MARCH, 1914.

WILLIAM SCOTT⁻¹ Born about 1635. He first appears on the scene, as far as any records show, when he came to that part of Hadley, now called Hatfield, Mass., about 1668. "Among the archives of Memorial Hall at Deerfield, Mass. is the last will of William Scott, dated Feb. 15, 1716. The will was never probated as no record of it can be found at Northampton, where it should appear. He married, Jan. 28, 1670, Hannah Allis, born about 1649. Their third child was William.

The company was organized by Captain John Fassett, Oct. 24, 1764. The records of Rupert, Vt. previous to 1800 have been lost, so that no further record of the Scott family is found there. The rest of the record of Oliver⁴ may be found in the "History and Genealogy of the EASTMAN family of America, compiled by Guy S. Rix, Concord, New Hampshire, 1901., as follows:

OLIVER⁻⁴ (Samuel⁻³, William⁻², William⁻¹) b. in Sunderland, Mass. on Feb. 27, 1739. Died-----; Married (in Bristol Vt.) a Bathsheba Eastman, b. 1751, in Norwich, Conn.; d. about 1843, in Theresa, N.Y.

HANNAH CALISTA SCOTT⁻⁶, (Jonathan⁻⁵, Oliver⁻⁴, Samuel⁻³, William⁻² William⁻¹) She was born March 1, 1822, in Ellisburg, Jefferson Co., N.Y., which place she left Sept. 25, 1844, and came to Grandville, Kent Co., Mich. She had a good education and was a school teacher, both in New York state and in Michigan. She married

Darwin E. Fischer in 1846; he died Feb. 24, 1853. No children. In 1854 she married William R. Barnard. He was born in Buffalo, N.Y., Aug. 16, 1813. They conducted the Eagle Hotel in Grand Rapids, Mich., for one year, and then built the Barnard House, which they ran as a first class hotel until 1862. No children.

Mrs. Barnard made her home with her neice, Mrs. Ida E. Hoyt, for years, and died at her home in Holland, Michigan, Feb. 18, 1902, and was buried in the Georgetown cemetery, Ottawa Co., Mich. She was a woman of most beautiful Christian character. A short record of her life may be found in "Portrait and Biographical Record of Muskegon and Ottawa Counties" in Graves Library, Hope College, Holland, Mich.

When Mrs. Barnard came as a young lady to Michigan in 1844, she wrote a short story of her trip, parts of which follow:

She, together with Mr. Rawls (father of Irene Rawls), Maria Bathsheba Scott, Laura Cook Frost, and daughter Euretta Frost (later McDermott) came in an emigrant wagon from Ellisburg, N.Y. to Grand Rapids, Mich., by way of Rochester, Buffalo, thru Ontario, Detroit, Pontiac and Ionia. They left Ellisburg Sept. 25, 1844, and reached Grand Rapids Oct. 15, 1844. She states that when they reached Buffalo they saw "the cars come in". They crossed the river at Buffalo at Black Rock ferry, and went along the north shore of Lake Erie for some distance on their way thru Ontario to Detroit. At night they usually stopped at some inn or tavern, having made about 30 to 35 miles a day. She writes of Detroit (Oct. 9, 1844) as a village. From Detroit they passed thru Mount Piety, Pontiac, Ionia and stopped at the Lake House two and one-half miles from Grand Rapids, and reached Grand Rapids Oct. 15, 1844. She writes that Grand Rapids then had 28 stores and 3 churches.

Those of her family who came by boat from Ellisburg, N.Y., to Grand Haven, Mich., were Jonathan and Rachel Scott, their son Asa A. and his wife Irene Rawls Scott, their two children George Washington and Nettie C. and Mrs. Rawls, mother of Irene.

Jonathan Scott's⁵ home in Ellisburg, N.Y., consisted of about 100 acres of land, on which was a large square red brick house, two and one-half stories high, built one of four corners and used as a tavern. The front door opened into the bar-room; this room and the parlor, which opened off from it, took up all the front; back of the parlor was a large kitchen where they ate, and a pantry. The stairs went up out of the bar-room into a hall or ball room which extended across the front of the second story. On one side of the hall was Hannah Calista and Maria's bedroom, with closet and fireplace, and on the other side, another bedroom, which was used by Jonathan and his wife. Jonathan Scott paid more attention to the tavern than the farm, which he left to his sons and hired men to run. They were always well to do in those days, but Jonathan lost a great deal by signing notes with different people. Finally his son Asa A. took over the farm with the understanding that he was to take care of his father and mother the rest of their life, but hearing so much about Michigan and the great opportunities offered there, traded the farm for land in Georgetown, Ottawa Co., Michigan, where they built two log houses near a Mr. Bosworth's.
