POEMS BY THE STILES FAMILY.

BY HON. J. HAMMOND TRUMBULL, OF HARTFORD, CONNECTICUT.

"A FAMILY TABLET: containing a selection of ORIGINAL POETRY. [Motto, from Akenside.] Boston: Printed and sold by William Spotswood, 1796." 12mo. pp. (12.) 81. "Copy-Right secured agreeably to law."

This little volume is not an "excessively rare" one, though it might pass for such in some bookseller's catalogues. Neither is it very common. For the most accomplished local antiquary of Boston, a veteran book-collector, told me, not long ago, that he had never met with it. Probably the edition was a small one, and all or nearly all the copies were distributed to friends of the authors.

The selected poems are all anonymous. It is only by internal evidence that they are discovered to have been written by members of the family of the Rev. Dr. EZRA STILES, President of Yale College, and to have been edited by his son-in-law, the Rev. ABIEL HOLMES, afterwards D. D., and American Annalist. Readers of the HISTORICAL MAGAZINE will not fail to recognize the claim which such a "Family Tablet" has to the respectful notice of American scholars, independent of its literary merits. Every librarian and collector who has a copy of the volume will be glad to remove its title from his "anonymous" list to a place of higher honor.

President Stiles died, May twelfth, 1795. Two of his daughters, Elizabeth (unmarried) and Mary, wife of the Rev. A. Holmes, died before the end of the same year. The Preface of the "Family Tablet" begins as follows:

"The music of Carryl," says Ossian, was
"like the memory of joys that are past, pleasant
"and mournful to the soul." To perpetuate the "remembrance of such joys, and, at the same "time, to pay a funereal tribute to the memory of "those friends who, when living, were the source
"of them, are the primary designs of this publica"tion."

The selection comprises forty-seven pieces, by eight writers, distinguished by their signatures, as "Louisa," "Myra," "Myron," "Eugenio," "Cecilia," "Narcissa," "Henry," and "St. John." "Louisa," who contributed thirteen of the forty-seven poems, was Miss Ruth Stiles, the youngest surviving daughter of the President, afterward married to the Rev. Caleb Gannett. She wrote the "Elegy," with which the volume begins, on the deaths of her father and sisters; "Lines to Miss S. W. on the death of her brother, Major J. P. W., [John Palsgrave Wyllys,] who fell in the battle at the Miami Village, 1790;" "Lines to the memory of Mrs. T. W., who died soon after the birth of her first child, March 20, 1795;" (these lines had previously been published in the Massachusetts Magazine;) and (p. 51,) Lines "To a gentleman who presented Louisa with a Pen, &c." This gentleman's "Reply," is signed "Henry," (p. 53), and is the only piece in the volume to which that signature is attached.

Three poems signed "Eugenio," were written by Dr. Ezra Stiles, Jr., who died in North Carolina, August twenty-second, 1784. These are entitled, "Lines occasioned by the War, 1777;" "Andre's Ghost; in imitation of 'Pompey's Ghost';" and "Conscience," (pp. 7, 8, 26.) The closing lines of the first of these poems, considering the period which they were written, are worth quoting:

"What scenes of varied woe thus meet our eyes,
"Fresh sighs for thee, lamented WARREN! rise.
"Nor long shall Britain thus her triumph boast—
"A happier Warrior arms a happier host!
"Before great WASHINGTON her sons shall fly;
"He leads our troops—to conquer or to die,—
"While Warren's hovering ghost, each wrong repaid,
"In equal dust shall see his conqueror laid."

"Myra" is the anagram of Mary, the youngest daughter, first wife of the Rev. Abiel Holmes who writes as "Myron." The former wrote eight, the latter sixteen (including the two longest) poems of the selection. Among those of "Myron" are "Lines to the Memory of Mrs. T. H. (his mother,) who died 1791, ætat. 87" (p. 13); and an "Elegy on Doctor * * * * *" [David Holmes, his father], p. 58; "Hymn written at Sea" (p. 21); "The Transformation of Eliza [Miss Elizabeth Stiles?] into a Poplar" (pp. 41-48); "Lines occasioned by seeing a Portrait of the Goddess of Liberty finely executed by Mr. E. Savage" (p. 55); "Elegiac Sonnet on Mrs. K. T. S. [Kezia Taylor Stiles, who married Lewis B. Sturges, Esq., of New Haven, in 1785,] and who died within a year after marriage" (p. 57), and, most ambitious of all, "Varatildia: an Epic Poem. In three Books. Dux fœmina facti. Virgil." This poem, the last in the volume, has a separate title page and preface. It was written to celebrate "incidents that actually happened during the residence of the Heroine in the Author's family," and was "originally designed as a winter-evening's amusement." That the writer's design was effected, there can hardly be a doubt—

"Albeit, in the general way,
A sober man" was he.

There is humor in this mock-epic,—but the humor is decorous and subdued, so as, on the whole, not to appear out of place on a memorial Tablet!

The two pieces (pp. 40, 49,) signed "St. John," were probably contributed by St. John Honeywood, who, while a student at Yale College, was for some time a member of Dr. Stiles's family, and who (says Dr. Holmes,) "as an orphan child and a youth of a fine genius, had shared, among many others, the benefits of the President's patronage." (Life of Pres. Stiles, p. 295.) Honeywood died at Salem, September first, 1798.

NOTE.

The materials of the following Family Memoir, were accumulated many years ago, while the author was engaged in compiling the genealogy of the Connecticut Family of Stiles—an entirely distinct race—and which was published in 1859.* As they evidently did not belong to the family upon which he was then engaged, they were laid aside—and other cares and duties have prevented their further arrangement and completion until the present time. Indeed, but little effort has been made, since the discovery that the Massachusetts family were not connected with the Connecticut family, to extend the lines of descent. And the principal motives which have induced its publication, are (1), an unwillingness to leave any genealogical manuscripts in an unfinished state; (2), a desire to gratify those who have taken an interest in the work, and who consequently have a right to the benefit of my investigations; and (3), a sentiment of personal respect to Dea. DAVID STILES, Jr., of Middleton, Mass., and to Esquire DAVID STILES, of Temple, N. H., to whose enthusiastic interest and kindly assistance, this Memoir owes much of its value.

STILES FAMILY.

ROBERT STILES of Dorchester, Mass., is first mentioned as the purchaser of land in that town, in 1659.* In the fall of the following year he married, and became a householder; and in 1663 "was obliged to pay the penalty for entertaining strangers contrary to law"† — a fact which does not speak well for his character as a citizen. In the year 1666-7, his name occurs among those who received grants of village lands in Rowley,‡ and in 1673 he, with four others,

* From William Clarke. Stiles's residence in Dorchester was on, or near, the present Green street.

† Hist. of Dorchester, 194.

‡ Rowley (embracing the present towns of Bradford, Boxford, Georgetown, and parts of other villages) had been settled, in 1638, by a company of emigrants from Yorkshire, England, under the spiritual lead of Rev. Ezekiel Rogers, in honor of whose former residence the new plantation was named. The lands here spoken of consisted of 400 acres (lying in the present town of Boxford) granted to Thomas Dorman, John Cumming, and Robert Stiles, "bounded E. by land of William Stickney and others; W. by Andover line; N. by a highway which separates it from Mrs. Rogers's land in part, and part by other people's land; S. with a line running straight from Andover line to a clump of trees on the N. side of Humphrey's pond. These boundaries include a piece of meadow, called Frye's meadow, before laid out to Mr. [Philip] Nelson." (Gage's Hist. of Rowley, p. 359). One hundred acres of this grant "lying on the north side of Humphrey's pond," was sold July 10, 1704, by Robert Stiles's son Ebenezer, to Ephraim Foster, blacksmith, of Andover, for the sum of £30 silver. He very pro-petitioned the General Court, praying that they might be set off to the adjoining town of Topsfield. Stiles and his fellow-petitioners were at this time residents of Rowley Village (now Boxford) about six or seven miles from Old Rowley, and as it was much nearer for them to attend church at Topsfield than at Rowley, they preferred to pay their ministry rates to the former place. This however was denied them.* In 1670 Stiles sold his property in Dorchester to Edward Payson of that place. In 1672, he was called before the selectmen of Dorchester "to answer for idleness; and it was found that neither he nor his wife improved their time, as they should." Yet, the admonition which they, doubtless, received from the worthy magistrates, on that occasion, does not seem to have been heeded, as in 1679, the records of that town inform us that "Robert Stiles was called before the Selectmen to give an account how he improved his time; also the same in relation to his children. The conclusion was that he should look out for a place for his children, or the Selectmen would provide one."† In 1680, he is mentioned as among the recipients of the legacy left by Mrs. (wid. of) John Birge, for the poor of the town of Dorchester — which bounty was that year distributed in shoes.‡ In 1684, the Rev. Joseph Capen was settled at Topsfield, where a church had existed since 1663, and in his list of "members in full communion" at the time of his ordination, we bably owned lands in Rowley at an earlier date, as on an old tax-book of that town, from 1660–1664, he is noted as paying tax to the amount of £0:6:9. (N. E. Hist.-Gen. Reg., xv, 254).

*This interesting petition may be found, at length, in Gage's Hist. of Rowley, pp. 361–364.

† Hist. of Dorchester, 223, 236.

‡ Ibid, p. 239. The same year the town of Rowley appointed certain persons to see that the Sabbath was well kept — and "Goodman Stiles's" family was one of eleven families, under the supervision of Joseph Bigsbee. Hist. Rowley, p. 365.

find the name of Robert Stiles,* as also (subsequent to his ordination) those of his son John, and Deliverance wife of the latter, and under date of Feb. 23, 1689, the name of Elizabeth Stiles. During the year 1685 the town of Boxford was formed, and the Stiles family afterward appear on that town and church records. In the Old Burying Ground at Dorchester, Mass., is the gravestone of "Robert Stiles, Aged About 91 Years, d. Nov^r the 2^d, 1710."

The first volume of the Records of Births in Essex county, Mass., at the Clerk of Court's office at Salem, contains the record of births, marriages and deaths from 1654-1691, inclusive, among which are the following:

"In Rowley, Robert Stiles and Elizabeth [dau. of John] Frye, married the fourth of October, 1660.

Children.

"In Rowley, John, son of Robert Stiles, borne the 30 day of January, 1661.†

"In Rowley, Elizabeth, daughter of Robert Styles, borne the 15 of March, 1662.

"In Rowley, Sarah, an umiac daughter of Robert Stiles, borne 31 of Jan: 1 [torn off, probably 1664] Sarah, daughter of Robert Styles, dyed 7th of Feb. 1664.

"In Rowley, Abigaill, daughter of Robert Stiles, borne 15 day of February, 1666.

* N. E. Hist.-Gen. Reg., xvi, 213. His name is followed by the sign "d d" i. e. deceased.

† In a list of Births, Marriages and Deaths, in Dorchester, Mass. (N. E. Hist.-Gen. Reg., xvi, 156), we find this "John son of Robert Stiles, b. 25 (2) 1669; his eldest son Joseph, b. last day of June 1667." In Essex Hist. Coll., iv, 59, we find "1661. John, son of Robert Stiles, b. June last day." In Hist. of Rowley, p. 147, 1661 is given as date of birth of Robert's first child.

“ In Rowley, Ebenezer, son of Robert Stiles, borne the 20th of February, 1669.

“ In Rowley, Sarah, daughter of Robert Stiles, borne the 20th of October, 1672.

“ In Rowley, Robert, son of Robert Stiles, borne the 15 of November, 1675.

“ In Rowley, Timothy, son of Robert Stiles, borne the first of October, 1678.

By the Boxford Records, it appears that Robert Stiles married a second wife Elizabeth ———, by whom he had Samuel, b. May 21, 1682.

NOTE.—We must confess ourselves somewhat in the dark about Robert Stiles's history. We cannot reconcile the records of Dorchester, from 1659 to 1680, which give him the character of being a shiftless, if not a vicious man, with the items of his Rowley connection, from 1660 to 1684, or thereabouts, which represent him as a sober citizen, possessed of considerable property, which he left to his children. The very estimable character which all his descendants, from his sons down to the present day, have sustained, is certainly not in accordance with the bad example, and neglect which the children of Robert of Dorchester must have had from their father. Savage, in his great Genealogical Dictionary, seems also to have been puzzled as to this matter, as he says (vol. II, 195) “ROBERT, Boxford, m. 4 Oct., 1660, Eliz. d. of John Frye of Andover; was of Rowley, 1661, but perhaps rem. to Dorchester, where I find one of this name, 1663, yet in my opin. this Dorchester man was older than him of B. possib. but not prob. was s. of John the first; and inscript. on gr. stone is of his d. 2 Nov. 1710, and age, a. 91, that may seem something too high.” Our own opinion is, that whatever the degree of relationship between them, ROBERT of Dorchester, and ROBERT of Rowley, were entirely different individuals, and that some record will yet be brought to light settling this point, and thereby relieving the worthy descendants of the latter from the odium which seems to attach to him of Dorchester.

* The Hist. of Dorchester, p. 147, in a list of those "who lived in the town, and who had reached the age of 21 years, up to the year 1700," gives the name of JOHN, as well as of Robert Stiles. Of the former, Savage, Geneal. Dict. (Vol. III, 195) says "JOHN, Dorchester, 1692, perhaps was s. of Robert of the same; but certainty is beyond reach, and all that can be known is, that his wife was Mary, that he had John, Joseph, Elizabeth, Mary, Nathaniel, and Nehemiah, of which Joseph, Mary and Nathaniel d. of small pox in the fatal season of Jan. 1721-2." The following inscriptions (see N. E. Hist.-Gen. Reg., iv, 92) are from the Old Burying Ground at Dorchester: "Here Lyes two Children Of John & Mary Stiles,—Nathaniel Stiles Died January 9, 1721, Aged 8 Years,—Mary Stiles Died January 9, 1721, In 13th Year Of Her Age." Also, "Benjamin, son to John Styls Aged 1 Month Died April ye 19, 1708 (N. E. Hist.-Gen. Reg., iv, 278). The identity of this John of Dorchester and John of Boxford, seems as difficult to prove, from the data furnished, as that of Robert of Dorchester and Robert of Rowley. On the whole it rather confirms our suspicion that Robert of Dorchester was not Robert of Rowley.

† Extract from letter of Dea. David Stiles, Jr., of Middleton, Mass.—"My grandmother, Miriam Stiles, lost her husband Ezekiel, when her family, composed mostly of boys, was quite young; and being of a courageous disposition, she took the reins without hesitation, and soon cleared up all the incumbrances on the farm, while her five boys (from the age of a few months, to those of 16 or 17 years of age) were taught to obey and respect her; and having once put her hand to the work she was not one to look back. It is said that, on one occasion at least, she felt it her duty to flog one of the oldest boys, which she did in the old puritan style. In fact, her courage and perseverance became known throughout the vicinity. On one occasion, four men, returning from a hunting excursion on horseback, and probably unwilling to return home without accomplishing something, took it into their heads to make a little "game" of the old widow, and see how she would behave. They, therefore, rode past the house around a hill out of sight, and tied their horses. The stars dimly shone, as they silently advanced, in single file toward the house, with their guns upon their shoulders. Taking their position under a large tree which stood in front of the widow's dwelling, they commenced, in the most deliberate manner, loading their guns with powder and shot, and then rapidly poured their whole broadside into the front of the house. It was well riddled—several windows were broken; and, the next day, some of the shot were picked out of the dog's neck, altho' he had remained in the rear of the house. As the old lady passed through the front entry, into the west end of the house, to take counsel of Mr. Wright (an infirm old man who was living there, helped by the town), a shot shattered the front door. The house was far from any neighbors, a fact on which this lawless party had doubtless calculated—as rendering their detection less liable. Before they had time, however, to unhitch their horses, the old lady was in their midst, and calling them by name, demanded restitution forthwith, threatening prosecution immediately if it was not made. They honorably settled all the damages the next day, well satisfied to escape so easily from the consequences of their frolic.

Another anecdote is as follows: The widow's flock of geese, which was large, had been much annoyed and decimated by foxes. One night hearing an unusual clatter among the geese, she got up and went out to the goose-house, ready for service. In her hurry she took neither candle nor lantern, but nothing daunted, she boldly thrust her hand into the goose-house to find out what was going on. Her hand fell on something which did not feel like geese-feathers, so she grappled with it, pulled it out, and carried it into the house, when on getting a light, she found she had captured a large fox, which feigned dead. Thinking this might be so, as the goose had probably beat him violently with its wings, the old lady threw him down at the door of the boys' bedroom, telling them to get up and skin him while he was yet warm. Suddenly, however, the widow's sharp eyes discovered that the fox was far from dead, and he was, forthwith, killed.

Mrs. S.'s maiden name was Richardson, and she was b. in Marblehead, Mass. When quite a little girl, she became an inmate of the family of Wid. Ruth Elliott, near the residence of Mr. Andrew Nichols, in Middleton, Mass. From this house, she moved, after her marriage, to the place (built by Ebenezer for his son Ebenezer, Jr.) now owned by Dea. David Stiles, where she spent the remainder of her days, and was buried in the Symonds burial ground. She was naturally a tender-hearted woman, and ready to give a helping hand to the needy. She also possessed much wit, and keenly enjoyed a good joke.

On one occasion the writer of this, when a few months old, crept into her room (in the east part of the house), whereupon taking a very large pewter platter from the shelf, he was placed upon it, and carried to the west room where his parents were at dinner. There, shoving the plates a little one side, she placed the platter, with its living burden, upon the table, saying: 'This is all yours; serve him as you see fit — if, however, he lives, tell him how he became possessed of this platter.' This platter is now sacredly kept by its owner."

* "Died at Middleton, Mass., Jan. 26, 1857, of consumption, FRANKLIN OSGOOD STILES, aged 32.

Mr. Stiles was born in M., and his father is at present a deacon in the orthodox Cong. Church in that place. When but fourteen years of age he was sufficiently decided in his religious views to admit of his union with the church. The influence of the Christian principles he at that time professed was to increase the attractiveness of a character which Nature herself had rendered winning. At the age of 17 years he became a pupil at Phillips's Academy, Andover, Mass., where he remained until his 18th year. At this time he manifested a great taste for mechanics, and under the instruction of his brother David Stiles, in his native town, he applied himself to learn the trade of a blacksmith. But after six years spent at the forge, desiring better facilities for improving his mind than his situation afforded, he left his native place to become a student at Leicester Academy. He there studied assiduously for four years, and then entered Amherst College, with the design of educating himself for the ministry. He graduated at Amherst with high honors, in the fall of 1856. Very soon after the termination of his collegiate course, he went to test his strength by teaching at an academy at Adrian, Mich. Here his disease made rapid progress, and in a few months he returned to his home to die. * * * * With a calm and unwavering trust in Christ, whose presence he recognized continually, he set out cheerfully to be led by Him through the 'Valley of the Shadow of Death,' into the presence of his Heavenly Father."—(Newspaper Obituary.)

*This date from Hist. of Temple, N. H., p. 265. The same authority also states (p. 68) that Ebenezer Stiles, together with six others, and their estates, were, on their petition, set off from the town of Lyndeboro, and annexed to the town of Temple, by Act of Legislature, June 10, 1796. He was Constable of T. in 1815.

† The following autobiographical sketch of this venerable gentleman, who has evinced a very hearty interest in this record of his ancestry, is extracted from one of his letters to the author. The portions enclosed within brackets, are furnished by the Hist. of Temple, N. H.

“ You kindly ask some particulars of my own career, and I wish I could give you something more worthy of record. I was born in Middleton, Mass., and when nearly three years old [Nov. 1782] my father removed his family to Temple, N. H., where I lived like other folks, with the privilege of common schools—never fell in love with hard work. In 1795 I went to an academy six weeks—in '97 I kept a small school, in 1798 I went to an academy four weeks, and that was nearly the last of my schooling. In 1799 I went into a store and followed that business three years [Nov. 1800, he went to Lyndboro, spent two years there as a trader, and then returned to Temple] when my brothers were married and settled, and my father was feeble, so I went home and took the homestead, and paid out to the heirs, the sum agreed upon. In 1806 I was chosen Constable, and in 1807, at the age of 27, I was chosen one of the Selectmen of Temple [of which body he was member, and, at times, Moderator, in the years 1812, '18, '20, '22, '23, '24, '26, '27, 1833, and 1834]; at the same time was commissioned an officer of the militia, and in 1808, received a commission of Justice of the Peace, which office I have held to this day, and yesterday the Secretary sent me a polite note that a new commission for five years, was ready for me. In 1825, '26 and '27, I represented the town of Temple in the Legislature. After I became a voter I took a decided stand for Mr. Jefferson, but the town of Temple was two-thirds against me in politics. But I have never seen reason to leave that party since, and in 1828, when there was a great struggle between John Q. Adams and Andrew Jackson, I stood for Jackson, and that flung me out of the General Court until 1837, when I was elected to the Senate, and served one year. My business (besides my own farm) has been Agency. I have settled more than twenty dead men's estates, and some live ones', and have had many guardianships of Idiots, Drunkards and Minors, by which you will see that I have had some disagreeable business. Of Town business I have suffered every office from hog-reeve to Town Clerk [1823, 1824], excepting only Town Treasurer and Tything-man. * * * Being a surveyor of land, has led me into much contest for others, when there was disputed titles. I never had a lawsuit go to a jury, either of my own, or as agent." See also Hist. Temple, pp. 35, 37, 84, 86, 90, 131, 198, 252.

CALEB OSCAR,⁵⁰ m. Mary George, of Greenfield, N. H., Oct. 9, 1842. Is a farmer at Greenfield, Mass. Children: DEARBORN GEORGE, b. June 8, 1844; KIRK DALTON, b. Sept. 3, 1846; CLARA ALMA, b. Apl. 22, 1848; JOSEPH S., b. July 10, 1852; MARY ELIZA, b. June 13, 1857.

Descendants of ROBERT STILES, the Settler, in the Line of his son ROBERT STILES.

ROBERT STILES, Jr., m. Ruth ———,* Children, from Boxford, Mass., Rec.: JEMIMA, b. Oct. 27, 17[01]; a SON, b. May 7, 1703†; a SON, b. Apl. 30, 1705; a DAU., b. Nov. 7, —; JOB, b. July 12, 171—.

* Ruth, wife of Robert Stiles, admitted to full communion, 1705.—Boxford Ch. Rec.

† Boxford Ch. Rec. give the baptism, in 1704, of Amos, son of Robert Stiles—probably this one.

*Descendants of ROBERT STILES, the Settler, in the Line
of his son TIMOTHY STILES.*

TIMOTHY STILES, m. Hannah (dau. of Ephraim and Hannah) Foster (b. May 15, 1684), of Andover, Mass., Mch. 5, 1701.* They lived at Boxford, Mass., and he d. Dec. 7, 1751. Children, from Boxford Rec.: [JACOB,¹]† b. Feb. 6, 1702-3; HANNAH, b. Apl. 10, 1704; KEZIAH, b. Mch. 30, 1707; EPHRAIM, b. Dec. 27, 1708; GIDEON,² b. Feb. 26, 1711-12; MARY, b. Feb. 11, 1713; EZRA,³ b. July 9, 1715; JEREMIAH, b. Oct. 15, 1722, d. Dec. 17, 1727; DAVID, b. July 1, 1724, d. Apl. 13, 1725.

JACOB,¹ m. Sarah (dau. of Edward and Sarah) Hartwell (b. June 1712), May 14, 1728. Children: LUCY, b. May 6, 1729; LEVI,⁴ b. Feb. 18, 1732; SARAH, b. May 24, 1735; JACOB,⁵ b. Sept. 26, 1737; NAHUM, b. Apl. 21, 1740; HANNAH, b. Jan. 19, 1742; JEREMIAH,⁶ b. Feb. 23, 1744; PRUDENCE, b. Apl. 3, 1747; JOHN,⁷ b. July 27, 1749.

* N. E. Hist.-Gen. Reg., 1, 353, 354. From Boxford Ch. Rec., we learn that Timothy and wife were adm. to full communion in 1703.

† In the record of Timothy's family, no name is given to his eldest child. But in a letter from Lewis Foster, of Norwich, Vt., which contains "a true record" of his descent from said Timothy of Boxford—and which agrees, in its dates, with the Box. Rec.—the name Jacob is attached to the date of birth of the eldest child. The prevalence, also, of the name Jacob among the different families of this branch of the Stiles name, affords presumptive proof of some weight in the case.

On the contrary, I have been furnished by my friend ROYAL PAINE, Esq., of Brooklyn, N. Y., with a memoranda of the will of one Joseph Stiles, of Lunenburg, Worcester co., Mass., which he casually found in the 3d vol. Worcester Probate Rec. This will, dated Apl. 1, 1750, recites the names of the family, viz: wife, Sarah; sons, Levi, Joel, Nahum, Jeremiah, John; dous., Lucy (Foster), Sarah, Hannah, Prudence. Asahel Hartwell, Administrator.

This, as will be seen, is the same family as that of JACOB, and my own impression is, that the name should be Joseph.

GIDEON,² of Andover, Mass., m. Sally Faulkner, Nov. 30, 1736 (And. Rec.). He d. Nov. 15, 1799, a. 83. Children: DAVID,⁸; SALLY, m. Benjamin Edwards, and their descendants live near Lebanon, N. H.

EZRA,³ m. 1, Mary Warner, Nov. 20, 1740; m. 2, Wid. Sarah Johnson, of Andover, Mass., Apl. 29, 1760. Children, by first wife, from Boxford Rec.: ELIZABETH, b. May 19, 1742; LUCY, b. 1745; JEMIMA, b. Nov. 7, 1747; EZRA, Jr., b. Dec. 18, 1749; MARY, b. Mch. 3, 1752; ANNA, b. Feb. 7, 1755; JACOB, b. June 14, 1757; KEZIA, b. Mch. 12, 1759. Children, by second wife: ELIZABETH, b. Jan. (or June) 23, 1761; HANNAH, b. Mch. 19, 1767; NATHAN, b. Mch. 15, 1769.

LEVI,⁴ m. Patience Smith, Dec. 16, 1755. He d. 1809. Children: JONATHAN,⁹ b. at Lunenburg, Mass., Oct. 5, 1756; PELEG,¹⁰ m. and settled at Onion River, Vt.*; JACOB, M. D., settled at Boston; NAHUM,¹¹ b. 1762; CALEB¹²; SARAH, m. — Wetherbee, in Vt.; MARY, m. — Priest, of Gardner; PATIENCE, m. — Upton; LUCY, m. Dr. Lewis of Hanover, N. H.; HANNAH.†

JACOB,⁵ m. Abigail —, settled in Cavendish, Vt. Children, from Town Rec. Keene, N. H.: CHARLOTTE, b. Sept. 26, 1763; LINCOLN, b. Aug. 7, 1765, lives in Cavendish, Vt.; ASENATH, b. Jan. 27, 1768; ABIGAIL, b. Nov. 25, 1769.

JEREMIAH,^{6†} m. Mary (dau. of Abner) Sanger, who d. Mch.

* We may err in giving to this Peleg, the family, etc. on p. 31, but think not. See letters of Belinda A. Stiles of Fall River, Wis., and Thomas Stiles of New Bedford, Mass.

† She lived single, and possessed remarkable strength. Her nephew relates that she could lift a barrel of cider, and set it on a table, as easily as he could a ten gallon keg.

‡ In the Annals of Keene, N. H., by Salmon Hale, pub. 1826, we find, in 1773, the name of Jeremiah Stiles, in a list of a foot-company of soldiers. In Dec. 1776, he was appointed one of the Committee of Safety, in place of Eliphalet Briggs, deceased, and his name with some two hundred others, is

22, 1810, a. 69. Children, from Town Rec. Keene, N. H.: ELIZABETH, b. July 13, 1769, m. Eliphalet Briggs, of Keene, N. H., and d. Mch. 23, 1819, a. 49; JEREMIAH, b. May 26, 1771; JOSEPH, b. July 5, 1773; JOHN WILLIAM, b. Feb. 22, 1777; MARY, b. Apl. 16, 1781.

JOHN,⁷ m. Kezia Divoll, moved from Rindge, N. H., to Keene, N. H., and thence to Waterford, Vt.; was a carpenter.* Children: PRUDENCE, b. Oct. 14, 1770, m. Marvin Rogers, lives in Walpole, N. signed to the following declaration: "We the subscribers, do hereby solemnly engage and promise that we will, to the utmost of our power, at the risque of our lives and fortunes, with arms, oppose the hostile proceedings of the British Fleets, and Armies against the American Colonies." Jan. 14, 1777, he was nominated by the town as a Justice of the Peace. In Dec. of the same year, in Town Meeting, Capt. Stiles, Capt. Howlet, and Jabez Fisher were successively chosen representative, but each declined. At a meeting held Jan. 17, 1778, the people of Keene, "after reading and conferring upon the articles of confederation of the Continental Congress, voted, that it is the mind of the town that they be established by this State." Capt. Stiles, Maj. Ellis, and Capt. Griswold were chosen delegates to meet at Surrey, to consult with the delegates of other towns. April 27, 1778, Jeremiah Stiles was chosen a delegate to the convention at Concord, held for the purpose of forming a Constitution, and Plan of Agreement for the State. In Sept. 1779, the town passed the following preamble and vote: "Whereas the Selectmen of Portsmouth, sent an address to this and the rest of the towns of this State, desiring their presence and assistance, by their delegates to meet at Concord, in convention, to see if they can come into some agreement to state the price of the several articles bought and sold in this State; therefore voted that Capt. Jeremiah Stiles attend said convention as a delegate from this Town." He was subsequently much engaged in Town business — being, from 1787 to 1791, Town Clerk — and died Dec. 6, 1800 a. 56.

STILES FAMILIES, EVIDENTLY BELONGING TO THE MASSACHUSETTS BRANCH, BUT WHOSE CONNECTION WITH THE MAIN LINE HAS NOT BEEN SATISFACTORILY ASCERTAINED.

I.

Three brothers, viz :

I. WILLIAM (?), went to Pennsylvania.

II. REUBEN, was one of those killed, Sept. 7, 1773, by the breaking of a beam, and falling of the frame of the second meeting-house in Wilton, N. H. The killed and wounded numbered 53; two d. the next day (Farmer and Moore's Hist Coll., I, 67). From a letter of A. B. STILES, of East Randolph, Vt. (1857), we learn the following additional particulars: "Stiles was the first man killed, he jumped, and struck the ground upon his feet, and was walking away unhurt, when a falling stick of timber struck him on the head, and killed him instantly. There were several more killed and wounded, and crying for water, when my grandfather running to a spring about twenty rods distant, where there was a barrel filled with water, caught it up, carried it to the spot, and having set it down, smote the head in, with his fist. I mention this merely to show that the old Stileses were stout, but every generation grows weaker and wiser."

III. JOHN, b. in Salem, Mass., m. Susan Chamberlain, resided in Greenfield, N. H. Children: MESHACK and BETSY (twins), Meshack d. at Mendhall, Vt.; Betsy d. young; JOHN, d. at Insane Asylum, Brattleboro', Vt.; ASAH^{EL},¹ b. in Greenfield, N. H., Nov.

* Extract from letter of D. L. Stiles to the author of this memoir.—"It is pleasant to trace back our descent to an honorable and illustrious ancestry, but what we are now, is of far more consequence to each of us. And, if we can trace our relationship to Jesus Christ, and feel that He is our Elder Brother and our Saviour, both here and in the world to come; that we are joint heirs with Him to the inheritance, prepared by our Heavenly Father, for all that will come to Him through His dear Son, it will matter but little who was our great-great-great-great grandfather. With my best wishes for the success of your enterprize, I remain," &c.

IV.

From Ely Stiles, of Wilton, N. Y., we have the following record:
— STILES, m. Abigail Pendleton, lived for a time in Rhode Island, had 3 sons, viz:

I. WILLIAM [Samuel],[†] who died in Connecticut, during the Revolutionary war.

II. JOHN (whose descendants are furnished by the said Ely Stiles).

III. ISRAEL [Isaac].[†]

From Seth Stiles, of Willington, Ct., we obtain information concerning a WILLIAM Stiles, undoubtedly the same William above mentioned by Ely Stiles. This (I) WILLIAM,[†] according to S. Stiles, was b. at Rehoboth, R. I., moved to Hampton, Ct., and there

* Samuel Stiles, a respectable farmer of Milford, Wis., stabbed himself to the heart with a hay-fork a few days since. His nephew, George Stiles, shot himself a little while before, in the same town. Spiritualism is said to have caused these suicides.—N. Y. Times, May 26, 1857.

[†] The account of this William, and his family is, probably to some extent, traditional, and we have from WILLIAM L. WEAVER, of Willimantic, Ct., the following excerpt from the Windham Rec., which certainly seems to be the record of the same family—and which gives the father's name as Samuel, instead of William.

“Samuel Stiles m. Huldah Durkee, Oct. 7, 1735. Children: HULDAH, b. Sept. 18, 1736; SAMUEL, b. Nov. 6, 1738; MEHITABLE, b. Nov. 15, 1740; LEAH, b. Mch. 27, 1743; RACHEL, b. Apl. 5, 1745; ISAAC, b. Sept. 26, 1747;

m. Rachel Dugay ; from thence he moved to Willington, Ct., where he died. His wife d. at Wales, Vt., a. 104 yrs. Children: GOULD¹; ASAPH, d. at Willington, unmarried ; WILLIAM, d. at Little Hoosick, N. Y. ; HULDAH, m. James Holt, of Hampton, Ct., had one dau. ; RACHEL, m. James Trowbridge, of Abington, Ct., no issue ; MEHITABLE, m. David Kendall, of Ashford, Ct., had 3 children ; ISAAC².

II. JOHN, m. Lucy Johnson, and emigrated to Saratoga co., N. Y., about the close of the Revolution.* He d. Nov. 5, 1785. Children: REUBEN³; JOHN⁴; PETER,⁵ b. at Wilton, N. Y., April 7, 1785 ; JOSHUA, m. Sally Prosser, of Saratoga, N. Y., and moved to Canada ; LUCY ; SALLY ; HANNAH ; POLLY ; ABIGAIL.

GOULD,^{1†} m. Delight Boughton, Feb. 7, 1770. Children: ADA, b. Jan. 25, 1771 ; LEAH, b. Apl. 25, 1772 ; DELIGHT, b. Feb. 11' 1774 ; RHODA, b. Oct. 6, 1775 ; HULDAH, b. Jan. 30, 1777 ; SUSANNA, b. Mch. 16, 1779 ; MERIBAH, b. Sept. 6, 1782 ; GOULD, b. Apl. 21, 1784 ; JERUSHA, b. Aug. 5, 1787 ; LYDIA, b. Aug. 24' 1790. [This family is now extinct, in Willington, Ct.]

ISAAC,² m. Abigail Case, Jan. 1, 1772, lived in Willington, Ct. Children: LUCY, b. Nov. 22, 1775, m. Samuel Eddy ; ALICE, b.

GOULD, b. Mch. 12, 1750 ; ASA [probably same as Asaph mentioned in S. Stiles's account, above], b. Mch 10, 1752 ; WILLIAM, b. July 31, 1755 ; LUCY, b. Oct. 22, 1758."

Also, "Isaac [probably same as Israel, in Ely Stiles's account], m. Mary Bradley, Apl. 17, 1751. Children: MARY, b. June 9, 1752 ; HANNAH, b. Nov. 23, 1754."

These records seem, to us, to be more authentic than the one furnished by Seth Stiles, of Willington, Ct.—and according to them the record of the three brothers, furnished by Ely Stiles, of Wilton, should read, I. Samuel. II. JOHN. III. Isaac.

* John Stiles settled in Wilton, Saratoga co., N. Y., 1775, says French's Gazetteer of New York, p. 593.

† Gould Stiles m. Delia Clarke (prob. 2d wife), of Ashford, Ct., and d. in Wales, Vt. Some years previous to his death, he weighed a little more than 350 pounds.—Letter. See also Prob. Rec., Rutland, Vt., vol. 18.

In Hist. of Temple, N. H. (p. 97), we find that JOHN Stiles was one of a company of 56, who marched from Temple, N. H., to Cambridge, Mass., on the "Lexington alarm," and were absent eleven days, 1775. In same year, a special census of the village, shows that the family of John Stiles, contained 1 male under 16 yrs. of age, 1 between the ages of 16 and 50, and 4 females, together with “a gun” (p. 101). In 1766, he signed the following resolution, recorded on the Minutes of the Annual Town Meeting: “We, the Subscribers, do hereby solemnly profess our entire willingness, at the Risques of our Lives and Fortunes, with arms, to oppose the Hostile Attempts of the British Fleets and Armies against the United American Colonies, whenever, and to such a degree, as such attempts of Britain may require” (p. 105). Subsequently he was appointed on a “Committee [of 9 members] of Inspection, correspondence and safety” (p. 11). On June 30, 1777, he marched in a company of 37, under Capt. Drury, Lieut. Col. P. Heald’s regiment, on an alarm from Ticonderoga (p. 114).
