

THE SHARPS

OF CHESTER COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA,

— AND —

ABSTRACTS OF RECORDS

IN GREAT BRITAIN.

PUBLISHED BY
W. C. SHARPE, SEYMOUR, CONN.
1903.

PREFACE.

The following account of the Sharps of Chester County, Pennsylvania, has been very carefully compiled, principally from the records of the Friends' Meetings, which are arranged to follow the Quarterly meetings, which sometimes comprise two or more counties. There is a separate book for births, deaths and marriages, as well as a series of supplements.

As the year, previous to 1752, began on 25th March, the Friends called that (and not Jan.) the 1st Mo., so that all the entries up to that date belong to the year succeeding, thus 1689, 1, 20, would be the 20th January, 1690.

There follows an abstract of all entries under the names of Sharpe or Sharp in the books and supplements of the Friends Register, (copies of which are kept at Devonshire House, Bishopsgate Street, London), previous to the year 1712, and copies of ancient wills, one of which in particular, that of Anthony Sharp, pages 32-34, throws much light on his holdings in America. Additional genealogical records of this family of Sharps on the other side of the Atlantic may be found in "The Sharpes," (212 pages, 1893-6), by the same publisher.

The information has been obtained from members of the family and from the records, and may be relied upon for the correctness of the facts given.

Seymour, Conn., July 20, 1903.

THE SHARPS OF CHESTER COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA.

THIS family is traditionally descended from the Sharps of Horton, in Yorkshire, England.

For an account of the Sharps of Horton see "The Life and Correspondence of Abraham Sharp," by Wm. Cudworth. Thos. Brear & Co., Bradford, England.

That branch of the family, whose descendants came to Chester County, became Friends, in the time and under the ministry of George Fox. They left England and went to Ireland to escape religious persecution. In the early part of the eighteenth century — perhaps earlier, two brothers, John Sharp and Joseph Sharp, belonging to this family, came to America and settled in Chester County.*

JOHN SHARP.

The records of Newark (now Kennett) Monthly Meeting contains the following minute, dated 6th, 7 Mo., 1712:

"A certificate produced to this meeting by John Sharp late of ye kingdom of Ireland wch was read and accepted."

John Sharp purchased land from William Penn, Jr., in New Garden, adjoining the line of Kennett Township.

From records of New Garden Monthly Meeting:

"John Sharp of New Garden in ye County of Chester and province of Pennsylvania and Ann Bryan of New Garden af's'd having declared their intentions of marriage with each other before several (two) Monthly Meetings of ye people of God called Quakers were married this 16th day of ye 12 Mo. In the Year of our Lord 1726 at New Garden Meeting."

* For an account of the early settlement of Chester County, see Gilbert Cope's "History of Chester County." For an account of the early immigration into Chester County from Ireland, see "Immigration of Irish Friends into Pennsylvania, 1682 to 1750," by Albert Cook Myers, B.L., of Swarthmore College.

John Sharp died about 1748. His will, dated 1 Mo. 10th 1747-8, was proven and admitted to probate Mar. 28, 1748.

His widow married John Nichols, of Kennett Township, 3rd Mo. 30th, 1751. Issue: Hannah Nichols, m. John Brown, Feb., 1769.

Ann (Bryan) Sharp, afterward wife of John Nichols, died in New Garden Twp. about 1782, her will being proved Aug. 22d of that year. Elizabeth Brown, wife of George Sharp, 2, son of Samuel and Martha, (b. 1790), was a daughter of John and Elizabeth (Richardson) Brown. They lived near Winchester, Va. The father of John Brown was Isaac Brown, a large land holder. It was at the homes of John Brown and his brother, David Brown, that the Friends, exiled by Congress from Philadelphia, during the Revolutionary War, were entertained. (See “Exiles in Virginia,” pages 185, 207 and 213.) The Philadelphia Friends, while guests of Isaac Brown, planted an apple orchard on his farm, which is still bearing. (1901.) After their release, these Friends, on their return journey to Philadelphia, were entertained in Frederick County, Maryland, by R. Richardson, who was Elizabeth Brown’s grandfather. (Exiles in Virginia, p. 227.)

Isaac Brown married Margaret Hite, a daughter of Colonel John Hite, whose father, Jost Hite, was the first settler in the Valley of Virginia.

Hans Jost Hite, with his wife, nee Anna Maria Dubois, emigrated from Strasburg, in Germany, with a company of Palatines in 1710. They settled, first, on the Hudson, in New York, and afterwards removed to Montgomery County, Pa. An old mill still stands on the Perkiomen Creek, which was his property. In 1732, he emigrated to the valley of Virginia, and purchased from Isaac

Van Meter 40,000 acres of land, with the understanding that he would induce others to settle there. Some of this land he sold, retaining a large share. When he removed to the Valley, his family accompanied him. His sons were Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, John and Thomas; his daughters, Mrs. Froman, Mrs. Bowman, Mrs. Chrismen and Mrs. Williams. He, afterwards, in company with others, took a grant for 100,000 acres, the title to which was disputed by Lord Fairfax. A law suit was the consequence, which was not decided for fifty years, after the original parties were both dead. The decision was in Hite's favor. His first home in Virginia was on the Opaguon, six miles South of Winchester, where his son, John, subsequently built a large stone house. To his children, he gave farms at different points in the Valley. The share of his son Jacob extended beyond the present village of Mt. Jackson, embracing the Mt. Airy farm, which was given by Jacob Hite to his daughter Elizabeth, who married Colonel Tavenor Beale, of the Continental Army. Colonel Beale sold it to William Sternberger, who married his daughter Elizabeth. Isaac Hite inherited the Belle Grove farm, about sixteen miles from Winchester, and others settled down in the Valley.

John Hite built the first stone house in the Valley. It was situated about six miles South of Winchester on Opaguon Creek. (See Rev. William Henry Foote's Sketches of Virginia.) John Hite built another stone house, near or on the site of the first, in 1751. One of these houses was used as a fort and a place of refuge for the people of the locality in the Indian Wars.¹

John Hite was a Justice of the Peace in 1735, Vestryman of the Episcopal Church in Winchester in 1765, and Captain or Lieutenant of Militia in 1779.²

It is said John Hite took part in Braddock's campaign and was a Colonel of Virginia Militia during the Revolutionary War. After the Revolution he is referred to in all documents as "Colonel."

² Virginia Calendar Papers. Vol. 2, p 332.—List of Field Officers and Soldiers in the County of Frederick: George Wm. Fairfax, Col^o.; Morgan Morgan, Lieut. Col^o.; Samuel Earl, Major; Marquis Calmes, Major Horse; Captains & Lieuts., Thomas Severingham, George Hopson, Meredith Helms, John Lindsey, John Hite and 12 others. The number of men in the Regiment was 904 and in John Hite's Company 58.

General Washington visited Colonel Hite on several occasions. The following extracts, from his "Journal of My Journey over the Mountains, 1747-8," are interesting:

Page 24. "Monday, 14th March.—We sent our baggage to Capt. Hite's (near Frederick Town.)³ Went ourselves down ye river about 16 miles to Capt. Isaac Pennington's (the land exceeding rich and fertile all ye way, produces abundance of grain, hemp, tobacco, &c.) in order to lay of some lands on cates Marsh and long Marsh."

Page 26. "Tuesday, 15th March.—We set out early with intent to run round ye sd. land, but being taken in a rain and it increasing very fast, obliged us to return. It clearing about one o'clock and our time being too precious to loose we a second time ventured out and worked hard till night and then returned to Pennington's. We got our supper and was lighted into a room and I not being so good a woodman as ye rest of my company stripped myself very orderly and went into ye bed, as they called it, when, to my surprize, I found it to be nothing but a little straw, matted together, without sheets or anything else, but only one thread-bear blanket with double its weight of vermin, such as lice, fleas, &c. I was glad to get up as soon as ye light was carried from us. I put on my cloths and lays as my companions. Had we not have been very tired I am sure we should not have slept much that night. I made a promise not to sleep so from that time forward chusing rather to sleep in ye open air before a fire, as will appear hereafter.

Page 28. "Wednesday, 16th March.—We set out early and finished about one o'clock and then travelled up to Frederickstown where our baggage came to us. We cleaned ourselves (to get rid of ye game we had catched ye night before) and took a review of ye town and thence returned to our lodgings, where we had a good dinner prepared for us—wine and rum—punch in plenty, and a good feather bed with clean sheets, which was a very agreeable regale."

Page 51. "Monday, 11th April.—We travelled from Cuddy's down to Frederick Town, where we reached about 12 o'clock. We dined in town and then went to Capt. Hite's and lodged."
