FOREWORD

Our American Price family began with the arrival of the following immigrants from Wales:

	Came to America	Settled on Welsh Hills
David Pittsford, his wife Ann Davies (or Davis), and their daughter Mary (born 1798)	1801	1816
Maurice Jones (born 1788)	1817	1827
Edward Glynn, his wife Jane Evans, and their daughter Jane (born 1807)	1821	1821
Thomas Price, his wife Sarah Ann (died about 1822), and their son Edward (born 1797)	1821	1823

Thus, ten of our ancestors came to America from Wales—all four grandparents of the Welsh Hills Price brothers, and six of their eight great-grandparents, the other two remaining in Wales.

In 1825, Edward Price married Mary Pittsford; they were the parents of Thomas Davis Price. In 1828, Maurice Jones married Jane Glynn; they were the parents of Sarah Jane Jones.

In 1855, Thomas Davis Price married Sarah Jane Jones. They were the parents of eight sons, of whom one died at nineteen and another at forty-six. All six of the others were eventually listed in "Who's Who in America."

That Welsh Hills farm family—Thomas Davis Price and his wife and sons—constitutes the sturdy trunk of this family tree. Its roots are their ancestors, of whom seventeen are known; they are listed under the heading "Looking Back." Its branches are their descendants, listed under "Looking Forward." At this writing we count 114 living descendants, besides 44 husbands and wives.

THE HOME FARM

The Welsh Hills, so often mentioned in this booklet, are three or four square miles of hilly but fertile soil in central Ohio, settled by Welsh immigrants. The Price farm there, whose original 80 acres were bought in 1824, is five miles northwest of Newark, county seat of Licking County, and four miles northeast of Granville, seat of Denison University where more than a score of Prices have studied. Still in the family, and now covering 330 acres, it has been farmed successively by Thomas Price, his son Edward, his grandson Thomas D., his great-grandson Homer and his great-great-grandson Thomas H.

In early decades the principal cash crop was wool. Later, there was more general farming and a herd of dairy cattle. Now it is known as Price Fruit Farm, producing chiefly apples and peaches.

Throughout their lives the sons of Thomas D. Price came home to the farm as often as they could for visits, vacations and family reunions. Many of their sons and daughters cherish grateful memories of long school vacations "down on the farm" and visits there in later years. It still is hospitable to all members of the Price clan; Mrs. Homer C. Price, her son Thomas, and Tom's wife Dorothy give visitors a warm welcome.

THOMAS DAVIS PRICE

What manner of man was this ancestor?

His eldest son Ira describes him in these terms in his unpublished "Price Genealogy":

Thomas Davis Price lived all his life on the home farm. He was educated in the district school, was baptized at fifteen into the Welsh Hills Baptist Church, studied two terms at Granville Academy and taught district school. Along with farming he learned the carpenter trade, and when he was seventeen helped build the frame house on the farm. He became a Merino sheep grower and fruit specialist. His industry and frugality enabled him to more than double the original acreage of the old home place. His diligence in planting trees was so striking that the farm came to be called Evergreen Farm.

Having been deprived of a college education himself, he made every sacrifice to secure one for each of his boys, six of whom received their bachelor's degrees and completed graduate work. All of his family were baptized into membership of the Welsh Hills Baptist Church, and he was clerk of that church for 44 years.

He was often requisitioned for service in the neighborhood, as road supervisor, school director, appraiser of property, administrator of estates, etc. He was strictly opposed to the use of liquors and tobacco — neither he nor any of his sons using either. He was on principle a Republican, but did not hesitate to vote for the better man even on another ticket.

His systematic methods and desire to record events led him to keep a diary. Beginning in 1848 he kept a daily record of his work and of neighborhood and some national occurrences for 52 years, until his death in 1900.

FAMILY OCCUPATIONS AND LONGEVITY

In Wales, Thomas Price and his sons were weavers. After the family had established itself in America it turned to farming. In later generations its members have taken up a wide variety of occupations, of which the following is an incomplete list: accompanist, artist, Christian Science practitioner, clergyman, college president, dairy operator, dentist, electronic engineer, farmer, flyer, illustrator, insurance man, lawyer, librarian, newspaper man, psychiatrist, social worker, sociologist, teacher, television engineer, university professor and writer.

If one wishes to estimate how long a life he may expect, he can get a rough idea by averaging the ages at death of those of his ancestors who lived beyond his present age. The average of the Price ancestors listed here is about 75 to 80 years.

SOURCES OF OUR FAMILY HISTORY

We owe to one man, the late Ira M. Price, eldest of the Welsh Hills brothers and professor of Semitic languages at the University of Chicago, virtually all our knowledge of the early history of the Prices, Joneses, Pittsforths and Glynnys. For more than thirty years he devoted spare moments of his busy life to collecting information and putting it into shape for publication. At his death in 1939 the manuscript was unfinished. Eight years later his widow and his grandson Owen F. Price collaborated in preparing typed copies for branches of the family.

That 33,000-word typewritten book, entitled The Price Family Genealogy (1754, Wales - 1938; U.S.A.), by Ira M. Price, sketches the lives of 129 individuals. Since the preface refers to "more than 700 blood relatives listed in this book," it is obvious that Ira Price's material covered many collateral branches of the family, and it is to be hoped that it will all be published some day.

From Ira Price's data, Mrs. Enoch J. Price in her last years worked out genealogical charts. Allen T. Price, her eldest son, has made a careful study of Thomas Davis Price's diaries (now deposited in the Denison University Library at Granville), and has collated information from other sources such as gravestones and the Family Bible. In addition, the two Price Family Letters, No. 1 in 1946 and No. 2 in 1955, contain valuable data.

THE FAMILY TREE

This booklet is based upon the sources listed above and much current correspondence with cousins. It does not purport to be a family history or a full scale genealogy. It is only a tabulation of names and dates in the direct line, with principal places of residence. Whatever merit it possesses rests upon two facts: first, that numerous errors and contradictions in the various sources have been investigated and corrected, so far as was possible; and second, that the list of descendants has been brought down to date to include even the newest babes in arms.

Printed on rag paper and with blank spaces for later entries, the booklet will, it is hoped, be a useful record and valued keepsake in each branch of the family. A copy is being sent to every individual named in it.

My thanks are due to all the cousins who answered requests for information, and especially to Mrs. Homer C. Price and my brother Allen, whose generous help in solving knotty problems was invaluable.

Finally, anyone who detects errors herein, or can add information, is earnestly requested to write to the undersigned.

The Price Family Tree

Part II — Looking Forward

This tabulation, beginning with Thomas Davis Price and Sarah Jane Jones as basic ancestors, lists all their descendants, together with wives and husbands, down to 1957.

The numbering scheme is adapted from the late Ira M. Price's unpublished Genealogy. After the basic ancestors, the first generation is numbered from 101 (Ira) to 103 (Homer), the second generation from 201 IRA (Royal) to 231 HOMER (Betty), the third generation from 301 IRA (Edward K.) to 3..... HOMER (Thomas Hoeber), the fourth generation from 401 IRA (Edward F.) — and so on.

For each descendant these data are given: full name, and name as ordinarily used; birth and death dates, and age at death; principal places of residence, usually including birthplace and present home; marriage date, spouse's name and birth and death dates (except that childless marriages ended by divorce are omitted); and full names of children.

Parentheses are used to indicate that part of full name not ordinarily used, as Ira M(aurice) Price; also, to enclose nickname when the individual is commonly known by it, as Mary Elizabeth (Betty) Price [Hoeber]. Women's married names are bracketed.

Blank spaces are left for entries on descendants yet unborn.

(Insert in Price Family Letter No. 4)

Many marriages, births and deaths have occurred among the descendants of Thomas Davis Price and Sarah Jane Jones Price since the booklet, "The Price Family Tree, a Keepsake," was compiled and distributed sixteen years ago. This fourth Family Letter has provided a welcome opportunity to collect new data and so far as possible bring the "Family Tree" up to date. Many details still are missing. I shall be grateful to whoever will send me additional information.

In 1958, a copy of the booklet was sent to every person named in it. I have a good supply left. If any of you have lost your copy, or want one for a newly born Price descendant, please ask me and I'll be glad to send it forthwith. The following corrections and additions may be written into your copy, or this list may be folded into the booklet. John M. Price, 550 South Mountain Road, New City, N. Y. 10956.
