INTRODUCTION

All family records relating to Samuel Weyburn, Sr., were destroyed before 1850, and no authentic account of his early life or family history has been transmitted to his descendants. The oldest of our family living in 1880 often stated that family tradition located Samuel Weyburn in Seneca County, New York, in 1794, and that he came from Juniata County, Pennsylvania.

When the compiler of this genealogy first began his researches, he was unable to find any trace of the family in Juniata County, but subsequent research located it in Derry Township, Cumberland County, Pennsylvania, in the year 1778. The discrepancy in family tradition is accounted for by the fact that Cumberland County was erected from Lancaster County in 1750, and included the region now known as Juniata County, which was set off in 1831. It was quite natural, therefore, that the later generations should refer to the locality as Juniata County.

The writer regrets that so many of the earlier records of Pennsylvania were lost or destroyed, and that he is unable to give a positive history of Samuel Weyburn earlier than 1778. It is fortunate, however, that the data contained in the Pennsylvania Archives reveal enough upon which he may begin, at least, to build a pedigree which will aid in further investigation. After years of labor and at great expense, he has succeeded beyond his expectation, and he feels amply repaid by the interesting and profitable historical and genealogical material which he has acquired. He feels confident that it will meet with the approval of every member of the family in America, and that it will fill an important place among those records which prove of value in genealogical research.

No attempt is made here to give the English records since 1638, the year Thomas Wyborn of Boston came from Kent County, England, and settled in Massachusetts, although he has very copious notes bearing upon the period from that date to the present time. These with many memorial tablets, wills, etc., are reserved for a future volume containing additional American data. We believe that the present volume is as complete as it has been possible to make it at the present time, and that it will be a stimulus for a more extended research by those interested in perfecting the family tree.

The various spellings of the name which are found in the English notes are, no doubt, due to the influence of the locality in which the different branches settled. The name in America has invariably been spelled Weyburn, Wiborn, or Wyborn, although we find some erroneous spellings as Wayburn, Weaburn, Weburn, and Wilborn, which come from careless transcription of the name.

Grateful acknowledgment is made for assistance rendered by Mr. Eugene F. McPike of Chicago; Rev. Anson Titus of West Somerville, Mass.; Rev. H. E. Hayden of Wilkes-Barre, Pa.; Lyon Weyburn, Esq., of Boston; Dr. H. D. Weyburn of Geneva, N. Y., and Mrs. G. W. Schumann of Geneva, N. Y.

He would especially acknowledge the valuable assistance he has received from Mr. John M. Wyborn, of Bromley, Kent, England, a lineal descendant of William Wyborn of Shoulden and Northbourne (born 1637). Without such help the English portion of the work would have been either far less complete or its publication delayed to a much later date.

Special acknowledgment is also due Hon. Mrs. Bellew, Kenward, Yalding, Kent, for a copy of the Manor House at Hawkwell, Kent, England, which she so kindly contributed.

The writer would also take occasion to thank all who have in any manner aided him in this undertaking; with the regret, however, that some branches of the family have failed utterly to furnish information sufficiently full to make the work as complete as possible.

AMERICAN SECTION

FIRST GENERATION

I THOMAS WYBORN of Boston and Scituate, Massachusetts, was undoubtedly the son of Richard Wyborn of Wrotham, Kent, England, who was born —; m. Jan. 21, 1564; buried in 1584; son of Richard, Sr., of Wrotham; son of Richard of Shoreham; son of Thomas (the elder) of Shoreham who left a will dated 1532.

This line was known as the "East Kent" branch of the family. Thomas was the seventh and youngest child and was bap. June 5, 1580; noted in the Cant. M. L. as "Sadler;" m. Emma Millow, v. 20, of New Romney, at Addington, Nov. 27, 1605. His brothers and sisters were: Richard, bap. 1564; Elizabeth, bap. 1565; John, bap. 1568; Jane, bap. July 7, 1571; Anne, bap. Jan. 24, 1574; William, bap. Mar. 6, 1575 (?).

It will be noted in the will of Peter Branch, which will be given later, that Thomas Wyborn is mentioned as "Sadler, late of Tenderden, Kent," but we find no records of his residence there so conclude that he could not have lived there long before emigrating to America. In 1635 quite a body of people from Tenderden joined Rev. Mr. Lothrop's first colony to Massachusetts and it is supposed that Thomas Wyborn was among the number to follow in 1638. In the Boston records his wife is given as Elizabeth and the birth of his eldest son, Thomas, as of 1638; we therefore believe that he lost his first wife before settling in Tenderden and married Elizabeth there. Thomas Wyborn died Aug. 2, 1656, which would make him 76 years old at his death, while Elizabeth, his wife, married again and was living in 1686 indicating that she was several years younger than he. The will of Peter Branch referred to above is as follows:

"The last will and testament of Peter Branch, late of Holden in Kent in owld England, carpenter, being sicke in bodye but of good and perfect sense, and memorye, committe vnto Thomas Wiborn late of Tenderden in Kent, my sonne John Branch to provide for and oversee him for eleven years from henceforth dated the 16th daye of June 1638, and my whole estate to be kept by sd Thomas Wiborne, who shall pay all my debts out of sd estate. If my sd sonne dye before ye end of the sd time then the saide Wiborne shall give to Widowe Ingleden, the late wife of Stephen Ingleden or to his children or to her children she had by him, five pounds, Item,—I give Thomas Wiborne for the keeping of my sonne eight pounds. If my sonne John dye before eleven years what remaynes in ye hands of saide Thomas Wiborne to go to the poor of those three congregations of Concord, of Scituate or to the congregations with a Company that goes in the shippe called the Castle, if there be a company of them, if not then to be divided (among) the aforesaid two congregations. My sonne John sole executor and Thomas Wiborne my feafeere to whom I committ the over sight of my will." [No date or place.] N. E. H. & G. R. p. 183 vol. 2.

Savage says: (vol. 1, p. 237) Peter Branch, who would have been of Concord or Scituate, a carpenter, from Holden, near Tenderden in Kent, died on board of the ship Castle, very soon after arrival.

It appears that Thomas Wiborne after stopping a short time at Plymouth settled at Scituate, Mass., where he lived for some time and must have had some interest there, for after his death in Boston in 1656, the family removed to Scituate. We find that Thomas was a owner of property in Boston in 1648, when he bought a house and lot of John Lake, known as 1. High St. 14 Apr. 1648. Book of Poss. Pt. II C. D. No. 46. This lot was described in a deed from John Marshall to John Marion in 1650 as follows: "Joyning vnto Goodman Wybornes, Sadler, on one side, and Goodman Woodward, Senior, on the other." The following copy of Power Of Attorney shows that Thomas Wyborne was still in Scituate in 1647, and that he must have moved to Boston about the time of purchase of the above property in 1648.

In 1647 Robert Walker of Boston did "constitute Thos. Wiborne of Scituate, his lawful attr. to aske, receive, etc. a debt of six pounds, six shillings, also to acquit, to sue implead, arrest, etc. and generally to do all things, necessary touching the pemises. Ratifying whatsoever shall be by him done about the pemises." (Aspinwall Noty. record No. 7. p. 121 1627.)

The following items have been gathered concerning him:

In 1643 he was among list of those able to bear arms in the Colony of Plymouth, at Scituate. (N. E. H & G: vol. 4 p. 257.)

In 1648 bought house of John Lake, located on High St. Boston.

In 1653 he was a commissioner of High Ways in Boston. (No. 114, Comsr. Report Doc. No. 46.)

In 1654 he was elected Constable in Boston. (No. 118, Doc. 46. Comr. Report—Town Records 1653-4.) He appears as creditor of one Thomas Blanchard (N. E. H. & G. Reg. Vol. 17. p. 157.)

In 1654 he loans 15 £—9/s on mtg. to John Wytherden, on one fourth part of Windmill. Standing on Boston Commons near Fox Hill—(No. 117-50 Libr. 2, Suffolk Co. Deeds.) (Copy of Mortgage) "on Windmill for 24 £ to Thomas Wyborn, Sadler—,8 £—11/s paid down before signing, and 15 £ 9/s secured by obligation—¼ part of ye Windmill now standing and being upon ye commons at Boston New England aforesd neere vnto Fox Hill,—to be paid one year after date in goode merchandable wheate or in goode english comodities at price current in a good shopp in Boston."

(Signed) John Wytherden.

Acknowledged before R. Bellington Groner, 17th-12-1654. Ent. & Rec. Feb. 26, 1654.

By this and former instruments we find the occupation of Thomas Wyborne to be that of a "Sadler."

In 1654 he appears at a town meeting (with others) and binds himself to pay a school tax of 6 P. per acre per an. on land in Spectacle Island,—showing he owned some land on that Island.

His will:

"I Thomas Wyborne vpon my bed of weakness, though through favor enjoying my witt, senses and memory, doe apoynt my two eldest sons, viz:—Thoma's and James Wyborne to be my executorrs. Then I doe will yt all my debts shall be justly paid. I doe freely giue vnto my wife Elizabeth Wyborne, the one halfe of ye windmill in Boston, as also yt my sd. executorrs shall pay vnto my said wife forty shillings ye year. vntill shee marry. I give vnto sun Jno. Wyborne forty pounds to bee paid at ye age of twenty one years, vnto my daughter Elizabeth Merrit, twenty pounds. Vnto my daughter's child Deborah Merrit five pounds, vnto my daughter Mary Wyborne twenty pounds, to bee paid at ye age of sixteen years & also yt shee live not at ye finding of my executorrs, then I giue her forty shillings a yeare, vntill ye age of sixteene; to my wife Elizabeth ye use of one fether bed & furniture for it, & all other household necessarys while she remain a widdow.—Louving friends Edward Ting, & Jno. Hull of Boston to bee ye overseers of this, my will these them my testament. I hear acknowledge by my hand this 30th of Sepr. 1655. (moreover I will that my best fether bed, and grate bible shall peculerly bee for my eldest son. Attestants. Edward Eddenden Jno. Marion, John Hull. Will proved 28th October 1656, John Hull & Edward Eddenden deposed [inventory taken by Edward Eddenden, Nathaniel Bishope 14. s. 165 d. amount £ 386. 1. s.—'desperate' included. Thomas Weiborne and James Weiborne deposed—28th Oct. 1656."

Elizabeth, wife of Thomas Wyborn, was married the second time in 1667 to Henry Felch whose first wife, Margaret, died June 23, 1655. Henry and Margaret Felch had four children, viz.: Henry, Isabella, Hannah and Mary. Mr. Felch in the "Felch Genealogy" suggests that Mary married John, son of Thomas Wyborn.

The children of Thomas and Elizabeth Wyborn were:

- *2 i Thomas, b. 1638; exec. of his father's will.
- 3 ii James, b. about 1640; exec. with Thomas by will but d. Mar. 7, 1658-9.
- *4 iii John, b. 1664; d. before 1720.
- 5 iv Elizabeth, b. —; m. Mar. 2, 1655 to John Merritt by Capt. Atherton, of Cambridge. They had one da. by name of Deborah, mentioned in the will of Thomas Weyburn; f. r. l.
- 6 v Mary, mentioned in her father's will as under sixteen.
- 7 vi Jonathan, b. Oct. 10, 1653; d. Dec. 10, 1653.
- 8 vii Nathaniel, b. Mar. 2, 1654-5; d. Oct. 2, 1656.

"It is ordered and agreed that noe person or persons whatsoever shall or may after the 30th of April next ensuinge suffer any swine of theires to goo in the streets, lanes, or common ground, in this towne, within the necke of land, but to keep them in their owne ground upon penalties of perfectinge ye soil soe found, one third of the value to be for him that takes the same up, the other two thirds so proved to be judged and distributed by the selectman."

Soon after his father's death and before 1660 removed to Scituate, for we find him made freeman at Scituate in 1660, (Dean p. 383). Also in that same year, May 9, 1660, as a resident of Scituate he witnessed (Suffolk Co. Deeds) a deed of Nathaniel and Margaret Woodward (old neighbors in Boston).

In 1670 testified re will Richard Craze—giving age 32. (N. E. H. Reg. Vol. 43, p. 460.)

In 1676 he served under Lieut. Nath. Reynolds from Apr. 24 to June 24, at the Garrison of Chelmsford, called for the protection to the inhabitants, by petition to Court, during King Philip's War. (Dodge, Soldiers of King Philip's War, p. 234.)

In 1680 he was in Boston, where he entered a protest against the unlawful chartering of a barque for the West Indies voyage, by Samuel Clap, Thos. King and Theophilus Wetherill of Scituate, in which barque he was a partner. (Colonial records). We do not know whether he ever made trips to the West Indies, but he was interested in the trade there and his son later was called mariner.

In 1681 in list No. 7 div. Capt. John Wallyes company for taxes. (Com. Report C. D. No. 75 Boston.)

In 1687 he was taxed 3 s. 8 p. 2 heads, 4 houses, Mills and Wharfs.

In 1688 he was taxed 1 head at 20 cents per head.

In 1697 he was a witness June 23, to a deed by "Little Tom" (Indian) in Barnstable County.

Children by first wife:

9 i Abigail, b. Jan. 6, 1658, in Boston.

Children by second wife:

11 iii Thomas, b. Aug. 10, 1663; d. Aug. 26, 1663.

*13 v John, b. Sept. 25, 1665; m. Hester Ripple (Ripply) Mar. 10, 1694.

- 14 vi Ruth, b. Apr. 22, 1668; f. r. l.
15 vii Jonathan, b. Mar. 19, 1672; f. r. l.

4 JOHN WYBORN² (Thomas¹) was born about 1644; died before 1720; m. (1) Mary Felch, da. of Henry and Margaret Felch (her father m. (2) Elizabeth Wiborn, John's mother); m. (2) Mary, da. of Gov. Hinckley of Barnstable, Mass. He was called "Mariner." In will of her brother, Thomas Hinckley, under date of July 27, 1688, he leaves his sisters, Abigail, Thankful and Mary Wyborn, one cow each. In a will of Welthian Richards proved Nov. 4, 1679, he bequeaths 5£ to Mary Wyborn and the other children of his daughter, Mary Hinckley (wife of Gov. Thomas Hinckley). Mary Wyborn was the first child of Thomas and Mary Richards Hinckley and was born Aug. 3, 1644; bap. Aug. 4, 1644; date of marriage unknown. Mr. Otis in his history of the Barnstable families states that Thomas Wyborn who came from Kent County, England, must have been an acquaintance of the Hinckleys who came from the same place in 1635, and was no doubt influenced by them. It is well to give here a short account of Gov. Hinckley's family: Gov. Thomas Hinckley, the sixth and last governor of Plymouth Colony, was the son of Samuel Hinckley who was born in Kent County, England, and came over in the ship "Hercules" from Tenderden with his wife and four children in March, 1635. Thomas was his eldest son. Samuel Hinckley soon settled at Barnstable where he held several important offices.

His son, Thomas, after holding several important offices was made Governor of Plymouth, June 7, 1687, and continued in office until June 1692. Mr. Otis further states that in the Spring of 1635, Samuel Hinckley and family came with a party consisting of Mr. Tilden, John Lewis, and James Austin of Tenderden in the County of Kent, in England, and several other families from that County, making a Company of 102, counting men, women, children and servants, resolved to emigrate to New England. They sailed from the Port of Sandwich in the ship "Hercules" under Captain John Witterly. Circumstances make it probable that they intended to join the Reverend John Lothrop, who, with several members of his Church, had taken passage in the "Griffin" for Boston the preceding Summer.

In 1660 John Wyborn, with his brother Thomas, was living in Scituate, both becoming freemen that year.

In 1671 he gave a deed for his Boston property to his mother, Elizabeth Felch.

In 1688 he was taxed at 20 cents per head.

In 1691 he was taxed at Runnway Mead (No. 5 Countrie, Samuel Dennis Constable).

In 1682 he with Samuel Clap and Thomas Turner were a commission to settle boundary between Scituate and Marshfield. (Bates & Vinal 1899.)

Mr. Savage says that "In 1697 he was in Norwich, Conn., where he signed a deed of gift (in company with Thomas Jenkins) of house and land he had in Scituate, to Johanna Coleman." After an examination of the records in Plymouth I find that Mr. Savage was in error for the John who signed the deed was John, the son of Thomas, Jr., and that his wife was Hester. This deed will be given in its proper place.

As to the removal of John Wyborn from Scituate to Norwich I think that Mr. Savage is right and that he was of a considerable number who in 1700 settled at Lebanon, Preston and Norwich, Conn., for "there is a land mark in Norwich called the Scituate line to this day which doubtless marked the purchase of Wiborn, Coleman, Woodworth and others from Scituate."

Children of John and Mary (Felch):

- 16 i John, b. about 1666; probably died in infancy.
- *17 ii Thomas, b. Sept. 13, 1668; m. Hannah, probably da. of John Lake, Mar. 31, 1715.
- 18 iii Mary, bap. May 28, 1671; m. Greenfield Hanover, Sept. 31, 1713. She was bap. in the First church of Boston. In 1720 she conveys land "being only da. and child of the late John Wiborn deceased." No record of her descendants.

Children of John and Mary (Hinckley):

- *19 iv James, b. about 1672; m. Mary Graford, Jan. 11, 1699.
- *20 v Daniel, b. about 1674; m. Sarah Howard, May 29, 1701.
- 21 vi Eliza, b. about 1676; m. Alvin Boucher, Oct. 6, 1708. They were married by Eben Pemberton. f. r. l.

THIRD GENERATION

13 JOHN WYBORN^a (Thomas,² Thomas¹), was born in Scituate, Mass., Sept. 25, 1665; m. Hester Ripple (Rippley) May 10, 1694. Married by Rev. James Allen. In 1697 he removed to Lebanon, New London County, Conn., and later to Preston. We quote from Savage: "In Files in Suffolk County Court, folio 30506, there is a deposition of John Wyborn, Preston, Conn., dated Dec. 4, 1730, that sometime in May 1729, he was at the home of John Silvester, Scituate, with Eleazer Eddy, of Norton. The case was concerning £ 7. of money. This shows that although of Preston, Conn., he was still interested in Scituate, and was there on a visit." He died sometime in 1748, for his will which was dated Oct. 8, 1737, was probated Aug. 3, 1748.

Children of John and Hester (Ripple):

- 22 i Elizabeth, born Feb. 3, 1694-5 in Scituate, Conn., must have died before her father for she is not mentioned in the will.
- *23 ii John, born Aug. 31, 1698, in Scituate, and married Jerusha Larabee da. of Thomas Larabee, of Norwich, Conn.
- 24 iii James, born Sept. 25, 1704, in Norwich, Conn.
He was living in 1737 when his father made his will, but find no other mention of him.

(f. r. l.)

- 25 iv Thomas, born about 1700, in Scituate. It would seem that he never married or that he was a widower at the time he made his will. He left a will dated April 29, 1771, proved June 4, 1771, in which he mentioned his sister Ruth Eddy and daughter Lydia and a "cousin Elisha Eddy," "son of my sister Ruth my whole farm." The word cousin being used here as nephew. He made his friend and neighbor Nathaniel Tracy and "cousin" Elisha Eddy, Executors of his will. Inventory shows a farm of ninety acres, and a total estate of £249 .5 . 6. (Norwich Probate 4, 4; 157-158).

- 26 v Mary, born about 1702, was married Dec. 29, 1725 to John Eddy, of Preston. They probably removed to Stillwater, N. Y., for he died there—no account of her death is found. Their children were: (First book of marriages, Preaton Vital Records.)

27 i John, born Feb. 20 1726-7.

28 ii Elizabeth, born July 27, 1729.

29 iii Zephaniah, born Feb. 11, 1730-1.

30 iv James, born Feb. 15, 1732-3.

31 v Mary, born Sept. 15, 1734.

(Note: The Eddy Genealogy states that John Eddy was of Norton, Mass., this would coincide with the fact that the Eddy's of Norton were old friends and neighbors of John Wibourne, Mary's father.)

- 32 vi Ruth, Nothing is known of her identity other than that mentioned by her father's and brother's wills, which state that she had a son Elisha, and daughter Lydia, and that her husband's name was Eddy. It is supposed that Ruth became the second wife of John Eddy. (Otis).

17 THOMAS WYBORN³ (John,² Thomas¹) was born about 1671; was married to Hannah Lake, Mar. 31, 1715, by Rev. Thos. Bridge in the First Church in Boston. He was elected a selectman of Boston 1727-8. It is supposed that Hannah Lake was a daughter of John Lake of whom Thomas, Senior bought his home in Boston.

Their children, as far as known, were:

- 33 i Thomas, living in Boston in 1736; a shoemaker; f. r. l.
- 34 ii Hannah, b. May 16, 1176; f. r. l.
- 35 iii Jermima, b. —. m. Obediah Wells at Salisbury, Conn., May 25, 1749; f. r. l.

19 JAMES WYBORN^a (John,² Thomas,¹) was born about 1672; was married to Mary Graford by Mr. Miles, Jan. 11, 1699.

Probable children were:

- 36 i John, who moved to Springfield Township, Chester County, Pennsylvania, where he married Mary Price in 1730. We find also the following items:

John Wyburn and Mary Price were married Sept. 30, 1730, at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Chester, Pa.

John Wiborn, tax 1 shilling, 1737, Springfield, Chester County, Pa.

John Wiborn, tax 1 shill. 3 P. 1739, Springfield, Chester County, Pa.

John Weyborn, tax 1 shill. 3 P. 1740, Springfield, Chester County, Pa.

This part of Chester County is now Delaware County.

- *37 ii William, whom we find in the same township and county in 1730 is taxed 1 shilling and 6 pence. No further records are found, but as tradition in the family has been that William was the name of the father of Samuel Weyburn who was born in 1746, it is supposed that this William was his father. Were it not that many of the early records of Chester County were destroyed we feel confident that this could be proven.

20 DANIEL WYBORN³ (John,² Thomas¹), was born about 1774; was married to Sarah Howard da. of Robert and Elizabeth Howard, of Boston, May 29, 1701, by Cotton Mather. He died June 11, 1717; she died about 1758.

Their children were:

38 i Howard, b. June 1, 1702; graduated at Harvard College in 1721. (See note to follow.)

39 ii Elizabeth, b. July 20, 1706 and died in infancy.

In 1703 Daniel Wyborn was a constable in Boston. Feb. 16, 1708 he and his family were voted a pew in Kings Chapel Boston, known as pew No. 41 and formerly belonging to Edward Lyde and William Taylor, Esq., "that he line and raileth the same at his own charge if he think meet."

(On Apr. 15, 1723, "Easter," it was voted that Mr. John Powell shall enjoy the use of Mrs. Wilborn's (Wyborn) pew, paying $10 for one-half of said pew.)

On Nov. 18, 1714, "Captain" Daniel Wyborn was elected Vestryman, and so continued until his death. He received the title of captain as owner of a sloop which sailed from Boston to St. Thomas and was perhaps interested in this business through his uncle Thomas, Jr.

Memo: Judge Samuel Sewell in his famous diaries, vol. 11, p. 123, says under date of Mar. 5, 1716-7, "The sheriff comes to me and shows a copy of Capt. Wyborne's petition to the Governor wherein he charges the Chief Justice with injustice for signing a bill of costs against him—says the Governor bid him to show it to me."

Under date of June 12, 1717, the Judge's dairy reads, "Capt. Wyborne died last night." (vol. IV, p. 131.)

Howard Wyborn, Gentleman, son of Capt. Daniel Wyborne, does not appear as a grantor or grantee on Suffolk County Records, nor as a witness, nor as an
..... As he was not to gain possession of one-half of the estate of Robert Howard, his grandfather, until the decease of his grandmother, and as she was living in 1726 and no where does his name appear after he graduated at Harvard College in 1721, it is supposed that he must have left the Country, and probably died abroad.

In the deed of mortgage dated January 15, 1740, Sarah Wyborn, Widow, (his mother) states that she is the only surviving heir and sole legatee of her late father Robert Howard, deceased, and wife Elizabeth, also deceased.

{ Suffolk Deeds }
 { 61: 53- }

Sarah Wyborn, Widow well advanced in years, made will Jan. 23rd, 1754; same was proved March 20, 1758, in which will are named Mary Jarvis, Jr., daughter of Elias Jarvis, diamond ring, silver and certain garments. Margaret Parker, "My kinswomen," a "Velvet Capuchine" Chas. Paxton, Esq., "My loving Friend" Madam Cunningham, "Mrs. Mathews Picture." All the rest of the estate to Kingsman Elias Jarvis, Jr., Capt. Elias Jarvis, Jr. to be executors of the estate.

From original papers at the State House, published in "Province Laws" Vol. 7, p. 327, 5667, it would appear that Capt. Daniel Wyborn, in 1706 was Master of Sloop, from, or plying between St. Thomas, West Indies and Boston.

"The will of Robert Howard, Merchant, Boston, was made Dec. 25, 1717, and soon probated; he gives outright—his wife £100, "and to his daughter Sarah Wyborn, widow, one half of his estate, after his wife's decease."

"He wills that my grandson Howard Wyborn be supported and educated out of my estate until he arrives unto the age of 21 years."

"Howard Wyborn is to have one half of his estate after the decease of his wife." Said to have been a merchant in Boston, but I find no record of that fact.

"He appoints his well beloved friends and neighbors Hon. Thomas Hutchinson, Esq., and Edward Hutchinson, Esq., to be overseers of his will and to be guardians of his grand son."

"The witnesses were—

{	John Sunderland	{	Suffolk Co. Probate	}
{	Mary Stevens.	{	Court House. Boston	}
{	Joseph Prout.	{	Docket 3967.	}
		{	Vol. 20, pp. 276. 7. 80.	}

"Elizabeth Howard, Wid."

"Sarah Wyborn, Widow."

} Relicts of Robert

Howard, Merchant, and Daniel Wyborn, marriner, and Howard, son of Sarah Wyborn, in consideration of £40 convey John Barnard. (A strip of land 11 ft. by 40.) June 6, 1721."

{ Suffolk Co. Deeds, {
Boston 35; 262. }

(Note on above.)

This deed was executed before Howard Wyborn was 21 years of age, tho he was near to it. The Estate was held in common. We do not find that Capt. Daniel Wyborn owned any estate whatever in Boston, and all legal transactions concern what came from estate of Robert Howard. In fact this deed is the only instrument to which we found the name of Howard Wyborn attached. There was a deed 1726 where his name was in body of deed, but his name was not attached."

"Elizabeth Howard, Wid.

"Sarah Wyborn, Wid.

& Howard Wyborn, Gentleman.

Convey (Sept. 8, 1726) to Deacon John Barnard privilege to a certain "passage way" at North End, Clarks Square, to lands purchased (June 6, 1721.)"

{ Suffolk Deeds {
Boston, 51:H }

Note.

The name of Howard Wyborn, Gentleman, appears in the body part of the deed, but he does not appear as a signer, only his grandmother and mother. Our inference is that he was alive but absent from Boston. And this is the last mention we have found concerning him."

FOURTH GENERATION

23 JOHN WYBORN⁴ (John,³ Thomas,² Thomas¹), was born Aug. 31, 1698; died at Preston, Conn., in 1769; married Jerusha, da. of Thomas and Mary Willett Larabee, of Norwich, Conn. She was born Aug. 24, 1701. On Dec. 12, 1729, by deed from his father, he received forty acres of land in Preston, "bounded by the Branch and Tracy Land."—Land Rec. Bk. 4, p. 517.

He made his will June 27, 1763, which was proved Dec. 30, 1769. In it he mentions his "Loving wife Jurusha;" and his son Isaac "Farm on which I now live;" Son "James £60. money within three years after he is twenty one years of age;" his daughters "Elizabeth, Patience, Charity and Esther, each £10. to be paid by his son Isaac within four years after my decease." Inventory: Lands and buildings, £350. Total Estate £371. 4.6.

On May 26, 1736, John Wiborn and wife Jerusha for a consideration of £10. sells to Willett Larabee (brother of Jerusha) of Norwich, "one fifth part of sixty acres right granted to our honored father Thomas Larabee, late of Norwich, deceased." (Norwich Deeds 7; 301.) Witnesses were John Wiborn and Judith Coleman.

Their children were:

- 40 i Elizabeth, born May 12, 1734. (f. r. l.)
- 41 ii Patience, born May 1, 1735. Died at Worthington, Mass. Apr. 6-9, 1810. Unmarried.
- 42 iii Charity, born Oct. 29, 1737. M. L. 1775, Daniel Woodward of Worthington, Mass. (f. r. l.)
- *43 iv Isaac, born Oct. 9, 1739, at Preston, Conn.
- 44 v James, was born at Preston, Conn., April 28, 1743. Married Mrs. Lydia Hotton (published license Jan. 20, 1775). He died in February 1823. She died Dec. 1, 1827. He must have been living at Worthington, Mass., (where he was married), for some time previous to 1775. He served as a pri-

45 i vate in Capt. Ebenezer Webber's company,
 46 ii Col. Ezra May's regiment, from Sept. 20, 47 iii 1777 to Oct. 29, 1777, in the expedition to 48 iv Stillwater, N. Y. He is listed as of Worthington, Mass., in the census of 1790, as having in his family two males over 16, and four females, (No. 45, 46, 47, 48), which would imply that he had a wife, one son, and three daughters. We find the following real estate items regarding him at Worthington, Mass., Court House. (Name spelled Wibernor and Wibiner in death records.)

1814, Sept. 1. B. 62, p. 626. James Wi-

No further account of him is found, nor any record of his children.

- 49 vi Esther, was born Feb. 6, 1745. Married Mar. 30, 1766, David Benjamin. She died Aug. 4, 1768. (f. r. l.)

37 WILLIAM WYBORN⁴ (James,³ John,² Thomas¹), was no doubt born in Conn. before 1710 and removed to Pennsylvania. He was living in Chester (now) Delaware County, in 1730. Records of his marriage and family are unfortunately lost. Family tradition says that Samuel Weyburn was a son of William but does not state whether he had brothers or sisters. We assume therefore that one of William's children was:

- *50 Samuel, born in Pennsylvania in 1746; m. Jane Bratton in 1773; died in 1825.

Note: From this date only two branches of the family in America have maintained their identity, viz.: No. 43, Isaac Wyborn and No. 50, Samuel Weyburn. If others exist the author has been unable to find them and therefore will only attempt the extension of these two branches at this time, with a few notes on other Weyburns-Wyborns found in this country although not of this line.

GENERATIONS OF ISAAC WYBORN OF PRESTON, CONN.

43. ISAAC WYBORN (Fifth Generation from Thomas Wyborn, of Boston) was born in Preston, Conn., Oct. 9, 1739. We find no record of his marriage or the date he removed from Preston, but from subsequent records he must have left Preston before 1771. The last record of his appearance there was a joint deed with his mother Jerusha (widow) on Jan. 11, 1771, to Jonas Brewster for about 100 acres of land next to Thomas Wyborn's, Nathaniel Tracy's and Daniel Safford's in Preston; cons. 350 £. (Land Rec. Bk. 8, p. 325). After this date we find him at Westfield (now of Hampden County), Mass., and probably he resided there until about 1783. While there he enlisted in the Revolutionary Army. We quote from the Mass. Archives as follows: "Isaac Wiborn, a private in Capt. John Kellog's company, Col. Leonard's regiment, from May 16, 1777, to July 17, 1777; service in the Northern Department, allowance for 90 miles from home." This was the campaign of Lake Champlain, or Beenmus Heights. About 1783 he removed to Stephentown, Rensselaer County, N. Y. Like many of the old soldiers he lost all during the war for we find him sorely pressed by debts, as per the following item taken from the Court of Common Pleas, Northampton, Mass. 16; 40. "John Ingersoll, Westfield, Plaintiff vs. Isaac Wiborn, late of Westfield, yeoman, defendant." The case was default on note of £. 6. 4. 2. dated Jan. 20, 1783. Oct. 12, 1783, execution was issued for £. 10. 1. 8 and to pay court £. 1. 9. 8. He was still living in Stephentown when the census of 1790 was taken, for we find him listed as having in his family, two males over 16, and two males under 16, and four females; which would imply that he had a wife, three sons and three daughters.

Tradition states he married Anna Whipple, niece of William Whipple. So far as known his children's names were:

GENERATIONS OF SAMUEL WEYBURN OF PENNSYLVANIA

50 SAMUEL WEYBURN (Fifth Generation from Thomas Wyborn of Boston). An old family bible gives the date of Samuel Weyburn's birth as of 1746. No mention is made of the place of birth, or the name of his father. In our researches we first find him among the persons taxed in 1778, in Cumberland County, Pennsylvania, as follows:

- 1778—Tax list, Derry Township. 1 horse, 2 cows—tax Is 20 p—Penn. Archives, vol. 20; p. 30.
1779—1 horse, 2 cows—Penn. Archives, vol. 20; p.
144.
1780—2 horses, 2 cows—Penn. Archives, vol. 20; p.
278.
1782—80 acres, 2 horses, 2 cows—Penn. Archives,
vol. 20; p. 680.
1785—2 horses, 2 cows—Penn. Archives, vol. 20; p.
977.

From the same source we find his military service in the Continental Line—known as the Cumberland Militia, or "Flying Squadron or Rangers:"

- 1778-1783. P. A., 5th Series, vol. 4, p. 307, it states that Samuel Wayburn, "private," received depreciation pay in the Continental line, during the service of 1778-1783, as per cancelled certificates on file in the division of public records in the State Library at Harrisburg, Penn. Also same series vol. 4, p. 641; it states that Samuel Wayburn was of the "list of soldiers of the Revolution who received pay for services, taken from manuscript record x x x under 'Rangers of the Frontier' 1778-1783."

- 1781—P. A. 5th. Ser. vol. 6, p. 567. Samuel Wiburn — "of the first class of the Eighth Battalion of Cumberland County Militia called upon to perform a tour of duty by order of council, June 27, 1781."

1782—P. A. 5th. Ser. vol. 6, p. 648, gives Samuel Wayburn of Capt. Robert Samuel's pay-roll in April, May and June, 1782.

1782—Same series states that Samuel Weaburn (vol. 6, p. 578) was on Captain Samuel's pay-roll of the 2nd and 3rd Classes during the same year, for the two months from May 3rd to July 3rd—"For a tour of duty in Kishacauquillis Valley" commanded by Col. Alexander Brown.

Derry Township, Cumberland County, Pennsylvania, was one of the original townships and was formed August 17, 1729. It is now of Juniatta County and lies in that famous Juniatta Valley which has been so beautifully described by Mr. Bolles as "containing rich farms, fine streams and mountain peaks; which yield a scene of beauty to the traveler, and a joy to the home-seeker." Here Samuel Weyburn must have lived for several years prior to the time we first find him. Here he must have married Jane Bratton in 1773, for at that time the Brattons were a very large family and were the owners of many large farms in Derry Township. Several of the Brattons were also in the militia with Samuel Weyburn, and one, Captain Wm. Bratton, was in the battle of Germantown and received a wound which incapacitated him from further service. We have been unable thus far to determine to which of these families Jane belonged, but tradition gives Jane of English birth. The records of these times are very meager owing to so much having been lost or destroyed.

The year 1785 being the last date we find any mention of Samuel Weyburn in Pennsylvania, we take it that he must have very soon removed to New York State. All his children were born in Pennsylvania—Elizabeth, the youngest being born in 1785, and as he paid taxes in Derry township in 1785, his removal did not take place earlier than 1786. Just what reasons led him to emigrate to New York State we do not know, but the writer will venture the opinion, that, having been in the service and learning that the State of New York had granted land to her soldiers, in that beautiful and fertile region between Seneca and Cayuga Lakes, and that many of the soldiers refusing to take the land made an opportunity for others to purchase good farms at low prices. This must have led him thither. Again, Dr. Eagle, in his notes and queries, states that there was quite an emigration from Berks, Lancaster, Northumberland and York Counties, Pennsylvania, about 1783 (following the opening of the land above mentioned) to New York State—settling in and about Fayette, Seneca County (then Montgomery County). Mr. Safford in his gazeteer of New York State, published in 1813, mentions the same emigration. Therefore we believe that one or both of the above facts must have influenced him to make the change.

It will be remembered that when Major General John Sullivan was sent in 1779, by Congress, to drive out the "Six Nations" of Indians from their settlements in central New York, and to put a stop to the cruel slaughter of its inhabitants, which had continued so long, he opened a highway through Pennsylvania along the Susquehanna River into New York State, which, with the road from Easton, Pa., to a point at or near Wyoming, Pa., formed a main thoroughfare for emigration into New York. This road separated into two branches in what is now Tioga County—one following along the Easterly side of Seneca Lake and the other along the Easterly side of Cayuga Lake.

In the book entitled "General Sullivan's Indian Campaign in 1779" we find many references from diaries there quoted, regarding the fertility of the soil and the beauty of the landscape of that section about Chemung and Taughannock Falls. Rev. William Rogers, D. D., in his diary, published in said book, especially mentions that region on the Tioga river about Tioga Point as being very fertile and closes in these words: "Surely a soil like this is worth contending for * * * *."

One hundred years after that famous campaign, at a celebration at Waterloo, N. Y., a speaker made use of the following significant words (page 484 of said book): "The year 1879 had been distinguished as the one hundredth anniversary of the incursion of Major General John Sullivan (see map) into the territory of the 'Six Nations,' and it seemed proper that a campaign contributing so much to the success of the American Colonies in their struggle with Great Britain, should be commemorated, especially by those now living in the very tract of this memorable and devastating march. Hence, as Seneca County, lying in the line of this incursion, shared in the general punishment inflicted, and was thereby opened to the settlement of a race capable of proving the value of the soil and introduce the arts of a christian civilization * * * * ." Before 1779 "The region between the waters of Cayuga and Seneca was thickly dotted with towns of the Iroquois, where lived and passed away successive generations of a vanished race." Chemung and the surrounding country was all laid waste by the Indians at the approach of General Sullivan's army

Ten years after this event we again find Samuel Weyburn, located in Chemung Township, near Tioga Point, N. Y., where he is listed in the census of 1790 as of Montgomery County (now Tioga County). His family was then enumerated:

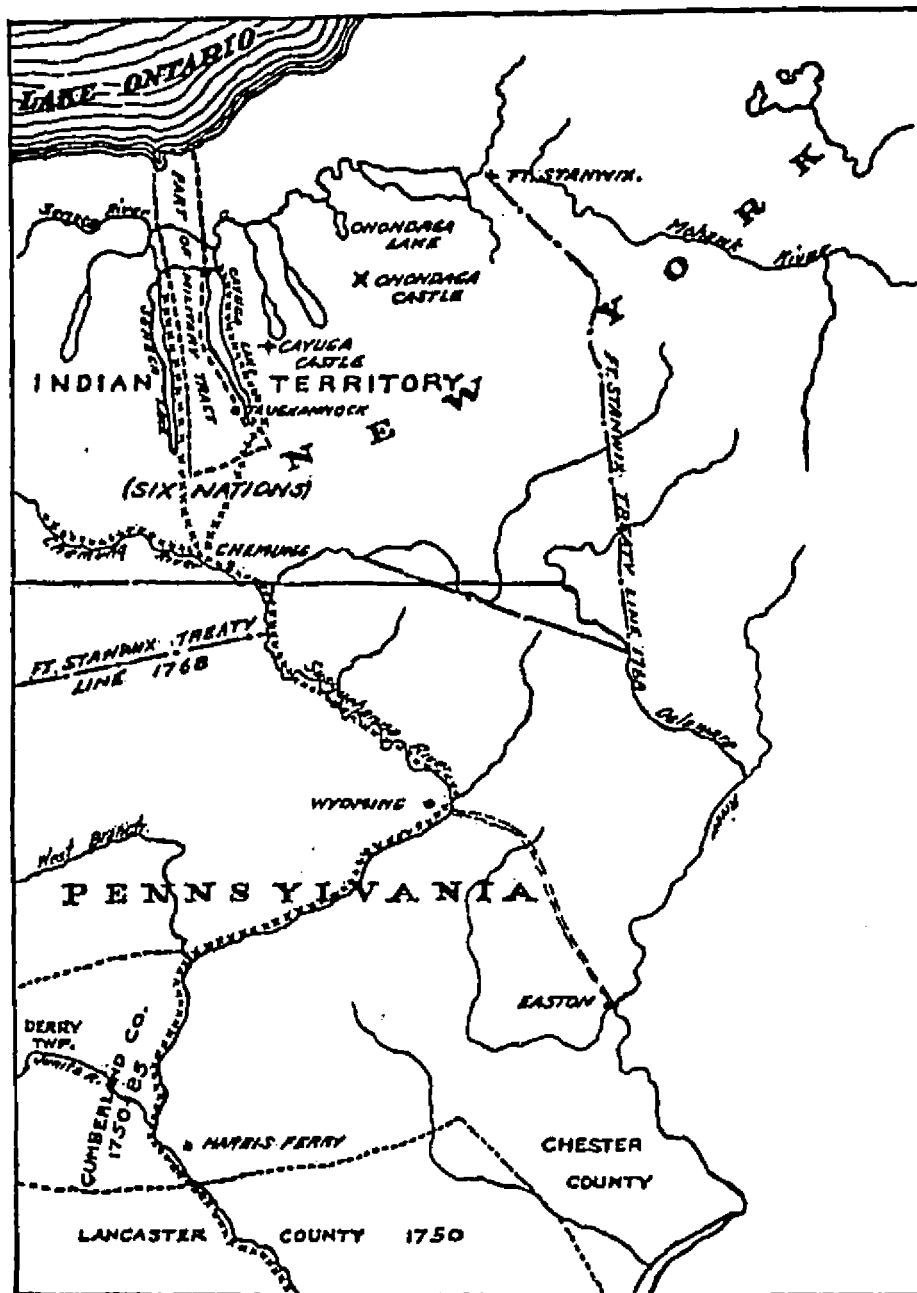

Two males over 16 years;

Two males under 16 years;

Four females.

This record agrees with the tradition of the family that Samuel's family at that time consisted of his wife, Jane, and three sons and three daughters, and that Samuel, Jr. (the writer's grandfather), was the eldest and then over sixteen years.

In the history of Tioga, Chemung, Thompsons and Schuyler Counties, New York, it states that "Samuel Weyburn (Sen.) with his wife and four children came from Tioga Point, N. Y., in 1790, and built a log cabin at the mouth of Taughannock Creek on what is known as Goodwin's Point, Cayuga Lake." This is no doubt

SECTIONAL MAP OF PENNSYLVANIA AND NEW YORK

Showing route of General Sullivan into New York State, which became the probable route of Samuel Weyburn and others emigrating from Pennsylvania; also giving the region about Seneca and Cayuga Lakes where the Weyburns finally settled true with the exception of the number in the family—he having six children instead of four. The same history further states that Mr. Truman, who founded Trumansburg, N. Y., in 1792, stopped with Samuel Weyburn at Goodwin's Point in the winter of 1791, and while there received assistance for his badly frozen feet, which condition had been brought on by his long journey through the snow. Mr. and Mrs. Weyburn being away from home when he arrived he asked the children for hot water, which he unfortunately applied and from the effects of which he finally lost the use of his two feet. Goodwin's Point was at the foot of the ravine which extends from the falls to the lake and is in the town of Ulysses in the then Montgomery County, later Seneca County (1804), now Tompkins County. This was one of the towns of the so-called Military Tract (see map), all the territory lying between Seneca and Cayuga Lakes was then a part of the said Military Tract, being the westerly portion. This tract was set aside by the State of New York for her soldiers of the Revolution, and comprised twenty-eight towns as follows: Brutus, Cato, Camillus, Cicero, Cincinnatus, Dryden, Galen, Hector, Homer, Hannibal, Fabius, Junius, Locke, Manlius, Milton, Marcellus, Lysander, Ovid, Pompey, Romulus, Scipio, Solon, Sepronius, Sterling, Tully, Ulysses, Virgil and Aurelius.

In 1794, Samuel Weyburn made his first purchase of land in New York State viz.: August 16th, 1794. Abel Kidder deeded to him 150 acres on Lot No. 33 in Town of Ovid—consideration £75. This was but a few miles from his former home at Goodwin's Point, and became his permanent home. It was while living on Goodwin's Point that his encounter with the bear occurred, as related by his son George in the "New York Historical Collections," by Barber and Howe in 1844, which I herewith give in an abbreviated form:

"One Sunday evening in October about 47 years ago, as my father Mr. Samuel Weyburn was returning from feeding his horse on the north side of the Creek, near where the distillery now stands, his dog started up a bear and her cubs. They followed the course of the hill on the south side of the Creek until near the summit, a few rods above the mill-site falls, where the cubs took to a tree."—Then he continues to tell how his father and he followed in pursuit (his father with the gun and he with a hand-ax) until they found the mother bear standing up against a tree guarding the cubs. His father shot the bear and succeeded in wounding her in the fore-leg, when she turned and retreated to the gulf and was seen no more that night. His father then shot the cubs and returned home. The next morning, thinking that he had killed the bear, he took a pitch-fork (having expended his last charge of powder the night before) and proceeded in quest of the animal and located her by the aid of his dog on the left walls of the precipice just across the basin to the right. He ascended this almost perpendicular rock a distance of 80 or 100 feet to the point where the bear had taken refuge and there attacked her, at which she rushed at him, and he slipping, caught him by the clothes, biting his arms and legs; he then seized her and they rolled together to the bottom of the ravine, where with the aid of his son George, who struck the bear over the head with his ax, he was enabled to release himself in time to escape another attack, which his son perceiving, at once jumped in between the bear and his father and struck her again with his ax, which laid her body lifeless upon the rocks. Samuel Weyburn, Sr., though victor, carried for many years the marks on his person.

It would not be out of place I think to give here in a brief way a description of these famous Falls on Cayuga Lake, and we quote from Rev. Lewis Halsey in his History of the Falls, published in 1873, as follows: "To the true lover of nature no spot is more attractive, no landscape more beautiful, than that adorned by her bountiful hand, with water-falls, and wild ravines, and stately forests. Unlike other and less famous landscapes, that which adds to its attractions, the music and brilliancy of cascades and cataracts, is ever unfold-

TAUGHANNOCK FALLS

"The stream falls perpendicularly two hundred and fifteen feet into a rocky basin, thus forming a cataract more than fifty feet higher than Niagara. The rock over which the water plunges projects in the center and is contracted on either side, forming a triangle which measures some ninety feet across."—Halsey's "Falls of Taughannock,"—1872 ing new beauties. But when a water-fall, whose vast height adds sublimity to its beauty, grand and gloomy gorges and picturesque views of lake scenery, unsurpassed outside of Switzerland, each at the same time, present their peculiar attractions, the admiring traveler delighted by the beauty and awed by the sublimity of landscape, realizes that he has discovered one of the most favored haunts of nature."

Samuel Weyburn, Sr., must have been a true lover of nature and a man of remarkable foresight in selecting his home in New York State. Here his children grew to manhood and womanhood; married and raised large families. Samuel Jr., removed to Ontario County; George and Elizabeth remained within a few miles of the old homestead while the others removed to the Western States—some to Ohio and Indiana.

Among the several items of record in the recorders office at Waterloo, N. Y., appear the following:

May 13, 1817, Samuel and Jane Weyburn of Ovid quit-claim to Samuel Ferris and Leonard Ferris of the same place, part of Lot No. 33, containing 100 acres; consideration $720.50, but Jane does not join in the deed. Rec. Mar. 25, 1819, Book M. p. 312. October 9, 1817. Samuel Weyburn and John Groendyke (both of Ovid) q. c. part of Lot No. 33 "to west line of Samuel Ferris land," containing 172 acres; consideration $1,720.00. Rec. in book M. p. 59. As Jane his wife does not join in this deed, and from the record of the following deed, one "Livia his wife" is party to the deed we take it that Jane had died about 1717, although that fact has never been brought to the attention of the writer before.

May 8, 1819, Samuel and Livia his wife, of Ovid, deed to Alfred Waring part of Lot No. 33 "next to Warings," containing forty acres "free and unencumbered;" consideration $1,200.00, witnessed by Samuel Weyburn (Jr.) and Joshua G. Skinner. Rec. in book P, p. 183.

May 6, 1823, Samuel and Livia his wife (with his son William and Rebecca his wife) deed to Tunis Covert part of Lot No. 33, in the town of Ovid, containing 100 acres, "reserving a piece of ground for burying, about thirty feet square, which is now inclosed as a burying ground and is situate near the southwest corner of the above described and conveyed premises." Consideration $2,500.00. Witness, William Thompson and George Weyburn (his son) and recorded in book Q, p. 85.

March 29, 1825, Samuel (his mark) and Livia Weyburn (her mark) of Ovid, Seneca County, to Henry Smith, part of Lot No. 33; consideration $100.00 Rec. in book X p. 120. As Samuel Weyburn died the latter part of 1825, he undoubtedly was too feeble to sign his name to the last above mentioned deed, and his wife Livia must have survived him several years, although we have no record of that fact.

The following is the family record of Samuel Weyburn, Sen. He was born in 1746; married Jane Bratton in 1773; died on his farm in the Town of Ovid, N. Y., in 1825, and was buried in the burial plot on that farm and later the bodies of his family who were buried there were removed to the cemetery at Interlake, N. Y.

141 SAMUEL WEYBURN, JR.,² (Samuel¹), was the eldest son of Samuel Weyburn, Sen. He was born in Derry Township, Pennsylvania in 1774. He came with his father to Chemung Township, New York State, and then to Goodwin's Point, and finally settled with the family in Town of Ovid, Seneca County. It is said that while the family were at Chemung he and his father preceded them to Goodwin's Point and built the log cabin referred to in the history of those counties. Later his father returned for the rest of the family. It was during this time that he contracted rheumatism, from going into Cayuga Lake when overheated, which brought on a permanent lameness in his right leg.

Miss Rhoda Palmer of Geneva, N. Y.,—a relative of the writer, now in her 94th year, (1910)—describes him as follows: "Of fair complexion; brown hair and eyes; about 5 feet 8 in.; weight over 200 lbs.; lame in right leg; friendly and hospitable; and a staunch Methodist."

He was clerk of the Town of Ulysses for years 1811-14; Justice of the Peace for several years; taught school in Trumansburg, and noted as a fine penman.

The following records of real estate transactions appear in the records of Tompkins County, N. Y. (Formerly a part of Seneca County.)

W. D. August 25, 1809, Jacob Shepard, Jr., to Samuel Weyburn and Samuel Ingersoll & Co.—conveys 1 acre 12 perches on lot 22 Town of Ulysses.

W. D. October 10, 1809, Doxse Lane to Samuel Weyburn, Jr., and Samuel Ingersoll, Jr.—conveys $\frac{1}{4}$ acre and 30 perches on lot 22 of Ulysses.

W. D. Oct. 27, 1809, Philip VanCortland to Samuel Weyburn, Jr., and Samuel Ingersoll, Jr.—conveys 20 acres on lot 21 in Town of Ulysses.

W. D. March 7, 1812, Samuel Thompson, Jr., & Wf. to Samuel Weyburn, Jr. and Samuel Ingersoll, Jr.—conveys 25 acres on lot 21, of Ulysses.

W. D. August 14, 1814, Samuel Weyburn, Jr. and Phebe his wife, and Samuel Ingersoll, Jr. and Elizabeth his wife,—conveys 45 acres on lot 21, 130 Sq. rods, on lot 22, and 70 perches on lot 22, (Potash lot), in Town of Ulysses.

From these facts we gather that Samuel Weyburn, Jr., and Samuel Ingersoll, Jr., were partners, and as they were also related by marriage, (Samuel Ingersoll, Jr., having married Elizabeth, sister of Samuel Weyburn, Jr.) accounts for the fact that the name was heard spoken very many times by the writer's father.

About 1814 he removed from the Town of Ulysses and purchased a farm on the westerly side of Seneca Lake near "Earls Landing," where he remained until 1825, when he again sold out and removed to a farm, two and one-half miles north of Geneva, and just north of the Benjamin Wooden homestead (Benjamin Wooden was the father of Elsie, who married Edwin Weyburn, son of Samuel Weyburn, Jr.). In 1849, being in feeble health he sold this farm and purchased a small farm near (now) McDougals station, about five miles east of Geneva—between Seneca and Cayuga Lakes, where he died in 1850. He was buried in the family plot on the farm formerly owned by him, adjoining the Wooden farm.

The following deeds appear of record showing the purchase of the above farms:

Deed dated Oct. 30, 1815, recorded at Canandaigua, N. Y., June 8, 1820, Martha Norton, et al. of Bloomfield, County of Ontario, N. Y., to Samuel Weyburn, Jr., County and State aforesaid; consideration $1.00. "Certain lot of land situate on the gore between the old and new pre-emption line known and distinguished on Thomas Rees, Jun., map of the gore by lot number thirty-eight (38), bounded as follows: On the east by Seneca Lake; on the north by lands lately belonging to Stephen Taylor; and on the South by lands belonging to Benjamin Barton, containing 50 acres be the same more or less."

Deed dated April 16, 1830: Samuel Weyburn and Margaret his wife (her mark) of the Town of Seneca, SAMUEL WEYBURN, JR.

Ontario County, to Henry Hampshire, consideration $2200.00 (lately belonging to Benj. I. Dey, and now occupied by Elizabeth Taylor). "Being part of lot of land in gore between the old and new pre-emption lines and distinguished on Rees, Jun., Map of the gore by lot No. 38—containing one hundred and ten acres, excepting and reserving out of the above described premises thirty-eight rods of land heretofore sold to Jesse Earl and Martin Gage, being on the Cashong point and where the store house now stands."

Ferris, who owned a farm adjoining his father's. They were married about 1803. She was born June 17, 1786, and died Mar. 30, 1852, at Middlebury, Ind., and buried in Forest Grove Cemetery at that place. They raised a large family, most of whom removed to Middlebury, Ind. George Weyburn was a man of rugged health; weight about 250 lbs.; light complexion; blue eyes; jovial and hospitable and a very prosperous farmer. It is stated that he was very fond of telling of his father's encounter with the bear at Taughannock Falls and how he saved his life. He was about sixteen years old at the time and the reason his brother Samuel, who was older, did not take part in the struggle was because of his lameness. The following real estate transactions appear of record which will be of interest:

For several years he lived on a farm which he owned in Chemung County, N. Y., at or near Tioga Point and probably near the place where the family first settled on coming into New York State. He finally sold this farm and he and his wife went to live with his daughters at Middlebury, Ind., where she died. He then returned to Trumansburg, N. AN ODE TO SENECA LAKE

(This beautiful poem was written by Miss Rubie Tibbets Weyburn, great granddaughter of Samuel Weyburn, Jr., and daughter of Dr. Henry D. Weyburn of Geneva, N. Y., and is here given because it is on or near this beautiful lake that so many descendants of Samuel Weyburn, Jr., have lived.

Day's last low gleam fades in the west,
The lingering twilight dies;
And, jeweled on thy slumbering breast,
The Moon's reflection lies.

Thy soundless deep, what ages old,
Thy witchery how young,
Locked in thy bosom calm and cold,
There lie what songs unsung.

HENRY D. WEYBURN, M. D.

What lyrics of the noiseless oar
 By thy loved warrior plied,
 When many a golden path of yore,
 Has spanned thy darkling tide.

Yes, in the dark crypts of thy heart,
 Thou guardest well his fame,
 Who left thee, since ye needs must part,
 The glory of his name.

STRAY AMERICAN NOTES

List of Towns by the name of Weyburn as published in the Official Railway Guide:

Weybourn—on the Pan Handle Railway, Ohio.

Weyburn—on the Southern Railway, Virginia.

Wayburn—on the C. & N. W. Railway, Minnesota.

Weyburn—on the Canadian Pacific Railway, Saskatchewan, Ontario.

The family history of Mr. Thomas Weyburn of San Francisco, Cal., and T. W. Weyburn (cousins) of Essex, Ont., which has been furnished, is too meagre for publication at this time. While they spell their name the same as the family of the compiler we cannot account for their family earlier than 1817 when their grandfather came to this country from England. We hope, however, in our second volume to be able to add very materially to this line. [See Appendix.]

There are other families, such as John Wyburn of New York, and Denis Wyborn of Toledo, Ohio, who claim English origin, which are left for future research.

There was formerly a family by the name of "Wyborn," living in Syracuse, N. Y., who claim Kentish ancestry, but the compiler has been unable to secure sufficient data for publication. [See Appendix.]

One entry in the Boston records must stand unexplained:

"Samuel Wyborn died July 29, 1656."

Whether he was related to Thomas Wyborn of Boston, who died in 1656, or of a separate branch, cannot at this time be determined.

There also appears the following record of one, Robert Wyborn, under date of March 12, 1672, no other mention of him occurs:

"By the Hon'd John Levnett, Esq'r, Governor and Edw'd Tyng, Esq'r, Ass't.

ENGLISH NOTES

EARLY HISTORY

"Oh! who shall paint the horrors of that day
When Harold fell upon th'ensanguined field
Where rank 'gainst rank rushed on in dread array
With jav'lin, arrow, battle axe and shield."

Whether this family have directly descended through Hacon† from the great earl who, as Mr. Freeman observes, narrowly escaped being the head of a line of English Kings, or whether it be otherwise, it would at least appear that during the reigns of King John and King Henry the Third, the family found favor in high quarters.

In the 36th year of K. Hen. III, Thomas de Wybourne was appointed by the King, sheriff of London, for that year (1252-3), at a date when the King in person approved such choice and on one occasion ordered "that the Citizens should not procede to election of newe Sheriffes till his commyng to London, but to suffer the old to abide still in office" (Fabinans Chronicle).

In 1268, according to Stowe and others, he was Mayor but in some printed accounts the name occurs as Winborne, Winburne and Wynborne. In the earlier MSS. however, it is clearly Wyborne and is written without any mark of contraction, such as a dash over the y † Lord Lytton represents Haco (Hakon) as a mere youth at the Battle of Hastings but he was old enough to possess a lordship and presumably to leave an heir surviving.

which would be necessary to render it Wynborne, thus, "Wyborne."

In the "Hundred Rolls" and "Books of Aid" of the early years of King Edward I's and Edw. III's reigns at least two members of the family are included amongst the holders of land or Knight's fees in Kent (the earldom of Godwine), and many more are as might be expected among the free tenants of Oxon (the earldom of Swan), while none appear to have held their land by villainage.

The overwhelming impositions upon the citizens of London during the later period of Hen. III's reign caused many of them to remove to a distance from the precincts of the city in order to avoid such taxes and this may account for the presence of one branch of the family of Wyborn at Crofton in Orpington where they actually settled about this time.

It was also apparently between 38th Hen. III and 3rd Edw. I that a group of the family settled in East Kent and in the reign of Edward II Sir John de Wybarne held the manor of Barfreston in return for his services as one of the knights who kept ward at the tower of Dover Castle for the defence of which the baron John de St. John had part of his barony allotted him. (Hasted.)

A John de Wybarne also held the neighboring manor of East Sutton about the same period but notwithstanding the record in the Landseer M. S., 309 (Brit. Mus.) that scutage was levied from John Wybarne at Barfreston in the 21st Edw. III for the Knighthood of the Black Prince, Hasted's statement that the name was extinct at Barfreston (as it was also at East Sutton) before that year is borne out by other authorities and is very probably correct, though it would appear that representatives of the family have existed in the neighbouring hundreds at all times between that date and the present.

A thorough search having, however, been made of the Subsidy Rolls in the Public Record Office for any successor of the above named John de Wybarne in the same hundred, and that of Cornilo, adjoining, without success, it would appear probable that he might have been the same John de Wybarne who held Crofton by Knight service and resided generally in the latter neighbourhood.

FROM BLOOMFIELD AND PARKINS' HISTORY
OF NORFOLK, VOL. 5, P. 963

"Wayborn"

"Hugh de Abrincis, a Norman lord, the Conqueror's sister's son, created Earl of Chester by him, had a grant of this lordship, which was held by Hacon, son of Swan, eldest son of Earl Godwin, and elder brother of K. Harold, and Ralph was enfeoffed of it under Earl Hugh, consisting of 2 carucates of land, 9 villains, 30 borderers, 5 servi, and 2 carucates in demean, and 4 among the tenants, pannage for 10 swine, three acres of meadow, 2 mills, and 8 cows in King Edward's reign, with 60 sheep, 47 goats, and valued at £4 but at the survey at £7.—was one lenca long and 3 furlongs, and one lenca broad, and paid 18d gelt.

"It seems to take its name from Wa, and Bruna, Wy or Wa, is an old British name, often used for a river or brook.

"Ralph, who was enfeoffed of this lordship by Earl Hugh, held also several lordships under him in Cheshire, viz.: Tadetune, Warmincham, Blackehall, Pevre, Warford, Tatun, Cocheshale, Rode, Northerden, Ashton, etc., and was father of Roger, who bore the name of Meyngaryn, Menil-Waring, or Manwaring, (as his father, Sir Ralph did), and was father of Ralph, who lived in the reign of King Henry II. whose son Roger had Ralph his son, who was chief justice of Cheshire in the reign of King John, lord of this town, and founder (as I take it) of the priory of Waborn, and by Amicia his wife, a natural daughter of Hugh Kivileoc, Earl of Chester, this Sir Ralph had a son.

William, as appears from the register of Bynham priory, and was living in the 21 of Henry III." * * * *

[41 Hen. III.]

"Ralph de Meyngaryn had 2 parts of a fee and Thomas de Waborne a 3rd part in this town.

"In the 46 of Henry III. Waryn de Menwaryn held the manor of Waborne by the service of one fee." * * * *

"Sir Thomas de Waborne lived in the time of King John, and had a lordship, in this town in the 21st of Henry III.

"William de Waborne, son of Sir Thomas, by Albredda, his wife (e) leased to the prior of Bynham, all his lands, except what Richard de Grey held of his step-mother, the Lady Agnes, for 30 years, and gave lands to the said priory. Thomas, son of William de Waborn held in the 34th of Henry III a whole fee (and was not a Knight) the third part of this town, and had the same privileges as Ralph de Meyngaryn.

"In the 52d of that King, he was sued for Pourprespature, the building a house on the publick way, and the house was awarded to be pulled down.

"In the said reign Luke de Bruningham held here and in Kelling, the sixth part of a fee of the heirs of Meyngaryn, and in the 9th of Edward I. John de Bruningham settled on Alice, wife of John de Wayburne, lands by fine, and William de Waburne was found to hold a lordship in the 9th of Edw. II and a fine was levied in the 12th of that King between Alice, widow of Thomas de Waborn, and Agnes, widow of George, son of Tomas de Waborn, of lands settled on Agnes for life, remainder to Alice."

NOTES ON ORIGIN OF THE NAME

"There are evidences which, though not establishing the absolute certainty, point to the extreme probabil-

"(e) Neustriu pin, p. 75."

"ity that 'ye auntient family of Wyborne' have directly "descended from Godwine" or Goodwin, Earl of Wessex and father of King Harold."

"The name appears to be derived from Weybourn† "near Cromer in Norfolk, where at one time there was "an important priory, then the most celebrated place "in the northern half of that county."

"This lordship was held by Hakon son of Swegen or "Swan. The latter was the elder brother of King "Harold, and died while returning from a pilgrimage he "had undertaken to the Holy Land."

"The first syllable of the name has been variously "spelt 'Wa.' (an old British word equivalent to 'Wy' "—a river or brook, and also signifying water) 'Wy' "and 'Wi'—the second syllable has undergone the usual "variations which it passes through in other combina- "tions, as in Brabarne for Brabourn, Wilbarn (Wil- "burn).

"In 'Domesday' the name is 'Wabruna.' Here we "are informed that Earl Hugh (the Conqueror's "nephew) invaded twelve free men in 'Wabrune, in "Salthus, and in Challinga'—now Weybourne, Salt- "house and Kelling, and it would seem very probable, "from all the evidences available, that part of the lord- "ship of Hakon was at a little later date restored to "his heir (as appears to have been the case in many "other instances of the kind) for Thomas who took "the name 'de Waborne' and lived in the reign of King "John had a lordship in this town in the 21st of Henry "III. and his grandson, Thomas, in the 34th year of "the same reign held his land without being a Knight."

"The various methods of spelling the name have been "adopted at different periods and in different localities."

"In the reign of King Edward I. and previously it

* "Godwine * * * the name of one who was presently to become the first man in the English Empire, one who * * * never himself a King, was to be the maker, the Kinsman, the father of Kings."—Freeman's History of the Norman Conquest, Vol. 1, p. 405.

† Mr. Lower says it is an ancient personal name, but the prefix "de" which appears in very ancient MSS. agrees with its local origin.

"was generally spelt 'Wabourne'—variously contracted "and sometimes to 'Wabon'; 'Wybourne'—also contracted even to 'Wyborn'; and 'Wybarne' or 'Wybarn.'"

"The name 'Wyben' which sometimes occurs is probably a contraction of erroneous spelling which has frequently occurred in more modern times, viz: 'Wyberne.'"

"After the date mentioned the autographs of the West Kent branch of the family are consistently written 'Wybarne' or 'Wibarne' until their extinction, while those of East Kent, Somerset, South Wales and elsewhere are written 'Wyborne' and a branch long resident at Bexley (also of Southwark) have at a comparatively recent date changed their signature to 'Wyburne' most of them having afterwards dropped the final 'e.'"

"As regards the influence of locality on the earlier methods of spelling, that of Norfolk appears to have been 'Wabourne,' of Kent 'Wybarne,' and of Oxon and Middlesex 'Wybourne' with various forms of contraction according to the fancy of the scribe."

"There is a modern example of the Norfolk form of the name in the shape of a will of one Nathan Wabon, of Wells next the sea, which was proved in 1767 and is now (1894) at Somerset House."

"Now that the dialect of any particular locality no longer influences the spelling it is almost invariably written Wyborn, Wybourn, Weyburn or Wyburn."

NOTES FROM PHILIPOTT'S KENT

SIR THOMAS DE WABORNE. Lived in the time of King John in Waborne or Weybourne, near Cromer, in Norfolk, and had a lordship in this town in the 21st of Hen. III. William de Waborne, son of Sir Thomas, by Albreda, his wife, leased to the prior of Bynham, all his lands, except what Richard de Grey held of his stepmother, the Lady Agnes, for 30 years and gave lands to the said priory.

Thomas, son of William de Waborn held in the 34th year of Hen. III a whole fee (and was not a knight) the third part of this town. It seems to take its name from "Wa" and "Bruna," Wy or Wa is an old British name, often used for a river or brook.—Blomfield and Parkins' History of Norfolk.

THOMAS DE WYBOURNE. Sheriff of London 1252-3. Received Prince Edward, afterwards King Edward I in 1253 when the citizens swore fealty to him in St. Paul's Churchyard.—"Stubbs' Chronicles," Vol. 1, p. 46. Also "A Chronicle of London from 1089 to 1483; written in the fifteenth century." London, 1827. See also Harl. M. S. 565, Brit. Mus. and Fabian's Chronicle. He appears to have been Mayor in 1268 but was probably superceded early in his year of office as he is not named in some lists, and more than one Custos or Constable of the Tower was appointed by the King to govern the City during that turbulent year.—In several histories and surveys of London the name is erroneously spelt "Wimburne," "Wynborne" and "Winburne."

RALPH DE WYBOURN.—

JOHN DE WYBOURNE. Crofton, in Orpington, Kent, was anciently a Manor "when it was the Inheritance of Wibourn, a Family in elder times of high esteem and a considerable Revenue in this Territory. Ralph de Wibourn held Lands here, and in other places of Kent, as appears by sundry ancient Deeds, now (1659) in the possession of Wibourne of Halkewell in the reign of Edward the First, and did after execute a Deed, for land in Wrotham Hundred, in the tenth year of Edward the second (1317) and in the twentieth year of Edward the third, (1347) John de Wybourne paid respective Aid for his Lands here and at other places in this County, at the making the Black Prince Knight Relinquished Possession . . . about the latter end of Edward the third" (1377).—Philipott's "Kent."

ROBERT "WYBARN DE BLAKEHALL" living 8 Edw. III., paid a subsidy of VI s. that year. "Blackhall is an estate in this parish, (Sevenoaks) . . . William de Totihurst flourished here, as appears by ancient court rolls, in the reigns of K. Edward III and K. Richard II."—Hasted.

THOMAS WYBARNE of Kent, dwelt at Culverdens (Pembury) 3rd Edw. IV. (1464) or previously. See Confirmation of Arms at Coll. Arms. Probably living in reign of Rich. II. He had a son,

JOHN WYBARNE of Hawkwell, Co. Kent, who married Agnes, daughter and heir of John Sidley. "Hawkwell is an eminent Manor in this Parish (Pembury) formerly belonging to the Priory of Bayham about 1525 granted to John Wybourn who was tenant to that Abby upon the Suppression; but was Anciently seated at a place called Culverdens, whither they arrived from about Crofton in Orpington, where they originally were planted, about the latter end of Henry the third" (1272).

ARMS: "Sable, a fesse or between three swans argent, membered gules." Burke.

QUARTERINGS: "Wybarne of Hawkwell, Co. Kent; quartering Sidley, viz. per pale azure and sable a fesse chequy argent and gules between three goats' heads erased argent."

CREST: "A swan as in the arms." Burke.

A swan's head and neck, erased collared with a bird bolt in its beak. Add. MS. 5532, p. 20, Brit. M.

MOTTO: "Fama perennis erit."

In the beginning of the 18th century the Hawkwell branch became entitled to quarter the arms of Tasburgh.

The evidences to the origin of the name as to the descent of the family through Swan, Earl of Mercia, are very much strengthened by the following confirmation of "College of Arms."

According to the ideas of ancient herakls, in addition to their allusion to the paternal name by their "charge" (a custom almost universal in very early times) the "Tinctures" of the coat are such as would be awarded to the more ancient or chief house—sable being an emblem of the greatest antiquity and gold of dignity. The other houses of Swan therefore have had their arms "differenced," as younger houses formerly did by changes in the "ordinaries" and "tinctures," while this particular coat bears no mark of "differencing" of any kind.

The order of antiquity appears to have been generally differenced as follows: sable, argent, gules, azure, etc., and the other houses of Swan bear azure in all or nearly all cases. Their "charges" are with one exception "three swans argent."

MANORS

(Extracts from Hasted, History of England)

John Wyborne of the Manor of East Sutton

"The Manor of East Sutton, alias Sutton Court, in King Henry III reign, was held by Hugh Soldanks, by Knights service, whose descendant Stephen Soldanks held it in King Edward I reign. Soon afterwards it came into the possession of JOHN WYBORNE and thence again to the Abbot and Convant of St. Augustine, where it continued till the final dissolution of the monastery in the 13th year of King Henry VIII, when it was surrendered with all its lands and revenues unto the King's hands, whence it was granted not long afterwards to Mr. John Mater * * *. It was in existence in 1791 and owned by Mr. Thomas Garside of Deal."

James Wyborn, Esq., of the Manor of Deal and Hull

"The Manor of Deal & Hull, alias Deal Preband, belonging to the See of Canterbury and continued so till King Edward I reign, when Archbishop Peckham fully restored it to its former use.

"Most authors, have agreed in opinion that Julius Caesar in his first expedition landed some where near this place, after having been repulsed by the British in his attempt to land at Dover.

"This Manor, with a demesnes of it, exempted from all great ties whatsoever is likewise demesed by the Archbishop in the beneficial lease * * *. To JAMES WYBORN of Hull and Sholden, who lately parted with his interests to Mr. Wm. White of Deal, the present possessor of it."

The Parish of Sandwich and The Church of St. Clement

"This Church stands at the eastern part of the town of Parish of Sandwich, and is a very handsome structure. The steeple stands in the centre of the Church, and is by far the oldest part of the fabrick. It is built of Normans Stone. It had formerly a spire and battlements which were taken down in 1670-73. There are four bells,—cast in 1672. Among the many other things are the following Monuments and memorials in this Church, * * * *. On raised monuments are inscriptions for Shelvy and WYBORNE in the front isle."

*Robert Wybourne, Gent., of the Manor of Preston, and a part of the possession of the Abbot
of St. Augustine*

"Mr. ROBERT WYBOURNE, by will in 1711, gave a tenement with gardens, and orchards, for the benefit of the poor, which is now vested in the church wardens and overseers and is of annual produce of 4 £. The poor constantly relieved are about 25, casually 40."

"The Vicarage of St. Augustine remained until the dissolution, Anno 30 King Henry VIII. and in the 23rd year of his reign he settled it upon the Dean of Canterbury * * *.

"The Vicarage-House having been burned down, Robert Wybourne, Gent., of this Parish, to supply the place of it, gave by his will in 1711, his dwelling house, with 32 acres of land adjoining it, then worth 40 £ per acre—an. to the Vicarage and successors, on condition of their residing in it, and performing divine service twice every lord's day in this church,' by which means this Vicarage is now worth upwards of 100 £ per An."

Parish of Estry

"The Church which is exempted from the Archdeacon, is dedicated to St. Marys. It is a large and handsome building, consisting of a nave and two side isles. A Chancel at the East End remarkably long, had a square tower which is very large, at the West End, in which are four very unmusical bells. This church is well kept and neatly paved and exhibits a noble appearance to which the many handsome monuments in it contributes much. * * * * An elegant pyramidel marble and tablets for Robert Bargrave, of this Parish, obt. 1779; for Elizabeth his wife, dau. of Sir Francis Leigh of Hawley; and for Robert Bargrave their only son, proctor in Doctoris, Commons, obt. 1774, whose sole surviving dau. Rebecca married JAMES WYBORNE of Sholden."

Northborne Court

"Northborne Abbey, belonging to Abbey St. Augustine, was an ancient court lodge of the manor, before they were separated by the different grants from the crown. It is said to have been in the time of the Saxons the palace of the King Eadbald, who gave it with the manor to the above monastery. In 1795 all the parties interested in the estate joined in conveying their respective shares to several purchasers under mentioned "To James Tollard, Esq. of Streetend Place near Canterbury, Northborne Court, lodge, farm and lands.

"To Robert Thomas Pyott, Esq. stone heap farm.

"To WILLIAM WYBORNE site of the late Mansion House, gardens and long lane farm.

"To Mr. John Parker, cold harbor farm, etc., etc.

"The whole purchase monies amounting nearly 1,100 30,000 cl. The whole estate contained nearly 1,100 acres, all title-free except about forty acres."

"The Mansion of Northborn Court was pulled down in 1750. Near the house was a handsome chappel, formerly used by the Abbot and Convant of St. Augustine when he visited the manson, and of age 1128. Anno. 29 King Henry I." (Thonis Chronicles.)

"In the 34 year of King Henry VIII. given to Archbishop of Canterbury." "Now held on a beneficial lease by MR. JAMES WYBORNE, who resides here, whose father WILLIAM WYBORNE rebuilt manson of this manor. His son James, a present lsee, married Rebecca Bargrave, by whom he had two sons, Bargrave and James, and three daughters, Frances who married John May, Gent. of Deal; Eliza who married Capt. Dean of Berkshire Militia, and Rebecca (previously mentioned)."

"They bear for their arms SABLE, A FESS, AR, BETWEEN THREE SWANS. The church which was dedicated to St. Nicholas consists of a nave and Chancel. It is of good size and well built, having a square tower, steeple at the West end, in which are the bells. The Church is celed and kept very neat. In the Chancel are several modern memorials for the WYBORNE Family * * *."

PERCIVAL WIBURNE, M. A., D. D.

"Born abt. 1533 at Whiston, Northborne, died abt. 1606. A famous puritan divine; fellow of St. John's Coll. Cambridge 1552; M. A. 1560; Prebendary of Norwich and Rochester 1560-1; Canon of Westminster 1561; Vicar of St. Supulchries, Holborn London, 1564. In 1564 he was refused subscription and was sequestered but retained prebends and preached in public. A man of strong protestant opinion, and sympathetic with the reforming tendencies of Edw. VI., and Elizabeth. During the reign of Mary he with others joined the congregation at Geneva. He was the author of several pamphlets and tracts, one of them on the 'Admonition to the Parlement,' caused a great sensation. For forty-four years he retained his stall at Westminster Abbey.

"There is a small treatise in the British Museum Library, (Lib. 697, f. 12): "A checke or reproof of M. Howlet's (i. e. R. Parsons) untimely screechings in her Magesties eares; with an answer to the reasons alleged in a discourse thereto annexed why Catholics refuse to go to church, etc." (signed) P. W. (i. e. Percival Wyburn), published by T. Dawson for T. Smyth, London, 1581." (National Dictionary of Biography.)

The following taken from Mr. Dexter's book, "England and Holland,—the Pilgrims," gives a sample of this learned doctors vigorous preaching; "In 1570 Dr. Percival Wyburne, a graduate of St. John's Coll. Cambridge, who in Mary's time had fled to Geneva, and who, on his returning, became a canon of Norwich and Westminster, and later vicar of St. Sepulchre's, London, and had been deprived of subscriptions—published a rejoinder to the attacks upon the nonconformists. He points out that trials always have caused some weak christians to fall. He then speaks freely of the Bishops, they are "blinded with estimation of themselves, with desire to please those who are in high authoritie, and with careful carking, as well to keepe that which they have as also greedily to gather more to it."—they "pretende one thing and doe plainlie the contrarie." He also testifies as to some of the ordinary clergy. "I knowe double beneficed men that doe nothing but eate, drinke, sleepe, and play cardes, tables, (back gammon), bowles, & read service in the church; but these infect not their flockes with false doctrine, for they teach nothing at all." And he ends thus: "Let vs wey therefore where the fault is, and who are the cause of the schisme. First of all such Bishops as fled in Queene Maries time, or els taried here vnder the crosse, had cast of, renounced, and forsaken all this trumperie, for the which the peace is nowe disturbed, and afterwarde for their promotion sake, put them on agayne; yet no man seuered him selfe from them, but liued and laboured in louing consent till such time as they, not regarding the peace of Gods church, did thrust vs their brethren fro them. They therefore regard not the peace but are the authours of this disturbance."

He held lands at Marden, Kent, and in Cowling and Fremdesbury &c.

He left a will which was proved May 16, 1606. Among the persons mentioned in the same were:

"To the poore prisoners of Northb. of the Towne and Cuntrie Gaole" 20. s.

"To the poore prisoners in Rochester Gaole" 20. s.

"To the poore prisoners in Westminster Gate house" 20 s.

Bloomfield, in his history of Norfolk Co., gives this item: Walter Wiburn, author of several poems and a treatise on the "Holy Land." In 1367, he was friar at Norwich. In 1394, 1 July, he was granted, for life, an annuity of 40 shillings from Coshan Manor, for good service to the king and the late Queen Anne. (Cal. of pat. rolls.) From the same patent rolls we find this item: "Grant as from 26 Augt. last, to Peter Kukke and WALTER WYBORNE, of lands and tenements in Little Dalyhall, County of Chester, formerly held by Herbert de Flore, to be accounted for at the Chester exchequer."

Goodman Wyborn,—School Master

From Archæology, vol. 34, page 65, we find this item:

"On the death of Queen Elizabeth, in 1603, and accession of James I. His Majesty's first visit to the ancient palace of Eltham is noticed in the church warden's account, as follows; and not inappropriately in connection with a school-master:

"Item, paid Goodman Wyborn for the coming of the King's Majesty into the town, and for ringing on the birthday of the prince, and for charges of a school master, the 18 of June 1605, and lattes for the school window." (We have not been able to find this Wyborn's given name, Compiler.)

"A narrative of the settlement of the Corporation of Massachusetts Bay and Capt. Wyborne's account of things in 1673." With the present posture of that country * * * "In 1673, Captain Wyborne, Commander of H. M. S. Garland, who came to Boston to victual and refit, and stayed there about three months made this relation. The trade of New England is very great, to all parts of the West Indies and to most parts of Europe, so that it is become a magazine both of American and European commodities. Of this irregular and unlawful manner of trade Capt. Wyborne complained, and required the seizure of an Ostend ship riding in the port of Boston but the magistrates gave for answer that they were the King's Vice Admirals in those seas and would do what seemed good to them; by which means the King loses an immense sum of money yearly, and the navigation of England is unspeakably prejudiced, and, as soon as any English money is brought there, it is melted down into their coin, making of each shilling fifteen pence to keep it from being carried out again. During the late war with the Dutch, New York being taken by Evertson, Captain Wyborne proposed to the Boston magistrates the reducing of that colony, offering his services with the King's frigate, only requiring some few soldiers and seamen and provisions and stores; but he received for answer that they would contribute their endeavours there unto."

Loss of the Gloucester.*

"Edinburgh, May 11th, 1682.

"My Lord,

"Ill news may come to your Lordship without my pen, still I cannot but in duty let your Lordship know the great grief and sorrow I have for the loss of my Lieutenant and your Lordship's brother, who, I believe, would have been the best officer in His Majesty's Navy, if he had lived. His Royal Highness did observe his care and diligence, and in the midst of all our sinking condition, behaved himself with great steadiness and resolution, and when the ship, was just going to sink, I was preserved in Captain Wyborne's boat (who was in her in person) by a rope over the stern. I endeavoured to find out your brother, but amidst that disorder missed him, and so I was forced to save myself as the rest of the common men did. Before this, I sent away His Royal Highness, and as many of the Scotch Lords as my boat would carry; the rest ran the same fortune with me. The narrative of which I have here sent your Lordship, which I beg may be received from your Lordship's most humble and most obedient servant,

"JOHN BERRY.*

* "Sir John Berry, whose conduct throughout the whole of this calamitous affair seems to have been prudent and courageous, very narrowly escaped by swimming to a rope that was thrown over the stern of Captain Wyburn's ship." (Sic.)

A LETTER OF SIR JOHN WYBORNE TO PEPYS*

"Bombay, January 14, 1686-7.

"Dear Sir,

"I have nothing worthy your acceptance, but have ventured to send by Captain Tyrrel a jasper antonia stone of eight ounces, (very good, I hope; I had it from a Jesuit of God, who makes them,) and fifteen fine little birds in a small cage. I have sent you by Mr. John Church, late Chaplain of this place, the finest plain cane
I could light of, having put a head on it. He comes home in the Sampson, from Surat, and promises to deliver it.

"I beg pardon for sending no better things; but I protest it is not for want of good inclination, but I cannot get anything here. So I beg you to accept the will for the deed, who am, Sir,

"Your Honour's most faithful servant,
"JOHN WYBORNE."

BRASS EFFIGY OF JOHN WYBARNE IN TICEHURST CHURCH, SUSSEX

"Perhaps the most curious of these "palimpsest" brasses now remaining is shewn in the accompanying figure (No. II.) It occurs in Ticehurst Church, Sussex. It has been made use of to commemorate John Wyborne, Esquire, and his two wives. The second wife, his widow, made her will in 1502, and she ordered a stone to be placed over herself and her husband; and this is what the executors did. They took a small slab bearing a brass figure of a man in armour, which had been engraved about 1365; there was not room for figures of the two wives of the same size as the figure already there, so they had a small figure placed on each side, little larger than half the size of the central one, and replaced the original inscription by one commemorating John Wyborne, who died 1490, and his two wives; their figures were engraved about 1510. Brasses are here and there found which have been altered to accord more or less with the fashion of a later date."—Connoisseur (London) Nov. 1901

SOME INTERESTING LETTERS

The following extracts are from letters of Mr. John M. Wyborn, of Bromley, Kent.

Letter: February 26th, 1910:—"The (Wyborn) wills show that the younger sons, and their descendants, settled not far from the line of march (so to speak) of the main trunk from Crofton to Culverdens and Hawkwell. Black Hill, Seale, Kennsing, Wrotham and neighborhood are all in an area of 10 miles square, and their Parish Registers contain a wealth of information, which taken with wills would give complete records of branches from about 1511. * * *"

Letter: October 18th, 1910:—"With regard to my own family groups I fear if you give tables of the descendants of Daniel Wyborn of Northbourne (1613-1684) including those of the six sons of Robert Wyborne, the elder, (1685-1773) you will have considerably enlarged your book for the sake of a large number of mere names and dates (many of which I am unable to give you not having completed the search in the parishes of Deal, Eastry, etc.). The earlier entries I sent you from Northbourne and Shoulden Parish registers, with those which can easily be found since about 1835 at Somerset House, London, will enable those desiring to trace their pedigree to do so."

Letter: August 9th, 1910:—"The Wrotham Wyborns seem to have made very few wills."

Letter: February 9th, 1910:—"I am in doubt as to the parentage of the Sir John Wyborne * * * but I strongly suspect he was a grandson of Rev. Petley (Wyborne) of Elmstone, near Preston. The coincidence of the names of Petley, Roger and Dorothy is rather suggestive. * * * The name of 'Daniel' seems confined to Deal and Sandwich, 'Samuel' is generally connected with Bexley and neighborhood."

Letter: April 8th, 1910:—"I cannot find that a ship named the 'Castle' sailed from Sandwich with emigrants for America, but I do find that the good ship 'Hercules' of 200 tons burthen (?) sailed from thence in 1634 with about a dozen families, four of which were from Tenderden. * * * If we can establish him (Thomas Wyborn of Boston) at Wrotham it is fairly certain he came of the Crofton group whose younger sons settled in a beautiful valley about Wrotham, Shoreham, Kennsing and Seale, all within a good afternoon's walk of Crofton and within sight of each other. They had lands reaching out to Farmingham on the one hand and Malting and Maidstone on the other. * * *"

Letter: August 13th, 1910:—"I think you would do well to publish a copy of the famous monumental brass of John Wyborne of Hawkwell. This has appeared with a full description in the 'Sussex Archæological Collections' Vol. VIII. * * * " [The author was fortunate in securing a cut of this famous brass, which will be found opposite page 152.]

Letter: June 3rd, 1910:—"I am sending you today some extracts for Inquisitions post mortem thereof which I have not before seen. * * * The oldest of these shows the value of the estates but in addition to the fact that our money was worth 20 times its present value (a fowl for the King's table costing 2d, which would now cost about a dollar) the valuation is, I believe, that of Pope Nicholas which was ridiculously low, so that a man with land valued at £4 per an. was comparatively 'Well fixed' as you say over the water. The first John Wyborne of Hawkwell held the Manor as a tenant of Bayham Abbey. * * * " [He thinks the manor of Hawkwell was built before 1460.—Author.]

An interesting extract from a letter of Mr. W. F. Weyburn, of New York, who, with Mrs. Weyburn, visited Pembury, Kent, early in 1910:

"Mrs. Weyburn and myself visited Hawkwells, Bayham Abbey, Tunbridge Castle, Tunbridge Wells, all of which were the property of our family at one time. At Hawkwells I met Reverend Woodgate, the 19th lineal descendant of Edward III, who lives at Pembury Hall, adjoining Hawkwells. We were in the old Wybarne Church on the property within 500 feet of his home and as he had been Vicar of the Church I called on him to get some information. Two days afterwards I received a letter from him at my London address, asking me to bring my wife at some early date and spend the day with them at Pembury Hall, as he has his pedigree illustrated which he wanted to show me, also that he could tell me of a number of things regarding our family. We did this and I must say we spent one of the most charming days we ever had. He took me down into the Lowlands on the property where the old Manor House stood and I saw water in about one-half of the moat. He also took me up to Little Hawkwells on the Hill, a house that was built 200 years ago, and showed me the old oak staircase that was taken from the original Hawkwells Manor House by one of his ancestors. It was magnificent, broad handrail and massive newel posts, all of which were made before they had any planes or saws to work with. The carving was done with a knife and the smoothing with an axe. This staircase is about 800 years old and is in a perfect state of preservation."

HAWKWELL MANOR AND BAYHAM ABBEY

[It is with peculiar pleasure that I present here, extracts from a letter recently received from Lyon Weyburn, Esq., of Boston, Mass., describing a visit to this historic locality.—AUTHOR.]

S. Fletcher Weyburn, Esq.,
Scranton, Penna.

Dear Father:—I wrote you some months ago from Europe that I was disappointed in not having an opportunity while in London to take a day or so in Kent; but the lavish entertainment which we enjoyed during that week and the Coronation festivities, made it impossible to get away even for a day. As a matter of fact I am very well pleased that I was unable to make the trip at that time, for during the next two months I was covering the best of Europe, traveling about in private trains and delighting in much that no Americans have heretofore had the privilege of enjoying; with the result that when I returned to London, I was able to make a "pilgrimage to the seats of our ancestors," with my mind stored with the beauties of the Continent, so to speak. I was able, therefore, you see, to make comparisons intelligently which I could not have made earlier.

It was a beautiful mild summer morning that I left London and ran down to Tunbridge Wells. The Wells is, as you know, a famous English watering place in the heart of Kent, surrounded by the most interesting and delightful country, including the famous High Rocks, Bell Rock, etc. After drinking of the waters, or as my cabby would say, "Taking the waters," I drove over to Pembury, a distance of three or four miles on the old main road which runs from London to Maidstone, known in Norman times "the capitol city of Kent." It is now the County seat, is it not? I found the road all that one pictures a delightful rural English road to be, with openings through the hedges now and then, giving frequent glimpses of the rich rolling country on either side. I am not sure that I enjoyed this particular part of the drive more than a drive which I had taken some days before from Eton through Burnham Beeches to Stoke Poges, but I am sure that the latter part of this afternoon's drive was finer than anything I have ever taken anywhere in my life, not excepting an early evening motor trip through German forests to the old walled city of Rottenberg, and many other trips that come to my mind when I think of delightful drives.

Driving into beautiful Pembury, I stopped at "Sunnyside," the home of Mrs. Betts, a lady about to celebrate her ninetieth birthday, and a woman of the most charming personality, who has enjoyed extensive travel and whose books on Kent have given so much pleasure.

I was received most cordially by Miss Meyer, a niece of Mrs. Betts, and enjoyed afternoon tea with these two highly cultured English ladies. While with them, I learned much of the Weyburn family history, which, though I may have read, I had never before had presented to me so interestingly and vividly; for in talking with these ladies and in realizing that I was within so few miles of the old Castle and the ruins of Bayham Abbey, and the old Norman Church of which our family were patrons for several hundred years, and the ruins of the old Mill, I began to feel for the first time in my life, the delights of throwing one's self back in his imagination into the life of his ancestors as he can picture it only when visiting the exact locality.

Impatient to drive on to the ruins at Hawkwell, I was pleased more than I can describe, when Miss Meyer, at the suggestion of her aunt, volunteered to drive with me and to point out to me those things in which I was most interested.

We accordingly set out and continued along the old Maidstone road for several miles, until we came to Little Hawkwell, the home of Lady Shaw. Little Hawkwell is built of the stones of the old Weyburn Castle—Hawkwell Manor, and has in it the old original stairway, hand-hewn and polished, of very great age and beauty. To our left we saw six or seven buildings also built of materials from the Castle, and I felt again the regret which I experienced first at Kennilworth,—the wanton dismantling of mediaeval piles. Near Little Hawkwell, Miss Meyer called to her a little girl of twelve or fourteen to guide us along the path to the old ruins. And a fascinating little guide she was, chattering away in her quaint English about the old place as though she herself were a descendant of those who had lived about, so many hundred years ago. After a short walk from the road, part way down the hill, where in the times in which we are interested, there had been a splendid forest, we came upon the remains of the old Moat about the Manor. It is now thickly overgrown with trees and underbrush, but passing in through the path which she pointed out to us, we found ourselves on the foundations of the old Castle with here and there pools of water in what was once a wide deep Moat. It was here that I broke off two or three small pieces of stone from the old foundation walls—all that remain of Hawkwell Manor.

Coming out from the ancient site and standing a little back on the hill from the Manor, one could in his mind's eye picture the beauty of the location. Like many of the old Castles on the Continent, Hawkwell Manor was built a little down from the brow of the hill, apparently at a spot where there were springs to feed the Moat, for, as I say, there is now considerable water about in the hollow places. And yet to all intents and purposes the Castle commanded the hill, for while it was down from the road sufficiently far so that there were perhaps two hundred yards of forest which completely shielded it from the main highway, yet it was so high as compared with the surrounding country that one could look off across the valley over what is now termed the "Garden of England." I have before me a copy of the engraving in the British Museum, of Hawkwell Manor, and I thought that day how wonderful it must have been to enjoy the panorama from those great rooms on the upper floors, protected on the one side by the forest and looking off on the other over this luxuriously verdant Kent.

From the ruins of the Castle we strolled down across the hill to what is left of the old Mill. The water still tumbles through the original sluice way, overgrown with vines and moss, and we stopped here in the cool of the valley and chatted a moment with a little English girl of fourteen who was returning to her modest home nestled there beside the Mill. I still carry this child's face in my mind. Do not think me extravagant when I say that her's was the most beautiful face of any child I have ever seen, and as Miss Meyer chatted with her, we learned that she had just won a scholarship which will carry her further in her studies. Were I romantic or were the romantic spirit to develop in me, I might seek again the ruins of that Mill!

From the Mill we drove up the opposite hill from Hawkwell Manor, passing Pembury Hall upon our left, to the old Norman Church of which I spoke. I believe you have pictures of this Church. It was built in the time of the Normans and has had several little books written about it. It is a fascinating place and when one stops to think that his family as the Lords of the Manor were patrons for generations of this beautiful Norman Church on the opposite hill, and reads of its ancient history, he gets a unique pleasure which places of general historic interest cannot arouse. I shall not attempt to describe the Church or the surroundings, save for one thing which seemed to me most curious.

Some one hundred or one hundred and fifty years ago a lady of this county having great fear of burial alive, made provision that her butler should for some weeks after her death, place in her tomb each day sufficient food to satisfy one in health. The vault is close by the wall of the Church and this lady was laid away in a coffin without cover, so that were she to come to life again she could move about and free herself of her "dungeon house." Holding the crystal of my watch so that the rays of the sun reflected in through the little opening, one could see the skeleton of this ancient lady whose coffin had crumbled to dust, exactly as she was placed there so long ago, and at her feet a great pile of half-burned matches dropped by curious tourists who had tried to peer within.

From the Church we went to Pembury Hall, the seat of the Woodgates. I believe that the Reverend Woodgate, 19th descendant of Edward III, some time Vicar of the Church, who lives in Pembury Hall and whose family is one of the most ancient, has been good enough to say that there are few families in England more ancient than the Weyburn family, but of this you know more than I. I was sorry to find that the Woodgates were traveling for a year, and that others had possession of the Hall. Through their courtesy, however, I was able to step in and see the old staircase of this lovely place. The lawns sweep off along the hill, and as we drove out, looking across the valley, toward the site of the old Castle, one could but exclaim at the charm of the country we were in.

Driving back and bidding Miss Meyer a farewell, and waving adieu to dear Mrs. Betts, I drove on for about an hour through these shady roads to the entrance to the estate upon which stand the ruins of Bayham Abbey. When I reached this spot the shadows were lengthening across the far stretching greensward with no sound to break the stillness of the evening. Here and there were flocks of grazing sheep aroused by my intrusion. I walked on until I came to the gate by the little bridge where I stood gazing at the ruins of the Abbey, which together with Hawkwell Manor had at one time been in the possession of Cardinal Wolsey, until forfeited by him to the Crown and granted to Sir John Wyborn. My recollection of English history at the time was worse than nothing, but I really did not care, for the beauty of the spot alone interested me.

From Bayham Abbey I drove for some three hours in the evening, through thickly wooded country in which but one great place appeared, that of the Marquis of somebody who owns this great estate.

I was never so glad that the English evenings are long and that darkness did not close in until late, for I did not reach Tunbridge Wells until after nine, just in time in fact to get my train for London, carrying with me a beautiful memory of my day in Kent.

The next day I had business in the city all of the morning, and late in the afternoon, as I was strolling up the Strand, I was caught in one of the heaviest thunder showers that London has had in many years. I stepped into a second-hand book shop and one of the first things that caught my eye was an old work published in 1590, I believe it was, dealing with Kent. I immediately expressed my interest in anything which had to do with Pembury, Hawkwell or Bayham Abbey, and the dealer brought out to me some dozen original works from thirty-five pounds a volume down, in which he wished to interest me. In turning over the pages of these books, I found many interesting references to the Weyburns of Kent and an old map printed some two or three hundred years ago, showing the location of the Manor and the Mill, and the old Church, and the old highway, as it was in the days that are gone.
