PREFACE

Mr. Justice Willis Van Devanter had a keen interest in the genealogy of the family, and pursued it with characteristic thoroughness, devoting much time and effort to the collection of data. It was his purpose to publish and preserve the material, but unfortunately this purpose was not accomplished. He extended his research to the Netherlands and had made several visits there. A genealogist, recommended by the Archivist in the City of Utrecht, was engaged to trace the family, and succeeded in extending the line of descent to the great grandfather of Jan Pietersz van Deventer, the first American ancestor.

The very thorough research made by Mr. Charles O. Vandevanter of the original records in all states where the early family had been located, has added materially to the value of this work. Much family data was supplied by various descendant families. One of the first to undertake research, at a time when the subject was wholly undeveloped, was Mr. Charles H. Van Deventer, of New York. Mr. James Thayer Van Deventer and three of his sons have contributed valuable records. Mr. Paul M. Chamberlain devoted considerable time to research. These records have all been made available and have been incorporated into this work. A considerable portion of the text is based upon original records and numerous recognized authorities. No effort has been spared in its preparation, that it may present a correct and accurate genealogy. The purpose has been to use the spelling of the name as used by each family.

Valuable assistance has been received from Mr. Horace Van Deventer, Mr. Winslow Van Devanter and Mr. Braden Vandevanter. Mr. Horace Van Deventer conducted research and supplied records of those of the name in the armed forces of the United States, shown in appendix, and also secured seventeenth century maps of the City of Deventer. We gratefully acknowledge the assistance of all who have supplied material for this work.

FOREWORD

This work was inspired by the late Justice Willis Van Devanter. It was a matter he had had on his mind for several years. Shortly before his death he invited the author to his home in Washington with a view to its preparation. As it happened, she and he were working on it at the time of his sudden death on the 8th day of February, 1941. His fine judgment and discernment are again demonstrated here. For no better or more fortunate selection for the authorship of this book could have been made. In saying this, I think I can safely undertake to speak for the whole family and its connections. The only proof needed is the finished product itself. For even a brief perusal and checking will demonstrate the care and ability with which it has been prepared, the author's painstaking accuracy and the considerable time and effort it required. To her, in my judgment, the whole family owes a debt of gratitude. Few would undertake so heavy a task. Still fewer could do it so well even if they would.

A considerable portion of the information compiled here was the result of long years of investigation and research by the Justice and by my father, the late C. O. Vandevanter. Such was almost the life hobby of both. This common interest brought the two men together long years ago. They became and remained fast friends to the last. My father was by profession an engineer and so the training of both made for accuracy. In fact both were not only accurate and methodical to the extreme, but both were almost precisionists. Both compiled extensive data, all of which has fortunately been put at the disposal of the author. By reason of this and her own considerable additional independent research, she has been able to obtain an excellent result.

I believe this volume will be found to be a comprehensive and accurate genealogy.

INTRODUCTION

THE NAME

The surname van Deventer, meaning of (or from) Deventer, is of Netherland origin, derived from the ancient City of Deventer, in the province of Overijssel on the River Yssel.

Used in the Netherlands in the form of van Deventer, the name in America has assumed the variant spellings of Van Deventer, Vandeventer, Van Devanter, Vandevanter, Van Devender, Vandevender, Van Devander, Vandevander, etc. The differences in spelling arose in part, in accommodating the Dutch pronunciation to the common forms of speech of people about them. For two or three generations in America, they spoke and wrote the Dutch language.

The Netherland pronunciation of the name is vahn Dayv-ven-ter. In America, in the East the accent is usually placed on the second syllable, in the Middle West on the first syllable, and in the South both are found, some branches of the family using one, and some the other.

The name did not originate with Jan Pietersz (sometimes written Pietersen) van Deventer, who emigrated from the Netherlands to New Netherland in 1662. It was a well recognized family name in Holland long before that date, and has continued so to be until the present time. Books of the highest authenticity show that Deventer was used as a family name in Holland as early as the sixteenth century. Gerard Prouinck, called Deventer, was an able and popular national leader, and through the influence of the Earl of Leicester obtained the appointment of burgomaster in the City of Utrecht (1586).

Hist. United Netherlands, Motley, Vol. II; Hist. of the Dutch People, Blok, Vol. III; John of Barneveld, Motley.

John Lothrop Motley, the historian, in one of his works pays a high compliment to a Holland historian named van Deventer. The art galleries of Holland contain the works of a noted painter of that name (1824-97) Amsterdam. A great doctor, Henry A. van Deventer, lived in Groningen, 1651. One of the name became governor of the Island of Sumatra; another was a member of the Dutch Parliament.

A van Deventer went to South Africa about the time our ancestor came to America. Of this family, Sir Jacob Louis Van Deventer (1874-1922) South African soldier, became second in command to General Smuts during the invasion of Cape Colony, later attained the rank of major general and was commander-in-chief in campaign in German Southwest Africa.

The chief judicial officer in the Province of Utrecht in 1932 was Judge Garret Jansen van Deventer (son of Jan, son of Pieter). His family lived, about 1590, in Deventer, and moved to Zwolle. Ever after they were known as van Deventer and used that as a family name.

A search of the archives in the province of Utrecht reveals many van Deventer names between 1600 and 1662. The name is well known and in use in the Netherlands at the present time, and from those who bear the name we have the information that the family is a very old one.

The earliest record found of the name van Deventer is in a book entitled Conversations of the Heart, by Gerlacus Petersen van Deventer. A copy in the Juniata College Library, Huntingdon, Pa., was published 1730 by Joh. Georg Boettiger, at Franckfurt and Leipsig. This German version, translated from the Latin original, was written more than three hundred years before. Up to the year 1730 there had been two Latin and four Dutch editions. A note refers to chapters 54-5 of the Chronicle at the Cloister of Windesheim for detailed information of the life of the author. Gerlacus Petersen van Deventer is said to have died in 1411 at the age of thirty-three and is buried in the Cloister of Windesheim. On the title page of the 1730 edition of Conversations of the Heart he is called "the other Thomas a Kempis."

United Netherlands, Motley, Vols. II, III; John of Barneveld, Motley, Vols. I, II, III; Ency. Britannica; Conversations of the Heart, Gerlacus P. Van Deventer.

The name "van" always concerns the place where the bearer or one of his ancestors was born.

ANCESTRY OF JAN (JOHN) PIETERSZ VAN DEVENTER

The following data was collected for Mr. Justice Willis Van Deventer by Heer Jos. Goudswaard, an expert genealogist of Baarn, Holland, who made an exhaustive search of all available records in the cities of Utrecht and Deventer and neighboring towns, including Nederlangbroek, Werkhoven, Bunnik, Doorn, Cothen and Houten in the Province of Utrecht, and Beusichem, Rijswyk, Maurik, Arnhem and Twello (Twel) in Gelderland. Photographs of many original documents in the Dutch language were furnished together with some translations by Mr. Goudswaard. He says: "At Bunnik all remaining baptismal and marriage records are from copies as far as the copyist was able to read the old inscriptions, which are lost."

Many van Deventer names were found, some of which do not appear to be connected with this line.

According to the findings of the genealogist, the correct lineage of Jan Piertersz van Deventer is as follows:

I. Peter van Deventer, b. before 1550, m. —, before 1574 in Deventer.

Children:

- i. Jan Peters, b. ca. 1574 in Deventer, d. 1601; m. 1594, Adriaentje Jans (b. ca. 1576 in Utrecht, d. before 1653), daughter of Jan Jansen Stael van Gils in N. Brabant. This is shown by entry of publication of marriage banns in Utrecht April 14, 1594, and by certificate, in the Dutch language, from Utrecht Ref. Ch. Adriaentje m. (2) May 15, 1602, Reyer Barents Stuyrkurff (b. in Munster, Westphalia), baker and citizen of Utrecht.

Children:

1. Petertje Jans, unm., may have been born in Twello, as she was sometimes called van Twel (van meaning from). Her will dated Apr. 10, 1655 (Suppl. Catalogue No. 209, Archives City of Utrecht) has a codicil attached dated June 10, 1656, wherein she bequeaths to Adriaentje, daughter of her nephew, Jan Pietersz, tailor, in Bunnik, 50 guilders, and states that Adriaentje is named for her mother. Other bequests are to the following persons: Huybert Wouters van Heycop (son of her mother's sister Annetje) and children; children of Cornelis van Steenberg (cousin); Elizabeth and Wynant, Martin, Tyss van Nuys' children; Magdalena, Cornelis' dau., widow of late Tomas Jansen van Ceulen (in behalf of mother); Catrina, Jan Vachman's dau.; Marie Hendricks, dau. van Driebergen, to whom her late mother, Adriaentje Jans, was godmother. Residue to paternal heirs, Gertrude and Anna Caspers van der Lippe and Gerritje, Herman Gerrits' dau. (nieces).
- II. ii. Herman Pieters, son of Peter van Deventer.
- iii. Petertje, m. Elias Berck, sexton of the Friars church. (Since the Reformation the Friars were banished and the church became a Reformed temple.)

Children:

1. Peterken, m. (banns pub. Apr. 1, 1619) May 4, 1619, Herman Gerrits, wheelwright, from Apeldoorn, dwelling in the Beguins Street. Had dau. Gerritje. (Deventer Records.)
  2. Willemke, m. (banns pub. Apr. 1, 1626) May 9, 1626, Casper van der Lippe, horseman under Capt. Ripperda; lived in Deventer. Had daus. i. Anna, m. Hendrick van Santan; ii. Gertrude. (Deventer Records.)
- II. Herman Pieters, son of Peter van Deventer, m. Mayke Hermans.

Children:

- III. i. Pieter Hermans was born in the village of Twello, located between two and three miles from Deventer, across the River Yssel in the Province of Gelderland. On a map of 1690 the name of this village is written "Dwelle" and it has been variously written, der Well, Twel and Twello. Following a custom of the country at that time, Pieter Hermans was sometimes referred to as van Twel or van der Wel, indicating that he was born in Twello ("van" meaning from). At other times he was called van Deventer, thus showing his use of the name.

Respecting the use of the names van Twel or van der Wel and van Deventer by the same family, Mr. Goudswaard says that van Twel was not at the time an established surname, and it is his opinion that it was used as pointing to the place of Peter Hermans' birth rather than as a surname. It is common knowledge that surnames were not always closely adhered to at that time. Thus a man might use a name indicating his place of birth, and at other times use the surname of his father.

Annotations from the Reformed Deventer Marriage and Baptismal Records:

Banns published Apr. 29, 1626, for the marriage of Pieter Hermans, born in Twello, widower, horseman in Capt. Ripperda's Co., and Fenneke (Josephine) Hendricks, born in Weseke, Westphalia and living in the Long Bishop street in Deventer; married May 2, 1626.

From Annotations of the baptised children in the Parish of Deventer since June 1, 1616.

III. Pieter Hermans van Deventer and his wife, Fenneke Hendricks, baptised the following children:

- IV. i. Jan (John), bp. April 24, 1627.
 ii. Dirck (Richard) }
 iii. Merritge (Maria) } twins, bp. Sept. 16, 1628.

DEVENTER

(Translation from Latin Description)

The province of Overijssel, commonly known as "Das Landt von über Issell," is situated to the north of the province of Gheldria. It is divided into three districts. That district nearest the Issel is commonly called Isselandt. The district that lies across the river Vidrum, the modern Vecht, is called Twente, apparently retaining the ancient name given it by Strabo and Tacitus. These historians located the Iventeri or, according to others, Tencteri and Teventeri next to the Camanni.

The chief city of this people was Deventer. Its name not ineptly alludes to that of the Teventeri. There are, however, not a few scholarly men, born in this city, who claim that the name is not "Daventria" but "Davontria." They offer as testimony two very ancient stone monuments, one of which can be seen at the threshold of the senate house, the other at the gate called Brinconis, whereon, engraven in the stone, is to be read the word "Davontur." This opinion moreover is quite in accord with that held by those who claim that this city took its name from an influential man, Davon by name, once held in high honor by the Saxons. Now when Friesland, hither Saxony, Westphalia, Sicambria, now known as Gheldria, Cleves, Jülich or Menapium, the whole country about Utrecht watered by the Rhine, Betua or Batua, the ancient Batavia but now Holland, Walachria of the Mattiaci, to use the name given it by Strabo and Cornelius Tacitus, now however called Zelanda, when, I say, these provinces were first illumined by the faith of Christ and the light of the Gospel, St. Wilebrord, Boniface, Lebuinus (Liafwin), Werentfridus, Luitbeatus and other men of this saintly company, all devout men and laborers for Christ, left their native land, went into exile and came to this country, when the Saxons or the Angles were devastating Britain and persecuting the Christians. At that time Sergius was Pope, Justinian Emperor and Pepin King of the Franks. The year was more or less 540. At this time it happened that Lebuinus was tilling the country in the vicinity of Deventer with the plow of the Gospel, and it was due to his labors that the people were aroused from the sleep of death by the trumpet of his salutary teachings, that the shrines of the idols were left desolate, that the first Christian oratory was built in the town of Welpa, situated not very far from Deventer. According to another history, this town was called in ancient times Wiltenburch next to the castle; now it is known as Utrecht. By reason of the fervent piety of the people a new structure was added to this oratory for the newly arrived missioner.

At that time, Davon, whom we mentioned above, a man of great wealth and prestige, was so well disposed to Lebuinus that at the death of Lebuinus he erected next to his castle a magnificent oratory called after the Blessed Lebuinus, and therein he honored this apostle of God with fittingly splendid obsequies. Many people were anxious to build their homes near to the castle of Davon close to the magnificent temple he had there erected. As a result this group of closely clustered houses was gradually girt with walls and moats, and, because of the more powerful castle of Davon and the imperial privileges that were his, it began to enjoy the name of a city. It was located on a most pleasing site, gracing the right bank of the River Issel. It was entrusted with a Cathedral Church and a College of Canons, and the tutelary patron of this church, as of the entire diocese, was Blessed Lebuinus, the Apostle of Overijssel. It was out of reverence for this saint that Bernulfus, Bishop of Utrecht, transferred to this city half of the College of the Holy Saviour.

The classical college of Deventer flourished, and from its walls came forth very many men conspicuous by the brilliance of their learning. This school enjoyed its most prosperous days when the famous scholar, Erasmus of Rotterdam, was a pupil there, Rudolph Agricola a reader and Alexander Hegius rector. Four groups of students (I believe each group was called a collegium) supplied the school with all it needed in the way of livelihood and studies. Each group was a foundation of a different person. The most famous of these groups was called the Domus Cusana from its founder, Nicholas of Cusa. As a well-lettered youth Nicholas industriously plied a trade at Deventer, and used to go from door to door in search of his livelihood, since he was the son of a poor fisherman, born at Cusa, a town in Germany on the Moselle River in the diocese of Trier. Highly commended by reason of his extraordinary eloquence and learning, he became successively Archdeacon of Liege, Cardinal of St. Peter in Chains under the title of Eudoxia and Bishop of Brescia. Come now as he was to the height of such dignity and honors, yet ever mindful of the benefits conferred on him by the people of Deventer, who were always noted for their good-will and hospitality, he devoted a substantial sum of money to a perpetual foundation wherein help could be accorded needy young working men. In this city there were also four hospitals, dedicated to the works of mercy and the motherly care of the Church.

The city itself, surrounded on all sides by water, is strong by reason of its walls and defense-works and is consequently well-populated. It is watered by the River Issel, both banks of which stream are joined at this point by a stone bridge. This stream rises in the Rhine, and gets its name between the cities of Arnhem and Zutfen. They say that at great expense it was brought up to the walls of Deventer by means of an artificial channel. At this time, a little more removed from the city, towards the eastern side, there was to be seen a lake, known by the name of the Older Issula, precisely because in former times this lake had abundant alder trees native to it.

But Deventer is famous especially for trade. Its inhabitants carry on their business in distant lands. And since they also enjoy the privileges and immunities of the Hanseatic League (a league of seventy-two cities), consequently in the principal markets of this league, namely, in Antwerp, London in England and Bergen in Norway, they also avail themselves of the common liberties granted to the league by the Kings and Dukes. Deventer has come to the very highest place of honor as a result of its prosperous business, and consequently it is the capital of the cities of the province of Overijssel, wherein there are eight principal cities. As another consequence it is adorned with costly buildings.

In the middle of the market-place (the Forum) a building has been erected, well known commercially, and commonly called Die Wage, from the ruins of that castle from which Charles, the Duke of the Gheldrians, inflicted heavy losses on the townsmen of Deventer, while he was besieging that city. As a result of this, the citizens have called it in their usual idiom, "Altena," that is to say, "too near at hand." Duke Charles was struck with fear and trembling at the might of Charles the Fifth to whose protection and guardianship the people of Deventer had entrusted themselves, since they distrusted the Bishop of Utrecht, and suspecting the approach of Charles the Fifth's troops, Duke Charles raised the siege and slipped away in shameful flight. The citizens of Deventer pursued him, and completely demolished his castle, smashing his walled fortifications. They brought back to the city the ruins of the castle now demolished and leveled to the ground, and from them made a beautiful building of which we have just now made mention. On the side of this building can be seen a pot of stone and the figure of a fool fixing his eyes on it and smiling. The story goes that this figure represents Charles of Gheldria, who had long ago from his castle looked out with greedy eyes upon the pots of the citizens, but who nevertheless had been unable to enjoy the flesh contained therein, that is to say, the possessions and goods of the town-folk which had been promised to his soldiers, though victory had not yet been won.

The land near Deventer is most fertile and suited to any sort of cultivation, being especially fruitful in grain. For this reason it has large pasturelands on which large herds of cattle feed. Even from distant Denmark large herds are brought to pasture, so rich and vast are the fields there.

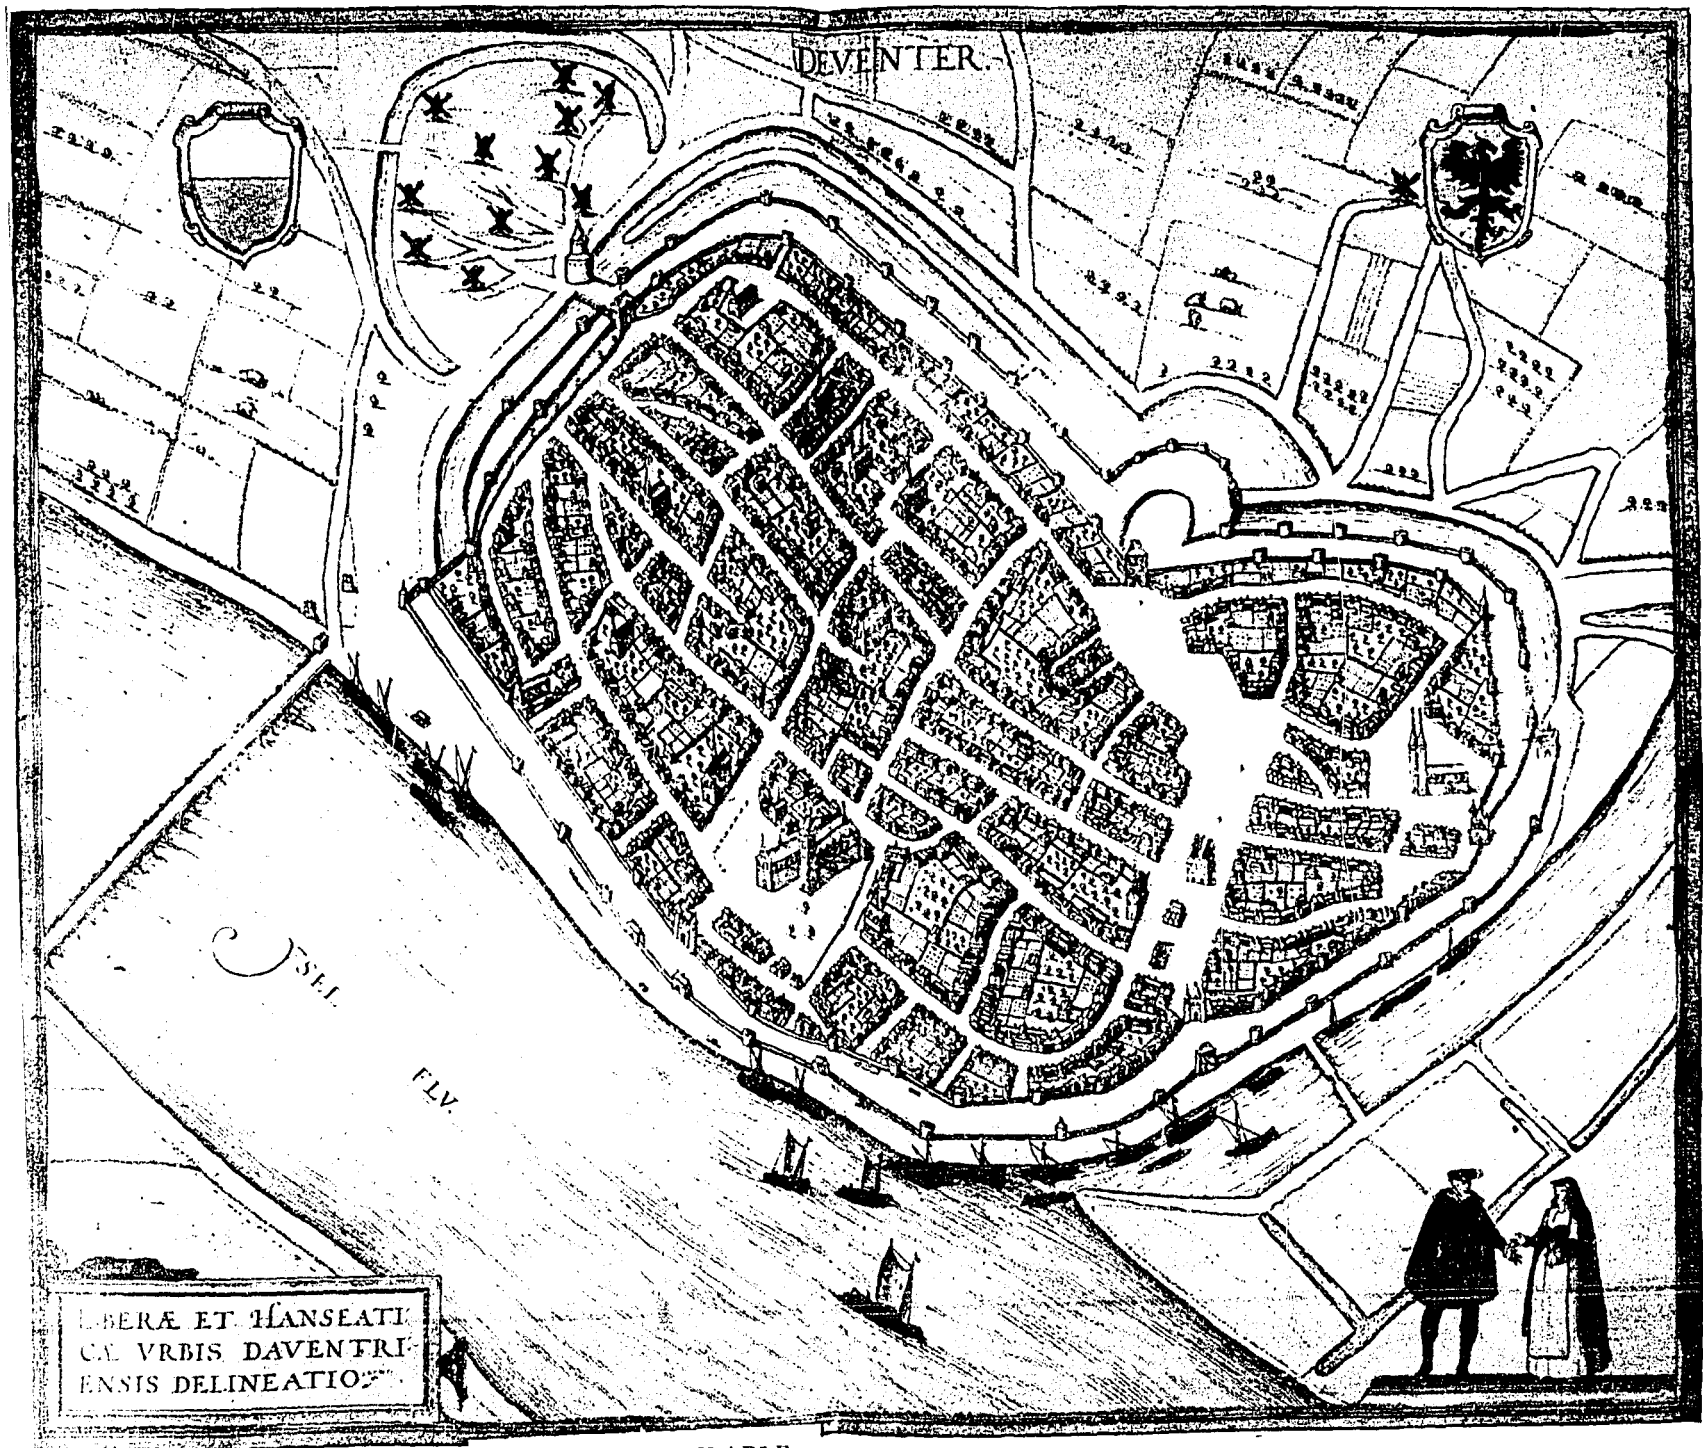

Deventer has also brought forth excellent men, renowned for the eloquence of their learning and their virtues, men who have brought honor to their country. First among these is Gerard Groote who won the name of "the Great" by reason of the holiness of his life. He was well versed in philosophy and theology, and had also won a reputation by his writings. He was the first to found at Deventer a house of the Brothers whom they call of the Common Life. That famous cosmographer, James of Deventer, was also born here. At first he devoted himself to the art of medicine, then to that of mathematics, but finally he gave himself up to the study of geography. In this capacity he was granted an annual pension as one of the foremost cosmographers of King Philip. Very carefully he mapped out all the cities of Belgium, and included these in three volumes. He visited all these sections, and spared neither time nor energy in bringing his maps to perfection. It was death alone that prevented him from finishing his work. He died in Cologne. To prevent such excellent and costly books from falling into alien hands, the distinguished senate of Cologne, to whom we must be grateful, preserved them, and sent them to the King of Spain through the President Viglio. Even within our memory a lawyer of great renown, the professor ordinary in the metropolis of the Ubii (Cologne) Matthias Schnell of Deventer, has upheld the glory of his native land.

The above is a description of the town of Deventer in the Netherlands preceding the map of the town of Deventer in the Atlas of

JAN PIETERSZ VAN DEVENTER, FOUNDER

1. Jan (John) Pietersz van Deventer, b. April 24, 1627, in the City of Deventer, Province of Overijssel, was the founder of the family in America. He was the son of Pieter Hermans van Deventer, from Twello, and Fenneke Hendricks, born in Weseke, Westphalia. He died ca. 1692 in New Netherland.

The middle name of Jan Pietersz (or Pietersen) van Deventer is from the first name of his father, with "sz" or "sen" added, signifying "son of." Such middle names are identifying in baptisms, but are seldom used in signatures.

In the year 1652, in the village of Houten, Province of Utrecht, Jan Pietersz van Deventer and Maria Hoozeboom were married, in a church that is still in use. Maria was born at Houten, a village about four miles from the City of Utrecht, and was the daughter of Rochus Ardiaens Hoozeboom and Maria Willems van Odyck (b. at Odyck). The name Hoozeboom is pronounced with the sound of long "o" in both syllables, and the word means high tree. Rochus is a Dutch christian name after St. Rochus (French Roger). The Reformed church changed Rochus to Rutger.

Rochus Adriaens Hoozeboom (b. before 1597), the father of Maria, was a resident of Houten and for many years, from 1617, held a position of considerable importance as secretary of the town, and was an officer in the church there. He was the son of Adriaen Hoozeboom, b. before 1577.

Cem. Record, village of Ghoy and Houten.

In connection with a mortgage, dated at Houten April 28, 1653, by the heirs of Rochus Adriaens Hoozeboom, on the house situated next to the parsonage on the Brink (square), in the village of Houten, his children appeared at a hearing before the schepens in the "noble and mighty Lords 'States' Court of Houten and Ghoy" and their names are set out as heirs of Rochus Adriaens Hoozeboom "in his life Secretary of Houten, and Maria Willems, daughter van Odyck, their parents." The mortgage was cancelled Sept. 25, 1660, signed by the schepens and by Cornelis Hoozeboom, brother of Rochus Adriaens Hoozeboom.

From records Ghoy & Houten; Catalogue Judicial Archives Utrecht, No. 1287, folio 37.

Deeds dated Houten Jan. 31, 1656, and Aug. 31, 1657 (Nos. 187, 290), and Utrecht Jan. 15, 1666 (Catal. Jud. Arch. Utrecht No. 1287), pertain to the family of Rochus Adriaens Hoogeboom and set out the names of his children. They are:

1. Adriaen Rochus Hoogeboom, living in Doorn.
2. Jan, m. Sept. 25, 1653 Adriaentje de Roy; then living in Harmony Inn, Springwegh, and in 1656 at Dom churchyard, Rhenish Vinyard (inn), Utrecht; d. Feb. 16, 1660, leaving wife and children.
3. Willem, lived in Houten.
4. Willempje, m. Jan van Ceulen, lived in Houten.
5. Sara, m. Jan. 2, 1659, in Utrecht, Jacob Hendrick Munick, living in Utrecht.
6. Maria, m. 1652 Jan Pietersz van Deventer.
7. Janniche, b. abt. 1635; m. Roeloff Everts van Achterberch, res. Maersen.
8. Cornelia, m. July 11, 1649 Hendrick Smidders, from Kempen, res. Utrecht.

From various old records, including a deed executed by Jan van Deventer, it appears that at and prior to the time of his marriage, his wife's married sister Cornelia lived in Utrecht, in a house near the great church. The house was in an angle facing the plaza on which the old church and tower stand, and is still in use.

Cornelis Hoogeboom, a bachelor uncle of Maria, also lived in Utrecht, and died in 1664. He left a substantial bequest to his niece Maria, who was then married to Jan and living in New Netherland. (Houten Records). Jan executed a power of attorney, along with his wife, to collect this legacy and for the conveyance of property inherited by her from her father.

From an examination of the records in the Province of Utrecht, it was found that Jan Pietersz (van Deventer), kleermaker (tailor), resided in Utrecht and was admitted to the Dutch church there in the 1650's. He later lived in Bunnik, southeast of Utrecht, from 1653 to 1661, when he emigrated from the Netherlands to America. The old church in this village is still in use and has some copies of the old records, but no list of the members at the time of Jan's residence there, and the record of baptisms is fragmentary. There is a record showing that on April 4, 1658, Jan, the Kleermaker (tailor), baptised a daughter, Marieken (old form of Maria). The wife's name is not given. That they were members of the Dutch church at Bunnik is attested by the fact that they brought letters to New Netherland on which they were admitted to membership in the Dutch church at Breukelen (Brooklyn), N. Y., Dec. 25, 1662.

Jan Pietersz van Deventer came from Bunnik, in the Province of Utrecht, with his wife and three children. They sailed on the ship "Hope," arriving in New Amsterdam April 8, 1662. A list of the passengers on this ship is given in Holland Soc., N. Y., Year Book, 1902, p. 20.

The record on the preceding page is from an entry in Dutch script in the ship's books, in the State Archives, Albany, N. Y. This record was later destroyed by fire.

Documentary History of New York, III, 38, by E. B. O'Callaghan, gives a partial list of early immigrants to New Netherland 1657-64, in which appears the following translation:

April 1662, in the Hope,
Jan Petersen, from Deventer; tailor, and wife and 3 children.

The above translation has been found to be incorrect. Instead of "Jan Petersen, from Deventer," the correct translation would be "Jan Pietersen van Deventer."

Mr. O'Callaghan translated the name Vandeventer into "from Deventer" instead of using it as a surname. This translation has been accepted and used by a number of authorities since that time. But a subsequent examination of the record at Albany discloses the fact that an error was made in the translation and that this name was written "Jan Pietersen van deventer."

New York Genealogical and Biographical Record, LXV, 15, contains the following:

Experience has taught us that absolute dependence cannot be placed upon the uncorroborated statements in the Calendar of Historical Manuscripts in the Office of the Secretary of State, Albany, N. Y., Part I, Dutch Manuscripts 1630-1664, edited by E. B. O'Callaghan 1865 . . . . The entries in O'Callaghan's Calendar of Dutch Colonial Manuscripts are found to be frequently erroneous in the translation of the subject matter of the original documents.

As early as 1910, Mr. Justice Willis Van Devanter discussed this point, in a letter to Mr. C. O. Vandevanter, as follows:

You call my attention particularly to the way in which Jan's name is spelled in the old Dutch record, and to the fact that O'Callaghan translated this spelling "from Deventer." I also observe that in the original letter, by which a tracing of the record was transmitted to you, a translation of the record is given. It is apparent that when the translation was made some word other than "from" was used preceding the word "Deventer," and this other word, whatever it was, was erased and the word "from" inserted. I take it that in inviting my attention particularly to it you really meant to protest against the translation.

What I think about it is this: The old Dutch script contains some capitals where small letters should have been used, and it also uses some small letters where it should have used capital ones. The "d" in the family name is a small letter instead of a capital, but I did not attach much importance to this when I observed that the draftsman was somewhat careless in his use of small letters and capitals. The fact that "van" is somewhat separated from the remainder of the family name sufficiently indicates that the draftsman understood what the name was and how it should be written. I do not at all regard "van", even though it be thus somewhat separated, as a mere preposition, but do regard it as part of the family name. Neither do I regard "van deventer" as a mere descriptive term meaning "from Deventer." If that had been the case there would have been much greater reason for the use of a capital "V," and the draftsman probably would have used one. True "van" is a preposition in the Dutch language and means of, from, in, etc., but that is not its use in connection with our name. In the Dutch language and customs it is also a titular prefix to proper names, and descends, as part of the name, to those who had no part in obtaining the title, and even though they themselves do not merit any such recognition. van Deventer was a well established and well recognized family name in Holland long before Jan came to this country, and I have not the slightest doubt that he was a member of that family. What Mr. O'Callaghan thought of it is not persuasive in my judgment. Had he known, as clearly he did not, that "van Deventer" was a well established family name in Holland he would have so recognized it in his translation. The fact that Jan and his descendants did not treat it as a descriptive term, but as a family name, also most persuasively confirms my view of it. The name Pietersen means no more than that he was the son of a man whose first name was Pieter.

The following is from a letter of Mr. Justice Willis Van Devanter to Mr. William Van Deventer, Passaic, N. J., 1934:

In the Hall of Archives at Utrecht in 1934, the chief archivist made the following observations: Jan van Deventer had a recognized occupation which was mentioned in most of the papers relating to him. This was more significant than you realize. Besides he could write well. He had sufficient means to enable him and his wife and three children to travel to the coast and to make a voyage to New Netherland, without asking indulgence on the part of the ship; and he probably had enough means to enable him and his family to subsist in New Netherland until he got started there. He also had church connections here which enabled him to establish church connections there. As things went in those times, I should consider him as having a station beyond the ordinary Hollander of that period.

Jan Pietersz van Deventer, who landed in New Amsterdam April 8, 1662, very soon went over to Breukelen (Brooklyn), on Nassau Island, and first settled there. His presence is shown by a petition of March 1, 1663. Among 28 substantial citizens, he signed his name ("Jan Pietersz van Deventer"), to a petition by inhabitants of the village of Breukelen, for a grant of land in the vicinity of Breukelen, for a new town and salt meadows.

Colonial Hist. of N. Y., Brodhead & O'Callaghan, XIV, 522;
Doc. Relating to Early Colonial Settlers on L. I., Fernow, p. 522.

This petition described him as at that time an inhabitant of Breukelen; so called from the village of that name in the Province of Utrecht.

Brooklyn's great historian and antiquarian, Teunis G. Bergen, in Early Settlers of Kings County, N. Y. (1881), p. 327, gives the following:

Jan Pietersz van Deventer, the ancestor of the family, emigrated in 1662 from the "Steght" in the Netherlands, and may at one time have resided at Deventer in Overyssel . . . Settled at first in Brooklyn, and from thence removed to New Utrecht, of which place he was appointed Schepen by Gov. Colve in 1673, where his name appears on the assessment roll of 1675 and where he and his wife were members of the R. D. Church in 1677. Owned plot No. 5 in Yellow Hoek (Bay Ridge) as early as 1677, which he sold Nov. 17, 1680, to Hendrick Mattyse van Pelt. Bought May 14, 1682, of Claes Claesen Smith his farm in New Utrecht, as per Lib. II of Conv., p. 132, and which he sold Sept. 1694 to his son Pieter Jansen for 6000 gl. In 1687 he took oath of allegiance at New Utrecht.

The Steght (or Stight) mentioned by Bergen, means bishopric. The Bishopric of Utrecht was very large.

The ecclesiastical territory of the Bishopric of Utrecht (now Arch-bishopric) included also Deventer.

Extract from letter of A. F. H. Blaauw, Molenstratt, Oss, 1932.

T. G. Bergen has said: "Jan Pietersz van Deventer m. 1st. Maria —, 2nd. Engel Teunis."

Early Settlers Kings Co., p. 327.

No second marriage is found. The records show that both Jan van Deventer and Engel Thomas (as the name appears) were witnesses at the baptism of a child of Jan's son, Pieter Jansen van Deventer, April 16, 1688, and this may have led Mr. Bergen into the error of believing they were married.

Flatbush Dutch church records;

Year Bk. Holland Soc. of N. Y., 1898.

The following is from The Collegiate Churches of Kings County, Brooklyn, 1928, by J. Frederic Berg:

Midway between New Amersfort and Breuckelen a settlement soon arose to which was given the name of Midwout or Midway Woods, later became Flatbush. . . . The Dutch were essentially a religious people and services were held in private houses, school houses, etc. In 1654 churches were organized in Midwout and New Amersfort, and six years later in Breuckelen. By reason of its central location, Midwout (Flatbush) was chosen as the site of the first church edifice on Long Island. The spot selected was that on which the Flatbush church still stands, now the corner of Flatbush and Church avenues, almost the exact geographical center of the present city of Brooklyn. It was built in the form of a cross, the rear part being used as a parsonage . . .

The first pastor jointly called by the three congregations was Rev. Johannes Theodorus Polhemus. At first services were held only in Midwout, but in 1656 the Governor directed that the minister should preach every Sunday morning in Midwout and in the afternoons alternately in New Amersfort and Brooklyn.

In 1660 Rev. Henricus Selyns was installed as pastor of the Brooklyn church only. In 1664 he returned to Holland, later returning to this country and was pastor of the Reformed church in New Amsterdam 1682-1700. He left a manuscript volume dated 1686, with a register of the members.

Rev. Casparus van Zuuren followed Mr. Polhemus as minister of the L. I. churches in 1677. He returned to Holland 1685 and was succeeded by Rev. Rudolphus Varick. Rev. Wilhelmus Lupardus was installed as pastor of the union churches 1695.

Jan van Deventer and his wife Maria were admitted to membership in the Reformed Dutch church of Brooklyn, N. Y., Dec. 25, 1662, on the presentation of letters from the church at Bunnik, Holland, as shown by the following record:

FIRST BOOK OF RECORDS OF THE REFORMED DUTCH CHURCH OF
List of Members

1662, December 25; Jan Pietersz, Maria Hooeboom with letters from Bunnick.

Ch. Rec. Brooklyn during pastorate of Dominie Henricus Selyns; L. I. Hist. Soc., 79; Year Bk. Holland Soc. N. Y., 1897, p. 135.

This record of the Brooklyn church had been translated "with letters from Beverwyck" (the early name for Albany, N. Y.). The error was discovered by Mr. Justice Van Deventer, who made an examination of the original record and found it to be "with letters from Bunnick" (the old spelling). He said:

No doubt the former translator of the Brooklyn church records knew of Beverwyck on the Hudson, and not knowing of the little village of Bunnik in Holland, thought the place on the Hudson was intended. After this original entry was found there was no longer any room for mere conjecture. I turned to Holland and found Bunnik, in the Province of Utrecht.

An original account of the parish deacon of the church at Brooklyn discloses two entries during 1663 showing the payment of money on two occasions to Jan Pietersz, kleermaker (tailor), for his services in making surplices for the minister and choir.

In 1664 Jan van Deventer settled in New Utrecht. This is shown by an affidavit of Feb. 14, 1664, signed by ten persons, in which they declared that at that time they were all inhabitants of the village of New Utrecht and that they were there Jan. 12, 1664. The purpose of the affidavit was to describe a raid made on the town on that date by a body of armed men under Captain John Scott, who "proclaimed King Charles sovereign of all America from Virginia to Boston." The affidavit described the raid and gave the particulars of what was done by Capt. Scott and his men.

Col. Hist. N. Y., Brodhead & O'Call., II, 480; Stiles Hist. Kings Co., 260; Hist. Town of N. U., Bergen, I, 260.

Of the ten persons signing the affidavit, Jan was the first of the five who wrote their names, the others signing by mark.

He signed his name "Jan van Deventer" to this paper. He usually signed J. P. van Deventer, and sometimes the full name Jan Pietersz van Deventer.

From the reconquest of the Dutch in 1673, the recovered territory was first governed by a Council of War, who from double nominations sent by the inhabitants, selected for the towns of Kings Co. for schepens — and Jan van Deventer.

Bergen's Mss. Hist. N. U., p. 112.

An original record in the archives at Albany, N. Y., shows that Jan van Deventer had been selected from the "submitted nominations of the delegates" as a schepen of the town of New Utrecht, and was appointed to that office August 18, 1673, by Governor Colve.

Register New Neth., O'Call., p. 81; Col. Hist. N. Y., II, 577 (1856), Brodhead & O'Call.

He continued in that office while the Dutch remained in authority. A schepen had dual duties—first, a magistrate, and second, councilman or supervisor, whose authority is more general than the authority of such an officer in our time.

Another original paper shows that deeds of conveyance were proved before Jan van Deventer as overseer (magistrate) of New Utrecht 1677. In Sept. 1687, at New Utrecht, Jan van Deventer took the oath of allegiance to the British Crown, as a foreign-born citizen, having lived in this country twenty-five years.

Doc. Hist. of N. Y., O'Call., I, 429 (1851).

In 1688 he was constable of New Utrecht. His name appears as Jan van Deventer on the assessment roll of real and personal property of the inhabitants of New Utrecht in 1675 and following years, and also on the census rolls.

Doc. Hist. N. Y., O'Call., I, 102; II, 485; IV, 159; Bergen's Mss. Hist. N. U., p. 871.

On Jan. 5, 1675, at an auction sale of land in New Utrecht, John van Deventer purchased for 2050 guilders, a tract as follows: "The new land of Claes Smit, containing about 13 morgens, said land adjoining the house plots on the one side of Jan Tomasse van Dyck and on the other of Arie Willemse, with a choice piece of meadow in Canarsie known as No. 8."

Liber II of Conv., p. 132; Bergen's Mss. Hist. N. U., p. 757.

This was later known as "Lane Lots" and covered the territory now bounded by 18th and 22nd Avenues, 71st and 72nd Streets, in Brooklyn. The land was sold by his heirs (not by himself as stated by Bergen), Sept. 8, 1694, for 6000 guilders, to his son Pieter. (A guilder was about 50 cents.)

On May 10, 1677, a parcel of cultivated land and woodland at Yellow Hook, known as No. 5, in length 260 rods, in breadth as staked out by Mr. Cortelyou, the surveyor, bounded on the one side by land of Ariaen Willemse and on the other by that of Theunis Janse, was conveyed to "John" van Deventer by a deed of record written by Michael Haynelles, Secretary of the Dutch towns. The same was conveyed by Jan van Deventer Nov. 17, 1680, to Hendrick Matthyse van Pelt. (Parenthetical notation): "Bounded on the North by Bay Ridge Ave., on the South by 79th Street, on the East by 3rd Ave., and on the West by New York Bay."

Old Papers in Town Clk's Off., N. U.; Bergen's Mss. Hist. N. U., p. 824.

On May 14, 1683, Claes Claesen Smit conveyed to Jan van Deventer land in New Utrecht, "lying betwixt the land of Cryne Janse and that of Carell van Dyck," also a right in the common woodland and a lot in Canarsie.

Lib. II, p. 132, K. Co. Rec. Off.; Bergen's Note Book, p. 122; Bergen's Mss. Hist. N. U., p. 757; N. Y. Gen. & Biog. Soc. Rec., V, 54.

Jan van Deventer is one of the grantees in a patent given May 13, 1686, by Gov. Dongan, whereby additional lands were granted for the town of New Utrecht.

Bergen's Note Bk, Hist. N. U. (unpub.), p. 467.

In October, 1677, a Dutch church with a membership of 27 was established in New Utrecht, organized by Dominie Casparus van Zuuren, who left copious minutes of his services.

(Bergen's Mss. Hist. N. U., p. 588)

The minutes of the first meeting show that "Jan Pietersz van Deventer and Maria his wife" were participants in the organization of the church and were among the original members.

Other original entries show that their daughter Adriaentje became a member in Sept., 1677, and their son Peter in July, 1679. The father, the sons Jacobus and Cornelius and the daughter Adriaentje are shown to have been witnesses to baptisms from time to time. The mother, Maria, is mentioned in the records two or three times in connection with the organization of the church and in an early list of members, but her maiden name is not shown. Her name does not appear in the second list of members in 1685, nor is she otherwise mentioned after that date. The records show that Jan van Deventer was a deacon in the Reformed Dutch church of New Utrecht, 1679 to 1689.

The two hundredth anniversary of the organization of the New Utrecht Reformed church, at 18th Avenue, 83rd and 84th Streets, Brooklyn, N. Y., was celebrated Oct. 18, 1877; the two hundred and sixtieth anniversary on Nov. 21-22, 1937. On this anniversary, in 1937, an address was delivered by the Honorable Willis Van Deventer, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court.

The records of the church show that on Apr. 2, 1693, the son Pieter made a gift of fifty guilders to the church in memory of his deceased father, Jan Pietersz van Deventer, according to the custom of that time, and that he also paid six guilders for the use of the church pall.

In the New York Archives is a copy of an agreement of the heirs of Jan van Deventer, whereby his estate was settled and distributed, as follows:

ELDEST CHILD OF JAN PIETERSZ VAN DEVENTER

2. Pieter Jansen Van Deventer (Jan'), bp. 1653 in the village of Bunnik, Province of Utrecht, was the first child of Jan Pietersz and Maria (Hoogeboom) van Deventer. In accordance with a Dutch custom, he was given the name of his paternal grandfather, Pieter Hermans van Deventer, and the first name of his father, with "sen" added, signifying son of. He was the only son of his parents to be born in the Netherlands and was nine years of age when he came with them to America.

The original records of the Reformed Protestant Dutch church of the town of Flatbush, Kings Co., N. Y., entered in the Dutch language and translated by Frank L. Van Cleef, Ph.D. (translation in Long Island Hist. Soc. Rec.), show the marriage of Pieter Jansen Van Deventer, as follows:

No. 41, Pieter Jansen Van Deventer young man from the Bishopric of Uytrecht, residing on Marteman's Neck and Mayke Christiaense young dame from New Uytrecht, residing at Geele Hoeck (Yellow Hook, later New Utrecht), Married March 22, 1686.

Marriage Record, Vol. I, p. 27, No. 12, R. D. Ch., Flatbush, N. Y.; Early Settlers Kings Co., Bergen, p. 328; Year Book Holland Society, New York, 1898.

"Bishopric of Uytrecht" in above entry, refers to the Bishopric and Province of Utrecht in the Netherlands. The province was formerly included in the bishopric. "Marteman's Neck" designates Pieter's place of residence on Long Island. In many of the Dutch records the last name of the person mentioned does not appear. Mayke's full name was Mayke Christiane Van Doorn. She was the daughter of Christiaan Van Doorn and sister of Jacob Van Doorn. "Young dame" signifies unmarried woman.

In 1679 Pieter Jansen Van Deventer was a member and in 1697 a deacon of the Reformed Dutch church of New Utrecht. Oct. 20, 1697, as retiring deacon and treasurer, he accounted for 5418.11 guilders, approved by Lupardus.

Bergen's Note Book, on New Utrecht.

An old book on which Kings County census was based, gives "A List of all Freeholders, their wives, etc., in the towns of Kings Co.", 1698. In a list made by Jacques Cortelyou, surveyor for New Utrecht, Pieter Van Deventer is given as the head of a family of six persons, including wife Maria and four children, Christian, Abraham, Maria and Isaac.

Census of Kings County, pp. 87, 89; Doc. Hist. New York, III, 136.

About 1701 Pieter Jansen Van Deventer and his family went over into Monmouth Co., N. J. In 1701 he was "one of the inhabitants of East Jersey" who petitioned the King to take the government "immediately" into his own hands. This petition is set out in New Jersey Archives, First Series, Vol. II, p. 394, wherein the name is misprinted as "Landeventer."

Sept. 2, 1699, Pieter Van Deventer "of Nassau Island in the Colony of New York" bought land in Monmouth Co., N. J., from Robert Hamilton, and in the deed is described as of New Utrecht. May 15, 1705, John Hebron of Freehold sold land to Pieter Van Deventer "of Middletown in the County of Monmouth."

The Reformed Dutch church of Freehold and Middletown (now Marlboro), N. J., was organized Oct. 19, 1709, with Pieter Van Deventer as one of the elders and Jacob Van Doorn, a brother of Pieter's wife, as one of the deacons. Pieter's wife, Mayke, Cornelius Couwenhoven and his wife Margaret were members.

8. v. Jacob, bp. Oct. 20, 1709, R. D. Ch. Middletown, N. J. (orig. ch. record), d. Apr. 17, 1756, Somerset Co., N. J.

The following explanation has been given for the two baptisms of Abraham and Isaac, twin sons of Pieter and Mayke Van Deventer, shown by the above record: The entry of the baptism in the Flatbush church Sept. 5, 1697, was not recorded by the pastor in the usual book, but entered on a loose sheet along with other baptisms. There may have been a purpose to transcribe them in the regular book. Some years later the loose sheet, being Flatbush paper No. 6828, was found among the pastor's effects and filed in the office of Commissioner of Records of Kings Co. In the meantime Pieter and his family had moved to Monmouth Co., N. J. Probably it was thought that the absence of a permanent record should be corrected, and the twin sons were again baptised in the Reformed Dutch church on Manhattan Island, now known as the Collegiate church.

An extract from a letter of Mr. Walter M. Messerole, Secretary of the Holland Society, New York, to Mr. C. O. Vandeventer, dated 1931, follows:

In the introduction of the Flatbush church records published by this society in Year Book of 1898, it is said the original church records were supposed to have been lost and the matter published was a copy of manuscript prepared by Henry Onderdonk. Many years later the church officers evidently resurrected the supposed lost records and they have had a careful translation and transcription of them made by Mr. Van Cleef, Archivist of the Kings County Commissioner of Records. A copy of this report is now in use at the Long Island Historical Society . . . Mr. Van Cleef, from his knowledge of the county records, knew of a number of single sheets of baptismal records in the files of the County Clerk of Kings County, and appended them to the church record. It is on one of these sheets that the item you quote is found.

(The reference is to Flatbush paper No. 6828, p. 82, showing baptism of the twins Abraham and Isaac, Sept. 5, 1697.)

Dominie Wilhelmus Lupurdus was pastor of the Flatbush church 1695-1702.

Patience —; went with his parents about 1701 to Monmouth Co., N. J., where he purchased land from John Wall by deed dated April 28, 1719. (Deed gives name as Christopher, but is indexed Christian.)

J., near Whitehouse, where he was living 1732, 1742 and 1757, as shown by three bonds of these dates, wherein he described himself as of the county of Hunterdon; then to Bucks Co., Pa. An original lease given by Walter Rutherford to Isaac Van Deventer, dated May 3, 1764, witnessed by Peter Vandeventer, covering land "lying in the Province of Pennsylvania and being Lot No. 36 on the London Company's map," relates to land in Tinicum Twp., Bucks Co. between Delaware River and Tohicon Creek.

Isaac Van Deventer was appointed one of a jury to lay out a road from "London's Ferry, now Pursley's," and Shannon's Landing, through Nockamixon Twp., to the Durham road near John Wilson's tavern, now "The Harrow," at March term of Court of Quarter Sessions 1767. He signed the return to this commission May 28, 1767.

Bucks Co., Pa., rec.

In 1771 Isaac Van Deventer, with his wife and three sons, Isaac, Jacob and Abraham, went to Loudoun Co., Virginia, where his name appears on the tithe lists of that year. His sons Peter and Cornelius and daughter Margaret and her husband Nicholas Wyckoff, had preceded him to Loudoun Co., and their names appear on the tithe lists.

Some years ago, at the home of Washington Van Deventer (the old homestead), old papers of Isaac Van Deventer, Sr., were found, including an indemnifying bond of Jan. 17, 1742, given by Isaac Van Deventer "of the County of Hunterdon, Yeoman," to William Covenhoven, son and executor of Cornelius Covenhoven, at the settlement of his father's estate, and copy of will of Cornelius Covenhoven dated Nov. 22, 1735, pro. June 22, 1736, Perth Amboy, N. J., recorded Liber C. of Wills, p. 107. The indemnifying bond of 1742, to William Covenhoven, was given to secure the estate against two bonds given by Isaac Van Deventer to Barent Van Deventer (No. 215), of Flatbush, L. I., and endorsed by Cornelius Covenhoven. Also among these papers was the original lease of 1764, from Rutherford to Isaac Van Deventer, of 302 acres on the Delaware River, witnessed by Henry Stoll and Peter Vandeventer. Isaac Van Deventer's signature is on a worn fold of the paper, and almost obliterated.

Sara Couwenhoven, who married Isaac Vandeventer, is the ninth in the list of eleven daughters and two sons mentioned in the will of her father, Cornelius Couwenhoven. She is a descendant of the following Netherland families:

The children of Isaac Van Deventer were baptised on the following dates between 1731 and 1753, at different churches. The Raritan and Readington churches were but a few miles apart, and it may be that the home of Isaac Van Deventer was so located that there was little difference in distance to either of them, and the family attended wherever services were held.

54. Peter Van Devanter (Isaac<sup>3</sup>, Pieter Jansen<sup>2</sup>, Jan<sup>1</sup>), born in the Raritans, N. J., 1742, moved with his parents from New Jersey to Bucks Co., Pa., and Loudoun Co., Va., his name appearing on the tithe lists in Loudoun Co.; m. at Woodstock, Va., ca. 1782, Margaret Miller, daughter of Jacob and Barbara Miller, whose farm adjoined that of Peter's brother Cornelius, on Lost River, Hampshire Co., Va., 25 miles from Woodstock.

About 1769 he went from Va. to Huntingdon Co., Pa., and settled permanently on the Juniata River, nine miles east of the town of Huntingdon, and acquired a large homestead. He bought land in Cumberland (now Huntingdon) Co., Pa., in 1769 and began improving it that year. His homestead was opposite Mapleton and near the Vandevander Bridge, where the Pennsylvania Railroad crosses the river, and consisted of some 300 acres in three separate tracts, acquired by warrant and patent. He owned other lands adjoining, and a tract in Big Lick woods on Prigmore Run. He was assessed in Barre Twp., Cumberland Co., 1773, with 100 acres, 3 acres cleared. After 1773, his assessments were in Bedford Co., until 1787, when Huntingdon Co. was formed from Bedford.

A package of papers found in a law office in Huntingdon, Pa., contained the original assignment of a warrant under which he obtained title; bond of Mar. 2, 1769, given by him for the purchase price of the warrant, describing him as of "Tinicum Twp., Bucks Co., Pa., yeoman," signed Peter Vandevanter, witnessed by Martha Scott and Benjamin Drake; the patent based on the warrant, and other original papers, demonstrating that he was the original purchaser.

Peter Van Devanter was a maker of gunpowder during the Revolution, and served in the state militia. The powder mill is said to have been located on Prigmore Run, near Prigmore Fort.

He died on the old homestead in 1820, and his wife in 1826, bd. near Mapleton (no markers). His will, dated Mar. 24, 1814, pro. Sept. 2, 1821, (Bk. II, p. 312, Hunt. Co. rec.), mentions wife Margaret, devises "plantation on the bank of Juniata River," to son Abraham, and "tract of land lying in the Big Lick Woods," to son John, and mentions "my nine children now at home." Exec. wf. Margaret and son Abraham. She renounced, leaving Abraham exec., and letters testamentary were granted Sept. 2, 1821.

Peter and Margaret were members of the Presbyterian church.

He entered the law office of Joseph Lomax, of Valparaiso, as a student of law, and subsequently read under the direction of Judge Nathaniel Bacon, of Niles, Mich.; was admitted to the bar in 1850, settled in Marion, Ind., and became a partner of Andrew J. Harlan, who was later a member of Congress from this district.

He represented the counties of Grant, Delaware and Blackford, in the State Senate, from 1854 to 1858, being chairman of the Judiciary Committee. From 1855 until 1875, he and Hon. James F. McDowell were associated together under the firm name of Van Devanter and McDowell. He then formed a partnership with his son-in-law, Hon. John W. Lacey, and later his son, Willis, became a third member of this firm, which stood in the first rank in the legal profession in Marion. About 1884 he retired to live on his farm adjoining Marion.

While in the practice of his profession he was recognized as one of the ablest lawyers in northeastern Indiana. His practice was extensive and his reputation high. He was retained in the most important cases, and for a number of years was attorney for what is now the Pennsylvania Railroad. During the Civil war, he was provost marshal of this district. He was a gentleman of much culture and fine address, and was widely held in high esteem. (Am. Bar Assn. Rep. XXII, 678.)

He attended the public schools, but loved to get into the country, and each summer during vacation would go to his grandfather's farm. When only fourteen years old he was placed in charge of a farm, and at this early age demonstrated his ability to make a success of anything he undertook. He gave close attention to the farm, worked hard, and surprised his neighbors by producing better crops than they did. In the fall of 1875 he entered Indiana Asbury (now DePauw) University. There he applied himself to his studies in the same way that he had pursued his work on the farm. Not only was he a good student, but was interested in the various school activities, and was elected president of his class. His high marks are still preserved in the archives of the University, and some are unequalled in its history. (Alumni Mag.)

After completing the sophomore year, he transferred to the Law School of the Cincinnati University, where he graduated in 1881, second in his class (missing first place by one-tenth of one percent.) During his junior year he won the esteem of the faculty by his splendid work, and in his senior year was made librarian of the school, a position which brought him in close contact with the other students and gave him more than the usual knowledge of law text books and judicial decisions.

After graduating, he took up the practice of law in the office of his father, who was a lawyer of high reputation and wide experience, at Marion, Ind. Within a few months he was selected to fill a vacancy in the office of prosecuting attorney. He was without experience in the actual practice, but he made up for that by studying his cases carefully and making unusual preparation for presenting them. As a result, he became a successful prosecutor and seldom failed to get a conviction from juries and courts.

Removing to Cheyenne, Wyoming in 1884, he was successively city attorney, member of the territorial legislature and commissioner to revise the territorial statutes (1886). His practice was extensive and he soon established a reputation as an active and successful practitioner. He was associated with Hon. Charles N. Potter, later Chief Justice of Wyoming, 1887-89, and with Hon. John W. Lacey, 1891-97.

In 1889, when he was but thirty years old, President Harrierson appointed him Chief Justice of the territorial Supreme Court. Notwithstanding his youth, he justified his appointment by the manner in which he discharged the duties of the office, and in 1890, when Wyoming was admitted into the Union, he was elected to that office, thus becoming the first Chief Justice of the state. In a short time he resigned, returned to private practice and soon was engrossed in conducting important litigation. His services were widely sought and his practice extended throughout Wyoming and into adjoining states. At this time he successfully represented the vigilantes in cattle rustlers war.

At the solicitation of President McKinley, he reluctantly became Assistant Attorney General of the United States, in 1897, and was attached to the Department of the Interior until 1903. By tact and prodigious work, he brought clarity out of confusion. He was particularly successful in presenting government litigation arising out of this department, to the Supreme Court of the United States. His experience in this connection accounts for the splendid understanding which he has shown, of problems which later came before him on the Supreme Court bench.

He took an active interest in political affairs; was chairman of the Republican State Committee, 1892-94, delegate to the National Republican Convention and member of the Republican National Committee in 1896.

On Feb. 18, 1903, he was appointed by President Theodore Roosevelt, United States Circuit Judge for the Eighth Judicial Circuit, embracing Wyoming and twelve other states, and served until 1910. Once again industry and hard work had brought him a splendid reward. As a Circuit Judge he sat in many important cases, including the anti-trust cases against Northern Securities Co. and Standard Oil Co.

After nearly eight years of service on the circuit bench, Judge Van Deventer was appointed by President Taft as Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, in 1910. He entered upon his duties the following January and served with exceptional distinction as a member of this Court for more than a quarter of a century, retiring in 1937. He delivered many important opinions on a variety of questions arising in almost every field of law, including constitutional questions, cases relating to public lands, mining claims, water rights and other matters of special interest to the Western part of the country. These opinions are marked by directness, clarity of statement and strong reasoning, and exhibit wide research and superior legal training and experience. He has always been noted for his untiring industry, and in his judicial work his opinions have been regarded as unusually lucid and convincing.

In addition to the duties of a member of the Court, he was a member of its committee which revised its equity rules in 1912, and of its committee which revised its general rules in 1928; also a member of the commission in charge of the erection of the United States Supreme Court Building.

He enjoyed hunting and fishing. During the early days in Wyoming territory, in company with rugged men who liked such rigorous sport, he hunted elk, bear and mountain sheep in the mountains of Wyoming. In 1913 when on a visit to Georgian Bay, he purchased an 80 acre island at the mouth of Moon River, built a cottage and cultivated gardens. Here he came each summer when Court adjourned. He spent his days in the open, and thus retained good physical strength.

One of his interests was the genealogy of the family. He had delved into records both here and in Holland, and patiently worked it out in a way only his thoroughness could do, and he has done a brilliant job in tracing the Netherland background.

Honorary degrees of Doctor of Laws were conferred upon him as follows:

DePauw University, June 24, 1911.

University of Cincinnati, June 18, 1927.

Yale University, June 22, 1927.

University of Wyoming, June 25, 1933.

College of Charleston, S. C., May 14, 1935 (its 50th anniversary).

Fraternities: Beta Theta Pi, Sigma Chi, and honorary membership in Phi Beta Kappa, awarded on 50th anniversary of DePauw U. Chapter, 1939.

He became a Mason in Acacia Lodge No. 11, Cheyenne, Wyo., and received the 32nd Degree of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite, Feb. 7, 1897.

"New Age", Vol. LI, No. 1, Jan. 1943.

Sept. 4, 1934, Wiesbaden, Germany, daughter of Winslow Paige and Rachel Ann (Dorman), Burhans. ## MEMORIAL ADDRESSES

REMARKS OF MR. CHARLES E. HUGHES, JR.

When Mr. Justice Van Devanter retired from the Supreme Court of the United States in 1937, he had sat upon that Bench for upwards of twenty-six years, a long span even when measured in relation with the traditions of that Court. He took his seat January 3, 1911, when Mr. Justice White had only recently been appointed Chief Justice. He was then only fifty-one years of age. But he brought to the Court a rich background of learning, experience and wisdom. . . .

Upon the work of the Supreme Court Mr. Justice Van Devanter left an enduring mark. He was not a judge of whom the public generally could gain any very sharply defined impression. He was quiet and unassuming, and appeared seldom in public. He made very few speeches even before gatherings of lawyers, and those were of the conversational and unpretentious sort. He left practically no writings except his opinions. But his comprehensive learning, his industry, his passion for thoroughness and exactness and his power of clear analysis and forceful exposition marked him, among all those who really knew the work of the Court, as one of its most conspicuously valuable members. It is impossible within the limits of remarks such as these to attempt any survey of the opinions which he wrote during the twenty-six years of his service upon the Court. It is enough to say that they comprehended most of the fields within the Court's jurisdiction, and that, to whatever subject they related, they were characterized by a lucidity and assurance which comes only from complete mastery of principles and precedents. It is safe to say also that there were many opinions, not written by him which were profoundly influenced by his penetrating analyses in the conferences of the Court.

It was indeed in conference that his most distinguished contribution to the work of the Court was made. This quality ordinarily can not be known to the Bar, but may only be surmised. But, in the case of Mr. Justice Van Devanter, we have the authoritative testimony of two of the three Chief Justices with whom he served. Chief Justice Taft spoke of it in a letter to the President of Yale University in December, 1926, which has been published in Henry F. Pringle's book, "The Life and Times of William Howard Taft." In suggesting Mr. Justice Van Devanter for the honorary degree of LL.D., which Yale awarded him the following June, he said:

The value of a judge in conference, especially in such a court as ours, never becomes known except to the members of the court. Now I don't hesitate to say that Mr. Justice Van Devanter is far and away the most valuable man in our court in all these qualities. We have other learned and valuable members, with special knowledge in particular subjects, but Van Devanter has knowledge in every subject that comes before us.

Over eleven years later at the Annual Meeting of the American Law Institute in May, 1938, which was the first after Mr. Justice Van Devanter's retirement, Chief Justice Hughes, in the course of paying tribute to his judicial service said this:

In the discharge of its work the conference of the Court is of the greatest importance as there the Court discusses and decides the cases which have been heard and passes upon the applications for permission to be heard. It was in that conference that Justice Van Devanter's wide experience, his precise knowledge, his accurate memory, and his capacity for clear elucidation of precedent and principle, contributed in a remarkable degree to the disposition of the Court's business. . . . Few judges in our history have rivaled him in fitness by reason of learning, skill and temperament, for the judicial office.

The confidence which the Court reposed in Mr. Justice Van Devanter led to his selection on frequent occasions for undertakings outside its strictly judicial work. His outstanding service of this nature was in connection with the Jurisdictional Act of Feb. 13, 1925, the most important judiciary measure since the Circuit Court of Appeals Act of 1891. . . .

His labors and the spirit which animated them are for lawyers to admire and for judges to emulate.

REMARKS OF MR. WILLIAM D. MITCHELL

Perhaps the best contribution I can make on this occasion is to record some personal impressions of Mr. Justice Van Devanter gained by an acquaintance of nearly forty years.

I first knew him in 1903 in St. Paul when, newly appointed United States Circuit Judge for the Eighth Circuit, he was attending a term of court. . . .

The unusual physical strength with which nature endowed him had been seasoned and conditioned by outdoor western life, and this equipped him to satisfy his high sense of responsibility for the proper discharge of his judicial duties by working long hours.

Notwithstanding this serious absorption in his work, he was not without a sense of humor. His contacts with men and affairs had given him an understanding of human nature and great tact and sagacity in dealing with his fellow men. That, added to his obvious physical and mental powers, made him a dominant figure and a compelling influence in any company. The impressions of him gained at that time remained with me in all the after years.

It has been remarked that he did not write and hand down his opinions with rapidity, and it was his habit both as a Circuit Judge and as a Justice to keep under advisement for considerable periods cases assigned to him for opinion. Some have wondered if this was because his mental processes were slow. But that was not the cause. He had an unusually quick mind and wonderful capacity to go immediately to the heart of a case. I was once told by a member of the Court that it was an interesting experience to sit in the conference room and listen to Mr. Justice Van Devanter, when called on for his views, state the facts and the law and his conclusions clearly and unhaltingly and with masterly logic; and that if a shorthand reporter could have been present to record Justice Van Devanter's statements in conference, the transcript would have supplied a powerful and orderly opinion suitable for delivery with little alteration. Nevertheless, when cases were assigned to him, he labored long in the preparation of opinions. That was due to his deep sense of responsibility and to his anxiety to be thorough and accurate to the last degree. He could have tossed off opinions with the greatest readiness, but he would not. . . .

The indelible impressions left with those who knew him are, his possession of physical vigor and a powerful intellect, vast and accurate knowledge of many branches of the law, and particularly of those bearing on the operations of the Federal Government, and the functions of the Legislative, Executive and Judicial branches; an understanding of human nature, and a tact which were effective in his contacts with others; the force and the industry and perseverance to accomplish his objectives; and a high sense of responsibility for the proper performance of his judicial functions and of his duty to the Court and to the nation, which governed his course during his years upon the bench. . . .

REMARKS OF MR. JOHN W. DAVIS

I could wish nothing better for American lawyers and judges than that they should continue to honor Willis Van Devanter. I can not, nor can anyone else who knew him, speak of him save with words of admiration and affection. My personal acquaintance with him covered a span of nearly thirty years; and while in that period I heard many words of praise concerning him I do not recall any expression of criticism or censure, ill-feeling or reproach. So staunch was he and so courageous and so firm, and yet withal so kindly and sincere that no envious shaft ever flew in his direction. Had it done so we may be sure that the integrity with which the man was armored would have turned it aside.

The universal approval with which his appointment to the Supreme Court by President Taft in 1910 was received is eloquent of the position he had then attained. The expectations to which his reputation gave rise were amply vindicated by his years upon that Bench. He came to it with an experience and equipment quite unusual in variety and scope. . . . He brought with him to the Supreme Court forensic, legislative, administrative and judicial experience. He brought something else of no less value, in his wide acquaintance with men and things.

When one thinks of him in his character as a judge certain things seem to stand out. Of these, the first was his intense industry and devotion to duty. He gave himself without reserve and with entire concentration to any and every task that was set for him. This intensity of effort was reflected in his written opinions by their eminent directness and clarity. The function of a judge as he conceived it is to ascertain the facts, to apply to them the pertinent rules of law, and then to pronounce the result in terms that not only lawyers and litigants but laymen might easily understand. . . .

Recognizing in him the figure of a learned, just and upright judge, I gladly join in this tribute to his memory.

SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES

Present: The Chief Justice, Mr. Justice Roberts, Mr. Justice Black, Mr. Justice Reed, Mr. Justice Frankfurter, Mr. Justice Douglas, Mr. Justice Murphy, Mr. Justice Byrnes, and Mr. Justice Jackson.

Mr. Attorney General Biddle addressed the Court, as follows:
May It Please the Court:

Members of the Bar of this Court assembled this morning in respectful and affectionate tribute to the memory of Mr. Justice Van Devanter. A minute and resolution were adopted which I have the honor to present, with the request that they be embodied in the permanent records of the Court. The minute is as follows:

Willis Van Devanter was of the stuff of which pioneers are made. When he died his country lost a virile and devoted son.

The story of his eventful life is a record of faithful and distinguished public service. Nevertheless when the long chronicle has been read the man himself seems even more impressive than the things he did. The simple fact is that he stood forth a man among men.

He was a son of the Hoosier State. Born in Marion on April 17, 1859, his self-development began in the public schools. DePauw University claimed him as the most distinguished of its alumni. In the law school of Cincinnati University he prepared for admission to the bar. After a few years of practice in his home town, during which he served as Deputy County Prosecutor, he answered the call of the West and was among those who helped organize the Territory of Wyoming into Statehood. After having served under appointment by President Harrison as a Justice of the Supreme Court of the Territory, he became Chief Justice of the new State. President McKinley made him an Assistant to the Attorney General of the United States attached to the Department of the Interior. President Theodore Roosevelt commissioned him a Circuit Judge in the Eighth Circuit.

By President Taft he was appointed an Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States. He and Mr. Justice Lamar took their seats upon the Bench on January 3, 1911. From that day to the day of his retirement, June 2, 1937, he devoted himself assiduously to the work of the Court. He was a colleague whose understanding, courtesy, and generosity toward the other members of the Court have never been exceeded. His personal friendliness and cordiality and his desire to be helpful easily survived any disagreement in views. These qualities enabled him to hold the warm affection and respect of every colleague and contributed much to the esprit of the Court.

The course of his life before his elevation to the Supreme Bench fitted him in eminent degree for the work which as an Associate Justice he was called upon to do. His Wyoming experience had given him an intimate knowledge and sympathetic understanding of the people of the great western area.

As Assistant Attorney General, charged with the problems of the Interior Department, he had acquired an unrivaled knowledge of the public land law, of the law of waters as it existed in the western portion of the United States and of the law respecting the Indians as embodied in treaties, acts of Congress and administrative practice. It is not too much to say that, when he came upon the Supreme Court, he was one of the most expert persons in the United States in these fields. Throughout his service on the Court, his counsel and advice on these matters were invaluable to his brethren.

His experience as a lawyer and as a Judge of the Circuit Court of Appeals for the Eighth Circuit had made him familiar with federal practice and with the relation of the federal government to that of the States. His opinions written for the Supreme Court on questions of procedure and on the constitutional relationship between the States and the nation are amongst the most careful, accurate and important adjudications of the Court during his term of service. Each of his opinions was the product of hard work. It is even said that on each of them he spent prodigious labor. His mental processes were simple and direct and his literary style was wholesome and unaffected. Mr. Justice Van Devanter's knowledge in matters of procedure has been described as "perfectly extraordinary." When colleagues were inclined to regard some question of procedure as one of first impression he would go quietly to the shelves, take down a volume of the Reports and find among the memorandum opinions at the end of the volume a precedent exactly in point.

When some years ago the then Chief Justice and the other Justices were consulted in regard to general orders in bankruptcy, the Chief Justice expressed complete reliance upon Mr. Justice Van Devanter as the strongest man in the Court to deal with such problems.

In a controversy between the United States and Canada, Mr. Justice Van Deventer and Chief Justice Duff served as the Commissioners contemplated by the Convention between the two Governments. The unprejudiced, judicious, and tactful way in which the Commissioners discharged their delicate duty brought the controversy to a fair and generally satisfactory conclusion.

Mr. Justice Van Deventer was distinguished for two great judicial qualities. He had, in the first place, a remarkable sense of proportion and never pressed a principle to the extreme in disregard of considerations of policy and practicality. He did not lack the courage to stand, and stand firmly, by a principle which he deemed sound. On the other hand he recognized that reconciliation and adjustment are quite as important, in the light of the facts and the result, as is rigid adherence to principle. In the second place, he had a most orderly and analytical mind. The problems presented by a cause seemed, without effort on his part, to fall into their sequential relation. It resulted that his exposition of his views in conference was clear and orderly. It has been a matter of remark that, if a stenographer could have been present and had taken down some of his statements of cases, those statements might well have been made the opinions of the Court, so lucid, so orderly, and so comprehensive were they. His extreme conscientiousness and thoroughness in endeavoring to get to the bottom of every question of fact and law presented to him were distinguishing characteristics. He was wont to look carefully into minute details which might conceivably have a bearing upon the case before him and insisted on having it made clear to him what their effect might be. Many judges have assumed that they can ignore details of this sort; but those who practised before Judge Van Deventer recall that often he would pick an important point out of something that counsel had not considered worth dealing with.

If it be necessary to conform to the custom of classifying judges as Liberal or Conservative, Mr. Justice Van Deventer must be styled as a Conservative but this is said with a realization that there is more than one species within each genus. His was not the conservatism attributable to tradition or to worldly possessions. He acted in the living present and he preferred the simple life. Himself no stranger to frontier experiences, he had in him the spirit of the men who won the West and of those others who in an earlier day fought for the liberties which have been the glory of America. These he deemed priceless and when he conceived them to be in danger he was vigorous in their defence. He had boundless admiration for the pioneers of that era, when going was roughest. 'There were no drones in those days,' he once remarked; 'the country would not support them.'

Willis Van Deventer was at heart a sportsman and a lover of the great open spaces. In early days Buffalo Bill was often his companion on hunting trips and the future Justice was happy in the companionship of men inured to hardship and danger. He was, however, a farmer even before he was a hunter, for at fifteen he took charge of his grandfather's farm, did the plowing, and attended to all the work. When he retired from the Supreme Court it was life on a farm for which he longed and when he bought a farm in Maryland it was the realization of a long-deferred hope. On these fertile acres he spent most of his allotted time. During his public career he had been the recipient of many honors and the object of much eulogy, but it is said he prized as highly as any other tributes the testimony of a tenant on the place who said of the retired Justice that he was 'a helpful farmhand.' In his youth, before he headed westward, he had invited Dollie Burhans, of Ionia, Michigan, to live his life and share his fortunes. She accepted and they were married. Their life together was exceptionally happy. She bore him two sons who survive their father. Her death came in 1934 when she and her husband were traveling abroad. Death overtook the Justice on February 8, 1941.

His two surviving sons, a brother, and two devoted sisters were among those who stood with bowed heads when the Chaplain of the United States Senate read the solemn words of the Burial Service.

Such was the man in honor of whom this meeting is held. Many of those present date their friendship for him from the day when, as young practitioners in his court, he showed them kindly consideration and made them feel at home. Strong, straightforward, Godfearing and loyal, let it be recorded of him that he represented America at her best.

Resolved that the foregoing Minute be adopted, that a copy of it be transmitted to the family of Mr. Justice Van Devanter, and that the Attorney General of the United States be asked to present the Minute to the Court on behalf of the Bar with the request that it be inscribed upon the records of the Court.

For twenty-seven years Mr. Justice Van Devanter sat as a member of this Court, serving under three Chief Justices, in six Presidencies, during two depressions, and a major war. Prior to his appointment, he had rendered distinguished service as a judge of the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals as well as of State and territorial courts; as an Assistant Attorney General, guiding the Department of the Interior through the complex problems presented in the management of the public lands; as an active and successful attorney, conducting an exciting practice in a rugged land; and as a prominent participant in the development of Wyoming from Territory to State. Thus he brought to the service of this Court the fruits of wide experience, happily combined with a fine intellect, great learning, and ardent devotion to the judicial office. In his opinions, in conference, and in moulding the legislative framework of the Court's jurisdiction, he played an important part in the enduring work of the Court. . . .

It is the process of deliberation in considering cases that makes the Court an organic entity rather than the aggregate of nine individual votes. In this Justice Van Devanter rendered invaluable service. His courtesy, his penetrating logic, his enormous knowledge of precedent, and his capacity for oral presentation were here brought to bear at the crucial moment. These talents led Chief Justice Taft in 1926 to say that Justice Van Devanter "exercises more influence, a good deal, than any other member of the Court." His service in the conference is attested also by Chief Justice Hughes and, upon his retirement, led to the statement by his brother Justices that his "labors have entered into the very warp and woof of the Court."

The success in working with others which contributed to Justice Van Devanter's judicial career graced his entire life. His courtesy had an earnestness which was compelling. He had great capacity for friendship. He had the human warmth which knows no line of doctrine. In his personal relations, as in his judicial work, he sought an element of perfection. When he died the Chief Justice spoke for the Bar as well as for the Court in saying: "He was a man of sterling character and of rare sagacity, a wise counsellor, and a faithful friend."

As a state and federal official, as a judge and as a justice, he gave his life to the service of his country.

The Chief Justice said:

Mr. Attorney General: It is altogether fitting that the Bar and this Court, of which Justice Van Devanter was so long a member, should now express and here record their estimate of his character and his eminent services. During most of his active life Justice Van Devanter was a public servant, for whose services there could be no greater reward than recognition that they were well and faithfully performed. Such recognition by his professional brethren is the only reward he would have prized. . . .

Those whose privilege it was to sit with Justice Van Devanter in this Court know well that the public evidences of his judicial activities conceal rather more than they reveal what was his greatest service to the Court and to the public. It was a service inspired by his high conception of the function of a Justice of this Court, and of the part which the Court itself should play in our constitutional system. He was profoundly aware that the true source of the strength of the Court and the permanency of its influence is public confidence in the thoroughness, integrity, and disinterestedness with which it does its work. In his mind this signified, and rightly so, the need of unremitting study by every judge of every record and application which comes to the Court for disposition, and the free and frank exchange of views with associates as preliminaries to decision unaffected by extrinsic influences or nonjudicial considerations. . . .

Apart from cherished family ties and the association with friends and colleagues, the work of the Court was his chief interest in life. To that he gave of himself to the uttermost and without interruption until the very day of his retirement. He was a man of simple, unobtrusive religious faith; modesty and simplicity were the keynotes of his life. It was a life untouched by any interest in or desire for wealth. He had a large capacity for friendship. He instinctively sought to find in others the qualities which would merit his esteem. His relations with his colleagues were marked by his uniform courtesy and helpfulness and by their mutual regard. In his daily intercourse with them and in the discussion of every pending problem, his statements were direct, forthright, and crystal clear, because they were the true reflection of his thought.

The professional career of Charles Oscar Vandevanter centered about railway engineering, and in that field he attained pronounced distinction. He was transitman and engineer in charge of surveys and construction for the East Broad Top Ry.; in charge of surveys and construction for the Huntingdon Furnace R. R.; topographer on the Mexican National R. R.; principal assistant engineer on the Cripple Creek Extension of the Norfolk & Western R. R.; assistant

His engineering training led him to analyze these thoroughly and critically, with the result that he contributed much valuable data on the county history and became a recognized authority on genealogical and historical questions. The Congressional Library of the United States awarded him a certificate of appreciation for the preparation of historical data concerning colonial homes in Loudoun County.

His genealogical research included examination of old records in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, as well as Virginia and West Virginia. We are indebted to his thorough research for much of the early data used herein.

He was a man of the highest integrity, commanded the respect of all who knew him and maintained the highest traditions of his profession. He was a member and elder of the Presbyterian church; member of the American Society of Civil Engineers; past-president of the Engineers Club of Baltimore and a member of the Holland Society of New York.

The honor of making the first permanent settlement belongs to Cornelius Vandeventer who came here with his three sons, William, Peter S. and Elihu, in the spring of 1824, and placed in cultivation six acres of corn. He planted the first apple trees in Brown Co. . . . The first log cabin school was just west of the Vandeventer residence in Sec. 15. The first brick was burned by Cornelius and Dr. Saul Vandeventer. The town of Versailles was laid out by Henry Casteen, Cornelius Vandeventer, A. D. Ravenscroft and Isaac Vandeventer, in 1836. The second store was opened by Dr. Isaac and Jethro Vandeventer.

Cornelius was the first justice of the peace within the territory now comprised in Brown Co., and was familiarly known as the "Old Squire"; also first postmaster. The postoffice at his home was called "Vandeventer's". He was a Methodist and a Democrat. He lived on the place where he first settled until his death.

58. Abraham Vandeventer (Isaac<sup>3</sup>, Pieter Jansen<sup>2</sup>, Jan<sup>1</sup>), bp. Oct. 17, 1753, R. D. Ch., Readington, N. J. (Somerset Hist. Soc. Qr., V, 57), son of Isaac and Sarah (Couwenhoven) Vandeventer; went with his father's family to Loudoun Co., Va. The tithe lists there show him assessed with his father to 1773, then separately. After 1779 his name does not appear. He next appears in the new county of Sullivan, formed in 1779 by N. C. from Washington Co., Va. (later in Tenn.). Sullivan Co. Deed Rec., I, 329, shows warranty deed from Frederick Keller to Abraham Vandeventer, dated Mar. —, 1788, to 116 acres on the S. side of Holston River, "including the plantation where sd. Vandeventer now lives," being a part of a tract of 640 acres granted by the state of N. C. to Frederick Keller Nov. 28, 1787. This plantation is about ten miles S. E. of Bristol (Tenn.-Va.) and the same distance E. of Blountville; later owned by Jacob R. Crumley, who built the present residence about 1860, and occupied 1937, by Mrs. J. A. Riley. Here Abraham Vandeventer reared his large family and spent his remaining years. His death and that of his son Peter occurred only five days apart and before 1837, the date of a deed from heirs of Peter. Near the Vandeventer home, about a mile below Hickory Tree school and above Webb's store, is the old Crumley burying ground. Here an old stone, the inscription partly obliterated, bears the Vandeventer name.

The old records of Sullivan Co., with the exception of land records, have been destroyed.

These land records contain many references to Vandeventers, including mention of the will of Abraham. Heirs of Abraham Vandeventer are indicated by the following excerpts from these records:

XII, 226-1837—Warranty deed from Elizabeth Vandeventer, mother of Rebeckah, Abraham, Jacob, Isaac and Mary, heirs of Peter Vandeventer, decd., all of County of Lee, State of Va., conveying their part of tract of land of Abraham Vandeventer, decd., then to Peter Vandeventer, also decd.

XIV, 207-1843—Warranty deed from Peter, Archable, Catherine and Elizabeth Vandeventer, of Carter Co., Tenn. conveying part of plantation "whereon Abraham Vandeventer, decd., lived until his death."

XVI, 546-1847—Warranty deed of Thomas Vandeventer, of Hancock Co., Tenn., conveying land formerly owned by Abraham Vandeventer, decd., "agreeable to the last will and testament of the said Abraham Vandeventer, decd."

XVII, 28-1849—Deed from Robert and Margarette Clark and Rebecca Hughes of Washington Co., Va. and Christian and Catherine Elkins of Sullivan Co., Tenn. as testamentary heirs of Abraham Vandeventer, conveying their interest in land that Abraham Vandeventer bequeathed to heirs of his daughter Mary, decd., "being land on which Abraham Vandeventer lived and died, now the property of Catherine Vandeventer."

XVII, 29-1851—Caleb, William, Jesse, Jonathan and Abagil Morrell, of Sullivan Co., Tenn., convey "land on which Abraham Vandeventer lived and died said land now the property of Catherine Vandeventer, being the land that Abraham Vandeventer did will and bequeath to William Morrell and Susannah Morrell, now deceased."

XVII, 200—Power of attorney dated Sept. 29, 1852, from John Vandeventer of McLean Co., Ill., appointing Adam McInturff, of Carter Co., Tenn. attorney to convey title to estate of Abraham Vandeventer.

XXIV, 87-1870—Warranty deed from John T. Vandeventer of Washington Co., Tenn., as one of the heirs of Peter Vandeventer, son of Abraham Vandeventer, conveying tract in Third District in Sullivan Co., Tenn., being interest in tract owned by Jacob R. Crumley, purchased by him from J. W. Jones and D. W. Crumley, and by them from J. W. Vandeventer.

XVII, 212-1870—Warranty deed from Mary Adeline Vandeventer, Sarah Ann, George W., Thomas R., Robert E. and James N. Barr, conveying land in Sullivan Co. east of Sinking Cr., S. side Paperville road.

Of all names mentioned in the above records, only two are specifically named as children of Abraham Vandeventer; his son Peter and his daughter Mary. Thomas and John are known to be his sons. Heirs of his son Peter are named. The Hughes, Elkins and Clarks named appear to be heirs of his daughter Mary. Susannah Morrell may have been his daughter; but this record gives no clue as to who William and Susannah Morrell were.

According to Portrait and Biographical Album Piatt and DeWitt Cos., Ill., p. 194, Abraham Vandeventer served in the Revolutionary war. In a sketch of William J. Rutledge, whose wife, Mary Vandeventer, was a granddaughter of Abraham, it is said: "Mary Rutledge's grandfathers on both sides of the family were in the Revolutionary war."

No record of Abraham Vandeventer's service has been found, but it is evident that his family knew of such service and had supplied the information used by the above authority.

Abraham Vandeventer married (ca. 1773) in Loudoun Co., Va., Mary Jones, an English lady. (From letter of Mary Rutledge, Oct. 6, 1881, to David H. Vandeventer). A record of the marriage has not been found, as such records in this county do not begin until 1793. He may have married a second time, as one of his descendants, Mrs. Lizzie M. Love, remembered his wife's name as Abigail.

Buckles Grove was named for him.

On the journey from Tenn. they went first to Clinch River, fifty or sixty miles distant, and then took a keel-boat, came down the Tennessee, into which the Clinch River flows, and over Muscle Shoals. It was the custom to employ Indians as pilots over these shoals, but Mr. Buckles, who was an old boatman, acted as his own pilot. He came up the Ohio River and the Wabash to what is now White Co.

Thomas Vandeventer m. (1) ca. 1800, in Sullivan Co., Abigail Walling [sup.], dau. of Stephen Walling; m. (2) Nancy Elkins (d. Dec. 28, 1858). In 1822, he and his wife Nancy and son James became members of Thompson Settlement Baptist church, across the state line in Va., and in 1829 he was a charter member of the Baptist church at Mulberry Gap, which he helped to organize. He took an active part in the work of the church and served as deacon until his death, March 17, 1855. (Church record.) He and his wife Nancy are bd. in the chyd. adjoining this church. His will is dated Mar. 6, 1855.

A grandson of Thomas Vandeventer said of him:

I love to recall incidents that occurred when I was a lad visiting the quiet and happy old home. There was a charm about grandfather's manner that subdued the rompings of a thoughtless boy. A voice as soft and gentle as a mother's and a face beaming with the light of a pure soul, made him always an object of love and veneration.

James was born in Sullivan Co., and reared in Claiborne Co., Tenn. In 1824, he bought a farm of 100 acres, across the state line in Lee Co., Va., where he remained until 1830, when he removed to Ill. From Hist. DeWitt Co., Ill., p. 308 (1882):

James Vandeventer, another early settler, was a native of Tenn., but soon removed to Va., and from thence to Ill. in 1830, and first located north of Mt. Pulaski. In 1836, he came to DeWitt Co. . . . He was the first justice of the peace here, and he represented the twp. as a member of the Board of Supervisors elected in 1847.

He m. (1) 1820, Mary Ellen Hopkins, b. Mar. 29, 1803; d. 1866, in Denver, Colo. (bd. Riverside Cem.). She was a daughter of Jabez, son of Stephen Hopkins; or daughter of Stephen, son of Jabez Hopkins. Her exact descent is not yet determined, but the former seems probable, as she named a son "Jabez". She was of a Hopkins family of Claiborne Co., Tenn. Some of this family were later in Appanoose Co., Iowa.

About 1855, James Vandeventer and his wife started west from LeRoy, Ill. and located at Chariton, Ia., where they lived six years. In 1861 they crossed the plains in covered wagons to Colorado, accompanied by some of their younger children, and lived at what is now Denver until 1866. James m. (2) Mrs. Lea, and lived at Columbus, Kansas, where he died 1882, and is buried at Columbus.

138. Thomas Vandeventer (James<sup>6</sup>, Thomas<sup>5</sup>, Abraham<sup>4</sup>, Isaac<sup>3</sup>, Pieter Jansen<sup>2</sup>, Jan<sup>1</sup>), was born on a farm in Claiborne Co., Tenn. When four years of age he removed with his family into Lee Co., Va., where they lived until the fall of 1830, when they went to Sangamon Co., Ill., traveling 29 days by wagon. Here the father located upon a government claim, but the land proved to be swampy and he determined to return to Tenn. South of the present site of LeRoy they met relatives, decided to locate here, and bought a farm in Empire Twp.; sold in 1837, and moved to a farm in Macon (now DeWitt) Co. In the organization of DeWitt Co., in 1847, Thomas and his father took an active part. He lived on his 240 acre farm in this county until 1888, when he moved to LeRoy.

Jan. 21, 1861, of record in Jonesville, Va. (Will Bk. II, p. 405), names wife and all children; exec. Larkin Vandeventer. He and his wife are bd. in Clark Cem.

William Vandeventer's son, Col. A. S. Vandeventer, said of him: "My father was always posted on the current events of the times. I can recall nothing in his life and conduct that measured by the rules of moral rectitude was found wanting."

Martha Clark was dau. of Robert (Robin) Clark (b. Feb. 10, 1770, d. Dec. 1858), and his wife Judith, b. Aug. 4, 1768, d. Oct. 1857 (Clark Cem.). Four of the children in this Clark family married into the same Vandeventer family. Robert Clark was the son of Francis Spotswood and Nancy Clark. The will of Francis Spotswood Clark, dated Apr. 12, 1810, names wife Nancy; children: Robert, Nancy, Susannah, Polly, Sarah, Patcy (Martha), John, Lucinda, Usley (Ursula) and Jubelina; son Robert, exec.; wit.: Charles Noe, John McKeon and Holman Iver. (Will Bk. I, p. 37, Jonesville, Va.)

The family names of Francis and Ursula indicate that Francis Spotswood Clark may descend from the Clark family of Albemarle, Louisa and Hanover Counties in Va., who came by way of the Barbadoes and are ancestors of "Mark Twain."

Report of battle of Chancellorsville, May 2, 3, 1863.

No. 405.

Report of Colonel A. S. Vandeventer, Fiftieth Virginia Infantry, Headquarters Jones' Brigade.

May 13, 1863.

Sir:

In submitting this report, I have to regret that the gallant commanders who preceded me were not spared to give more fully a detailed report of many interesting facts that I am compelled to omit. It was not until the gallant Col. (Thomas S.) Garnett fell that I was ordered to take command of the brigade.

During the Saturday fight the brigade was commanded by General Jones, and as I have not had an opportunity to confer with him, I cannot give a correct statement of the occurrences of that day. The brigade was formed on the left of the Plank road, to support the left of General Rodes' Division, who occupied the advance. Orders to advance were received about 4 p. m., and, after making our way through a dense wilderness we came in contact with the enemy. The brigade having marched by the left flank until it was unmasked by General Rodes' Division, now occupied the advance. As we emerged from the woods into an open field, the enemy opened upon us with a heavy fire of musketry and artillery about 400 yards from our lines, being protected from our fire by earthworks which could only be carried by desperate valor. Orders were given to charge, which were responded to with a will by both officers and men. The enemy's works were carried with the first attempt, under a heavy fire of musketry and artillery. The result of this brilliant triumph seemed to inspire the troops with fresh hopes of victory. At this point the enemy's loss was heavy. A number of prisoners and two pieces of artillery fell into our hands.

During the engagement, the troops on our right had failed to dislodge the enemy in their front. Here the right wing of the brigade poured in a heavy fire upon the enemy's flank upon the right of the Plank road, which soon drove them in confusion to the woods. Our whole line again advanced in pursuit of the enemy, frequently coming in contact with him, but at each successive engagement he was routed with heavy loss. We continued to drive the enemy before us until within — of Chancellorsville, when dark prevented further operations. The brigade was then withdrawn from the front to reform and take position upon the right of the Plank road. During the time the brigade was getting in position, the enemy kept up a heavy fire from his batteries on the Chancellorsville hills, which caused some confusion, as the shells occasionally raked our lines, killing and wounding several men.

After getting in position, we were exposed at intervals during the night to heavy fire of artillery, but we held our position until about dawn Sunday morning, when we were ordered to the front to support the troops who were engaging the enemy on the Chancellorsville hills. We advanced, when about 400 yards of the enemy, on the right of the Plank road. Here we were halted, and, after engaging the enemy a short time until the troops on our right and left had given back, we were compelled to retire. The enemy's position gave him greatly the advantage, having possession of the Chancellorsville heights and being strongly fortified.

Our loss in the engagement was very heavy; many brave officers and men were killed and wounded. It was here that the gallant Col. Garnett, while commanding the brigade, fell, mortally wounded. I was then ordered to take command of the brigade, being the senior officer.

Our lines had then fallen back some few hundred yards, and after being formed were again ordered to the front, and, after engaging the enemy at long range for a short time, orders were received to charge. Here the gallant conduct of officers and men of this brigade deserve the attention of the commanding general. The strong position of the enemy on the Chancellorsville hills was carried, but having no support on our left we were soon flanked by a heavy force of the enemy, and were thus forced to give up the works. The brigade sustained a heavy loss in these engagements. Our line fell back about 300 yards and was again ordered to advance. This was the third time the brigade had been called upon to assist in driving the enemy from his strong position. The third attempt was a desperate struggle, but the works were again carried and held, and the enemy driven from Chancellorsville. The brigade having participated in these several severe engagements and having sustained a heavy loss in both officers and men, was then ordered to the rear, having been without rations for two days.

No other engagement was brought on during the day except late on Sunday evening the brigade was ordered to Chancellorsville, and was there turned immediately to the left, and formed in line of battle on the left of Plank road, and ordered to advance. After advancing a short distance, the brigade was halted, and remained under heavy fire of shot and shell from the enemy's batteries until nearly night, when we were ordered to the right a short distance, where we were partially protected by the enemy's works that we had taken. Thus ended the bloody fight of Sunday. . . .

Jacob Van Deventer, m. in Tenn., Rachel Hughes, dau. Thomas Hughes and Martha Dinsmore.

Letter from their dau. Mary to David Hughes Vandeventer, her nephew:

My dear Nephew:

Oct. 6, 1881.

I will answer your letter in regard to our foreparents.

My gr. father Vandeventer's name was Abraham—was Dutch—his birthplace I do not know; talked Dutch until he was ten years old then living in Jersey; so after awhile he got to Sullivan Co., E. Tenn., married my gr. mother, Mary Jones, an English lady.

Gr. father Hughes came from Wales, a single man, married Martha Dinsmore, my gr. mother; she came from Ireland at 12 yrs. old, was on the water six months, so I have heard my mother say—married near Abingdon.

Abraham Vandeventer and Thomas Hughes, my grandparents, lived and raised their children in two miles of each other in Sullivan Co., where my father and mother were married, stayed 3 or 4 years, came down into Claibron (Claiborne) Co., E. Tenn., bought land, settled, and there your father was born, within one hundred yards of Mulberry Creek, where we still lived until the fall of 1830, he sold and came to this country. My father's name, Jacob, mother's name, Rachel. . .

Give my love to Andrew and his wife and little ones.

Your Aunt, Mary Rutledge.

Tenn. Militia, from Nov. 3, 1814 to May 18, 1815, as shown by War Claim No. 13431, Office Vet.-Adm., War Dept. Records, Washington, D. C. He was also a volunteer in Sangamon Co., Ill., serving from July 22 to Aug. 27, 1827, as a private in Captain Constant's Co., Col. Thomas M. Neal's Regt. of Mounted Riflemen, in the "Fevre River Expedition," ordered by the governor.

With others of the family, he went from Tenn. to Ill., where he resided in McLean Co., near LeRoy, and also in Logan Co. It was his distinction to be successfully defended by Abraham Lincoln, as his attorney, in the case of People vs. John Vandeventer, No. 31, tried in the court of McLean Co., before Judge David Davis (later a Justice of the Supreme Court). Court records in the case are not complete. An entry of Apr. 15, 1850, shows a continuance to the next term of court, to be held at the Court House in Bloomington the following October. No further entry appearing, it is assumed the case was dismissed. However, some original papers, in the handwriting of Abraham Lincoln, came into the possession of Mr. Justice Willis Van Devanter, and were given by him to the granddaughter of John Vandeventer, Mrs. John R. Golden.

In 1855, John Vandeventer and his family, with other families, started overland to California, in quest of gold; traveled over the Santa Fe Trail to Westport (now Kansas City), Mo. There they were detained by the serious illness of their daughter, and, on Oct. 27, 1855, he purchased from John Purdom a residence on the Santa Fe Trail (S. E. corner of Belleview Ave. and Westport Rd.). John Vandeventer died May 3, 1856. His family continued to live in Westport, except for a short while on a farm near Lecompton, Kansas. During the Civil war they experienced the terrors of the "Border Warfare" and Quantrill's raids.

In 1878, while residing in Chautauqua Co., Kansas, with her daughter Sarah, Mary (Downing) Vandeventer was allowed a pension as widow of John Vandeventer. (War Claim 13431, Veterans Adm., Washington, D. C.) She was the daughter of John and Hannah (Frakes) Downing. Her paternal grandparents were James and Nancy (Gardner) Downing. The Downings came from England to Maryland. Her maternal grandparents were Robert and Mary (Dawson) Frakes, of Penn.

Peter Vandeventer obtained a warrant dated Nov. 3, 1783, for 70 acres of land in Pendleton Co., Va., "between the South branch and the South fork." (Bk. 30, p. 246, Land Off., Richmond, Va.). ## IN U. S. NAVY.

Vandeventer, Richard, Rank, Landsman, Enl. July 28, 1862, Dis. June 2, 1865, New Ironsides, Commodore Barney, Princeton, Minn.
VanDeventer, Richard, Enl. Sept. 30, 1871, New York City.
Vandeventer, Larkin, Rank C. H., Enl. N. Carolina, Naval Service, Niagara.

NOTE: It is not claimed that the foregoing list includes all persons having the surname of Van Deventer, under its varied spelling, although a sincere endeavor has been made to ascertain and report them all. Nor do the references given include all those searched for information. Many hours have been spent in diligent search without result. All that has been attempted has been to give the name of the soldier, his rank, organization to which he belonged and the state from which he enlisted or was commissioned.

The list may include a number of persons who are not descendants of Jan Pietersz van Deventer. If all of his descendants who have served, or may now be serving in the armed forces of the United States are included in the list, it will be a source of gratification to that one of them who prepared the list, and doubtless serve as an inspiration to his descendants in the present and future wars.

Acknowledgment is made of the courteous assistance given by the officers and employees of the Adjutant General's office and of National Archives, whose kindly interest, patience and services did much to expedite and facilitate the work of compiling the lists.

Owing to lack of indexes of personnel appearing upon the muster rolls of ships belonging to the Navy in the early history of the United States, and the storage of old records for the duration of the present war, it was found impracticable to search those records to ascertain data respecting VanDeventers who may have served in the Navy.
