MATERIALS FOR A GENEALOGY OF THE SPARHAWK FAMILY IN NEW ENGLAND.

Compiled by Cecil Hampden Cutts Howard, member of "The American Historical Association;" corresponding member of "The New England Historic Genealogical Society;" member of "The Long Island Historical Society;" and corresponding member of "The Maine Historical Society."

Author of "Brattleboro in Verse and Prose" and "Life and Public Services of General John Wolcott Phelps."

Nathaniel Sparhawk, the emigrant ancestor of all bearing that name in the United States, settled in Cambridge, Massachusetts, in 1638.¹ This is the generally accepted date, although Mr. Paige gives, in his History of Cambridge, 1636. The birthplace of Nathaniel Sparhawk was in Dedham, Essex Co., England, and his parents were Lewis and Elizabeth (Bayning) Sparhawk. At the time of his coming to New England, he was in the fortieth year of his age. He was made freeman, May 23, 1639, and a deacon of the church of Cambridge. Three years later he was deputy to the General Court, from 1642 to 1647. In May, 1645, he was one of "a committee to consider of some way whereby y^e negative vote may be tempered, y^t justice may have free passage."

From various sources we learn that he was a man of large property, most of which was in real estate within or near Cambridge.¹ His residence was on the easterly side of Brighton street, between Mount Auburn street and Harvard square. In 1642, he is represented as owning five houses and about five hundred acres of land.

By his wife Mary (whose maiden name is unknown), he had five or more children. Of these, the eldest, Nathaniel, was born in England, and probably all but the youngest.² The following is the list of his children in the probable order of their birth.

- 1 Nathaniel, ———; m. Patience Newman, Oct. 3, 1649; d. Jan., 1687.
- 2 Anne, ———; m., 1st, Deacon Jno. Cooper; 2nd, James Convers, sr., of Woburn, Mass.
- 3 Mary, ———; m. Capt. William Symmes.
- 4 Esther, ———; m. Samuel Adams, May 7, 1668.
- 5 Samuel, b. Aug. 27, 1638; d. Aug. 13, 1639.

Mrs. Mary Sparhawk died in Cambridge, Mass., January 25, 1643-4. Her husband soon after married again and by his second wife, Katherine, had

- 6 Ruth, b. April 12, 1645; d. May 7, 1645.
- 7 Elizabeth, b. ———, 1646; d. unm. Nov. 9, 1692.

Nathaniel Sparhawk, sr., died June 28, 1647, and his wife, Mrs. Katherine Sparhawk, July 5 of the same year.

At the time of Nathaniel Sparhawk's death, we are told by Paige, in his History of Cambridge, that about a thousand acres were sold from the estate and that there was still remaining "a large quantity of land on the south side of the river (now Brighton district), a part of which still remains in possession of his descendants." This shows a large increase in his real estate during the last five years of his life.

130 Samuel Hirst, b. 1752; m. in London; d. 1787.

131 Mary Pepperrell, b. 1754; m. Chas. Jarvis, M.D.; d. 1815.

Nathaniel Sparhawk, sr., was a merchant in Boston at the time of his marriage, but after that he lived in Kittery. (His father-in-law had built there the elegant mansion now known as the "Sparhawk house" for his daughter Madam Sparhawk.) Mr. Sparhawk retained an interest in his business in Boston, and also had commercial interests in Kittery. In his later years he was conspicuous as a Judge and Councillor. The elegant dining hall, in the Sparhawk house, was used as "the Council Chamber," where the Councillors met. This house, now in perfect preservation, is the finest specimen of the architecture of the period (1742) remaining in that vicinity. Of the marriage of Nathaniel Sparhawk and Elizabeth Pepperrell, the Rev. John Sparhawk, in his memorandum book, writes as follows:

"My dear and only brother, Nath'l, was married at Kittery to Miss Elizabeth Pepperrell, the only daughter of the then Hon'ble William Pepperrell, Esq., now Sir William Pepperrell, Bart., on June 10, 1742."

Mrs. Elizabeth (Pepperrell) Sparhawk was, through her mother, a great granddaughter of the famous Chief Justice Samuel Sewall, and thus a descendant as well of the Dummers, Hirsts, and many more distinguished families. She carried herself always with a true spirit of nobility. Her last years were spent with her daughter Mrs. Charles Jarvis, in Boston, at which time she was active in all good words and works. She died in Boston in 1797, leaving only her two oldest sons (Nathaniel and William) and her daughter Mrs. Jarvis;¹ her husband and the others having gone before her.

Mrs. Priscilla (Hemans) Sparhawk, after the death of her husband, married Jonathan Waldo, and her will is recorded in the probate office of Alfred, Maine. In it she bequeaths to her son John, "all that wrought plate which he has already received," also to her son Nathaniel "all the plate of which I shall die possessed, or shall not have disposed of and delivered in my life time to those to whom the same may be conveyed." She wills to her daughter-in-law Elizabeth (Pepperrell) Sparhawk her "Suit of Masquerade Damask," in return or offset for a "suit of silk cloths" given to her daughter-in-law Jane (Porter) Sparhawk.

They are to have her wearing apparel equally divided between them. Her sons Rev. John Sparhawk of Salem, Mass., and Hon. Nathaniel Sparhawk of Kittery, Maine, to have her estate, real and personal, divided between them. This was dated Kittery, Maine, July 12, 1749, and probated Mar. 31, 1755. It is probable that she was residing with her son Nathaniel.

This is further changed by a codicil in which she gives one hundred pounds old tenor, or the value thereof in other money to her granddaughter Priscilla Sparhawk.

ABIGAIL MITCHELL."

There are numerous minor bequests of jewels, watches, apparel, etc., to sundry persons, not necessary to enumerate.

126 Nathaniel Sparhawk, the son of Nathaniel and Elizabeth (Pepperrell) Sparhawk, whose first wife and children are entered under 114, married, second (in 1780), Miss Elizabeth Bartlett, the daughter of Hon. Enoch and Katharine (Dummer) Bartlett of Haverhill, Mass., and a great-great granddaughter, through her mother, of President John Cutts of Portsmouth, N. H.

The only child by this marriage was:

321 Mary Pepperrell, b. in Kittery, Maine, June, 1781; m. Hon. William Jarvis, March, 1808; d. 1811.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bartlett Sparhawk died in June, 1782, and was buried in Haverhill, Mass. In 1786, Nathaniel Sparhawk married, third, Miss Deborah Adams of Portsmouth, New Hampshire.

They separated after a short life together, and she remained at home while he went to London. He returned after a long absence and took up his abode with his sister, Mrs. Dr. Charles Jarvis, in the old family mansion at Kittery, Maine. There he died in 1815, and his sister passed away during the same year. Mrs. D. A. Sparhawk married Dr. Abiel Pearson in 1816, who died in 1827.

127 William Pepperrell Sparhawk, son of Nathaniel and Elizabeth (Pepperrell) Sparhawk, married Elizabeth Royall, daughter of Hon. Isaac and Mary McIntosh Royall of Medford, Mass., Oct. 24, 1767.

322 Elizabeth Royall, b. April 17, 1769; m. Rev. Henry Hutton.

323 Mary Hirst McIntosh, b. Nov. 2, 1771; m. Wm. Congreve, Esq., s. p.

324 Harriot, b. Dec. 17, 1773; m. Charles Thomas Hudson (Lord Palmer), July 14, 1802.

325 William Royall, b. July 5, 1775; d., unmarried, Sept. 27, 1798.

William Pepperrell Sparhawk became chief heir of his grandfather (Sir William Pepperrell), on condition that at twenty-one years of age he should drop the name Sparhawk and be known as Sir William Pepperrell.

His grandfather's wishes were respected, and eight years after his grandfather's decease (1767), he assumed the title.¹ He has been known as Sir William 2d, and also in the family as "Young Sir William." He graduated from Harvard College in 1766, and was later a Councillor, and Mandamus Councillor. A royalist, he fled to England with his wife and children, also his wife's parents and kindred in 1775. His wife died on the voyage and was buried at Halifax, N. S., October 8th. Her four children were born in Kittery, Maine. Of her character, we can judge somewhat, by a letter written by her brother-in-law, Samuel Hirst Sparhawk to his father, of which we will transcribe a part further on.

¹Parsons' "Life of Sir William Pepperrell."

"Young Sir William" received a great deal of attention in England, and was painted by West in a large group, which represented him as he was when he presented his brother tories of America to the King, craving the King's most gracious favor.¹ He led a remarkably useful life, was distinguished by a love of patriotism and charity toward all men. He died in 1816, one year after his brother Nathaniel, who had sojourned awhile in England after "young Sir William," became a permanent resident there. The most complete account of his life, which we cannot transcribe in our limited space, is to be found in Sabine's "Loyalists of the American Revolution" to which we have already referred our readers.

129 Andrew Pepperrell Sparhawk, the fifth son of Nathaniel and Elizabeth (Pepperrell) Sparhawk, married Miss Turner, the daughter of an army officer in Boston, Sept. 5, 1775. He went to England with his brother William, and died there, without children, in 1783. His portrait, painted by Copley, is in existence in England. It is owned by a lineal descendant of his niece, Lady Palmer, Sir Archdale Palmer of Wanlip Hall, Leicestershire, England.

130 Samuel Hirst Sparhawk, the sixth and youngest son of Nathaniel and Elizabeth (Pepperrell) Sparhawk, went to England sometime later than his brothers William and Andrew and was married there. His portrait by Copley is in the possession of Sir Archdale Palmer.

His daughter was :

Aug. 29, 1872.

¹Sabine's "American Loyalists," vol. 2, p. 169.

Before leaving for England, which step was the result of his being an ardent Loyalist, he wrote to his father the following letter, the original of which is now in the possession of the writer.

Hon^o. and dear Sir :

I have not til now had an opportunity of writing you for some time past, owing to the communication betwixt us and the country being cut off; and am now obliged to confine myself to a few particulars as letters undergo an inspection of committees, etc., etc.

Since my last you have undoubtedly been made acquainted with the melancholy event of Lady Pepperrell's death, which has been a most trying, piercing trouble to us all, but especially to my poor broken hearted brother Sir William who is day and night weeping for his dear departed Object; and can any one who knew her wonder? Surely no: for she deserved the esteem of every one: her sweetness of disposition and obliging behaviour added to every amiable quality won the regard and attention of all around her, and I must say as far as I have ever been able to discover if there have been any exceptions to this, it must have been owing to themselves and not to her; she often did kindnesses, but she injured no one: she was too harmless and innocent, and I cou'd not love anybody who I tho't didn't love her, but upon the principle enjoined by a perfect character, to "love our enemies." She was a worthy charming woman indeed! who can think of her and not be distressed. I'm sure I mourn my loss most sincerely and its universal among all who were acquainted with her character. I trust she is now made happy in heaven thro' the great atonement for sin by Jesus Christ.

With duty and Love I am y^r affectio^{te} Son

S. Hirst Sparhawk.

P. S. remember my duty and love to my dear Mama and Lady P. I want to see them exceedingly, but this cant be very soon, tho' it may be in a twelve month

The descendants of the Frosts, Coopers, Danas, Francis and Goves, recorded from 325 to 420, are so scattered that the author has made no attempt to carry them further, as this record is only a brief one at best. Such as are in print are to be found in the excellent "History of Cambridge, Mass.," by Paige, to whom the author is indebted for matter already recorded. Where the lines of descent are carried further than those of the above-mentioned families it is due to peculiar facilities afforded the author by representatives of their respective branches, who, having heard of this brief sketch, have offered assistance.

Rev. Charles Lowell's life has been so graphically pictured by his daughter, Mrs. Mary Lowell Putnam, to which we have already referred, that we will not attempt in our brief record to give more than an outline. He was born on August 15, 1782, in Boston, Mass. He received his first education at the grammar school in Roxbury, where his parents were then living. He entered Harvard College as a member of the sophomore class in 1797, having previously attended Phillips Academy in Andover, Mass. He took his degree on July 16, 1800. He studied law under his brother for one year at the desire of his father.

Finding it distasteful, he was not opposed in his wish to enter the ministry. He completed his studies in Edinburgh and travelled extensively in Europe. His wife was a great-great-granddaughter of Robert and Mary (Hoel) Cutts of Kittery, Maine, through her mother. The account of his ministrations as clergyman can only be alluded to here. He was not only successful but well-beloved. All his children who have attained to years of maturity, have achieved distinction, the most notable being his youngest son James Russell Lowell, the famous poet, litterateur, statesman and orator.

On March 30, 1850, Mrs. Harriett B. S. Lowell was suddenly taken away from her family by death. She was much beloved, and it is said that her youngest son inherited his poetical talent from her. Mr. Lowell survived her eleven years, dying on January 10, 1861.

Lewis Tappan, son of Benjamin and Sarah (Homes) Tappan, born in Northampton, May 23, 1788, was a grandson of Rev. Benjamin and Eliza (Marsh) Toppan, and great grandson of Samuel and Abigail (Wigglesworth) Toppan. His famous ancestor, Rev. Michael Wigglesworth, married Mrs. Sybil (Sparhawk) Avery (see earlier pages). Lewis Tappan was descended from Rev. Michael and Martha (Mudge) Wigglesworth. Rev. Benjamin Tappan first changed the name to Tappan which spelling his descendants all use. Lewis T. was educated at home, and at fifteen found a position with Mr. T. Wiggins, a prominent merchant in Boston, and remained with him until he became of age. He then accepted an offer from Mr. George Searle (nephew of Mr. Stephen Higginson), and they went into business together, under the firm name of "Tappan & Searle," India goods. When he married, at the age of twenty-five, he had acquired $80,000. From 1828 until 1841 he was a partner with his brother Arthur Tappan in New York, under the firm name of Arthur Tappan & Co. His brother established "The Journal of Commerce" in 1828, and after a year's trial sold it to

Lewis Tappan, who owned it awhile and sold it again. Lewis Tappan was one of the pioneers of the Anti-Slavery movement and an organizer of "The Anti-Slavery Society." His house, No. 40 Rose street, New York, was mobbed July 9, 1834; doors and windows were broken open and the furniture and bedding thrown into the street and burned. The portrait of Dr. William Aspinwall by Gilbert Stuart, because of its resemblance to Washington, was not destroyed. Lewis Tappan was one of the founders of "The American Missionary Society" and later became its treasurer. When nearly eighty years of age, he wrote a life of his brother Arthur Tappan. He died in Brooklyn, N. Y., June 21, 1873. This was twenty years after the death of his wife which occurred Mar. 24, 1853, in Brooklyn, N. Y.¹

John Sparhawk, sr., died May 28, 1889, in Philadelphia, Pa. The following notice of his life is taken from "The Evening Telegraph" of that city.

The funeral services of the late John Sparhawk were held yesterday at his late residence, No. 3809 Chestnut street, Philadelphia. A very large number of people were in attendance. The services were conducted by Rev. Henry C. McCook, D.D., assisted by Rev. Stephen W. Dana, D.D. The pall-bearers were B. B. Comegys, Lemuel Coffin, Hon. Robert N. Willson, Dr. Charles Stewart Wurtz, Gordon Monges and Dr. Oscar H. Allis. The music was rendered by a quartette from the Orpheus Club.

For over fifty years John Sparhawk had been connected with the active business and religious life of Philadelphia.

He died at the age of seventy-one. He was born in Philadelphia, Nov. 9, 1818, on Chestnut street above Front. He was a grandson of Dr. John Sparhawk who, along with other representative Philadelphians, signed the famous "Non-importation Articles" against Great Britain in 1761, a copy of which is framed and hung in Independence Hall, and which has been often regarded as the father of the Declaration of Independence. He was a descendant of Rev. John Sparhawk, one of the early Puritan pastors of the historic First church of Salem, Mass.

He began his business life early and soon rose to be a partner in the old dry goods house of Atwood, White & Co., afterwards White & Sparhawk. Shortly after the war the firm, having lost heavily by reason of the failure of their southern trade to pay the obligations due the house, went out of mercantile business. He then established a law and collection office at 400 Chestnut street, in which business he was engaged at the time of his decease.

Mr. Sparhawk was one of the organizers and charter members of the Young Men's Christian Association of Philadelphia. He was vice president of the Philadelphia Bible Society, of which he had been a manager for nearly forty years. During the war he spent a portion of every day in the hospitals ministering to the wounded; attending to the burying of the dead and corresponding with the relatives of sick and dying soldiers. He was appointed by the governor state inspector of hospitals, a position which he held without compensation until the close of the war.

In his religious life especially, however, he had shown unusual fervor. He was identified with the establishment of the first church mission enterprise in West Philadelphia and at Tabor. At the time of the great revival in 1857, he conducted religious services in Jayne's Hall,

Seventh and Chestnut streets, and from then up to the outbreak of the war, he conducted special services among the firemen at their engine houses. He was an active teacher in Sunday schools from 1832 up to within three months of his death. He was a devoted supporter of the Rev. Albert Barnes, of the old First Presbyterian Church, of Washington Square, Philadelphia, under whose ministry his religious life was developed.

So catholic was his spirit, however, that up to within a short period of his death, he had occupied the position of superintendent of a Baptist Sunday school. He had also been very active as a visitor at the hospitals of the University of Pennsylvania. He conducted the famous litigation to restrain the running of the Sunday street cars, reported in the "Pennsylvania Supreme Court Reports" under the title of Sparhawk vs. the Union Passenger Railway.

He was one of the handful of old and well-known Philadelphia business men who have survived the early years of the century in the business life of this community. His faculties were unimpaired to the day of his death and he died unexpectedly after a short illness in the midst of his business and religious usefulness. He was a man of singular purity of character and of spotless integrity.

Mrs. Sparhawk, a woman of wonderful beauty of character, survived her husband more than a decade, dying in Newton Centre, Mass., where her daughters still live. Her husband was born October 30, 1806, in Portsmouth, N. H. He was a generous-hearted boy, sensitive to the sufferings, not of human beings alone, but of all creatures. He was observant rather than communicative, but was keenly appreciative of wit and quick in perceptions of the ridiculous. Of quick and retentive memory, an exact scholar, he showed early that clearness of judgment and freedom from prejudice that marked him in later life. He graduated from Dartmouth College in 1828 and from there went to the Medical School at Harvard. He studied in the wards of the Massachusetts Hospital under the famous Dr. James Jackson. In after years this eminent physician showed his appreciation of his pupil's quick intuitions in regard to disease, his keenness of observation and research and that conscientiousness which made both his practice and his life a success in the highest sense of benefit to others. After finishing his medical studies Sparhawk expected to begin his studies in Boston or its neighborhood. And here the influence of his teacher, his friendship with young men of his profession, of whom the world has since heard much, would have given him advantages at the outset of his career and congenial companionship. But the illness of his father changed everything. Mr. Sparhawk was ordered by Dr. Jackson to an inland climate, and the family went from Brookline to the little town of Conway, N. H., as they owned land there. Conway was not a resort in those days, it had not even expanded to suit the wants of summer visitors, and a greater change in the young man's prospects could hardly have taken place. But his duty and his wishes kept him with his father during the life of the latter.

While living in Conway he married Elizabeth Campbell of Duns, Scotland. A few years after his marriage he went for a time to Kittery, Maine. He thought of remaining there and entered into negotiations for the Sparhawk mansion (built by Sir William Pepperrell, for his daughter, the wife of Colonel Sparhawk). But the owner changed his price too often and the negotiations came to nothing. Soon after this the doctor moved to Amesbury, Mass., where he lived from that time, the spring of 1845, until 1872. In December, 1872, he moved to Newburyport a town a few miles from Amesbury, at the mouth of the Merrimac river. In the May of 1874 he died there. Of his four children two died early; the oldest child, his only son, at six and his second daughter a few weeks before at the age of two, and two daughters outlive him.

The active part of his professional life was passed at Amesbury. He was a very hard worker, anxious to do his whole duty; his reward lay in this and not in fame or self-aggrandizement. Wherever it was a question of duty to be done he seemed to feel as if every part belonged to him; but when it came to the rewards, he was full of the spirit of Whittier's lines:

"What matter, I or they?
Mine or another's day?
So the right word be said
And life the sweeter made?"

But his application to his profession was too intense and his skill in it too great, not to have made him known much more widely than he himself dreamed of being. And so he lived here for nearly a generation a life of ideal unselfishness and devotion to the poor and suffering. In the burying ground in Amesbury there stands a simple shaft of Scotch granite on which it is written that it was "erected by the people of Amesbury and Salisbury" (then practically one town). On this shaft is the name of Thomas Sparhawk, his age and the date of his death, and following this, the tribute of his townspeople: "The beloved physician."

His father, Samuel Sparhawk, was born in October, 1779. He showed early the bent of his character, being inclined to seriousness and of studious habits while at the same time he enjoyed the gayety of others. He was as a boy thoughtful for others to a remarkable degree and to his mother always showed a chivalrous courtesy and tenderness. When quite a young man he became cashier of the bank at Portsmouth, N. H. He held this position for a number of years, for while here he married Elizabeth McKinstry, and in Portsmouth his three children, Oliver, Thomas and Elizabeth, were born. When the youngest was an infant he went to live in Concord where a better position in the bank there had been offered to him. He lived in Concord nearly a score of years and held his place as a cashier until the failure of his health led him to resign it. While here he also filled for about fifteen years the office of Secretary of State of New Hampshire, a post not unlike that of Lieut. Governor in Massachusetts. He was for a number of years on the board of directors of the State's Prison. While holding this place there occurred one of those incidents that over many elaborate details of life show the stuff of which a man is made. He was sent for one day post haste to the prison. There he found the other directors with the warden sitting in the directors' room which opened out upon the yard where the prisoners in flagrant rebellion were brandishing in the way of weapons whatever tools they could lay hands upon and threatening with death whoever should attack them. The door from the directors' room into the yard was carefully bolted, and the pale-faced officers sat in a terror that gave them small opportunity for consultation. A calmness seemed to enter the room with Mr. Sparhawk. He made a few inquiries into the cause of the rebellion, and then walking steadily up to the door, ordered the warden to open it. The remonstrances of the others only made him repeat the order. The heavy door was opened, and refastened behind him, for the sight of the men in a fierceness and fury that was savagery would have made stouter hearts than theirs quail. At the opening of the door they all paused involuntarily with curiosity and that appreciation of courage which touches even brutes. With steady eyes and unhesitating step the director walked into the midst of them. "Put down your weapons, every man of you, and go straight to your cells." This command uttered with the evenness of a perfect fearlessness, carried with it all the force of impregnable authority. The men listened, their weapons still raised and poised, looked at him, slowly lowered them, and the next moment the amazed watchers in the room saw a file of conquered men marching quietly to their cells. In the shortest possible time they were locked in there. The rebellion was at an end.

On leaving Concord Mr. Sparhawk again spent a winter in Portsmouth, and the following spring went to Brookline, Mass. Here he lived until the doctor ordered him to be taken from the sea air. He then removed to Conway, New Hampshire, where he owned a farm. And here in a few years he died leaving in many hearts the memory of a life remarkable in its purity of motive, its simplicity and strength.

644 Elizabeth Sparhawk, daughter of Hon. Samuel and Elizabeth (McKinstry) Sparhawk, married Edward Winslow, Esq., son of Isaac and Margaret (Blanchard) Winslow, Sept. 25, 1847. (He was a grandson of the Isaac Winslow, whose first wife was Elizabeth Sparhawk.) He died in Newton Centre, Mass., in 1883 (May 26). After his decease his widow continued to reside in Newton Centre. Her last days were passed with her nieces in the same town (children of Dr. Thomas Sparhawk) where on April 21, 1891, she passed away. The following beautiful account of her life appeared in "The Transcript" of Boston and as it is most accurate and comprehensive, we quote it in full as follows:

"It is not often that the circle of the years unite, the vivacity of youth, the keen enjoyment of beauty in nature and the world, a zest in the simple things of daily life, with mature thought and a deep spiritual life. But these gifts met in her. Her transition from gay to grave was like that from the sunshine to the shadows of a summer's day, always with the consciousness of brightness overhead. She was full of wit, and her unfailing sense of humor made her full of bright and amusing anecdotes. Stories of old New England days and customs were as fresh in her mind as when she first knew them, while any droll occurrence of to-day, or the ludicrous side of any scene, presented itself to her invariably and was reproduced with a faithfulness that made it irresistible.

But it was not these traits that made her beloved and honored by those who knew her. Her clear and quick understanding, her loyalty to those whom she loved, her unswerving fidelity to whatever she believed right—the sense of strength in her very presence—these were the foundations of the attractiveness, enhanced by gifts and graces and by the simplicity of perfect unconsciousness. No one knowing the attachment from childhood between herself and her husband's sister could hold the friendship of women a myth. In the long years they spent together, until the recent death of the latter, they read and studied many things, historic stories, biographies, travels and especially those relating to Bible lands and connected with sacred history; and a few years ago the two took up the study of Hebrew that they might read at least passages in the Bible in the original. Yet so full was she of the best of youth and brightness of spirit that a good child's book, even of fairy stories, always interested her.

She was born at Portsmouth, N. H., a descendant of the colonial family there and of John Sparhawk, the early minister of the old church of Salem, Mass. From him and from other ancestors no less earnest may have come the strength and fulness of her faith—as from a line of women of unusual energy and power in a time in this country when these qualities were not uncommon, there came her independence, her staying qualities, her unconsciousness of self, and that bright cheerfulness which made the day seem sunnier, when she entered into it. And this sunshine was in her faith also; whatever came to her was sent; her whole life in all its details was an illustration of the old hymn—

“What God doth it is all well done;
His will upright abiding.
Since He has traced my course begun,
I will go on confiding.”

In her gayety was the charm not only of real wit, but of a light-heartedness with the deepest foundations; and in her very presence there came to one a new revelation of the strength and beauty of faith—a wonder if, in this age of doubt, a trust so absolute did not have its rich reward even in the eyes of men. For strength and peace, courage and power, all were hers, all made life a blessing to others, and now make her memory a plea for living near to heaven.”

The sketch was written by her niece Miss Frances Campbell Sparhawk, who has achieved wide reputation as a writer of short stories. Chief among them may be mentioned "Elizabeth," published in "The New England Magazine." Also "A Lazy Man's Work," "Little Polly Blatchley," "A Chronicle of Conquest" and other volumes. Miss Sparhawk has also a deep interest in work among the Indians.

656 Mary Pepperrell Sparhawk Jarvis, daughter of Consul William and Mary P. (Sparhawk) Jarvis, married Sept. 9, 1829, Col. Hampden Cutts of Portsmouth, N. H., son of Edward and Mary (Carter) Cutts. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Converse, at Weathersfield, Vt. They lived for three years in Portsmouth, N. H., and later in 1833 removed to Hartland, Vt., in the northern portion of that township.

Colonel Cutts graduated from Harvard College in 1823, and studied law with Hon. Jeremiah Mason. After his removal to Vermont he practised his profession for many years.

During that time he was Judge of the Probate Court; four years a member of the Vermont legislature; three years senator, and until his death in 1875 was Vice President, for Vermont, of the New England Historical Genealogical Society. He delivered a good many addresses before various organizations, and contributed to the press.

He left an unpublished novel in manuscript form entitled "Louisbourg," which as the title suggests had its origin in a study of that historic event. Mrs. Cutts survived her husband only four years, dying very suddenly in April, 1879. She had been a woman of remarkable energy, and uprightness of character as well as of warm and benevolent heart. At the time of the purchase of "Mount Vernon" by the ladies of the Union she was Vice Regent for Vermont, and labored for this patriotic cause with her characteristic zeal and enthusiasm. After the death of her father she wrote a volume entitled "The Life and Times of Wm. Jarvis," Riverside Press. An edition of one thousand copies was published of this work, and copies of it are to be seen in the principal historical libraries.

657 Elizabeth Bartlett Jarvis married David Everett Wheeler, Esq., second son of John B. Wheeler, Esq., of Orford, N. H., Feb. 14, 1833. They resided in New York City, where Mr. Wheeler was an eminent lawyer, having graduated from Dartmouth College in 1827, and spending a year at the Law School in Cambridge, Mass. In 1844 he was a member of the Assembly of New York and a member of the Board of Education of the city. He continued to reside there until his death.

Mrs. M. D. Lowell died in 1890. Her husband, Rev. Rob't T. S. Lowell, was a graduate of Harvard in the class of 1833, and, after acquiring a medical education, became a clergyman in the Episcopal Church. He was established in 1846 and 1847 in Newfoundland. It was at that time he gathered the materials for his novel entitled "The New Priest of Conception Bay." This was issued in 1858, and again in 1863 was reissued, with illustrations by Darley. In 1860 he published a volume of poems entitled "Fresh hearts that failed three thousand years ago." From 1869 to 1873 he was head master of St. Mark's School at Southboro, Mass. Afterwards he was Professor of Latin in Union College. These are his chief works and positions, although he did very much, and was very highly esteemed as a writer and teacher. After Mrs. Lowell's death, her husband married Miss Dunlap who died some years later. The wives of this eminent man were both singularly fitted for his companions. Indeed his first wife was gifted as a writer of beautiful poems. Her husband graduated from Harvard in 1838, and his whole life in detail has become so much the property of the world at large that it is unnecessary to add anything to what has been written. His poems and prose works will live in the memory of all who read them; few are born to fill such eminent positions. Statesman, diplomat, litterateur, poet, essayist, critic and professor! All these he filled and when his earthly career was ended in August, 1891, of none could it be more truly said the whole world mourned his loss.

He published many original poems and stories which were written in a clear, strong style, and won many commendations. His earthly career was terminated on the 3rd of Jan., 1890. The address at his funeral services, delivered by Rev. R. S. Storrs, D.D., formed one of the impressive parts of the occasion. Since the commencement of this genealogy many additional facts have been received which have made it much larger than originally expected while by no means making it as complete as most family records. As the attempt was only to gather such records as were to be had without a prolonged research it will at once be seen that the purpose of the compiler has been fully met. It is proper to note that Mr. Henry Fitz Gilbert Waters has discovered recently that the first wife of Nathaniel Sparhawk, the emigrant, was Mary Ainger, of Dedham, Essex Co., England.

Dorothy Avery (29) was recorded as probably dying unmarried. The following record of her family has been received since that part of the sketch appeared.

Dorothy Avery married Samuel Angier of Cambridge, Mass., in 1712.

The thanks of the compiler are due to a greater number than can well be enumerated in this brief space. Special acknowledgments are due to Mrs. Mary Lowell Putnam; Messrs. Charles W. and John Sparhawk; Mr. Edward E. Sparhawk; Misses Lucy, Jennie and Frances C. Sparhawk; Edward A. Bowen, Esq., and Mrs. Hannah D. Hutchings, for valuable contributions.

CECIL HAMPDEN CUTTS HOWARD.

THE GOOD PHYSICIAN.

WRITTEN IN MEMORY OF DR. THOMAS SPARHAWK.

BY MISS MARGARET WINSLOW.

I.

I see him on his rounds
Within the village bounds,
His patient horse at every humble door
Where crammed in stifling dens,
The foul, dark factory pens,
Lie, loathed by dainty sense, the suffering poor.

II.

Not loathed by that pure love,
Warm from the light above.
Hastening to spend for them his heavenly gift;
Like one who closely trod
The foot-prints of his God—
Body and soul alike, from death to lift.

III.

I see him gently raise,
The infant, frail of days,
In manly arms, as tender as his heart;
I see the mother laid
On soft couch, freshly made
By hands well used to act a woman's part.

IV.

I see the aged soothed
The young head softly smoothed;
The horny hand grasped brotherly and warm;
I see the loved home hearth,
The hospitable mirth
Left night by night, to breast the wintry storm.

V.

Far over hill and plain,
Through darkness, mist and rain,
Through biting cold and clouds of drifting snow;
Oft for no other mead
Than His who sent the need
Faithful and fearless still, I see him go.

VI.

I see him pause at last;
That life-long service past,
A soldier in his duty stricken down;
Yet beams the noble face,
Serene in passive grace,
The hoary hair of righteousness its crown.

VII.

I see, in last repose,
That smile, where softly glows
The fair, bright sunshine, stooping to embrace,
Like blessings long since stored
In hearts now round him poured
From lowliest homes—that pure and saint-like face.

VIII.

I see the reverent throng,
The aged and the young,
The rich, the poor, who press around his bier;
I mark the heaving breast,
The low sob half suppressed,
The manly grief, and woman's tender tear.

IX.

And with the eye of faith,
His trust in that which saith
"Come, blessed of my Father, who have given
Food to my hungering poor,
Health to my sick and sore"
I see a king within the courts of heaven.

X.

I see the crown of light!
I know his garment bright!
I touch his golden sceptre of command;
But whence yon garland green,
With leaves of silvery sheen
And fragrant breath, that blooms within his hand?

XI.

O prize! than robe or crown
Or sceptre of renown
More blessed of the Father and the Son—
The leaves of heavenly life,
To heal the nation's strife,
Not for himself, but myriads, he hath won.
