The Genealogy

Of the Family of

Elihu Parsons Wilson

Of Kittery, Me.,

1769-1834.

PREFACE.

In arranging and presenting the records contained in the following pages, the author wishes first of all to thank those who have helped him in this work. Without the efficient aid of many of the descendants, but little could have been accomplished. Prominently among these may be mentioned: Mr. Thomas Wilson of New York City, and Mrs. Samuel M. Pierce, Mrs. Hannah D. Hutchings, Mrs. Lucy J. Wilson, and Mr. Franklin H. Bond, all of Kittery.

It will be noticed that a few dates are lacking. The author has used every means in his power to obtain these, but without success.

These records are complete to January 1, 1894; there are a few entries of a little later date.

It is interesting to note that there have been seventy-six descendants through the male line from Elihu P. Wilson; out of this number thirty-four are living.

These records are arranged according to a system of numbers often used by genealogists. Each child is given a number. Further on in the records the families of the children are given in the order of these numbers. As a child a person's number is given at the left of the name; as the head of a family his number is to be found in the middle of the line, directly over the name. For example, suppose the family of Asa Wilson, son of Benning Wilson, to be wanted. In the list of Elihu P. Wilson's children Benning Wilson is No. 4. Turn the pages until No. 4 is found in the middle of the line and there is given Benning Wilson's family. Asa Wilson is No. 34 in that family. Turn the pages until No. 34 is found in the middle of the line and there is given the family of Asa Wilson.

In this work the letters "b," "md," and "d" are used respectively for born, married, and died. The latter is always written after the name of a person deceased, although in some cases the date of death is not given.

FRED A. WILSON.

THE

ELIHU PARSONS WILSON.

ANCESTRY.

The name of Wilson is a familiar one; but of the many thousands of that name now in this country, comparatively few have a common ancestor in America. That is to say, there are probably hundreds of families of Wilsons in the United States which are not so near of kin as to have a common ancestor of so late a date as 1630. Genealogical dictionaries dealing with the period previous to 1700 give long lists of Wilsons who settled in this country during this period, very few of whom are mentioned as being even distantly related to each other.

The town of Kittery, Maine, was settled early — probably previous to 1630. Among the early settlers in Kittery there was one who is the earliest ancestor in this country of what is now a large family of Wilsons. This man was Gowen Wilson. The first mention of him in Kittery bears the date 1647, at which time Kittery was incorporated as a town. Gowen Wilson was one of the forty-two men admitted at that time as citizens of the town. Probably he was then a young man. Extant signatures of his prove conclusively that he spelled his name as it is here written, although other records of that date spell it Gawin, Gowin, and Goin. The exact date of Gowen Wilson's death is not known. It was between June 2, 1684 and August 6, 1686. At this present writing nothing whatever is known about his wife.

There are records of three children of Gowen Wilson, viz :—Joseph, John, and Deborah. Deborah Wilson married Andrew Haley, the first Haley in Kittery. He was the great-great-grandfather of Mary Haley, the wife of Elihu Parsons Wilson, who was thus a direct descendant of Gowen Wilson. Of Gowen Wilson's two sons John was the younger. He was not married, and probably died a young man. Joseph inherited his father's estate and is the ancestor of all the Wilson families at present represented in Kittery. His wife was Hannah Endle, daughter of Richard Endle, Sr., whose estate adjoined that of Gowen Wilson. The following is a list of the children of Joseph and Hannah Wilson :

Hannah, born Nov. 19, 1683.

Joseph, born Oct. 28, 1684.

William, born Aug. 28, 1686.

Ruth, born Apr. 19, 1688.

Gowen, born Jan. 29, 1690.

Agnes, born Mar. 1, 1692.

John, born Jan. 13, 1694.

Rebecca, born Feb. 16, 1696.

Deborah, born Apr. 19, 1698.

Mary, born Feb. 25, 1700.

Anna, born Mar. 29, 1702.

Elizabeth, born Sept. 23, 1705.

Of the four sons above mentioned, William is the ancestor of the family of which the late Col. Gowen Wilson of Kittery (born 1788, died 1878) was a member; Joseph is the ancestor of the families of which James Wilson (1787—1864), Elihu Parsons Wilson (1769—1834), and Jane and Betsey Wilson, all late of Kittery, were members; John is probably the ancestor of the family of which the late Nathaniel Wilson (1760—1841) was a member; Gowen moved to Cumberland County, Me., and it is not known that any of his descendants ever returned to Kittery.

Joseph Wilson (born 1684, died 1758) was married three times. He first married Elizabeth Chapman in 1707, by whom he had three children — two sons and a daughter. One of the sons was Moses Wilson, grandfather of Elihu Parsons Wilson; the other was Joseph Wilson, grandfather of James Wilson above mentioned.

Moses Wilson was born about 1712 and died in 1783. About 1737 he married his first cousin Elizabeth Parsons. She was a daughter of Elihu and Ruth (Wilson) Parsons — said Ruth Wilson being a daughter of Joseph and Hannah Wilson (see list given above). Moses and Elizabeth Wilson had a family of eight children. One of these, Aaron Wilson, was the father of the late Jane and Betsey Wilson. Another son, Elihu Wilson, was the father of Elihu Parsons Wilson.

Elihu Wilson was born in 1745 and died about 1800. He was twice married, and had a son and a daughter, both by his first wife. He married Joanna Mitchell in 1766, and Hannah Weeks in 1776. His second wife became his widow. The daughter, Joanna Wilson, married John Fenix in 1791. The son was Elihu Parsons Wilson who is the head of the family whose records are given on following pages. He was evidently named for his great-grandfather, Elihu Parsons.

To recapitulate, the male line of ancestry is as follows:—

6. Elihu Parsons Wilson (born 1769, died 1834.)
5. Elihu Wilson (born 1745, died about 1800.)
4. Moses Wilson (born about 1712, died 1783.)
3. Joseph Wilson (born 1684, died 1758.)
2. Joseph Wilson (born about 1655, died about 1710.)
1. Gowen Wilson (b. pre. to 1625, d. about 1685.)

There is conclusive evidence, part of which will be given, to show that the land occupied by Gowen Wilson was near what is now “Brigg’s Corner,” on Spruce Creek, about two miles from Kittery Point Village. This was the first land granted to a Wilson in Kittery; and it was always the home lot of Gowen Wilson, although there is some evidence that he afterwards owned land elsewhere. Very likely he settled upon this land before the incorporation of the Town in 1647, the Town afterwards confirming it to him. The following is a copy from the Town Records of the original land grant.

“JANUARY 19, 1658.

Granted, lotted, and layd out by y^e Selecttownsmen for Kittery unto Gowen Wilson, his heirs or assigns forever, he duely preferring y^e town order, twenty-four acres of upland on y^e East side of Spruce Creek and joyning to Robert Mendam's lott by a division of marked trees on y^e South East side of y^e said Mendam's lott and so it runs twenty-four rods by y^e water side and so back into y^e woods by a North line until y^e said number of acres be accomplished. This grant was recorded y^e 25th June, 1661.”

From a study of this grant alone it would be hard to tell the exact location of the land in question. Other boundaries are mentioned in connection with subsequent grants of “addition to Gowen Wilson's home lot;” and finally, in 1703, a map of the estate was recorded upon the Town Records. A little creek called “Goose Creek” is shown upon this map, as well as elsewhere in the Town Records. This is near Brigg's Corner and is now called Wilson's Creek.

At the time of his death Gowen Wilson owned about forty-five acres of land at this place, bounded somewhat as follows: The general direction of the land was North East and South West, or parallel to what is now the Norton Road: Its South Western boundary was Spruce Creek; its North Eastern boundary was about 160 rods North East from what is now called Cherry Tree Point. Its South Eastern boundary was very near the Norton Road ; its North Western boundary was a line parallel to the Norton Road and about forty-five rods distant from it.

Gowen Wilson was a Selectman of Kittery in 1674 and 1675. His son Joseph, who inherited his father's property near Goose Creek, maintained a "garrison house." There were several garrison houses in Town, each being the refuge of from six to twelve families in times of trouble with the Indians. Joseph Wilson is always mentioned in the Town Records as Sargeant Joseph Wilson. Judging by the map, his garrison house was located somewhere upon the land that was recently the home lot of the late William Wilson, Jr. Several additional grants of land at this place were made to Sargeant Wilson, and eventually the North Eastern boundary was extended until in 1703 it was fully three-quarters of a mile from the shore. He also owned land, probably fifty acres or more, farther "up the Creek," including the estate of the late James Wilson.

Sargeant Joseph Wilson died intestate about the year 1710. His widow, Hannah Wilson, was appointed administrator, and the greater part of Sargeant Wilson's home lot was reserved for her use. In the meantime her son Joseph was married, and he settled upon the estate since owned by the aforesaid late James Wilson. Upon his mother's death, in 1747, he obtained possession of the Wilson land at Brigg's Corner, with the exception of that portion since owned by Nathaniel Wilson, deceased.

In 1750 Joseph Wilson sold to his son Moses Wilson land "which was the home lot of my honored father, Joseph Wilson." This deed shows that Moses Wilson owned the land which was formerly the home lot of his grandfather, Sargeant Wilson. Moses Wilson was married about 1737, and probably settled upon the land at that time. He gradually added to his possessions at Brigg's Corner until he owned all of what has since been the property of the late William Wilson, Jr., and the "lower field" of the late Jane and Betsey Wilson. Moses Wilson's will is given in full in the latter part of this book. It will be seen from that, that his land was equally divided among his three sons, Elihu, Aaron, and Joseph.

It is easy to recognize, in the land which is bequeathed to Elihu and Aaron Wilson on the South Western side of the road, the lower fields of the late William Wilson, Jr., and the late Jane and Betsey Wilson.

Moses Wilson was an influential man in town affairs. Among other offices which he held, he was town surveyor for a number of years. In this position he was succeeded by his son, Elihu Wilson.

Elihu Wilson occupied his share of his father's estate without adding to it, although he accumulated some personal property. He died at the comparatively early age of fifty-five years, and there is some evidence that he was not well the last few years of his life. His son, Elihu Parsons Wilson, not only bought his sister's share of the estate, but also purchased land of his uncles Joseph and Aaron; so that he owned nearly all of the land which was formerly the home lot of his grandfather, Moses Wilson.

In the foregoing has been traced the ancestry of Elihu Parsons Wilson, together with a partial account of the property owned by the different branches of the family. It is worthy of note that the land now owned by the heirs of the late William Wilson, Jr. has never been out of the possession of the Wilsons, having been owned by the male line of ancestry for 236 years, or since 1658.
