PREFACE.

It is my purpose in this and subsequent compilations to treat of the Rees and Griffin families, of Kent county, Delaware. Intermarriages between them were so frequent that it is often difficult to determine accurately the degree of relationship without the aid of a genealogist.

These families were, while they lived in Delaware, farmers, and they styled themselves in their wills yeomen and planters. Living on the small tidal streams of that state, many of them built saw and grist mills and operated them in connection with their farming.

The dispersion of the families began shortly after the close of the Revolutionary War. There were several distinct waves of emigration, the first extending to the western part of Pennsylvania. They are now scattered along the middle belt of states to the Pacific ocean. What occasioned the emigration it is difficult at this length of time to determine, but that it has operated to the preservation of the families, I believe, is evident. This may be made clear by comparing the size of the families of the western emigrants, and their longevity, with those that were born and died in Delaware. The unhealthy conditions surrounding the early settlers in that tide-water state seemed rapidly working to their extinction.

INTRODUCTION.

It is not known satisfactorily who were the parents of David Rees, of Little Creek hundred. A search was made to discover them in the parish registers of Montgomeryshire, and, as a result, we are furnished with what may be a clue, and are justified in the hope that a future search with our present knowledge may lead to better developments. The dates given below might well be the date of birth and of a first marriage of David Rees, of Little Creek. This belief is supported by the documentary evidence found in this country.

Montgomeryshire belongs to the diocese of St. Asaph, in Flintshire. The registers were examined in that cathedral town. They comprised the parishes of Aberhafesp, Berriew, Bettws, Llandyssel, Llanllwchairn, Llanllugan, Llanllyan, Llanmyewig, Llanwydelan, Manavon, Newtown and Tregynon. These are in the southeastern part of the county, and comprise the bishopric, or manor, of Cedewain. They all are within a few miles of Newtown and Montgomery, from where, it is supposed, the letter which David Rees brought to the church on the Welsh Tract was dated. The records were carefully examined from 1680 to 1720 for evidence of his birth or marriage, or for the birth of his children. The register of the parish of Montgomery is very defective, the records between the dates named being missing. It was found that the name of Rees was not a common one in that part of Montgomeryshire. In all the period examined there were only two births of a David Rees recorded, and but one of these could by any probability have been David of Little Creek. The one excluded was David, son of David Rees, a pauper, of the parish of Llandyssel, born in 1716, a date too late for the birth of David of Little Creek.

The other David was the son of William and Margaret Rees, of the parish of Manavon (sometimes spelled Manafon). These were their children, as given in the register:

- 1686. Owen, baptized 27 day of June.
- 1689. David, born 8 day of March; baptized 12 day, same month.
- 1691. Rees, born 5 day of October; baptized the same day; buried the 13 October, 1691.
- 1694. Mary, born 8 day of April; baptized 9 day, same month.
- 1695. William, born 7 of 10ber (Dec.); baptized 10 day, same month.

There were, likewise, recorded the marriages of two of this name, both of the parish of Llanllwchairn, as follows:

1710. David Rees and Margaret Pugh, of Llanllw-chairn, married 9 May.

1716. David Rees and Catharine Thickins, married 1 May. [David, of Little Creek, had a son grown of age in 1734.]

For the purpose of demonstrating how the above dates conform to known facts in the life of David Rees, of Little Creek, it is here assumed that he was born in the parish of Manavon, 8 March, 1689, and married, (1), 9 May, 1710, in Llanllwchairn, Margaret Pugh. He would have been in his 22d year when he married, and in his 44th year at the time of his emigration. The register of Llanllwchairn records the baptism of Richard, son of David Rees and Margaret, his wife, 18 January, 1710 (O.S). No record of the birth of other children, or of a second marriage, has been found. These, however, may yet be discovered in some other parish.

William Rees, son of David, of Little Creek, was certainly 21 years old, or more, in November, 1734, when he received a warrant for a grant of land in Little Creek hundred. He could, therefore, have been born to David and Margaret Rees, of Llanllw-chairn. Had he been born in 1712 he would have been in his 22d year at the time he received his grant of land. William Rees, of Little Creek, named two of his children William and Margaret. This is corroborative evidence that he was the grandson of William and Margaret Rees, of Manavon.

David Rees died between 1752 and 1755, as will be seen later. He, therefore, would have been about 65 years old had he been born in 1689. What evidence is there that he was a man so well advanced in years at the time of his death? Only this, that he acted as an aged man would in preparing for that event some years before it occurred. In 1749 he is found deeding his property "for love and good will" to his younger sons. They were probably children by a second wife whom he wished to secure in the possession of his lands. Neither will nor letters of administration are recorded at Dover. If he disposed of his property before death neither were necessary.

DAVID AND MARY REES, OF LITTLE CREEK HUNDRED.¹

In the Church-book 2 of the Welsh Tract Baptist church, of Pencader hundred, New Castle county, Delaware, it is recorded that: "Abel Morgan was baptized ye 31 of March, 1733. The same day was David Rees received by letter from Mountgymru."

¹ Besides the David Rees of Little Creek hundred, the records show two others of this name among the early settlers of Kent county, that might be mistaken for our ancestor.

David Rees, of Duck Creek hundred, was the son of John Rees, of the same hundred. He died 12 February, 1727-8, as is shown by his nuncupative will, wherein are mentioned a brother Evan, sisters Hester and Martha, and wife Mary. The latter was, probably, the daughter of John Hillyard, for, on the 13 May, 1723, he conveyed to David Rees and Mary, his wife, for "love, good-will," etc., a tract of land on the south side of the main Southwest branch of Little Duck creek, a part of the grant called "Exchange." David Rees, of Duck Creek hundred, died, it may be seen, before David Rees, of Little Creek hundred, came to the county.

The other David Rees was of Dover hundred. He, although a cotemporary with David Rees, of Little Creek hundred, ante-dated him in the county. On 10 November, 1729, he purchased from the town commissioners a lot in Dover. With the exception of one tract of marsh land in Dover hundred, all his conveyances were town lots in Dover. His wife was named Evis. He was probably related to John Rees, "innholder," who is recorded as "of Dover," 12 August, 1725, and whose wife was named Ann.

² Now in the possession of George W. Lindsay, cashier of the National Bank of Newark, Del.

"By vertue of ye same letter, Wm Rees, son of ye said David Rees, admitted to have a transient communion for a time."

This last entry is cancelled by two diagonal lines. Further on in the book it is recorded that: "Evan Rees and John Watson and John Cokeral was baptized Aug^t 2, 1735."

"The same day was Wm Rees received in full communion by vertue of a letter from Mountgymru, bearing date June ye 15, 1735."

The last entry in this church-book which has reference to this family is as follows: "Edwin Veazy was baptized Augt 2, 1746. The same day was the two sons of David Rees (viz) Thomas and John; also John James at the same time."

Welsh antiquarians are agreed that the place called here "Mountgymru" was meant for Montgomery. The Baptist Society of Montgomery, Pennsylvania, constituted themselves a church in 1719, and it has been suggested that David Rees's membership might have been transferred by letter from this church, and not from a church in Montgomeryshire, Wales. It seems very improbable that this was the case. Whatever may have been the reason for the action taken by the members of the Welsh Tract church in the case of William Rees, it is evident that their scruples were removed by the second letter received from "Mountgymru," more than two years after the reception of the first. Had he come from Montgomery, Pennsylvania, it is not probable that this long interval would have elapsed before the matter was righted. The places are not far apart, and communication was easy and frequent; while communication with Wales at that time was very infrequent and slow, as may be seen by the date of the second letter and the time it was received by the church—from June 15 to August 2 of the same year.

³ John Hobson Matthews, of Cardiff, Wales, writes that it is safe to assume this word to be a Welsh form of Montgomery. Continuing, he says: "It would be natural to a Welshman in the last century [eighteenth] to suppose that the second half of the same was akin to Cymru (in apposition Gymru), the Welsh for Wales, pronounced 'Cumry.'"

We may, therefore, safely conclude that David Rees came from the county of Montgomery, North Wales, in 1733, and that his letter was dated from the small town of Montgomery, near the English boundary.⁴

His next movement is recorded by Morgan Edwards. In the "History of the Baptists in Delaware" ("Pennsylvania Magazine of History and

4 The first non-conformist church in Montgomeryshire was established at Llanbrynmair between 1640 and 1650. The next center for the dissemination of non-conformity was in the southeastern part of the county, and owed its existence to the religious fervor of Vavasour Powell, a Baptist, who died in 1670. The earliest branch churches were at Newtown and Aberhafesp, both being places near Montgomery. About 1732 the branch at Newtown became a separate church; while that at Aberhafesp remained a branch of the central church at Llan-

Biography," Vol. IX., p. 202), he writes, that: "The tract which is known, at present [1790], by the name of Duck Creek hundred was settled in the year 1733 by a number of Welsh families, some of the Independent and some of the Baptist denomination . . . The Baptist families . . . were about nine; the names of the heads of them were James Hyatt, Nathaniel Wild, David Evan, Evan Rees, David Rees, James Howel, Evan David Hughs and Joshua Edwards. These Baptist families came hither from the Welsh Tract, and were members of that church."

The emigration here mentioned may have been the first settlement of the western end of Duck Creek hundred—of that part now known as Kenton hundred, which was formed from the western parts of Duck Creek and Little Creek hundreds at a much later date. The Welsh settlers bought land in the neighborhood of Kenton, and between that town and Dover, some of them settling in what was then Little Creek hundred. Bryn Zion church—the oldest offshoot from the parent church in the Welsh Tract—was afterwards built as their place of worship.

brynmair for some time longer. The early non-conformists had no buildings for divine worship, but met in the dwellings of the members. It was not until near the end of the century that they began to build chapels.

There are no means of finding out from which church David Rees came, but it would seem probable that it was either the Newtown or Aberhafesp church. The latter is at present located at Rhydfelen, where a chapel was built in 1790. There are no non-parochial registers as early as 1733.

The settlement of the eastern part of Duck Creek hundred was independent of this movement of the Welsh, and was made by the Quakers at the place where the King's road crosses Duck creek. The records of their meetings show that they were settled there as early as 1705. In 1714, Benjamin Shurmer, a Quaker, in the employ of some merchants of Bristol, England, founded a colony in this region for the purpose of growing hemp.

The earliest deed of which there is any record in the office of the Register of Deeds, at Dover, in which the name of David Rees, of Little Creek hundred, appears as one of the parties in the transaction, bears the date of 10 August, 1733. He then bought of Thomas Alston 100 acres of land on Alston's branch, in Little Creek hundred. This date, therefore, confirms that given by Morgan Edwards, and shows that David Rees did not remain long in New Castle county, but continued on down into Kent, where he settled, and where his sons are known to have lived. There is no disagreement, therefore, between the church-book, the historian and the land records as to the time and place of settlement.

Among the land records belonging to this part of Little Creek hundred there are eleven transfers in which the name of David Rees appears as one of the parties. His first purchase, the date and location of which has already been given, he conveyed, 12 May, 1737, to Ralph Winterston and James Keith. 16

August, 1739, he purchased from Christopher Bradshaw 200 acres of land. 1 August, 1749, David Rees, with Mary, his wife, conveyed to son John, for "good will and affection," 200 acres of land in Little Creek hundred (probably the tract purchased from Christopher Bradshaw in 1739). 10 February, 1743, he purchased from Benjamin Johnson 118 acres in Little Creek hundred, on the south side of the Southwest branch of Dover creek. 1 August, 1749, he, with wife Mary, conveyed to son Thomas Rees, for "good will and affection," the 118 acres purchased from Benjamin Johnson. 7 April, 1749, he, with William Rees (son), bought of Preston Berry and Grace, his wife (daughter of Thomas Williams), 245 acres in Little Creek hundred, on the north side of the northernmost branch of Dover river. On the same date he bought of William Rees 1223 acres (partition sale of the tract purchased jointly with William Rees, from Preston and Grace Berry). 26 February, 1752, he conveyed to John Rees, son of said David, $122\frac{1}{2}$ acres (his half of the joint purchase). 9 February, 1747, he bought of Magdalen and Gabriel Townsend 110 acres in Little Creek hundred. 8 February, 1749, he bought of Magdalen Townsend, widow of Gabriel Townsend, 160 acres in Little Creek hundred. These last two tracts of land have not been accounted for. It does not appear that any of his holdings were outside the hundred in which he lived. His last transaction is dated 26 February, 1752, when he deeded to his son John the 122½ acres. He is recorded as having purchased in all 810½ acres of land, of which he conveyed to his son John 322½ acres, and to his son Thomas 118 acres. There remain 270 acres for which no deed of conveyance has been found. The tract purchased jointly with William Rees was called "Liverpool," and was subject to a further conveyance, 26 February, 1752, between Preston Berry, blacksmith, and Grace, his wife, and William Rees, son of William (who died in 1750), and John Rees, son of David.

On 2 January, 1748, David Rees and Mary Rees witnessed the will of James Howell,⁵ of Duck Creek hundred.

On the 15 February, 1755, Mary Rees, widow of David Rees, released her dower rights to sons Thomas and John. The date of David Rees's death, therefore, is between the 26 February, 1752, the date of his last conveyance, and the 15 February, 1755, when his widow released her dower rights. It does not appear from the probate records at Dover that either David or Mary Rees left a will, or that letters of administration were granted on their estates after their deaths. It seems probable, therefore, that he conveyed all his property to his sons Thomas and John before his death. There is no record of any conveyance to either William or Jeremiah, although both were large land owners. It may be surmised that they were children by another wife; and that Thomas and John were sons of Mary.

He mentions three daughters, but gives the names of only In a codicil, dated 11 November, 1750, he directs that his son David be bound to William Inion [William Eynon, son of Eynon Griffith], of New Castle county, to learn the trade of tanning and shoemaking; his daughter Sarah to live with her grandmother, Sarah Alston; his son William to live with his uncle, John Rees; to his daughters Margaret and Hannah he gives six pounds, and to Jonathan six pounds. These three children, he directs, are to live with their mother, Elizabeth Rees.

It is probable that William Rees was married shortly after his arrival in this country. The were Quakers, and were among the Noearliest settlers of Kent county. On 9 vember, 1734, a warrant was issued at Philadelphia to William Rees, of Little Creek hundred, for a tract of land, situated in the same hundred, called "Bayliff's Hill," containing 200 acres. As the records of the hundred show no other William Rees owning land there at that time, it is very probable that he was the son of David. He is already mentioned as having a half interest in another tract of 245 acres, purchased jointly with his father in 1749. His connection with the church of the Welsh Tract has also been noted.

In the name of God, Amen, the twelfth day of December, Anno Domini, 1756, I, Jeremiah Rees, of Little Creek Hundred and County of Kent, being very sick and low in health (but of a sound and disposing mind and memory, blessed be God) do make and ordain this my last will and testament, and in manner and form following, viz:

First: I recommend my spirit to the hands of God through the merits of Christ, and my body to be decently interred according to the discretion of my executors, hereafter named.

Item: It is my will that all of my just debts and funeral expenses be paid and satisfied.

Item: I give and bequeath unto my beloved wife a third of all of my moveable estate and a negro wench called Black Mell.

Item: I give, bequeath and devise three hundred and sixtyone acres of land to be equally divided between my four daughters, and likewise one negro wench and three negro boys to be equally divided between my four daughters.

Item: I give to my brother John Rees one brown coat and new blue jacket and breeches to the same.

Item: I give to Hannah Rees, my niece, thirty shillings.

Item: It is my will and I do order it here in my last will and testament and the remainder of my estate to be equally divided between my above named son Abell and my four daughters.

Finally: I give to my brother Thomas Rees an old plush coat, jacket and leather breeches, whom I also do, with my son Abell Rees, nominate, constitute and appoint to be sole executors of this my last will and testament.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and seal the day and year above written.

JEREMIAH REES.

Probated at Dover, 31 January, 1757.

He is recorded as having bought the following lands in Little Creek hundred: 10 May, 1745, from Jonas Greenwood, 50 acres on the south side of the S. W. Branch of Duck creek; 15 August, 1754, from Sterling and Crozier, 412\frac{3}{4} acres on the northwest side of Wilson's branch; 12 February, 1752, 120 acres from Thomas Parke, sheriff. [N-1-65. - (18) II. Sarah, born —; died —; married Joseph David.

The will of Thomas Rees, of Little Creek hundred, is dated 6 August, 1760, and was probated 27 August, 1760. He made the following bequests:

"I give to my son Nathan Rees all that land whereon I now dwell, with the grist mill and saw mill adjoining, to him and his heirs, and for want of such heirs, I give the same to my daughter Sarah Rees, and for the want of such heirs by Sarah Rees, I give it to John Rees, son of my brother John Rees.

"I desire my son Nathan Rees to make over to my daughter Sarah Rees all that land that fell to my son by his mother in Queen Ann's county, Md., when he arrives at the age of 21 years, and to pay 300 pounds money to her.

"I give unto Mary Jolley the use of the house and plantation where William Green now lives, as long as she remains single; also a young mare, one cow, and the use of one negro woman. She is to keep my two children 2 years in meat, drink, washing and lodging."

He appointed his brother John Rees to be executor; and, in the event of his dying, he named Abel Rees, son of Jeremiah, as his successor.

Nathan Rees died without issue. Sarah Rees married Joseph David, and had several children, and these all died young and before their mother. After the death of Sarah David the courts decided that her husband, having had children by her, should hold a life interest in the estate. After his death the property went to John Rees, nephew of Thomas Rees, according to the provision of the will.

He was a large land-owner in Little Creek hundred at the time of his death. Besides the land deeded to him by his father, David Rees, the land records show the following purchases: 13 August, 1760, John Rees, of Little Creek hundred, from John Barnett and wife, of Duck Creek hundred, 643 acres in the forest of Little Creek hundred, a part of a tract called "New Year's Chance "[Q-1-5]; 1765, John Rees, miller, of the same hundred, from James Lewis, blacksmith, of Little Creek hundred, 200 acres in Little Creek hundred, adjoining a tract called "Concord" [R-1-34]; 28 February, 1765, John Rees, Sr., from Cornelius Reddick, 200 acres, bounded on the south side by the lands of John Rees, and on the west side by the land of Jonathan Rees, etc., in Little Creek hundred [R-1-14]. Of these last two tracts, the first he bequeathed to his son Thomas and the second to his son David. (See will.)

Willard H. Rees was early caught in the tide of western emigration, and was carried by it to Oregon long before that state was admitted into the Union. He eventually became one of the wealthy stockraisers and ranch owners of that now prosperous commonwealth.

The following account of him, with his portrait, appeared in "The Morning Oregonian," of Portland, Oregon, 20 January, 1903:

"After a brief illness, Willard H. Rees, a prominent pioneer of 1844, died yesterday morning, at 11 o'clock, at 324 East First street, the home of his son, Dr. P. A. Rees. Mr. Rees was born in Dover [an error], Delaware, September 17, 1819, of sturdy Welsh parentage. In the early part of 1844, he started for Oregon, with the wagon train that brought Hon. John Minto, Daniel Clark, and others who became prominent in the territorial history of Oregon. On the trip the usual hardships were encountered. He met and formed the acquaintance of Dr. McLoughlin, at Vancouver, in 1845. Being a practical man, he secured the contract for erecting a church at Oregon City, where he also put up other buildings. He then proceeded to St. Louis, Oregon, where he erected a church building for the French-Canadians. Being attracted by the beauty of French Prairie, he bought the donation land claim of Stephen Pelchie for $975, and farmed for a number of years. In January, 1847, he was married to Miss Amelia Hall, daughter of J. E. Hall, a pioneer of 1845. In 1848, with a number of the early settlers, he went to California, during the gold excitement, and mined for several months, taking out about $3,000, when he returned to Oregon. While on this trip, the party he was with experienced many hardships and were attacked by Indians, one white man being killed. On his return, with O. S. Thomas and William Keating, he built the first saw and grist mill on Deer Creek. He also put up some government buildings at Champoeg.

"Mr. Rees was a man of great force and influence in the early history of the state. He was a Whig, and one of the organizers of the Republican party in the state. In 1847 he was a member of the territorial legislature, and a member of the county committee. He was closely connected with the organization of the Pioneer Association. He drew up its first constitution, and for a number of years was its corresponding secretary. As a writer and speaker on historical topics he took high rank. His addresses before the Pioneer Association were terse and full of carefully prepared historical data. Few were better versed in the history of the state than he, and he contributed many valuable papers to the daily press. For the past three years he made his home in Portland with his son."

After serving his apprenticeship there he went to Greenville, Ohio, and became the proprietor and editor of the Greenville "Banner," and which he conducted for about seven years. During the troublous days of Kansas, in the spring of 1857, he immigrated to that (then) infant state. After a few years' residence there he was elected to the state legislature on the Republican ticket. He was re-elected, and during his legislative career was appointed on several important committees, and was a co-worker with such men as the future senators Plumb and Ingalls. In the War of the Rebellion he was the captain of Company F, 11th Kansas cavalry, and filled besides many other important positions, such as commander of posts, provost marshal, inspector general and chief of cavalry.

He retired from public life for a number of years, and lived on his farm, near Greeley, Anderson county; but of late he has been called from his retirement, and now (1899), at the advanced age of seventy-three, he is serving his constituency in the Kansas House of Representatives, having been elected on the Republican ticket at the last general election. Victor D. Rees followed his brothers, Jacob G., Decatur S., and Franklin C., to Kansas, and settled on the Solomon river, in Ottawa county. At the time of his arrival the country was infested with prowling bands of predatory Indians. At first he devoted his energies to the raising of cattle, but later removed to Minneapolis, Kansas, where he became a prosperous banker. At the time of his death he was President of the Ottawa County Bank.

(60) Macdonough Bainbridge Rees (Thomas, 38, John, John, David), born 10 February, 1831; married 9 November, 1856, at Butteville, Oregon, America F. Hall, born 10 February, 1840, in Missouri, died at Cove, Oregon, 20 January, 1899, daughter of James E. Hall, of Tennessee, and sister of the wife of Willard H. Rees.

- (133) VII. Harry C., born 18 March, 1877, at Cove; married, 24 March, 1896, Anna F. Harris.

Macdonough B. Rees accompanied his brother, Willard H., to Oregon in 1854. Having passed through the period of pioneer life in the now prosperous state of Oregon, he is now a successful farmer and stock-raiser at his home in Cove, Oregon. Active and energetic in his business, he has not neglected to keep his mind stored with useful knowledge.

⁽⁶¹⁾ RAYMOND RINGGOLD REES (Thomas, 38, John, John, David), born 17 June, 1833; died 12 July, 1889, in Walla Walla, Washington; married 12 March, 1865, Augusta Ward, born 4 July, 1843, in De Kalb county, Illinois. She went with her parents to Linn county, Oregon, in 1853, and to Walla Walla in 1861.

CHILDREN.

- (134) I. Frank Ward, born 20 July, 1867; married Sarah Delia Hawley.
- (135) II. Elma Luella, born 13 September, 1868; married Harry Hudson Turner.
- (136) III. Lora Augusta, born 3 March, 1875.

Raymond R. Rees learned the printing trade in Hamilton, Ohio, and went to Oregon in 1854, where he worked on "The Standard and Christian Advocate" of Portland. He set the type for the first almanac printed in Oregon. In 1861, he moved to Walla Walla, Washington, where he founded "The Washington Statesman," the second paper printed between Portland and the Rocky Mountains—the first being "The Dalles Mountaineer." He sold the paper in 1865, and was engaged in mercantile business until 1887. He was twice elected to the Washington legislature, and for six years was treasurer of Walla Walla county.

⁽⁶²⁾ SEWELL GREEN REES (Thomas, 38, John, John, David), born 21 December, 1834; died in 1889; married——.

Like his brother Jacob, Sewell G. Rees acquired the art of printing in the office of "The Register" of Eaton, Ohio, under his relation, William B. Tizzard. Following the example of his brother Raymond, he went, first, to Oregon, and then to Walla Walla, Washington, where they joined in the business of journalism. Sewell severed his connection with the paper first, and went to the northern part of California, where, with his family, he was living in comfort when he was killed by the falling of a piece of timber, during a storm, from a new house which he was building.

(63) DECATUR STOUT REES (Thomas, 38, John, John, David), born 17 November, 1836, near Reily, Butler county, Ohio; married, 24 March, 1872, Phebe Rebecca Duncan, born 10 March, 1847, in Waldo county, Maine, daughter of Samuel Duncan (born in Maine, 1788) and Cornelia Green Trimm (born in Maine, 1808). They were married in Delphos, Kansas.

- (137) I. Georgia Ellen, born 9 January, 1873; married, 4 May, 1898, Harry Bower. Residence: Delphos, Kansas.
- (138) II. Charles Duncan, born 7 July, 1874.
- (139) III. Pearl Stout, born 16 March, 1885.
- (140) IV. Edwin Craig, born 11 March, 1887.

Decatur S. Rees went to Kansas in 1857, and to Ottawa county in 1863. As he was one of the first settlers of that section, he necessarily underwent many hardships and privations incident to the life of a pioneer. Wild Indians, sometimes hostile, inhabited that portion of the country, and caused him much trouble, making the maintenance of his home exceedingly dangerous. He is a farmer, and has been successful in this business. The fruits of his industry and enterprise he now (1899) enjoys on his fine estate near Delphos.

(64) Franklin Carroll Rees (Thomas, 38, John, John, David), born 10 June, 1840, near Reily, Butler county, Ohio; married, 22 May, 1871, in Salina, Kansas, Catherine Shaltenbrand, born 28 April, 1851, in the canton Bern, Switzerland, daughter of John Shaltenbrand and Mary Ann Weber, both of Switzerland.

CHILDREN.

- (141) I. Nora May, born 4 June, 1872.
- (142) II. Arthur Gordon, born 31 December, 1873.
- (143) III. Olivia Ellen, born 24 February, 1876.

Franklin C. Rees accompanied his brothers, Jacob and Decatur, to Kansas in 1857, and pre-empted a large tract of land in Ottawa county. He afterwards added extensively to this tract. Here he carried on for a series of years a thriving and successful business of raising stock. Later he changed his residence to Minneapolis, the county seat, where he is at present (1899) engaged in the banking business. He is still interested in stock, and owns a fine farming property just outside the city. What has been said in connection with his brothers about the dangers and hardships of a pioneer's life applies also to him. Many were their hair-breadth escapes and thrilling adventures with the wild Indians of the plains. It was probably this life which developed in them the self-reliance which has made them successful in whatever they have undertaken. [He died in 1903.]

(67) CORWIN POTTENGER REES (Thomas, 38, John, John, David), born 4 September, 1847; married, 28 October, 1886, Louise Seymour Merrill, born 26 October, 1865, daughter of George W. Merrill and Louisa A. Burr, of Erie, Pa.

CHILDREN.

(144) I. George Merrill, born 28 February, 1891.

Corwin P. Rees served one year and a half in the volunteer army during the Civil War. He was appointed to the Naval Academy, July, 1866; was made an ensign, July, 1871; master, May, 1874; lieutenant, October, 1880; lieutenant-commander, March, 1899; commander, May, 1901. He was executive officer of the "Olympia," Admiral Dewey's flagship, in the battle of Manila Bay, and for his participation in that action was advanced several numbers in his grade. Commander Rees has written a number of poems, several of which have appeared in the public prints. This gift of poetry he probably inherited, as his mother was similarly endowed. The poem given here he recited at the Manila Day reunion, held in Washington, D. C., 1902.

THE REASON WE'RE GATHERED AGAIN.

Again we are gathered, unfaltering friends,
Our rose-tinted table around,
Where earnest emotion in harmony blends
With merriment's musical sound.
The goblets are brimming and cheerily clink,
As happiness heralds the way,
While gladly we linger and lovingly drink
To our Glorious First Day of May!

The Glorious First Day of May we claim
As ours to enjoy and defend,
Since surely we gave it a title to fame
Unparalleled, world without end—
A title to fame that will sparkle for aye,
As ages on ages unroll,
Ornate with the deeds of that marvelous day
Undimmed on eternity's scroll.

Emblazoned in letters of shimmering light
That tell of a miracle wrought,
When, cleaving the dawn, as sweeping the night,
The foes of our country we fought:—
The foes of our country defiant and proud,
In squadron and lining the shore,
With murderous batteries hurling aloud
Their hatred in maddening roar.

A hatred that shrieked from Manila afar
To Sangley that flashed in the sand—
Luneta aflame and Malate ajar
To frowning Cavite's command:—
Cavite, an arsenal rampant in scorn,
Aroused in a passion of ire,
Whence lurid-lit vessels awakened the morn
And rifle mouths vomited fire!

Yet never one moment our squadron was kept
From battle o'erspreading away,
But steadily onward in majesty swept
That first mighty morning in May:—
That first mighty morning when destiny hung
And fate trembled keen on desire,
A voice from the bridge like a clarion rung,
"Now, Gridley, when ready you'll fire!"

The vengeance that flew over waters and land
No eloquence mortal can tell;
It thundered in wrath inexpressibly grand
Overleaping the horrors of hell!
A withering horror that Montojo caught,
As swiftly our answer was hurled,
In awful destruction o'ershadowing aught
Before ever known in the world.

The Flagship Reina Christina went down,
On fire and with seven score dead;
The burning Castilla was fated to drown,
Her scuppers in blood running red:—
In blood running red nine others sank soon,
Engulfed in volcano-like showers,
Till flags fluttered white on Cavite at noon,
And victory matchless was ours!

Not a vestige was left of their power afloat,
Save the smoldering wrecks on the bay;
Not a yellow-red flag nor an enemy's boat
Overlived that miraculous day!
Miraculous more than the power of pen
Or language can ever portray:—
And that is the reason we're gathered again,
Rejoicing this First Day of May!

Rejoicing tho some may but faintly believe,
Or dimly discern as they may,
That legions unprejudiced plainly perceive
The war was fore-won on that day—
Fore-won by the might of immortalized men
Whose victory crimsoned the bay:—
And that is the reason we're gathered again
Adorning the First Day of May!

'Twas genius and valor that garnered the isles
Of sunshine in orient sea,
Impressing their glory, mid infinite wiles,
As gems for the Land of the Free;
We offered our lives in battle to give,
While proud grew our country that day;
And that is the reason, as long as we live,
We'll honor the First Day of May.

This is the only branch in the male line that has lived continuously near the home of the ancestor. It is told by one of them that none of the earlier Reeses in Delaware reached a greater age than between 40 and 50 years. This statement is true in a general sense, although there were a few exceptions to it. Happily, it can no longer be said of them. The conditions which produced this lessened vitality were undoubtedly in the environments—in the soil and climate—and not inherent in the family, for the branches that were transplanted west of the Allegheny mountains attained to more than the biblical number of years, in marked contrast to their Delaware cousins.
