PREFACE

In 1887, twenty-five years ago, Willis Augustus Chapman (No. 285), editor of St. James, (Minn.) Journal, published an 18 page, 5¼ x 8¼, HASKELL-MARSHALL FAMILY RECORD, from data gathered by Martha Marshall (No. 86) and a few other members of the family. That book traces incompletely the descendants of DAVID and SARAH (HASKELL) MARSHALL of Tewksbury and Lunenburg, Mass. For some years I have been endeavoring to complete and supplement that record, and have also traced to some extent their ancestors. In 1911 I decided to put the result of my researches into print, and, while getting it ready for the press, have found many new branches. Hence, the MARSHALL FAMILY RECORD which I offer is not strictly a MARSHALL genealogy, but a record of that family and many more allied families. Such names as GEORGE SEWELL BOUTWELL, L.L. D., Gov. of Massachusetts, 1851 and 1852; GEN. JOHN MEREDITH READ, Consul-General of the U. S. for France and Algeria; SAMUEL ELIOT, historian, educator, philanthropist; JOSIAH THOMPSON MARSHALL, pioneer merchant and tradesman with China, the Sandwich Islands and the Pacific Coast; GEORGE OTIS HOLBROOKE, poet and missionary, I find among, or, allied with the MARSHALL family, and, in tracing their branches, I have gone beyond the original scope of my book. To all descendants who have generously and cordially aided me in securing accurate statistics I render thanks. Like all similar works, errors and omissions doubtless appear, and additions and corrections will be gratefully received. To AUNT MARTHA MARSHALL, our 1st Historian, to WILLIS AUGUSTUS CHAPMAN, our 1st Publisher, descendants of the MARSHALL family should accord high praise. May their work and this book prove an incentive to some interested descendant, at the end of another quarter of a century—in 1937, to compile a better and more complete record.

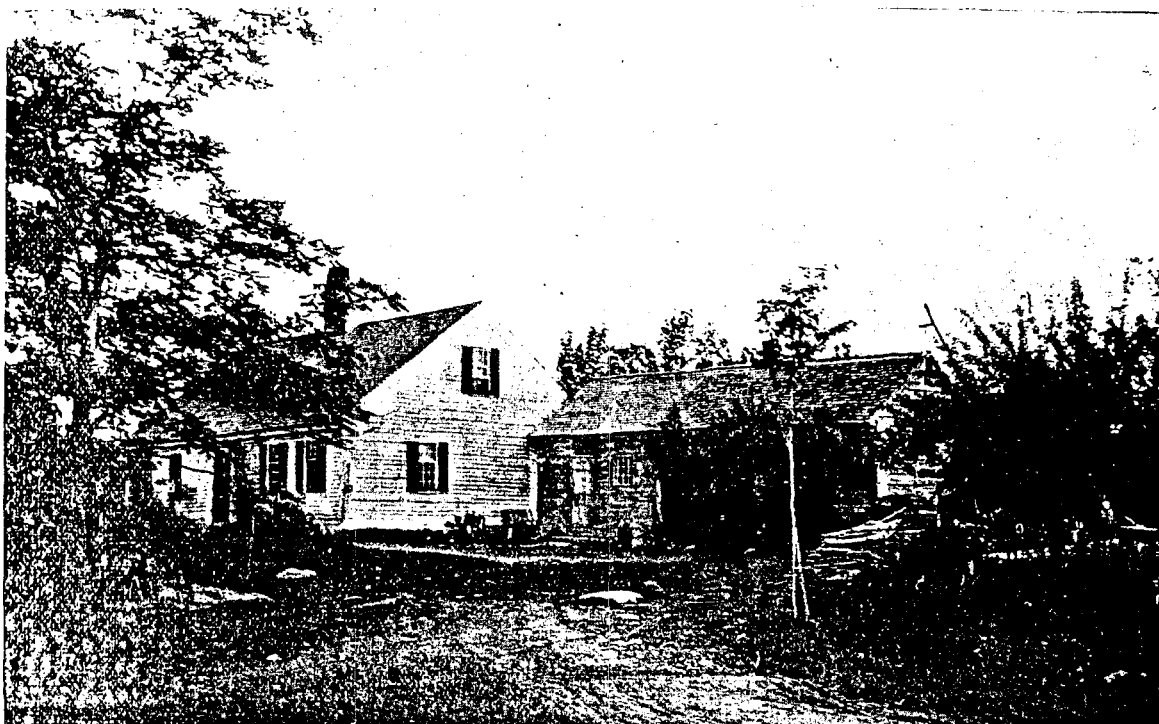

Copies of this book may be secured from the compiler at the following prices, postpaid: cloth, $2.00, paper, $1.75.

MARSHALL FAMILY.

FIRST GENERATION.

1. JOHN¹ MARSHALL* of Boston, New England, 1635, the emigrant ancestor of the family, was born in England in 1621 and came to America in the "Hopewell" in 1635, in company with his brother Christopher, but the latter remained in this country only a few years, then returned to England. For a time after his arrival here, JOHN¹ MARSHALL was in the service of Edward Hutchinson; he was admitted inhabitant of Boston, Feb. 24, 1639-40, and was one of the proprietors of that town. This JOHN¹ MARSHALL was descended from John Marshall of Southark, England, whose son founded Christ Church at Southark, and to whom was given the coat-of-arms which some of his descendants still bear. JOHN¹ MARSHALL was a husbandman and he and one William Marshall had shares in Plum Island. He died in Boston in March 1715. His wife, Sarah, born 1623, whom he married in 1645, died Sept. 28, 1689. A Marshall family of eight children, according to "C. H. Pope's Pioneers of Mass. (1900)," are their children. Some authorities agree with Pope while others do not. We are unable to either confirm or deny, but give Pope's list of births, the first of which is, 2. SERGEANT JOHN² MARSHALL, the positive ancestor from which we are tracing our Marshall family record, b. in Boston, Dec. 10, 1645; m. three times, d. Nov. 5, 1702; 3. JOSEPH², m. Elizabeth; 4. SARAH², m. Mr. Royal; 5. SAMUEL², m. Ruth Rawlins; 6. HANNAH², m. Mr. Parrot; 7. THOMAS², b. May 17, 1656, m. Dorcas; 8. BENJAMIN², b. May 12, 1660, m. Rebecca; 9. CHRISTOPHER², b. Aug. 18, 1664. The first five were baptized in First Church, Boston, March 6, 1655. THOMAS was baptized May 11, 1656; BENJAMIN, Feb. 17, 1660.

NOTE. Hazen's History of Billerica, Mass., should be consulted for descendants of above. We trace only the descendants of 2. SERGEANT JOHN MARSHALL.

SECOND GENERATION.

2. SERGEANT JOHN² MARSHALL, b., Dec. 10, 1645, is found in Billerica, Mass., in 1657, when he is granted a six-acre lot. He was also granted a twenty-acre lot, lying partly on the township and partly on the "Commons." This lot was on the old Andover road, and when the location of that road was changed in 1660, he was allowed a private

42. DAVID^a MARSHALL was a farmer and carpenter. His farm in Lunenburg was owned by his father (29) SAMUEL^b MARSHALL, and is situated about 2½ miles northwest of Lunenburg village, on the old "Northfield road," and is now owned by *Herbert A. Eaton. The present house (see frontispiece) is said to have been built about the time of David's marriage; the first house stood on the opposite side of the road, and was destroyed many years ago. DAVID MARSHALL m. at Lunenburg, by Rev. Zabdiel Adams, Jan. 7, 1794, Sarah Haskell, b. at Lunenburg, Feb. 18, 1775, of Dr. Abraham and Sarah (Green) Haskell. Dr. Haskell was an eminent physician in Lunenburg and Leominster, Mass.† Both DAVID MARSHALL and his wife died in Lunenburg and their headstones in North cemetery read thus :

MR. DAVID MARSHALL

SEVENTH GENERATION.

71. JOSIAH THOMPSON⁷ MARSHALL was educated in Boston, Mass., but did not graduate at Harvard, because of an early development of the "wander-lust." His father being owner of many ships engaged in the Eastern trade, he early went, as owner's son, on the long voyages made to the Orient, being one of the first white men to ever land at the Sandwich Islands. He visited China five times before he was 21 years of age; being one of the first party of Americans to dine with the Emperor; the table on that occasion being spread not with a cloth, but with rose petals one foot deep. His travels were, for those days, remarkable; round the world six times, and he could truly say, "I have seen the sun rise in every quarter of the globe." He organized in America the Bethel Movement; was active with John B. Gough in temperance work; with Garrit Smith and others in the Underground Railroad and Anti-slavery movements. An accomplished writer, and for years, foreign correspondent of the New York Herald; m. at Utica, N. Y., Oct. 26, 1826, Mary Sheldon Stocking, dau. of Samuel Stocking of Utica, N. Y., b. at Utica, Sept. 2, 1807, d. at Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 27, 1887. Their children:

* Named for Parson Sewell of Wilmington, Mass., but always spelt his name SEWEL. His son George wrote his SEWELL.

102. SAMUEL STOCKING⁸, b. Sept. 5, 1827, Utica, N. Y., d. Sept. 5, 1853, New Orleans, La. + (Date of his death also given Sept. 8, 1854.)
 103. JOHN JONES⁸, b. Aug. 30, 1828, Oswego, N. Y., d. Oct. 11, 1828, Oswego, N. Y.
 104. HENRY⁸, b. Dec. 18, 1829, Oswego, N. Y., d. June 5, 1904, Buffalo, N. Y. +
 105. MARY⁸, b. Apr. 30, 1831, Oswego, N. Y., res. Fort Erie, Ontario. +
 106. BENJAMIN SHELDON⁸, b. Mar. 31, 1833, Boston, Mass., d. Sept. 9, 1834, Utica, N. Y.

A letter of (84) DEB. WM. MARSHALL to his son (161) WILLIAM ISAAC MARSHALL, written Mar. 22, 1855, is interesting reading and we print it entire.

To Wm. I. Marshall, Ashby, Mass.

Missouri, March 22d, 1855.

Dear Son:

I promised to write you after I arrived in Kansas, but I have concluded to commence while on the way, and conclude when I arrive there. I am now on board the steamboat about 130 miles above St. Louis, and for your amusement I will give a brief detail of this tedious journey. We left Fitchburg Depo about 8 o'clock Tuesday evening the 13th, arrived at Keene at 10¼ and left at 11, went very well until we began to ascend the high land in Mt. Holly, Vt., there it had snowed and blowed furiously the forepart of the night, and it being high grade, deep cut and circuitous, we found ourselves at a dead stand, and we had to send out several hands to shovel away snow, and then start one Engine ahead as far as it would go and then run back and hitch on and go up to the men that were shoveling out, thus we dug along and arrived at Rutland at about 8 o'clock a. m. the 14th, 5 hours behind time, and thereby lost one train. Left at 10¼ for Albany, we went very slow, having a very heavy train, and only one small Engine, which some of our party called the Donkey, and being behind regular time, we had to run back several times 2 or 3 miles, and turn out for the coming trains to pass us, which reminded us of the frog jumping out of the well, we arrived at Albany about dark the 14th, here again we were so far behind time that we lost another train. Left Albany at 11½ o'clock that evening, being assured by the conductor that we should arrive at Suspension Bridge to take the forenoon train through Canada for Detroit, but again we were disappointed, having but one Engine our long and heavy train moved slowly. We passed Syracuse about daylight the 15th, arrived at Rochester at 10 a. m. and left at 11¼, saw several fine fields of winter wheat where the snow was gone. Arrived at Suspension Bridge at 5 p. m. Many of our party walked across the bridge on purpose to look at it, truly it is a beautiful and wonderful piece of work, as we stood upon it we could plainly see Niagara Falls, though they were 2 miles distant, here all our baggage, and such as did not chose to walk were carried across the bridge in wagons, and landed in the great Depo in Canada, there was with us all the way from Boston, a young man from Virginia, who had left his master, and was pressing his way to a land of freedom, we took up a collection for him in the Cars of 15.$ and we were glad to see him safe in Canada, free from the chains, the blood-hounds, and soul drivers of America. We left the Depo at Suspension Bridge at 11¼ in the evening, and as we had several whole families, in our party, and a large number of small children, we had plenty of musick, though there were some discords. That part of Canada through which we passed in the night contains many good farms, as a man told me, who passed it the next day, but that we went through in the day time looked like poor land, level and wet, and the houses were very poor and shabby, and the people I should think, were like those we sometimes see in Fitchburg with an old horse and cart.

There is one place called London about midway as we passed through Canada which was quite a town, with large and good buildings, but most of the houses I saw were small and poor, many of them built of logs, and some of them have chimneys that would make you laugh. They are built outside at the end of the house, with sticks of wood about 3 feet long, laid up in cobhouse fashion, and plastered with mud. I did not feel very desirous to locate among them. There is a large amount of land there that is not occupied. Some of our party said the Irish in New England were talking of leaving there and going over to settle on these lands, and we thought it would be a good plan. We presume the R. N's and some others, would vote to have them go, with a hearty good will. We arrived at Windsor, opposite Detroit at 2 p. m. the 16th, having passed through Canada 230 miles. Here we crossed the Detroit river and landed in Detroit, but too late for the day train to Chicago. There we again took the night train, at 10 in the evening. (Music by the juvenile Choir again.) The conductor told us he would put on 2 Engines and put us into Chicago at 9 in the morning, but when we had proceeded about 50 miles, he left one Engine, and we again went dragging along and arrived in Chicago at 4 p. m. the 17th. Chicago is laid out finely, with wide straight streets, and I suppose in dry weather is a fine place, but now it is detestable, or rather its streets are, for they are nothing but black mud and water, from 2 to 10 inches deep. It was now Saturday, and near night, and we did not want to travel on the Sabbath. If the several Conductors had done their duty we should have been in St. Louis now, knowing the boat was ready for us, and fearing it would be gone if we waited until Monday, and being assured if we went that night we should arrive in St. Louis about noon on the Sabbath, and could then go on board the boat, and rest and be quiet, we concluded to go, but here again we met with the same treatment as before, and did not arrive in St. Louis until 4 o'clock Monday morning, the 19th. Plenty of music by the juvenile band. Our train all the way from Fitchburg consisted of 2 baggage cars full of baggage and freight, and from 6 to 9 Passenger Cars, well filled. St. Louis is a great place for business. The levee is about 3 miles long and 6 or 7 rods wide, and is occupied for loading and unloading steamboats, and there were about 60 steamboats there loading and unloading, and a vast number of men and teams engaged in the work. The teams are mostly of 2 mules, one before the other, and they drive them very adroitly. There are so many of them driving hither and thither, that they sometimes get blocked for an 8th of a mile, so that they cannot get one way or the other, only at each end, then they jabber away at each other in rough style. I walked on the street about $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles and counted 330 teams. I noticed they did not stop even to feed their teams at noon, but drove them all day, and many of them seemed intent on doing as much as possible in the day. Left St. Louis Tuesday the 20th, at 11 a. m., and proceeded up the river to Kansas City which is in Missouri, 457 miles from St. Louis.

April 6th. The Missouri river was very low and our boat stuck on the sand bars, which delayed our progress. One day we were so delayed with sand bars that more than 100 of us went ashore and walked 5 miles on the bank. We saw millions of wild geese, on the banks as we passed up the river, and when walking 2 of our men caught each of them one, that had a wing wounded so they could not fly. We had on the boat more than 300 passengers, so that more than half of us had to sleep on Mattresses on the cabin floor. We arrived in Kansas City, Saturday evening at 7 o'clock, having travelled night and day, all the time since we left home and had not seen a bed or undressed since I started. Kansas city is a small town, most of the houses are poor and small, with one small meeting-house. I attended meeting there on the Sabbath, but there were but few present except those of our party. The Emigrant Aid Com. have a large Hotel here that accommodates Emigrants.

Monday morning all the teams were engaged to carry families, and 9 of us started on foot to Lawrence 50 miles distant. At noon 4 of our party became too weary to keep up. We pressed our way on until dark, then called at an indian hut, (having walked 30 miles) and enquired if we could stay over night, and being told we could, concluded to stay. The hut was about 16 feet square, and contained 6 persons. The indians were very kind and pleasant to us. We talked with them, and sung and prayed with them, and they retired, and 3 of our party laid on the floor, on their blankets, and myself and the others sat up all night. I did not sleep any, though I had no fear, but we had not only 11 of us in that small room, but 3 dogs in the room, and 3 or 4 more outside who kept up an almost continual yelping. After breakfast we started on our way, and arrived in Lawrence at $1\frac{1}{2}$ o'clock p. m., Tuesday, 2 weeks from the time I left home. Though the journey has been tedious, yet no accident has befallen any of our party, and I feel that I have great reason to praise God for his merciful care and protection. Lawrence is yet but a small town, but I think will become a large place. The location of the City is truly beautiful, but most of the houses are only such as the Irish build when making railroads, but they have one saw-mill at work, and are now building frame houses, and I think if lumber could be obtained fast enough there would be an immense number of houses built here this year. There are several men preparing to make brick, but the greatest call here is for concrete, or gravel buildings. I am now engaged in building a store in that way. Much of the land here is beautiful and rich, though there is a scarcity of wood and timber. It is now very dry here, there has been no rain scarcely for 8 or 9 months.

Emigrants are rushing in at an astonishing rate, and many of them return immediately home. There are more or less indians in the City every day, but they are perfectly harmless. It is now late and I am weary and must therefore close. I do not know whether I shall stay here through the season, or not, it will depend very much on what word I get from home. I trust you will be faithful and obedient to Mr. and Mrs. Aldrich, and remember your Creator now in the days of your youth, before the evil days come, and the years draw nigh in which you shall say I have no pleasure in them. Remember me to Mr. and Mrs. Aldrich. May the blessing of God rest upon you, that your life may be preserved, that you may become a good and useful man. My health is good except a little lameness in my back.

From your affectionate father,
Wm. Marshall.

P. S.

Last evening I attended the first wedding that was ever attended in this place. It took place in the house where I lodge, which is about 16 feet square. There is often 6 or 7 lodge in this room, and 4 or 5 in the garret, which is attained by climbing a ladder.

Mass. Cousin Zachariah with his family lived in Kansas some years; don't know where his wife died, but he had three daughters, one was standing at the door when a flash of lightning struck her dead. Two daughters came back from Kansas; they were school teachers, and one was especially handsome. Cousin Zachariah's father's name was Samuel." This Samuel referred to is Number 41 in our record, and his son Zachariah referred to in above letter was twice married. His obituary notice appeared in Fitchburg Sentinel, Nov. 12, 1891. He was born Nov. 12, 1807; by his first wife, Caroline Putnam, had two sons and two daughters. But one child, his daughter Annie, survived his death. He was a paper maker, and his sons George and James were also paper makers. ALBERT S. MARSHALL, b. in Lunenburg, Mass., May 31, 1828; d. in Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 16, 1910, was probably a brother of Zachariah and son of Samuel. ALBERT S. MARSHALL left four sons, one, Albert A. resided in Somerville, Mass., in 1910; the others were living in Los Angeles. We have no complete record of (41) SAMUEL, and would be glad of any records or other information that our readers can furnish us. Our first information was gained from letters in (86) MARTHA MARSHALL's own handwriting; to these letters the compiler of this book is indebted for some of the valuable material in this book.

87. JOSEPH MARSHALL carried on business with his son (170) JAMES CARTER MARSHALL in Boston, but had a farm in North

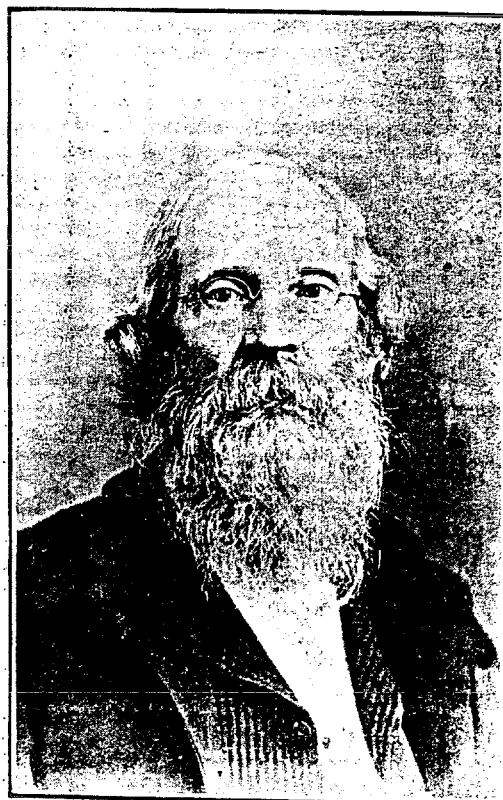

Leominster, Mass., where he lived nearly forty years, and where he died. He was an extremely active man. Shortly before his death, he took the compiler of this book to the old Marshall homestead in Lunenburg, telling many interesting stories of his early life on the farm and describing the country as it was then; he told of their planting corn when a boy, and then having to plant potatoes on same land because the bears came and got the corn. His land is about 60 rods north-west of the present Herbert A. Eaton house and is now covered with a heavy growth of timber. (87) JOSEPH⁷ MARSHALL, m. at Brattleboro, Vt., by Rev. 97. GEORGE SEWELL⁷ BOUTWELL, L. L. D., the first commissioner of internal revenue, Secretary of the Treasury under President Grant and for four years one of the leading international lawyers, and Governor of Massachusetts. He attended the public school and became a clerk in a general store in Lunenburg at 13; at 16 he taught school in Shirley, Mass. His early dream was to become a lawyer. In 1842 he became a member of the lower house in the Mass. Legislature, and served till 1845 and from 1847 till 1850. He was also at different times a railroad and bank commissioner, and a member of various other committees of the Commonwealth. In 1851 he became Governor of Massachusetts and in 1852 was re-elected. He was a leading member of the Mass. constitutional convention of 1853, and in 1855 he was chosen Secretary of the Mass. Board of Education. In 1862 he was admitted to the bar. Scarcely had he begun to practice before he was made commissioner of internal revenue and organized the department under the act of 1862. He began with three clerks and had 140 when he re-organized in 1863. In 1873 he was chosen United States Senator from Mass., and he continued in the Senate till 1877, when he was appointed by President Hayes to revise the statutes of the United States. This work was completed by the publication of the volume in 1878. In 1880 he was made counsel and agent of the United States before a board of international arbitrators for the settlement of claims of citizens of the United States and France against the two governments growing out of the Civil War. His was a long and varied career and helped make important history. July 8, 1841, he married Sarah Adelia Thayer, born Oct. 13, 1813, in Hollis, N. H., of Nathan and Hannah (Jewett) Thayer. She died Mar. 8, 1903. Both are buried in Groton, Mass.

120. GEN. JOHN MEREDITH^s READ received his education in a military school. He commanded a corps of National cadets, which furnished 127 officers to the United States army during the Civil war; was aide-de-camp to the governor of Rhode Island; won the rank of colonel in 1855; graduated M. A. at Brown University in 1858, and LL. B. at the Albany Law School in 1859; and studied civil and international law in Europe.

He was engaged actively in the Presidential campaign of 1856; organized important political movements in the Presidential campaign of 1860; accepted in November of that year the office of Adjutant-General of the state of New York and won the rank of Brigadier-General at the age of 23. He was chairman of the Government Commission which welcomed President Lincoln at Buffalo, and escorted him to the capitol (Feb., 1861); chairman, two months later of the committee of three to draft a bill appropriating $3,000,000 for the purchase of arms and equipments; and received the official thanks of the War Department of the United States for his energy, ability and zeal in the organization and equipment of troops during the war. He took a leading part in the Presidential campaign of 1868, which resulted in the election of General Grant, who appointed him Consul-General of the United States for France and Algeria, to reside at Paris. General Read likewise acted as Consul-General of Germany during the Franco-German war, and afterwards, for nearly two years, directing all the consular affairs of that empire, including the protection of German subjects and interests during the first and second sieges of Paris (1870-71). Both sides acknowledged that General Read's consenting to continue to act as Consul-General, with the thirty-five Consuls and Consular agents under him, prevented the possibility of a renewal of the conflict between the two countries by rendering unnecessary the presence in France of German consular officials, at a time when the mind of the French people was highly excited against all Germans. At this period the German ambassador, in a letter to General Read, said : " I cannot omit to express to you once more, the sentiments of gratitude with which I am inspired by the persevering solicitude which you have never ceased to manifest in procuring for my compatriots the protection of the laws." For this service he received the commendation of the President of the United States in his annual message to Congress; the repeated thanks of the German Government, and the official and personal thanks and compliments of Prince Bismarck. In 1872 he was invited by General de Cissey, French Minister of War, to form and preside over a commission to examine into the expediency of extending the study of the English language in the French army, and for his successful labours in this direction he received the thanks of the French Government. In recognition of his various distinguished services he was promoted, in November, 1873, to be the United States Minister resident in Greece. Since then he has received the thanks of his Government for his ability and energy in securing the release of the American ship " Armenia," and for his successful efforts in obtaining from the Greek Government a revocation of the order prohibiting the sale and circulation of the Bible in Greece; he also received the thanks of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Southern Presbyterian Church, and of the British and American Foreign Bible Societies, for the latter important service. General Read revisited his native country in 1874, and was received with the warmest demonstrations of welcome by all political parties, banquets being given in his honor at New York, Albany, Philadelphia, and Washington. For his literary and scientific services he has received the thanks of the State Department of the United States, of the National Academy of Design, of the English East India Company, of the Russia Company, of the Society of Antiquaries of London, of the Archaeological Society of Greece, and of the French Academy. In 1867 he was named Founder of the Royal Society of Northern Antiquaries by the Prince Royal of Denmark. He took a deep interest in the foundation of the French Association for the Advancement of Science. He was President of the American Social Science Congress at Albany in 1868, and a Vice-President of the British Social Science Congress at Plymouth in 1872. He is an honorary Fellow or member of a great number of learned bodies in Europe and America, and the author of several learned works which have achieved a high reputation, and of many public addresses and official reports. General Read received the thanks of his Government for his prompt and efficient protection of American persons and interests in the dangerous crisis in Greece in February, 1878." From Biography published in " Men of the Time," 10th edition, 1879, George Routledge & Sons, London and New York, printers.

121. CHARLOTTE MARSHALL⁸ HOLBROOKE lived with her parents in Boston until about five years old, when they removed to New York city, and later to Chappaqua, N. Y., where they were the friends and neighbors of Horace Greeley and his family. In youth she enjoyed great social advantages, not only at home, but from the age of twelve years until her marriage, she was a frequent visitor, often for long intervals in the home of her aunt, Mrs. Horatio Bridge; sometimes in Washington, and sometimes elsewhere, as the duties of a navy officer demanded change of residence. In this home she was associated with the most cultured Americans and the honored representatives of many foreign courts, gaining an ease of manner and a breadth of sentiment, which, added to her natural charms, made her a welcome guest in any company. She was much interested in genealogical matters, and made many notes on all branches of her family; she became a member of the Colonial Dames of America through twenty-six ancestors; a member of the Mayflower Society, eleven of her ancestors coming on that ship; also a member of the Society of "Founders and Patriots," Jan., 1909. She was the Founder and Regent of Tioga Chapter, D. A. R. of Athens, Pa., and a memorial booklet printed after her death shows in what love and esteem she was held by her associates. Her life was full of good deeds, generous counsel, loving sympathy and sweet comradeship; she was a leader, a worker, an inspiration always.

"The sacred faith of old heroic days ;
 The eye that shone as steadfast as a star ;
 The heart which held the griefs of lives that are,
 That were, and shall be. Hers the faithful ways
 Of toil and peace, unknown to human praise,
 But leading from the cares and thoughts that mar
 Earth's harmony of light to homes afar.
 The sacred hand of tranquil Autumn lays
 Its wreath of oak upon the blessed grave
 The stars watch calmly, as they watched of old
 The mighty souls she revered ; and the wave
 Of whispering rivers keeps her name of gold
 Linked with the names of dearest, wisest, best
 Of women, shrined in love's eternal rest. G. O. H."

124. GEORGE OTIS⁸ HOLBROOKE was educated most carefully at private schools and by tutors in Boston ; was a remarkable scholar, especially proficient in languages, and, after graduating from college at 18 years of age, was offered and occupied the chair of Modern Languages at Trinity College (Hartford). He early began to write both prose and poetry for periodicals ; has been a great traveler, spending much time in Europe. A few years ago he lost the greater part of his right hand; caught in machinery in Harpers Brothers works. This accident, together with increasing years and broken health, would have laid many men upon the shelf, but not so for George Otis Holbrooke. The Methodist Episcopal Mission at Vikarabad, Deccan, India, needed just such a man, and he resolutely put aside all thought of self and gave himself to this work. There he is accomplishing marvels, not only as a teacher and leader in the schools for boys, but in almost every line of mission activities, even to editing their papers, typewriting their letters, composing their songs and hymns and leading their choirs. To see all this done by a man with but one hand, seems to these simple East Indian people a true miracle, performed daily under their own eyes, and they call him, "Brother of Christ the man of the One Hand." Exceedingly handsome, an unusual elegance of manner, and a high degree of personal magnetism, combine to make him an attractive personality. For such a man to give up his luxurious home and go to far away India; live as they do there; give not only himself, but nine-tenths of his income to the work, is indeed a Christ-like self-sacrifice. The MARSHALL family has reason to love, honor, and admire GEORGE OTIS HOLBROOKE.

WILLIAM MARSHALL WHITE.
No. 136.

137. ABIGAIL⁸ WHITE did not go to Vermont with her parents, but worked in the family of Willard Carpenter in Surry, N. H., and attended school at the north end of the town, where her future husband, William Carpenter also attended. They were married in Walpole, N. H., by Rev. Mr. Burnham, May 2, 1838, and were the parents of fifteen children. Their entire married life of over 49 years was passed in his native town, Surry, where she died July 20, 1887. A Surry item in the New England Observer of Keene is a worthy tribute to a noble woman, and we copy it entire: "The many friends in Surry and elsewhere will hear with profound regret and sincere sorrow of the death of Mrs. Abigail Carpenter, which occurred last week Wednesday. She leaves to mourn her loss a husband in feeble health and fourteen children. They were all but two (Jasper and Myra) present at the funeral which occurred last Saturday. Rev. G. H. DeBevoise officiated. Those whose privilege it was to be admitted to the circle of friends will long remember Mrs. Carpenter and will recall to memory very often her pure and beautiful character, as a noble woman, a refined and cultivated lady, and a true Christian. We may say of her without undue praise, 'she was the white flower of an unsullied life,' and with reverent hearts and faith we believe she has already received from the divine Master, the welcome 'Well done, good and faithful servant,' and that her entrance into heavenly rest is gracious and complete."

One of her children's memories of her mother is of often hearing her sing about her work the beautiful song by Phebe Cary :

"One sweetly solemn thought comes to me o'er and o'er :
I'm nearer my home to-day, to-day, than I have been before."

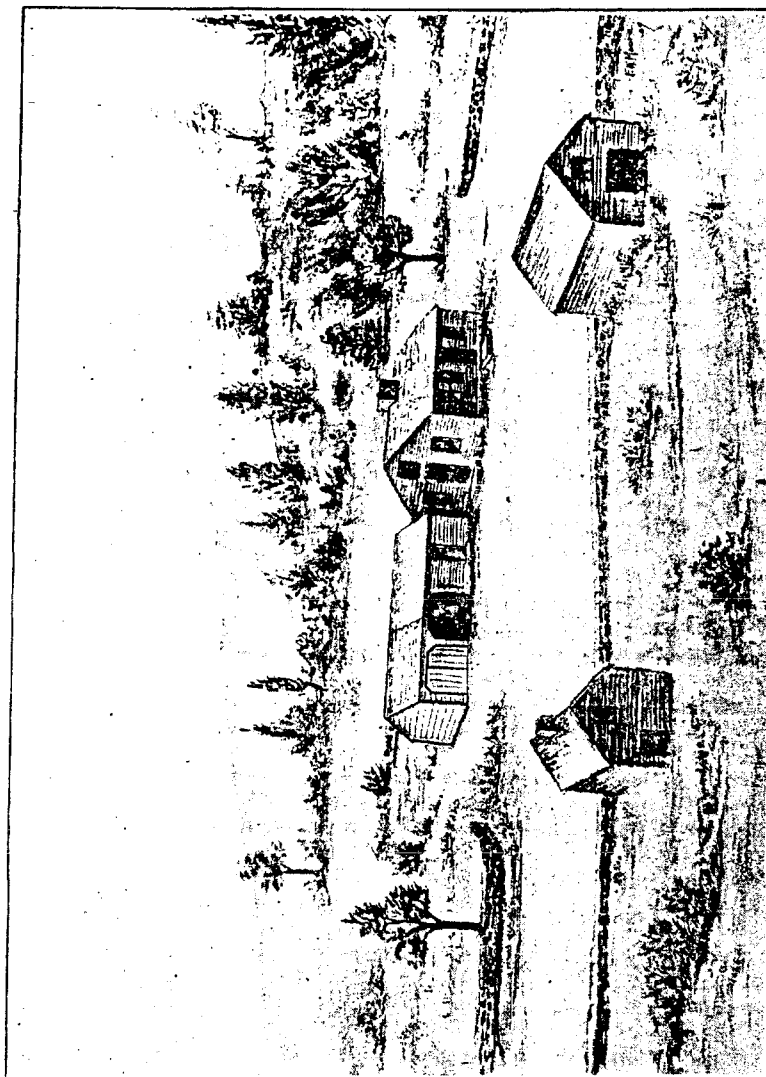

She was a regular attendant of the Congregational church in Surry village.

Of this family of fifteen children, one only died in infancy ; the rest lived to manhood and womanhood and thirteen are still living (Dec. 1912). On Nov. 15, 1873, all, but one, met in Keene, N. H., and were photographed. They were never all at home together at the same time, the older ones being married and with children of their own before their younger sisters were born.

William Carpenter was born in Surry, Jan. 26, 1814, of Ezra and Betty (Chapin) *Carpenter. He was a tall and well-built man, six feet in height, weighing about 160 pounds ; strong and well adapted for a farmer, which occupation he always followed. He was fond of a joke, keen of wit, and his conversation was often mingled with humor. On March 29, 1837, he bought of his father, Ezra Carpenter, the Carpenter homestead on Surry hill. This farm consisted of about 150 acres. He also bought the buildings, stock, and tools, and one-third of pew No. 28, in Surry meeting-house, paying $2,000 for the entire purchase.

They lived on this place till about Feb. 1st, 1850, when they moved to a farm in Surry village which he had bought of Elijah Holbrook, now owned by William Martin. On April 2, 1850, he bought of Caleb Wright, the farm of 104 acres adjoining on the south side, and this was their home from 1871 till shortly before his death. His daughter (276) Marietta C. (Carpenter) Wright now owns his last home.

CIDER MILL.

SHOP.

EZRA AND WILLIAM CARPENTER HOMESTEAD, SURRY, N. H. LOOKING NORTHWEST.

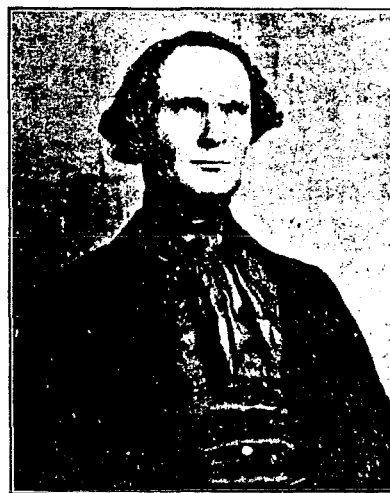

The old house was torn down by William Carpenter (No. 137) and his sons, Jasper H. and Mason A. in fall of 1864, and the following winter was sledded into the village where the timber and boards were used in building new buildings upon William's new property. The cider mill, shop, and barn, also, which stood some ten rods south of the house, was bought by Hollis Wilcox, who tore them down. He used a horse and a sweep for power in his cider mill. The above cut is reproduced from memory.

The large maple trees on east side of the road between his two village homes were set out by Wm. Carpenter and his sons in 1857. He was Selectman of Surry in 1846-7, and 1851-3. At the time of his death he was probably the best informed man anywhere on history of Surry and vicinity; in this he was especially interested. While reading with his favorite glimmer—the candle—one evening in 1886, the light got into a squabble with his long, flowing, dark beard which he prized, and “after the battle was over and the smoke had rolled away,” he found his whiskers had been badly licked. He stated to the compiler, “he would rather give a dollar than have it happen.” He died at the home of his daughter (275) Mrs. Harriet R. (Carpenter) Emmons, near the Four Corners in North Keene, N. H., Oct. 8, 1890, three years after the death of his wife.

H., Nov. 6, 1818, of Richard and Sally (Thornton)* Clark, and a descendant of the Richard Clark who came over in the Mayflower and whose name is found engraved on Plymouth Rock monument. At the age of 19 Sumner Clark graduated with high honors from Ludlow Academy at Ludlow, Vt. He married (139) Mary Ann Watts White in 1842 and they lived in Shrewsbury and West Dover, Vt. till 1857, when they went to Minnesota. He owned some mill property and was Justice of Peace while living in Shrewsbury. In 1870 they moved to St. James, Minn., and both are buried there. Of Mrs. Clark, at her death, The St. James Journal says, "In the death of Mrs. Clark, this city loses one of its earliest settlers, and a gentle, lovable woman, whose every acquaintance loved her, and who numbered her friends from the gray head to the little child. Kind-hearted she always was and unselfish, the world is better that she lived in it."

Sumner C. Clark built the first building erected in St. James on the site now occupied by Gibbs Hotel. He held many offices of trust and honor; was county surveyor and county commissioner of Blue Earth County for a number of terms. In 1868 he was admitted to the Bar, and was at one time Judge of Probate of Watonwan County. He was Justice of Peace in both Vermont and Minnesota. He d. Oct. 28, 1895, at St. James.

147. LUCY JONES⁸ MARSHALL m. in Pittsburg, Pa., by Rev. Herrick Johnson, July 16, 1863, William Isaac Chamberlain, b. in Sharon, Conn., Feb. 11, 1837. William Chamberlain's parents moved to Hudson, Ohio, in 1864; he graduated from Western Reserve College of Hudson in 1859; taught school till 1865, when he became a farmer and writer for Agricultural papers. In 1880 he was chosen Secretary of the Ohio State Board of Agriculture, and he moved to Columbus. His most important work has been the organizing of the Farmers' Institute in the various counties of the state, and widely adopted elsewhere. In 1886 he was elected Pres. of the Agricultural College of Iowa, but he resigned this office in 1891 and returned to his farm in Hudson, where he still lives. From 1892 to 1908 he was Associate Editor of the "Ohio Farmer." He is now connected in the same capacity with the "National Stockman." Mrs. Chamberlain made a trip abroad in the winter of 1908, visiting London, Paris, Marseilles, Monte Carlo, Rome, Naples and Pompeii, Venice, Genoa, Rotterdam, Amsterdam, Cambridge, Oxford, and many other places of interest. She has written most entertainingly of her travels and we wish there were space to copy her letters entire. She has shown much interest in this MARSHALL FAMILY RECORD and given valued assistance to its compiler.

College in Hudson, Ohio, in 1859, and went to Pittsburg, Pa., where he engaged in journalism. He was one of the faculty of University of Pittsburg for a year or two and in 1863 he enlisted in Civil war for 90 days service; he re-enlisted and was commissioned an officer in a regiment of colored troops, and served till about six months after the war. He was in the siege of Richmond, and after the assassination of Pres. Lincoln his regiment was detailed to share in the hunt for Booth. The regiment was immediately recalled to Washington and given a place of honor in the funeral procession. In the fall of 1865 Mr. Christy returned to Pittsburg and resumed the study of law; was admitted to the Bar in 1867, engaging in the practise of patent law. He was for several years counsel and vice-president of the Westinghouse Air-brake Co. He died in Sewickley, Penn., Sept. 27, 1909.

Clifton Marshall graduated from Western Reserve College in 1867, and went to New York to perfect himself in music, and has lived there ever since as a teacher of piano. No children.

152. CHARLES GRANVILLE⁸ MARSHALL lived for many years in or near New York city, but all trace of him has been lost by his relatives. He married Annie — of N. J., and in 1896 they lived in Brooklyn, N. Y. No children.

153. GEORGE EDWARD⁸ MARSHALL was about 5 years old when his parents went from Lunenburg to Boston to live; they soon moved to Colerain, Mass., and lived in that vicinity and Brattleboro, Vt. for many years. George Edward Marshall went to Fitchburg, Mass., Dec. 31, 1850, and lived there till within a few years of his death. He enlisted in Co. D. (or B.) 53rd Reg. Mass. Vol., Aug., 1862, under Capt. Jonas Corey and Col. John W. Kimball. His service in the war was in the engineering corps and his time was spent in bridge building and other engineering work on the Mississippi river and in Florida. He was discharged at Camp Stephens, Ayer Junction, Mass., Aug., 1863, and returned to Fitchburg where he became a stationary engineer; being with the Fitchburg Machine Co. for thirty-three consecutive years, till 1902, when he gave up active work and went to live with his son (305) Henry N. Marshall. The last six years of his life he made his home with his brother (156) Joseph Turner Marshall at Marshall's Corner, Westminster, Mass. His death came after a short illness of pneumonia, while on a visit to his son (307) Fred A. in Fitzwilliam, N. H. He was a man known and respected by a wide circle of friends and acquaintances, quiet, peaceable and agreeable at all times; he was much interested in the Marshall Family records. He married first, Oct. 7, 1856, in Fitchburg, Mass., by Rev. Marvin, Lydia A. Henshaw of Fitchburg, who died June 24, 1872. He m. 2nd, by Rev. Harding of Fitchburg, Apr. 17, 1873, Mrs. Elizabeth Cutting (Manning) Woods, born in Templeton, Mass., Mar. 22, 1841. (She m. 1st Wm. Heald, 2nd Charles E. Woods, 3rd George E. Marshall).

154. HENRY *AUGUSTUS⁸ MARSHALL enlisted July 19, 1861, in 21st Reg. Co. A. Mass. Vol., and was discharged Aug. 30, 1864. He married, Dec. 1, 1869, in Fitchburg, Mass., Sarah J. Morse, b. in Petersham, Mass., May 3, 1839, of Asa and Elizabeth (Goulding) Morse. She died in Athol, Mass., Jan. 26, 1899. He continued to live alone and was found dead in his chair March 14, 1911. Death was due to heart disease. He was a vise maker in the employ of the Athol Machine Co., where he had been employed twenty-five years. They had no children.

156. JOSEPH TURNER⁸ MARSHALL enlisted as a private in Co. D. 21st Reg. Mass. Vol., from Aug. 3, 1861, till Sept. 25, 1862. He took part in Burnside's Expedition and fought in the Battle of Roanoke Island, at which time he came near being shot. As he had his arm raised, ramming a charge in his gun, a bullet passed under his arm, and hit his file closer. At the battle of Newburn he was detailed as bugler, and while on duty had both his canteen strap and bugle straps shot off. On account of sickness, he was sent to Beaufort hospital in North Carolina, but joined the regiment in time to witness Pope's retreat. He was present at the opening of the battle of Chantilly, but fainted, and was taken from the field. He had been so feeble that Captain Kelton of Holden had carried his gun for him during the previous march, and after this he was not able to do service and was discharged from the Mt. Pleasant hospital in Washington, Sept. 23, 1862. He was an invalid nearly 15 years owing to a fractured hip, which he received by a fall, and the last three years of his life he was not able to step on his feet at all, but in spite of suffering and pain, was always cheerful and happy. He died at his home at "Marshall's corner," in Westminster, Mass., May 29, 1911, where he had lived over 26 years, and it seemed beautiful and fitting that he should answer the bugle call above at Memorial time. He was a machinist when a young man, but a farmer while in Westminster. He enlisted in 1863 in the 57th Reg. and served through the War. He was engaged in the Battle of the Wilderness and in the Battle of Fort Steadman, and was wounded in the battle of the Wilderness. He married in Lunenburg, Mass., by Rev. A. E. Higgins, April 29, 1860, Mary Ann Conant, born March 25, 1837, in New Ipswich, N. H., of Andrew and Emily (Farnsworth) Conant. They had ten children, seven of whom were living in 1910 when their parents celebrated their golden wedding in No. Leominster, Mass., where they had lived for 44 years. An original poem written by Mrs. James Appleton Marshall is a happy souvenir of that occasion. In it she says:

"We were married in Lunenburg, down on the farm,
On a Sunday afternoon, and thought it no harm.
Ten brothers and sisters, with their companions beside,
Witnessed the ceremony and saw the knot tied."

161. WILLIAM ISAAC⁸ MARSHALL began teaching at the age of eighteen; in 1859 he taught school in Conneaut, Ohio. He, later, became owner of the Capital City Business College in Columbus, Ohio, but sold out and went to the Montana gold field in Virginia city where he combined mining with his school teaching, also a Supt. of schools and meanwhile studying law. In 1875 he visited the gold mines of California, and on his return to Montana was admitted to the Bar and to the United States Courts. Returning in 1876 to his birthplace, Fitchburg, Mass., he began a series of illustrated public lectures. To him belongs the credit and distinction of being the original lecturer with illustrations on American subjects. He began his course of lectures in Jan., 1876, his itinerary covered almost the whole of the United States and some of Canada, and for a period of twelve years he gave his entire time and effort to the lecture platform. In 1887 he located in Chicago, and was in business with his brother (164) Edward Tracy Marshall. In 1894, he again became a teacher in the public schools, and at the time of his death was principal of the "Wm. E. Gladstone school" in Chicago.

While residing in the West he became interested in and finally drawn into the controversy as to the truth of the claim which for many years passed unchallenged that one, Marcus Whitman, an early missionary to the West, and for whom Whitman College is named, had, by an adventurous and hazardous journey in the rigors of midwinter, crossed mountain and plain, and spanned our continent to inform the chief magistrate of the U. S. at Washington, D. C., of a conspiracy under way by the Hudson Bay Co., and English Government to obtain possession of Oregon Territory, about one twelfth of the entire area of the United States. It is through (161) WILLIAM I. MARSHALL'S labors in refutation of this historical error that he will be known to readers of history in generations to come. Four large volumes of type written manuscript show the result of his research and investigations. He was a member of the American Historical Association and of the National Geographical Society. He died Oct. 30, 1906, in Chicago, Ill. Aug. 20, 1864, he married in Fitchburg, Mass., Ellen Porter Foster, b. May 10, 1843, in Ashby, Mass., of Joseph and Harriet Eliza (Gibson) Foster. Mrs. Ellen Foster Marshall has shown deep interest in the MARSHALL FAMILY RECORD and has given most valuable assistance to the compiler. Her daughter, also, was much interested, and, before her illness, gathered together many items and dates for this book. The only child of WILLIAM and ELLEN Marshall, b. in Ashby, Mass. :

181. GEORGIANNA A.^s BOUTWELL graduated from Salem, Mass. Normal School in 1861 and taught school for one year in Lunenburg, and for one term, as a substitute, in a preparatory class of the Roxbury Latin School. In Dec. 1862, she went to Washington with her parents, and thereafter spent the whole or some part of thirty winters with her father in the National Capitol. On June 27, 1877, she was appointed by the Gov. of Massachusetts as a member of the Advisory Board of Women for Inspection of the Institutions at Tewksbury, Monson and Westboro. In 1879 she became Trustee for Tewksbury, and served two years. She has also served as a member of the Groton school committee. She resides on the homestead in Groton, and her interest in the social and civic welfare of the town is unflagging. She recalls most vividly the great events which took place in Washington during and after the war, and among the societies of Groton there is a constant demand for her reminiscences. She is unmarried.

182. FRANCIS MARION^s BOUTWELL attended a military academy in Leicester, after graduating from the Groton High School, and in 1864-65 he was a pupil at Lawrence Academy in Groton. He was with Burrage Bros. & Co. in Boston for four years, going from there to Chicago, where he was employed in the woolen department of John V. Farnell & Co. In 1871 he returned to Groton. He began the study of law in his father's office, and became a solicitor of patents; was a clerk of the Senate Committee in the revision of the laws of the United States in the winter of 1876-77, and assisted his father in the preparation of the Index of the Statutes of the United States. He was also one of the Junior Council for the Government before the French and American claims commission. During the last years of his life he had charge of his father's farm; was a member of the Groton Farmers and Mechanics Club, and for some years Master of Groton Grange; served on the school committee, and for several years was Superintendent of Schools. He was one of the founders of Groton Historical Society and served as a vice president or acting president from its beginning until the time of his death; was the author of three pamphlets, "Homesteads of Groton," "Old Highways and Landmarks of Groton," "People and their Homes." He married, Feb. 28, 1900, by Rev. Joshua Young, Caroline Eleanor Taylor, born in Newburyport, Mass., Apr. 21, 1866. No children.

14, 1860, *Mrs. Lucy Maria Murdock, b. at Leroy, N. Y., Oct. 7, 1836, of David and Rhoda (Crain) Cushing, formerly of Surry, N. H. She was the widow of Hiram Murdock of Hiram, N. Y. After her marriage to (268) LUMAN MARSHALL CARPENTER, they went to Millbury, Mass., but returned in a short time to Surry, N. H., where he was a merchant for a few months, when he moved to the David Cushing farm (now Everett Wilbur's). Later he bought his father's north farm in the village (now Wm. Martin's), and afterwards he was interested in the "village store." He served as town treasurer; as selectman twelve years; postmaster ten years, and also member of school committee. 270. ELLEN MARIA⁹ CARPENTER was b. on the old Carpenter homestead in Surry, N. H., and can relate most interesting stories of farm life and childhood days. The cider mill where her father made cider, using a horse on a sweep to do the grinding; the building where there was always plenty of butternuts; the old barn, and the sugar-house nearby, made a happy environment for her younger days. While here, she went to school in the same building that her parents had attended. Later they moved to the village and she attended the village school, where one winter term there were over seventy scholars packed into the little school house later destroyed by fire; after leaving school, she worked in Surry and Keene, and Millbury, Mass., till her marriage. She has been much interested and most diligent in procuring records and hunting up information for this book, and, to her, the compiler is gratefully indebted for the reproduced cut of the Ezra Carpenter homestead on page 38.

in the village. In 1860, he worked on a farm for Mr. Hawes on Blossom St., Fitchburg, Mass., and in 1861 on a farm in Wilton, N. H. He enlisted at Keene, Nov. 5, 1861, in Co. E, 6th Regt., N. H. Vol. as a private and was discharged Jan. 29, 1863, at Convalescent camp, Alexandria, Va.; re-enlisted Sept. 2, 1864, and was corporal in 1st N. H. Heavy Artillery. He participated in several hard fought battles; in one of which his regiment lost nearly half its members. During the last months of the war, his regiment was near Washington, D. C., in the defences about the city; he saw the body of Pres. Abraham Lincoln as it lay in state in the Capitol Rotunda. In March 1866, he moved his family to Georgetown, Ottawa Co., Mich., and settled on an 8c-acre farm,‡—in the Michigan woods. Here he cleared the land, built a plank house 18 ft. x 26 ft. (standing in 1912); rafted logs down the Grand River to the Haven, and ran a threshing machine. The first year in Michigan they lived in a small log house on a neighbor's land. They returned to Surry, N. H., Nov. 25, 1870, and

271. DR. JASPER HAZEN⁹ CARPENTER worked in a stove shop in the village of Swanzy Factory, N. H., from Mar. 1 to June 1, 1865. On Monday, Aug. 14, 1865, he and George B. Kingsbury of Surry, N. H., started for Michigan and arrived in Grand Rapids Aug. 16. His first work as a wood turner at Turnum & Buddington furniture shop brought him $20 per month, while he paid $4 per week for board at the Michigan House. He went to the town of Bowne in July, 1866, and was employed as a wood turner in the shop of David Ruckel, which stood about ten rods south of the present grist mill of George Nagler & Son, on Little Thorn Apple Creek, near the village of Freeport. May 31, 1867, he settled on a 40-acre farm which he purchased of his father-in-law, John Roush, and which he has since owned and where he now resides. At that time this land was covered with a heavy growth of hard wood timber, except about one acre, which had been cut down by Perry McCarty, who had lived there a short time and built a small hut 12 x 14 feet. JASPER H. CARPENTER built a new dwelling 14 x 20 ft., in the summer of 1868, a few feet south of the old hut, and in 1901 a modern house was erected some 5 rods north of his first dwelling. In 1870, in company with Samuel and Michael Roush, his brothers-in-law, he built a saw mill on Little Thorn Apple Creek, near the present Freeport Creamery building. They dug a long canal to get head for this mill. The old ditch is still visible in many places. He soon sold this property, moved to Morgan, Barry Co., and became interested in another mill, but both mills were lost by fire, and he returned to his farm in Bowne. During the summer of 1867, he worked in his father-in-law's cornfield, which was where the village of Freeport is now built.

In Sept. 1887, at the age of 43, with only a common school education, he entered the Chicago Homeopathic Medical College, from which he was graduated Mar. 18, 1890, with the degree of M. D. He returned to Michigan, and has practised his profession in Morgan, Manistee, and Benzie counties, and in 1893 located in Saginaw, where he was associated with Dr. John F. Ruckel for one year, when he returned to Freeport, where he had a large and successful practice and also served on Board of Health till ill health caused him to retire, and he returned to his old farm again in 1906, where he still lives. WILLIS AUGUSTUS CHAPMAN. No. 285.

 WILLIS AUGUSTUS CHAPMAN.

As compiler and printer of the first MARSHALL FAMILY RECORD he should be gratefully remembered by all descendants of the Marshall family. Just a quarter of a century ago, in 1887, he issued an 18 page pamphlet and freely distributed copies among those interested; his records date back to 1632, were carefully gathered and compiled from Martha Marshall's M.S.S., and are usually reliable and accurate. For his work as genealogist we owe his memory kind and grateful thoughts. As a man and citizen, there is no doubt of the high place he held, and we wish it were possible to print entire the eloquent words written in memoriam of his death. From the Business Men's Association of St. James, we quote briefly: "He was a man whom it was an honor to know; he was an honor to his profession, and his life was such as to make him an exemplary citizen and a valuable member of society. His presence was everywhere welcomed, and his personal modesty and retiring disposition could not prevent his true merits from being discovered and properly estimated. He was ever ready to assist in helping any public enterprise, and much bears the impress of his energetic push as an efficient manager. His probity, courtesy and kindness endeared him to a large circle of friends. His character was manly, his life was true, and a painful death admitted him to heavenly rest. To his afflicted family we extend our sincere sympathy, and to his little ones we can point out no more worthy example than the manly, independent record made by their father."

292. HERBERT WILLIAM⁹ CHAMBERLAIN inherited artistic and architectural tendencies and tastes. In 1885 he won the Ohio prize for best architectural drawing by any High School pupil in the state. After graduating with high rank from the Iowa State college of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts he found employment in the office of the great Chicago architects, Burnham & Root. From Mr. Root's brain sprang "The Great White City" (The World's Fair) in all its chief details just as it was finally realized. It is a proud memory that this greatest of architectural originators since Bell & Richardson once said to young Chamberlain's father, "Your son, sir, is a young man of remarkable promise as an architect."

After the close of The World's Fair, he went to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and took the four years in two years, taking the honors representing his class in architecture on the commencement stage at graduation and winning the architectural scholarship which made possible a post-graduate year's work. In September, 1898, he married Miss Marian L. Lewis, a fellow-graduate in architecture, and on Oct. 1st, they sailed for Europe under an honorary foreign fellowship from the Institute, intending to spend a year or two in higher study in art and architecture. After not quite seven months abroad, on May 10, 1899, he was taken ill and on May 26, died in Siena, Italy, and the bright promise of a life of distinguished service in his chosen profession was at an end. He left no children.

318. ELLEN FOSTER⁹ MARSHALL when two years of age went with her mother to Montana by the Mississippi River route (then requiring six weeks of steamboating from Sioux City, Iowa, to Fort Benton, and thence 300 miles of stage-coach travel). Her parents later lived in Fitchburg, Mass., and she graduated from the High School there in June 1885. In 1887 they moved to Chicago, where for four years she was secretary of the National Society of Household Economics; western director of the Women's Unitarian Alliance, and secretary of the Chicago Branch of the Alliance, and for ten years in charge of the postoffice mission work. So widespread was her philanthropic and charitable work that the news that her loving heart and active brain and willing hands had ceased from their earthly labors brought bitter sorrow to many a family she had helped, not only in Chicago, but on the prairies in Illinois and Oklahoma and Nebraska and the Dakotas; in the mighty forests of fir along Puget Sound and in the pine woods of the Carolinas; on lonely ranches in California, and in mining camps of Wyoming and Montana. The compiler of this book here records his appreciation of most generous and helpful assistance in gathering material and data for this book.

Dec. 13, 1833, in Ashby.

DR. ABRAHAM⁵ HASKELL studied under Rev. Mr. Harrington of Lancaster, Mass., and Israel Atherton, M. D., the latter one of the most noted practitioners in the county at that time. Dr. Haskell began practice in Lunenburg under the patronage of Dr. John Taylor, and remained in Lunenburg till Dec. 1810. In these years he was frequently called in consultation 15 and 20 miles and even farther. From Lunenburg he went to Leominster where he continued in practice till he was nearly 80 years old, and he even retained a good share of his business till he was 87, when he was induced to go and live with his son, who had some time before removed to Ashby, Mass. He was above the ordinary stature and size, five feet and ten inches in height, well proportioned, rather muscular, but considered a handsomely formed man; his walk easy and portly; his head a little inclining forward, indicative of his contemplative and deep thinking mind. His physical constitution was robust and firm. He could endure watching and fasting beyond the ability of most men; it seemed a matter of indifference with him whether he slept none or several hours during the night, or ate one or three meals in 24 hours, provided he was professionally engaged. The great object of his life was to alleviate the sufferings and subdue the diseases of his fellow creatures. "To do good and to communicate" was his governing principle. He was a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society and received the honorary degree of M. D. from Harvard College. He was married three times: 1st Sarah, dau. of Peter and Abigail Green of Lancaster, Mass.; b. May 29, 1752; d. Apr. 15, 1795; m. 2nd, Dec. 24, 1795, Miriam, widow of Capt. James Patterson of Lunenburg, Mass.; d. May 12, 1804; 3rd, Experience, dau. of Samuel Jackson, and widow of John Cotton of Plymouth, Mass.; d. at Ashby, Mass., Dec. 13, 1835.

Sarah Haskell, the first born child of Dr. Abraham and Sarah (Green) Haskell, was born Feb. 18, 1775, and was the wife of DAVID MARSHALL, No. 42.

READ. The Read family sprang from a younger son of the very ancient Berkshire, Hertfordshire, and Oxfordshire house, seated, says Sir Walter Scott, a thousand years ago in Northumbria, to which belonged the Reads (now extinct), baronets of Brocket Hall, and from which descended the baronets of Shipton, and the Reads of Ipsden House. The first American Ancestors, whose father, a staunch cavalier, took an active part for King Charles I. in the Civil wars, purchased a manorial grant in the province of Maryland from Lord Baltimore. It is a remarkable fact that this family contributed three signers of the Declaration of Independence, and four framers and signers of the Constitution of the United States. General Read's (No. 120) great-grandfather, the Hon. George Read of Delaware, one of the fathers and founders of the American Republic, originally held office under the Crown, as Attorney General, and afterwards was one of the six signers of the Declaration of Independence, who were also framers and signers of the Constitution of the United States. His grandfather, the Hon. John Read, was a Senator of Pennsylvania, the American diplomatic agent under the Treaty of Amity with Great Britain in 1794, and the author of "British Debts." His father, (No. 74 of this book) was one of the most distinguished jurists that America has produced, and at one time was prominently named as a candidate for the Presidency of the United States.
