and widow of John Barge, 7-3-1756. He was a miller and settled in Germantown. In 1776 he was dealt with by Abington Monthly Meeting for serving on a Vigilant Committee appointed by the citizens of Germantown in behalf of the American cause, to take means for their own defence, but was not disowned. He and his brother Richard purchased the mill on the Wissahickon known as the "Spruce Mills." He also bought a farm adjoining, after his brother's death. Joseph Mather died 3-12-1810 in the 82nd year of his age and his wife died in 9-1784. He was endowed with a pleasing disposition and was much esteemed by all who knew him. Issue:

21-22. Richard and Sarah, twins, born 7-16-1757. Richard died young. Sarah died 8-26-1803. Married Isaac Shoemaker, Hugh Evans and Isaac Potts.

23. Ann, born 11-3-1759. Died 10-15-1827. Married Edward Ambler.

Jos Mather

12. Bartholomew Mather³ (Joseph¹, Richard²) was a wheelwright by trade but also followed the occupation of farming, living at Washington Lane & Church Road. He married Sarah, daughter of Thomas Livezey, of Lower Dublin Township, November 19th, 1754. He was the Assessor of Cheltenham in 1776. In December, 1778, Bartholomew, together with other members of Abington Monthly Meeting were dealt with for allowing their horses and wagons to be used by the American Army and furnishing drivers; in his case his son Thomas was the driver who went some hundred miles in the service of the State for provisions but was not disowned. The facts probably were that the military took possession of the property without consulting the owners and the action of the meeting was unwarranted for calling them to account for acts not committed by them. Bartholomew died 8-27-1822, at the advanced age of 93, being in possession of his faculties and having within a few days walked around the neighborhood calling upon several of his relatives and acquaintances expressing the belief that it would be the last time. His wife died 23-5-1791. Issue:

- 24. Thomas, born 6-22-1756. Died 11-4-1831. Married Rachel Leech.
- 25. Richard, born 5-31-1764. Died 4-1832. Married Sarah Thomas.

THE DESCENDENTS OF JOSEPH MATHER ³

FOURTH GENERATION.

22. Sarah Mather⁴ (Joseph¹, Richard², Joseph³) Married Isaac Shoemaker son of John and grandson of Isaac Shoemaker, 5-5-1779. Their grandmothers were sisters. He died 7-31-1779.

On 12-16-1783, Sarah married Hugh Evans, who was found dead on his farm several years later. The widow married Isaac Potts, 3-10-1803. He was a farmer and a minister of the Society of Friends. He was noted for his affability and his "exemption from that covenantic sedatness indicative of counterfit religion," which rendered him esteemed by all who knew him. An anecdote is characteristic of the man. In his day it was customary for neighbors to assist each other in pulling their flax which was followed by a supper.

Isaac Potts had a flax pulling and some one mischievously circulated a report that Isaac Potts had a Flax Pulling and had two fiddles on that occasion at his house. He was asked about the report by one George Williams, an Elder of Abington Meeting who was a remarkably sedate person, thinking it a sin to smile, immediately upon the adjournment of the meeting at Abington. He answered, "Doesn't thee think one would have been enough"? He died 7-17-1803, in Germantown Meeting after preaching a sermon. His widow died at Kingwood, New Jersey, 8-26-1803. The children of Sarah Mather and Hugh Evans were:

- 52. Thomas, born 9-14-1784. Died young.
- 53. Joseph M., born 12-11-1785. Died 7-8-1831.
- 54. Thomas, born 8-8-1787. A sailor lost at sea.

ciety of Friends and lived in one of the old homesteads of the Mather family, on Washington Lane, near Cheltenham Hills Station. His children still reside there, and it is the only part of the original tract retained in the family. Always a lover of nature, Isaac Mather drew his chief delight from the beautiful country in which he lived. The aged Friend penned his recollections of his boyhood amid these fields and woods and streams in a poem which he called "An Old Man's Reverie," and which he finished after passing the century mark. On 10-27-1906, he dictated from memory as follows:

AN OLD MAN'S REVERIE.

Let other scribes invoke the muse's aid,
To sing of heroes in the dust long laid;
Let them recount the feats of ancient days,
And give to sages their deserving praise;
Be mine to chime an unpretending lay
In numbers rude, familiar scenes portray.

Fair Cheltenham, a name unknown to song,
E'en at the name ideal pleasures throng;
My worthy sires, a long and well known line,
Here was their home, here did they life resign;
And here I wish contentedly to dwell
Until the sign of life's departing knell.

Fond memory calls to mind the hours
Enjoyed amid the sylvan bowers;
By brooklet's marge or mossy rock I played,
Or gathered wild flowers from the verdant glade;
O'er hill and dale, through glen and grotto wild,
Unwearied roved as nature's simple child.

And thou, Tacony, fondly cherished stream,
Remembered scene of many a waking dream,
When winter reigned with hyperborean sway,
And o'er thy surface formed an icy way;
As the blithe bird with semblance of delight
Cleaves the broad air and wheels in rapid flight.

The Descendants of Isaac Mather 3

So have I cursed the water's bosom o'er,
Enjoyed the sport, tho' frigid winds might roar;
In summer's heat, my active limbe to lave,
I love to sport upon the flowing wave;
On some rough crag impending, oft I stood,
And, frog-like, dived beneath the yielding flood.

Such scenes are o'er, yet fancy loves to dwell
On simple pleasures still remembered well.
On time's swift pinions childhood sped away,
And thrilling youth has passed and gone for aye;
Maturer years still swifter seem to tend
Towards that great goal where human conflicts end.

Joyous, th' trifling, youth's career appears
Seen through the vista of maturer years;
A thousand charms mid forest, stream and glen Awaken pleasures far more now than then,
Childhood content the joys of sense to find,
Whilst higher instincts mark the tutored mind.

No cultured mind scanning nature's broad domain,
Unmoved, unthrilled, unprofited remains.
The garden's bloom, the forest's grateful shade,
The flowering meadow and the verdant glade;
Tacony's stream now gliding smooth away,
And now o'er rocks impetuous finds its way,

Here golden grain invites the reaper's toil;
The low of kine, the wild bird's note of mirth,
The sun-burned farmer delving in the earth,
Such are the scenes that waken fond desire;
Such are the scenes my love of home inspire,
Here nature's temple, beauteous to the sight,
With open portals votaries invite.

A pledge of welcome to the seeking mind,
Where all may worship and may favor find.
Atoms, minute, imperfect to the sight;
Vast orbs urged onward by eternal might.
The great, the small for some grand end designed,
Consummate wisdom all their parts combined.

Fifth Generation

Through nature's maze on each revolving sphere
Almighty power has stamped an impress there
Hail! lovely scenes, with rapture I adore,
Unnumbered charms that deck the landscape o'er.
Affection yearns toward you, my native hills,
The rocks, the forests and meandering rills.

There oft retired in thoughtful, pensive mood,
Within the covert of sequestered wood.
At nature's shrine I light devotion's fire,
From minor aims to higher themes aspire.
Many years have passed away
Whence I note my natal day.

The past is swiftly passing o'er
Beyond oblivion's fated shore;
The present fraught with hopes and fears,
But cares, and sometimes tears.
Could we the past again renew
Unnumbered errors might review.

Then strive to make the future be
The benediction unto thee.
No mortal can foresee events of dim futurity.
But all may honestly confess
That perfect life is blessedness.

Fifth Generation

of Philadelphia, 12-31-1846. She died 7-23-1904. For many years Charles Mather has administered the affairs of a "Country Squire." General business advice, insurance, conveyancing, the drawing of wills, settling of estates and the conduct of sales were some of the many forms of usefulness in which he served the community. A little seen but widespread charity has accompanied these many activities. In the olden days gentlemen of ability and integrity thus attended to all the business now engaged in by trust companies. It is to Charles Mather's interest in the family and his painstaking diligence in securing records that we owe this book. Issue:

APPENDIX

In some respects the description of Radcliffe Bridge given in the Historical Sketch refers rather to an early time, as perhaps when Joseph Mather lived there. The several towns mentioned are now separated by little or no open country and the district known as "the Bridge," which was clustered about a bridge over the river Irwell, is now the business portion of the town of Radcliffe and not at all distinct from it.

The death of Richard Mather, whom I suppose was Joseph's father, mentioned on page 17, is corroborated as to time and place in the following Copy of the Radcliffe Parish Registers of the Mathers in the seventeenth century referred to as of Radcliffe Bridge. There are numerous entries as to Mathers of other parts of Radcliffe or having no place of residence added. The name is a large one in the district to-day as it also is in Manchester and Bolton.

Appendix

FEBRUARY

1686 Sarah the daughter of Abraham Mather de Bridg was baptized the 27th.

The only seventeenth century Mather among the tombs of the Parish Church is recorded upon a tile inside the fabric: "In Memory of Abraham Mather Schoolmaster of Radcliffe who died 20th Dec. 1699 in the 84 year of his age."

At the Bishop's Visitation in 1671 Richard Mather and Elizabeth his wife were returned as Quakers. These were probably the parents of Joseph.

The views are of the Parish Church of Radcliffe, Radcliffe Tower in full state from an old painting (only a small ruin remains to-day), Radcliffe Bridge fifty years ago, and Cottages, Mow Brow, now Church Street, Radcliffe, fully paved. It was formerly a foot path from the Bridge to the Parish Church.

I am indebted for help and research in England to Norman Penney, F.S.A., Devonshire House, London, and to Robert Muschamp and James Clayton, of Radcliffe.

Addition and Corrections in The Book of Mathers

When the news of William Penn's death in August, 1718, reached Pennsylvania the General Meeting of the Society of Friends held in Philadelphia, the 16th of First Month, 1718-19, adopted a loving memorial which was signed by forty-six of the most prominent Friends in the Province. Joseph Mather's name appears among the signers of this important document.
