FOREWORD

No words more fully express the intent of this compilation, properly called Some Gleanings, Historic and Genealogical, than those voiced by the Psalmist, when he says:

"Which we have heard and known and our fathers have told us * * * That the generations to come might know them, even the children which should be born; who should arise and declare them to their children." (Psalm lxxviii.)

Years ago the compiler came into the possession of some fragmentary notes, collected by one of his earlier ancestors, comprising data relating to the numerous families who were identified with the history of Bergen County, N. J., in colonial days. Among these families was that of WESTERVELT, and after tracing his own line of descent through this and allied families, the work became so interesting that he was led to make further researches, to preserve at least an outline of the history of that family for this and future generations.

It is a source of honest and commendable pride to an American, that his ancestors for many generations in this land have done their part as self-supporting citizens in their several periods, for their neighborhood, their colony, their State and their country; as well as a satisfaction to know that at the birth of the Republic, or in the period of its peril, they took a part in the making of this government and in establishing its independence.

Our ancestors had the foresight and courage to cross the ocean in insecure and insignificant craft, to fell the primal forests, to build log cabins, to turn the virgin soil, and they also had the wisdom to create the conditions which their descendants have enjoyed for centuries.

The Westervelt family are Hollanders, and although the statement that they may have descended from "that little Dutch garden, commonly called Eden," may not be well proven, still they were known in the Netherlands at a period when surnames were coming into general usage. A genealogical authority states on this point that there is only one class of cases in which it is possible to trace a name beyond the eleventh century—these cases being families that had established funds for the deliverance of the souls of certain ancestors from purgatory. Family names prior to that time were entirely unknown, and it was some two hundred years before surnames were generally in use. The mothers of the family have frequently been of French, English, Scotch or German extraction, and their progeny, a commingling of blood from these the foremost nations of Europe, should have developed a type of humanity which is best represented in the American.

However, it is only with a feeling of respect that we should regard the Dutch as our ancestors; a people who, as a nation of the present day, take a position of lesser importance, ranked among the first when most of our ancestors came to this newly colonized locality. Amsterdam was then among the foremost cities of the world in commercial import, and the prestige which the Low Countries had acquired as masters of the sea had not departed. Holland, so often held in slight esteem, is entitled to the highest. To her we are indebted for a large share of the principles which have contributed to make us the great nation that we are to-day. Even the New Englander is proud to admit that his forefathers went first to Holland to learn what true liberty was ere they came here to practise freedom, and any forgetfulness on our part for the motherland would savor of baseness and ingratitude.

These Gleanings have been brought together during the few leisure moments of a most busy life, from a variety of sources—colonial and later records have been searched, church registers, histories and genealogies perused, notes taken from family Bibles and private papers, graveyards visited, and last but not least, an almost unending correspondence. The difficulties attending such a work as this (meagre as it is) are phenomenal, principally occasioned by the fact that during the American Revolution the localities where most of our blood resided were overrun by both armies, the people disconcerted and many records were destroyed by the enemy. Again, the majority of our ancestors failed to keep family records with any degree of accuracy, if at all.

The compiler acknowledges with gratitude the many acts of kindness extended to him by fellow-genealogists, librarians and others, and now expresses his thanks for these courtesies.

It will be seen that many descendants of the emigrant ancestors are omitted in this work. Still sufficient is given to enable any descendant of to-day to trace his ancestral line to our first American progenitors. This simple effort on the part of the compiler deserves but little praise as to literary merit, and his regret is that it has not been placed in more able hands. Perchance in the future some one with more ability and discrimination will perfect what is now sent forth—a pleasurable task, extending over a period of a quarter of a century.

PREFACE BY THE EDITOR

It has given the undersigned, selected by the widow of the late Walter Tallman Westervelt, to revise and prepare for publication the manuscript record of the Westervelt family compiled and arranged by her husband during the last twenty years of his life, very great pleasure to undertake the task allotted to him.

The late Mr. Westervelt had done this work in such a thorough and careful manner that the Editor has not deemed it desirable or necessary to alter the same in any material way or manner, except in a very few instances where it was absolutely necessary in order to make the work clear and intelligible.

In the first part where the work was done in Holland by a member of the Westervelt family there seems to be little inaccuracies which it is simply impossible for either the Editor or Publisher to correct, as they had not the original notes or records to refer to.

It may also be possible that in some extremely rare instances an error or two may have crept in that part relating to the American Westervelts that the Editor has not been able to detect, as he has not had the original notes to compare with the text.

The work certainly reflects the highest credit upon the late Mr. Walter Tallman Westervelt, both in the amount of genealogical and historical information and the clear and accurate manner in which it was compiled. It ought to be in the hands of every member of the Westervelt family who takes any pride in the annals of his race, and should be on the shelves of the principal libraries in the country.

The Westervelt Family

VAN WESTERVELT—WESTERVELT

When Henry Hudson and his crew of twenty men set sail in the Half Moon, a vessel of sixty tons burden, on the 4th day of April, 1609, this small ship swung clear of her moorings within the semicircular canal at Amsterdam and in front of the "Weeper's Tower"—which old building is still standing and contains the Harbor-Master's office. About and in front of this tower, on both sides of the canal, were gathered the women, children and friends of the hardy Dutch mariners about to sail on adventurous voyages. Then and afterwards, during the next fifty or more years, many crowds assembled here to see ships sailing for the far off Western shores.

Fifty-three years later, on April 8, 1662, doubtlessly from the same moorings, with same crowd assembled, sailed for New Amsterdam the good ship Hoop (Hope), Pieter Jan Æmilius, master, having on board the following complement of passengers:

Annetje Hendricks, wife of Jan Evertsen, shoemaker, and 5 children.
Cornelis Dircksen Hooglant, agriculturer, and wife, son and daughter.
Jacob Jansen N. Netherland, farmer, and wife and 3 children.
Adriaen Vincian, from Tournay, agriculturist.
Jochem Engelburgh, from Heusden.
Gerrit Hagerinck, from Newenhuys, and 2 sons.
Annetje Gillis van Beest, servant girl.
Jan Petersen, from Deventer, tailor, and wife and 3 children.
Jan Tunnier, from Gorckum, and wife.
Luytje Gerrits, agriculturist, from Friesland.
WILLEM LUBBERTSEN, from Meppel, agriculturist, and wife and 6 children.
LUBBERT LUBBERTSEN, from Meppel, agriculturist, and wife and 4 children.
Jan Barentsen, from Meppel, agriculturist, and wife and 5 children.
Gerrit Jacobsen, from Meppel, agriculturist.
Hanntje Barents, from Meppel, maiden.
Willem Pietersen de Groot, and wife and 5 children.
Abel Hardenbroeck, and wife and child, and servant named Casper Overcamp.
Balthaser de Vos, from Utrecht, farmer, and wife.
Hendrick Albertsen, from Thellerwaerd, farmer, and 2 children.
Albert Bunertsom Gulick.
Jan Spiegelaer and wife.

Among the number were the two brothers, William Lubbert-sen Van Westervelt, with his wife and six children, and Lubbert Lubbertsen Van Westervelt, with his wife and four children, who became the progenitors of the Van Westervelt-Westervelt family in America, and at one time the second largest family in Bergen County, New Jersey.*

The ship Hoop made a successful voyage and arrived at New Amsterdam on the 24th of May, 1662. These brothers were natives of Meppel, a mere hamlet in the middle of the seventeenth century, but now a considerable town, having 7,500 inhabitants in 1866, situated a few miles from the eastern shore of the Zuider Zee, in the province of Drenthe, Holland, and three miles east of Zwolle, where Thomas à Kempis wrote his famous book, In Imitation of Christ, and died in 1471.

To the east of Meppel the country was then a desert waste of lowland, but in late years it has been purchased by humanitarian societies to secure from beggary able bodied laborers and their families. These lands have been brought to a state of productiveness by their efforts. South and west of Meppel were rich green pasture lands.

These two men were agriculturists and cattle raisers, as many of their descendants have been until the present time. On their arrival New Amsterdam was suffering from a prolonged drought, which commenced in April, no rain falling for eighty consecutive days.

The name was known in Holland at a very early period, and although the family were not of the nobility, had been extensive property holders for many generations. Some of the name appear to have been early inhabitants of Zwolle, and still are to be found there, being known as Westerveld, and all along the eastern shore of the Zuider Zee this family have resided at various periods.

Johan van Westervelt in 1643, Daniel van Westervelt in 1650, Guillaume van Westervelt in 1655, and Johannes van Westervelt in 1683, were among the students of Utrecht. In 1676 Johan van Westervelt was Sheriff of Amersfoort. A Maria van Westervelt was buried at The Hague on May 8, 1673. In 1666 Paulus van Westervelt was a Doctor at Leyden, and subsequently at Amsterdam; in 1776 Jan van Westervelt, and in 1797 Johannes van Westervelt, were both inhabitants of Rotterdam.

The earliest mention of the family that has been obtained begins with one Dirk van Westervelt, and the following pedigree, quite incomplete, gives his descendants, who have resided for many years in and about the town of Harderwyk, in the Netherlands.

* Willem married Dirkje Roelofse, and Lubbert married Geesie Roelofse, presumably sisters, but as the Book of Marriages in Meppel (1636 to 1662) does not include their marriage dates, they must have been married at some other place, possibly at the town where their wives resided.

Dirk Van Westervelt

1 DIRK VAN WESTERVELT, b. about 1550; m. — Van Wenkom and had issue, a son.

2 HERIBERT VAN WESTERVELT, b. about 1585; m. Van Wynbergen and had issue, two sons:

+3 Willem.

4 Dirck, b. about 1615; burgomaster and councillor of Hardewyk; m. Aaltje, probably the dau. of Gerrit Meinten Hoolwerf, who was betrothed to Nysgen Aelts at Hardewyk, March 29, 1612. Issue:

5 Geertrui, b. about 1642; m. Willem Schoonsteyn, burgomaster of Huyssen. She died at Hoorn in 1681; no issue. A lawsuit was brought against the will of Geertrui (Van Westervelt) Schoonsteyn by Peter Hagen, in the name of his wife against Willem and Jacobus Van Westervelt, also against the heirs of Heribert Van Westervelt, by the Solicitor Dr. Antony Heydenryck, in the name of Cornelia, widow of Galen Keyzers. Willem acknowledged that he owed money to Agnes Van Amstel. After the death of Geertrui Schoonsteyn a certain Gyssel Van Vinceler, widow of Herwarden, declared that her deceased mother did not borrow money from Willem Van Westervelt.

6 Heribert, b. about 1645; m. Johanna Botter, dau. of Jacob Botter Van Arkel and — Van Ommeren; d. without issue, Oct. 21, 1680.

3 WILLEM VAN WESTERVELT, son of Heribert (2), b. about 1613, inherited the "havezathe"—i. e., the manor house called "Westerveld," situated at Zwollerker, a small village under Mastenbruck, near the town of Zwolle in the province of Overijssel, and left a son.

+7 Willem.

7 WILLEM VAN WESTERVELT, son of Willem (3), was living in 1684, and it is supposed that from this branch Willem Lubbertsen and Lubbert Lubbertsen Van Westervelt, the emigrants to

New Netherlands in 1662, derive their descent. This Willem had issue:

- 8 Geertruy, m. Peter Hagen and d. Aug. 18, 1724.
- +9 Willem.
- 10 Willem Celeman, m. Aleida Keizers, and d. about Easter, 1684, having had issue:
 - 11 Anthony, b. 1681. Squire of Essenberg, burgomaster of Harderwyk, and Trustee of the University in that town (this school of learning was founded in 1647 and suppressed in 1812); m. at Nunspeet, first, Mechteld, dau. of Herman Nuck and Reinira Brants, Nov., 1706; and, secondly, at Hierden, Arlindia Van Cronenberg, Aug. 1721. He died at Harderwyk 1761. Issue:
 - 12 Herman Jan, bap. at Hierden, Aug. 22, 1707; d. y.
 - 13 Heribert, bap. at Hierden, Jan. 27, 1711. Burgomaster and Trustee of the University of Harderwyk; m. at Hierden, Aug. 1, 1733, Alida, dau. of Frederich Hendrik Schortes and Aletta Van Twilland. She d. July 6, buried July 11, 1770, aged 54 years. He d. at Hierden Oct. 18, buried Oct. 25, 1792. Had issue:
 - 14 Mechtelt, bap. at Hierden Nov. 2, 1734; d. March 3, buried March 9, 1808.
 - 15 Aletta Margaretha, bap. at Hierden, Aug. 25, 1737; buried at Hierden, Sept. 22, 1787.
 - 16 Wilhelmina Aleyda, bap. at Hierden, Oct. 5, 1738; buried at Hierden, April 27, 1740.
 - 17 Huberta Cornelia, bap. at Hierden, Nov. 6, 1740; buried at Hierden, July 30, 1742.
 - 18 Anthonie, bap. at Hierden, Jan. 14, 1742; buried at Hierden, Aug. 13, 1742.
 - 19 Aleyda Johanna, bap. at Hierden, June 3, 1743; d. Oct. 2; buried at Hierden, Oct. 6, 1791.
 - 20 Frederica Henrietta, Lady of Essenberg, bap. at Hierden, Sept. 14, 1746; d. unm. Sept. 4; buried at Hierden, Sept. 7, 1813.

- 21 Aleyda Johanna, bap. at Hierden, Oct. 4, 1713; m. her cousin, Willem Jan Van Westervelt (see No. 28).
- 22 Herman Jan, bap. at Harderwyk, March 15, 1716. Had issue, two sons:
- 23 Dirck, d. while a bridegroom.
- 24 Jacobus, d. unm.; buried at Harderwyk, July 22, 1735.

9 WILLEM VAN WESTERVELT, son of Willem (7); m. 1st, at Voorthuisen, Anna Elizabeth Van Vaneveldt, Nov., 1674, and, secondly, at Utrecht, Lady Alida Gilberta, dau. of Peter Van Weede and — Stalpard Van der Wiele, Sept., 1680. She d. Feb. 13, 1709. And by her he had issue:

- +25 Pieter (see No. 25).
- 26 Johanna, d. unm.
- 27 Heribert, bap. Oct. 21, 1688; d. unm.

25 PIETER VAN WESTERVELT, son of Willem (9); bap. Sept. 19, 1685; m. at Barneveld (removed to Stoutenberg) Johanna Catharina, dau. of Jan Van Esveld and Geertruy Roos, Feb. 5, 1720, and d. June 18, 1722, leaving one son:

- +28 Willem Jan (see No. 28).

28 WILLEM JAN VAN WESTERVELT, son of Pieter (25); bap. Dec. 21, 1720. Squire of Salentyn and Lenvenum. Burgomaster and Councillor of Harderwyk; m. at Hierden his cousin, Aleyda Johanna (21), dau. of Anthony Van Westervelt (11). She was buried at Hierden, Sept. 2, 1802. He d. at Hierden, Oct. 3, and was buried there Oct. 7, 1776. Had issue:

- 29 Antonie, bap. at H. April 30, 1745; buried there Oct. 24, 1749.
- 30 Pieter, bap. at H. Jan. 27, 1746; buried there June 2, 1747.
- 31 Johanna Catharina Geertruy, bap. at H. March 1, 1748; buried there Nov. 23, 1758.
- 32 Machtelt, bap. at H., May 11, 1749; m. at H., Dec. 2, 1770, Johan Cornelius Francois de Vries, "Maire" (burgomaster) of H., and d. there Oct. 18, 1813.
- +33 Antoine Pieter (see No. 33).
- 34 Willem Celeman, bap. at H., Oct. 22, 1751; burgomaster of H.; d. at Hattern. March 28, 1775.
- 35 Dirk Jacob, bap. at H., Feb. 18, 1753; buried Nov. 18, 1758.

The name of a man is the mark by which he is distinguished from other men. By our present universal practice, it is composed of his Christian name and his surname; the one is given to him at his birth or baptism, the other, according to the present use, being derived from the common name of his parents. Anciently among most European nations there was but one name, surnames not commonly coming into general use until the middle of the fourteenth century. The insufficiency of the Christian name to designate the particular individual when there were many bearing the same name necessarily led to the giving of surnames; these, in a great majority of instances, were composed of the name of the place where the individual was born or dwelt, his occupation, some peculiarity in his appearance, character, history or qualities or by connecting his Christian name to that of his father.

Very frequently, in conjunction with his patronymic, the name of a town or locality was added and interchangeably used, as occasion required. This was the custom of the two brothers, who were known as Willem Lubbertsen and Lubbert Lubbertsen, while in wills, deeds, church records and other documents, they are named as Van Westervelts and Westervelts.

The family surname is derived from a "Havezathe" or manorial property called "Westerveld," situated in a small village named Zwollerherspel under Mastenbroch, near the town of Zwolle, in the province of Overijssel.

This estate was the subject of a lawsuit and was in the possession of the Van Westervelt family about the year 1600.

The children of Willem, as well as himself, were always designated as Van Westervelts, while the children of Lubbert were known as Westervelts, the van being eliminated, a matter of regret by their descendants of the present day. In only one instance is it found that "Lubbert Lubbertse, the younger," son of Lubbert, the emigrant, is cited as Lubbert Lubbertse, otherwise he is designated as Lubbert Westervelt.

The manner of spelling the name has not changed materially during the last two hundred or more years, from the Dutch origin of VAN WESTERVELT. Westerveldt, Westerveld and Westervelt, the latter being now in common usage, are the forms, although a few branches, in later years, have assumed that of Westerfield.

Through the courtesy of the late Baron Nahüys, a descendant of the Harderwyk branch of the family in Holland, the baptisms of the children of Willem and Lubbert Van Westervelt have been obtained. These dates were duly verified by the Burgomaster of Meppel and are as follows:

Children of Willem Lubbertsen Van Westervelt:

Aeltie, bap. in Meppel, Jan. 22, 1651.

Abraham, bap. in Meppel, March 2, 1653.

Willemtie, bap. in Meppel, Oct. 16, 1654.

Femmetie, bap. in Meppel, April 29, 1658.

Jan, bap. in Meppel, Jan. 27, 1660.

Children of Lubbert Lubbertsen Van Westervelt:

Margrietje, bap. in Meppel, Jan. 24, 1647.

Mairtie, bap. in Meppel, July 2, 1654.

Roelof, bap. in Meppel, March 10, 1659.

It will be noticed that the above does not name all the children of Willem and Lubbert, as indicated by the passenger list of the Hoop.

Willem Lubbertsen Van Westervelt

Of Willem, the emigrant, but little can be learned. His wife was Dirkyen or Dirkje Roelofse. He appears to have remained in New Amsterdam for a number of years, where he and his wife were church members, Jan. 3, 1667.

Subsequently he removed to Flatlands, L. I., where he came in possession of considerable lands. By his will, recorded in Liber 3, folio 10, Kings County Register's Office, he devised all his estate to his son Abraham Willemse Van Westervelt. He died prior to Sept. 1, 1697.

Dirkje Roelofse, the wife of Willem Lubbertsen, died in the year 1704; by her will, dated Sept. 1, 1697, and recorded Aug. 22, 1704, she called herself "Derike Williamse Van Westervelt, of the town of New Utrecht, in the King's County; on the Island of Nassau, in the province of New York, widow and relict of William Van Westervelt, late of King's County, deceased," devised to her son Abraham all her property and named him as her sole executor. She was on the tax list of Flatlands, Sept., 1676. (Doc. Hist. N. Y., Vol. I., 489; Vol. IV., 156), also on Sept. 25, 1683 (Vol. II., 496).

1 AELTIE, bap. in Meppel, Jan. 22, 1651, who may have died in Holland before 1662.

2 JANNETJE, b. at Meppel; m. Huybert Lambertsen Mol, of Aernhem, July 9, 1662 (N. Y. Church Records); and had one child baptized (N. Y.), Nov. 7, 1663; witnesses, Willem Lubbertsen (the grandfather) and Joost Goderns.

3 WILLEM (on tax list Flatlands, not certain).

4 ABRAHAM, bap. in Meppel, March 2, 1653, who inherited the lands of his father at Flatlands, was a weaver and married Margritta or Margaret ———. His name appears on Dominie Van Zauren's list of church members at Flatbush, 1673-1685, where he took the oath of allegiance in 1687, having been in this country 25 years (Doc. Hist. N. Y., Vol. I, 661). Abraham bought a farm, situated on New Utrecht Lane in New Utrecht* on April 5, 1697, from Nicholas van der Grift (as per Liber 2, folio 132, Con. King's Co.), and where he was assessed for 38 acres in 1700. Part of this property he sold to Anthony Holsart, Nov. 12, 1705, with the consent of his mother, Dericke or Dirckje, and to Renier Van Sicklen, he sold his interest in a house and lot

* The first settler in New Utrecht was one Anthony Jansen Van Salee,—in Africa, who had been banished from New Amsterdam. He possessed about 200 acres, on which he resided August 3, 1639, and patented May 27, 1643. These lands lay partly in New Utrecht and partly in Gravesend, as these town boundaries were afterwards fixed. On Nov. 22, 1652, Cornelis Van Werckhoven, a member of the West India Company, purchased from the Indians what is commonly known as the Nyack Track, extending along the Narrows and Lower Bay, his intention being to become a patroon or feudal lord over this territory. He shortly afterwards commenced settlements, but, returning to Holland in 1654, he left Jacques Cortelyou, the private tutor of his children, in charge of his affairs. Van Werckhoven remained in Holland, where he died in 1656, leaving a widow and two children. Subsequently these lands fell into the hands of Cortelyou, as he had left debts which Cortelyou paid. Cortelyou petitioned the Deputy-General and Council to lay out a town, which was granted January 16, 1657, and he immediately divided the property into 20 lots of 50 acres in Flatlands, probably the homestead of his father, Willem, also a 70 acre plot in Flatlands, next to the lands of Pieter Monfoort, and 10 acres on the plains next to Jan Damon, as per Van Sicklen papers, on Oct. 22, 1707, he and his wife, Margaret, sold to Samuel Gerretse, of Gravesend, the remainder of the lands where he resided in New Utrecht, formerly purchased from Van der Grift in 1697, together with 12½ acres of woodlands in Gravesend, purchased of Jacobus Kiersteed, for the sum of £200. This deed included "1 negro man named Mango, 5 horses, 15 cows, plate, beds, bedding, plows, waggons, harrows, &c., &c." The day following his wife, Margaretta, repurchased all the above named property, both real and personal, the transaction being merely a transfer of his whole estate from himself to his wife.

Abraham, by will dated April 22, 1697, devised all his estate to his wife, Margaretta, also stipulating therein that his mother, Derike, should continue to reside at his home in New Utrecht, and to be provided with all necessary food and raiment "in her circumstances ought to be," by his sole executrix, Margaretta. This document was recorded on the day following (April 23, 1697), together with a bond for £500, in which he firmly bound himself to Henry Ffilkin, registrar, that he would not dispose of his property or revoke the said will. At this time he was childless and he may have returned to Holland or died without issue, the latter being the most probable.

WILL AND BOND OF ABRAM WILLIAMSE VAN WESTERVELT.

In the name of God, Amen. The two and twentyth day of Aprill in the ninth yeare the Reigne of our Sovereign Lord William the third now of England &c. King and in the year of our Lord one thousand six hundred and nynty-seven, I, Abram Williamse Van Westervelt, of the town of newyutrecht in King's County on the Island Nassau in the Province of New Yorke, being of good and perfect memory, praised be Almighty God, therefore doe make this my last will and testament in manner and forme ffollowing, that is to say, first, I recommend my soull unto Almighty God who gave it and my body to the earth to be buried in such decent and Christianlike manner and in such place as by my executrix hereafter named shall be thought fit and convenient.

Item. I give, grant, devise and bequeath unto my wife, Margarita Williamse, all and singular my houses, lands, tenements or lands, gardens, meadows and hereditaments in possession or reversion or remainder either each. These he assigned to 20 settlers, and to most of them patents were granted. In addition, each settler had a village plot for a residence. The village was thereupon named New Utrecht, after Utrecht in Holland, an ancient city on the Rhine, containing some 48,000 inhabitants, of which place Van Werckhoven had been a schepen. During the war with the Esopus or Kingston Indians in 1659, the settlers having the Nyack Indians in their immediate vicinity, and fearing a general uprising among the tribes on Long Island, they fortified the house of Nicasius De Sille (which was burned in 1675) with palisades, and set up a strict watch. The town grew slowly, and only contained 11 houses in 1660. On Aug. 15, 1668, Governor Nicolls issued a patent to New Utrecht, it then having been under English rule for some years, and on May 13, 1686, Governor Dongan issued a new patent. In Sept., 1687, fifty-two individuals, probably all of its adult male inhabitants, took the oath of allegiance to the Crown. The church was organized in 1677, under the Rev. Casparus Van Zauteren, who succeeded Domine Polhemus, of Flatbush, but no edifice was erected until 1700.

within the province of New Yorke or without, for and during her natural life, or in case my said wife come to have any issue or children by me then all my houses and lands as aforesaid equally to be divided between my said children, and to them, their heyres and assigns forever. After the decease of my said wife Margarita and in case of noe issue or (children) by me then all and singular my houses and lands as aforesaid to be and remain to my said wife Margarita, to her heyers and assigns forever; To have and to hold all the said houses, lands, tenements, orchards, gardens, meadows and hereditaments in possession, reversion or remainder unto my said loving wife Margarita for and during her naturall life, and after her decease to her children (if any) their heyers and assigns forever equally to be divided between them, and if none to said Margarita her heyers and assigns forever to the sole and only possession benefit of her the ^{sa} Margarita and children (if any) in manner aforesaid her and their heyers and assigns forever.

And further it is my will and desire and I doo hereby that my loving mother Derike Williamse shall be kept & maintained out of the rents & profits of my estate for and during her naturall life and shall alsoe continue and live in my house at newutrecht aforesaid and be then lookt after in her circumstances ought to be with all necessarys convenient for her as flood and Rayment, &c. by my executrix hereafter named.

Item. I give and devise and bequeath unto my loving wife Margarita Williamse all and singular my goods and chattels, rights and credits whatsoever or wheresoever the same shall become due for and during her naturall life and after her decease to her children (if any) to be equally divided between them and to their executors and administrators as their owne goods and chattels forever, and in case of no issue or children by me, to my said wife Margarita her heyers and assigns as hers and her own goods and chattels forever. To have and to hold the said goods and chattels, rights and credits unto the said Margarita and children (if any) in manner as aforesaid, and doo hereby make and ordaine her the said Margarita whole and sole executrix of this my last will and testam^t as aforesaid and doo hereby promise not to revoke and disannull or make voyde this my last will and testament upon any account whatsoever. In witness whereof I have hereunto put my hand and seale the day and yeare first above written.

pr. HENRY FFILKIN, Reg^r.

Know all men by these presents that I, Abram Williamse Van Westervelt, of the town of newutrecht in King's County on the Island Nassau, in the province of New York, am holden and firmly bound unto Henry filkin of the County in the full and just sume of five hundred pounds lawfull money of New York to be payd unto the said Henry filkin or his certaine Attorney, heyers, executors, administrators or assignes—To the which payment well and truly to be made and done I the said Abram Williamse van Westervelt doo bind myself, my heyers, executors and administrators and each and every of them joyntly and personally by these presents. Sealed with my seale and dated the two and twentyth day of Aprill in the ninth yeare of the Reigne of our Sovereigne Lord William the third, now of England, &c. King, Anno Dom 1697.

The condicion of the above obligacon is just that whereas the above boundon Abram Williamse Van Westervelt for good cause and consid-eracons and true love and affection to his wife, Margarita Williamse, hath made and hereunto subscribed, published and declared his last will and testament in writing Indented bearing date herewith for and concerning the giving and granting of all his houses and lands, goods and chattels in King's County aforesaid or elsewhere to the uses, intents and purposes in the said will expressed; if therefore the said Abram Williamse shall not at any time hereafter disannull, revoke, make voyde, frustrate the said will and doo any act, fact or thing by sale of the premises or otherwise whereby the said will shall not be of ffull effect on which may in any wise prejudice, hinder or hurt the same or the benefit, advantage or commodity therefor thereby to be had, taken or to come to accrue to the person or persons therein named for or concerning the houses and lands, goods and chattels as afores^d or any part thereof. Then this obligacon to be voyd and of none effect otherwise to be & remaine in full vertue and power in law.

 - 23 Sara, bap. in New York April 6, 1667. Witnesses, Jacob Meissen and Mayken ———. Perhaps also:
 - 24 Roelof, who m. Willemtie Tysen.

All of these children, with the exception of Abraham, were known as Willemsens in later years. This use of patronymics was most common among the Dutch in early days, and frequently led the genealogist to untold confusion. This ends, therefore, the descendants of Willem Lubbertsen, as no trace is found of Willem Abrahamz, the supposed son of Abraham, who appeared on the assessment rolls of New Utrecht in 1693, as he may have died unmarried or childless, prior to the making of his (supposed) father's will on April 22, 1697.

OLD WESTERVELT HOUSE
BUILT BY KASPAURUS WESTERVELT, AT NEW HACKENSACK, NEAR POUGHKEEPSIE.

• Lubbert Lubbertsen Van Westervelt

I LUBBERT, the emigrant, brother of Willem Lubbertsen, also settled on Long Island immediately after his arrival in New Amsterdam, for on the 15th of December, 1662, he applied to the Schout and schepens of Flatbush for a building plot on the west side of the village and on the south side of the main road, as per Liber B, folio 114 of Flatbush records. Later he purchased, on the 20th of Aug., 1670, from Jan Miserol, a house at "Rustenburg," the local name of the southerly side of Flatbush, as per Liber A, folio 10, of Flatbush records. In Oct., 1673, he sold his farm lands obtained in 1662, to Cornelis Janse De Seen, for the sum of 4,000 guildens, and from this it may be inferred that he discontinued the life of a planter for a time and resided in the house purchased from Jan Miserol in 1670. No evidence is found of his having made any further purchases of lands on Long Island. To the above cited conveyances he signed himself LUBBERT LUBBERTS.

Prior to 1676 he removed from Flatbush, L. I., to Hackensack, N. J., then a sparsely settled community. He and his wife transferred their church membership from Flatbush to the congregation at Bergen, Oct. 2, 1676, as no organization existed in Hackensack at so early a period. The marriages of his children, Lubbert, Roelof, Jan, Margrietje and Maritie, are all recorded in the Bergen church.

The civil history of Hackensack antedates the church organization but a few years. Then backwards, up to 1641 or 1642, when it was a trading post, there is almost a perfect blank. At that time a colony was established about five or six hundred paces from the village of the Hackensack Indians, under their sachem, Oritany, but constant and serious pillages soon led to the ruin of the settlement. Its name is thought to signify a confluence of rivers, referring probably to the Passaic and Hackensack. The word is spelled in a variety of ways: Haghkingsack, Hackquinsack, Hachensack, Hackingsack, Hackensack, Yaccinsack, Ackensack, Hagensack, Hackensackey, Hackingkeshachy, Ackenkeshacky. In the old church records it is called Acken-sack.

At the organization of the Dutch Church at Hackensack, July 29, 1686, the Reverend Peter Taschemaker states, at the opening of the records of this congregation, that he found 33 members, all of whom had formerly connected themselves with churches on Long Island or at Bergen, which was organized in 1662. Among this number are found the names of LUBBERT LUBBERTSE, the elder, and his wife Geesie (Grace) Roelofse; also those of his son, Lubbert, the younger, with his wife, Hilletie Pauwelse, and daughter Maritie.

In Aug., 1687, his sons Roelof, Jurrien, and daughter Margrietje, became members.

The locality where Lubbert, senior, resided at Hackensack has not been ascertained. A most exhaustive examination of the records for deeds in the Proprietor's office, at Perth Amboy, and the Secretary of State's office, at Trenton, N. J., failed to give the desired information. That he was a man of some property is known from the fact that he disposed of his lands on Long Island for 4,000 guildens ($1,600), then a considerable sum, and without doubt he made further purchases of lands in New Jersey.

Lubbert was born about 1620 and married about 1645; he died soon after 1686. No mention is made of him, either in church or civil records, subsequent to that year. Of his personal appearance, characteristics, nothing is known except that he was a man in good circumstances for the times in which he lived, having reached the years of about "three score and ten."

His wife, Geesie, was still living on the 27th of Dec., 1696, when she was a sponsor at the baptism of her grandson, Roelof Pouluse, son of her daughter Margrietje.

Issue as follows:

- 2 Margrietje, b. at Meppel, Holland, Jan. 24, 1647; m. Martin Pouluse* at Bergen, March 25, 1694. A member of the church at Hackensack in Aug., 1687.
- 3 Maritie, b. at Meppel, Holland, July 2, 1654; m. Hendrik Epke Banta, at Bergen, Nov. 17, 1678. A member of the church at Hackensack in 1686.
- 4 Jan, date of birth unknown; m. Magdalena van Blarcom. He was still living on the 25th of Dec., 1698. No issue found.
- +5 Roelof, born at Meppel, Holland, March 10, 1659.
- +6 Lubbert, junior; date of birth unknown.
- +7 Jurrien; date of birth unknown, but subsequent to 1662.

* The Powless, or Paulison family, descend from Paulus Pietersen, who was born at Merwen, a small town in Holland, 1632, and emigrated in 1656. He m. (2) Tryntje Martens, Sept. 1, 1685, and located at Bergen, where he became prominent. In 1663, Governor Stuyvesant appointed him one of the Commissioners to fortify the town against the depredations of the surrounding Indians. The same year he patented various parcels of land, containing 37 acres. He d. Dec. 18, 1702, his wife's demise being May 19 of the same year. His third son Martin, by his first wife, m. Margrietje Westervelt, at Bergen, March 25, 1694.

5 ROELOF, son of Lubbert, senior, the immigrant (1); was bap. in Meppel, Holland, on the 10th of March, 1659. He accompanied his parents to America and resided on Long Island during the days of his boyhood. When 29 years of age he married, at Bergen, Orsolena or Wesselena, dau. of Caspar Stymets and Jannekin Gerrits, of the same town, on the 25th of March, 1688. (Entered in New York church records, April 11, 1688.) The earlier was the date of registration, and the latter the date of the marriage ceremony. On the outer wall of the church at Hackensack are the initials of himself and wife, engraved in 1696.

In 1695, in company with nine others, he purchased from the Lord Proprietors of East Jersey, for the sum of £100, a large tract of land embracing some thousands of acres, extending from the Hudson River to the Overpeck, or English Creek, and running northerly and southerly a distance of about two miles. These lands were fertile, well elevated and sloped gradually from the Palisades to the Overpeck Creek. Roelof obtained the most northerly portion of the tract and settled upon it, part of said lands being still in the possession of his descendants.

In the same year he made a further purchase of the triangular lot (Sections 6 and 7, Map of Bergen Co.), lying between the east and west branches of the Overpeck, which was first patented by the Proprietors, who sold it in 1688 to Samuel Emmett, of Boston. Emmett then conveyed it, Sept. 17, 1695, to Roelof Lubbertsen Westervelt. The Indians disputed Westervelt's title in 1705 and he was obliged to obtain a release from them. This triangular tract extended from the two branches of the Overpeck, northward to the head of Tiena Kill Brook, and gave him one of the largest farms on the Hudson.

He became a member of the church at Hackensack in 1687, was elected a deacon in 1705, in place of Roelof van der Linde, and church master in May, 1709, succeeding Jacob Hendrick Banta in that office. He married at Schraalenburgh, for his second wife, Lea, the daughter of Jean Demaree and Jacominia Druens. She was the widow of Abram Brower. This marriage occurred on the 15th of May, 1731. Roelof was then in his 73rd year and his wife in her 50th. They were both living on Oct. 21, 1733.

Patent to Roelof Lubbertse Westervelt and others for the above mentioned lands:

The Proprietors of the Province of East New Jersey. To whome these presents shall come, Greeting:—

7 JURRIEN, son of Lubbert, senior, the emigrant (1), was b. on Long Island, N. Y., shortly after 1662. He married, first, Geesie, dau. of Jan Bongcart and Angersitie Strykers, at Hackensack, in 1694; second, Antie, dau. of Siba Banta and Mary Sip, at Hackensack, Aug. 19, 1699; third, Cornelia, dau. of Albert van Voorhees and Hilletje Wisselpenning, at Hackensack, April 17, 1703. Cornelia van Voorhees was from New Amersfoort (Flatlands), L. I., but then of Hackensack; fourth, Leude Romein, a widow, at Hackensack, Oct. 6, 1738.

He became a member of the church at Hackensack in 1687, served as a deacon on March 18, 1694, again on March 9, 1700, elder in May, 1710, and again in May, 1722. He bought lands from Capt. John Berry at Hackensack, on Jan. 13, 1687, lying between the Hackensack and Saddle Rivers, containing 234 acres, for the sum of £30. In this deed he is named as of Essex County, and it is the first document recorded in the Clerk's office of Bergen County, N. J. Other extensive land purchases were made from Berry.

In 1709 he and George Ryerson purchased lands of the Indians, situated on the Passaic River, which included the present site of the city of Paterson, and on April 18, 1707, he purchased from Ryer Ryerson and wife 600 acres of land, also on the Passaic River, beginning at Machra Creek, for the sum of £46 13s 4d.

On January 11, 1734, Jurrien, then described as being an inhabitant of the township of New Barbadoes, sold to Abraham Varick 1,500½ acres of land for £165, being part of his purchase from Berry in 1687. He was a Freeholder of Bergen Co. in 1728, and lived subsequent to Oct. 6, 1738, at this time well advanced in years.

10 KASPARUS, son of Roelof (5). Was bap. at Hackensack, July 19, 1694, by Dominie G. Bertholf, Gerrit Stimets, his uncle, and Ariaentie Gerrits van Huysen, acting as sponsors. He was married by the same clergyman to Aeltie, the dau. of Roelof Bongeaert and Gertruy Breyant, on the 7th of May, 1715, the ceremony having undoubtedly taken place at the residence of her father, situated on what is now known as the Teaneck road, about 1½ miles to the east of Hackensack, this property being part of the estate of the late William Walter Phelps. This marriage is recorded at Hackensack.

He resided on the lands which his father had patented from the Proprietors in 1695, where all his children appear to have been born. He is not named as a member of either the Hackensack or Schraalenburgh congregation. His wife, however, connected herself with the church at Hackensack, on Oct. 8, 1715, a few months subsequent to their marriage.

In 1744 Kasparus, now a man in middle life, removed with his family to Dutchess County, N. Y., then a newly settled section, populated mostly by families from Long Island and New Jersey, thus becoming the progenitor of what is known as the "Poughkeepsie Branch." All of his children remained in Dutchess County, with the exception of his eldest daughter, Orseltie, who married Isak Romein, at Hackensack, in 1738, and his son Jan, who returned to Bergen County, N. J., prior to his marriage in 1745.

On November 10, 1744, he purchased an extensive tract of land, in eight parcels, lying about $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles south of Poughkeepsie, from Marcus van Bommel, Eggeie, his wife, and Jacobus van Bommel, his son, for the sum of £800, current money of the province of New York, consisting of some 1,600 acres and extending from the Hudson to Wappingers Creek, a mile wide on the river and $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles to the eastward.

The various boundaries of this estate are most minutely described in the quaint phraseology of the day, by a deed bearing the above named date and recorded in the County Clerk's office at Poughkeepsie, on Dec. 12, 1792. (Liber 11, folio 424.)

A tradition in the family has it that Kasparus Westervelt, or, as he is named in the said deed, "Gosporus Westerfelt," exchanged his lands in New Jersey for those already named in Dutchess County, and Van Bommel wanted £100 compensation to make the bargain, while Westervelt would offer but £50. Von Bommel, with Dutch tenacity, insisted upon the sum he named, and finally, after much disputing, accepted £50 in money and 50 pounds in tobacco, thus obtaining, as Van Bommel said, his £100.

This tract was a part of the lands purchased from the Wappinger Indians by Francis Rombout, a Huguenot, and Gulian Verplanck, a Hollander, in 1683, and extended "fouer houers going into the wood," to use the quaint language of the deed, covering the township of Fishkill and parts of Poughkeepsie and La Grange, through the northerly part of which ran the Mawenawasigh, called by the Dutch, Wappinger-Kill, or creek, a name it still bears.

Rombout and Verplanck were then partners in trade, and whose title was subsequently confirmed by the colonial governor, Thomas Dongan. Rombout and his associates gave the Indians good value in money and goods for their lands. "The Schedull or Peticuler" annexed to the deed shows that they received among other articles, "one hund. Royalls, one hund. fathom of black wampum, forty fathoms of duffills, forty Hatches (hatch-ets), forty Juggs, fouer ankers Rum, forty blankets," besides other articles of clothing, as well as "gunns, barrs of lead, pipes, tobacco, etc." Stephanus van Cortlandt also became interested in the patent soon after Rombout and Verplanck made their purchase from the Indians.

It was not until several years after the death of Rombout that the land was opened for settlers, and about 1703 his dau. Catharyna, and her husband, Roger Brett, determined to make their home in the "lands of the Wappins," as Rombout called it in his will, when they left their town property, an extensive house and garden overlooking the river, on Broadway, in New York. Brett had been a lieutenant in the Royal Navy, and was a personal friend of Lord Cornbury, that whimsical colonial governor who was so proud of his likeness to his cousin, Queen Anne, that he occasionally appeared in public at the fort in female attire, to the great scandal of the good people of New York. His lordship is reported to have said that he knew of no better way of representing his sovereign.

The land which fell to Catharyna Brett and her husband, when the patent was partitioned, consisted of upwards of 25,000 acres. They were the first settlers in the county to develop the resources in agriculture and milling. The Bretts had three sons, one of whom was born on the river and called Rivery, but the boy was not fated to grow up. Roger Brett was drowned from a sloop about 1726, leaving his widow, since known as Madame Brett, to care for their extensive interests. She managed well, was a liberal landlord, and died at an advanced age in 1764, leaving an enviable reputation behind her.

Of the Van Bommels, who removed to New Jersey, as it is said, but little is known. One Pieter van Bommel, who may have been a son of Marcus, married Hillegout Ellen, at Hackensack, on June 2, 1749.

Kasparus Westervelt, after coming into possession of this extensive property, resided midway between the Hudson and Wappinger's Creek. He sold a small parcel, consisting of 48 acres and 20 perches, to Charles Le Roux (Leroy), of Rumbouth precinct, merchant, for £127 6s. 3d., being part of lot No. 3, situated in said precinct, on Feb. 29, 1764, the remainder of the estate coming into the possession of his many descendants, who resided thereon until later years. He married, as his second wife, Magdalena Lewis,* widow of John Tomkins, July 19, 1767. Near Manchester Bridge, on the banks of Wappinger's Creek, there still

* The Lewis family, of Dutchess County, are descended from Thomas Lodowicksen (Anglicised into Lewis), who was an early inhabitant of New York. The first of the name in Poughkeepsie was Colonel Leonard Lewis, Sheriff of the County, etc. Magdalena may have been his daughter. The Tompkins were a Westchester Co. family, some of whom came to Dutchess.

He m. at Schraalenburgh Jannetje, dau. of Daniel Haring and Margrietje Banta, of the same place, on March 13, 1745. Having returned from Dutchess County prior to this time, he settled at Closter, N. J., a short distance to the east of the present Northern Railroad of New Jersey. This locality was originally in the patent of the Haring family, and may have come to him through the marriage with Jannetje Haring. He d. in September, 1799, in the 78th year of his age. His great-grandson, Jacob Westervelt, sometimes Alderman and High Sheriff of the City of New York, then a boy five years of age, recites the fact that "the day was "exceedingly hot and the crowd was so great that they were compelled to stand on the lawn in front of his great-grandfather's "house."

A careful search in the churchyard at Schraalenburgh fails to place his grave among so many of his name who lie there, and as the Haring family had a burying place upon their extensive property, he may have been interred among his wife's kinfolk.

128. DANIEL, the patriot, son of Jan (35), was b. at Closter, N. J., Feb. 26, 1748. No record of his baptism is found. He m. at Schraalenburgh Margrietje, dau. of William Christie and Catalyntje de Maree, on the 25th of May, 1766, being then in his 19th year. He and his wife became members of the Schraalenburgh congregation on Aug. 27, 1772.

At the commencement of the Revolution he was most outspoken against the British, and became "a marked man" for his patriotic utterances. Early in the war he enlisted and became Ensign in Captain James Stagg's Hackensack Company, Bergen County Regiment, Colonel Theunis Dey commanding, New Jersey Militia, subsequently becoming a Lieutenant in Captain Peter Ward's company, same regiment; also Lieutenant in Captain Peter Ward's Troop of Light Horse Bergen County New Jersey Militia. He was soon thereafter taken a prisoner of war and died in the Sugar House, New York, on the 23d of October, 1777, then in the 30th year of his age.

At this time Sir Henry Clinton occupied the city, and Tory foraging parties were continually scouring the country and plundering the inhabitants. Those who were not away in the regular army formed themselves into bands for mutual protection against marauders. At last this partisan warfare became so bitter that the patriots no longer dared to remain about their homes, but were compelled to conceal themselves in ambush. During one of these incursions Daniel Westervelt, with Cornelius and Benjamin Westervelt, Daniel Vervalen and others, who had concealed themselves in the swamp at Lower Closter (now Cresskill), having been betrayed by one Samuel Cole, a Tory, were surprised and captured by the British. They were carried to New York and confined in the Sugar House, formerly situated on Liberty street.

This building, erected in 1689, leveled in 1840, and used by the English as a prison during the Revolution, was constructed of grey stone, with deep, small windows and heavy walls. The sufferings of those confined in this place were of the most frightful character, occasioned by cruel treatment, famine and disease.

This structure was five stories in height, each story being very low and divided in two apartments; the prisoners were literally packed together without regard to their condition as to health or cleanliness. The only exercise they received was during the summer of 1777, when the jail fever of a most malignant character broke out, and then they were permitted, in companies of twenties, to walk each day about the prison yard for half an hour at a time.

Daniel Westervelt, with hundreds of others, succumbed to this direful disease. His death occurred on the 23d of October, 1777. Where he lies buried only the last day will unfold.

His widow, Margrietje, married Aary (Aaron), son of Johannes Westervelt and Effe de Groot, Feb. 19, 1802. He was born March 5, 1742, his first wife being Geertje Zabriskie. He died in 1808.

4), and, second, Lea Nagle, widow of Benjamin Blackledge, in 1817.

He was a soldier in the American Revolution and captured three times by the enemy, but on one occasion was rescued by his friends. The first capture was in the vicinity of Englewood, when he was taken to New York and placed in the Sugar House Prison. Afterwards, having regained his liberty, he belonged to the "minute men," as did some of his brothers. Their rendezvous was known as "Wolf Den," midway between Demarest and Cresskill. Having been betrayed by one Samuel Cole, the entire band was surprised by the British and taken to the Sugar House, excepting Jan, brother of Benjamin P., who made his escape by plunging in a stream. Those who survived were subsequently exchanged. His third experience was at English Neighborhood, when he was captured by three Tories, one of whom was his old comrade, Samuel Cole, who offered to release him for a sum of money. At the moment Colonel Blanch and a few Americans came in sight. The Tories fired upon the patriots and wounded the Colonel. Seeing their pieces were emptied he ran towards his friends and effected his escape. Cole was sent to Halifax after the war, and remained there for seven years.

He was a Private, Minute Man, Bergen County, New Jersey Militia; Private, Captain James Christie's Company, Bergen County Regiment (Colonel Theunis Dey, commanding), New Jersey Militia, summer of 1779, and served one month; Private, Captain Abraham Harrington's Company, Bergen County Regiment, fall of 1779, and served one month; Private, Captain John Huyler's Company, Bergen County Regiment, spring of 1780, and served one month; enlisted June, 1780, for six months, as Private, Captain Thomas Blanch's Company, Major Samuel Hayes' Battalion, New Jersey State Troops, on frontier service; Private, Captain James Christie's Company, Bergen County Regiment, in 1781; taken prisoner Sept. 6, 1781, and confined in Provost Jail and Sugar House Prison, New York; exchanged Nov. 18, 1781.

This soldier drew a pension after the war and in his application he states that he was sixteen years of age at enlistment.

313 MATTHEW, son of Jacobus (133), was b. June 15, 1788; baptized at New Hackensack, N. Y., on the same day. He m. first, Mary Lennington, Jan. 17, 1811; and, second, Abiah Leonard, Nov. 14, 1819. He d. Jan. 4, 1865.

When comparatively a young man he and his brothers, Peter (314), William (315), and James (320), left their homes in Dutchess County and migrated to Ohio. He and Peter visited several sections of the State, riding up and down the Alum Creek bottoms and were favorably impressed with the general fertility of the soil, but finally concluded to locate where the village of Westerville, in Blandon township, Franklin County, is now situated, so named in honor of this family. This was in 1816.

Tradition has it that they stopped on their way at Granville, in Licking County, which had been already settled by people from Connecticut. Coming as they did from the cold, stony and sterile soil of the Hudson River valley, and hearing of the fertile hills on the Alum Creek, they pressed on, finally returning to their Dutchess County homes to prepare for removal.

As early as 1804 they had bought lands, perhaps through other parties. It is probable that both Matthew and Peter Westervelt made purchases before returning to New York and removing to Ohio, which event occurred in July, 1818. The earliest Methodist society was organized in 1819, and among its first male members were Matthew, Peter and William Westervelt. The first church was of hewed logs, and in 1836 it was decided to erect a brick building, Matthew donating a lot on which the present church is now situated.

This public enterprise was the result of what in those times was called "the great camp-meeting," which was held on the land of Matthew Westervelt, south of where the main building of Otterbein University is at present. As a result of that gathering a new Methodist church was erected costing about $3,500, and the Blendon Young Men's Seminary founded, which was the predecessor of Otterbein University, one of the noted colleges of the State. The seminary was incorporated on Feb. 9, 1839, Matthew Westervelt being one of its first trustees. He gave the school twenty-five acres of land, a part of which is still occupied by the college property and campus. The Westervelts hoped to make the school the leading college of Western Methodism, but, owing to a rival at Delaware, Ohio, the patronage fell off, and in 1847 it was transferred to the United Brethren.

These men and their families were honest, fair-minded, God-fearing people, leaving behind them a good name "which is far to be preferred than great riches." They were hardy pioneers, who faced all the dangers of early frontier life, to carve homes and fertile farms out of the almost untrodden wilderness. In those early days they took an active part in politics, and on coming to the virgin soil of Ohio did not leave their democracy—of the Jeffersonian type—behind them. The progeny of Peter, William and James Westervelt will be found under their respective numbers.

412 HONORABLE JACOB AARON, son of Ari (181), was b. at Tenafly, N. J., Jan. 20; bap. at Schraalenburgh, Feb. 16, 1800, being the first child to receive that sacrament after the completion of the new church, erected by his father in 1799. He m. Eliza M. Thompson in New York City, April 25, 1825, and d. Feb. 21, 1879. Interred in the family plot, Greenwood Cemetery.

His father was a man of fair means, owning a comfortable homestead and a profitable farm. He received a good education, under the tutelage of James P. Forrester, then head master of the school connected with the Collegiate (Dutch) Church, in New York. The science of navigation, however, was his favorite study, and he soon was afforded greater educational opportunities, under Barron & Brown, in a special course on surveying and navigation. When sixteen years of age he went to sea, serving actively on shipboard for more than two years, but, learning that the life of a sailor was more of reality than romance, forsook the business, and in 1817 became an apprentice under Christian Bergh, the shipbuilder. In 1821 he was a master shipbuilder at Charleston, S. C.; a year afterwards he became a partner with Bergh and Robert Carnley. When about thirty-five years of age, having acquired a handsome competence, he and Mr. Carnley made an extended tour of Europe, visiting the principal shipbuilding points, where he gathered information, subsequently made good use of. On returning to this country he again engaged in shipbuilding with Mr. Bergh, and three years after the death of Mr. Bergh, he assumed the business, with his sons, in his own interest. This firm was continued until 1868, and during his forty-seven years of shipbuilding he constructed 247 vessels of all descriptions.

In politics he was a Democrat. From 1840 to 1842 he served as an Alderman from the Thirteenth Ward, in the Common Council of New York. In 1852, representatives of the Democratic party, knowing his executive ability and sterling integrity, nominated him for Mayor of the city. He was elected by a majority of 10,000—the largest ever received by a candidate up to that time—against the most popular master mechanic in the Whig party, the late Alderman Morgan Morgans, carrying his own ward by nearly 1,000 majority, and only a few votes behind the electoral ticket for President Franklin Pierce.

His first message was a model of brevity, modesty and earnestness. Having served as Mayor during the years 1853-1854, he declined a renomination, which for him was equivalent to an election, and was succeeded by Fernando Wood.

In 1859 he surrendered the active management of the business to his son Daniel, but continued to supervise affairs at the shipyards, and in appreciation of the genius displayed in preparing models and plans for three Spanish frigates, the Queen of Spain conferred upon him the Order of Isabel la Catolica. He was the greatest shipbuilder of his day.

In 1870, at the request of Wilson G. Hunt and other commissioners of the Dock Department, then just established, he accepted the position of superintendent. Mayor William F. Havemeyer appointed him a commissioner in 1873; he was elected president of the Board the same year, which position he continued to fill until his death in 1879.

He was for many years the president of the Society of Mechanics and Tradesmen, a member of the Chamber of Commerce, the Marine Society, the Port Society and the St. Nicholas Society.

The Hon. Jacob Aaron Westervelt was of sturdy, enterprising, long-lived stock, and filled an important sphere of public usefulness. He was a plain, intelligent man, most liberal in his many benefactions and universally esteemed as an official and a citizen. A good Christian.

About this time he purchased a farm at Upper Nyack, N. Y., which was subsequently sold. During the years 1837-8 he was Assistant Alderman of the 9th Ward, and in 1840-41, of the 13th Ward. For a period he was connected with the New York Custom House, and later became a City Weigher. When a resident of Brooklyn he was on the staff of the Department of City Works in that municipality, but during his latter days he retired from general business. He d. in Brooklyn, May 10, 1881, and lies interred, with his wife, Elizabeth, who d. Aug. 2, 1876, in Greenwood.

During his most active life he was largely engaged in real estate transactions, but met with severe reverses, occasioned by the financial panic of 1837. He was a man of striking appearance, tall and straight, florid complexioned, very decided in character, but with a kindly disposition and sentiment.

554 JAMES W., son of William (286), was b. in Schraalenburgh, Jan. 15; bap. at the same place, Jan. 28, 1798, James Westervelt and Maria Sloat, his uncle and aunt, sponsors. He m. in New York, Rachel, dau. of Adrian Bogart and Maria Bertholf, July 17, 1817, and d. at 52 West Washington Place, in the same city, April 8, 1859, in his sixty-second year. As a youth he came to New York with his parents in 1812; he soon entered business and subsequently succeeded his father in the flour trade, in partnership with his brother John, under the firm name of J. W. & J. Westervelt, in Dey Street, near Washington. Some years thereafter this co-partnership was dissolved and he entered the shipping trade, owning vessels sailing to the West Indies, China and Mediterranean ports. In this he was eminently successful, but owing to the great fire of 1835, which destroyed a greater part of the business section of the city, he met with severe financial losses, as many of the companies with whom he was insured became insolvent.

At this time he was largely interested, with his brothers Jacob and John, in lands situated in the upper portion of the city; then followed the financial panic of 1837, causing a general depression in trade and property, made him, with many other substantial merchants of the day, succumb in the almost universal collapse.

In 1838 he entered the United States Custom House, remaining in the employ of the Government until 1843, when he became a City Weigher.

He was a man of medium height, well proportioned and exceedingly handsome. His remains are interred in the family plot at Greenwood.

When twelve years of age he came to New York. At that time the war with England was in progress (1812-14), and he frequently went to Brooklyn to assist in rebuilding the intrenchments on Fort Greene (now Washington Park). He embarked in the grocery trade on Reade Street, corner of Republican Lane, just east of Broadway, at the age of twenty-four, but later he and his brother, James, succeeded their father, William, as flour merchants. This co-partnership was dissolved, and he continued alone for a time. Then, for some years, he was the paying teller of the North River Bank, but during his latter years he withdrew from all active business. As a young man, in 1822, he became a member of Company No. 20, New York Volunteer Fire Department. In appearance he was of medium height, stout, and highly colored complexion.

(Smith) Salisbury, at the residence of her mother, Cornelison Point, South Nyack, N. Y., June 6, 1899, the Rev. William J. Leggett, D. D., officiating.

* Eleanor Cornelison Salisbury was a lineal descendant of Capt. Sylvester Salisbury, an Army officer and gentleman of considerable importance in England, who accompanied a suitable military force under the command of Col. Richard Nichols, which was sent to America by Charles II, in 1664, for the purpose of capturing New Amsterdam and the Dutch possessions on the Hudson. For some meritorious services, Captain Salisbury obtained a large and valuable grant of land, comprising about 40,000 acres, situated in the Catskills, and extending from the river to the mountains. He did not live, however, to enjoy this vast estate, and the property was inherited by his son, Francis Salisbury, who came from Albany and associating himself with Martin Garretsen Van Bergen, surveyor, had the boundaries

He attended the same school as his brother, William Henry, and commenced his business career with Jesse S. Fleet, dry goods merchant, at 14 Maiden Lane, then entered the employ of William Page, importer, where he remained until the retirement of Page in 1843. For a short period he was with the firm of Theodore Grunenthal & Co., Hanover Square.

His health having failed, he sailed for Cuba, Aug. 5, 1843, and became engaged with Francesco Domine & Co., merchants, of Havana. Returning to New York in the autumn of 1846, he connected himself with Thomas Stalker, importer of Mediterranean goods, in March, 1847, and subsequently became his partner, with Ferdinand Grund, composing the firm of Stalker & Co. In 1856, Thomas Stalker retired and removed to Florence, Italy, where he d., at an advanced age, in 1891. of these lands received from his father, carefully established. Francis immediately constructed a temporary house, and in 1680 built a large barn, which still remains in good preservation. In 1705 he erected a large grey sandstone mansion, two stories in height, with a wing extending forty feet from the west wall, for the use of his servants, who were mostly negro slaves. This residence is still in the possession of the family, and the late General William Salisbury preserved many valuable relics brought from England in 1664 by his ancestor, Capt. Sylvester. Among them are a portrait by Holbein, the Court artist, of Anne Boleyn, one of the eight wives of Henry VIII, a coat of arms, carved in solid oak, two swords of that period, and many interesting papers and documents.
