THE CONSTITUTION.

THE CONSTITUTION OF THE COLONIAL DAMES OF MASSACHUSETTS

Which is the Constitution of the National Society.

PREAMBLE.

Whereas History shows that the remembrance of a nation's glory in the past stimulates to national greatness in the future, and that successive generations are awakened to truer patriotism and aroused to nobler endeavor by the contemplation of the heroic deeds of their forefathers, therefore the Society of Colonial Dames of America has been formed, that the descendants of those men who in the Colonial period by their rectitude, courage, and self-denial, prepared the way for success in that struggle which gained for the country its liberty and constitution, may associate themselves together to do honor to the virtues of their forefathers, and to encourage in all who come under their influence true patriotism, built on a knowledge of the self-sacrifice and heroism of those men of the colonies who laid the foundation of this great nation.

ARTICLE I.

"This Society shall be known by the name, style, and title of the NATIONAL SOCIETY OF THE COLONIAL DAMES OF AMERICA, and shall be composed of State Societies, of which there shall be one in each of the thirteen original States and one in the District of Columbia." There may be an associate Society in any of the non-colonial States by and through the consent of the National Society.

ARTICLE II.

The objects of this Society shall be to collect and preserve manuscripts, traditions, relics, and mementos of by-gone days, to preserve and restore buildings connected with the early history of our country, to diffuse healthful and intelligent information concerning the past, to create a popular interest in our Colonial history, to stimulate a spirit of true patriotism and a genuine love of country, and to impress upon the young the sacred obligation of honoring the memory of those heroic ancestors whose ability, valor, sufferings, and achievements are beyond all praise.

ARTICLE III.

The State Societies shall be composed entirely of women who are descended in their own right from some ancestor of worthy life who came to reside in an American colony prior to 1750, which ancestor, or some one of his descendants, being a lineal ascendant of the applicant, shall have rendered efficient service to his country during the Colonial period, either in the founding of a commonwealth or of an institution which has survived and developed into importance, or who shall have held an important position in a Colonial government, or who, by distinguished services, shall have contributed to the founding of this great and powerful nation.

All services which constitute a claim to membership must have been rendered before July 5, 1776, but this date shall be held to include all the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

ARTICLE IV.

“The regular meeting of the National Society of the Colonial Dames of America shall be held every two years in Washington, D.C. Special meetings may be held upon the order of the National President or upon a request of a majority of the State Societies. Such meetings shall consist of the National officers and a representation not exceeding five delegates from each Colonial State Society and the District of Columbia. Each Society in the non-colonial States may send one delegate to the Biennial Council, with the right to vote on all questions excepting changes in the Constitution. The vote of each of the fourteen societies now forming the National Society of the Colonial Dames of America, however cast, shall count as five. The necessary expense of such meeting shall be borne by the National Society, and it shall be empowered at its regular meeting to assess each State Society in order to provide requisite funds. At the regular meeting of the National Society, a President, three Vice-Presidents, Secretary, Assistant Secretary, Treasurer, Registrar, and Historian shall be elected by ballot, a majority of the States present being necessary to a choice. All officers to serve until the next regular meeting, or until their successors shall be chosen.

“The National Society shall have power at any meeting to admit a State Society thereto from the thirteen original States and from the District of Columbia, and also an associate Society from any of the non-colonial States, a majority of the States admitted forming a quorum.”

ARTICLE V.

“The State Societies of the Colonial Dames of America shall meet annually on the day appointed by their several by-laws, and oftener if found expedient.

“Their affairs shall be conducted by a Board, consisting of a President, two Vice-Presidents, and twelve or more Managers, who shall be elected by ballot by the members of the said State Society.

“The Presidents and Vice-Presidents shall be chosen annually. The Managers shall serve for three years, and the term of one-third shall expire annually. The Board shall fill its own vacancies, the member chosen to serve until the next annual election. At the first meeting of the Board after the annual election, they shall organize by choosing from their own members two Secretaries, a Treasurer, a Registrar, and a Historian. All officers shall continue to hold office until their successors are elected.

“The members of the State Societies of the Colonial Dames of America at the date of the certificate of the incorporation of the State Society shall be elected members of the corporation at the first meeting of the said Society, subsequent to the incorporation, and thereafter no person shall be a candidate for admission unless invited and proposed by one member and seconded by another member of the Society, to both of whom the candidate must be well known, and by whom she shall be recommended.

“The President shall, from time to time, appoint from the Board of Managers three persons who shall examine the claims of each candidate, and report in writing to the President. When such reports are unanimously favorable, the name of the candidate shall be presented at any meeting of the Board of Managers next after the report of such nomination shall have been received by the President. The name of each candidate shall be voted upon separately, and, if any member of the Board of Managers so demands, by ballot. Two negative votes shall act as a rejection of the candidate.

“Each member shall contribute, upon her admission to the Society, and annually thereafter, such sums as the by-laws of the respective State Societies may require; but any State Society may provide for the endowment of life memberships by the payment of a proper sum.

“The State Societies shall regulate all matters respecting their own affairs consistent with the general good of the Society; judge of the qualifications of their members, or of those proposed for membership, subject, however, to the provisions of this constitution; and shall have the power to expel any member who, by conduct unbecoming a gentlewoman, may render herself unworthy to continue in membership.

“The Registrar of each State Society shall transmit to the National Registrar a list of the members thereof, and from time to time, as the same shall be printed, the names and official designations of those from whom such members derive their claim to membership, and thereafter, upon the admission of each State Society, the Registrar thereof shall transmit to the National Registrar information respecting such members similar to that herein required.

“Each State Society shall cause to be transmitted annually to the other State Societies a circular letter calling attention to whatever may be thought worthy of observation concerning the welfare of the Society, and giving information of the officers chosen for the year; and copies of these letters shall also be transmitted to the National Secretary, to be preserved among the records of the Society.

“Each State Society shall adopt its own seal.

“Each member, when admitted to the privileges of her State Society, is entitled to receive a certificate of membership, signed by the State President and State Secretary, and bearing the seal of the State Society.

“The form shall be:

“.....has been duly elected a member of theNational Society of the Colonial Dames of America, in right of her ancestor.....In testimony whereof, the names of the.....President and Secretary and the seal of the.....Society are hereunto affixed.”

ARTICLE VI.

“The custodian of the insignia shall be the National Registrar, who shall issue the badge to members of any State Society, upon an order from the Registrar of that State; and she shall keep a register of such issues, wherein each badge issued may be identified by the number thereof, and each State Society shall have its own numbers.

“The badge shall consist of a round disc with a centre of light blue enamel, and the figure of a Colonial Dame in gold, modelled in relief on the same. Around the centre of blue enamel shall be a circle of white enamel, with the title of the Society, ‘National Society Colonial Dames of America,’ in gold letters, flush. Surmounting this shall be the modelled figure of an eagle, in gold, and diverging from the disc twenty rays in gold, arranged in four groups of five each, the three centre rays in each group to be surmounted by stars of blue enamel, these, with a similar star placed immediately below the central disc, being emblematic of the thirteen original States.

“On the reverse side of the badge shall be the motto, ‘Virtutes Majorum Filiæ Conservant.’ The materials of the badge shall be 14-karat gold and enamel, and it shall be worn suspended by a silk ribbon of blue and yellow from a gold bar on which is the name of the State.

“This ribbon shall be one and one-half inches wide, the central section of blue being one inch, with a section one-quarter of an inch wide on each side.

“The badge shall be worn by the members on all occasions when they assemble officially for any stated purpose or celebration, and may be worn on any occasion of ceremony. It shall be carried conspicuously on the left breast, but members who are or have been national officers may wear it suspended from the ribbon around the neck.

“The seal of the National Society shall be: Within a beaded annulet, a title scroll bearing the inscription, ‘National Society of the Colonial Dames of America.’

“Within the scroll a shield, surmounted of the crown, quarterly of four—

“I. Quarterly, one and four azure, three fleurs-de-lis, or, Two and three gules, three lions passant, guardant in pale, or, for England;

“II. Azure, three fleurs-de-lis, or, for France;

“This seal to be used on the certificate, for further authentication, and with it the signatures of the National President and National Secretary.”

ARTICLE VII.

This constitution shall not be altered, added to, or amended, save by the vote of thirteen out of the fourteen Societies now forming the National Society of the Colonial Dames of America. Due notice of one year of any proposed change, alteration, or amendment, having been given to each of the fourteen Societies before the meeting of the council, at which action is to be taken on said change, alteration, or amendment.

Soft is the breath of a maiden's yes,

Not the light-gossamer skin with less:

But never a cable that holds so fast

Thru' all the battles of wave and best,

And never an echo of speech or song

That lives in the babbling air so long!

There were tones in the voice that whispered then
You may hear to-day in a hundred men.

Boston, November 15th 1892.

A SKETCH OF THE QUINCY HOMESTEAD.

In the year 1904, through the efforts of the Colonial Dames in co-operation with the Metropolitan Park Commission, the Quincy homestead at Quincy was purchased and conveyed to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, the Massachusetts Society of Colonial Dames receiving a lease for ninety-nine years at a nominal rent, and agreeing to take charge of this historic building.

A part of the homestead was built in the year 1636, in what was then Braintree, before the town of Quincy had been thought of, by William Coddington for his home. The year before large tracts of land had been allotted to William Coddington, Edmund Quincy, and a few others at Mount Wollaston, Braintree, by the authorities at Boston on which to found their homes. William Coddington only lived in his house about two years, when he moved to Rhode Island, where he became the governor of that colony, and lived until his death.

His house and lands at Braintree, afterwards Quincy, soon fell into the hands of Edmund Quincy, the immigrant, whose family has been famous in the history of this country from generation to generation. Here they lived, married, and died until in 1706 the third Edmund Quincy, a judge and man of great repute and honor, decided at the time of his marriage with Dorothy Flynt to enlarge the old homestead and make it one of the finest in the land.

It stands to-day, as he enlarged it and as it is seen in the frontispiece, well preserved and now cared for by the Dames of Massachusetts. From this illustrious Quincy family came also the distinguished Josiahs, one President of Harvard and one mayor of Boston. In enlarging the old house, Judge Quincy did not disturb the old Coddington house, but, so to speak, built around it, raising a roof here and there. As there was no scheme of architecture in the union of the new house and the old, ample spaces were provided for secret staircases, cupboards, closets of oddest shapes, and chambers in many of which men are said to have been hidden and fed at the time of the Revolution. The old homestead is an excellent example of the stately homes of the Colonial gentry. It has beautiful woodwork, carving, and panelling, large open fireplaces in the parlor and dining-rooms, with quaint tiling. Some of the wall papers are still preserved, the one on the parlor, of Cupids and Venuses, being put on at the time of the expected marriage of Dorothy Quincy and John Hancock. The marriage, however, could not take place here, as the British were anxious to capture Hancock and a price had been put upon his head. They were thus obliged to flee from the region of Boston, and were married at Fairfield, Conn., from the old Thaddeus Burr mansion, and after the Revolution made their home on Beacon Street in Boston. Another Dorothy Quincy lived also in the old house, She was aunt of Mrs. Hancock and great-grandmother of the poet who has made her name so famous. This is her portrait and a verse from his poem.

The old house is filled with historic memories and thoughts. And it would take much time and space to mention all the famous people who have at one time or another enjoyed its hospitality and shelter. Mention must, however, be made of Tutor Flynt, of Harvard, great-uncle of Mrs. Hancock, who, when not at Cambridge, made his home here, several rooms being arranged for his special use and work, with a separate staircase and door by which he could go and come undisturbed. This is known as the Tutor Flynt side of the house. Old Chief Justice Sewall, who married the daughter of a Quincy, often mentions in his Diary the family or guests in the old homestead in true pictures of their daily life. Here, also, Sir Henry Vane is said to have made many visits during his stay in this country.

The Dames are doing all in their power to collect within its walls things pertaining to the old house. It is being fitted up with furniture, etc., of the early Colonial period. Among other things the Dames have had the good fortune to find and buy an original and valuable old deed of land, typical of the Colonial day, from the Indians to the white man. It has the marks of six of the Indians as their signatures. The land was in the Ponkapoag Reservation within the township of Dorchester, then a very large tract, and from which several towns were afterward set off. The deed bears the autographs of five men prominent in Colonial Councils, a committee appointed to see that the Indians received fair play in their land dealings. Among the autographs is that of John Quincy, for whom the town was named.

The following is a photograph of the original, which now hangs in the parlor of the old homestead.

The house is pleasantly situated under old trees, and nearly surrounded by the new Parkway, which is every day growing more beautiful. It is open daily to the public (free on Saturdays), and has already had many visitors.

IN preparing the following list of ascendants of the members of the Massachusetts Society of Colonial Dames, no attempt has been made to give with absolute accuracy the dates which follow the name of each ascendant. They indicate the approximate time of his birth and death, or of his arrival in the colonies, and are intended merely to identify the person whose services are recorded.

The name of a colony following that of an ascendant signifies that his services render his descendants eligible in that colony; where no colony is given, it is to be understood that his services render them eligible in Massachusetts. Where an ascendant has been accepted as rendering eligible service, other services have often been added which are not of themselves sufficient to entitle him to a place among the accepted ascendants.

As the services speak for themselves, all titles except that of Reverend have been omitted.

Dates of service are inclusive, except where they have been taken from the printed records of the other societies.

Economy of space has made necessary the abbreviation of names and titles as "Court of Common Pleas" for Inferior Court of Common Pleas, "Assistant" for Governor's Assistant, "Councillor" for Member of Governor's Council. "Preacher of Election Sermon" signifies the minister annually appointed to preach the sermon before the General Court.

Some claims have been excluded from the following list because the authority for the service (especially that of commissioned officers) has not been given fully enough to enable the Eligibility Committee to verify the services. If, however, sufficient proof of the commission, or other service, is furnished, they will be included among the accepted ascendants. Family tradition or town histories, unsupported by other evidence, is not accepted as proof of service.

In case the name of any member has been accidentally omitted, under an ascendant from whom she has established a claim, if she will kindly send word to the Secretary, the omission will be rectified.
