Preface.

In the following record we have given such formation as could be obtained in the different lines of our widely scattered family. We have done considerable traveling to gather data and have spent much time in correspondence. Many have manifested quite an interest and answered our inquiries promptly, while others were either indifferent or handi-capped in one way or another, so that we sometimes had to write frequently to the same party for the desired information. Sometimes when the information did come we had to return it to have discrepancies filled out, corrections made, or have it altogether recast.

After all this had been accomplished and the material was before us, it was necessary to decide upon a plan to arrange the same in a way so that all might easily and readily trace their family connection and their line of descent. In order to do this we finally decided to take each generation by itself and number consecutively each individual in that generation and when we came to describe the family of one in the following generations we simply referred to number and generation where the name had occurred before. This plan we followed until we came to the seventh generation when we simply gave the family description right in connection with their parents and so we did not number the members of the seventh generation. Take for example my father, Daniel Ziegler, No. 67, Gen. IV ; he is given as the oldest son of Jacob Ziegler, No. 13, Gen. III ; if you refer back to Gen. III, No. 13, you will find that Jacob was the third child of Philip Ziegler who again was the fifth child of the first Philip. Now coming down from my father No. 67, Gen. IV, you will find his children from No. 233 to 250 in Gen. V, and his grand children from No. 459 to 537 in Gen. VI, and his great grand children are given right in connection with the names of the grand children.

You will notice that in some lines of the family especially there is great deficiency of dates. Evidently some of our correspondents thought it either unnecessary or found it impossible to supply them. In the main we have spared neither time nor space to include all the information that was supplied us.

I acknowledge much valuable assistance first from my father who traveled considerably and succeeded in tracing out several clues to members of our family which had lost sight of each other and could never have been traced back if it had not been for his wide acquaintance and his good memory. I am also indebted to Adam Minnich, of Trotwood, Ohio, for information concerning the branch of the family in Ohio, John Wesley Ziegler and Mary M. Miller of South Bend, Ind., Jacob Heagy, of Annville, Pa., and a number of others who have gathered data or imparted information; of these we speak in recognition as we meet their names in the genealogy.

You will notice that I invariably omitted the date of birth of those who were married into the family. I did this for the sake of simplicity, first; also I really did not think it necessarily belonged to the family genealogy. Many such records even omit the name.

We have refrained from giving an extended history of the different members of the family for several reasons :

1st. Of some of the most prominent members of the family we did not have sufficient information at hand to give a biography so that those whom I knew best would very naturally have come in for the fullest sketch. This would not only not be fair treatment but might have partaken of vanity, as naturally those most intimately known were those of nearest kin to me.

2nd. It would have also made this volume much larger than was desired and,

3rd. To write up biographical sketches would have taken much labor and time which we did not have at our command.

Altogether our family is one of which we need not be ashamed. The thought might indeed occur to us whether our life is such that the fair record be not marred by us.

Family Record.

Our Ancestor, Philip Ziegler, was born in Bern, Switzerland, in 1734, and at the age of twelve, or in 1746, he emigrated to America. This agrees with the record found in an old Bible still in the possession of the family of Eli Ziegler near Rehersburg, Berks Co., Pa. These dates also agree with Rupp's "Thirty Thousand Names."

Brumbaugh in his History of the Brethren differs from this, for he places the year of his emigration as 1734. Noticing that this date agrees with the year of his birth in the above record, the mistake may have occurred in that way.

He married Regina Reguel, a native of Wurtemberg, Germany, and settled on a farm near Rehersburg, Berks Co., but which was at that time Lancaster Co. This farm has been in the Ziegler name ever since. Emanuel Ziegler, a member of the fifth generation, now lives upon this pleasant old homestead. Upon this farm was built the Ziegler Meeting House, a small brick structure which was replaced by a commodious frame building in 1875.

In the orchard on this old homestead is a small grave yard containing the unmarked grave of our ancestor.

It is evident that sometime during his lifetime he also purchased another farm adjoining the former and extending back to the Swatara. This also has been in the family to the present.

Philip also secured the passage of his mother and his sister to this country. This sister married Gossert and from this family are descended most of the families by this name in Berks and Lebanon Counties. They settled on the homestead on the Swatara just west of the Ziegler farms.

It is altogether likely that our ancestors belonged to the Mennonite Church in the Old Country, but probably for the reason that there were none of that persuasion convenient, Philip joined the Reformed Church.

Morgan Edwards in his account of the members of the early congregations in the year 1770 mentions Philip Ziegler and wife as members of the Little Swatara Congregation of the German Baptist Brethren, and a large majority of the succeeding generations belonged to this denomination.

There have been exceptions to this, however, and ministers and church workers of other persuasions are also among the respected and honored members of this family.

Taking a general survey of the family whose record here follows, we notice that while it has not been a royal lineage there have been some of its members that have occupied prominent positions in the affairs of county and state.

Habits of frugality and industry, a simple, honest, unostentatious life and the inspiration of an invigorating and healthful rural home life have had a most salutary effect in developing people who have in many instances, in the later generations, become leaders in their respective callings.

As we follow out the different branches of the family we notice in the ranks ministers of the gospel, bishops in the Church, doctors, lawyers, college professors, members of Legislature, county officers, school teachers, prominent business men and some of the most prominent and successful farmers that till the soil.

Generation II.

The date of the marriage of the first Philip is not upon record. To him and his wife Regina Reguel Ziegler were born eight children as follows :

1. John Ziegler, born Sept. 15, 1758.
2. Anna Barbara Ziegler, born Oct. 29, 1759.
3. Jacob Ziegler, born Mar. 26, 1760.
4. Regina Ziegler, born Jan. 6, 1762.

Anna Barbara Ziegler, No. 2. Gen. II, married Christian Frantz.

Christian Frantz was one of John Frantz's family at the Swatara which was sorely visited by the Indians in one of their raids, killing the mother when the father was away and carrying all the children captive, except the least one whom they did not find. John, Christian and a sister, who were taken captive, were held until the close of the French and Indian War when the father, learning of the whereabouts of his children, went and recovered Christian and his sister. Their stories of hardships and adventure were quite thrilling.

Christian was received into the Brethren Church at quite an advanced age. His brother-in-law, Eld. Philip Ziegler, administered the ordinance of baptism.

Had three children, one son and two daughters.

4. John Frantz married Walborn.
5. One daughter married Geo. Faber.
6. One daughter married Gaudy.

Jacob Ziegler, No. 3, Gen. II, married Kinsey, lived and died at Suedberg, Schuylkill Co.

He had one of the famous Sower Bibles which the English had used to bed their horses when they tried to destroy the Sower Publishing House. The indomitable Sower however again gathered up the scattered leaves and bound them, and this particular Bible bore unmistakable evidence of having been in such use.

To this family were born three children.

22. Samuel Ziegler, born Jan. 1, 1800.
23. Susan Ziegler, born Sept. 27, 1804.
24. Jacob Ziegler, born Jan. 8, 1808.

This whole family seems to have emigrated to Ohio and Indiana where their descendants still live.

Eva Ziegler No. 7. Gen. II, married Abraham Lentz. Children follow.

25. Barbara Lentz, wife of Joseph Long.
26. Betzy Lentz, wife of Abraham Moyer.

We have now come with our Record to the Sixth Generation and for simplicity we shall give in connection also the Seventh Gen. wherever the line runs down that far. We believe that in connection with members of the Sixth Generation to give their children and perchance grand children will not so complicate the Record that it can not easily be followed out. Many would probably think that this plan would have worked all right through the Record but after much investigation and comparison with other genealogical records we decided on present plan. We will still number members of Gen. VI.

join in the happy and glorious and increasing family re-union "on the happy golden shore" whither many of our forefathers and mothers have preceded us and who could not unite with us in such a gathering here.
