PREFACE.

This record is not presented as a complete genealogy. It was hastily prepared for a special purpose from material gathered and intended for use at some future time. On account of lack of necessary information some branches are given only in part and others entirely omitted.

The main object in issuing these pages is to stimulate the research of the family history by many who desire to follow where these pages stop, to induce those who are in possession of particulars to assist in extending and perfecting the genealogy and of the facts that relate to the history of the family, both in America and in Europe. It is hoped that the descendants will feel a pride in furnishing all information at hand and assist in bringing to light the information required for a full presentation of a complete history of the ancestors.

For many years the author of this work felt a desire to know more about his ancestry and the particulars connected with the family history.

During the year 1884 many facts and much data were collected, but nothing of any consequence was accomplished until 1889. At that time it was the intention to prepare a short history of his own branch of the family, but having been deeply interested in the work, the interest of members of other branches of the family was awakened.

The data collected was all secured prior to the year 1897, since which time the business engagements of the author were such as to prevent any time being given to the work.

Within the past year many inquiries have been received as to the progress made with the work and requests for copies of the data already at hand, which was in such shape as to be impossible to hand over.

The writer is aware of many imperfections existing in the work, but pleads in extenuation of the fact that the difficulties were insurmountable.

The author acknowledges himself indebted to many friends for kind favors during the compilation of the work, and while I express my sincere gratitude to all who aided me, I especially acknowledge my indebtedness to Dr. George Scholl, of Baltimore, Md.; L. E. Shull, of Canton, Ohio; Mrs. Annie Nettleton, of Osnaburg, Ohio, and Miss Julia Cascaden, of Philadelphia, Pa.

That the effort will meet with general approval is the earnest wish of the AUTHOR.

EXPLANATORY NOTES.

The book is divided into seven chapters, six of which give the descendants of John Peter Scholl and his wife, Anna Susanna Dorothea Scholl, being one chapter for each of their children.

The last section or chapter gives the descendants of Philip Scholl, father of Anna Susanna Dorothea Scholl.

The Roman numerals placed before each name are used to designate the generation to which they belong, as:

- I. John Peter Scholl (first generation).
- II. John Jacob Scholl (second generation).
- III. John Scholl (third generation), etc.

The reader will observe that in the first section of the book Anna Susanna Dorothea Scholl is of the first generation, but in the last chapter or section her father is of the first generation and she appears of the second, among the descendants of Philip Scholl.

INTRODUCTION.

It was the privilege of the writer of this introduction to be intimately associated, for a number of years, with his paternal grandfather, John Jacob Scholl, Sr., second in the line of descent in the family of which this publication is an historical sketch. His youthful imagination was often wrought up to a high pitch by the thrilling narrative of the experiences of his ancestors in their pioneer life among the forest-covered mountains of Schuylkill county, now one of the most densely populated sections of the State of Pennsylvania.

From his grandfather, who lived until he had passed his ninety-sixth year, and whose mind, richly stored with interesting incidents of his early life, was remarkably clear and active to the day of his death, he learned many things that were profoundly interesting and instructive concerning the conditions of the country, the heroic struggles and privations incident to pioneer life and the gradual evolution of our modern civilization.

Born several years before the Declaration of Independence, living within hearing distance of one of the battles of the Revolutionary War, of which he had vivid recollections, carrying a musket as an enlisted soldier in the War of 1812, and living until five years after the close of our Civil War, in which he took a deep and intelligent interest, his life, up to that time, covered the whole period of our country's history. With such a stretch of life, filled with clear and intelligent information, personally witnessing and taking part in the development of our country from the position of dependent colonies to that of one of the ruling nations of the world to draw from, the writer quite naturally became deeply interested in tracing the history of the family to which he belonged. Information concerning incidents personally observed by John Peter Scholl, born in 1738, and by him transmitted through that long drawn-out link in the chain of descent, John Jacob Scholl, Sr., to the present writer will thus be seen to span a period of more than a century and a half.

The writer, with no further purpose than that of collecting data for his own personal information, began about seventeen ago the work of compiling a history of his own particular branch of the family. After having brought the work down to that date he learned that Alton G. Scholl, Esq., then of Philadelphia, Pa., was similarly engaged in collecting information in reference to another branch of the family. After some correspondence, the data collected by the writer was turned over to Alton G. Scholl, who, after years of correspondence and painstaking and careful research, has been able to bring down the record to the form in which it is now presented.

The writer joins most heartily with the author of this historical compilation in earnestly urging all those into whose hands it may come to give him their aid in securing further reliable data that will enable him to complete the work in which he is engaged. By referring to the author's preface it will be seen that this publication does not claim to be either complete or accurate in all its details. It is sent out to more than a hundred members of the different branches of the family in the hope that it may stimulate an interest on their part that will result in the gathering of such data as will enable the author to bring the history of the family up to date, when, it is hoped, a complete and accurate history of the Scholl family may be issued in permanent form.

THE SCHOLL FAMILY HISTORY.

The early history of the Scholl family is shrouded in mystery, and if all were known it would read like a romance of fiction.

The parents of John Peter Scholl lived in the Black Forest, Germany, where John Peter was born on April 7th, 1738.

His father was a prosperous miller and no doubt in good financial standing in his community. The larger portion of Europe was devastated by numerous wars, and many of the families throughout central Europe, not desiring to do military duty, emigrated to America, the family of John Peter Scholl being one of these families.

The voyage, which in those days was long, seems in this instance to have been unusually so. The vessel upon which the family embarked was driven out of its course and was afloat for several months. By traditions in the family, we understand, the ground was covered with snow at time of embarking and the vessel was carried into the tropics, and later, when landing in America, the fall was far advanced and winter came soon after.

A fever broke out aboard the ship and the entire family of John Peter Scholl, including his parents, his brothers and sisters, of which there were a number, were taken with the disease and died. John Peter was the sole survivor of the family.

Upon the arrival of the vessel in port the master bound out John Peter for his passage money (this being the custom when passengers were unable to pay their fare) and kept all the property of John Peter's father, which consisted of household goods, other personal effects and a full complement for a flouring mill.

The name of the wife of John Peter Scholl, strange to say, was also Scholl.

Anna Susanna Dorothea Scholl was born in Baaden Weyerbach, on September 17th, 1741. Some time prior to her coming to America her mother died, leaving a small child in the care of Anna. This child soon afterwards died and her father remarried. Not finding life with a stepmother congenial, Anna ran away from home, and finally met the family of John Peter Scholl, which she joined and came to America on the same vessel with them. She also worked for her passage.

The date of the emigration to America was probably 1750. By reference to the colonial records we find the name of John Peter Scholl among the passengers of the "Snow Louisa," Captain John Pittcairne, from Rotterdam, last from Cowes, and arrived in Philadelphia November 8th, 1752.

John Peter Scholl and Anna Susanna Dorothea Scholl were married probably in 1772, and settled near Pine Grove, Schuylkill county, Pa., on what are now known as the William Lutz and William Kreamer farms. John Peter died March 18th, 1814, and his wife on February 11th, 1823, and both are buried at Kermerling's church grave-yard, at Freedensburg, Schuylkill county, Pa.

In 1773 Stephen Socks made a large chest for Anna Susanna Dorothea Scholl, which was used for many years as a dining table. This chest was some years ago in the possession of William Fidler, who lives near Pine Grove, Pa.

The last four years of the life of Anna Susanna Dorothea Scholl were spent with John Jacob Scholl, at Joe Ravers' place, in Schuylkill county, Pa.

The children of John Peter Scholl and Anna Susanna Dorothea Scholl were:

John Jacob, born December 31, 1773; died April 18, 1870.

Christiana, born March 5, 1775; died June 2, 1859.

Leonard, born about 1776.

Peter, born September 5, 1779; died September 12, 1860.

Henry, born 1782; died March 4, 1852.

John Adam, born September 7, 1784; died February 10, 1869.

John Peter Scholl was lame from rheumatism for many years.

The following are the inscriptions on the stones that mark the graves of John Peter and Anna Susanna Dorothea Scholl:

The following account of Dr. George Scholl was written several years ago by one of the professors of Gettysburg, Pa., College and published in a history in which he was interested.

After a course of thorough instruction in the catechism by the Rev. Solomon Weils, George was confirmed at an early age, and the seeds of parental and pastoral nurture have yielded a rich and perennial harvest.

Not content with the meagre and elementary training of the common schools, he pursued advance studies in several high schools or academies, after which he enjoyed the incomparable benefit, which is the boast of many great men, of teaching school for several terms.

During the winter of 1860-'61 he took a commercial course in Cincinnati, Ohio; after which he was employed for a time in a large business house in that city. His heart was set on entering the legal profession, and a year was spent upon Blackstone, when, to complete his preparatory course, he entered Miami University, at Oxford, Ohio, where he acquired the first knowledge of Latin and Greek under the tuition of Prof. David Swing, later on the famous preacher of Chicago. But the head of the church had planned another career for young Scholl, and led him by unexpected paths to an institution of his own church.

In 1864 he entered the freshman class of Wittenberg College, Springfield, Ohio, and four years later he carried off the first honors of his class. His fellow-students showed their recognition of his logical bent of mind and his cogent, lucid style of speech by appointing him the debator of the Excelsior Society in their literary contests.

Mr. Scholl's theological course under Rev. Samuel Sprecher,

D. D., LL. D., was brief, but with such a teacher and such a pupil time becomes an indifferent factor. The impress of the learned and gifted professor was left on the alert and thoughtful mind of the scholar, and the latter was a theologian when he left Springfield, although he by no means entertained the idea that his studies were completed.

His first pastoral charge was at New Philadelphia, Ohio, an old congregation which had enjoyed the services of distinguished preachers. He began his labors there March 29th, 1869, and on relinquishing the same after two years and seven months, left, as a monument of his energetic and successful pastoral administration, a handsome church erected at a cost of $15,000.

In November, 1871, he became the first pastor of the newly-organized Second Church, of Altoona, Pa. His fine executive ability came here especially into requisition, and foundation work was done so wisely and solidly that in a pastorate of less than three years a vigorous and flourishing congregation was developed, and an impetus was given to the steady growth which it has maintained ever since. He was instrumental while here in building a large church costing $25,000, and in opening fountains of liberality which continue to this day to pour out streams of refreshing upon the church at large. Dr. Scholl has proven by a number of instances his extraordinary capacity for stimulating the grace of giving.

On the removal of Dr. Wolf to the Theological Seminary at Gettysburg, Pa., Mr. Scholl became his successor in the Lombard Street Lutheran Church, Baltimore, Md., a church which has enjoyed the ministration of such divines as Krauth, Seiss and others well known throughout the church, but which, notwithstanding the unfavorable changes in that locality, never had a period of healthier or larger prosperity than under Dr. Scholl's self-sacrificing and clever leadership. He remained in charge of this congregation, a post of unusual demands and trials, for nearly ten years, a period longer than any to which his distinguished predecessors had attained.

From Baltimore he removed to Hanover, Pa., where he was pastor of St. Mark's church for three years. Western Maryland College surprised him with the title of Doctor of Divinity in 1884, an honor which, so far from asking, he was strongly disposed to decline. No one questioned his desert of this honorary degree.

Dr. Scholl became a member of the Foreign Missionary Board in 1887, serving seven years in the capacity of recording secretary. In 1884 became corresponding secretary, taking charge of all the clerical business, and in 1886 he was elected to fill this position on a salary and to relinquish his pastoral work, an office which he has filled from January 1st, 1887, until the present time. The church has few trusts of greater importance or more delicate administration, and it would be hard to find another man in the General Synod who could administer it with greater efficiency or more general satisfaction. Dr. Scholl's sturdy common sense, clear understanding, business tact, his happy address and clear presentation by mouth and pen of all the interests of our vast foreign mission fields, his influence with men, and his command of the absolute confidence of the Church in his devotion and discretion, have combined to create and sustain a general lively and growing sympathy with the cause he represents. Whether we look at the steady increase of contributions, some rising into the denomination of thousands, or at the constant enlargement of the work in India and Africa, everywhere the evidence of wise administration and Divine favor cheer the friends of foreign missions.

Dr. Scholl is in the best sense an able preacher of the word. He impresses his audience as a thinker, a reasoner, a teacher, and an exhorter. He has a clear grasp of the gospel; his thought is luminous, striking and practical; his manner easy, graceful and winning; and his sermons are stimulating and suggestive, not easily disregarded by the hearer, nor soon forgotten. With uncommon tact they are adopted alike to the cultured and the unlearned.

He also wields a graphic pen which alike in the Missionary Journal, of which he is the foreign mission editor, and the church weeklies, confines its products mainly to the discussion of foreign mission issues, while in the Lutheran Quarterly it expatiates on other topics of ecclesiastical or scientific import. The church has recognized his administrative virtues and clear-witted understanding by frequent elections to positions of trust, and he has at different times represented Allegheny Synod, the Maryland, and that of West Pennsylvania in the Board of the Seminary of the General Synod at Gettysburg, Pa. He excels in social qualities, and the gentle, peaceful, joyous tributes of a living faith and a grateful spirit forms largely the secret of his popularity.

DESCENDANTS OF LEONARD SCHOLL, SON OF JOHN PETER.

Leonard Scholl was born in Schuylkill county, Pennsylvania, near what is now known as "Pine Grove," in 1776; married in Schuylkill county; name of wife unknown. In the spring of 1806, in company with his brothers, Henry Scholl and John Adam Scholl, he emigrated to Ohio, but returned to Pennsylvania in the fall of the same year.

Nothing directly is known of the life of Leonard Scholl. It seems that he traveled back and forth between Ohio and Pennsylvania, having a residence at times in both States. He lived at Tiffin and Cincinnati, and the last heard of him was many years ago, and was then living at Shelby, Ohio, where it is supposed he died.

He had two children, George Scholl and Mary Scholl.

George Scholl lived a short time in Richfield, Juniata county, Pennsylvania, but spent considerable time in Ohio. He enlisted in the Navy twice, but nothing can be learned of his career in that service. The records have been searched, so it might be possible that he assumed some other name when he enlisted.

Mary Scholl married Joshua Frantz; the marriage, it is said, took place in Pennsylvania. Nothing is known of this family, except they were supposed to have one child.

DESCENDANTS OF PETER SCHOLL, SON OF JOHN PETER.

Peter Scholl was born in Schuylkill county, Pennsylvania, September 5th, 1779. In February, 1801, he married Mary Margaret Breung, of the same county, whose father served in the Revolutionary War.

After marriage, he settled in Union county (now Snyder), near Selinsgrove, where he carried on farming for a number of years.

Both John Peter Scholl and his wife were members of the Lutheran church and brought up their large family in that church.

The date of the birth of Mary Margaret Breung is unknown, also the date of her death; but it is supposed that she was buried in one of the graveyards near Selinsgrove.

John Peter Scholl, after the death of his wife, lived with his children, spending most of his time with his son Samuel, and occasionally visiting his other children, who lived near.

III. Sarah Scholl, born October 6th, 1817; died January 17th, 1891. The writer well remembers an incident related by "Aunt Sarah," as she was commonly known. When quite a young girl at home one of the smaller children, by some means or another, secured a tomato from the garden and ate it. This was at a time before they were used as a vegetable, it being generally supposed they were poisonous. The baby was given copious drinks of milk to counteract the supposed poison. This incident was the cause of much amusement in later years for since then tomatoes are used as a table diet, as they are to-day.

Aunt Sarah Scholl lived in Philadelphia many years, and was a member of the Lutheran church, of which she was a devout adherent.

He gave a great deal of attention to building societies, prominent among which were the Vineyard Building and

He was an active member of the Methodist church, Twentieth and Jefferson streets, and was president of the Board of Trustees of that body for many years. DESCENDENTS OF HENRY SCHOLL, SON OF
JOHN PETER.

II. Henry Scholl, born 1782, died March 4th, 1852; married Marie Catharine Reid, born August 29th, 1784; died October 28th, 1860; buried at Paris, Stark county, Ohio. She was a daughter of Michael Reid.

Henry Scholl moved to Ohio in the spring of 1806, where he took up a section of Government land near Canton, Ohio. At the time the warrant was issued to Mr. Scholl the clerk in the land office spelled the name "Shull," and the family from that time spelled their name that way. He cleared the section of land and afterwards built and conducted a hotel, which to-day is still known as the "old Shull tavern." Catharine Reid Shull, wife of Henry Shull, was an invalid for about 40 years (died in 1860). During the latter part of her life and during those 40 years she was not out of bed, and Mary (who for some reason was always called Polly) and Elizabeth (known as Betsy) nursed and cared for her, and for this service were to have the 80 acres of the old homestead as a home. On the death of Mary (Polly) Elizabeth came in possession of the property. Mary (or Polly) was also a cripple, being a hunchback, and her services were for the most part rendered at the bedside administering to the wants of her mother. Among other duties it was her task to keep her supplied with pipe and tobacco. However, while in a sense an invalid and bedfast, yet two children were born during the time she was bedridden. Within a stone's throw of where the first cabin was built is a graveyard, where all of the children of relatives and neighbors who came later to the neighborhood were buried, there being no burial ground established as yet, except this one.

The present house standing on the old homestead is a large two-story brick, rather colonial in style. Brick were made on the ground. This was the third house built. The first cabin was built at what is considered the most inaccessible corner of the farm. No traces remain of the cabin.

In the spring of 1806 Henry, John Adam and Leonard (three brothers) came to Ohio.

The following account of the old homestead appeared in the Canton (Ohio) Repository, during the summer of 1897 :

A party of Massillon and Canton people spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nettleton, at the "old Shull tavern," near Osnaburg—a landmark well known in this part of the country. One of the party has kindly contributed the following account of the visit :

Half way between Paris and Osnaburg, or about eight miles east of Canton, stands the famous old Shull farm. Here, in 1806, or 92 years ago, Henry Shull cleared the woods for a homestead, building his own saw-mill to saw the timber and burned his own brick to use in the construction of his home, which has always been occupied by some member of the Shull family. There it stands now, and as staunch as ever, with its large rooms and wide halls, and two verendas, one above and one below the entire length of the front of the house, the verendas ornamented with an old climbing rose ; its chimneys and sides are almost hidden by a wild grape vine. Coming upon it as it stands upon the hill-side almost hidden by trees, modernized only by its beautifully kept lawns and flower beds and with the rolling hills and valleys surrounding, it is a picture never to be forgotten.

It was the pleasure of a party of friends from both Canton and Massillon to be bidden to enjoy the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs.

Charles Nettleton, who now occupy this old place, Mrs. Nettleton having inherited it from a relative, well and familiarly known as "Aunt Betsy Shull"—the occasion being a surprise to Mr. Nettleton in honor of his birthday anniversary, June 9th. After offering congratulations, and after a hearty welcome, all naturally began to wander through the rooms. The most interesting was the room containing the antiques, which, in the days it saw active service as a tavern, was office, cloak room and bar room. Here one might spend a month in study and research and be unwilling to leave the various articles which carry one back to "ye olden days."

At one end of this room is a high poster bed of mahogany, with draperies and valance of white linen and fringe, a coverlet or quilt of white, blocked with blue and red, bearing the date 1844. Underneath are two immense feather beds, making it necessary to have a step-ladder to mount and disappear, and, as it would seem, a derrick with which to be brought to the surface in the morning. Then there is the great fire-place with its logs of wood in readiness for a cool day, and its accompaniments of pots and kettles. The mantel above was filled with old kitchen utensils, candle molds, etc. In other corners were spinning wheels of different designs, an old bureau with glass knobs, cupboards containing many unique and much-coveted pieces of china, an old musket over the door, old chairs and tables, and many books, such as almanacs, school-books, and bibles in both German and English text, yellow and brown with age. Among these and of particular interest was an almanac, "Der Volksfreund und Hagerstaumer Calendar," date 1809.

At noon dinner was served in this room, "in ye olden style," and the service in keeping with the times. The table-cloths were of linen raised and spun on the farm, dishes of many odd colorings and designs of English and Dutch ware, among these being a tea set belonging to Mrs. Nettleton's grandmother, nearly a hundred years old, a quaint design of brown ware somewhat resembling our modern Rookwood, also a blue and white plate decorated with the names of the States and a picture of Mt. Vernon.

IV. Leonard E. Shull was born on the old Shull homestead, in Ohio, April 23d, 1865, some six months after the death of his father, which occurred the previous October, from the effects of a fall from a chestnut tree. This child came into the world the son of a widow, who had a large family, and, naturally, little means with which to battle through a harsh world and raise her children. The husband being taken away while in his prime, had not yet had opportunity to provide for the after years of life. However, with a stern determination, this widow kept her family of children together, and raised them in the good old-fashioned Christian manner; not in luxury and ease, but in a full realization of the necessity of honest effort to guarantee a successful life. Each was given a common school education, and not until the subject of this sketch had arrived at the age of 10 years was the home broken up, when he went to live with relatives, finally finding his way back to the old homestead, where for some years he made his home with a maiden aunt, who had come into possession of the property. After some five years he sought to provide for his own livelihood by securing a job as a day laborer in a lumber yard. Before starting to work, however, through the assistance of his good old mother, who had ever kept a watchful eye on her boy, he secured a position as general boy of all work in a hardware store in Canton, Ohio. His work was attending the iron, nail, oil and glass warehouse, doing the delivery, and as this was before the days of delivery wagons in Canton, the delivery was all done with a hand-cart and usually before time to open the store in the morning, so as to be on hand during opening hours, which were from about 6:30 a. m. until customers no longer came. This meant sometimes 10 to 11 and even 12 o'clock at night. For this service he received the munificent salary of $50 per year, with board, and washing thrown in, and he was required to sleep in the store, making his bed out of such material as horse blankets, etc., from the store's stock. After a year or so of this he chanced to see an old advertisement, "Boy Wanted," and made application and fortunately secured the position, which paid $1 per day. Later this was raised to $1.25, but soon a panic spread over the land and the boy was no longer needed. With no work to be had about Canton, the young boy went to Indiana and worked on a farm for a year and a half. He again returned to Canton. Meeting his former employer, he secured a position and has continued with the same establishment up to the present time.

While not burdened with financial wealth, he has a pleasant home in one of the most desirable localities in the city, a worthy wife and four most interesting little boys, whom he hopes may grow to be honorable and useful men. Aside from being always steady at daily vocation, he has been a most active secret society man, holding various positions of honor in the different organizations in the Subordinate, State and National bodies. He is a Past Master of McKinley Lodge, No. 431, F. & A. M.; he represented his lodge in the Grand Lodge of Ohio; has for fifteen years been secretary of his local Council of the Jr. O. U. A. M.; also serving in the State and National bodies of the latter order; is a member of the Knights of Pythias. But suffice, we would not monopolize the space in this history, as there are many others who likewise deserve their measure of space.

DESCENDANTS OF PHILIP SCHOLL, FATHER OF THE WIFE OF JOHN PETER.

While there has not, so far as the compiler has learned, been nothing traced to show that any blood relationship existed between the families up until the marriage of a daughter to John Peter Scholl, still will include a list of the descendants of Philip Scholl.

The parents of Philip Scholl were supposed to have been born near Baaden Weyerbach. Their names are unknown.

Philip Scholl was married twice; dates unknown. From information gleaned the second marriage may have taken place about 1750; but it is positively known that Anna Susanna Dorethea Scholl was a daughter of his first wife and *supposed to be the oldest of the family. The children were: Anna Susanna Dorethea, Michael, John Stephen, Philip Peter and two daughters.

Philip Scholl emigrated to America and settled first in Bucks county, as is evidenced by the baptismal certificate of his grandson, John Peter Scholl.

He afterwards moved to York county, where the family of his daughter, Anna Susanna Dorethea Scholl, often visited.

APPENDIX.

The following account of the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Scholl is taken from the Lutheran Observer of June, 1881, and should appear on page 15:

"Scholl. At her residence, near Lyons Station, Fayette county, Indiana, May 30th, 1881, Elizabeth Scholl (maiden name, Elizabeth Reed), calmly and sweetly fell asleep in Jesus, at the ripe age of 76 years, 11 months and 25 days.

"Mother Scholl was born in Schuylkill county, Pennsylvania, and entered the Lutheran church in her youth, under Rev. George Minnich. She was married to Jacob Scholl, January 3d, 1829, and came with her husband to this State in 1833, and settled on a farm adjoining the one where she died. She was one of the few surviving members that formed the organization of St. Paul's Lutheran church at this place. She was a consistent and faithful Christian, serving her Master in every way she could. Her works are visible, especially in her family, where the virtues of a true wife, and devoted mother shine the brightest. Two of her sons proclaim the blessed gospel, viz.: Rev. Daniel Scholl, of Wellsville, Franklin county, Kansas, and Rev. George Scholl, of Baltimore, Maryland; and it can be said truly, that more efficient lay members cannot be found in the church than her children prove to be. Besides her beloved husband, five sons and two daughters, and a very large number of near and remote relatives, the whole church and community mourn her loss. A very large procession followed her remains to their resting place, June 1st, and the occasion was improved from the words of Paul, 2 Timothy iv., 6, 7, 8, which she quoted shortly before her death."
