THE TAYLOR FAMILY
OF CLATTERWICH IN LITTLE LEIGH AND GREAT BUDWORTH, ARCH-DEACONRY OF CHESTER, CHESHIRE, ENGLAND.

The hamlet of Clatterwich in Little Leigh, or Leigh Juxta Barterton, is located on high ground on the north bank of the Weever River, about three miles from Northwich and a short distance from Great Budworth, in the County of Chester. That hamlet was the ancestral home of Robert Taylor who, in 1682, emigrated to America. There the family, of the sturdy landholding, English middle-class, is known to have dwelt as early as the middle of the Sixteenth Century. Tradition, supported by at least one historical writer (see Pennsylvania Magazine, Vol. 36, p. 321), locates the family there nearly a full century earlier. But the records of that earlier time are too vague and hazy to be dependable. The earliest entirely reliable records pertaining to the family are in the archives of the Parish Church of Great Budworth. There appear entries of the births, baptisms, marriages and deaths in the family, beginning soon after 1550. Names of the members of the family also appear upon tombstones in the churchyards, and their Wills, with the record of administration upon their estates, appear in the public offices at Chester. In the archives of the same Church are also found like entries concerning the Massey, Livesey, Coppock, Minshall, Worrall, and various other families of the vicinage, representatives of which emigrated to Pennsylvania contemporaneously with the emigration of Robert Taylor. Many of them, including Robert Taylor, settled in Chester County, Pennsylvania, becoming extensive landowners there.

From the English sources indicated, from the association of and intermarriages between the families just mentioned, and from the early records of the various meetings of the Society of Friends, the data concerning the early history of the Taylor family has been obtained.

The first of the family definitely located in the English home is John Taylor, described as of Clatterwich. In the Parish Church of Great Budworth appear the records of his marriages, the baptism of his six children, and the deaths and burials of himself and his wives. The family was thus affiliated, doubtless as members, with that Church. At Chester appear the record of his Will and an account of the administration of his estate. In his Will he describes himself as a "husbandman," an occupation which, as will hereafter be seen, was followed by one line of his Taylor descendants consecutively for more than two hundred years after the immigration of Robert Taylor to America.

From the same English sources, the lineage of the family has been definitely traced to Robert Taylor, the immigrant. He, in his early life, severed his connection with the Church of his forefathers, became a member of the Society of Friends or Quakers, adopting its faith, and lived and served therein during his remaining years, first in the English home of his nativity, and then in his adopted home under the proprietary government of William Penn in the Province of Pennsylvania. He, and many of his fellow members of the new faith to which they had avowed adherence, at the instigation of the believers in other faiths, or public officials, were subjected to various forms of petty persecution and even to criminal prosecution.

Besse in his "Sufferings of the Quakers," Vol. 1, page 103, says:

"Anno 1662.

"In the Month called January 1662, Twenty-nine of this People were indicted at the Quarter Sessions in Chester, for being at an unlawful Assembly, and were all imprisoned by Warrants issued in the following Form, viz. :

'Cheshire ss.

'Carolus Secundus Dei Gratia, Angliae, &c.

'To the Constables of Clutterwick. '

'Whereas at the General Sessions of the Peace held at Chester in the Castle of Chester, The Day of the Date hereof, Robert Taylor of Clutterwick aforesaid, Yeoman, together with several other Persons, being above the number of five, and also above the Age of Sixteen years, were indicted for unlawfully assembling together at the house of John Dove in Coddington within the County aforesaid, the 19th Day of November last past, upon Pretence of joining together in religious Worship of God, contrary to an Act of this present Parliament in that Case made and provided, whereupon he appeared and pleaded not guilty; which issue being afterwards tried by twelve good and lawful Men of the County aforesaid, he was found guilty. Whereupon our Justices thought good to impose a Fine of 2£. 10 s. on him the said Robert Taylor. We therefore command you, and either of you, after six Days next after the Date hereof, to levy by Distress or otherwise, of the Goods and Chattels of him the said Robert Taylor, the respective sum of 2*l.* 10 s. and the same so had and gathered forth-with to pay unto the Clerk of the Peace of this County, at his Office in Namptwich, to be employed as the said Act directs; and for want of such Distress you are to apprehend him the said Robert Taylor so failing, and carry him to the House of Correction, there to remain for the Space of three Months, and see that you certify your Doings unto the Clerk of the Peace at his Office aforesaid, within three Weeks after the Receipt hereof upon Peril that may fall thereon. Test. Rich. Grosvenor, Petro Leicester, Thomā Mainwaring Baronetto, &c. alius focus Justiciaris apud Cestriam praedict, 13^o Jan. Anno regni Caroli secundi 14^o 1662.

Humphry Milton.' ”

In the record of the Bishop of Chester's Visitation in the Parish of Great Budworth, it is set forth in Latin that on "December 22, 1665, Robert Taylor, John Minshall, Samuel Naylor, Thomas Livesey, and their pretended wives, were among those who were indicted to appear before the Consistory Court at Chester for being 'unlawfully married.' ”

The fines in these cases were very moderate, but the Friends consistently refused to pay fines levied for attending their religious meetings or penalties exacted for refusal to take the oath and many instances are set forth in Besse's "Sufferings of the People called Quakers" where they were committed to prison and remained there for years, some dying as martyrs rather than conform to practices contrary to their faith.

It was continued persecution of this character against the Quakers which caused their immigration to Pennsylvania in large numbers.

Robert Taylor was one of the Quaker emigrants who determined to go to the New Colony founded by William Penn, where religious freedom was assured.

Before setting out, he acquired on March 3, 1681/2, from William Penn a Grant of 1000 acres of land to be located and surveyed after his arrival. This land was allotted to him in two surveys, one of five hundred and fifty acres under date of October 30, 1683, in the neighborhood of what is now the village of Broomall, Delaware County, and the other of four hundred acres, November 11, 1682, south of the Springfield Water Basin. These tracts were between Darby Creek and Crum Creek, Delaware County, at that time covered with a virgin forest of oak, maple and beech. The streams teemed with trout and bass and were frequented by many varieties of water fowl. The region abounded with quail, wild turkey, deer, elk and other game. The meadows afforded a variety of wild fruits and berries. Altogether the country was a paradise for the settlers. The Indians were hospitable and helpful, especially to the Friends. (Benjamin H. Smith: Atlas of Delaware County, page xviii, plates 9 and 11.)

As a first purchaser, Robert Taylor became entitled to lots within the limits of the City of Philadelphia or Liberty lands as they were called. One of these lots was situated on Sassafras (now Race) Street and another on High (now Market) Street.

The following deed executed after the death of Robert Taylor, furnishes confirmation of the grants to him by William Penn.

Indenture, March 10, 1700, Mary Taylor, widow of Robert Taylor, late of Springfield, Chester Co., Pa., yeoman, deceased, and Jonathan Hayes of Marple, Executors of the will of said Robert Taylor; Isaac Taylor of same county, yeoman, son and heir of s'd Robert; Thomas Taylor, another son of Robert; John Fincher of same county, Cordwainer, and Martha his wife, the daughter of s'd Robert and Mary Taylor, to Jonathan Taylor of said county, yeoman, another son of s'd Robert and Mary.

Witnesseth: that by Deeds of Lease and Re Lease May 2 and May 3, 1681, Wm. Penn granted unto s'd Robert Taylor 1000 acres of land in Pennsylvania, and whereas s'd Robert Taylor in the year 1683 obtained a warrant from the Proprietary to survey to s'd Robert Taylor 600 acres of the 1000 acres to the southward of Darby Creek which tract by direction of the surveyor-general Thomas Holme, was surveyed by Charles Ashcomb and 550 acres of land lying between Crum Creek and Darby Creek was returned as surveyed Nov. 7, 1688, and said Robert Taylor being lawfully seized thereof, made his will April 20, 1695, and did inter alia devise unto his son, the said Thomas Taylor, 100 acres, to Jonathan Taylor 200 acres of the said 550 acres named in his will as "my land in Marple" and made the said Mary and Jonathan Hayes his executors. And whereas there is another piece of land of 73 acres which is also part of the s'd 550 acres on Darby Creek south 54 Degrees west of the line of Jonathan Hayes, containing 373 acres.

(Philadelphia Deeds II 15, p. 150)

Having established himself in his New World wilderness home, he sent for his wife and children whom he had left behind him in England. They made the voyage on the ship "Endeavor" and arrived in Philadelphia on July 29, 1683. The ship's log lists among its passengers, Mary Taylor, late of Clatterwich, Cheshire, and her children, Isaac, Thomas, Jonathan, Phebe, Mary and Martha. Two other children, Rachel and Josiah doubtless accompanied their father the previous year, and another, Jacob, was born in Pennsylvania. After becoming settled in his new home in Chester County, he continued the vocation of farming, to which he had been brought up. He also retained his Quaker affiliations and lived surrounded by many of his old neighbors and friends of the same faith, who like him were immigrants from England. His descendants are numerous and widely scattered.

THE TAYLOR FAMILY

No effort has been made to make this compilation comprehensive. Instead, it is designed primarily to show the ancestry of the author, of his wife, descendants, respectively, of Robert Taylor's daughters, Rachel and Mary, and of Joseph Ward Taylor, of Rochester, N. Y., a descendant of Robert Taylor's first born son, Isaac. Incidentally it shows various other lines, at least partially, among them that of Bayard Taylor, the accomplished writer, traveler and diplomat, also a descendant of Robert's son Isaac. The author ventures to express a high degree of confidence in the accuracy of his work and the results attained. No attention has been given to legends or traditions. Instead, there has been careful and painstaking verification, largely personal, by examination of original records of the Great Budworth Church, of various Friends or Quaker Societies, both in England and Pennsylvania, of wills, deeds, and other public documents, both ancient and modern, of record in various Pennsylvania Counties, and reliable historical publications. The records examined, while not always complete, were sufficiently so to amply support all that has been set forth. The author confesses to a very considerable degree of fascination in genealogical researches, and especially so here where his own ancestral line is concerned, and hopes that this modest book will prove of interest to his kinsmen, both near and remote, whose lineages are portrayed.

To Joseph Ward Taylor is due acknowledgment for his suggestion that this book be published and for his assistance in its preparation and publication.

ALFRED RUDULPH JUSTICE.

EXPLANATORY

On March 25, 1752, a change was made in the method of dating. The year which prior to this date ended on March 24, thereafter ended December 31. The Society of Friends used the numerical method of expressing the months. Thus 11th mo. 20th day, 1682/3 would mean January 20th, 1682/3 and not November 20th, 1682.

After March 24, 1752, the Friends continued to use the numerical method, and January 20, 1760, they expressed in their registers as 1st month, 20th day, 1760. It has been thought best to alter the Friends' dating prior to March 25, 1752, to conform to modern usage. Hence 4th month will appear as June; 8 br. as October, etc.

Also, where either the christian name or surname is misspelled in the ancient records, a uniform spelling has been adopted (Telor, Tailer, Tellyer, Tailleur, etc., will be spelled Taylor). The same plan will be used as to place names (Clatterwick, Clutterwick, etc., will be spelled Clatterwick), irrespective of the record. Where it is desirable to maintain the ancient quaint language and spelling as in wills, letters, etc., the record is exact.

Each of the descendants of John Taylor, of Clatterwick, is given his or her own number, which is placed before the name (printed in capitals), these numbers all following one another in serial order, in one column.

All children of the same parentage fall into one group, which is preceded by the word "issue," followed by their surname, if it be other than Taylor.

All persons of the same generation fall into one group, which is preceded by a headline, giving the number of the generation, followed (in parentheses) by the first and last serial numbers of the persons included in that generation.

A person's serial number printed in boldface, indicates that a further account of such person will be found farther on, under the same number, set a little to the left of the serial column. If not in boldface, no further account will be found.

The number placed after the name of a person, is the serial number of his or her parent, and is a guide in tracing the line of ancestry backward.

ROBERT TAYLOR FAMILY

John Taylor of Clatterwich, the earliest definitely located ancestor of Robert Taylor the immigrant, was born about 1550, and died in 1627. He married (1) July 18, 1575, Joan Gatlife. She was buried November 22, 1586. He married (2) December 11, 1586, Ellen Massey. No record of her burial has been found. He married (3) December 7, 1611, Alice Passey. She died December 14, 1631. All three marriages are recorded in the archives of the Great Budworth Parish Church.

The Will of John Taylor, husbandman, of Clatterwich within Little Leigh, dated March 16, 1625, proved April 9, 1627, directs his burial in Great Budworth Church and provides that all debts, funeral expenses and legacies shall be paid out of his personal estate, "but should said estate be insufficient, same to be made up from my liveing (i. e., Real Estate) which I have alreadye assigned for the purpose and of the overplus if any, fortie shillings to son Richard and the rest to Ales my now wife."

The Executrix of the Will was his wife, and the witnesses were Thomas Saunders, Richard Hilltown and Richard Bancroft.

(Consistory Court of Chester.)

The Inventory of his estate was made April 10th, 1627, by Lawrence Taylor, Thomas Burrowes and Richard Bancroft, and shows personal estate of £42, s. 16, d. 8.

His children, all baptized at Great Budworth Church, are taken as the First Generation in this book.

He left a Will dated on the former and probated on the latter of those dates, which is recorded in the office of the Register of Wills in Philadelphia County in Book A (the first Will Book used in Pennsylvania) at page 311. The original Will, in a fair state of preservation, is still on file in that office. A facsimile thereof appears opposite this page. Because it is difficult to read, it is here transcribed with its queer spelling and use of capital letters, quaint phraseology, and total absence of punctuation.

On April 25, 1780, Benjamin Gilbert, his wife Elizabeth, their children, Joseph, Jesse and his wife, Rebecca, Abner, Elizabeth and Benjamin, Jr., their neighbor Benjamin Peart, his wife and children, were taken captives by a band of hostile Indians of the Seneca and Delaware tribes, led by two renegade half-breed chiefs. The homes of the captives were ransacked and then burned, and the captives were led off on a long, harrowing journey through the wilderness to Fort Niagara, which they reached after a month of weary travail. From Fort Niagara they were taken to Montreal. Throughout the period of their captivity they were subjected to the inhuman cruelties customary to their captors. But all survived except Benjamin Gilbert who, on account of his advanced age, became exhausted and died on June 8, 1780, at some place on the St. Lawrence River, where he was buried. The rest of the captives were finally released and, after further arduous struggles and the endurance of great hardship, regained their home at Byberry, whence they started, September 28, 1782.

Reg. Genl.

The original Will, the inventory of the estate, considerable in amount, and proceedings relating to its administration, are still, 1925, among the ancient documents and records in the office of the Register of Wills at Philadelphia. Because the Will establishes a connecting link between early generations, as well as because it is an interesting ancient document, a facsimile thereof is made a part of this compilation, and because that is not readily legible a complete copy has been set forth.

By deed of August 20, 1689, Robert Taylor conveyed to his son Isaac 300 acres of land, part of the Penn Grant of 1000 acres, adjoining Bartholomew Coppock. This land was conveyed November 18, 1729, by Isaac's widow and children to Thomas Williams.

Isaac Taylor was a prominent man, both among the Friends and with the public. He died early in 1717.

Letters of Administration upon his estate were granted April 15, 1717, at Chester, Pa., to his widow Sarah and son Isaac.

The Will of Sarah Taylor, widow of Isaac, dated November 14, 1748, proved November 26, 1748, gives legacies to her

The house was located on City Line Road about 1½ miles south of Overbrook Station P. R. R., and the farm was contiguous to portions of Philadelphia, Chester and Delaware counties (see Benj. H. Smith's map of Delaware County 1880). The property remained in possession of the Lewis heirs until 1750, when it was sold by them to Capt. John Wilcocks, who added to the building and named it "Clifton Hall." In 1760, Capt. Charles Cruikshank, son-in-law of Wilcocks, became the

After his death in 1768, it became the residence of John Ross, Esq., who married December 8, 1768, at First Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia, Clementia Cruikshank. During Ross' occupancy, it became the favorite resort of Washington, Franklin, Lafayette, and other celebrities of the times. Ross changed its name to "The Grange," out of compliment to Gen. Lafayette, whose native place was so named. Until recently it was owned by Richard L. Ashurst, Postmaster of Philadelphia. Mrs. Ashurst informed the writer that a part of the original log house built by Henry Lewis is yet in existence, having been incorporated in one of the other structures. It is now (1925) owned by Benjamin Hoffman.

He married (1) between October 7, 1719, and November 4, 1719, at Darby Friends' Meeting, Chester County, Pa., Sarah Smith, born September 6, 1697, date of death not ascertained, daughter of Robert and Ann (Smith) Smith. He married (2) about 1741, Jane Jones, widow (whose maiden name is unknown), widow (1) of Matthew Metcalf and (2) of Francis Jones.

Jane announced her marriage by a Justice to Isaac Taylor at the Sadsbury Friends' Meeting on September 2, 1741; expressed her sorrow for the manner of her marriage, and asked to be forgiven. Her petition was granted and she thereby regained her status as a Friend. (See Minutes of Sadsbury Meeting, p. 17.)

Jane Taylor died about August 1, 1764, leaving a Will dated July 2, 1764, which was proven August 8, 1764, in Lancaster County, Pa. By the Will she gave a legacy to her stepson, Isaac Taylor, and appointed him and her son, Thomas Jones, executors.

Isaac Taylor had various residences at different times. In the Will of his grandmother, Mary Brodwell, dated January 8, 1727, he is referred to as of Springfield, Chester County, which had been the home of his father and was then the home of his mother. In a deed dated November 18, 1729, by which he, his mother, brothers and sisters conveyed to Thomas Williams three hundred acres of land in Chester County, of which his father had died seized, his residence is given as Salem County, New Jersey. strument of conveyance dated October 9, 1746 (Patent Book A, Vol. 13, p. 128, Dept. of Internal Affairs, Harrisburg), granted to him eighty and one-half acres of land at the Gap in Lancaster County, referred to as part of their "Manor of Conestoga." On that property about 1747 he erected a stone house which, with alterations and additions, was standing and occupied in 1924. There he resided until his death about August 1, 1756. He was a man of very considerable prominence. An extended sketch of his career and of the career of his son, Isaac, appears in the Evans and Ellis "History of Lancaster County," at p. 1044, et seq.

His Will, dated June 17, 1756, was probated August 19, 1756, at Lancaster. His son, Isaac, and friends, Nathaniel Newland and Joseph Williams, are named as executors.

A facsimile of his Will is reproduced elsewhere in this volume, and a copy appears in the appendix.

No record of the births of his two sons has been found, but that they were born is certain. Each is named as a great-grandson and legatee in the Will of their great-grandmother Mary Brodwell. Isaac is called "my only son" in the Will of his father, dated June 17, 1756, and is one of the executors thereof. From this it is clear that Joseph had died prior to the date of that Will and that Isaac was then at least twenty-one years of age, hence born in 1725 or earlier, to be eligible to be an executor.

County, Pa., Mary Bulla, born 1744, died 1814, daughter of Thomas Bulla by his wife Anne Williams, widow of Zacharias Williams, who were married at the same Meeting, February 10, 1743. A facsimile of the record of the marriage certificate of Isaac Taylor and Mary Bulla appears elsewhere, and a copy appears in the appendix. The record of the certificate of Thomas Bulla and Anne Williams also appears in the appendix.

Isaac Taylor was a man of affairs and consequence in the community in which he lived. He was a recommended Minister of the Society of Friends, served as Clerk of the Meeting, and was frequently appointed to represent Sadsbury Meeting at other Meetings and Conferences.

His holographic, unsigned Will, was probated May 19, 1814. A copy thereof appears in the appendix.

Issue:

106. JANE, born October 23, 1762.
107. WILLIAM, born April 7, 1764.
108. ISAAC, born September 9, 1766.
109. Jacob, born circa 1768, died in Collins, Erie County, N. Y., May 3, 1840, intestate and unmarried.

About 1806, he was sent by the Friends' Yearly Meeting of Philadelphia, as a missionary to the Indian Tribes in Western New York. He took up his residence in the Town of Collins, Erie County, N. Y., and there acquired a large landed estate and considerable personal property.

His estate was administered in Erie County, N. Y., the realty in the Court of Chancery and the personalty in the Surrogate's Court. By the decree in the Court of Chancery dated May 28, 1844, it was determined that upon his death his real estate had descended in six equal shares to his one surviving brother James Taylor, and the descendants of his one deceased sister, Jane (Taylor) Powell, and his four deceased brothers, William, Isaac, Joseph and Enoch. His sister Sarah (Taylor) Wilson and his brother Samuel thus appear to have had no descendants living at the date of that decree. From that decree, other proceedings in the Chancery action and the records of the Erie County, N. Y., Surrogate's Court, and the Orphans' Court of Lancaster County, Pa., where the father's Will was probated and his estate administered, a considerable part of the information concerning the family has been obtained.

110. Sarah, born about 1770. She married ——— Wilson, d. prior to April 3, 1815, date of receipt filed in the Orphans' Court for legacy under her father's Will by her brother James as her administrator. She had one daughter, Beulah Wilson, who died prior to the death of her Uncle Jacob, as appears in the Court records relating to his estate.
111. Samuel, born about 1772. He survived his father, and receipted for his share of his father's estate January 17, 1826, by Abner Williams under power of attorney dated at Lancaster, Pa., March 15, 1824. He died before his brother Jacob, leaving no descendant, as appears from the court records relating to the latter's estate.
112. James, born about 1774. He married Amelia ———. He and his wife both survived his brother Jacob and were parties to the Court proceedings relating to the latter's estate. No record has been found of their deaths, or of any descendant.
113. JOSEPH, born about 1777.
114. ENOCH, born about 1780.

(The births of Jane, William and Isaac appear in the records of the Sadsbury Friends' Meeting. No record of the births of the others, or of the order thereof, has been found. The dates above given are therefore largely conjectural. All are named in their father's Will.)

81. ABRAHAM TAYLOR, 41, born January 21, 1732, died October 14, 1816. He married Rebecca Way.

Issue:

115. Jacob, born February 13, 1760.

SIXTH GENERATION

95. EVAN LEWIS, SR., 54, born June 13, 1740, died March 3, 1808. He married (1) October 31, 1770, Esther Massey, born February 15, 1740/1, died May 15, 1773, daughter of Thomas and Sarah (Taylor) Massey. He married (2) December 20, 1774, at Pikeland Meeting, Jane Meredith, born March 12, 1742/3, died June 5, 1814, daughter of John and Grace (Williams) Meredith.

.. John Meredith was a son of Simon Meredith of Radnorshire, born 1663, whose pedigree brought over from Wales shows descent from the Vaughans of Nannan, as follows: David Vaughan, Evan David, William Evan, Meredith William, Hugh Meredith, Simon Meredith.

From Jones's History of Brecknockshire it appears that Hugh Meredith was Bailiff of Brecknockshire in 1640, and that Meredith William of Pennant was High Sheriff of the same County in 1620.

Hugh Meredith, eldest son of Simon, was for a time a partner of Benjamin Franklin in the printing business and Simon Meredith loaned them the money to embark in the enterprise. (Smyth's Life of Franklin.)

The Will of Evan Lewis of Radnor, Delaware Co., Pa., dated February 15, 1806, proved March 8, 1808, provides for his wife Jane, and names sons: Elijah, Enoch, Evan, Abner and Thomas; daughters: Sarah and Jane; niece Tacy Davis. The homestead was bequeathed to his sons, Evan and Abner, and a tract of land he owned in Berks County to his son Thomas.

The Will of Jane Lewis of Radnor, Pa., widow of Evan Lewis, dated April 5, 1814, pr. June 16, 1814, names children: Evan, Jane, Abner, Enoch and Elijah; step-children: Sarah and Thomas.

Executors: sons Enoch and Elijah.

Issue by first wife, surname Lewis:

121. Thomas, born October 27, 1771, died September 7, 1827. He married November 24, 1796, at Radnor Meeting, Martha George, died March 2, 1836, daughter of John and Sarah George.
122. Sarah, born November 19, 1772, died September 1, 1820, single.

ROBERT TAYLOR FAMILY

Issue by second wife, surname Lewis:

123. Enoch, born January 29, 1776, died July 14, 1856. He married May 9, 1799, at New Garden Meeting, Alice Jackson, born June 23, 1779, died December 15, 1813, daughter of Isaac and Hannah (Jackson) Jackson of New Garden, Chester County, Pa. He married (2) May 11, 1815, at New Garden Meeting, Lydia Jackson, born July 6, 1787, died March 14, 1846, daughter of John and Mary (Harlan) Jackson of West Grove, Pa.

Enoch Lewis was a noted mathematician, surveyor and author. His education was obtained in the elementary private schools of the country district, and under Waring, professor of mathematics in the Friends' Academy, Philadelphia. He early took up teaching; was in charge of Radnor School, 1792-3; of the mathematical school at the Friends' Academy, a few years later; and of the mathematical department, Friends' Boarding School at Westtown, 1799-1808 and again later. He opened a boarding-school at New Garden, 1808, and another, at Wilmington, 1825.

He served as city surveyor of Philadelphia, also surveyed several railroad routes, and regulated the streets of several of the county towns of Pennsylvania.

As a member of the Society of Friends, he was unswerving in his opposition to slavery, and published several pamphlets on that and allied subjects. He was the author of able treatises on arithmetic, algebra and trigonometry, and as editor of the "Friends' Review," wrote a number of moral essays for that periodical.

124. Elijah, born May 2, 1778, died September 2, 1861. He married September 19, 1799, at New Garden Meeting, Esther Massey, born May 17, 1777, died November 4, 1853, daughter of Thomas and Jane (Goodwin) Massey, of Willistown, Chester County, Pa.

From this and other records, it appears that the descendants of the Taylors and Masseys, both coming from Clatterwich, Little Leigh, frequently intermarried.

Elijah Lewis was prominent in the "Underground Railway," and with Castner Hanway and Joseph Scarlett was indicted for treason for refusal to assist the U. S. Marshal and forces in arresting runaway slaves at

We Rec^d thy Letter the 25th of this Instant which was satisfactory to us as it contained no disagreeable information. Having received a few lines from Pipe Creek the evening before of the Decease of thy Brother Joseph which was very affecting yet a Resignation to the Divine will is Necessary. His complaint we are informed was a Bilious Colic which held him 3 or 4 Days when he departed this Life 16th of the 12th mo. Which unexpected Change no doubt will prove very trying to his Widow being deprived of her partner in so early a period of Life when Just beginning to engage in Temporal concerns with a prospect to accommodate them in future But alas! how fluctuating & Transitory oftentimes are all Human prospects
I was Requested to go out there immediately but do not think it Suitable for me in this Season of the Year to expose myself in Traveling through the inclemency of the Weather. And not seeing what assistance I could afford them being at such a distance & in another State being unacquainted with their Laws in such Cases as is likely the Circumstances of things with Demand. As I suppose he hath not been Capable of making a will So that I have forwarded a Letter to Enoch informing him not to expect my Attention with other matters according to Prospect under the Condition & Circumstances of things Which in Consequence will have to be attended to apprehending that Enoch very likely ^{will} have to be Concerned in & to assist the widow in the settling of the Affairs. And have desired him to give me an information as soon as the Condition of things will admit. Thy Mother is in a frail Condition of Health at present which is rather augmented by the sorrowful tidings. I am through Divine favour in a middling state of health at present for which I feel thankful yet frequently look forward for a state of Dissolution. With a measure of Gratefull Acknowledgement that I am favoured to feel at times the revival of ^{the} Spirit of Love which breaths peace on Earth & Goodwill to Men. - The rest of our family are pretty well. - Several of the Inhabitants of our Neighbourhood are in a weak state of health, Joseph Dickerson hath been in a long Condition & his Recovery is Doubtful. Old Margaret McDonald is deceased. I did not apprehend it reasonable to communicate to Enock any of thy Observations thou mentioned leaving it for a future time. I now think of drawing to a Conclusion with a renewed desire for thy Preservation & Stability in thy Passage through Life knowing by a degree of experience that this is a state of probation & that a state of single watchfulness is absolutely necessary Recollecting the admonition be ye therefore likewise also Ready. Time to us here is very Uncertain. Thy Mother loves me in Love to thee & wishes thee to carry & bring a pair or two of Good Magazines. We remain with affection thy Parents } Isaac Taylor

Enoch Taylor passed his early days at or near Fincastle, Botetourt County, Va. His mother married April 29, 1813, at Frederick, Md., George Crowell, her cousin, and shortly thereafter they removed to Fincastle. There were two children of this marriage, Henry Crowell, born April 3, 1816, married September 7, 1838, Julia A. Osborn, and Elizabeth A. Crowell, born October 14, 1817, married April 28, 1836, James Stewart. Each left a large family, that of the former at Laurel, Indiana, and of the latter at Marysville, Ohio. The dates of their deaths have not been found.

Enoch Taylor was a student at Allegheny College, Meadville, Pa., 1834-5. At Salem, Virginia, he learned the saddler's trade. He then returned to Maryland, where he followed his trade for a time. Then he went West and took up clerical work in country stores at Quincy, Illinois, and other places. He was serving in that capacity at Bentonsport, Iowa, in 1840, when the death of his uncle, Jacob Taylor, called him back to the East. In the settlement and division of that uncle's estate, he acquired the uncle's home farm, on which, upon his marriage, he took up his residence and engaged in farming. Some years later he sold that farm and moved to the village of Gowanda. There he remained, occupied in a mercantile pursuit, until the spring of 1861, when he purchased another farm of three hundred acres. There he resided until his death. He was a man of fine physique, indomitable energy and industry, a highly proficient and prosperous farmer, and a respected, intelligent and useful citizen. Shortly after his death, his farm passed to the State of New York, and has since been known as the Gowanda State Hospital Farm. He died at the residence of his son Charles F. Taylor, at Port Huron, Michigan.

His estate was administered in the Surrogate's Court of Erie County, N. Y., at Buffalo, pursuant to the terms of his will.

Both Enoch Taylor and his wife were buried in the Pine Hill Cemetery at Gowanda, N. Y.

He married (2) October, 1857, Marie Hansen, born June 2, 1829, daughter of Professor Peter Hansen, of Gotha, an eminent German astronomer. She died at Partenkirchen, Germany, July 9, 1925. Bayard Taylor was named for United States Senator James A. Bayard of Delaware, for whom his father had a profound admiration.

His early education was obtained in a private school taught by Ruth Ann Chambers near Kennett Square. She was a writer of verses which young Bayard enjoyed and this probably had much to do with arousing the latent poetic genius which in after life made him famous.

He later attended a school of which Samuel Martin was principal. His youth was spent on his father's farm, except when at school; but farming held no attraction for him, and in 1842 he was apprenticed to Henry E. Evans, publisher of the "Village Record," to learn the printing business. After serving one year of his apprenticeship, he purchased the remainder from Mr. Evans. In 1844 he published "Ximena and Other Poems" and having saved $100, he sailed for Europe, having been employed by the "New York Tribune" and "Saturday Evening Post" to write his experiences. His newspaper contributions were received with much favor which induced him to publish in 1846 "Views Afoot," or "Europe Seen with Knapsack and Staff." In 1847 he accepted an offer made by Horace Greeley to connect himself with the Editorial staff of the "New York Tribune," and while so employed journeyed to California during the gold discoveries as correspondent of that Journal. His experiences are related in "Eldorado or Adventures in the Path of Empire" published in 1850, a book which had a phenomenal sale, 40,000 copies having been sold within two weeks after its appearance. In 1851, he made a prolonged tour abroad, visiting Europe, Asia, Africa and the East Indies, covering over 50,000 miles.

His first wife, Miss Agnew, was an early friend and schoolmate to whom he had been long engaged. He married her when she was on her death bed.

In 1852, he made a voyage to Calcutta and thence to China where he joined Commodore Perry's expedition to Japan. He published eight books of travel, all well written and popular. Among them may be mentioned "A Journey to Central Africa," "The Land of the Saracens" and "A Visit to India, China and Japan."

Upon his return in 1854, he delivered a number of lectures throughout the principal cities of the United States from New York to Wisconsin. The venture proved to be remunerative and added to the fame he so well deserved.

In 1856, he again visited Europe and travelled through Sweden, familiarizing himself with its language and literature and out of which emanated his narrative poem "Lars" and a volume of "Northern Travel."

After his marriage to Miss Hansen, he travelled for a time in Greece, and again visited the Pacific slope.

In 1862, he entered the diplomatic service of the United States and served his country as Secretary of Legation at St. Petersburg, and the following year he became Chargé d'Affaires at the Russian capital.

In 1864, he returned to the United States and for ten years followed literary pursuits and during this period produced four novels, chief of which was "The Story of Kennett."

In June 1878, he was appointed United States minister to Germany, and died in Berlin shortly after his arrival.

His home in Kennett Square was called "Cedarcroft."

His wife, Marie, survived him, re-edited his works and, in collaboration with Horace E. Scudder, wrote his "Life and Letters" (1884). Besides that biography there

THE THIRD ISAAC TAYLOR TO HIS SON JACOB
Salsbury Lancaster Coty Pensva 1811
1 mo.

Son Jacob

We Recd. thy Letter the 15th of this Instant which was Satisfactory to us as it contained no disagreeable information. Having received a few lines from Pipe Creek the evening before of the Decease of thy Brother Joseph which was very affecting yet a Resignation to the Divine will is Necessary, his complaint we are informed was a Bilious Collic which held him 3 or 4 Days when he departed this Life 16th of the 12th moth. which unexpected Change no doubt will prove very trying to his Widow, being deprived of her partner in so early a period of Life when Just beginning to engage in Temporal Concerns with a prospect to accommodate them in future But alas! how fluctuating & Transitory oftentimes are all Human prospects I was Requested to go out there immediately but do not think it Suitable for me in this Season of the Year to expose myself in Traveling through the inclemency of the Weather. And not seeing what assistance I could afford them being at such a distance & in another State being unacquainted with their Laws in Such Cases as is likely the Circumstance of things will Demand, As I Suppose he hath not been Capable of Making a will So that I have forwarded a Letter to Enoch informing him not to expect my Attention with other matters according to Prospect under the Condition & Circumstance of things—Which in Consequence will have to be attended to Apprehending that Enoch very likely will have to be Concerned in & to Assist the widow in the Settling of the Affairs . . . And have desired him to give me an information as soon as the Condition of things will admitt. Thy Mother is in a frail Condition of health at present which is rather Augmented by the Sorrowful tidings. I am through Divine favour in a Midling state of health at present for which I feel thankfull Yet frequently look forward for a State of Dissolution. . . With a Measure of Gratefull Acknowledgment that I am favoured to feel at times the revival of that Spirit of Love which breaths peace on Earth & Goodwill to Men. The rest of our family are pretty Well. Several of the Inhabitants of our Neighbourhood are in a Weak State of health, Joseph Dickinson hath been in a Lingering Condition & his Recovery is doubtful.

APPENDIX

Old Margaret McDonald is deceased. I Did not apprehend it Seasonable to Communicate to Enoch any of thy Observations thou Mentioned leaving it for a future time. I now think of drawing to a Conclusion with a renewed desire for thy Preservation & Stability in thy Passage through Life Knowing by a degree of experience that this is a State of Probation & that a State of Humble watchfulness is absolutely Necessary Recollecting the admonition "be Ye therefore Likewise also Ready" Time to us here is very Uncertain. Thy mother Joins me in Love to thee & Wishes thee try to Convey & bring a pair or two of Good Mogansens. We remain with affection thy Parents
