These particulars have been prepared for distribution among the members of the Southworth Family, with the object of preserving the lists of the American Southworths of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, so far as known to the compiler. It is hoped that those who receive this record will make such additions as their information may suggest; and that they will preserve it among their family papers. For the record has been prepared with considerable labor, both in correspondence and personal enquiry.

Regarding the family in England, The History of Duxbury contains the descent of that Edward Southworth who was the first husband of Alice Carpenter, the mother of the first American Constant Southworth (1614-1685.) The writer visited Thomas Culleton, Herald, 25 Cranbourn St. (St. Martin's Lane) London, and discovered a volume of vellum in manuscript prepared from records in the British Museum: This gave the Southworths from the 14th century down to the Edward aforementioned, in the same manner as the History of Duxbury. The arms are: Field Argent, bearing a Chevron between three Crosses—crosslet Sable: Crest, a Bull's-head erased Sable, horned Or. Motto,
